'UNHAPPY' COWARDS AND BULLIES

These people are capable of anything. The two most heinous Illuminati regimes to date have of course been Stalin's USSR, and Nazi Germany (sample atrocities of which are displayed on page 658). But by far the worse Illuminati regime ever to have been developed in human history may be emerging 'as we speak'. It is the United States. As one European friend of the Author, long resident in the United States, has explained: 'The Nazi/Illuminati dictatorship that will emerge in the United States will be by far the worst that mankind has ever perpetrated'. This study seeks to help delay or even to neutralise any such Luciferian outcome.

Just as these evil people are all 'unhappy', it should also be borne in mind that they are cowards and bullies. The Author discovered this personally when, having delivered a lecture on Soviet strategy at the East Side Conservative Club in the Plaza Hotel in New York in December 1995, he mistakenly allowed a certain Soviet, who was an emigre from Stalin's entourage, to ask the first question. This operative strode in his dirty raincoat to the lectern, elbowed the Author out of the way, and proceeded for 12 minutes to denounce everything that the Author had said. When finally the Author regained the lectern, he uttered three sentences, which he has never been able to recall. It appeared that the words were not his. Jesus said: 'But when they shall lead you, and deliver you up, take no thought beforehand what ye shall speak, neither do ye premeditate: but whatsoever shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye; for it is not ye that speak, but the Holy Ghost' [Mark, Chapter 13, verse 11]. Certainly, the effect was that the Soviet operative visibly shrank into his chair as the whole hall erupted in a standing ovation lasting for several minutes.

But the words were not those of the Author.

One should never deliberately set out to to confront evil. But when confronted with evil - which is different - standing up to these cowards and bullies from a rock-solid position of integrity, causes them to fall back. Consider what happened when Jesus confronted the band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees brandishing weapons after Judas had betrayed Him:

'When Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples. And Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place; for Jesus oft-times resorted thither with his disciples. Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons. Jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye? They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood with them. As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground'. [John, Chapter 18, verses 1-6].

NONE CAN WITHSTAND THE POWER OF JESUS CHRIST

Quite simply, the power of Jesus Christ is greater by far than all the destructive power of these deluded contemporary disciples of Satan: 'And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth' [Matthew, Chapter 28, verse 18]. This means that if, in His Name, we refuse to be bamboozled by their lies, by their manipulations of the truth, by the games they play with our minds, by the scams and deceptions they perpetrate, by their false promises and blandishments, and by their sterile posturings, threats and empty words, they will he unable to achieve their objectives. In this connection, it should be stressed that one of their most effective weapons is our own sense of their overwhelmingly oppressive power and the consequent sense of helplessness that it is intended to impose upon us. This psychological intimidation should be resisted. Because although they believe they are winning, that is a delusion. They are all headed for perdition; and they know it.

The American Republic can be saved. It can be wrested from the hands of these amoral, serial criminalists. The 'white hats' in the intelligence community, and their colleagues and supporters throughout the US structures, can perfectly well summon up the collective will to terminate the reign of these people, to face them down, and to cease relying exclusively upon the pro bono activism of private foreign friends of the United States, for the progress that needs to be made.

The Author believes in 'the power of one'. Even one person, properly guided and motivated, can achieve decisive results, as the Author has been able to do in connection with certain key developments not addressed (for security reasons) in this study. Despondency is unwarranted, as these people are all deeply discontented - and in their rational moments, would wish that the aspirations for salvation expressed here could be realised, and their hellish existence terminated.

For, as indicated, the end that these Luciferians face, and their sole product, is death. That they are cowards was illustrated by the following account of the final moments in the life of one of the flluminati's most odious creations, Stalin's Interior Ministry chief, Lavrentii Beria, who, as this investigation reveals, was the German Abwehr's highest-level long-range penetration agent in Moscow. The account is taken from a description of Beria's execution attributed to the KGB officer Yuri Ivanovich Nosenko, who may have been present at it, or even Beria's executioner:

'Nosenko claimed that he was one of the agents who had arrested Lavrentii Pavlovich Beria, the man who had been Stalin's chief executioner during the mass exterminations of the prewar purges. As head of the People's Commissariat for Internal Affairs (NKVD), the predecessor of the KGB, Beria had masterminded perhaps the most-feared secret police agency of its day. Thousands, maybe millions, died at his orders. But, according to Nosenko, when given a pistol and told to shoot himself, Beria cried uncontrollably, clutching at the boots of those who tried, in vain, to convince him to "do the honourable thing". Beria was finally shot by one of his captors'[22].

AFTER THEY DELIVER DEATH, THEY BECOME POSSESSED

This is a gruesome illustration of the fundamental cowardice of these people. When it comes to their own demise, they tend to see death in a different light -having all their possessed lives 'believed' in the Satanic lie of reincarnation (taught by The Order). There was, however, no sign in the spring of 2006 that the leader of the enforcement arm of the Illuminati had entertained any second thoughts over the ease with which he had presided to date over the delivery of death. After Lady Thatcher had long been forced out of office, the Author met her at a birthday party held, appropriately enough, at the Tower of London. It was 13 years after the sinking of the Argentine warship, the Belgrano, which she had ordered, with substantial loss of life. Instead of the blue eyes that the Author had noticed when he had first been invited to advise her in March 1979, he saw before him a woman whose eyes were blazing jet black. Several Members of Parliament separately reported to the Author that the identical phenomenon had been observed, from time to time, with respect to the eyes of the subsequent British Prime Minister, Tony Blair.

Two American women reported separately to this Author in the early 1990s that they had noticed with alarm, while in his presence at events in Washington, that the physical temperature surrounding MVD General Eduard Shevardnadze, the former Soviet dictator of Georgia and usurper of power in Tbilisi in March 1992, known as Stalin II, was freezing cold. It is rare that one observes operatives who are 'perfectly possessed', but certain candidates for this description at the highest levels of the Bush Jr. Administration might spring to mind. Those who are perfectly possessed maintain an identical expression on their faces and usually never display any emotion at all. As will be explained in this study, this may be because they have progressed far along the path laid out for them during their Skull and Bones rituals or their initiations into the Fellow Craft Degree in Scottish Rite Freemasonry.

The state of mind and soul to which they are required, at this lowest level, to begin to aspire and to reach and surpass, was described by the late 33rd Degree Mason Manly P. Hall, as follows. The candidate must achieve 'the transmutation of personal affection into impersonal compassion.... Personalities cannot bind the true Second Degree member, for having raised one point of the compasses, he now realises that all personal manifestations are governed by impersonal principles'.

'At this point the candidate consecrates the five senses to the study of human problems with the unfolding sense centers as the motive; for he realises that the five senses are keys, the proper application of which will give him material for spiritual transmutation'[23].

The integrated instruction to 'study human problems' dispassionately, and to discard all personal affection in favour of 'impersonal compassion' (a contradiction in terms) both procures that the candidate/adept abandons any inclination to 'seek after the Lord thy God', and ensures that he discards his humanity, exchanging human warmth for a disconnected, dispassionate, cold-hearted, illusory presumption that he is well on the way towards 'transmutation' (illumination). By contrast, the reality is that we are all, each one of us, born with the knowledge of God, and drawn to seek after Him because we are His creation (as is obvious to anyone who has observed a newborn baby at close quarters). Our lifelong, agreeable task is to 'seek the Lord, if haply [we] might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us: For in him we live, and move, and have our being;... For we are also his offspring' [Paul, in Acts, Chapter 17, verses 27-28].

ERSATZ 'HUMAN PROBLEMS': SUBSTITUTES FOR TRUE SPIRITUALITY

The Illuminati Order's maddened offensive against True Christianity presupposes (erroneously) that it can be completely destroyed. But the presumption and instruction to substitute 'impersonal compassion' and the 'study of human problems' for personal affection and our search for God, has necessitated the creation of false, 'collective' concerns and issues which are presented for public consumption as 'human problems' that are intended to replace our search for God (labelled 'religion', a word that the Author finds somewhat obstructive and tries not to employ). These 'global issues' - the dubious, fabricated 'lines' about 'global warming', 'poverty in Africa', 'poverty eradication', Third World debt (an issue taken up for some reason by certain ignorant and uncomprehendingly bewildered Church of England clerics), 'bird 'flu', AIDS, and so forth - are contrived specifically as substitutes for personal spirituality.

Issues such as 'poverty in Africa' are also designed to provide fresh scamming opportunities - so that those gullible people attending 'pop' concerts in city parks having paid premium prices to sit in crammed conditions in vast numbers to listen to tawdry 'music' noise on the pretext of 'helping alleviate poverty in Africa', have no real idea what happened to their money. In summary, they exchange good money, with no accountability, for a 'warm, fuzzy feeling' that they have contributed to the alleviation of one of the problems facing humanity - without undergoing any spiritual transformation in relation to God whatsoever. In the meantime, they have been fleeced, since the lack of accountability ensures that the huge sums raised by these means are routinely stolen. These events are just standard Illuminati scamming operations.

In the 1930s and into the 1960s, an agitprop organisation calling itself 'The British-Israel Movement' flourished among Christian denominations in Britain and the United States. It claimed by convoluted false historical deduction that the Anglo-Saxons are descended from the wandering Israelites, and campaigned for a Union of Britain with Canada and the United States under British supremacy, along Rosicrucian lines. The organisation successfully raised very large sums of money ostensibly for Israel. The first page of an official booklet, devoted to this subject, quoted from 'The Fourth Book of Kings' - which of course does not exist.

This was an early example of what has become the familiar practice of elaborating and spinning fairy tales from Scripture, on the sound assumption that only a small minority of the population reads the Holy Bible and would accordingly be equipped to expose the lies being disseminated. The example du jour as this book was being finalised was of course 'The Da Vinci Code', exploiting the base lies that Jesus recovered from His Crucifixion and married Mary Magdalene.

Other authors have written authoritatively on the vast interlocking spider's web of elitist criminal conspirators. The upper levels of the tightly compartmentalised Illuminati structural pyramid of secret societies feature planning committees of which the public has little or no knowledge. These upper levels embrace secretive conclaves, of which the following have been identified by several authorities, led by the British intelligence officer Dr John Coleman, who published an analysis in 1992 entitled 'Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Story of The Committee of 300': The Council of Three, The Council of Five, The Council of Seven, The Council of Nine, The Council of 13, The Council of 33, The Grand Druid Council, The Committee of 300 (also called 'The Olympians'), and the Committee of 500. The considerable 'underground' literature on this subject is usually poorly annotated, and exposes appearing on the Internet are, with a handful of honourable exceptions, typically, and often deliberately, devoid of notes and references. Moreover such sources often provide uncorroborated information without addressing the question: 'Why?', which is always the most important.

THE AUTHOR'S APPROACH IS INSTINCTIVE

Rather than rely primarily on such sources, the Author has approached this vast subject instinctively, on the basis of his experience of strategic deception and intelligence community lies and scamming behaviour. There are undoubtedly many gaps in what follows; but this detailed attempt at exposing the Luciferian conspiracy, which binds the leaderships of all the G-8 countries and, these days, many of the others, is presented in good faith for use as a weapon against these evil people by all who know a little of these matters, and no doubt by many who know much more than the Author does. It should be recalled that whenever a leader previously selected by the Illuminati proves not to be a 'team player' and to diverge from what is required of them, they are 'taken out' - prominent examples being President Kennedy, President Ali Bhutto (Pakistan), Aldo Moro (in Italy), and of course Mrs Thatcher, who belatedly realised that the European Union was a trap. She probably never understood that it is, in fact, the manifestation of a long-range Abwehr strategic deception designed to decapitate the hated British wartime victors once and for all. The European Union forms one blade of the DVD's long-range 'scissors strategy', the other blade of which is the Abwehr's fifth-column penetration of the key US structures [see page XXXIII] - another way of summarising German long-range strategy to defeat the 'main enemy' to that shown in the Conclusion on page 629. The US Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI) chief, Admiral Boorda - described by an impeccable source as a great patriot - and the former Director of Central Intelligence, William Colby, were both 'taken out' because they had balked at, or were on the verge of exposing, operations or strategies of the Illuminati.

SOME CLOSING CONSIDERATIONS

The Author has been separately engaged in detailed research into how the New Underworld Order is being refinanced, at the intergovernmental level, where 'funny money' is conjured out of thin air by means of the sophisticated exploitation of the international fiat money financial system. At this level, billions are converted into trillions in the space of, say 18 months. Incorporation of this research would have resulted in the expansion of this presentation to well over 1200 pages; and since the research was ongoing as this book was being finalised, it has necessarily had to be excluded. Suffice it to say that a prolific money-generating engine has been perfected to finance the New Underworld Order. This Author substitutes 'Underworld' for 'World' so as to signal that these operations have been hijacked by the Illuminati - which makes it hard for patriotic intelligence officers who believe in the nation state, and who have to work in this environment, to ensure that the Rule of Law is upheld. Those who cross the Illuminati criminals, are liable to suffer false witness, false arrest, false imprisonment, false house arrest, the illegal confiscation of their assets, and other abominations - harsh penalties that the corrupt intelligence communities reserve specially for the punishment of their own colleagues and employees who refuse, for instance, to agree to US Presidents stealing billions from trustors' accounts. The Author is referring here to specific information in his possession.

The quotations from Scripture in this book are taken from the King James Version of the Holy Bible throughout. None of the other versions can be relied upon, since a subsidiary project of the Illuminati is to procure the repeated rewriting of Scripture until the Word of God is obliterated, or rendered of no value, and replaced by that of Lucifer - in accordance with a 'salami tactics' programme of constant textual 'renewal', contrary to warnings against tampering with Scripture that appear in both the Old and the New Testaments: 'The words of the Lord are pure words: as silver tried in a furnace of earth, purified seven times. Thou shalt keep them, O Lord, thou shalt preserve them from this generation for ever' [Psalm 12, verses 6-7].

It is an interesting fact that three 'authors' of 'new versions' of the Holy Bible were struck dumb after their work had been completed. Two of them, the nineteenth century occultic spiritualists Westcott and Hort, changed the traditional Greek text which underlies the King James Version, in no less than 8,413 places - using the corrupt Vaticanus manuscript. For the definitive studies which show that the King James Version is true, and the only text to be trusted and which certainly conveys the Word of God in its total purity, the reader is directed to the classic studies of this subject published in the United States by Dr Gail Riplinger[25].

The Author is solely responsible for any errors and omissions in this work. ■

FOREWORD: Notes and references

1 John Buchan, The Thirty-Nine Steps', William Blackwood & Sons Ltd, Pan Books Ltd, London, 1979, page 11.
2. It may of course never be possible, in this murky context, to expose more than a fraction of the truth. But enough of it can be exposed to make the investigation worth while, to help dispel familiar illusions, and even to make the ruthless enemy think twice. The alternative would be to emulate a person whom the Author once knew who said that 'I like my head stuck in the sand, and I prefer to leave it there'.
3 'Der Mann der Hitler die Ideen gab' ('The Man who gave Hitler his Ideas'), 1958, cited in the excellent study of Nazi homosexuality, The Pink Swastika: Homosexuality in the Nazi Party', by Scott Lively and Kevin Abrams, Founders Publishing Company, Box 20307, Keizer, OR 97307, USA, 1996, page 2. This is indispensable reading not least because it provides advance warning of the evil significance of the obviously deliberate homosexualisation of US and British political parties and institutions, including the military. For instance, elements of the partly brainwashed British military now routinely demand to know if new recruits are homosexual, not because this information can in any way assist the military to do its job efficiently, but because a mandated proportion of the military population 'must' be homosexual in order to 'reflect' the proportion of homosexuality in the population (which is well below 1% but is malevolently asserted by mind-mapped apparatchiksto be of the order of 10%).
4. The Pink Swastika', op. cit. (Note 3), page 3.
5. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', Western Islands, Boston MA, 1967, pages 62-63.
6. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit, page 79.
7. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit, page 61.
8. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit, page 74.
9. The US intelligence author and deprogrammer Fritz Springmeier has revealed, in a treatise entitled The Top 13 Illuminati Bloodlines', that most people these days are encumbered by built-in 'slides' which he revealed to be a CIA term for a conditioned type of response which dead-ends a person's thinking and terminates debate or examination of the topic at hand. For example, any mention of the word 'conspiracy' usually generates a 'slide' response, with many unknowingly brainwashed people dismissing out of hand, in a knee-jerk reaction, the very notion that such a phenomenon as a conspiracy could ever exist. See the Author's reference, in the main text, to the fact that Lenin, an Illuminati operative, himself specifically described the World Revolution as a conspiracy. By creating a 'slide' that presupposes that there is no such thing as a conspiracy, the conspirators think they are permanently protected from exposure.
10. V. I. Lenin, 'What is to be Done?', in 'Burning Questions of Our Movement', Volume 5, page 475, in 'Lenin on Language', Raduga Publishers, Moscow, 1983, page 162.
11. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit, page 77.
12. 'Socialism or State Capitalism in the Soviet Union', M. Rezunov, 'Sovetskoe Gosudarstvo I Sotsialisticheskoe Obschchestvo'l'The Soviet State and Socialist Society'], Leningrad, 1934, pages 12-18.
13. 'In Search of Marxist Identity', essay published in 'Soviet Political Thought: An Anthology', selected, translated and edited by Michael Jaworskyi, The Johns Hopkins Press, Baltimore, MA, 1967, page 521.
14. 'In Search of Marxist Identity', in 'Soviet Political Thought: An Anthology', op. cit, page 523.
15. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit, page 84.
16. 'When the Mason learns that the key to the warrior on the block is the proper application of the dynamo of living power, he has learned the mystery of his Craft [= witchcraft]. The seething energies of Lucifer are in his hands and before he may step onward and upward, he must prove his ability to properly apply [this] energy.... The hand that slays must lift the fallen, while the lips given to cursing must be taught to pray. The heart that hates must learn the mystery of compassion'. Many P. Hall, 33rd Degree Mason, in The Lost Keys of Freemasonry or The Secret of Hiram Abiff', Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Company, Inc., Richmond, VA, originally published in 1923; 1976.
17. John Robison, Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit., page 85.
18. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', op. cit, page 71.
19. 'Pawns in the Game', by William Guy Carr, CPA Book Publisher, P.O. Box 596, Boring, OR 97009-0596, USA, page XIII.
20. Private information to the Author from a US intelligence source.
21. The Times', London, 5th April 2006, page 39: 'The Glower behind the Throne', by Tom Baldwin.
22. 'Crusade: Undercover against the Mafia & KGB', Chapter 12, Yuri Ivanovich Nosenko, KGB, page 100; text provided to the Author on 21st March 1994 by a US intelligence source.
23. Manley P. Hall, The Lost keys of Freemasonry', op. cit, pages 51-52.
24. 'British-Israel: What is it?', originally published by Trumpet Press, Houston, Texas in 1938, page 1.
25. See for instance, Dr Gail Riplinger's short-form booklet, 'Which Bible is God's Word? Answers to Common Questions Concerning Modern Versions and Translations', Hearthstone Publishing, 1994; and 'New Age Bible Versions: An Exhaustive Documentation exposing the Message, Men and Manuscripts moving Mankind to the Antichrist's One World Religion', Dr Gail Riplinger, A.V. Publications Corporation, P.O. Box 280, Ararat, VA 24053, USA: ISBN 0-9635845-0-2. Telephone: 1-800 435 4535. ■

• Fact: The US Federal Government's secret research laboratory at Los Alamos has been digitising the Dead Sea Scrolls because they prescribe all the elements needed to coerce the population into acceptance of the New Underworld Order. Specifically, they prescribe the confiscation of all personal property, and the coming of false Messiahs. Their widespread dissemination is a direct attack upon the perfect Gospel of Jesus Christ. ■

THE ILLUMINATI RATS IN THE RIVER STYX

'PRINCIPALITIES AND POWERS': INTERPRETING THE EVIDENCE

Since this book addresses the 'Works of Darkness' and exposes Dark Forces and 'Dark Actors Playing Games', the main hazard facing both Author and reader alike is how to disentangle the poisonous threads in order to arrive at a reliable overall strategic assessment of what is happening. Few analysts think strategically, especially in the intelligence communities - given compartmentalisation, the environment of lies and deception, and the breakup of national intelligence into competing groups manipulated by foreign powers.

The Author has been able to identify these powers, and which US intelligence cadres appear to be attached to, working for or manipulated by them, by analysing remarks uttered by such people when taken off guard. For instance, one US intelligence operative was caught staring that 'Britain will be left dangling', and insisting that Tony Blair, allegedly a corrupted asset of German/French 'Black' intelligence, would not be leaving office, in the face of widespread expectations to the contrary associated with UK corruption and murder investigations. A British Prime Minister is not protected for all time by a Secret Service, as is the case with US Presidents. From remarks such as these, and ample other evidence, cosidered in context, it has been possible to identify which ruthless competing cadres within the vast US intelligence community are linked to which malevolent foreign power. Hatred of the British is usually a reliable indication of a German (DVD) connection.

This Author has, in various private serial publications of which he is the Editor, exposed the existence of the Dachau-Based German 'Black' intelligence agency, DVD (Deutsche Verteidigungs (or Versicherungs) Dienst), located, of all places, at Dachau, near Munich. Exposure of this agency, successor of the Nazi Abwehr, was 'never supposed to happen'; and as a consequence, the entire postwar perspective has had to be revised. The Author was privileged to expose this organisation following the death of Sir Edward Heath, a long-term Abwehr agent, and the atrocities committed against British people and the UK infrastructure on 7th July 2005, which were allegedly ordered by President Chirac, Germany's co-conspirator, and monitored by GCHQ inter alia while the French President was in Gleneagles for a G-8 conference. It has since transpired that a fifth bomb was meant to have exploded in the Northern Line beneath the River Thames, and that, as a consequence, a sizeable proportion of the London Underground was to have been flooded - causing immense physical and psychological damage, murdering thousands of Londoners, and probably destabilising the whole world. This was being interpreted in intelligence circles as nothing less than an act of war - as were indeed the 9/11 atrocities, which have also been traced to Al-Qaeda, an operation of German 'Black' intelligence, DVD. In both Britain and the United States, these atrocities were facilitated by deep, long-term German Nazi Continuum penetrations. In the United States, the Fifth Column has resided since 1946 onwards primarily inside the CIA, and it is the German-linked cadres therein, led by the Frankfurt-based COREA group, which are predominantly behind the CIA's drug operations, and responsible for its comprehensive corruption - the term 'CIA' embracing here all the myriad other US intelligence services, including the National Security Agency (NSA), to which the CIA is supposedly subordinate. In the spring of 2006, it was the case that the NSA 'reported to' John Negroponte, the newly-installed US Director of National Intelligence (DNA), and that Negroponte allegedly 'reported to' George Bush Sr., who, over the years, has allegedly acquired control over at least $206 trillion (according to sensitive intelligence) of 'funny money' allegedly leveraged from the $4.0 billion amassed to finance the First Gulf War, the theft of assets arising from the collapse of Continental Illinois Bank, the exploitation of a Trust established by the late CIA Director of Central Intelligence, William Casey, and the massive looting operations carried out against the US Savings and Loan sector in the 1980s. George Bush Sr., alleged by British sources to be the actual head of the DVD, having succeeded Admiral Canaris in the late 1970s, also allegedly has German citizenship, which can be based on ethnicity. A Jacobin Illuminist named Busche is identified by Professor John Robison of Edinburgh in his classic expose of the Illuminati, published in 1798 [on page 78 of the Western Islands edition, Boston, MA, 1967: see Figure 75 on page 495 of this work]. German 'Black' intelligence specialises in heroin, while the parallel French and Spanish 'Black' intelligence organisations 'do cocaine'. Spain, which is awash with drugs, has been a staging post for alleged Bush Sr.-connected Latin American drug deliveries into European countries.

In the United Kingdom, German 'Black' intelligence has penetrated MI5, MI6 and GCHQ, via a UK 'Black' intelligence outfit labelled GO-2, which actually resides inside MI6. The Author has also begun to expose this entity, which 'reports' to DVD in Dachau. GO-2 is responsible for 'managing' two drug cartels, and is accordingly ultimately responsible, under the Prime Minister, Tony Blair, allegedly a tool of German/French intelligence, for deliberately distributing cocaine into British schools.

Both Britain and the United States have official structures which are divided against themselves, as a consequence of long-range foreign penetrations. It is understood that GCHQ, which 'reported to' GO-2, woke up to this dreadful situation upon monitoring the 'act of war' allegedly ordered by President Chirac for 7/7, alluded to above. It is also becoming clearer by the day that the following British Prime Ministers were (and/or are) controlled ultimately by the DVD: Macmillan, Wilson, Heath, and allegedly Tony Blair. In Germany itself, the DVD selects the Chancellor, and simply informs him or her of its activities. In other words, German 'Black' intelligence, which represents the Nazi Continuum, controls the Berlin Government and represents the custodian of continuing Nazi long-range strategy. After all, the 'Madrid Circular Letter', intercepted by the Allies in the early 1950s [see page 573] proclaimed that 'For us, the war never ended': Fur uns, der Krieg ist niemals vorbei.

It is clear from much of the evidence exposed in this book that the IUuminati provide German Nazi continuing strategic intelligence policymakers with long-range cover for their global control objectives. According to a high-level IUuminati source in the United States, the powers of 'Old Europe' are fighting for supremacy, and must be left to fight it out among themselves. This is one way of looking at the crisis. But it fails to explain the community of interests between the criminalist cadres of, for instance, the continuing Soviets (there was no discontinuity of Soviet strategy, either) and those of 'Black' Ops agencies run by the other Great Powers. In this rats' sewer flowing into the River Styx, all the Illuminati's stinking rats smell the same. ■

SOME PRINCIPAL THEMES OF THIS BOOK

CONCEPTS WITH WHICH THE NON-SPECIALIST MAY BE UNFAMILIAR

The New Underworld Order is driven by The (deranged) Order of the Illuminati, grafted onto Freemasonry - which it absorbed at the Congress of Wilhelmsbad in 1782 [see below] while retaining the outer structures of Speculative Masonry. The Illuminati rely for protection on their own label and their lie that there is no such thing as a conspiracy - having persuaded those whom Lenin called 'Useful Idiots' to assume that it is analysts like this Author who are deranged! But it is The Order which is mad - driven by the 'seething energies of Lucifer' to believe its own lies such as that of the 'Orphic Egg' [opposite] and the mechanistic universe. ■

THE INSIGNIA OF THE ORDER OF THE ILLUMINATI

- THIS IS THE IMAGE ADOPTED BY THE GERMAN JEWISH EX-JESUIT ADAM WEISHAUPT WHEN HE 'REFOUNDED' THE ORDER OF THE ILLUMINATI ON 1ST MAY [THE PAGAN FEAST OF BELTANE] 1776. IT IS OF COURSE THE SAME IMAGE THAT APPEARS ON THE U.S. $1.0 BILLS - SO THAT MILLIONS OF AMERICANS ROUTINELY HANDLE THIS EMBLEM OF THE ILLUMINATI EVERY DAY.
- IT IS FOUND ON THE REVERSE OF THE GREAT SEAL OF THE UNITED STATES, ASSERTING THE GLOBAL TASK APPOINTED FOR AMERICA BY THE EUROPEAN ILLUMINATI - WHICH WAS THAT THE MEW WORLD' IS TO IMPOSE THE ORDER' UPON THE WHOLE OF HUMANITY - THE UNITED STATES BEING THE ORDER'S 'ENFORCEMENT ARM'. THE INSIGNIA ACQUIRED GEOMASONIC SIGNIFICANCE AFTER FREEMASONRY WAS MERGED WITH THE ORDER OF THE ILLUMINATI AT THE CONGRESS OF WILHELMSBAD, GERMANY, IN 1782, WHEN IT WAS DECREED THAT THE ILLUMINISTS WOULD SURREPTITIOUSLY 'PIGGYBACK' WITHIN THE GEOMASONIC STRUCTURES. U.S. ADMINISTRATIONS AND INTELLIGENCE CADRES ARE DECEITFULLY ENGAGED IN IMPLEMENTING THE AGENDA OF THE ILLUMINATI, RATHER THAN SERVING THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

ANNUIT COEPTIS
MDCCLXXVI
NOVUS ORDO SECLORUM

A CONTROLLABLE MECHANISTIC UNIVERSE

ILLUMINATI CONTROLLERS DESPISE HUMANITY AND BELIEVE THEY HAVE A UNIQUE DISPENSATION TO LIE TO THE PUBLIC AS A MATTER OF COURSE, AND TO MANIPULATE THE TWO 'OPPOSING' FORCES OF 'GOOD AND EVIL' (THESIS-ANTITHESIS OR 'PROBLEM-REACTION) TO ACHIEVE THEIR INTENDED 'SYNTHESIS': AND THEIR DELUSIONS ARE BASED UPON A MAD FAIRYTALE INVENTION CALLED THE ORPHIC EGG' In summary, the Illuminati have adopted / invented / co-opted a fantastic piece of nonsense to 'rationalise' their concept of creation, the universe and human existence. Specifically, reality arises from a so-called 'Orphic Egg' [see below] out of which, when cracked open, fly three 'phanes' - the Great Architect of the Universe itself (!!) and 'good' and 'evil'. Actually, Illuminists believe in neither, since their universe is mechanistic. Through progressive initiation, they purport to become entitled to order the affairs of the whole of humanity. Because the hoi polloi are ignorant, they are not entitled to 'special knowledge' and can be lied to indefinitely. These mad people have a solution for every human problem, which is why our corrupted Governments and the European Commission never stop legislating and intermeddling. But their efforts are cumulatively futile: for the literal meaning of the word 'Revolution' is 'going round and round in circles'. ■

The Ophic Egg is encircled by the Serpent - symbolic of the Devil, of course. This image, which openly acknowledges that this myth is an invention of Satan, is taken from 33rd Degree Mason Manly P. Hall's very rare Rosicrucian tome entitled 'Masonic, Hermetic, Qabbalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolical Philosophy', published by H. S. Crocker & Co., 1928. The image appeared originally in Bryant's 'An Analysis of Ancient Mythology'. Manly Palmer Hall's caption reads:

THE ORPHIC EGG

The ancient symbol of the Orphic Mysteries was the serpent-entwined egg, which signified the Cosmos as encircled by the fiery Creative Spirit' [i.e., Satan]. The egg also represents the soul of the philosopher [sic]; the serpent, the Mysteries' [invocation of demons, magick, etc]. 'At the time of initiation the shell is broken and man emerges from the embryonic state of physical existence wherein he had remained through the foetal period of philosophic[al] regeneration'.

This explanation diverges from the actual myth [see the main text above], illustrating how these madmen invent 'lines' to suit the deception in hand. ■

PAGANISM ADAPTED = DECEPTION

PEOPLE CONFUSE ORGANISED RELIGION WITH TRUE CHRISTIANITY

Knee-jerk bias against Christianity is based upon the mistaken assumption that the churches represent the Truth of Jesus Christ. That this is mistaken is evident not least from the particular aberration elucidated immediately below:

ISIS, QUEEN OF HEAVEN

In 'Morals and Dogma', the Luciferian occultist Magus and consolidator of US Freemasonry Albert Pike, states that Isis, Queen of Heaven, describes herself as 'instructed by Mercury. No-one can destroy the laws which I have established. I am the eldest daughter of Saturn, the most ancient of the gods, I am the wife and sister of Osiris the King... Rejoice, O Egypt, land that gave me birth'. This image, contained in Manly P. Hall's Luciferian Rosicrucian tome [see page XXXI], is taken from 'Mozaize Historie der Hebreeuwse Kerk', an otherwise unidentified Dutch esoteric document. Below: Esoteric depiction of 'Die Gottesmutter', the Mother of God' (a contradiction in terms) by Albrecht Diirer. See Jeremiah, Chapter 44, 16-25, condemning worship of this goddess.

John Dee (1527-1608), Elizabeth I's astrologer and a member of the Anglican Church, supervised thinly veiled 'Goddess worship' of the Queen herself.

THE DIALECTICAL METHODOLOGY

THE DUAL-HEADED ILLUMINATI OPPONENT OF 'THE MAIN ENEMY'

The essence of Illuminism and of Freemasonry - because it has been comprehensively penetrated, taken over and serves as the host for The Order of the Illuminati - is double-mindedness, the very essence of deception and lies. The dialectical method reflects this central reality. Anyone who fails to discern this central truth will remain forever confused. Once we grasp this fact, the behaviour of the deranged manipulators exposed in this book becomes comprehensible, and we can never remain blinded and trapped for long by their serial lies and blandishments. A critical variant of the dialectical methodology is what can be called 'The Scissors Strategy', which is illustrated in simplified format below [and on page 629]. In this model, one hand holds the handles of the scissors, but there are two blades. The single hand is invisible to the general public (the 'Goyim', or 'Bourgeoisie'), who perceive solely the behaviour of the two blades. Since this book concludes that for all contemporary practical purposes the Illuminati originate and are controlled from Germany, and since this study shows that for German 'Black' intelligence (DVD) the Second World War 'never ended', the practical outcome is the offensive and stand-off shown below. ■

THE SCISSORS STRATEGY

THE HAND IN THE SCISSORS:
THE ILLUMINATI
COVER FOR GERMAN [DVD]
LONG-RANGE STRATEGY EUROPEAN UNION COLLECTIVE TARGETING BRITAIN: THE LONG-RANGE DECEPTION STRATEGY
COORDINATED BY DVD, DACHAU, ALLEGEDLY HEADED BY GEORGE
H.W. BUSCHE SR. [AS OF 2006].
THE 'MAIN ENEMY' BRITAIN AND
THE UNITED STATES
MASSIVE LONG-TERM FIFTH COLUMN
PENETRATION OF U.S. STRUCTURES
BY GERMAN AGENTS AND AGENTS OF INFLUENCE SUPERVISED BY THE DVD, DACHAU, ALLEGEDLY HEADED BY GEORGE H.W. BUSCHE SR., AS THE SUCCESSOR TO ADMIRAL CANARIS,
TAKING OVER CONTROL IN 1976-78.

THE WORD OF GOD

' ... Filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit malignity; whisperers. Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful; Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are wormy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them '. Romans, Chapter 1, verses 29-32. AD 60.

' They know not neither will they understand; they walk on in darkness; all the foundations of the earth are out of course '. Psalm 82, verse 5.

' But they that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all evil: which, while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows'. 1 Timothy, Chapter 6, verses 9-10. AD 65.

' Now the works of the flesh are manifest which are these: Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft hatred, variance, emulations, uncleanness, wrath, strife, sed itions, heresies, Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like.... They which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance...; and they which are Christ's have crucified the flesh with the affections and lusts '. Galatians, Chapter 5, verses 19-24. AD 60.

' For without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie'. Revelation, Chapter 22, verse 15. AD 96.

'Let both grow together [the tares, i.e. the weed darnel, which looks like wheat until it matures, whereupon it assumes a different aspect]; and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers. Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn '. [Jesus: the parable of the tares]. Matthew, Chapter 13, verse 30. AD 31 (or 27).

' He that is unjust let him be unjust still; and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still; and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still; and he that is holy, let him be holy still '. Revelation, Chapter 22, verse 11. AD 96.

' Then said he unto me, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? For they say, the Lord seeth us not; the Lord hath forsaken the earth.... And behold, at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the Lord; and their faces toward the east and they worshipped the sun toward the east'. Ezekiel, Chapter 8, from verses 12 and 16. This is the first ever description of the Luciferian Masonic Lodge. BC 594.

' Flee out of the midst of Babylon; and deliver every man his soul: be not cut off in her iniquity; for this is the time of the Lord's vengeance; he will render unto her a recompense. Babylon hath been a golden cup in the Lord's hand, that made all the earth drunken; the nations have drunken of her wine; therefore the nations are mad. Babylon is suddenly fallen and destroyed; howl for her; take balm for her pain, if so be she may be healed. We would have healed Babylon, but she is not healed; forsake her, and let us go every one into his own country; for her judgment reacheth unto heaven, and is lifted up even to the skies '. Jeremiah, Chapter 51, verses 6-9. BC 595.

' And he answered and said, Babylon is fallen; and all the graven images of her gods he hath broken unto the ground'. Isaiah, Chapter 21, verse 9. BC 714.

'And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations chunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication '. Revelation, Chapter 14, verse 8. AD 96.

' If they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them '. Isaiah, Chapter 8, verse 20. AD 741.

' Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light '. Matthew, Chapter 11, verses 28-30. AD 31 (or 27).

' If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed. And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free *. John, Chapter 8, verses 31-32. [Verse 30: And as he spake these words, many believed on him']. See Chapter One, page 1 of this work, opposite -->

CHAPTER ONE

THE LANGLEY LIE

THE CENTRAL LIE MASQUERADING AS THE TRUTH

Visitors to the headquarters of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) at Langley, Virginia, are confronted with the following slogan:

'You shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free'.

This slogan, which is dishonestly intended to lead the observer to understand, contrary to the actualite, that the CIA deals in the truth, also encapsulates another lie.

The second lie hidden in the slogan exploits the cynical assumption that few in the modern world know Scripture. If they did, they would immediately be aware that this slogan is actually taken out of context from a glorious statement, given to us for our salvation, by Jesus Christ. The relevant text is to be found in the Gospel of John, Chapter 8, verses 31-32:

'Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, 'If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free'.

In other words, knowing the truth is explicitly conditional upon 'continuing in my word' - which means following the truth of Jesus Christ, who is the Way the Truth and the Life, i.e., walking in His Way. This truth is affirmed in John, Chapter 14, verse 6, where: 'Jesus saith unto him (Thomas): T am the way, the truth and the life: no man cometh to the Father, but by me'[1]. No worship of the Virgin Mary, no obsession with sublimated obscenities such as flagellation ('mortification of the body') as taught by that sinister intelligence organisation Opus Dei, no diversionary preoccupation with weeping statues or Black Madonnas (Sufism), no oppression by false 'New Age' religions, no adherence to any other 'faith' on the erroneous assumption of 'religious' equivalence, will procure the saving Grace of the Father, through the Holy Spirit. 'No man cometh to the Father, but by me'. True Christianity - and indeed access to the Truth - is exclusive, not inclusive. This naturally means that all diversionary 'religions', including Freemasonry with which the intelligence and some policymaking communities are infested, are absolutely incompatible with the Truth - that is, with the Way, the Truth and the Life. And because Freemasonry, the scaffolding of the Synagogue of Satan*, is in fact a gradualist introduction to Lucifer, the 'God of this World', it is particularly to be noted here, at the outset, that all forms of Masonry, which is witchcraft, are diversionary dead-ends, roadblocks erected by Satan to divert seekers after truth, from the Truth - leading those who indulge therein to perdition, being wholly incompatible with 'continuing in my Word' so that 'ye shall know the truth', allowing 'the truth to set you free'.

Indeed, the whole of the Truth is to be found clearly laid out by Jesus Christ in the Gospels; and those of a contrite, humble and tender heart are enjoined to read the

---

* See Footnote at the end of the Notes and References to Chapter 1: page 32.

Gospel of John to begin with, wherein he or she will find the certainty of the Way, the Truth and the Life. And the essence of the mystery of salvation is that, as Jesus Christ explains in John, Chapter 6, verse 65: 'No man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father'. So, when he or she, for instance, makes the crucial decision, having absorbed the above, to read the Gospel of John, that person is, by definition, thereby given the grace to do so 'of my Father'. The glory of spiritual salvation -through knowing the Truth that shall make us free - lies in the fact that the sum total of what is necessary to begin to claim it, is to make this one initial decision to seek the Truth where it lies, which has to come of our own free, unimpeded will.

The Truth which such a contrite, humble and tender heart finds in response to being thus called[2] has nothing to do with any 'truth' purveyed by man - let alone with the kind of 'truth' that the CIA purports, according to its deceitful slogan, to dispense. Apart from misrepresenting the words of Jesus by usurping them and taking them out of context, the slogan accordingly dispenses the lie that since the CIA deals in 'the truth', whatever it promulgates is 'the truth' - which by extension has the power to make Americans (and the rest of the world) 'free'.

But, as this book shows, the CIA and the vast US intelligence community as a whole - with which we have to be primarily concerned because of their global power, and because of their generational penetration by long-range German Abwehr/DVD and covert continuing Soviet agents and agents of influence - deal not in 'the truth' but in never-ending lies, or in lies, diversions and omissions mingled with truth, which amount to the same thing. For many of these people know little but deception as a way of life.

In fact the omission of pertinent information with an intention to mislead has been aptly described as the worst form of lie. Consequently, and logically, far from 'setting us free', the works of the US intelligence Establishment, given the immensity and arrogance of its power, are in the process of oppressing not only the American people, but also the whole world. The CIA's participation in the international drug trade, emulating the long since exposed drug offensive of the covert Soviet GRU-KGB against the West[3], is a scandal of millennial proportions, which goes unaddressed. In this respect, as in so many other dimensions, the United States, at this stage of the World Revolution, is rapidly 'converging'[4] towards the 'former' USSR[5]- 'convergence' being a primary objective of the World Revolution. The fact that, as will be demonstrated in this book, the CIA's global drug-trafficking operations are in fact a dimension of the operations of the Illuminati, in no way 'excuses' the US intelligence community from responsibility for the perpetration of this abomination.

U.S. INTELLIGENCE ADMITS IT HAS A 'HEART OF DARKNESS'

As if to anticipate this book, a so-called 'former' US intelligence operative has openly acknowledged that US intelligence is engaged in Works of Darkness. Of course, we all know this - the whole world, since Abu Ghraib, now knows it, although even today few have any grasp of the scale of the reprobate US intelligence community's involvement in such works; but for a 'former' US intelligence operative to admit as much, is certainly a most interesting development. It would be comforting to believe that the remark was made in a contrite spirit of humility and tenderness towards those whom the intelligence community has wronged. No such luck, unfortunately.

The 'former' operative's admission surfaced in an article by the veteran US investigative reporter (with the closest of intelligence community links), Seymour

Hersh, in the aftermath of the atrocities committed in Abu Ghraib, with which the US intelligence-linked corporations CACI and Titan 'were' associated (and for which they were largely responsible). Hersh was describing what he had learned about a 'Special-Access Program' (SAP), or clandestine 'Black' operation subject to the US Defense Department's most stringent level of security, which was itself 'blown' by Hersh's revelations in The New Yorker[6]. Under the SAP, Hersh reported, 'commandos crossed borders without visas and could interrogate terrorism suspects deemed too important for transfer to the military's facilities at Guantanamo, Cuba'. US commandos, operatives and other specialists 'carried out instant interrogations - using force if necessary -at secret CIA detention centers scattered all around the world'. The (resulting) intelligence 'would be relayed to the SAP command center in the Pentagon in real time, and sifted for those pieces of information critical to the 'White', or overt, world' [see pages 6 and 8 et seq. for the significance of this differentiation from the 'Black', or 'covert' world]. This is the paragraph in which the unprecedented official admission in question was made:

'Fewer than two hundred operatives and officials, including [Defense Secretary Donald] Rumsfeld and General Richard Myers, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were "completely read into the program", the former[7] intelligence official said. The goal was to keep the operation protected. "We're not going to read more people than necessary into our heart of darkness", he said. "The rules are: 'Grab whom you must. Do what you want'".

For any US intelligence official to acknowledge publicly that his or her intelligence community has a 'heart of darkness' is probably unprecedented. All national intelligence communities, being essentially ocultically-oriented secret societies riddled with Freemasonry, have 'hearts of darkness'; but they scarcely ever admit this central reality, other than via symbology, such as MI5's revealingly esoteric triangle-symbol shown in Figure 1 below. Two possible explanations for this open admission of collective demonic possession, which emerged in the aftermath of the maelstrom of reve-

Figure 1: THE ILLUMINATI EMBLEM OF MI5
WHICH TELLS US EVERYTHING WE NEED TO KNOW

I
EⅡR
U.
K.
M INTELLIGENCE
V

With growing lay knowledge and understanding of the transnational depredations of occultic Masonry, many organisations have adopted the practice of hiding their Freemasonic and Illuminati connections and pedigrees - although it is deliberately 'allowed', in what they name the 'Age of Aquarius', that esoteric orientations may be displayed. The international oil companies have always displayed their geomasonic linkages through corporate symbology (pyramids, sunbursts, circles, etc). Britain's MI5 intelligence service uses this occultic pyramid symbol, which is almost 100% geomasonic. In the top sub-triangle, the 'I', supposedly for Intelligence, is symbolic of the all-seeing eye of Set (Satan) or Lucifer, which is also shown. In the left sub-triangle, the 'M', which the layman is supposed to assume stands for 'Military', further alludes to Molech, the Caananite god-idol to which the children of Israel sacrificed their unwanted children. In the right-hand sub-triangle, the 'V stands not only for the 'perfect number' 5, but also, in part, for the state of so-called 'perfect knowledge' to which Freemasons aspire as they 'progress' towards total Illumination (actual possession by Lucifer, or Set).

lations and reports surrounding the Satanic abuse perpetrated inter alia by those 'cutout' US intelligence operatives at the notorious Abu Ghraib detention facility in the Baghdad area and elsewhere, sprang to mind.

One possibility was that the official intelligence 'owners' of the 'heart of darkness' are so Satanised and indifferent to the sufferings they inflict that they couldn't care less any more, especially now that they have been 'rumbled', what the rest of the world thinks. Such an attitude would be consistent with the arrogant protestation, heard repeatedly from some Americans, that it doesn't matter what conclusions the rest of the world has reached concerning the dangers that this revolutionary United States now presents to humanity: what matters is that America should be feared.

The second possibility is that the intelligence source who briefed Hersh was somewhat ashamed of the blackness of the CIA/DIA's collective 'heart of darkness', and was dismayed by the appalling international publicity as well as by the fact that this SAP had gone so badly wrong: 'We've never had a case where a Special-Access Program went sour - and this goes back to the Cold War'.

He complained that the intelligence officer to whom Mr Rumsfeld had delegated the SAP, Stephen Cambone, an operative with an allegedly murky past, had decided to bring the SAP rules (i.e., the absence of all residual morality) into the prisons; in other words, the regular military personnel operating in the prisons were told that what went on there now formed part of the covert operation, where no civilised rules applied.

By the time the official's 'heart of darkness' admission appeared in print, the whole world had been reminded that the United States' regard for human life and dignity was as depraved as that of the Hitler and Stalin regimes; that power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely; and that the United States' protestations that it was engaged in 'spreading democracy' in a region where it is non-existent, was indeed, as had always been widely assumed, a disreputably fraudulent prospectus. This was the case not least because the United States is itself in the habit of rigging its own electoral process, as the extensively documented fiddling of the November 2004 General Election demonstrated [see Addendum 1, page 662].

The shamefacedness of the Bush II Administration on this score was repeatedly in evidence following that election, as top officials from the President down reiterated the official 'line' that the United States is the guardian angel of that wondrous gift called 'democracy'. For example, on 16th June 2005, President G. W Bush denounced the Iranian election as a sham designed to ensure that power was to be retained in the hands of an undemocratic, repressive elite. 'The Iranian people', Mr Bush said, 'deserve a genuinely democratic system in which elections are honest, and in which their leaders answer to them instead of the other way around'. This hypocritical statement - one of many of its kind coming from a US President who, whatever may have been thought of the heavily Soviet-penetrated US Democratic Party, is shown to have presided over a political machine that stole both the election of 2004 and the preceding election - was typical of lies perpetrated by the head of a regime engaged in the exercise of 'democratism' (a Soviet-era word meaning 'the creation and maintenance of the illusion of democracy') who, by ingrained habit, chooses to be unable and unwilling to distinguish between truth and falsehood. For Iranians, who are no fools, to be told by a US President who claimed to be sustaining 'freedom' while openly depriving the American people of it, and who bragged about democracy after having usurped power which is supposed to flow from the people, was further proof of the accuracy of their slogan describing the United States as 'the Great Satan'. Mr Bush then tried to distinguish between the Iranian regime and the people of Iran by hurriedly elaborating that 'today, the Iranian regime denies' the Iranian people their rights. 'It brutalises its people and denies their liberty'. And Washington wondered why the Iranian people are so manifestly equivocal about American official professions of 'friendship' towards them, as opposed to their regime. It is because the level of hypocrisy pouring out of Washington's intelligence-controlled regime stinks in their nostrils.

Take the President's assertion on that occasion that the Iranian regime 'brutalises' its people', a true statement that is overwhelmingly supported by the historical record. The US regime does likewise. For instance, from late 2004 onwards, US journalists have been sent to jail for refusing to divulge their sources to the authorities, which is exactly what happens in brutalised states like, say, Zimbabwe. In 2005, Andrew Stephenson, who worked tirelessly pro bono publico to expose the fraudulence of the 2004 General Election [see Appendix 1], made the serious mistake of seeking employment in Washington DC as a lobbyist, having exhausted his financial resources. On the plane back to his home city, Seattle, he was taken violently ill, and was later diagnosed with cancer of the pancreas. After patriotic Americans rallied round and raised, in extremely short order, no less than $70,000 to finance a very serious surgical operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital, carried out by the nation's top surgeon in this discipline, attempts were made by one of the US Government's several hyperactive disinformation and discrediting teams to spread lies to the effect that Stephenson had raised the funds for his own benefit, i.e. fraudulently. When activists exposed these lies and their perpetrators, the hospital authorities professed to have been unable to locate the $70,000, which had been despatched to them by Fedex (it was suddenly 'found' lying unopened in an office). After Stephenson's return to Seattle, another branch of the evil US intelligence disinformation team (based in Toronto) intervened unilaterally with the Seattle authorities, who were to have provided Andy Stephenson with urgently necessary chemotherapy, so that his insurance cover was suddenly cancelled. On 9th June, a very senior US intelligence official (one of the few with any integrity) informed this Author that the virus that will have caused Stephenson's cancer was most likely injected via syringe into a toothpaste tube in his hotel room: 'That's how they do it', he added. A few days later, a colleague (of this Author) who was attending a political reception, raised the subject of the Government's repressive policies with a person known to be an intelligence officer as well as a political operator. He 'snapped his fingers', whereupon two operatives approached our friend and entered into a conversation, dealing with certain issues that our friend had raised. One of these, a Transportation Security Agency (TSA) operative, said gratuitously, on the subject of poisonings, that 'a lot of these are happening' [sic] - meaning that the US Government is engaged, 'as we speak', in the standard Illuminist practice of poisoning its enemies.

It therefore, self-evidently 'ill behoves' the President of the United States to lecture the Iranians (and other foreigners whose governments are equally the servants of Lucifer) on the abominations of their governments, and the repressive policies against their own people that they perpetrate, when the US Government is itself engaged in the same kind of Satanic behaviour while professing that it is the guardian angel of freedom and democracy. No wonder such official hypocrisy stinks in the nostrils of members of the human race who have not yet succumbed to the orchestrated dumbing-down processes being perpetrated against them by their own Illuminised governments.

Manifestly such behaviour, and any association with it or condoning of it, is incompatible with the Way, the Truth and the Life. A certain kindly American intelligence officer known to the Author has touchingly protested that he loves the Lord first, and his country next - which, being interpreted, and in the context in which this statement was made - meant that he saw no incompatibility between his lifelong association with the CIA, and thus with its 'heart of darkness', and his 'commitment' to Jesus Christ. Unfortunately, such a convenient compromise is out of the question for those who profess to believe, and therefore hope for salvation. In Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 10, verse 21, Paul warns:

'Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils'.

A choice has to be made. Shall I remain associated with this intelligence organisation and its now openly self-acknowledged 'heart of darkness'? Or shall I renounce, once and for all, the 'Works of Darkness', so that I shall, by the Grace of the Holy Sprit, be available to be saved?

'Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall' [I Corinthians Chapter 10, verse 12]. And in Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, Chapter 5, verse 11, Paul commands:

'And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them...'... which is what this work humbly seeks, to the very best of the Author's ability and resources, to do. Note crucially that Paul describes all Works of Darkness as 'unfruitful' - something of an understatement, perhaps, given that, since the Devil is the author of confusion, all Works of Darkness (and therefore all intelligence operations and activity) are characterised by endless strife, contentiousness, bitterness, false witness, deception, lies and generally reprobate behaviour. The Author has himself been a witness to, and a victim of, of this routine pattern of official delinquency, in the course of research inter alia for this book.

Indeed, in the intelligence community context, such institutionalised delinquency in the name of national security soon becomes quite obvious to the targeted observer who is not sitting on his or her brains. One reason for this is that the same techniques are always redeployed, since the Devil knows of no new tricks. The preoccupations, for instance, of the US intelligence community typically revolve around launching fresh deception or scamming operations in order to cover up past 'botches' - operations which have gone badly wrong and have unravelled. Indeed it is characteristic of the CIA and its internal subsidiaries and rivals that they specialise in operations that go wrong. So there is a constant imperative to develop fresh initiatives to cover up previous botches, or to provide 'diversionary services'. This behaviour is akin to that of a gambler at a casino who has lost more than he possesses and who seeks ever more desperately to recoup his losses by taking risks against unbeatable odds, in the pathetic hope that he will 'get lucky' and will not only recoup all his losses, but will earn a profit, too. Of course, this never happens.

Hersh's article on the circumstances surrounding Abu Ghraib made it crystal clear that what the 'former' intelligence official who admitted that the CIA (et al) has 'a heart of darkness' was most concerned about was that the secret SAP or 'Black' operation, which he said at one point 'is still active', would never be exposed (even though, as indicated, he was himself helping to expose it). The 'Black' programme had to be kept in the darkness and not revealed to the 'White' world, according to an intelligence 'consultant' also interviewed by Hersh - not only for security reasons, but also 'because the process is unpleasant. It's like making sausage: you like the result but you don't want to know how it was made'. A European version of this syndrome reads: 'When you put your shoes outside your hotel room at night for polishing, you don't want or need to know who cleaned them'.

'Also', the 'former' intelligence officer told Hersh, 'you don't want the Iraqi public and the Arab world, to know' (what utterly depraved barbarians we are - Ed.). 'Remember, we went to Iraq to democratise the Middle East [sic!]. The last thing you want to do is let the Arab world know how you treat Arab males in prison'.

But so 'botched' was this accursed Work of Darkness, that not just the Arab world, but every corner of the globe, today knows how certain brutalised Americans treat Arab males in prison: with total indifference to suffering, with depraved sexual lust and with Nazi-like contempt. Reports of imprecise British atrocities perpetrated in Iraq appear to have been disseminated in part so as to take the spotlight off the aberrations of the offending American personnel, although it appears that the collapse of morality which underlies the US abominations has infected the British as well. This behaviour is consistent with the indoctrination format espoused and perpetrated by the Illuminati, which seeks to procure that selected victims, operatives and imple-menters of its nefarious plans must be brought to inflict pain without flinching, to kill if necessary without ever looking back afterwards, and to maximise the potential of the use of fire. In his last interview before his sudden death during an exorcism of a young girl in July 1999, the Author's late friend Fr Malachi Martin explicitly confirmed that Luciferians (who are worshippers of, and are possessed by, Lucifer) 'have all passed through [initiation] and that involves three things: the infliction of pain without flinching, the infliction of death without flinching, and the use of fire'.

It is no accident that, since Abu Ghraib and the less publicised parallel American atrocities were first exposed, the whole world has been gratuitously provided with an excuse to ignore the Geneva Conventions in the future - a development that will of course inevitably rebound upon US combatants in the years ahead. But from the perspective of the Illuminati, this coarsening of perceptions of what is acceptable, serves their objective of desensitising humanity to the terminal horrors to come - just as the reprobate, perverse contemporary obsession with teaching schoolchildren about the Holocaust, death and murder (through Satanic videos and music, school plays and other teaching methods) serves the self-same Satanic purpose [See Addendum 2, page 675].

Meanwhile, of course, the US State Department's complaints about human rights abuses abroad, published in its annual Congressionally mandated compendium entitled Country Reports on Human Rights Practices (which covers almost every territory in the world with the singular exception of the United States itself), have lost all credibility. In summary, the primary message Washington has successfully delivered into every TV-owning and newspaper-reading household in the world is that, since 9/11, the end justifies the means, and the rule of international law has been consigned to the historical dustbin, even as the United States self-righteously professes otherwise.

This is the very essence of the perverted philosophy of the Sect of the Illuminati, [see Chapter 7] which the intelligence-controlled US Government serves. For, as John Robison, author of the first expose of the sect wrote, in his 'Proofs of a Conspiracy' [1798], the Illuminati espouse 'the propriety of employing, for a good purpose, the means which the wicked employ for evil purposes'[8]: The end justifies the means.

This is the common thread which 'illuminates' everything they do.

SEGREGATING THE 'BLACK' WORLD FROM THE 'WHITE' WORLD

What the 'former' US intelligence officer speaking to Seymour Hersh worried most about, then, was not that US CIA-linked and military personnel had been involved in serial atrocities, and that such behaviour continued unabated, but rather that a typical example of the US intelligence community's serial 'Works of Darkness' had surfaced into the 'White', or overt, world, also mentioned by this operative - that is, the 'normal' world which US intelligence officers typically look down upon because of their 'superior' knowledge and possession of 'secrets', and because they believe that they control the perceptions of the 'White' world from which they themselves originated but which they have come to despise.

Indeed, a senior CIA officer, lecturing on a 'spy cruise' off the US West Coast in the spring of 2003, took pride in the claim that US intelligence controls the mainstream media[9]. And it subsequently emerged, thanks to leaks from a TV studio, that there appears to be an intelligence cell attached to every US mainstream media newsroom[10] in the United States. This explains why thinking Americans rightly complain that the news fed to them is controlled. They know this instinctively, and they are right: Fox News is now regarded as the US Government's propaganda channel, and CNN was rapidly acquiring a similar reputation as this book was being finalised. For it is indeed the case that the intelligence community - which controls the US Government, as will be seen - necessarily, as a prerequisite for and as a corollary of doing so, also controls the dissemination of 'information', as is the case in the covert Soviet Union. Hence, the United States is 'converging' ever more comprehensively and dialectically towards the dark models of the covert 'former' Soviet Union and the Nazi Third Reich.

Why is it that abuses by the CIA and its 'protected' barons, its global scamming operations and its involvement in drug-trafficking on the pretext that this gives it an insight into the parallel covert ongoing Soviet drugs offensive, have been reported and scrutinised for decades, with not the slightest change in this monstrous organisation's behaviour being detectable? The Senate Committee on Intelligence headed by Senator Frank Church, of Idaho, in 1975, sifted through the CIA's abuses and dark operations over the preceding two decades, to zero effect. Afterwards, Senator Church was duly liquidated - a fate which has likewise been the lot of innumerable operatives associated with the nexus of serial US official criminality that is loosely labelled 'Iran-Contra'.

The multiple (and continuing) abuses committed, by design, by the CIA's 'cutouts' in Iraq (and of course in Afghanistan and elsewhere) are merely symptomatic of the pitch blackness of the CIA's 'heart of darkness', which will be illustrated in this book. And the likelihood of any change occurring appears to be non-existent. On 10th August 2004, President George W Bush, fresh from telling election gatherings about his faith in God, confirmed his nomination of a man with a reputation for possessing one of the CIA's darkest hearts of all - the eight-term Republican Congressman and fellow Yale graduate, Porter Goss, a 'former' CIA case officer with an allegedly murky past - as his choice for Director of Central Intelligence (DCI), following the earlier forced resignation under imprecise dark clouds of his predecessor, Mr George Tenet, a man whose code name reads both ways: spelt backwards, his name is unchanged. Such a name is ideal for an Illuminati operative, whose chief characteristic is that, by definition, he is double-minded in all that he thinks, schemes, says and does.

One intelligence analyst described Porter Goss, who was fired by Bush Jr. in 2006, as 'a former point man for assassinations, a former CIA agent, who left the CIA under clouded circumstances. He was a field agent, but was actually forced out because of a trail of bodies that got tagged to him, literally, all over the world'. None of these allegations were recycled when Goss suddenly 'resigned' in the spring of 2006.

Citing comments by Al Martin (pseudonym) - said to have 'intelligence connections' and to be a former 'contributor' to the President's Council of Economic Advisers - the source reported in that 'in 1983, Goss was allegedly involved in Iran-Contra profiteering with Jeb and Neil Bush and he was allegedly exposed' (according to this 'Al Martin') 'in his involvement in Neil Bush's alleged Destin Country Club development fraud - a fraud out of which he allegedly made $3 million illegally. He then became involved with Carlos Cardoen and Swissco Management, and the fraud that Swissco Management committed, not only in Florida, but throughout the United States, in those so-called illicit 'tax-swap deals'. You could compare it [Goss's selection by President Bush to head the CIA, albeit for less than two years] to the crime family where the soldier rises from the street to become the capo, having taken the hits over the years for his superiors in the organization'.

The source continued: 'Of course, unlike an organized crime family, the difference between the Administration and your average run-of-the-mill organized crime family is that the (present) Cabal controls not only the entire nation, but influences policy throughout the planet. They are above all laws and impervious to any action'. 'Al Martin' - who curiously appears to be protected from the consequences of some of his reported statements - was further quoted as saying that 'the Bush-Cheney regime must feel that it is a risk worth taking [appointing Goss] because they are now in de facto control of the mainstream media'. 'So, therefore, how much of Goss's past would be liable to be brought up?' at his US Senate confirmation hearings, and in the mainstream press? None of the relevant information, obviously[11]. And so it proved. Following Goss's departure, the services of the flawed military spy, General Mike Hayden, were solicited.

In 1986, Porter Goss's alleged involvement in the Destin Country Club fraud, the Swissco Management fraud, the Topsail Development fraud, the Destin Dome fraud, and various other frauds with which members of the Bush family were allegedly involved, was indeed revealed in The Washington Times. Yet, disgracefully, not a single reference to any of this background appeared, for instance, in the reports on Goss's nomination published in The Financial Times on 11th August 2004[12]. Of course not.

On the contrary, the British newspaper was more interested in the relish with which Mr Goss, as Chairman of the House of Representatives' Intelligence Oversight Committee, had criticised and clashed with the former Director of Central Intelligence (DCI), George Tenet, over complaints of inadequate clandestine human intelligence collection (HUMINT) - a debate which is nothing new, having persisted ever since the days when the subsequently murdered William Colby was the DCI. Like President Vladimir Putin, who is a Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) officer accustomed to using his 'KGB past' as cover, Porter Goss was allegedly a US military intelligence officer 'before' joining the CIA. His past alleged involvement in a trail of 'wet affairs' (assassinations) lends a sinister meaning to his observation, when still Chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, that 'we are being too namby-pamby about taking risks to get the good penetration of the hard targets in the denied areas'.

But it is precisely because this book inevitably has to address the 'Works of Darkness', and some of those who perpetrate and preside over them, that the Author considered it essential - in order for the reader to keep his or her bearings, and to be aware that the Author does not peer into the darkness for prurient, but rather for exposure, reasons - that it should begin with references to the Way, the Truth and the Life, namely the opposite of the darkness, access to which remains open to anyone who may decide, for his or her own salvation, to renounce all 'Works of Darkness', that is, to make the necessary choice. Indeed this opportunity is explicitly alluded to by Jesus Christ himself, in Luke, Chapter 6, verse 35, where He explains: 'But love ye your enemies, and do good... and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest; for He is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil'.

For this reason alone, this book will doubtless be considered highly subversive in certain quarters. That is not its intention. However it is unavoidable that the truth will irritate corrupted sensibilities and will threaten to destabilise lies, deception and disinformation. And it may come as a surprise to many that the Lord is even willing to accept the evil man and woman indulging in the kinds of abominations described in this book, who truly repents. The subversiveness of this book relates to the obvious reality that consorting with the Works of Darkness, whether within an intelligence community or not, is incompatible with the salvation uniquely offered by Jesus Christ.

Those US operatives who, like the disgraced Robert Hanssen, belong to Opus Dei, which is exposed for what it is in Chapter 6, and who console themselves with the false panacea of purgatory offered by the Catholic Church, are deluding themselves, as there is no such place: it is a self-serving diversionary invention that is devoid of all Scriptural content. [Note: Contrary to the official lie, the traitor against the United States, Robert Hanssen, is not held in solitary confinement sine die in a Colorado top security facility, in a dungeon with no natural light and only a computer as company, but is in fact today a free man - an example of how the US legal system is routinely abused in the interests of the US intelligence community to convey one impression for public consumption and to sustain the false appearance of the integrity of the system, whereas in practice the outcome is the opposite of the public perception].

Figure 2:

A REAGAN-GORBACHEV GEOMASONIC HANDSHAKE

The late President Ronald Reagan and 'former' President Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev (whose German Jewish name is Orbach or Korbach), at their first meeting, held in Versoix, Switzerland, on 19th November 1985. In this old photograph. President Reagan is shown 'gripping' with the geomasonic Supreme Master Grip, with a pronounced 'Ma-Ha-Bone' ('Lion's Paw'). Gorbachev attempts the same, but Mr Reagan (who is in full control here) won't allow the same grip. This reveals that Ronald Reagan, a supremely powerful Luciferian, could demand (and maintain) 'the upper hand". The 'Ma-Ha-Bone' Real Grip of the Master Mason entails the grasping of the other's wrist as Reagan is doing, indicating who is the Boss. The Master Mason (or higher) firmly grasps the right hand of the fellow Mason. The thumbs of both the hands are interfaced. The first Mason (Reagan) presses the tips of all his fingers hard against the wrist of the fellow Geomason, where it unites with the hand. For further graphic instances of how the Illuminati-penetrated and -controlled geomasonic fraternity in public life signal their Masonic credentials to each other, see page 734. Mr Gorbachev has remained clandestine supremo of the KGB Continuum, concentrating on the subversion of the 'Main Enemy', Britain and the United States: 'working by other means' [Lenin]. ■

The intelligence community's concept of the 'White' world - which of course presupposes the existence of its own world of darkness, or 'Black' world, exposed in Seymour Hersh's cited article - was as revealing as the 'former' intelligence officer's actual acknowledgement that the CIA and the rest of the US intelligence community possesses a 'heart of darkness'. Because, if one stops to think about this, what was meant is that there is no 'whiteness' in the intelligence community at all. After all, if the outside is 'White' in the minds of US operatives, the inside has to be 'Black'; otherwise it would not be necessary to describe the 'overf outside world as 'White'.

By extension, for representatives from the 'White' world to complain about the pitch blackness of the 'Black', covert intelligence world, would seem, on the face of it, to be a waste of time - were it not for one critical factor. This is that representatives of the 'Black' world of corrupt, criminalised intelligence occupy supreme positions of power in the US 'White' world, precisely as they do in the 'former' Soviet Union. Almost every notable 'player' on the Washington scene is, or 'has been', a US intelligence officer. Scratch anyone you meet in these circles and you will soon discover an intelligence connection. The same applies to almost everyone one meets in the US capital area. And just about every Washington think-tank, institute, pressure group and lobbying organisation has intelligence connections - or else, like the Heritage Foundation, the Institute of Policy Studies, and the Institute of World Policy, serves its interests, or those of a particular compartmentalised fraction or sector thereof.

Indeed it has been the Author's experience over four decades that no US pressure group, think-tank or other seemingly worthy-sounding organisation turns out, upon investigation or on the basis of practical experience, to be the 'free-standing' organisation that it purports to be. Almost every such entity has an intelligence axe to grind. Apparently objective and sympathetic analysts operating websites or intensive email correspondence operations turn out with alarming frequency to be US intelligence

Figure 3:

CNN TV still of a devil face image in the 9/11 flames. CNN is now widely considered to have become little more than a propaganda arm of the US Government. So far it has not been possible to prove that this still was part of the Psy-Ops operation, like the far image: ☛

Courtesy: CNN

This 9/11 devil image was allegedly taken by Mark Phillips, a CIA Psy-Ops agent, and was submitted to the Associated Press, which is known to be close to authorities, at 8.59 a.m., and was time-stamped 9.13 am by AP. Mark Phillips is the CIA co-author of the lethal book Trance Formation of America, which 'exposes' mind-control atrocities perpetrated by secret US intelligence structures....

Courtesy: AP

officers or paid disinformation specialists - exposed when they themselves blow their own cover, which, being typically careless, they are very apt to do. After countless years of being deceived by these decoys, the Author and many of his concerned US friends have 'wised-up' to the comprehensive scope of the US intelligence community's penetration of its own society, which was already pervasive enough before the Department of Homeland Security, a.k.a. the emerging US Ministry of State Security, was given carte blanche to perpetrate acts such as the removal of people off the streets and to fly them in a special Boeing to unknown destinations. And since the US intelligence structures are themselves deeply penetrated and compromised, especially by covert and even overt Soviet, East German (STASI - i.e., deep cover DVD) and Israeli agents, it follows from these findings alone that the United States is far from being master of its own ultimate fate (as will be further and separately proven in this work).

A particularly alarming feature of the intelligence environment in the first decade of the 21st century, furthermore, is the ease with which the professional cameraderie that flourishes between national intelligence communities has 'legitimised' the apparent wholesale penetration of US intelligence, so that all concerned take this for granted.

INTELLIGENCE OPERATIVES IN HIGH PLACES

Bill Clinton is allegedly a CIA operative, as is his wife, Hillary (whose codename is 'Queen Melusina'). The codename for Ms. Condoleeza Rice is 'Velvet Mushroom'. According to a US intelligence operative and other sources, George W. Bush's Vice President, Richard Cheney was allegedly in charge of the CIA's notorious MK-ULTRA mind-bending and personality-alteration programme for some years. George Bush Sr., of course, was Director of Central Intelligence before becoming Vice President under President Reagan, and subsequently President. He had remained (at our press date) essentially the most important and powerful intelligence 'baron' in the United States ever since - emulating President Mikhail Gorbachev, who remains 'to this day' the ultimate boss of the covert Soviet KGB [information provided to the Author by a senior US intelligence source]. Ronald Reagan's Masonic pedigree, illustrated for instance by his tell-tale Ma-Ha-Bone handshake when greeting President Gorbachev [see Figure 2][13], suggests he will also have had intelligence connections: he was certainly a very senior Mason. Al Gore, Vice-President under President Clinton, and with family connections to Soviet figures, has allegedly amassed intelligence on key US intelligence officeholders as a means of procuring protection for himself and his family, having endured threats from intelligence cadres to one or more of his children (they do this to each other all the time: we are describing an inner chamber of hell here). President Ford, with enveloping intelligence connections and the 'highest' Mason ever to have occupied the Oval Office, is mentioned as engaging in depraved activities in a work (written by a CIA Psy-Ops operative, Mark Phillips, who was responsible for the 'devil in the smoke' picture taken on 9/11: Figure 3), which describes the extreme depredations of the intelligence community's psycho-manipulation programmes such as MK-ULTRA, over which, as noted, Vice-President Dick Cheney, with his special experience, allegedly presided[14]. President George W. Bush Jr. is known to have carried out intelligence missions working directly for his father, and to have managed certain Bin Laden family finances. Since it will be shown that George Bush Sr.'s (DVD) agenda is to accelerate implementation of the New (Under)world Order (N.U.O.) of the German Illuminati, President Bush II may have been meant to be a key implementer of the N.U.O., despite reported differences with his father. As the hand signals given at his Inauguration on the occult date of 20th January 2005 [Figure 4, below and Addendum 9, page 732] revealed, it is clear that he serves the interests of the Illuminati.

George Bush Sr.'s Vice-President, Dan Quayle, is a CIA operative who is now extensively engaged in global investment and 'hedge fund' activity through, inter alia, an investment fund called Cerberus Capital Management, which specialises in buying up near-bankrupt or failing enterprises in Asia and elsewhere [See Addendum 3, page 679]. Hedge funds buy up such assets because illicit funds need laundering, i.e. 'place-ment', more urgently than rate of return: indeed, the fundamental difference between any drug money flows and all normal flows-of-funds is that the drug money pipeline is endless and is always in urgent need of 'placement'. It is significant that Cerberus was the monstrous watchdog of Hades with 50 heads and a voice of bronze (that is to say, a voice like one who is possessed with devils) who guarded the hideous gate of the Kingdom of Hades in Greek mythology. Sometimes Cerberus had only three heads. Sometimes he bristled with serpents and his evil mouth dribbled black venom. Once a visitor had passed Hades' guard-dog, he could never re-emerge. So why on earth (or in hell) would anyone want to name a hedge fund after such a hellish underworld monster?

That question, obviously, is answered in general terms by reference to the aforementioned self-exposure of the CIA's heart of darkness. It is also interesting to recall that Huntington, Indiana, where Quayle grew up, was at one stage (and may still be) particularly notorious for its manifestations of wicca and Satanism. As will be shown inter alia in the chapter on the sect of the Illuminati, which controls US and other intelligence services, the proliferation of occultism is a primary dimension of the N.U.O.

This is why video games and other materials disseminated through chain bookstores in the United States and elsewhere have reached levels of murderous obscenity and depravity consistent with Satanic possession and the reign of Lucifer.

Figure 4: President George W. Bush Jr. displays the standard Satanic gesture during the Inauguration on 20th January 2005. The 'line', for public consumption purposes, was that this hand signal represented the 'Hook 'em Horns' gesture employed by fans of the University of Texas Longhorns. This was the fairytale disseminated by Associated Press and CNN, despite conclusive evidence, supported by academic authorities, that this gesture represents an open celebration of, and a sign of obeisance to, the Devil (Satan, or Lucifer).

THE MAN WHO CONDONED THE DROPPING OF PEOPLE INTO THE SEA

After the nomination of Porter Goss as Director of Central Intelligence, perhaps the most insensitive, sinister and perverse 'heart of darkness' appointment by President George Bush II in 2004 was his selection of John Negroponte, a Sephardic Jew, as Ambassador to Baghdad, where he was to head up the largest US Embassy in the world, with more than 3,000 employees and over 500 CIA officers. Despite this Mr Negroponte's infamous record in Central America, this man encountered negligible Congressional opposition, even from Senate Democrats who once criticised him for supporting widespread human rights abuses. But that was then: post-Abu Ghraib is now: and he is crowned with worldly glory, as the Director of National Intelligence.

As US Ambassador to Honduras, Negroponte played a key role in coordinating US covert aid to Contra death squads in Nicaragua, and to shoring-up a CIA-backed death squad operating in Honduras itself. During Negroponte's term as Ambassador there, diplomats alleged that the local US Embassy's annual human rights document, submitted for inclusion in the State Department's Country Reports on Human Rights Practices compendium, made Honduras appear to be more like Norway than Argentina. In 1995, The Baltimore Sun - which still seemed free, back then, to publish information that might be censored by its in-house intelligence cell today - outlined the activities of a secret CIA-trained Honduran army unit, Battalion 3-16, which employed "shock and suffocation devices in interrogations" reminiscent of the hooded figure image depicting the US atrocities in Abu Ghraib [Figure 5]. The newspaper's correspondents wrote:

"Prisoners often were kept naked and, when no longer useful, were killed and buried in unmarked graves". In other words, these Abu Ghraib-style atrocities are nothing new at all: they have been standard US practice for decades.

A former official who served under Mr Negroponte in Honduras has said that he was ordered to remove all mention of torture and executions from the draft of his 1982 report on the human rights situation in Honduras, sanitised as usual for consumption in the 'White' world. It was interesting that Senator Christopher Dodd of Connecticut, Stalin's grandson, who opposed John Negroponte when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported his nomination to be US Ambassador to the United Nations in 2001 (the post he occupied before his Iraq posting), suddenly now came out in support of this man - observing for the record that 'whatever differences I've had years ago with John Negroponte, I happen to feel he's a very fine Foreign Service officer and has done a tremendous job in many places'. The hearings on Negroponte's nomination to be US Ambassador to Baghdad were punctuated by protests and statements from knowledgeable outside experts who were in a position to remind the Senate Foreign Relations Committee (consisting extensively of intelligence operatives masquerading as politicians) of Mr Negroponte's extremely murky past[15], including his apparent readiness to condone, facilitate and preside over the recorded practice of dropping those who were to be 'disappeared', from a helicopter into the ocean.

One of the outside witnesses who contributed to the Committee's hearing held on 27th April 2004 to approve the nomination of John Negroponte as Ambassador to Iraq, was a certain Sister Laetitia Bordes, a Catholic nun with the Society of Helpers, a Catholic community for women. Her remarks, relayed from San Bruno, California, are taken verbatim from the transcript of the hearing:

'I had gone to Honduras to meet with then-Ambassador John Negroponte to find out what happened to 32 women from El Salvador, who had taken refuge in Honduras and who had disappeared. At that time, there was the Battalion 3-16 [see page 14]. The Battalion was another name for the horrible death squad that was operating in Honduras at that time. That was well known to Ambassador Negroponte. The reason it was very well known to Ambassador Negroponte was that General Alvarez Martinez was then Chief of the Honduran armed forces, and he was the secret head of Battalion-316. Now, Mr Negroponte and Martinez, the people would tell you, it was known that they would wine and dine together, and had ongoing connections. So, it is absurd to think that Mr Negroponte would say that he did not know what was going on in El Salvador at that time. As I found out 13 years later, the women we were looking for had been badly, badly tortured and then put in a helicopter and dropped into the ocean. They used Salvadoran military and helicopters to take these women and drop them over the ocean. Now, Battalion 3-16 continued to function the whole time that Negroponte was there'.

The ocean over which recalcitrant Iraqi bodies might 'conveniently' be dropped today is located several hours' flying time further away than the vast ocean available to the Honduran death squads. But Sister Laetitia pressed home her point, to the reported annoyance of members of the US Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

'General Alvarez was beheaded by his own military. There was a kind of coup, and he took temporary refuge in the United States. When he went back to Honduras, he was assassinated. It is believed that he was assassinated by members of the military, who were very upset with him because of the deals that he had made with the United States [i.e., with John Negroponte] while he was in charge. What angers me -angers me very, very much - is that there's absolutely no reference being made to the past of Mr Negroponte in Honduras during these hearings. We just don't hear anything about it. We do not learn from our history. The people of Iraq are going to be the ongoing victims of John Negroponte, who believes that the end justifies the means'[16].

Figure 5: This image, based upon the notorious picture of a hooded prisoner being subjected to extreme torture and barbaric maltreatment at Abu Ghraib, which informed the whole world that the 'Illuminised' US authorities are indeed in seemingly in the grip of evil forces, further displayed, in an 'in-your-face' manner, that they shamelessly model their behaviour in accordance with the reprobate methods that the US State Department routinely condemns in its annual compendium 'Country Reports on Human Rights Practices'.

Negroponte was subsequently, of course, selected by President George W. Bush Jr. to serve as the Director of National Intelligence, a new 'supremo' post created under the National Intelligence Reform Act, one-third of which is secret - so that the American population has no knowledge of what nefarious repressive provisions it contains - and which Mr Bush signed into law on 17th December 2004.

THE U.S. GOVERNMENT'S ALIBI: THE END JUSTIFIES THE MEANS

Today, the United States operates internationally on the basis that the end justifies the means, which is the central precept of Illuminised Freemasonry as revealed by John Robison in 1798, promulgated by the 'father' of US Scottish Rite Freemasonry, Albert Pike, and as is routinely displayed by the actions and methodology of such hidden manifestations of Illuminism as Opus Dei [see Chapter 6]. Further authority for the statement that the United States operates internationally on the basis that the end justifies the means has helpfully been provided by a 'Pentagon consultant' who was interviewed, once again, by Seymour Hersh - who, in spite of his intelligence connections, remains one of the most respected and penetrating investigative journalists working today in the United States. In the same New Yorker interview on the aftermath of the Abu Ghraib atrocities, Mr Hersh reported that this 'consultant', who is clearly a military intelligence officer, told him candidly as follows:

"The White House subcontracted this to the Pentagon, and the Pentagon subcontracted it to [Stephen] Cambone.... This is Cambone's deal, but Donald Rumsfeld and [General Richard] Myers approved the program".

Hersh reported the 'Pentagon consultant' as adding that 'when it came to the interrogation operation at Abu Ghraib... Rumsfeld left the details to Mr Cambone' (a military intelligence officer). 'Rumsfeld may not be personally culpable', the consultant added; and then Hersh again cited the source's words verbatim: "But he's responsible for the checks and balances. The issue is that, since 9/11, we've changed the rules on how we deal with terrorism, and created conditions where the end justifies the means"'[17]- in accordance with the fundamental precept of the Illuminati.

This assessment is corroborated by the best analysts. In an assessment of the Yale Skull and Bones Society [see Chapter 2], of which George H. W. Bush is considered the chief Patriarch, and of which his son George W. is an adept, Kris Millegan wrote in 2003 that 'The Order of 322' is 'a multi-generational cult that believes in the power of death to bring about change, a group of Zeitgeist initiates believing that the end justifies the means, and uses massive deaths to feed their necromancy'[18]. That author gave two examples of how death is alleged to be consciously used to achieve 'revolutionary change', although the fomentation of foreign wars should perhaps have been his first choice here: 'As Governor of Texas, George W. Bush "hung" all prisoners sentenced to death that he had the opportunity to kill, except one, Henry Lee Lucas - a confessed serial killer for a shadowy cult. Bonesman and US political power-player Henry L. Stimson took the credit for talking President Truman into dropping the bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki', one of the most Satanic atrocities ever perpetrated. 'These are just two of the Order's death-dealing activities"[19].

Hitler, Stalin, Pol Pot, Ayatollah Khomeini, Saddam Hussein, Slobodan Milosevic (who, like Saddam Hussein, was a 'client' of US intelligence at one stage, until he was double-crossed by the Americans, or else double-crossed them), and every other dictator under the sun, has found it convenient to take short cuts, on the basis that the end justifies the means - thereby in the process decapitating the Rule of Law. Each of these monsters was involved in the occult and in secret societies in one way or another, as is the case today in the case of leaders such as Vladimir Putin, Mahmoud Abbas (a.k.a. the founding Hamas terrorist Abu Mazen) and Colonel Qadhaffi. No matter what form occultic and Luciferian involvement may take, it has one product alone: death, both spiritual and physical. So it is logical that, specialising in death, practitioners should 'believe in the power of death to bring about change'.

Now the United States has joined this parade of hideous tyrants and their tyrannies, in the pitch darkness. What has happened is that, just as US intelligence competes and at the same time collaborates with the covert ongoing Soviets to maximise the financial and revolutionary potential of global drug-trafficking operations (delivering death to cull the population in accordance with the Illuminati's obsessive preference while generating annual proceeds now estimated at several trillions of dollars), and just as it has consorted with organised crime and has become criminalised, so has the Pentagon descended into the darkness, in comprehensive breach of international law, taking the view that it has no choice but to use the same tactics as its assumed enemies - although Al-Qaeda is in fact a bogus, stateless global revolutionary cooperative operation of international intelligence, the purpose of which is to 'leverage' the world through violence towards the New Underworld Order intended by the Illuminati: deploying the power of death to bring about 'change'. Al-Qaeda is their creation.

This evil, occultically-derived, top-level consensus to allow the end to justify the means has had disastrous consequences, with the United States having forfeited all respect and moral authority internationally - and now universally considered, even among large numbers of thinking Americans, to be the most dangerous country in the world. That this reputation is self-inflicted is a consequence of the supremacy of its criminalised intelligence community and of that community's self-acknowledged occult, Luciferian 'heart of darkness' in the service of the Illuminati.

OPPRESSION ARISING FROM CONSORTING WITH FORCES OF EVIL

President Bush II, like President Clinton before him, is in the habit of indulging in the Pharisaical habit of advertising his 'spiritual relationship' with the Lord. Prior to the Presidential Election in 2000, G. W. Bush's wife, Laura, asked about her husband's religious stance, said that in 1988, a friend had given him a 'daily Bible' (enabling the user to read the entire Bible every year, in 365 segments, a Scripture reading method used for many years by this Author). Bill Clinton used to make a point of attending church with a Bible held in a camera-friendly position in his right hand, so that the words Holy Bible could clearly be seen. A psychiatrist has suggested that, for Mr Bush, his person, that of God and America, are all but one and the same. Specifically, Dr. Justin Frank, a prominent Washington psychiatrist and author of a book called Bush on the Couch: Inside the Mind of the President, was reported by Capitol Hill sources on 29th July 2004 as explaining that President Bush suffered from what he called 'character pathology', including 'grandiosity' and 'megalomania' - 'viewing himself, America and God as interchangeable'. The Capitol Hill source reported that the President was withdrawing more and more from aides and staff, retreating into a private, paranoid world in which only ardent loyalists were then welcome. [For this Author's essay, on President Bush's psychology based on Dr Frank's book, see Addendum 4, page 681].

A political adviser told the same source that 'yes, there are growing concerns.

The George W. Bush we see today' (towards the end of his First Term) 'is not the same, gregarious, back-slapping President of old. He's moody, distrustful, and withdrawn' - hallmarks of those who consort with Lucifer. He was prescribed powerful antidepressant drugs after he stormed off stage rather than answer questions about his former relationship with indicted (intelligence corporation) Enron executive Kenneth J. Lay. White House insiders were reported to have told the Legislative Branch source that the strong prescription medications appeared to have increased Mr Bush's sullen behaviour towards those around him.

A staffer working for the House of Representatives' Speaker, Dennis Hastert, said: 'This is a President known for his ability to charm people one-on-one. Not any more'. In late July 2004, one of the few First Term close associates with continued access to the President was said to be the (former) Attorney General, John Ashcroft. Disloyal White House aides were alleged to have told the source that the two men 'believe they are on a mission from God'. However Figure 4 shows that President G.W Bush's allegiance is in fact to Lucifer. Members of the President's family repeated this Satanic gesture many times during the nine Inauguration balls held on 20th January.

The illustrations in Addendum 9 on page 732 show that making Satanic signs is now all the rage in this 'New Age of Aquarius'. Space precludes showing all the available pictures of prominent people like members of President Bush's family signalling their allegiance to Satan, but those who have been photographed perpetrating this particular abomination include King Abdullah of Jordan, ex-Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi of Italy, Prince Charles, the British Prime Minister Tony Blair, Tom Ridge, the former US Vice-President Dan Quayle, Elizabeth Taylor, General Tommy Franks, Senator John Edwards, Michael Jackson and the late self-styled high priest of Satan, Anton Szander LaVey. The identical salute appears in the Satanic Bible labelled Mano Cornuto, which signals allegiance between Satanism participants and their horned god. The former American witch, saved by the Grace of God, the Rev. David J Meyer, of Beaver Dam, WI, pointed out in March 2005 that the appalling Reuters News Service photograph of Mrs Laura Bush displaying this Satanic salute with her right hand during the 2005 Inauguration ceremonies, also included the President standing next to her giving the same signal with his left hand in a pointing position - a sign that means 'cursed be' in the occult. So, no doubt remains that those in charge of our affairs in the United States, Britain and Italy were/are covert followers of Satan who are no longer even ashamed to disguise this fact, even though both the British Prime Minister and the US President continue simultaneously to attend church services from time to time. The Devil is the author of confusion, and, like Mr Bush, he's been having a ball[20].

An environment in which such forces are at work is bound to be characterised by recriminations, sourness and confusion, since, as the author of confusion, the Devil delights in the creation of conditions for the maximisation of lies and chaos. Glimpses of such a torpid atmosphere at the very highest levels of the US Government were evident during the run-up to the Presidential Election in 2004. Tom Ridge, then Homeland Security Secretary, was reported be spending hardly any time at all with the President, and was said to be receiving 'most of his marching orders' from John Ashcroft, who was then in charge of the US Department of 'Justice'. 'Some people on Ridge's staff gripe privately that Ashcroft is 'Bush's Himmler'', referring to Hitler's SS Chief. And one senior US Homeland Security aide went much further: 'Too many', he said, 'make the mistake of thinking that Dick Cheney is the real power in the Bush Administration. They're wrong. It's Ashcroft, and that is reason enough for all of us to be very, very afraid'. In the same report it was just as inaccurately elaborated that the US Secretary of Defense, Donald Rumsfeld, had fallen out of favour and had informed his own staff that 'no matter what happens in November, I'm outta here'. It was thought that perhaps his practice of standing for ten hours a day at his stand-up desk, had finally left him exhausted, as well as disillusioned[20]. As it turned out, both assessments were (typically) based upon deliberately diversionary disinformation and lies, perhaps to shift attention away from the intended retention of power by the two most prominent and ruthless figures in the Administration, and for the immediate future: Messrs Rumsfeld and Cheney.

In June 2005, President Bush Jr. was reported to have intended to close down the 'Gulag'-type camp at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, presumably because of impending legal cases that were likely to cause the Administration embarrassment, only to have been informed by Mr Cheney that this remained out of the question - revealing, of course, that the top intelligence officer serving as Vice President tells the President of the United States what to do. John Ashcroft left the Administration, Mr Cheney stayed as Vice President, and Donald Rumsfeld, fresh from having established his super-secret Strategic Support Group (SSG), an internal Defense Department intelligence service, remained en poste, to finalise any further aggressive moves that may then have been at the planning stage. And all reports about the President's questionable mental and medical condition vanished during and after the campaign.

While these First Term insights will long since have been forgotten, the significance, for our purposes, of these reports about the atmosphere within the innermost presidential circle in the late summer of 2004, should not be overlooked. The direct and sure consequences of intermeddling with demons and with the Works of Darkness are demonic infestation and oppression - viewed doubtless by agnostic

HE'S BACK..!
HERE'S TONY-Y-Y-Y!
10

Figure 6: This cartoon appeared in The Times, of London, on 1st September 2004, to coincide with the return to London of the Prime Minister, Tony Blair, from his summer holidays. In June 2005, America was up in arms about the so-called 'Downing Street Memo', and the shifty evidence it contained that the US and British Governments lied about their 'justification' for the attack on Iraq. Neither could admit the truth, namely that two Russian ships, sailing from Umm Qasr well before the war, removed all evidence of Iraqi weapons of mass destruction, in accordance with a standard procedure applicable in all states within the Soviet (Russian) sphere of influence. The cartoon reveals what the British media really thought about the Prime Minister - reflecting observations of certain politicians who had watched him closely, that at times he seemed 'possessed'.

Jewish professionals like Dr Frank as psychological disorders, but by those who understand that infestation or possession by the powers of darkness is indeed a grave and certain consequence of such activity, as a spiritual condition.

President George W. Bush's Satanic gestures during the evening Inauguration festivities were entirely consistent with the generally occult nature of those events. The very word Inauguration comes from augur, meaning one who is invested with occult omens. The event took place on 20th January, a significant witchcraft date. The cited former US astrologer and witch who is well equipped to provide accurate interpretations of contemporary manifestations of Luciferianism and Satanism among our leaders and false role models, reports that 'as a former astrologer saved by the Grace of God, I can tell you that astrology is the time-clock of the Illuminati' (explaining President Reagan's obsession with it, influenced in part by his wife Nancy) 'and it is impossible to practise witchcraft without if.

'On the 20th day of each month, the sun crosses from one sign to the next as it travels through the so-called 'houses of the heavens'. The 12 astrological signs make up the wheel of the year, or, as witches call it, 'the wheel of fortune'. The passages of the sun from one occult astrological sign to the next are called transitions, and the most important of the 12 transitions is 20th January - because the sun travels from Capricorn, the occult sign of the goat, into Aquarius, the 11th sign and the haven of the new age of Antichrist'.

In anticipation of this event, the former witch who recorded all this wrote:

'Yes, it happens on Inauguration Day! This is the day when the President, with some religious leader standing next to him, will be invested with the spirits of Aquarius while he stands at the West Front of the US Capitol, and faces the ancient Egyptian obelisk, known as the (phallic) Washington Monument. This is an occult ceremony of the first magnitude'[21].

PRESIDENT REAGAN'S EXECUTIVE ORDER 12333

Invoking the National Security Act of 1947, as amended, President Ronald Reagan promulgated Executive Order 12333 on 4th December 1981 entitled 'United States Intelligence Activities'. This Executive Order authorised the establishment by US intelligence operatives and cadres of corporations owned by the US Government for intelligence purposes, and prescribed that their intelligence community connections may be denied.

The relevant text (language) reads as follows:

2.7. Contracting: Agencies within the Intelligence Community are authorized to enter into contracts or arrangements for the provision of goods or services with private companies or institutions in the United States and need not reveal the sponsorship of such contracts or arrangements for authorized intelligence purposes'.

This provision covers the establishment of onshore or offshore corporations by American intelligence operatives from any of the 18+ agencies 'controlled' by the Central Intelligence Agency and also such US intelligence organisations as are not supervised by the CIA, which is subordinate to the National Security Agency (NSA) in practice, and now to the new Director of National Intelligence (Mr John Negroponte as at mid-2006). The corporations established under Executive Order 12333 and any relevant subsequent presidential order and legislation, are referred to as as Title 18, Section 6 corporations. There are several thousand of these, many of which have bank accounts containing substantial accruals belonging to the US Government. In part because of serious rivalry between different warring groups within the enormous US intelligence community, the colossal offshore fund accruals belonging to the US Government were waiting in mid-2006 for the legal environment to be adjusted to facilitate their repatriation to the US Treasury, and for funds stolen by various parties to be traced. ■

In a subsequent report, the Rev. Meyer, the former witch, elaborated as follows: 'In the occult practice of astrology, Aquarius is the 11th sign of the zodiac and the sign of the new age of Lucifer. We also know that in the occult, the number 5 is the number of death. This 2005 Inauguration is the 55th inauguration, and the President will take his omens, which is what 'inaugurate' means, while facing the Washington Monument, which is 555 feet high. The dais, which is the raised platform from which the President will be speaking is surrounded by semi-circular seating which is designed to look like a mystical Egyptian phoenix with raised wings. The phoenix bird is the symbol of the New Age and the New World Order.... The Inauguration speech [was] given at precisely 12.00 noon. According to witchcraft and astrology, this is the very moment when the sun transits into the 11th sign of Aquarius.... The President's speech [was about] peace and freedom for the entire world, with the inference that he is the man who will bring it to pass. The occult timing and surrounding circumstances of this entire inaugural event are amazing. In the midst of a war and with a heavy military presence in Washington, DC, the President wants to be known as a man of peace. Countless thousands have been killed and are being killed with this so-called 'peace'. Thus, this man of false peace will begin speaking at the moment Aquarius rises, and Aquarius is the water sign of peace in witchcraft' .

If President G.W. Bush had really been familiar with Scripture, by reading every day, as his wife told a TV audience he had been doing since 1988, he would be aware of the two warnings in Jeremiah against those who say 'Peace, peace, when there is no peace'[23]. He would also have been familiar with these verses of Isaiah:

'Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!'

'Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!'[24] There is a parallel manifestation of this degree of darkness at the highest levels of the British Government, which is co-responsible for the aggressive global destabilisa-tion that has flowed from the disastrous Iraq adventure. A Member of Parliament known to the Author was among several MPs who noticed, during his years as a backbencher during Blair's first term, that in certain circumstances, the face of British Prime Minister, Tony Blair, appeared demonic[25]; on a separate occasion, a source reported that he had noticed that on occasion, Blair's eyes are pitch black; and a cartoon published in The Times in early September 2004 [Figure 6], reconfirmed that media observers have also noticed this. It is alleged that the Blairs were present at some sort of pagan rite during a visit to Mexico. This lends special significance to a 2004 report in The Mail on Sunday (London), to the effect that Tony Blair had instructed civil servants that witches, Druids and pagan worshippers were to be given a say in official policy. David Blunkett, the former Home Secretary, was reported to have established a Whitehall bureau at a cost of about £1.0 million of British taxpayers' money, which had met representatives from such groups. The unit takes the view that 'accurate information' about paganism must be made universally available, especially to children[26]. The Blair-appointed Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr Rowan Williams, is known as the Archdruid of Canterbury, given that his first public act prior to his consecration was to undergo a widely publicised induction into a high Druidic Degree, at a pagan ceremony in Wales - thereby of course sowing confusion and chaos in the minds of susceptible people as to what the Church of England worships. In February 2005, the reprobate British Fabian Government, aware that the exploitation of sexuality is an efficient paganising conduit, presided over a Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Month, in the course of which secondary schoolchildren in England were 'taught' about historical figures and their deviant sexuality. Naturally, the organisers of this abomination claimed hypocritically that it was aimed at combating homophobic bullying in UK schools[27]. On 24th October 2004, a BBC news programme reported that the Captain of HMS Cumberland, located at Devonport Naval Base in Plymouth, had allowed a naval technician, Chris Cranmer, to register as a Satanist[28].

Figure 7: A decidedly powerful (but partially obscured) geomasonic handshake between the former Israeli Prime Minister, Ariel Sharon, left, and the Palestinian Authority President Mahmoud Abbas - the 'former' Hamas terrorist Abu Mazen - at Sharm el-Sheikh, Egypt, on 8th February 2005. This image of the two 'former' terrorists using such a signal illustrates the dialectical method in operation: both operatives are 'Illuminised'.

This fellow purported to be a follower of the Church of Satan, founded in San Francisco in 1996, by its high priest, the late Anton LaVey. Indicating where the British military Establishment now stands with regard to demonic activity, a 'politically cor-rect', pontificating spokesman for the Royal Navy observed snootily: 'We are an equal opportunities employer and we don't stop anybody from having their own religious values'. On the same level of crass official ignorance and arrogance was a report in June 2006 that UK Home Office staff are being allowed to take lessons in witchcraft.

It has almost always been the case that Governments are in the hands of Satan -even though, given our free will and the availability of the spiritual Free Gift of Grace to those who take the first genuine step towards repentance, as outlined above, this is not in fact inevitable. The English King Henry VI, founder of Eton College and King's College Cambridge, both glorious religious establishments, was clearly not in the hands of Satan, as any sensitive Old Etonian familiar with English history and with the perfection of Eton College Chapel and its worship, understands. It appears that, very occasionally and exceptionally, power may devolve into hands that are not drenched in blood or otherwise sullied by abominable past behaviour.

Nevertheless, the reality that governance is typically to be found in the hands of Lucifer and his Workers of Darkness was confirmed during and by the Temptation of Christ, from which we learn that Satan has power over ALL Governments:

'Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them;

'And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me'.

'Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve'.

'Then the devil leaveth him, and, behold, angels came and ministered unto him'[29]. Note, first, that ALL the kingdoms of the world were (are) in the hands of Satan. And note, secondly, that when Jesus told Satan to leave him, Satan did precisely that - the point being that if we order him out, he departs: a remarkable fact that can yet give hope to those in thrall to Satan, including many of those so identified in this book.

In one of his great speeches, recounted in The Acts of the Apostles, Paul reiterates how Jesus Christ had intervened in his life on the road to Damascus saying, amid the glory of His bright light, in the Hebrew tongue, 'Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?[30]- and had commissioned him, after his conversion:

'To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me'[31].

For as long as the United States and Britain are led by men who falsely represent that they profess the Christian faith, but in reality walk in pitch darkness, and inflict death and destruction 'without flinching', because of their twisted belief in the power of death to bring about 'change', these two formerly civilised but now deeply decadent countries' barbaric contribution to the deterioration of international conditions will continue to escalate. It was particularly telling that both President Bush and Tony Blair have repeatedly professed to be Christians. They were and are greatly deluded, and in deluding themselves, they lie to the whole world. If they or their successors continue to prepare and perform Works of Darkness on the scale so far exhibited, the consequences for humanity will indeed ultimately be catastrophic.

Apart from the genuine Saul-like repentance and transformation of our leaders' personal lives that is urgently necessary, a first practical step towards the restoration of stability and avoidance of catastrophe would be for certain over-powerful, arrogant and wayward intelligence services to be ordered back into their ghettos, for their ranks to be decimated of free-wheeling planners and workers of darkness, for their criminal intelligence operations to be deprived of legal protection, and for a definitive code of conduct to be imposed by statute upon the entire intelligence community, breaches of which will be met with the full force of the law. In the United States, this would mean repealing the National Security Act et seq., which legislation collectively established a criminals' charter, and for Executive Order 12333 [see the vox on page 20] to be repealed, as well. The protection afforded by legislation and Presidential decree for US intelligence operatives to commit crimes with impunity -the only rule being not to get caught - needs to be cancelled. As matters stand, US intelligence relies ferociously upon the law whenever a cover-up is required - while at the same time serially breaking both domestic and international law with impunity.

A second useful step would be for US policymakers to take a profound policy decision to STOP fretting about the assumed energy shortage in years to come. It is likely that if the United States had not invaded Iraq, the Iraqi regime would have proceeded with the multiple energy contracts that it was in the process of negotiating and concluding with the oil companies of over 30 nations[32,33]; and the oil which, as a consequence of the invasion, did not come on stream, would have been forthcoming earlier. If the United States had been genuinely interested, as its propaganda professed, in securing a stable supply of oil for the whole world, rather than in reality conveying the impression of greedily seeking the control of all Iraqi oil for itself, oil prices would arguably not have risen so steeply from mid-2004, and the so-called 'peak oil' crisis about which so much has been written, would not have been accentuated.

The third necessary reform, indeed a prerequisite for the decriminalisation of the US intelligence sector, albeit a symbolic one, would be for the CIA to remove its lying Langley slogan, since it obviously cannot face completing the quotation.

Unfortunately, information such as that which is to follow will be liable to preclude any clean-up of the criminalised US intelligence services' general modus operandi, since those driving strategy consider that they are engaged, on behalf of the American people, in a life-or-death struggle for the survival of the United States and its economy, given the nation's long-term energy requirements. At least, this is how those concerned may rationalise their actions and ruthless behaviour. Beyond these self-evident considerations lurks the even more sinister reality that the United States is in the hands of Illuminists (who are Luciferians), whose own very long-established modus operandi is based on the principle of synarchy - or government by secret societies, as will be explained in Chapter 2 et sea. The complication which arises as a consequence of this subversive state of affairs can be simply explained as follows: when the American people go to the polls, they innocently believe (leaving aside their knowledge of political corruption and pork-barrel DC politics) that they are electing a President, a Vice-President, Congressmen and Senators whose exclusive remit will be to serve the interests of the US electorate - whereas, given the synarchy dimension, the reality is that they wind up electing powerful and blackmailable members of the synarchy cliques, most of whom are intelligence officers, and all of whom work together at a certain level (while simultaneously competing with each other on a lower plane). In other words, the American people are living in a dreamworld.

A revolution, or rather what can more accurately be termed a 'coup d'etat by instalments', has taken place recently within the old republican structures established by the Masonic American Revolution itself. As the Danish philosopher Kirkegaard pointed out, the most successful revolutions are those which take place within the framework of the ancien regime. That is what has taken place in the United States. Although a sizeable minority of its highly intelligent people, thought to amount to a constituency of some five million, recognises that the nation faces the worst crisis of its existence, the majority of the population have no grasp of the reality that the Rule of Law has collapsed - given that powerful figures who have stolen billions of dollars and have murdered hundreds of Americans, go unpunished, and that the American version of democracy is now reduced to a decadent means of changing personnel alone, with real power resting in the hands of the corrupt synarchists, whose identity will in part be reviewed in this book.

Concerning the collapse of the Rule of Law, the United States, having inherited English Common Law, retains ancient legal principles called Misprision of Treason and Misprision of Felony. What these mean is that anyone subject to US jurisdiction who is aware that treason and felonies (like stealing billions of dollars, or more) have been committed, is committing a crime by failing to pass such information to the authorities. But if the authorities themselves are complicit, the Rule of Law has collapsed.

U.S. ECONOMIC POWER DEPENDENT UPON DOLLAR SUPREMACY

It is of course well understood that US global power, analysed conventionally without taking into account the secret hidden strength of the vast European money power, depends upon two key props: overwhelming military power, and the continued unchallenged supremacy of the US dollar. After the calmer years that followed the Second World War and the Bretton Woods settlement, under which the US dollar was convertible into gold, and the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank were established - and which marked the restart of the global collective governance process - the postwar economic and financial settlement began to break down as the European economies recovered, becoming strong exporters by the late 1960s[34].

As the growing economic strength of Europe coincided with President Johnson's escalation of the Vietnam War - demanded by the US military-industrial complex and the CIA following Johnson's installation after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy (believed to have been engineered by Abwehr /DVD operatives in the US intelligence community itself) - the United States incurred soaring public sector deficits.

While this process helped the establishment of the Eurodollar market, throughout the 1960s, President de Gaulle demanded to be paid for French exports to the United States in gold, rather than in the Federal Reserve's paper currency. By novem-ber 1967, the drain of gold from official US and Bank of England vaults had reached critical proportions.

After Britain had to devalue the pound, during its 'sick man of Europe' phase, the French and other central banks stepped up their demand for gold in exchange for their dollar reserves. Their accurate calculation was that, given the squandering of vast financial resources in Vietnam - a syndrome which the Bush Administration is now repeating, with consequences which will certainly be as dramatic in due course - it would only be a matter of months before the United States, like Britain earlier, would itself be compelled to devalue its dollar against gold; so they all resolved to demand payment in gold at the prevailing higher fixed price.

By May 1971, the drain of US official gold had become so alarming that even the Bank of England now sided with the Banque de France in demanding US gold for its holdings of dollars. That was the advanced stage at which, rather than risk the disappearance of the United States' entire stock of official gold, the Nixon Administration decided to abandon the link with gold entirely, moving to a unilaterally declared system of floating currencies in August 1971. This rash decision provided relief over the short and medium term, but has predictably resulted in the accumulation of intractable longer-term financial problems caused by fiat money creation and manipulation, with a derivatives overhang by 2006 of $770 trillion.

In practice the consequence of this 'Break with the Past' was that control over monetary policy was further privatised, with the large international banks assuming the role that the central banks had exercised under the gold standard, but entirely without gold. It was presupposed that the constant interaction of market forces alone would stabilise the foreign exchange markets and would ensure that a runaway fiat money system did not develop hyperinflationary characteristics. Market forces duly rose to the new challenge. The free floating of the US dollar, which compelled all the leading currencies to float against it - together with the escalation of OPEC oil prices in 1973 by 400% after the Yom Kippur War - triggered the petrodollar recycling phase of the slow-burning crisis, and of the United States' precarious global hegemony.

The first oil shock suddenly created a colossal demand for the floating dollar. All oil importing countries faced the problem of how to export in dollars in order to pay their expensive new energy import bills. At a secret meeting organised by the globalist (Illuminati-sponsored) Bilderberg organisation held during May 1971 in Saltsjoebaden, Norway the petrodollar recycling strategy that was duly adopted in 1973, was prelanned and finalised - which clearly implies that the oil 'shock' was contrived to leverage and exploit the severance of the US dollar from gold (as this Author and certain others thought was the case at the time). The primary operative behind this strategy was the Illuminist renegade Jew of German extraction and alleged triple agent, with his heavy German accent, Dr Henry Kissinger (allegedly expelled from his US Jewish congregation), who invented the phrase 'recycling of petrodollars'.

With OPEC suddenly choking on dollars that it could not use, US and British banks moved on cue to absorb the dollars and to onlend them as Eurodollar bonds or loans, especially to the Third World countries desperate to borrow US dollars to finance their oil imports. The Author's own journal International Currency Review followed the progress of these phases of the crisis in successive issues, accurately predicting that the whole process would implode, as indeed happened in the early 1980s. Colossal volumes (by the standards of those days) of US dollars were recycled between OPEC, the London and New York banks, and then back to Third World countries. The international financial community and its transnational institutions have been unwinding or adding to this sovereign debt glut ever since.

The Third World debt crisis was finally triggered after Mr Paul Volcker's US Federal Reserve Board had unilaterally escalated US interest rates to record levels, in order to 'save' the dollar. After three years of these stupendous interest rates, the US dollar was 'saved', but the entire developing sector of the world economy found itself burdened by usurious US interest rates charged on their vast petrodollar loans

Note: Observe that the serial number below - C321321321C - sums to 666 and that the serial number at the top right - C123123123C - sums likewise to 666. This is the number of the Vatican.

1,000,000,000
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
C123123123C
C321321321C
ONE BILLION
ONE
1,000,000,000
1,000,000,000
1,000,000,000

Figure 8: This image, and Figure 9, show the front and reverse of a US Treasury Diamond Certificate, with face value of $1.0 billion. The reason for its tattered appearance is that it was evidently held in the billfold of a prominent solicitor located in Singapore, who allegedly attempted to trade it at a discount with other corrupt parties. The details underlying this relevant scandal are omitted here because the point of showing this Diamond Certificate is to illustrate how US oil imports are financed. Notice anything odd about the serial numbers - C321321321C and C123123123C? Each sums to the Illuminati's Kabbalistic Number 666.

(Babylonian-style 'loan capitalism'). To enforce debt repayment both to buttress the dollar system and so as to prevent the nations of the 'south' from acquiring any degree of economic independence, the London and New York banks called in the services of their creature, the International Monetary Fund, to act as their 'debt policeman'. Public expenditure for health, education and welfare was slashed on the IMF's instructions, in order to ensure that the loan capitalist banks could rely on receiving timely repayments on the loaned petrodollars. They had found that lending to countries was easy, since the Third World debt managers did not treat the debt they incurred professionally - given that it was sovereign debt, not their own.

In 1973, David Rockefeller (a senior Illuminist) and other operatives relaunched the Trilateral Commission, an old Abwehr front, in order to take special account of the emergence of Germany's ally, Japan, as a major industrialised nation, and a massive importer of oil. One idea was to ensure that Japanese trade surpluses from exports would be deployed to buy oil in dollars (not in pounds sterling French francs or Japanese yen). The remaining Japanese surpluses were held in US Treasury bonds, to earn interest. The Group of Seven (G-7) was further established to hold Japan and Western Europe inside the dollar system. From time to time in the 1980s, International Currency Review and various prominent voices in Japan called for three reserve currencies (the US dollar, the Japanese yen and the deutschemark) to share the global reserve function. But thanks to US pressure exerted inter alia by the mechanisms described above, this never happened: the dollar remained dominant, and the crisis was contained - for the time being.

In the mid-1970s, International Currency Review exposed the existence of what the Author called the secret Saudi-American Agreement, established in June 1974 by the US Treasury Secretary of the day, William Simon, and Dr Kissinger. It was to be held in place through the establishment of the US-Saudi Arabian Joint Commission on Economic Cooperation, the full statute of which was published in the Author's journal.

1,000,000,000
1,000,000,000
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
ONE BILLION DOLLARS
1,000,000,000
1,000,000,000

Figure 9: Say that the US Bureau of Engraving and Printing reproduces 64 of these Diamond Certificates up on one sheet. Each sheet is 'worth' $64 billion. However the actual cost of producing each sheet is, shall we say, $1,000 (being very generous, and adding-in all of the Bureau's costs and overheads). Each sheet therefore costs the United States $1,000. But when placed at the disposal of oil producers, the total purchasing value of the sheet is $64 billion. This trick only 'works' if petroleum is universally invoiced in US dollars.

This exclusively revealed that the spedal arrangement entailed Saudi Arabia, the largest oil producer, selling its oil exclusively for dollars, and that the US Treasury and the New York Federal Reserve Bank (as the Treasury's agent) would facilitate the purchase of US Treasury bonds with Saudi petrodollars. Specifically, the New York Fed would telephone the Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency (SAMA) to advise of an upcoming marketing exercise for US Treasury securities, indicating what volume of securities (say, $3.0 billion) would be announced to the market, and asking whether SAMA wished to purchase any 'add-on' US securities. These would be sold 'privately' ('off the books') for Saudi petrodollars, but were not irredeemables: the Saudis could, if they so wished (which did not at first happen) dispose of such securities in the New York financial marketplace. This arrangement followed an early attempt by the US authorities to persuade the Saudis to buy irredeemables. After about $640 million of such US Treasury paper had been acquired, SAMA's advisers, White Weld, suggested to the Riyadh authorities that it would not be a good idea to buy any more.

IRAQ INVOICES FOR ITS OIL IN EUROS AND IS DECAPITATED

The convention (enforced inter alia by the above mechanisms) that oil is sold and paid for globally in dollars, demands the buildup of colossal trade surpluses in order to accumulate dollar surpluses to finance oil bills. It is still the case that 70% of world trade is transacted dollars. These days, with its huge deficits, the United States must import at least $1.5 billion daily in order to avoid a dollar collapse and to keep its interest rates low enough to support the debt-burdened corporate economy. The net debts of the corporate and official sectors have been deteriorating at an horrific pace. But on 1st November 2000, Radio Liberty/RFE broadcast a report headlined 'IRAQ: BAGHDAD MOVES TO EURO'. The wire was picked up for barely 48 hours by CNN and other media, but then abruptly dropped. The Iranian authorities had also been openly debating in early 2000 the merits of switching their oil exports to the Euro.

Following the bursting of the dot.com bubble, the unravelling of that intelligence community scam called Enron, and the Worldcom finance scandal, all associated with recessionary trends as well as with rapacious intelligence scamming operations, the dollar began to lose its attraction for foreign investors. With France and Germany preparing to block war in the UN Security Council, rumours surfaced that the central banks of Russia and China had quietly started dumping US dollars and purchasing Euros. Whenever he needs to exert latent pressure on the United States, GRU-President Putin starts talking about making greater use of the Euro. For 'weapons of mass destruction' in the 2003 Iraq War context, read the threat that others would follow Iraq and shift into Euros, destroying overnight the United States' currency, economy and global economic hegemony.

As one US economist put it, the ending of the dollar's reserve role would be a 'catastrophe' for the United States. Interest rates would have to be raised higher than Paul Volcker's 17% level in 1979 - a dollar crisis which resulted directly from steps by France, Germany and Saudi Arabia to start selling US Treasury bonds.

The decapitation of Iraq therefore represented a crude reversion by the United States to the use of its military power to maintain the hegemony of the dollar system. But as this brief summary indicates, the underlying dollar strategy is extremely fragile. The crude intent behind the use of military power is to acquire direct control over oil resources, so that the issue of oil denomination in another currency cannot realistically arise in the future. The attack on and occupation of Iraq served as a crude warning to any other states, such as Iran, which were considering switching to the use of the Euro for their energy export business. While the lesson will certainly have been learned regionally, there also remains the obvious danger that China and other countries could unilaterally decide to pay for their imported oil in their own currencies, rather than in dollars. If oil exporters were again to start invoicing in a currency other than the dollar, and oil importers started to remit payment in their own currencies, America would soon learn that while it is the largest economy and military power in the world, it is not bigger than the Rest of the World.

Under President G. W. Bush Jr., America's attempts to procure de facto control over foreign oil resources have been frustrated everywhere: in Russia, in Venezuela and, so far, in Iraq, where the oil sector has remained under the threat and reality of sabotage. For this reason, the Author anticipated, in a report published in February 2005, that, irrespective of the consequences, the Bush II Administration would be tempted to mount further military operations. That may have been one reason why his ally, Tony Blair, called a UK General Election one full year earlier than was constitutionally necessary - in case he became embroiled in 'another Iraq'.

Sophisticates and cynical intelligence officers will tell you that the way they do things is 'the way of the world', and that to urge improvements in behaviour, as the Author does in this work, and has done in several conversations with senior US intelligence officers, is pointless, meaningless, and naive. For, apart from anything else, 'the way of the world' dictates that in order to avoid economic meltdown, the United States must maintain the hegemony of the US dollar at all costs.

Figures 8 and 9 on pages 26 and 27 show a US Treasury Diamond Certificate worth $1.0 billion. The Diamond Certificate is displayed here in order to illustrate at this juncture the essence of the crisis which the US strategists consider that America faces, although one needs to bear in mind all the time that, as indicated above, the US national interest is always subordinated by the synarchists to their own plans for global hegemony and the close control of the world's assets in the interests of 'the Brotherhood of Man' - which represents not what it appears to imply, but rather the self-interested Brotherhood of the Geomasonic Illuminists themselves.

The cost to the US Bureau of Engraving and Printing of one sheet containing, say, 64 Diamond Certificates worth $1.0 billion each, is of the order of, say, $1,000 - being generous, if one takes into account the Bureau's labour costs and overheads, the cost of engraving, special paper and inks, machine running time, the guillotining and finishing processes, and all the other costs which the Author, as a Master Printer himself, necessarily knows about. Thus for a total cost not exceeding, say, $1,000, and probably much less, the US Government has created $64 billion of 'value'.

Therefore, for each printed Certificate, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is 'creating' wealth worth $999,999,000 out of thin air. These US Diamond Certificates are delivered into the hands of, or for the account of, oil producers, in exchange for the oil imported from them by the United States. So if the United States owes the Saudi Arabian Government $10 billion in settlement of outstanding oil invoices, it can settle these oil bills inter alia by making ten $1.0 billion Diamond Certificates available for account of the Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency (SAMA). Once in SAMA's hands, the Diamond Certificates acquire 'actual' value (i.e., real buying power), both within the 'closed' intergovernmental financial system, and ultimately in the 'open' sector. For this trick to remain valid, the US dollar must remain the currency in which all oil invoices and payments are denominated. For if powerful countries were to abandon this oil-dollar standard, and to begin paying for their imported oil in their own or in other national currencies, such as the Euro, the pound sterling or the Japanese yen, the ability of the United States to pay for its imported energy requirements by printing such pieces of paper, would be challenged, seriously jeopardised, or terminated.

This is because if, all of a sudden, the Saudis were to demand payment in Euros (which would not occur under prevailing conditions, given the ongoing Saudi-American relationship), the United States would need, all of a sudden, to obtain the necessary Euros on the foreign exchanges, which might necessitate transferring real wealth (dollars) in exchange for the Euros, rather than handing over Diamond Certificates specially printed for the purpose. The oil-dollar system might continue to function fitfully; but the threat of it collapsing is a national security issue of such gravity that the United States is prepared to go so far as to attack and invade any oil-producer which might be brazen enough to demand payment for its exported oil in any currency other than the dollar. Of course, this is far from a complete or even an adequate explanation of the phenomenon of the oil-dollar standard. But at least it explains why the intelligence services attach the highest priority to serving the interests of the US oil corporations, and are mandated to place their interests first.

It should also be noted, in the light of what follows, that the serial numbers that are shown on the Diamond Certificate illustrated on pages 26 and 27 devolve to 666 (123+123+123 = 666), which is of course a primary occultic Kabbalistic number, as indicated in the Book of Revelation. Therefore, this specific Illuminati code is displayed by the US Government to its foreign counterpart, which, being likewise Illuminised, recognises the code and its significance.

Enough has been reviewed here to make it clear that the slogan at Langley is indeed as deceitful and misleading as was explained at the outset. The intelligence community deals not in the truth, but in lies and deception. Its rationale has been the same down the centuries: national security. But control by criminalised, Illuminised intelligence is incompatible with good governance, however pressing the pretext. ■

Chapter 1: THE LANGLEY LIE: Notes and references:

1. Biblical quotations throughout are taken from the King James Authorised Version of the Holy Bible.
2. The notion that we choose Christ, which is dispensed by false prophets, is erroneous. We cannot 'decide for Christ' without the desire to know the truth being 'given us of the Father'. He calls us, not the other way round: and He does this as soon as we make the first move of our own free will, which we have to exercise first (because He gave us free will). In John, Chapter 15, Jesus tells his disciples plainly: 'Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever you shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it to you'. If we are 'in the Word' - that is, reading Scripture (which is essential), however imperfectly - and are trying (however inadequately) to follow his Way and Truth to Life, it is a fact that 'whatsoever we ask of the Father' in Jesus' name, He gives it to us. Obviously it is no use asking for a new Mercedes: we have to ask for what is in accordance with His will. 'If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you' [John, Chapter 15, verse 7]. 'Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened' [Matthew, Chapter 7, verses 7-8]. An American friend and the Author prayed jointly for a young woman (unknown to the Author), who was so ill that her family had been called to her hospital bedside. She began her complete recovery at the very moment of our prayer. The explanation was that what was asked for was 'in His Name' and in accordance with His Will. It is a waste of time asking the Father for whatever is not in accordance with his Will, which, through Grace - a freely given gift of the Lord that follows our submission with a contrite, humble and tender heart - is made known to us.
3. See: Red Cocaine: The Drugging of America and the West by Dr Joseph D Douglass Jr., Edward Harle Limited, London and New York, 1999. Available from the Author's offices. See: www.edwardharle.com.
4. 'Convergence' is a Soviet concept, developed by the Soviet strategists within one or more of the specialist Leninist Institutes of the Soviet Academy of (Leninist) Sciences. The Soviet revolutionary meaning of 'convergence' is: 'convergence on our terms', meaning that the West is required to 'converge' substantively with the covert Soviet Union, whereas any 'convergence' of the covert Soviet Union is to be cosmetic only. Hence, as anyone who is not sitting on their brains can see for themselves, Russian 'privatisation' devolved the assets of the Party-State into the hands of selected GRU and KGB operatives, from whose hands the assets are being extracted piecemeal under the Presidency of the senior Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) officer, Vladimir Putin. Under the present phase of the Soviet long-range strategy, the USSR is essentially 'marking time' while the West's politico-social system (in both Europe and the United States) evolves into a de facto communised, collectivised clone of the 'former' Soviet system.

5. The Soviet Union is always qualified in this and all related works by the adjective 'former' in parentheses. The Author is Editor and publisher of Soviet Analyst, which monitors the continued existence of the Soviet Union in practice. For further details, see the Author's book The European Union Collective: Enemy of its Member States' [Edward Harle Limited, London and New York, 2002], which explains the parallel Soviet and pan-German agendas for a collectivised Europe, a scheme which is now at an advanced stage of decrepitude. As revealed by a US operative to the Author and mentioned in the present work, Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev (real name Orbach or Korbach) remains head (as of 2006) of the KGB Continuum.

6. Seymour M. Hersh, 'The Gray Zone: How a Secret Pentagon Program came to Abu Ghraib, Annals of National Security', The New Yorker, 24th May 2004. The 'former' intelligence operative 'blew' the 'Black' operation in question by revealing outline details to Hersh. Whenever such revelations surface in the 'mainstream' media, it is usually because the intelligence authorities concerned have wound up the programme, and replaced it with a successor programme. However intelligence duplicity being what it is, it is conceivable in this instance that the SAP continues, but that the revelations to Hersh in this article simply conveyed the false impression that it had been wound up. If that was the case, it will certainly have been replaced by a comparable SAP 'Black' programme. Reports continue (as of June 2006) to emerge of atrocities at the 23 secret US intelligence facilities in Afghanistan, in the multiple such evil centres in Iraq, Jordan, the British colony of Diego Garcia, and at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

7. As probably a 'former' intelligence official himself, Hersh would know perfectly well that the use of the prefix 'former' in this context is cosmetic. US citizens are not allowed to divulge the identities of existing US intelligence officers. But there is no such individual as a 'former' intelligence operative, because they all know too much and have to be monitored and 'handled' for their lifetime. One of the problems facing the implementers of US and New Underworld Order operations since the Reagan era is that timetables have slipped badly. This has meant that significant numbers of ageing operatives remain 'operative' and 'on the books'. These people have long since been 'read into' (to use the CIA euphemism for 'indoctrinated into') geopolitical operations of such complexity and ongoing relevance, that they 'cannot be released'. Many of the individuals mentioned in this book are, or soon will be, past normal 'retirement age'. The primary reason for their continued involvement in multiple operations is that they alone are 'fully read into' 'Black' operations which it would be too hazardous or dangerous to reveal to others. Some of the hazards concern the systematic rifling of financial assets by intelligence operatives and 'barons' themselves.

8. John Robison, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', 1798, Western Islands, Boston, MA, 1967, page 61.

9. Information to the Author from a participant on the spy cruise, during which seminars on intelligence issues, tradecraft and related subjects, were provided.

10. The report to the effect that intelligence cells are located in or adjacent to every 'mainstream' media pressroom appeared for 24 hours in 2004, and then vanished from the 'screen'.

11. Uri Dowbenko, 'Bush-Cheney Cabal Names Porter Goss CIA Chief, posted on 'Dowbenko's' Internet site, 25th June 2004, well ahead of President Bush's formal announcement. The report noted: Why did former CIA operative Rep. Porter Goss get the nod to be the new DCI (Director of Central Intelligence) at the CIA?' [Answer]:]. 'It means that the Bush Cheney Cabal, a.k.a. the Bush Crime Family, is so sure of itself and its power that it can name one of its own, a former point man for CIA assassinations, to be the head of the CIA'.

12. 'Bush nominates Goss as new CIA chief' and associated reports, The Financial Times, London, 11 August 2004.

13. For a display of important observed geopolitical occult handshakes,see Appendix 70, page 734.

14. Trance Formation of America: The True Life Story of a CIA mind-control Slave' by Cathy O'Brien (the 'rehabilitated sex slave') with Mark Phillips, Reality Marketing, Inc., 1995 (Reality Marketing is thought to have been an intelligence-linked entity, based in Las Vegas where certain intelligence community mass mind-control operations, including film-making for propaganda purposes, such as the ludicrous footage of Osama Bin Laden in a bathrobe against a moonscape, are based). In 'Trance Formation of America', former President Ford is depicted as a sadistic prima donna who demands services from sex slaves as of right. It was at Gerald Ford's home in Colorado that Dr Alan Greenspan, the 'chief accountant' and facilitator of the colossal dubious financial transactions of the Illuminati, took place in June 2004. Mark Phillips allegedly perpetrated the 'devil in the smoke' photographic deception which deceived many following the 9/11 provocation [see Chapter 4, page 183].

15. 'Democracy Now!' Radio/TV news programme broadcast on over 200 US stations, 28th April 2004.

16. John Negroponte's support of and involvement with the Battalion 3-16 death squad in Honduras was extensively aired by the witnesses ONLY, at the hearing held on 27th April 2004, from the transcript of which this excerpt is taken verbatim.

17. Seymour M. Hersh, op. cit.

18. 'Fleshing Out Skull & Bones: Investigations into America's most powerful Secret Society', edited by Robert A. [Kris] Millegan, TrineDay, 2003, page 418.

19. 'Fleshing Out Skull & Bones: Investigations into America's most powerful Secret Society', Ibid, page 418.

20. 'Sullen, Depressed Bush Retreats into Private Paranoid World: Bush using Drugs to control Depression', Teresa Hampton and William D. McTavish, Capitol Hill Blue Staff, www.capitolhillblue.com, 29 July 2004.

21. Pastor David J. Meyer, The Last Trumpet Newsletter, January 2005, page 2. That author also pointed out that on 13th December 2004, the Associated Press (AP), a US Government mouthpiece, made a curious reference to President George W. Bush as 'the first-born son', a blasphemous/Jewish statement implying that the President is endowed with a spiritual force which we are all supposed to assume is god-like, or at least characteristic of a firstborn male as described in Scripture (the first-born being 'hallowed to God'). All this reminds this Author of the perceptive remark of a female American friend of his who asserted with conviction in the autumn of 2000 that she thought that George W. Bush could be the Antichrist. She never gave any explanation for that insight. Concerning the provenance of this information (from the Rev. Meyer) about the occult and astrology, the Author is aware that many such sources are unreliable and perversely transmit disinformation. However this source is 100% credible, and is widely so regarded internationally, because of his intimate knowledge of witchcraft given his past life as an hyperactive witch. His statements on witchcraft practices, beliefs and aberrations are factually correct. There is no doubt that the US Presidency is in thrall to witchcraft, which accompanies and precedes Luciferianism.

22. Pastor David J. Meyer, The Last Trumpet Newsletter, January 2005, pages 4-5.

23. Jeremiah Chapter 6, verse 14; and the identical warning in Jeremiah Chapter 8, verse 11. This passage is followed by the further warning lamenting the absence of shame and the catastrophe which will befall such people [verses 12 and 13J: 'Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? Nay, they were not at all ashamed, neither could they blush: therefore they shall fall among them that fall; in the time of their visitation they shall be cast down, saith the Lord. I will surely consume them, saith the Lord: there shall be no grapes on the vine, nor figs on the fig tree, and the leaf shall fade; and the grass that I have given them shall pass away from them'. In other words, they have all been warned.

24. Isaiah, Chapter 5, verses 20-21 and 23. 'Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!... Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!'. All of which is horribly familiar today.

25. Personal communication to the Author by the Member of Parliament concerned (name withheld).

26. The Mail on Sunday, 22nd August 2004.

27. Global Analyst, January-February 2005, Global Analysis Limited, 108 Horseferry Road, Westminster, London SW1P 2EF, Volume 2, Number 1, page 23: Teaching Children Perversion'.

28. BBC News report, 'Navy approves its first-ever Satanist', 24th October 2004.

29. The Gospel according to Matthew, Chapter 4, verses 8-11.

30. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 26, verse 14.

31. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 26, verse 18.

32. According to documents extracted by legal process by Judicial Watch, Washington DC, from the Cheney Energy Task Force, the countries listed in Note 33 below (with their energy corporations in parentheses) were in various stages of negotiating for rights, carrying out exploration work, constructing facilities, or otherwise preparing to exploit Iraqi oil, as of 5th March 2001. Although the Energy Task Force is commonly referred to as the 'Cheney Energy Task Force', detailed research work along these lines had long been under way during the Clinton era - illustrating a key point emerging from this analysis, namely that political 'opposites' in the 'White' world, being controlled by the intelligence services, since the most senior posts are usually held by intelligence operatives, are actually 'on the same page' -just playing opposite ends of the political dialectic for public consumption in the 'White' world. Thus: Clinton and the Democratic Party, extensively penetrated by Communists and fellow-travellers = Thesis; Bush II, driven by the 'German' element of the intelligence services following the Himmler Nazi tradition = Antithesis (or vice versa). Repeated cycles of the Hegelian dialectic (which is itself based upon the occult-Masonic concept of the 'mechanistic world') continue until the Synthesis (= One World Government, or the New Underworld Order) is achieved. However, since these forces are driven by Satan, who is the author of all confusion, the Synthesis is of course never actually realised This illustrates that these people are all fools. Their belief in the geomasonic mechanistic world guarantees this. The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God. Corrupt are they, and have done abominable iniquity: there is none that doeth good, God looked down from Heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, that did seek God. Everyone one of them is gone back: they are altogether become filthy; there is none that doeth good, no, not one'. Psalm (of David) 53, verses 1-3.

33. The countries (with their energy corporations in parentheses) that were identified by the Cheney Energy Task Force as being in various stages of negotiating for rights, carrying out exploration work, constructing facilities, or otherwise preparing to exploit Iraqi oil as of 5th March 2001, all of which lost out due to the invasion, were as follows: Algeria (Sonatrach); Australia (BHP); Canada (Ranger, Bow Canada, Alberta Energy, CanOxy, Chavco Resources, Escondido, Talisman, IPC, PanCanadian); China (CNPC, Norinco, Sinochem); Czech Republic (Strojexport); Finland (Neste Oy); France (Total Elf Aquitaine), Forasol SA, IBEX, Perenco); Germany (Deminex, Preussag, Slavneft); Greece (Kriti); Hungary (Hanpetro); India (ONGC, Reliance); Indonesia (Pertamina); Ireland (Bula); Italy (Agip, Snamprogetti); Japan (Japex, Mitsubishi); Malaysia (Petronas); Mexico (Pemex); Netherlands (Larmag, Dutch Royal Shell); Norway (Statoil); Pakistan (Crescent); Romania (Petrom, Mol); Russia (Kond Petroleum, Lukoil, Zarubezneft, Mashinoimport, Tatarneft, Rostneft, Sidanco); South Korea (Sangyong, Samsung, Pedco, Hambo, Yukong, Daewoo); Spain (Repsol); Taiwan (CPC); Tunisia (Setcar); Turkey (TPAO); United Kingdom (Branch Energy, Pacific Resources); Vietnam (Petro-Vietnam). Common sense dictates that had all these countries and corporations been left to 'get on with it', Iraq's oil could have been brought on-stream much earlier than is now likely to be the case. As indicated in the main text, the United States oil lobby's propaganda insists that its purpose is to procure adequate energy supplies at fair prices for the whole of humanity. The invasion of Iraq in 2003, planned from the outset of the Bush II Administration (on the basis of planning in place under the Clinton Administration) resulted in the termination by force majeure of all these operations, from which of course the United States had been excluded. It is therefore perfectly clear to anyone who is not influenced by US special pleading that one purpose of the invasion was to ensure that Iraq's energy resources were brought under US control, and the negotiating countries excluded, rather than the United States. This exposes the lie that US oil policy is intended to procure affordable energy supplies for the whole of humanity. Secondary data source: International Currency Review, Volume 30, Number 1, August 2004.

34. This final sub-section is condensed from Economic Intelligence Review, Volume 10, Number 1, pages 13-15, January-February 2005, World Reports Limited: www.worldreports.org.

* The Synagogue of Satan: Revelation of John: Words of Jesus Christ: Chapter 2, verse 9: 'I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are of the synagogue of Satan'; and Chapter 3, verse 9: 'Them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie'. The Synagogue of Satan is the pagan-Satanic Illuminised geomasonic structure controlled by 'the god of this world', Lucifer. In the contemporary context, it is identifiable as Geomasonic Illuminism. At the Congress of Wilhelmsbad (1782), the Illuminati and the elders of Freemasonry agreed to merge, with the Illuminati taking Masonry over. Jewish authorities agree that 'Masonry is Jewish'. The central Illuminati control centre is Germany, with two main components of the Illuminati - the 'Black Nobility' and the Communists - being Jewish. Hence the heavy Illuminati weighting of German Jews.

CHAPTER TWO

THE CURSE OF YALE

CALLING GOOD EVIL AND EVIL GOOD

'And the scribes which came down from Jerusalem said 'He hath Beelzebub, and by the Prince of the Devils casteth he out devils'. The source in Scripture for this blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is the Gospel of Mark, Chapter 3, verse 22 (322)[1].

The Lord dealt with this lie immediately: 'And he called them unto Him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan cast out Satan? And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. And if Satan rise up against himself, and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end'[2].

Just as Satan cannot cast out his own demons - on the contrary, he desires to infest everyone - so does he refuse to evacuate the premises he inhabits unless he is cast out by his nemesis, the power of Jesus Christ, who taught us to say: 'Get thee behind me Satan'[3]. The problem with the United States is that its god, from its foundation, is Lucifer - as is displayed by means of the Eye of Set, or Lucifer, on the $1.0 bill, atop a truncated Masonic pyramid, which is replicated from the image on reverse of the Great Seal of the United States - not Jesus Christ: which is why political Washington is perpetually in turmoil, and why many Americans are always so exercised about the issue of whether it should be legal to display the Wer war der Thor, wer Weiser, wer Bettler oder Kaiser?

Ob Arm, ob Reich, im Tode gleich

Figure 10: On the west wall in the Skull and Bones 'Tomb' on the Yale campus is this elderly engraving representing an open burial vault inside which, on a stone slab, rest four skulls arranged around a fool's cap and bells, an open book, some mathematical instruments, and a royal crown. Upon the arched wall located above them is bleakly inscribed: 'Wer war der Thor, wer Weiser, wer Better oder Kaiser?', while below the vault image is engraved, in Germanic script: 'Ob arm, ob Reich, im Tode gleich'. The picture is displayed along with a card, on which is appended: 'From the German Chapter'. Presented by D. C. Gilman of D. 50' (Daniel C. Gilman).

Ten Commandments in public schools, and about the sterile absence of any religious teaching therein. Following the pernicious tradition imported by the US Illuminati from Germany (specifically the dumbing-down political control methodology of Wilhelm Wundt, of the University of Leipzig [1875-1920]), the schools are mind-control factories. They deploy the convenient excuse that religious faith is a matter for parents, not for the US school system - which, given the consequent Illuminist Outcome-Based Education curriculum, teaches relativism, that truth is a matter of individual perception and choice, and that there is no God, and induces depression and confusion in the minds of children (who are universally referred to as 'kids', as of the goat) in order to churn out a lumpen-proletariat that is unable to think for itself, stripped of spiritual nourishment. Hence sex education, which fosters the lusts of the flesh from an early age, and 'death education', which is designed to impregnate young minds with the only product known to the Illuminised Workers of Darkness: death.

In the United Kingdom, children as young as 12 to 14 at schools all over the country were reported in June 2005 to be indulging in 'daisy chain' group sex, with some incidents being captured by the cameras of their mobile telephones, and disseminated all round the country and to their school friends, and girls as young as 12 years of age being raped after boys had demanded group sex with them, and they had refused[4]. Abominations such as these are the direct consequence of the temporary triumph of the evil, nihilistic regimen of the Illuminati, the transnational Workers of Darkness, who seek to drag the whole of humanity down into the pit with them (to 'keep them company') because they are jealous of all who are not yet depraved, and because they look forward to the time 'soon' when the 'Ancient Mysteries' - the hegemony of pagan sex-magic, ritual and the invocation of demons - will be realised.

In the United States, children are taught every minute detail there is to know about the Holocaust, and are required to take part in death-oriented school plays, such as certain plays by the Satanic American playwrite, Edgar Allen Poe. Their 'death education' is completed by the universal Satanisation of video games and other electronic playthings, all inventions of the Devil, that focus on sex and death, and which are not only addictive, but have the consequence that the child or teenager is afflicted by oppression, with his or her true underlying personality smothered by what amounts to infestation by Evil Spirits, or an oppression similar to such infestation. Indeed when an American friend of the Author resolved, with one of his sons, that all the boy's Satanic tapes and other paraphernalia should be destroyed, they found that many items jumped out of the fire, and that a bunch of ravens suddenly appeared circling overhead. The recalcitrant toys of the Devil had to be repeatedly thrown back into the bonfire, after jumping out several times, far away from the bonfire.

The deliberately addictive nature of these abominations further alienates the child from things of beauty - from art, from good music, from poetry, from the beauty of the countryside, from Scripture of course, from romance in human relationships, indeed from all that enhances human life and makes it such a joy to be alive. These are all evils that are directly attributable to the brazen emergence and harsh, stone cold arrogance of Satan, who goes 'to and fro in the earth' and walks 'up and down it'[5] 'seeking whom he may devour'[6]. The diabolical, chaotic, Satanic, sexually-oriented 'music' (noise) that is mass-produced for consumption by youth, completes the hell which our generation has created for the young people and children whom once we used to love. To abuse children by filling their minds, souls and environment with diabolical inventions such as these, is nothing less than wanton, flagrant, serial blasphemy against the Holy Spirit. Recall that Jesus prescribed a violent end for those who do such things: 'But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged around his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea'[7]. It should be noted that this grim warning is repeated twice more in the Gospels - indicative of its singular importance[8]. All those who corrupt children with devilish things face a terrible vengeance: that's a certainty.

Another Scriptural reference will place what follows in the necessary context: Psalm 127 begins: 'Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it: except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain'[9]. The fundamental problem with the United States (and with Britain, though via a different sequence of historical events), is that the house that replaced the edifice that had been erected by the

THE YALE CLUB OF NEW YORK CITY · 1897 · ET LUX
VERITAS
אורים ותמים
322
FILE AND CLAW.
BADGE.
11A
11B

Figure 11A: The central component of the Yale University crest, taken from a napkin purloined by the Author from the dining room of The Yale Club in New York City. The Latin inscription, 'Lux et Veritas', means, of course, 'Light and Truth'. What do the Hebrew words mean and what are they doing there? The Author can only answer the first part of this question. The Hebrew words are 'Urim' and 'Thummim', oracles from the Old Testament, which learned Rabbis believe represented stones upon which were written 'Yes' and 'No', which were reckoned to indicate the answer to any given question raised with God. So, the Yale Crest reads as follows: 'Light and Truth. Yes and No'. In short, the University is double-minded. Figure 11B: The death-badge of another Yale secret society. File and Claw. In a survey of the Yale secret societies, illustrative of the system of synarchy - rule by secret societies - which has the upper hand in the United States, Europe and elsewhere (under the European Commission, there are 3,068+ secret committees about which hardly anything was known until recently) - Harper's Weekly of 7th February 1874 explained: 'An allusion to these societies would not be complete without a reference to their initiations, which are known of and cited throughout the country as illustrations of pandemonium broken loose. Until 1869, they were very rough in character, and often resulted in serious injury to some of their victims but since that time, a Professor has been present during the sports, to interfere in case they are taken too far. Tossing in a blanket, rolling in a wheel, stowing away in a coffin, sitting suddenly in a tub of ice, or put under a guillotine, where the knife is arrested within a few inches of the victim's nose, and members yelling, blowing horns, burning phosphorus, and masked as skeletons and demons' [see Figure 12 on page 36] - these are what a candidate has to pass through before being invested with the dignity of membership'. No wonder the 'values' inculcated in such initiations have infected American society so perniciously. The everlasting pandemonium prevalent in Washington, DC, is entirely consistent with this background.

colonists has not been constructed by the Lord, but rather by Lucifer.

It is accordingly no surprise that, as has been stated, Washington - a city that was notoriously laid out to an occult blueprint with a gigantic pagan (phallic) obelisk at its centre - is perpetually in a state of turmoil and confusion. There is always some scandal brewing inside the corridors of power and in the bowels of the political establishment. The Author has visited Washington regularly for four decades, and has found that this city is almost always engulfed in controversy, bitterness, deception, treachery and shame - reflecting the fact that its god, Lucifer, is in control there.

The Author once told the late Fr. Malachi Martin that he always felt most uncomfortable and oppressed staying in the Washington area for more than 24 hours. 'Oh, you would do', Malachi responded. 'It is a very evil place, and you would sense that. I am not surprised'. And there always seem to be parallel indications of organised vice - most conspicuously nowadays focused on paedophilia, and on the suborning of the foreign diplomatic community inter alia through prostitution masterminded by an intelligence community-linked cut-out apparatus located near Dupont Circle. 'Many sorrows shall be to the wicked'[10], and they shall know no peace. By contrast, 'great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them'[11].

SENSE OF OPPRESSION REPLICATED IN NEW HAVEN

The sense of oppression evident to many in the Washington area is replicated in a US city considerably further north, the influence on Washington of which has always been pronounced: New Haven, Connecticut, the seat of Yale University. As one analyst wrote in July 1996, Yale is the place 'where three threads of American social history - espionage, drug smuggling and secret societies - intertwine into one'[12]. The University, originally named Yale College, was established in 1718, after Elihu Yale, Figure 12: A woodcut from 'Fifty Years of Yale News', by the Skull and Bones historian Clarence W. Mendel, published in 'Yale News' on 28th January 1928, New Haven, Connecticut. The illustration makes it crystal clear that the activities of Skull and Bones (and some other Yale-based secret societies) are of an occultic and Satanic nature. It is no surprise that a culture nurtured on devilry is inherently untamed and unruly.

educated in London, who served for many years with the British East India Company and became Governor of Fort Saint George, Madras, India, in 1687, had returned to England in 1699, having amassed a great fortune. Yale's name as a philanthropist having crossed the Atlantic, he responded to many requests from the Collegiate School in Connecticut for donations and learning materials; and an early graduate from the school, Cotton Mather, in due course suggested that the school should, as a consequence, be renamed Yale College. It was among Yale graduates that one of America's first intelligence organisations, known as the 'Culper Ring', was formed. This appears to have been the precedent for Yale University's close relationship, since the foundation of the Republic, with the intelligence community. And since such a sizeable proportion of the population of the DC and Virginia area belongs to that immense community, Washington's close association with Yale is self-evident.

The drug-running connection dates from 1824, when Samuel Russell, educated in London, established a firm entitled Russell and Company with a view to procuring opium in Turkey and smuggling it into China, which had the world's largest population of drug addicts. In 1828, the company was combined with a Boston-based opium concern, T. H. Perkins, and became the leading American opium smuggling organisation and the dominant American force in China. The Russell family was one of many whose European and American fortunes were acquired from the 'China' (opium) trade. Kris Millegan has written that 'Russell & Co. was very much a family affair, with uncles, cousins, brothers, fathers and sons dominating the firm and its allied banks and fronts. The Russell family was steeped in Yale College history'[13].

Samuel Russell's cousin, William Huntington Russell, who studied in Germany in 1831-32, formed a senior society, soon to become known as 'The Order of Skull and Bones', after arriving at Yale in 1832, his partner being Alfonso Taft. Russell introduced

"BONES" HALL, YALE.

"KEYS" HALL, YALE.

Figure 13: Two examples of the expensive real estate owned by Yale secret societies. Left: 'Bones' Hall, the HQ of the Satanic Skull and Bones secret society. Right: the HQ of the Scroll and Keys society. The notion of rule by secret societies, or synarchy, is of the essence of the conspiracy of the Illuminati, who secretly place their operatives in key posts or alongside the holders of power so that only the universalist policies of the Illuminati are pursued - as for instance, in the case of the failing European Union.

Taft and others to the atheistic social control methodology, or 'scientific method', which was flourishing in Germany, especially Prussia, at that time - including a diabolical educational system which has since invaded the US and British educational establishments, among those of many other misguided countries. The proposals included the prospectus advanced by Johan Wolfgang Fitche, which stipulated that children were to be handed over to the State, which would instruct them in what and how to think. Hence such modern aberrations as 'death education' in US and British schools.

In an interesting precursor of what happened to the US stock market and the financial system when the Taliban succeeded in virtually neutralising the production of opium in Afghanistan in 2001, a crash in the opium market occurred in 1837, with speculators' losses reverberating internationally - the financial panic being so severe that cash became scarce in both the United States and Great Britain. Likewise, the removal of Afghani opium from the international market under the Taliban caused certain pipelines of drug proceeds to dry up, depressing the US stock market and adding to international economic and financial stresses following the millennium Y2K bug fiasco and the deflating of the dotcom boom in 2000.

THE GERMAN CONNECTION CONFIRMED

Following a break-in to the meeting hall of the Skull and Bones Senior Society (the notorious Tomb) on 29th September 1876, one of a number of such edifices on the Yale campus [refer, for instance, to Figure 13 on page 37], a document was identified which asserted that 'Skull and Bones is the chapter of a corps in a German university. General Samuel Russell, its founder, was in Germany before his Senior Year and formed a warm friendship with a leading member of German society. He brought back with him to college, authority to found a chapter here'. The new Yale chapter was modelled upon the German university Verbindung (secret society) precedent, establishing what was to become the most conspicuous parallel between German and US society, namely the presence in academic centres of secret societies (synarchy), with which the social classes concerned remain obsessed to this day.

The group conducting the break-in called itself The Order of File and Claw [see Figure 11B on page 35], operating in apparent opposition to The Order of Skull and Bones, as the image of a skull with a file and a claw in lieu of the two bones used by Skull and Bones for its symbol, is thought to imply. They discovered an upstairs room, labelled Lodge 322, which they described as 'the sanctum sanctorum of the temple... furnished in red velvet'[14] with a pentagram on the wall. In other words, this and other Yale secret societies are nests of witchcraft. (The only room clad in red velvet that the Author has personal experience of was the dining room of Paul Channon MP, in Belgrave Square, London, in the 1960s). The 'File and Claw' report added that the group had discovered 'pictures of the founders of Bones at Yale, and of members of the Society in Germany, when the chapter was established here in 1832'.

The intruders also found an old engraving [Figure 10, on page 33] illustrating an open burial vault 'in which', according to a US expert, 'on a stone slab, rest four human skulls, grouped around a fool's cap and bells, an open book, several mathematical instruments, a beggar's scrip, and a royal crown'. On the arched wall in the engraving above the vault are the following German words: 'Wer war der Thor, wer Weiser, wer Bettler oder Kaiser': 'Whether fool, wise man, beggar or Emperor'. Below the vault is displayed this concluding sentence: 'Ob Arm, Ob Reich, im Tode gleich':

'Whether poor or rich, all of us die' - or, in the more cynical tone implied by these inscriptions: 'Poor or rich, all hit the ditch'.

The most celebrated of recent researchers into the secrets of Skull and Bones, and its corruption of American society, the late Anthony Sutton (whose widow thinks that his death in the early 2000s may not have been natural), explained the occult spiritual meaning and purpose of the focus on human skulls and bones (replicated in many photographs of 'Bonesmen' which have emerged into the public domain over the years), by citing the following penetrating statement by Margaret Elizabeth Stucki:

THE SKULL: MORTALITY UNMASKED 'The opposite of the mask is the skull. The face of the person is a fleshy skin worn between the two. People who deny the person as made in the image of God directly, and individually created and loved by Him, will seek either of these exits to being truly human: the mask, which covers the mortal man, or the skull which is left after mortal man has departed. Primitive minds who have not yet found God and sophisticates who have rejected Him, desire the mask and the skull'[15].

In other words, the adoption of, and fixation with, human skulls is a deliberately provocative display of The Order's blunt and insistent rejection of the existence of a

SECRET SOCIETIES AT YALE – MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE, JUNE 1894

SECRET SOCIETIES AT YALE.

One of the most remarkable features of college life at New Haven—The undergraduates' secret organizations, their fine club houses, their prestige and influence—"Skull and Bones," "Scroll and Key," "Wolf's Head," and others.

By Rupert Hughes.

14A

14B

Figure 14A: The Order of Skull and Bones, of which this is the symbol, was established at Yale in 1832-33 under the pirate (drug-running) flag of William H. Russell, used for his family firm's China operations. The US fascination with China, which was then the world's largest user and producer of opiates, can be traced to this connection. The skull and crossbones is the symbol of death that is used on bottles of poison: and poisoning is classically the Illuminati's preferred method of 'liquidation'. The symbol is used on pirates' flags, and was the centrepiece of the Nazi Tofenkopf ('death's head') insignia of the Schutzstaffel, or SS. It was used in Prussia by elite soldiers as long ago as 1740. Note that the skull has no lower jaw: the missing mandible signifies the absolute requirement of secrecy. Thanks to Anthony Sutton, Kris Millegan, Andrei Navrozov and others, and to the Internet, the secrecy imperative or cover of Skull and Bones, and of the Illuminati of which this murderously evil secret society is a central node, has been well and truly 'blown'. But although these people may think they have secured the upper hand, their fear of exposure remains intact. Figure 14B: The headpiece of an article on the 'Secret Societies at Yale', published in Munsey's Magazine in June 1894. The article explained: 'It is in the mysterious halls of the secret societies that the student finds his dearest pleasures, and from them it is that the powers that direct the college democracy issue'. In other words, Yale College is effectively controlled by its secret witchcraft societies.

God who cares for us and loves us. Those who reject God in this way are, by definition, in the hands of Satan, whose sole product is death (both physical and spiritual). That is why they deal endlessly and exclusively in death - whether raining fragmentation bombs down on civilian populations, massacring unknown hundreds of thousands of Iraqis, committing atrocities in the former Yugoslavia, exporting arrested individuals deemed to be terrorists to countries under the odious US regime of 'extraordinary rendition' so that they can be tortured there with legal impunity for the US officials concerned, bombing the hell out of Belgrade with Luciferian ferocity, manipulating the earth's crust using demonic technology to create earthquakes and tsunamis (the artificially induced tsunami that was generated on 26th December 2004 killed 300,000 people[16], a hundred times more than the 3,000 who were by official secret design murdered on 9/11), or systematically teaching children about death, and flooding the marketplace with Satanic videogames and demon-oriented playthings, thereby corrupting and destroying their childhood.

For all these people, the Apostle Paul - the converted Pharisee who was formerly 'breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord'[17], who, as this Scripture confirms, had himself been hyperactively engaged in serially murderous activities against the 'saints' (which means those who believe and profess that Jesus Christ is the Son of God) - has the following explicitly grave warning and condemnation which all Illuminists who have obtained a copy of this book and who have qualms about the course they are following should read again and again with appropriate care and diligence: for it describes their kind perfectly:

'And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge [so that there is no space for God in overcrowded modern life at all, especially in the education system - Ed.], God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient. Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetous-ness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventers of evil things, disobedient to parents, Without understanding, covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful; Who, knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them'[18]. Paul's warning cannot be sufficiently repeated.

This passage succinctly describes, far better than has ever been done by anyone, the cynical mentality, depravity, obtuse stupidity, emotional aridity, arrogant self-satisfaction and self-absorption, coldness and indifference towards others and little children, ruthlessness and exploitativeness, acquisitiveness, and perverse fascination with the occult and with all the Works of Darkness, that the Author has encountered in the course of his several brushes with a certain type of US intelligence officer, while researching this book and other writings. It is not surprising that, at a certain conference several years ago addressed by prominent American operatives, a well-known British operative was observed to shun the company of the American intelligence contingent and to prefer the company of the odious KGB General Oleg Kalugin, who was also lecturing on that occasion. The point is that the odiousness of Soviet KGB and GRU operatives is taken for granted and well understood in the West. However some of their US counterparts have raised deception techniques and deviousness to the status of a new art form, wrapping as they do their nefarious practices and intentions in a spurious cloak of legality. For woe betide anyone from 'outside' who 'breaks the law' in this Devil's kitchen - notwithstanding that the National Security Act of 1947 et seq. and as amended, authorises US intelligence officials to break the law and can be considered indeed to be a 'crook's charter'.

In that passage from Romans, certain phrases are highlighted in bold type, such as 'inventers of evil things', because they are especially relevant in our context: but the entire inspired passage summarises to perfection the essence of the mentality which thinks that it has acquired supremacy over our lives and against which the millions of patriotic Americans and others who seek in whatever manner they can to uphold the truth, are implacably and instinctively opposed. For the deluded Illum-inati cadres believe, as a consequence of their brainwashing, that they have the right to order the affairs of the world and to create 'order out of chaos' - cynically aware that, since Lucifer is their master, and the Devil turns everything upside down, what they invariably achieve is the creation of the reverse - chaos out of order. And death.

The Order of Skull and Bones is an exclusively Yale-based cult with close historical connections with Germany, and focused exclusively on death. That is its ultimate product, as is the case with all Luciferian organisations. It is, as has been noted and will be seen, 'a multi-generational cult that believes in the power of death to bring about change, a group of Zeitgeist initiates believing that the end justifies the means, and using massive deaths to feed their necromancy'[19]. For the heirs of these people, the infliction of 300,000 deaths in Iraq (killing without flinching), and the unfettered use of primitive barbarian torture methods (inflicting pain without flinching) about which the US State Department's self-righteous annual compendium entitled Country Reports on Human Rights Practices complains vociferously when such atrocities are identified as having been committed by other countries, are neither here nor there.

The primary characteristic of all these people is that they are double-minded. Double-mindedness is the essence of the Hegelian dialectical methodology, which creates conflict to make 'progress' or advance 'history' - manipulating opposing forces in what to them is an exclusively mechanistic world, the methodology applied also by Nazism and Marxism-Leninism, both of which are driven by the same double-minded Hegelian roots. Hence, for instance, Paul Wolfowitz, a former US Deputy Secretary of Defense who presided over the furious attack on Iraq, will accordingly have been the perfect candidate to become President of the World Bank, which runs a massive front operation projecting itself as a global welfare agency. Behind the scenes, the World Bank handles intergovernmental payments and manages a parallel financial universe of colossal proportions about which the general public is largely ignorant. Meanwhile Mr Wolfowitz now sits on the opposite side of the dialectic, doling out 'aid' to Third World countries, after having bombed one of them back to the Stone Age.

Figure 11A on page 35 shows a crest on a paper napkin purloined by the Author from The Yale Club of New York, which contains within it the Yale University crest. In the circle around the centre are the words: 'Lux et Veritas', Latin for 'Light and Truth'. But in the centre are two Hebrew words, Urim and Thummim, which are the oracles used for some centuries by the children of Israel when the High Priest needed to know God's answer to a specific question: they signify 'Yes' and 'No'. As will be explained on page 42, the Yale crest accordingly advertises the fact that Yale College is a double-minded University of the Illuminati. Its long history of condoning the secret teaching of occultism, Satanic initiation and the gross abominations in which the College's secret societies specialise, identifies it as a generational source of poison.

YALE: THE PRIMARY NORTH AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF THE ILLUMINATI

An obscure note buried in The Torah: A Modern Commentary[20], states that the Yale University crest indeed incorporates the two Hebrew words Urim and Thummim. These are believed to have been oracular pieces which were consulted by the High Priest when an answer, ostensibly from God, to a thorny question (such as: 'Should the children of Israel go out to war against the Philistines?') was required. As is typical with Torah commentary, Jewish authorities are unsure of the exact specifications of Urim and Thummim. According to some rabbinical authorities, they were probably stones with YES and No engraved on them, which were used like dice. In time, they fell into disuse, as priests and judges able to discern the appropriate answers (or the will of God) took their place. Josephus, the first century Jewish general, reported that Urim and Thummim had not been used for 200 years, but some authorities think they had ceased to be in use somewhat earlier. During the Babylonian exile [BC 536] they were reinstated briefly by Ezra [Ezra Chapter 2, verse 63] and they were employed also by Nehemiah [Nehemiah, Chapter 7, verse 65][21].

Thus we discover that Yale's crest conveys the following deliberately ambivalent message: 'Light and Truth: Yes and No'. Hence, on the one hand, Yale University purports to dispense Light and Truth, while on the other hand, it simultaneously dispenses the reverse thereof, namely: 'Darkness and Lies', the dissemination of which is delegated to its secret witchcraft societies. And that it does precisely this is openly displayed, in thinly-disguised form, for the whole world to see upon the University's crest.

What this means unequivocally is that Yale University is double-minded: and since, as we have seen, double-mindedness is of the essence of Illuminism, and the University is effectively controlled and subordinate to its own evil secret societies which practice occult abominations and witchcraft-related rituals, it is obvious to anyone with eyes to see that Yale University is North America's primary seat of occultic Illuminism in the education sector: the University of the Illuminati, in thrall to Lucifer.

James, the brother of Jesus Christ, writes in his General Epistle: 'A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways'. Just two verses earlier, he warns that '...he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed'[22]. In part, this means that, at a certain stage in life, we have to make a key decision: whose side are we on, that of Jesus Christ, or Lucifer? Wavering between the two leads to perdition, if the tension is not resolved in favour of God, and lies are preferred instead. James is elaborating, in his usual succinct manner, upon the Word of Jesus Christ found in Matthew, Chapter 6, verses 19-24:

'Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in Heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light' (meaning, that if we are not double-minded, but have made, of our own free will, the decision that is the necessary prerequisite for the Free Gift of His Grace, and the consequent revelation to us of 'the Way the Truth and the Life'[23], then the light that is consequently within us will shine forth and our 'whole body shall be full of light' - the opposite characteristic of those who remain double-minded, and therefore full of darkness). Jesus concluded: 'But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness'. And what is Satan called? He is called Lucifer, 'the light-bearer'[24]- namely, the bearer of false light. This 'illuminates' why Jesus so carefully employed these words: 'If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!' - by which he meant that if we substitute the false, occult light (= darkness) of Lucifer, as those that this book describes do, then how great is that darkness! How great indeed!

It may not be widely known outside the intelligence community that the CIA and its agencies have a philosophical rule or principle, which states that members of the intelligence community alone are entitled to what they call 'the truth', and that the masses are accordingly not entitled to it. That this is a central component of the indoctrinated CIA mentality has been confirmed to the Author by an attendee at an intelligence conference, who explained that this was in fact one of the first precepts that those attending the conference were taught.

Equipped with our observation of the hideous environment of darkness in which these people live and have their being, and within which they plot to destabilise all our lives, we can discern a deeper meaning to this precept than may seem superficially to apply. The 'truth' that is meant here is the Tight' to which they themselves are addicted, namely the false light of the Tight-bearer, Lucifer'. That Lucifer, the Devil, the god of the Illuminati, turns the truth and everything else upside down, and is the bearer of false light, was of course notoriously confirmed by the occultist, magician, necromancer, Freemason, and serial worker of demonic abominations, Albert Pike, the 'father' of revised US Scottish Rite Freemasonry, in his 'bible' of Masonry, 'Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry':

'Lucifer, the Light-bearer! Strange and mysterious name to give to the Spirit of Darkness! Lucifer, the Son of the Morning! Is it he who bears the Light, and with its splendors intolerable blinds feeble, sensual, or selfish Souls? Doubt it not!'[25].

Reverting to Scripture [Matthew Chapter 6, verse 24], the Lord concluded: 'No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon'.

You cannot be double-minded and expect to get away with it indefinitely.

***

Confirmation of the institutionalised reprobate occultism and witchcraft which haunts and controls Yale University is available not just from the evidence that has been amassed by a number of serious researchers over the past several decades about The Order of Skull and Bones, which has been greatly accelerated with the maturity of the Internet[26], but also by assembled information about many other secret societies of the synarchy. Some have sinister tomb-like structures, called temples, very similar to the 'Bones' tomb on the Yale campus, such as Book and Snake (Sigma Delta Chi), He Boule, Berzelius, Wolf's Head (founded in 1883), Scroll and Key, and The Order of the File and Claw [see Figure 11B, page 35] (antagonistic to and yet evidently part of Skull and Bones, which is an exact proxy for the standard cooperation-cum-compet-ition modus operandi of the intelligence community). File and Claw is thought to have been a manifestation of a chameleon-like group calling itself 'Bull and Stones'.

Phi Beta Kappa, an early secret society, was established at Yale in 1780, functioning until 1825. An article in Yale Daily News in 1928 about the secret societies and the snobbish social system with which they have always been associated was accompanied by a woodcut illustrating the Satanic nature of their activities, focused on placing the neophyte in a coffin [Figure 22, page 36][27]. The erection of these tomb-like temples has served the intended purpose of providing a pretext for the perpetuation of the secret societies themselves, while infecting Yale University with an aura of evil which is integrated with its public 'persona' to such an extent that their notoriety obliterates any 'Lux et Veritas' that the University might lay claim to, domestically and internationally: which is unsurprising since the University proclaims and takes pride in the fact that it is double-minded, via its crest.

The convoluted history of these and other secret societies at the University of the Illuminati at Yale (including several others using Greek-letter acronyms such as Delta Kappa Epsilon, Psi Upsilon, Delta Psi (a.k.a. 'The Tea Company') and Alpha Delta Phi), suggests that at various periods, warfare seems to have prevailed within the complex campus synarchy, as would be expected in any such Devil's kitchen - one irony here being that synarchy is supposed to be the opposite of anarchy, namely a state of affairs in which everything is controlled by secret organisations, whereas under anarchy, everything is out of control: yet geopolitically, synarchy leads to anarchy by the following sequence: the Illuminised intelligence services are in control, and out of control, the overall outcome being the grandfather of geopolitical anarchy. No-one in the United States seems to have the slightest idea how to address this crisis.

It is well known that such rivalry has at times extended at Yale to the raiding of a rival secret society's tomb for the purpose of seizing and stealing the ritual artefacts found there. In the first half of the 18th century, secret societies, notably Cretonia (which lasted just a few years), Livonia (reputed to have lasted for a century) and Brothers in Unity (fate unknown), had emerged, then faded. The proliferation of secret societies at the University in later years led quickly to intense competition between them to 'tap' the most eligible (and genealogically acceptable) candidates. What these candidates scramble for is to be selected by the most prestigious of the secret societies, for the privilege of being taught all about occultism, witchcraft and the cult of death.

Council on Foreign Relations [Direction and Coordination]
Trilateral Commission: Instrument of German Black intelligence (DVD).
Bilderberg: Evaluates and selects personnel to implement Illuminati policy and strategy.
Set up by the Pole, Dr Retinger with the SS Officer Prince Bernhard, on behalf of the Abwehr/DVD.
Chapter 322 of THE ORDER Fast-track occult training centre of German Illuminati origin
Inner Core
Inner Circle
Outer Circle
The Penumbra of THE ORDER
Pilgrim Society
Atlantic Council
Bohemian Grove [German Illuminati decadence]
(California: Modelled after the debauched pagan 'groves' and high places dedicated to idols (demons) explicitly condemned throughout the Old Testament).

Derivation: America's Secret Establishment: An Introduction to The Order of Skull & Bones, Antony C. Sutton, Liberty House Press, Billings, Montana,1986, page 37. The diagram is further annotated by this Author.

The late Anthony Sutton, who studied Skull and Bones for many years, concluded that the synarchy system of Illuminati control in the United States is organised as shown in this diagram: (1) An Outer Circle, consisting of large, open agitprop networks with some membership from Skull and Bones; (2) An Inner Circle, made up of secret societies, including Chapter 322; and (3) An Inner Core, a very secret society within a secret society network, which is the key inner decision-making, steering core. Sutton's diagram is accurate in asserting Inner Circle participation by other secret organisations: among these is Opus Dei. Entities using the term The Order, beginning with the Jesuits, are components, along with many other secret societies. The chief Rex in the United States has been the German-accented operative, Dr Henry Kissinger, 'mentor' of alleged DVD chief, George H. W. Bush (Sr.), who succeeded Nazi Admiral Canaris in 1976-78. Positioning the director of German 'Black' intelligence inside the 'Main Enemy' was clearly a stroke of German Nazi Luciferian genius. ■

Figure 15: A diagram published by the late Skull and Bones expert, Anthony Sutton, explaining how Chapter 322 of The Order relates to some other Illuminati organisations. Sutton's realisation that Skull and Bones is a Chapter (labelled 322) of a vast (German) global conspiracy has not been sufficiently appreciated. The present work reveals inter alia that organisations calling themselves The Order, like Opus Dei, are ALL Illuminati components.

CAMPUS COMPETITION TO 'ENJOY' A LIFE LEADING TO PERDITION

Each of these societies developed its own occultic badge, redolent with black symbolism. For instance, He Boule's badge displays an owl, the predatory bird of the night, while that of Eta Phi is a mask. As a certain Rupert Hughes wrote in the obscure Munsey's Magazine, June 1894 [see Figure 14B, page 39], 'the Bones badge consists of a gold skull and crossbones over the number 322, and it is worn on the lower left side of the waistcoat.... there are many interesting customs in vogue among these (competing) secret brotherhoods, such as their habit of returning home from meetings in absolute oblivion of each other and of everybody else, walking at opposite sides of the pavement and crossing each other's paths on entering their houses.... Most inexplicable to an outsider is the fact that a Yale man is unwilling to breathe a word about his college society, and seemingly feels insulted at any mention of it. Even the most bewitching young woman is warned not to make any remark about his badge (which, by the way, is supposed never to leave his person, even during a bath, when it is carried in his mouth)...'.

Recall that the Skull and Bones symbol has no mandible, indicating that members are sworn to secrecy. This is what the intelligence officers meant when they stated, at the conference mentioned earlier, that 'the truth' is theirs exclusively, and is not available to the masses, who, being 'profane', are despised and entitled to be lied to at all times .

As has been seen, by the 'truth', they mean the lies of Lucifer - including the 'secrets' of the Ancient Mysteries of occult paganism and demon invocation which they hold for themselves and which cannot be shared with the 'profane' (the Rest of Humanity).

The ritual of 'tapping' new candidates to these secret societies (in this case, Skull and Bones, and Wolf's Head) was described by Rupert Hughes in Munsey's Magazine thus: 'The day of election into these societies is perhaps the quaintest feature of Yale life. It is called 'tapping time' or 'slap day', and falls on the third Thursday in May, at five in the afternoon. Then all the anxious Juniors congregate in front of what is now used as 'the fence', and pray that they may be chosen' - unaware or oblivious to the fact that if they were to be chosen, they run the risk of their entire life being blighted by the consequences of indulging in occultism. 'Soon, a solemn Senior issues from one of the society halls and threads the crowd until he finds the man he has been delegated to notify. He deals him a vigorous slap on the back, and says sternly: 'Go to your room''.

Figure 16: The fixation with rising from the dead, from a tomb, which is a central feature of the Skull and Bones death-oriented witchcraft initiation ritual. This illustration is extracted from 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', one of modern Freemasonry's classic works, by the late 33rd Degree Mason Manly P. Hall [Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Company, Inc., Richmond, VA, 1923/1976, frontispiece). It celebrates the grip of the Lion's Paw (handshake) in the 'Pyramid Mysteries'. The priest wore a lion's mask. According to the occultist Manly P Hall: 'By this grip the spirit in man, long buried in the sepulchre of substance, is raised to life, and the candidate goes forth as a builder entitled to the wages of an initiate'.

'Amid wild cheering, the lucky man obeys mutely, followed by his slapper, who says to him: 'Will you accept an election to the society known as Skull and Bones?' and goes back in silence to the hall (i.e. temple, or tomb-like secret society house - Ed.) whence he came, while the happy [i.e. deceived and naively deluded - Ed.] Junior returns to receive the envious congratulations of his friends. About the same time, a Keys man, with a Wolf's Head man in his wake, goes through the same evolutions'.

'Between 'tapping time' and initiation, a week elapses. During this, the slapper and the slapped preserve a sacred mutual silence, except on one occasion, when the new man is notified of the time and place of the awful ordeal, which is consummated in the dark recesses of the mysterious chapter house'.

This passage makes it clear that activities with homosexual overtones comparable to the esoteric ritual known to be perpetrated by Skull and Bones upon its neophytes, take place in the temples of the other prominent societies, too. There is evidently competition to be 'tapped' for the most prestigious secret societies, which are Skull and Bones and Scroll and Keys. Rupert Hughes wrote that 'Keys' 'takes annually the fifteen most convivial and socially prominent men left by Bones. [But] Wolf's Head is much less highly rated, and instances are not wholly unknown wherein students unnoticed either by Bones or Keys have yet refused to join Wolf's Head. Its pin is a golden wolf's head transfixed on a loop, and it has a magnificent chapter house'.

THE SATANIC-HOMOSEXUAL FOCUS OF THESE HIDEOUS BLACK RITUALS

The least celebrated, but by far the most distinguished, living analyst of The Order of Skull and Bones, is the Author's friend Andrei Navrozoy, whose extraordinary book The Gingerbread Race[28], published in 1993, followed Antony Sutton's groundbreaking expose by about seven years. While at Yale, Andrei was the editor of The Yale Literary Review, giving him access to extensive information about Skull and Bones, which had been published inter alia decades earlier in the journal. Having single-handedly unravelled much of the mystery of The Order, Andrei explains, in the final pages of his book, that he made a concluding attempt to expose George Bush Sr.'s membership of Skull and Bones and its implications for governance, prior to the General Election on 8th November 1988. In the course of his researches, Andrei had discovered the Satanic-homosexual nature of the ritual imposed upon 'tapped' members of The Order, by way of Bones' sordid initiation rites. It is appropriate to get to the point here by citing The New York Times, so that any suggestion that this Author may have any axe to grind by following what has since become an honourable tradition of exposing these extreme evils embedded in the American synarchy system, can have no validity-Several weeks prior to that election, Andrei submitted an article to The New York Times entitled 'Why I am Not Voting'. Just one week prior to the election, the article was accepted and set up in type - too late for the article to have any marked effect on the outcome of Bush vs. Dukkakis. On Monday 7th November 1988, Andrei received a telephone call from the Editor who asked him whether it was true that (Bonesman) William J. Buckley Jr. belonged to the secret society. 1 confirmed this, whereupon the

Figure 17:

ACHIEVEMENTS AND REINFORCED GERMAN CONNECTIONS OF THE PRIMARY MID-19TH CENTURY CONSOLIDATORS OF THE ORDER OF SKULL AND BONES AT YALE

The three key mid-19th century figures featured here were responsible for sowing the seeds of the wholesale destabilisation of the traditional morality-based educational system, and ripening it for its contemporary revolutionary purpose*.

In his 1986 work 'America's Secret Establishment, the late Antony Sutton explained: ' Our present educational chaos can be traced to three members of The Order: Daniel Coit Gilman (first President of the University of California and First President of Johns Hopkins University), Timothy Dwight (12th President of Yale University) and Andrew Dickson White (first President of Cornell University). Gilman imported the experimental psychology of the Hegelian physiologist Wilhelm Wundt from Germany. This psychology was grafted onto the American educational system through the educational laboratories at Columbia and Chicago Universities. And they moved... John Dewey [notorious American education engineer - Ed.], a pure Hegelian in philosophy, along the fast track in his career. This has been aptly termed The Leipzig Connection'. For Hegelians, the individual is not important, so the child must be trained to have the attitudes so that he causes no trouble to the state which he is taught to serve, rather than the reverse'.

Antony C. Sutton, op. cit, pages 56 et seq. Hence, the evil influence of the Skull and Bones department of the Illuminati has corrupted and reoriented the US educational system for mental-psychological mass manipulation control purposes. The result Outcome-Based Education, also incorporates Soviet methodology.

DANIEL C. GILMAN
1856: Founded Russell Trust
(The Order, now RTA, Inc.)
Librarian of Yale University
President: University of California
President: Johns Hopkins University
President: Carnegie Institution
THE ORDER
[incorporated
1856]
ANDREW D. WHITE
1854: University of Berlin
1867: President Cornell University
1894: U.S. Ambassador to Berlin
TIMOTHY DWIGHT
1856: University of Berlin
1856: Yale Theological Seminary
1866: President Yale College

Derivation: America's Secret Establishment: An Introduction to The Order of Skull & Bones, Antony C. Sutton, Liberty House Press, Billings, Montana, 1986, page 93.

Note: Skull and Bones, a.k.a. The Brotherhood of Death, a.k.a. 'The Order', was established [see main text] at Yale University in 1832. The Order was first incorporated in 1856.

' So far as education is concerned, the Illuminati objective was [is - Ed.] as follows: 'We must win the common people in every corner. This will be obtained chiefly by means of the schools, and by open, hearty behaviour, show, condescension, popularity and toleration for their prejudices which we shall at leisure root out and dispel' '.

Antony C. Sutton, op. cit, page 80.

NOTE: SEE BOX, PAGE 61, FOR CONFIRMATION THAT THE INITIATION RITES OF SKULL AND BONES AND OF THE SECT OF THE ILLUMINATI, AS DESCRIBED IN 1798 BY JOHN ROBISON. COINCIDE. I.E. SKULL AND BONES IS A CHAPTER OF THE ILLUMINATI. BOTH ARE SWORN TO SILENCE: HENCE THE SKULL HAS NO MANDIBLE.

Editor got round to the point of his call, which was that the article could not be run. Andrei had supplied The New York Times with some of the details of his research. On the very next day, he received at Yale a cutting from The New York Times, which appears to have used his material, and from which Andrei cited certain passages in his book. The article began as follows:

YALE SOCIETY RESISTS PEEKS INTO ITS CRYPT

Special to The New York Times

'NEW HAVEN - In a sylvan pocket tucked off High Street, masked by blank slits in an ancient stone building called the Tomb, barred from the world by a padlocked iron door, Skull and Bones keeps its secrets closely. But it casts a shadow across the country'.

The article had appeared on the front page of the 'Metropolitan' section of the newspaper on Friday, 4th November 1988, and had been carefully timed so as to preclude the possibility of any further investigation immediately ahead of the scheduled Presidential Election on 8th November 1988. Andrei had in fact provided the details for this article as early as two years earlier at a lunch. 'The New York Times had decided to flex its muscle, but not so much as to cause damage to the Bush campaign', he elaborated. The article continued:

'If Bonesmen say anything at all, they portray their association as a venerable fraternity whose rituals instil honourable and selfless values in youthful initiates and forge intimate bonds of friendship that last a lifetime. But their cloak of secrecy suggests something considerably more kabbalisric' [sic! This, from the Jewish-dominated New York newspaper].

As Andrei now explained, 'what that 'something' was, the American voter would not be told, although the reporter did mention, thirteen equivocating paragraphs later, that the youthful initiates...

'...recount their sexual histories while lying naked in a coffin. Within the Tomb are the purloined skulls of Pancho Villa and Geronimo, the latter obtained by a raiding party that included the Vice President's father, Prescott S. Bush.... Efforts to get to the truth are met either by silence (Jonathan Bush, the Vice President's brother declined to answer questions on the subject) or by carefully crafted misinformation'.

CONFIRMATION OF HOMOSEXUAL-SATANIC ORGIES PUBLISHED IN 2004

In 1977, Ron Rosenbaum, who as an undergraduate at Yale lived next door to the Skull and Bones Tomb, prepared what he thought was the first outsider's investigation into the secret society, its rituals and its baleful influence on American culture. He asserted in The New York Observer in 2004 that a member of the Yale community had reported that in April 2000, he had managed to audiotape a Skull and Bones initiation ceremony from a previously unexploited perch within the Tomb. In April 2004, an attempt was made, Rosenbaum explained, to videotape another such ceremony. The team's equipment included three night-vision-capable digital video cameras, one tape recorder, a stepladder and two walkie-talkies. As a result, images were obtained of a figure dressed like the Devil, another figure dressed in a hooded-skeleton costume, and other figures clad in black robes. The most significant finding reported by Rosenbaum was a recording of the Skull and Bones 'death mantra', which nonsensically reiterates the following theme, celebrating the Illuminati's sole product - Death: 'The hangman equals death! The devil equals death! Death equals death!'

Rosenbaum's report in The New York Observer continued: 'Initiates spend [part of] their Senior Year in the basement crypt of the Bones Tomb taking turns lying in a coffin, and, in two long, intense, psycho-drama autobiographical sessions in said coffin, recount their personal sexual history to the other 14 chosen ones.... The death-centered imagery, the injunction to initiates that they must "die to the barbarian world" and be reborn in the Elysian company of the elect of The Order, as they call it, are what makes Skull and Bones radically different from a college fraternity'[29].

Given this endless focus on death, it is hardly surprising that George W. Bush Jr. presided over more executions than any State Governor in the history of the United States: his mind was permanently affected by this culture of death, by this devilish illusion that death is to be exploited in the interests of 'change'. Some Skull and Bones membership books contain pictures of a large number of skulls laid out on a bench, with the word 'Equality' inscribed beneath them, conveying the message that everyone meets death, so that since this is the case, everything is permitted prior to death -including mass executions, fragmentation bombing, and all the other death-oriented atrocities already mentioned. Rosenbaum's report elaborated with a detailed summary of the obscene exclamations and shrieks that the team managed to record, which are frankly too depraved to be repeated here: the reader must refer to the original report in The New York Observer. However it is necessary to relate the central elements of the ritual which were definitively recorded by the investigation team on 12th April 2004, beginning with the stage of the proceedings when 'a devil figure pulled them' (the neophytes or initiates) one by one 'into a white tent in the [internal] courtyard where, we think, they found their femurs' (human bones which they were each required to select from a pile of bones presumably rifled from desecrated graves or from the bodies of murdered victims from earlier years) 'and emerged with what looked like a thigh bone, although it was impossible to tell whether it once belonged to a human or not'.

'When they re-emerged from the tent, they were led to the centrepiece of this part of the ritual. They were forced face-to-face with a shocking tableau: a guy holding what seemed like a butcher knife, wearing a kind of animal-skin "barbarian" look, stood over what seemed to be a woman covered in fake blood and not much else. The neophyte then approached a skull a few feet away from the knife-wielder-and-victim tableau. The neophyte knelt and kissed the skull, at which point the guy with the knife knelt and cut the throat of the prone figure (well, pretended to cut the throat)'.

Andrei Navrozov told the Author personally after Ms book had been published that the ritual in the tomb involved one or more unspeakable acts perpetrated upon the initiates, involving a coffin and sexual activity. To this day, Bonesmen at Yale hold what an early observer described as 'strange, occultish' initiation and other rites each Thursday and Sunday in the gloomy Tomb, which was constructed in 1856. Navrozov also explained the curious custom whereby every year, the 15 current Bonesmen were given a task, involving a requirement that an artefact must be brought back to the Tomb on the Yale campus. The mentioned skulls are the most notorious such artefacts.

As an example, a given year's task might require the Bonesmen to remove a candelabra from a prominent building, or to bring in the Archbishop of Canterbury's mitre. The Author has invented these two examples, but they illustrate the kind of task which has to be fulfilled. An observation to be made is that the annual task emphasises one of the characteristics of American society in general, and of Bonesmen in particular: acquisitiveness. The accumulation of material wealth is a lifelong preoccupation.

A COMPROMISING ADDRESS BY A BONES FOUNDER EXPOSED

One of the most prominent of the early nineteenth century Bonesmen, Daniel Coit Gilman, accompanied by Timothy Dwight and Andrew Dickinson White, went to study philosophy at the University of Berlin. Gilman returned from Europe and incorporated Skull and Bones as the Russell Trust Association in 1856 (in recent years, allegedly to hide irregularities calling into question its charitable tax status, amended to RTA Inc.), with himself as Treasurer and William H. Russell, the cousin of the drug trafficker, as President; and he spent the next 14 years in New Haven consolidating the power of The Order. In 1858 he was appointed Yale's Librarian. It was Gilman who presented The Order of Skull and Bones with the sinister engraving of the four skulls - fool, wise man, beggar, emperor - discussed earlier [see Figure 10, page 33]. The picture is accompanied by a card which reads: 'From the German Chapter. Presented by DC Gilman of D. 50'. We will investigate the meaning of the D shortly.

The influence of these three men was enormous. Daniel Gilman became the first President of the University of California, and helped to found, and was the first President of, Johns Hopkins University in Washington, DC. Gilman was also the first President of the Carnegie Institution, which furthers 'One World' strategies, and helped to found three other prominent foundations - the Peabody, Slater and Russell Sage Foundations. His colleague Andrew D. White was the first President of Cornell University. Millegan reported that he also served as the 'US Minister to Russia, US Ambassador to Berlin and first President of the American Historical Association' (which allegedly regulates historical research and publications ensuring its consistency with, evolving Illuminati strategy). White was also Chairman of the American delegation to the first Hague Conference in 1899, which established an international judiciary'.

Bonesman and Gilman 'buddy' Timothy Dwight, a Professor (believe it or not) at Yale Divinity School, was installed as the President of Yale in 1886. As Milligan confirms, all Yale Presidents since then have either been Bonesmen or else directly tied to the Order of Skull and Bones and its interests. Therefore, this occult Order is integrated into Yale's governing structures and accordingly, as we have seen, effectively controls and influences the University itself, as well as the United States' strategies and the social environment of the country. The trio of Gilman, Dwight and White also influenced other key areas of US and international life, having founded the American Economic Association, the American Chemical Society and the American Psychological Association. Their influence on the US educational system has been profoundly damaging, leading to the imposition of 'Outcome-Based Education', modelled along Soviet lines, which seeks not to inculcate knowledge, skills and understanding but to manipulate the mind and psycho-social orientation of young people for control purposes.

The influence of the Skull and Bones death-oriented manipulative trio on the US educational system is displayed in the panel on page 51 [Figure 18], and the essence of Outcome-Based Education is explained in the diagram on page 53 [Figure 19]. The German origins of the educational assault are examined more fully in Chapter 4.

For the 50th anniversary of the foundation of The Order of Skull and Bones in 1883, Timothy Dwight not only revealed that Elihu Yale's tombstone had been stolen and brought to the Tomb, but also described part of the Skull and Bones initiation ceremony. Andrei Navrozov referred to this document amusingly, citing 'the manuscript of Timothy Dwight's fiftieth anniversary history of the society, a copy of which I am at present the sole uninitiated possessor'[30], and from which he reproduced this passage, Figure 18 [See also Chapter 4]:

THE INFLUENCE OF WILHELM WUNDT ON AMERICAN EDUCATION

HERBART [GERMANY]
Educational theorist. Individual = servant of the state. Studied at Jena University under known Illuminati Herder, Fichte and Goethe.
HEGEL [GERMANY]
Chief exponent of the dialectic, whereby the Illuminati create conflict of 'opposites'.
WILHELM WUNDT
(University of Leipzig 1875-1920)
TRAINS AMERICAN STUDENTS WHO BECOME INFLUENTIAL EDUCATORS
DANIEL COIT GILMAN
(THE ORDER OF SKULL AND BONES)
BECOMES PRESIDENT OF JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
TRAINS JOHN DEWEY
WILLIAM WELCH
(THE ORDER OF SKULL AND BONES)
FOUNDS HOPKINS MEDICAL SCHOOL
COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY TEACHERS COLLEGE
John Dewey (1904-1930)
E. L. Thorndike (1899-1942)
James E. Russell (1897-1917)
Department of Psychology
James McCattell (1891-1917)
UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO SCHOOL OF EDUCATION
John Dewey (1894-1904)
CHARLES JUDD (1909-1946)
German Monetary Economics:
Von Hayek, Von Mises et al.
Funded by Rockefeller Foundations General Education Board and Carnegie Foundation

Derivation: America's Secret Establishment: An Introduction to The Order of Skull & Bones, Antony C. Sutton, Liberty House Press, Billings, Montana, 1986, page 84.

NOTE: The synarchy (rule by secret societies) system is buttressed by the operations of numerous tax-exempt foundations established by members of The Order, which finance projects in furtherance of the secret objectives of the Illuminati, of which Skull and Bones is a coercive component.

in which Dwight revealed the secret Satanic gobbledegook imprecation used by the Bones initiates, and the sexual content of initiation:

'But the initiation itself is not changed. The same gelatinous mess is made of the barbarian stranger in every case, by the same process and by the same solemn rites' [The reader will not be assisted by this Author in interpreting the preceding sentence, which provides 'horse's mouth' confirmation of the perverse sexual content of the 'process and solemn rites', which are 'the same' for every initiate: in other words, there is not a single Skull and Bones initiate who has escaped this Satanic ritual involving masturbating with his peers].

'The new candidate is recreated; ceases to be a Him; finds a new spirit within him, which casts out the old [sic confirmation for True Christians, and for anyone with common sense, that the rites have the intended effect of infesting or investing the initiate with demons, or causing him to suffer demonic infestation or possession with evil spirits, which of course take hold and drive his behaviour unless he repents, for the rest of his life]; knows more of Demosthenes [see below] in a few moments [i.e., though the resulting infestation or possession by evil spirits] than his teachers had ever taught him, and, as he gains for himself the accurate meaning and pronunciation of the word 'Toby-fkliwizi-firo-catlicko-carricks-carnicksi-carnickso-macpherson-o'phane', begins to understand and to speak the sacred language. And so we all become some of the Skull and Crossbones, to whom all others are but contemptible foemen'.

CRASH COURSE TO INFEST IGNORANT YOUNG MEN WITH DEMONS

From this passage, and the preceding information, contained in an address by one of the early patriarchs of The Order of Skull and Bones, who was then the President of Yale College, no less, the following horrendous intelligence emerges:

1. The initiation rituals are designed to be of such demonic intensity that evil spirits are duly invoked, as intended, with the express purpose that the neophyte being initiated is to be infested and/or possessed by them. In occultism and magic, infestation or possession by evil spirits can occur only when the participant, of his own free will, invites Evil Spirit (which, as is manifested in the New Testament is/are both singular and plural simultaneously) to enter him or her. This is an undisputed fact with which all experts, and sound exorcists, agree. (Likewise, in spiritual healing the sick person must, of his or her own free will, believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and has power over all things and the desire to heal the person: otherwise, prayers for spiritual restoration to health may not be heeded). The Satanic initiation rites of The Order of Skull and Bones are clearly crafted so as not to compromise the free will of the initiate, while at the same term subjecting him in practice to oppressive 'peer pressure' that by now he proves unable to resist. Such instrumental interference with and exploitation of the innocence of young people represents a grievous blasphemy against the Holy Spirit. The temple of the Holy Spirit is the human person[31].

2.1. The initiate attends Skull and Bones rituals every Thursday and Sunday during his Senior Year. The first point to make here is that this means his energies and attention are being seriously hijacked and diverted from his studies and from the source of enlightenment that he should in fact be paying attention to, on the assumption that he wishes to progress spiritually, namely Scripture. If he, instead of wasting his time with these reprobate occult rituals and activities, were to devote just half an hour a day to reading Scripture, he would quickly understand that in caving in to The Order's peer pressure tactics, he is being diverted by evil forces from the Way, the Truth and the Life of Jesus Christ. We have to place this consideration first, since this is the essence of the mistake he is making. Instead of which the initiate, being blind, is being led to perdition by the blind, or by those who have been blinded by Satan and who have perversely mistaken the false Tight' he offers for the real thing. 'And no marvel: for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light' (= Lucifer)[32].

2.2. WHY must the initiate attend Skull and Bones rituals every Thursday and Sunday during his Senior Year? The answer to this question 'illuminates' the extreme gravity of the Curse of Yale. What is going on during these rituals? More than enough is known about their content to make it crystal clear to all sober analysts that regular attendance at these Satanic rituals has the following single purpose: to procure specifically that the neophytes/initiates are indeed infested and taken over or possessed by demons (evil spirits). In other words, what is happening is that the initiates undergo a systematic series of witchcraft rituals designed to impregnate evil spirits into high-flying young persons who, unless their wills resist throughout the initiation rites - or their wills are robust enough to give them the strength to refuse to participate and to escape, which has never been heard of - are intended to emerge from Yale infested or possessed by evil spirits, so that they are accordingly equipped for the Luciferian work they will be required to undertake (for massive material rewards, of course) all through their lives on behalf of the Illuminati. We can see clearly that the foregoing is true not least by comparing the intense course of rituals provided by The Order at Yale with the 'more leisurely' diversionary 'service' rendered to Masonic candidates and adepts as they progress through successive Scottish Rite or Grand Orient Degrees towards infestation by evil spirits and the worship of Lucifer. Those processes usually take many years, unless a key figure (such as the current Shah of Persia in exile) is considered to be of such prospective value to the Luciferian elite that he is initiated into, say, the 33rd Degree, having jumped or omitted a large number of 'lesser' degrees. By contrast, the The Order of Skull and Bones at Yale provides an intensive crash course which is intended to procure that, within the space of just the initiate's Senior Year or less, the selected initiates are infested or possessed by demons when they leave Yale. This ensures that, once deposited back into 'real life', no time is wasted by these 'chosen ones', who are accordingly equipped and fully qualified to proceed with the Luciferian tasks that the niuminati will in due course allot to them.

OUTCOME-BASED EDUCATION (= PROGRAMMING)

1	2	3	4	5
CLEAN THE SLATE	DUMB THEM DOWN	MODIFY THEIR BEHAVIOUR	CONFUSE THEIR VALUES	ASSESS. REMEDIATE. ASSESS.
Uproot all pr-existing values, religion, ideas, conditions	Omit academics, and reduce knowledge to a minimum	Stimulus/ response: standard animal training techniques	Dialectical thinking: Technique to induce changes in thinking	Verify that the programming has taken firm hold and brainwashing is final

Figure 19: Outcome-Based Education, imposed in the United States, is derived from the subversive educational philosophy of Wilhelm Wundt [see Figure 18] and from the Soviet blueprint. Its purpose is to brainwash young people so that their minds are controlled and they can be the more easily manipulated.

3. The neophyte/initiate 'begins to understand and to speak the sacred language'. In June 2003, the Author received a weird telephone call from an individual (later clearly identifiable as a CIA operative), calling from Dublin (a hotbed of CIA activity) who, after alleging family ties with the Author, started to discuss Scripture. (Since the National Security Agency, GCHQ and other snooping organisations listen in to the Author's telephone calls, this sudden feigned interest, out of the blue, in the Author's scriptural studies, was clearly a consequence of such routine eavesdropping). During the first half hour, the statements uttered by this cold caller were scripturally correct. However as the conversation progressed, the caller introduced certain abominable aberrations, such as the diversionary lie that Eve had sex with the serpent - from which this ogre concluded that the descendants of that union were the Black and Brown races, while the descendants of the union between Adam and Eve were the White and Yellow races (the old Nazi eugenics garbage). The Author has possession of the name and the Dublin and San Diego addresses of this individual. After ordering a large number of publications, shouting 'I don't mind how much it costs, do you hear me? Send me everything you publish' and providing 'his' (CIA) Credit Card details, the caller then proceeded with the following question: 'Can you speak in tongues?' Upon the Author saying that he could not, the caller emitted a loud demonstration of incomprehensibly hideous convoluted verbal non-stop gobbledegook.

The Author quickly realised that this represented a demonstration of an infestation which the caller could evidently 'turn on and off' at will, and which he purported to believe was the work of the Holy Spirit - whereas of course in reality it represented a manifestation of trickery by one or more manifestations of Evil Spirit, and therefore represented another blasphemy against the Holy Ghost (for which no forgiveness is available). When the Apostles were visited at Pentecost by the Holy Spirit, they spoke in foreign tongues and made perfect sense to those foreigners who were present[33], whereas the harsh demoniac noise coming down the phone line from this deluded CIA operative was chaotic, confused, and meaningless. After two further unsolicited demonstrations of this dreadful stream of confused drivel, which the CIA caller started and stopped, like turning the bathwater on and off, and which he continued to misrepresent as a manifestation of the Holy Spirit's gift of 'speaking in tongues', the Author made it plain to the caller that he was in error, and finally managed to terminate the unsolicited 'conversation'[34].

But in the light of the passage from Timothy Dwight's 50th anniversary address to assembled Bonesmen, placed in the public domain by Andrei Navrozov, it is crystal clear to the Author that this verbal garbage was illustrative of or comparable to, and from the same source as, the 'sacred language' of Skull and Bones witchcraft, such as: 'Toby-fkliwizi-firo-catlicko-carricks-carnicksi-carnickso-macpherson-o'phane'.

In other words, fake 'speaking in tongues' is one of the manifestations of demonic infestation or possession which is or can be conferred through the Satanic initiation rites to which those Senior Year Yale undergraduates who are 'lucky' enough to be 'slapped' and 'tapped', foolishly and ignorantly aspire. Self-evidently, those who are not 'tapped' suffer disappointment at their exclusion from the advertised guaranteed route to wealth and power at the time, but are saved from the extreme dangers inherent in any dabbling with the occult. This is a particularly evil form of 'dabbling' as the neophyte is made to 'desire' the 'privilege' of initiation, which turns out to be a trap liable to enslave him for the rest of his life, turning him into a servant of Lucifer[35].

Figure 20:

'IN YOUR FACE' DISPLAYS OF THE ILLUMINATI'S OCCULT KABBALISTIC NUMBER 322: SEE ALSO PAGES 72 & 738

The Area Code for Brussels is 322. As a defector from the sect of the Illuminati explains in Chapter 7, Belgium has traditionally been the financial centre of the Illuminati. Therefore, when dialling a Brussels telephone number, one is dialling into the seat of the New Underworld Order, the engine of the globalist revolutionary assault on nation states. The European Union Collective exists to subsume and displace its constituent nation states, as befits such a Leninist supranational organisation which operates collectively and superfluously duplicates government structures, after the Leninist control model. Lenin was an implementer for the Illuminati. Nation states stand in the way of Illuminati hegemony.

For many years, the World Council of Churches, a revolutionary body with secular objectives masquerading as a Christian organisation, had precisely 322 member churches. The Second Iraq War was carefully planned to begin on 22nd March 2003 (322), but was triggered 48 hours earlier ostensibly, according to the 'line' retailed in late April 2003, because the CIA had been in close contact with a 'guy on the ground' in Baghdad before the war about Saddam Hussein's movements, prompting the United States to attack one of the dictator's compounds earlier than planned. An agonised meeting took place in the Oval Office, lasting for four hours, as President Bush and his colleagues wrestled with the problem of whether or not it would be 'bad luck' not to start the war on the kabbalistically opportune date of 322. It proved, as subsequent events have shown, to be 'bad luck' indeed.

On 12th November 2001, DynCorp, an intelligence community and US Government data processing, military operations and intelligence work contractor, was awarded a contract worth precisely $322 million to produce and store vaccines for the US Department of Defense. DynCorp, with Hadron, both of which are US intelligence-linked defence contractors, are involved inter alia in classified research programmes on communicable diseases.

Around New Year 2004, British Airways Flight 223 (which is 322 backwards) en route to Washington, DC was repeatedly delayed while US Homeland Security officials investigated every passenger against a data base, establishing that there were no terrorists on board on any of the flights concerned. 322 people were reported slaughtered in the Beslan atrocity.

The US-sourced computer program used by the Author to make up this book has a mechanism enabling blank pages to be mass-produced forward. The Author made use of this facility and, without specifying how many extra blank pages were needed, was surprised to discover that the page expansion mechanism had stopped on page - guess what?
- 322. Another British researcher who has been preparing manuscripts exposing Skull and Bones and Masonic occultism has, on several occasions, found that the number 322 has suddenly appeared on his screen, for no rational reason (Evil Spirit is not rational).

The Order of Skull and Bones is known as The Brotherhood of Death, and as Chapter 322 of a German secret society which, given the virtual identity of Skull and Bones initiation rituals with those of the Illuminati sect, and the precise coincidence of their objectives and modi operandi, is certainly the Illuminati. Given that 'Bones' adepts are branded in the small of the back with a 'D' for Demosthenes [see main text], who committed suicide in BC 322, the date of this legendary Greek character's death is also pertinent - as is the fact that it is in Mark Chapter 3, verse 22, that we read: 'And the Scribes which came down from Jerusalem said "He hath Beelzebub, and by the Prince of the Devils doth he cast out devils"'.

This discovery prompted the Author to look up other combinations of 3 and 22 in the Gospels (on the basis that these people, not the Author, attach occultic, kabbalistic, magical, Luciferian, superstitious significance to such numerology; and what do we find?

Why, that Luke, Chapter 22, verse 3, is the place where Luke writes: 'Then entered Satan into Judas surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve'. It was Satan himself, not one or more of his demons, who entered into Judas Iscariot: in Chapter 22, 3 (322 reversed). Given that The Order is The Brotherhood of Death - Satan's product
- this verse makes everything plain. For the rigorous schedule of Skull and Bones rituals and its Senior Year indoctrination represents a crash course in demonic infestation or possession. ■

THE 'GREAT AND THE GOOD' = OFTEN THE VERY BAD AND THE LOST

Prominent initiates of Skull and Bones down the decades who, in varying degrees, have imposed, sustained or in no way impeded the deadeningly reprobate hegemony of, their Satanic 'death culture' upon US strategy, society and thus upon the international community, have been identified in recent years by other researchers from The Order's own documentation - some of which has become available after initiates have 'seen the light' (i.e., repented), and after break-ins to the Tomb on the Yale campus. A published list of Skull and Bones members over many decades was made available to Antony Sutton by the daughter of a 'Bonesman', and Kris Millegan has published an extensive list of 'Bonesmen' in his book 'Fleshing Out Skull and Bones', published in 2003[36].

Among known members identified from such Bones records, including a large number of Jewish extraction, are Victor Ashe, who was serving as US Ambassador to Poland in early 2005 (in good time for the Pope's death on 2nd April 2005, and who is known to be George W. Bush's extremely close associate), many Aliens, Bissells, Blairs, Blakes, David Lyle Boren (a top Illuminati implementer), Bowles, Bradfords, Browns and Brooks, William Buckley, William and McGeorge Bundy, George Herbert Walker Bush, George W Bush, Jonathan Bush, Prescott Sheldon Bush (the Bush family patriarch), a large number of Cheneys (but not Richard Cheney), innumerable Clarks, Henry Sloane Coffin, many Cowles, Davenports, Davieses and Davises, Days, Timothy Dwight, Edwards, Ellises, Emersons, Esselstyns, Evans, Farnams, Fergusons, Irving Fisher, Fisks, Footes, Fosters, Franks, Frosts, Fullers, Gills, Hadleys, Halls, William Hamilton (cartoonist and writer, evidently NOT the inventor of the PROMIS software), William Averill Harriman, Henry John Heinz E, Donald Hoagland, the diplomat John Holbrook, Hoyts, Hudsons, Hydes, Jacksons, James, Johnsons, Johnstones, Jones, Kelloggs, John Kerry, Knapps, Knights, Lambs, Lamberts, Lewises, Lipincofts, Littles, Livingstones, Lords including Winston Lord, Lovetts - including Robert Lovett who replaced General Marshall as Secretary of Defense and who, after the Second World War, chaired the Lovett Committee which wrote the precise prescription for the establishment of the Central Intelligence Agency in 1947 - inducing Gaddis Smith, a Yale history professor, to pronounce that 'Yale has influenced the Central Intelligence Agency more than any other university, giving the CIA the atmosphere of a class reunion' - Lukins, Lufkins, Lynches, Mallons, Matthews, Thomas McNamara, Millers, Mills, Mitchells, Moores, Morrises, Nicholls, O'Briens, Oppenheimers, Owens, Paines, Palmers, Pecks, Perkins, Perrins, Perrys, Peters, Phelps, Pinchots, Pillsburys, Pratts, Prestons, Prices, Joseph C Rathborne, George Raymond, Reids, Richards, Richardsons, Robertsons, Roberts, Robinsons, Percy Avery Rockefeller, Roses, Ross, Russells including William Huntington Russell, Scotts, Joshua Sears, Seymours, Sheffields, Shepards, Simmons, Slades, Sloanes, Smiths, Smyths, Snells, Spencers, Eugene William Stetson Jr. (a friend of the senior Bush and of Averill Harriman, who organised the H. Smith Richardson Foundation which participated in MK-ULTRA, the CIA domestic covert psychological warfare (Psy-Ops) operation), Stevens, Stephensons, Stewards, Stillmans, Henry Lewis Stimson (who was 'credited' with having persuaded President Truman to achieve change through death by dropping atoms bombs on Japan), Strongs, Stubbs, many Tafts (including Alfonso, a 'Bonesman' colleague of the drug-linked William H. Russell in the Class of 1833 and William Howard Taft, US President from 1909 to 1913), Taylors, Thachers, Thompsons and Thomsons, Thornes, Townsends, Tylers, Alfred Vanderbilt, Waldens, George Herbert Walker (x2), Henry Wallace, Watkins, Wells, Frederick Weyerhauser, Whites, many Whitneys, Wilburs, Williams, Wilsons, Dean Witter, Woods, Woodruffs, Woolleys, Wrights and Zuckers [37].

The 'class reunion' characteristic of the Central Intelligence Agency - which, like other intelligence services such as MI5 (with its occultic triangle-symbol: see Figure 1, page 3) possesses features akin to an occult secret society, as has been the case since at least the time of Queen Elizabeth I - is evident from any review of the pedigrees of some of the better known 'spooks' who, as Mr Millegan puts it so appropriately, have built 'the CIA's haunted house'. These include (with their Skull and Bones Year in parentheses), Sloane Coffin (1949), James Buckley (1944), Bill Buckley (1950), William and McGeorge Bundy (1939 and 1940), Senator David Boren (1963), Senator John Kerry (1966), and George H. W Bush Sr. (1948) (who 'tapped' Coffin who 'tapped' Bill Buckley, the alleged continuing mouthpiece of the US Illuminati).

Other prominent 'Bonesmen' have included Henry Luce, of Time-Life (1920); John Thomas Daniels, of Archer Daniels Midland (1914); Harold Stanley, a founder of Morgan Stanley (1908); Alfred Cowles, of Cowles Communications (1913); Henry P. Davison, Senior Morgan Guaranty Trust partner (1920); John Heinz, Chief Executive Officer, Heinz Foods (1931); Pierre Jay, first Chairman, Federal Reserve Bank of New York; George Herbert Walker, Jr., financier and co-founder of the New York Mets (1927); Fred Smith, founder, Chief Executive Officer and President of Federal Express (1966); William Draper III, of the US Defense Department, the United Nations and the US Import-Export Bank; Dean Witter, investment banker (1944); Russell W Davenport, editor of Fortune Magazine and creator of the Fortune 500 list that celebrates material wealth (1923); Evan G. Galbraith, US Ambassador to France and Managing Director of Morgan Stanley (1950); Richard Gow, President of Zapata Oil, for which George Bush Sr. worked and was/is connected (1955); Amory Howe Bradford, married to Carol Warburg Rothschild, General Manager, The New York Times (1934); C. E. Lord, who was Comptroller of the Currency (1949); and Winston Lord, Chairman, the Council on Foreign Relations, US Ambassador to China, and Assistant Secretary of State under President Clinton. Many Bonesmen have been US Ambassadors to China, the source and top consumer of opiates in the 19th century, since President Nixon re-established a direct US political and economic relationship with the Chinese Communists.

SKULL AND BONES AND THE GLOBAL DRUG TRADE

Details of the traditional connections between between Yale, Skull and Bones and the global drug trade have also been delineated by researchers. In 1903, the Yale Divinity School established a network of schools and hospitals in China, with Mao Tse-Tung among their staff. Mao, that former employee of the Yale organisation in China, who had been involved in narcotics operations during the 1930s and 1940s, used drugs against Chinese populations before reorganising China's drug-related intelligence activities to focus on external operations after the Communists had seized power in 1949. The presence of Mao Tse-Tung among the personnel at a Yale-organised establishment in China provides evidence of US intelligence intermeddling in Chinese affairs in connection with the spread of Communism to China. It appears that - as in the subsequent well-known instances of Slobodan Milosevic, Saddam Hussein, and General Manuel Noriega - US intelligence's intrigues in China during the prewar and World War II years, exploiting Yale's 'China resources', were associated with an operation in which Mao Tse-

Tung may have been double-crossed - a familiar ploy of US intelligence, based upon the crude operational 'bait and switch' tactic. In the 1970s, George Bush Sr. was allegedly despatched to 'look after' the China trade originally developed by Messrs Russell and Company, which was among the first, along with European opium trading houses, to trade out of Shanghai when the port was first opened to foreigners in 1843. As Kris Millegan has written, 'the Bush family is still very much involved in the economic activities of "Red" China. Many researchers contend that George Bush Sr. has been with the CIA since the early 1950s, and that one of his jobs was to consolidate and co-ordinate the worldwide narcotics industry, the largest industry on earth'.

It is, as will be revealed in Chapter 7, the industry most extensively exploited by the Illuminati to finance The New Underworld Order, fronted secretly by Germany. What has not hitherto been understood is that George Bush Sr. allegedly took over from Admiral Canaris, the veteran German spymaster, as the head of Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst (DVD), the German 'Black' intelligence agency and controller of German global strategy (covered by the STASI, the Illuminati dimension and the Cold War), in the late 1970s, after he ceased to be Director of Central Intelligence (DCI) and ahead of his becoming US Vice President. This was possible not least because George Bush (Busche) Sr. may hold German nationality (which can be based on ethnicity) as well as his US nationality.

It is no accident that the activities of the global energy corporations and of intelligence linked drug-trafficking organisers, appear in many contexts to coincide. For instance, Richard L. Armitage, a veteran operative who served as Deputy Secretary of State under Colin Powell during the first Bush Jr. Administration, refused Condoleeza Rice's invitation to remain with the State Department, reportedly using colourful language to make his point, and indicating that he would be leaving the Government to establish an 'export-import agency' in Kabul, where, prior to the US invasion, the Taliban had all but eradicated drug-cultivation and trafficking operations. Following the post-9/11 US invasion of Afghanistan, drug cultivation soared to the highest levels ever recorded. The Vietnam 'Police Action' was likewise almost certainly connected to the lust of criminalised US intelligence, serving not the interests of the American people but rather those of the Illuminati, and behind them Germany, to acquire hegemony in the 'Golden Triangle'. Large numbers of bodybags were returned from Vietnam stuffed not with human bodies, but with heroin.

Prior to the Vietnam 'War', the Golden Triangle focused upon Burma was operated by Corsican mobsters and French intelligence operatives. When the United States replaced the French, penetrated US intelligence, assisted by Sicilian mafia cadres, took over[38]. Under President Reagan, the highest US Government official involved in the so-called 'war on drugs' was then the most prominent of all 'Bonesmen' - the then Vice President George Bush Sr., who chaired Reagan's Cabinet working group on drugs and was Director of the National Narcotics Interdiction System which, like all subsequent US official 'anti-drug' structures, performed the function of providing the chief drug-runners with a convenient means of maintaining an accurate overview of the global drug economy, and of eliminating or controlling the opposition. Frances Mullen Jr., a former chief of the ineffective Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA), which carries out token 'anti-drug busts' in order to remind the American people that the Government is 'doing something' about the drugs scourge, described Mr Bush Sr.'s purported antidrug activities as 'an intellectual fraud' and 'a liability rather than an asset'. This was of course code for his knowledge that George Bush Sr. is allegedly the biggest global drug-trafficking crook of them all, in line with his DVD status. Further specific details of US covert intelligence drug-trafficking policy for the Illuminati, follow in Chapter 3.

As Kris Millegan reports, 'soon after these statements, Mullen resigned and the resultant General Accounting Office (GAO) report was buried'[39]. The GAO document stated that there were 'no benefits from the US National Narcotics Border Interdiction System, directed by George Bush. In fact, the overall effect was to encourage supply'. This is just one of a long series of incidents and documents exposing the reality that the corrupted US Government intelligence structures are in the hands of, integrated with and in many respects indistinguishable from, organised criminal interests - as a direct consequence of which the self-financing, stand-alone US intelligence community has effectively hijacked, and covertly controls, the US Government itself. Since the CIA, with its myriad 'subordinate' agencies, is hugely criminalised and may accurately be described, like the KGB, as a 'state within the state 'and a criminal organisation, and since an International Monetary Fund official is on record as having stated that 'we cannot fix the global drug problem because if the drug problem were to be solved, the international financial system would collapse'[40], the United States is the checkmated victim of a truly millennial crisis which is destabilising the whole world.

In March 2005, a senior US intelligence officer told this Author that 'no-one' (in Washington) 'can move'. He refused to elaborate, since he was referring to the blackmail nexus which is throttling governance. In conversations with other US operatives in the spring of 2005, the Author was advised that the overall situation could be described as one of 'check' but not of 'check-mate'. Successive Presidencies have been penetrated and controlled by German 'Black' intelligence (DVD), based in Dachau -the key exception being John R Kennedy, who was assassinated on German (DVD) instructions precisely because he was not a DVD asset. In addition to George Bush Jr.'s father, reliably alleged to be the actual head of the DVD, the retention of George Tenet, a Clinton appointee and an alleged German/French intelligence asset, as Director of Central Intelligence, was the coup that most fatally compromised the Administration of George Bush Jr., from the outset.

The US intelligence community's control over the media, which has culminated, as noted earlier, with the installation of an intelligence cell in every press room, is nothing new. In the late 1980s, Monika Jensen-Stevenson, a staff producer with the 60 Minutes programme at CBS, left her job after CBS had refused to air her findings on the United States' involvement in drug-trafficking. In 1991, she published Kiss the Boys Goodbye[41], which explains inter alia just how the US intelligence community perverted the official Prisoner-of-War/Missing-in-Action (POW/MIA) structures, and used them to cover the trafficking of drugs from the Golden Triangle region. Likewise the criminalised US intelligence community (or elements of it) have routinely leveraged the taxpayer-funded anti-drug structures (such as the Drug Enforcement Agency) as cover for drug-running operations, and to facilitate the seizure of control over and elimination of competition. The Government indulges in cosmetic operations to appease public opinion.

- The so-called 'War on Terrorism' has a coefficient - called the 'War on Drugs'. In addition to fronting the US National Narcotics Border Interdiction System, Vice President Bush fronted a Task Force on Combating Terrorism, under President Reagan, as a result of which counter-terrorism tactics, the politics of the drug wars between criminal gangs and between criminalised elements of national intelligence communities, became interchangeable and indistinguishable. As Russell S. Bowen once pointed out, 'the war against terrorism and the war on drugs have similar modi operandi in [respect of] their disdain for the [US] Constitution. Only one career Government man has the distinction of simultaneously overseeing both these "wars", George Bush'.

Mr Bowen might have added that drug-trafficking is terrorism.

In the case of General Manuel Noriega, formerly a drug-trafficking 'partner' of the United States, his greed placed him in direct conflict with covert US drug-running interests, so he was 'taken out' - enabling US business to be resumed 'as normal'; and the Afghani Taliban were overthrown after their suppression and usurpation of local opium poppy cultivation interfered with cash flows into the US financial system, with destabilising financial and economic consequences. Within one year of the US invasion of Afghanistan, opium poppy production now 'protected' by the US military, had risen to historically unprecedented levels - while sporadic anecdotal information received in the summer of 2005 indicated that rehabilitation of the country remained largely a pipedream. No wonder that the sinister Richard L. Armitage was in such a hurry to get back into the 'business', setting up his 'export-imporf agency in Kabul. He is alleged to have exclaimed, while hidebound by his State Department position: 'We gotta get back into business'.

ROSS PEROT FIRED ONCE BUSH SR. KNEW WHERE HE WAS COMING FROM

After President Ronald Reagan had appointed Ross Perot, the Texas billionnaire, to the President's Advisory Council on Foreign Intelligence, the late President added to Perof s responsibilities by making Perot a special Presidential investigator, charged inter alia with researching the fate of the United States' Prisoners of War (POWs) and troops Missing in Action (MIA) from the Vietnam War. Taking his new responsibilities very seriously, Mr Perot, equipped with special clearance and access to documents and sources, spent a considerable amount of time and money (presumably his own, as the American Government typically takes advantage of others' private wealth) looking for answers to questions which have distressed thousands of suffering, bereaved Americans for decades. Monika Jensen-Stevenson reported on Ross Perot's activities as follows, in 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye':

ILLUMINATI TARGET THE TOP UNIVERSITIES

Universities were originally founded as centres inter alia of religious instruction. For instance, the Author's magnificent Oxford College is named Christ Church. But while he was an undergraduate there, he noticed little of the presence of Jesus Christ: in fact the ancient Cathedral is spiritually cold, depressing and 'dead'. The reason for this becomes evident if one enters the right-hand ante-chapel area and turns with one's back to the small altar, looking upwards. There, displayed well above eye level, are certain Masonic inscriptions. In other words, this College-based Cathedral, like the College itself, and so much else at Oxford, is double-minded. Antony Sutton has the following interesting observation on page 80 of his work 'Inside America's Secret Establishment: An introduction to the Order of Skull and Bones' [op. cit.]:

'The Illuminati was founded at the University of Ingolstadt. The Group (a German-linked Illuminati Establishment source) was founded at All Soul's College, Oxford, and The Order [of Skull and Bones] was founded at Yale University in the United States'.

Although we might quarrel with the assertion that the Illuminati were actually founded by Adam Weishaupt at Ingolstadt (a substantial body of research suggests a far longer historical pedigree), that is not pertinent: the Illuminati were consolidated at Ingolstadt.

But Antony Sutton then draws attention to the following irony: 'The paradox is that institutions supposedly devoted to the search for truth and freedom have given birth to institutions devoted to world enslavement' - by 'Brothers' of the Illuminati conspiracy. Chapter 8 reveals that The Apostles at Cambridge were an Abwehr recruiting pool. ■

'Relations between Bush and Perot had gone downhill ever since the Vice President had asked Ross Perot how his POW/MIA investigations were going'.

"'Well, George, I go in looking for prisoners", said Perot, "but I spend all my time discovering [that] the Government has been moving drugs around the world and is involved in illegal arms deals.... I can't get at the prisoners because of the corruption among our own people"'. Whether Perot knew that he was speaking directly to the alleged primary source of that corruption, was not related.

'This ended Perot's official access to the highly classified files as a one-man presidential investigator. "I have been instructed to cease and desist", he had informed the families of missing men early in 1987'.

This contretemps was described slightly differently by Russell S. Bowen in 1991: 'As Cold War adventurism was given primacy in American foreign policy over the goals of the war on drugs, covert action and the secrets of the CIA's continuing wars in Southeast Asia were considered more important than efforts to release POWs. The POW issue has never been popular with American liberals' [= socialists - Ed.] 'who otherwise rush to question the CIA, because it was an issue which became a cause of the American righf (and also because of the implications for socialism of any detailed exposures of Soviet criminality towards Prisoners of War and missing US soldiers).

'One of the loudest critics of Government cover-ups of POW information is Senator Jesse Helms. Ronald Reagan embraced the cause of appointing Texas billionaire Ross Perot to investigate the fate of Vietnam MIAs. But Mr Perot took the assignment more seriously than the Reagan-Bush Administration [had] apparently intended'. Here again, it would appear that the main intention of appointing Perot had been to divert the abused American public with a charade, conveying the impression that 'something was being done' to solve the 'riddle' of the missing POW /MIAs.

'When he got hard evidence of at least some POWs [being] still alive in Southeast Asia and found his search for them blocked by American intelligence officials involved

SIMILARITY OF ILLUMINATI INITIATION TO THE INITIATION RITUAL RITES OF SKULL AND BONES

The classic expose of the sect of the Illuminati, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', by John Robison, originally published in 1798 [see Chapter 7] contains a description of part of the initiation ceremony or ritual for the degree of Regent (there are only two Illuminati degrees that are higher, according to Robison, Magus and Rex), which reveals similarities with the death-oriented initiation ritual of The Order of Skull and Bones, a.k.a. The Brotherhood of Death, a.k.a. The Order:

The candidate is presented for reception in the character of a slave; and it is demanded of him what has brought him into this most miserable of all conditions. He answers: Society - the State - Submissiveness - False Religion. A skeleton is pointed out to him, at the feet of which are laid a Crown and a Sword. He is asked whether it is the skeleton of a King, a Nobleman, or a Beggar? As he cannot decide, the President of the meeting says to him, 'the character of being a Man is the only one that is of importance'.

As with Skull and Bones, the essence of the point is that we are all mortal, so we are all equal (in death), which by extension implies that all power is illegitimate or to be challenged (the unspoken exception being the intended collective power of the Illuminati).

The Regent ritual stresses the 'line' that power in the hands of 'our rulers' is 'not so secure as in the hands of our Members whom we train up with so much care, and place about Princes' and that the Illuminati are uniquely and exclusively qualified to rule. ■ in drug trafficking, Perot complained to Vice-President Bush. As soon as Mr Bush realized where Perot was coming from, Perot was dropped like a hot stone by the Administration[42]. This story, incidentally, illustrates a tell-tale phenomenon that we have identified among members of the intelligence community: they are constantly blowing their cover. They blow their cover whenever one of their multiple lies unravels before our noses, as happens all the time; whenever a high security classified telephone rings accidentally in an office by mistake; whenever an eavesdropping chip is found in a target's jacket; whenever a political activist who has single-handedly exposed the fraudulence of a General Election is poisoned; whenever heavy breathing and pointed electronic interruptions and noise take place during telephone calls; whenever an undertaking is breached; whenever one of them who has threatened a colleague (as they do all the time) demands to know whom he is alleged to have threatened and whether the person asking the question is possessed; and whenever all kinds of other reprobate behaviour rarely encountered in normal life, is observed. In this instance, Vice President Bush Sr. reconfirmed, if any confirmation was ever necessary the involvement of US intelligence and the Government at the very highest level in drug-running, at the expense of American prisoners of War and Missing in Action, and with stone cold-hearted indifference to the plight and suffering of the bereaved.

Addictive drugs such as heroin and cocaine cannot be manufactured for distribution without the necessary precursor chemicals. Therefore, establishing which pharmaceutical companies manufacture these chemicals provides leads to the Octopus-like network of organised criminality which hides within and at the highest levels of the official structures. Among the largest manufacturers of the precursor chemicals used for cocaine and heroin is Eli Lilly Company of Indianapolis, one of the most occult of all American cities. This is the home capital of the Quayle family which is a shareholder in the firm, on the board of which George Bush Sr. has served. Eli Lilly is also the corporation which was the first, evidently, to synthesise LSD for the US intelligence community. A number of Bush family members have held shares in Eli Lilly.

In 'George Bush: The Unauthorised Biography', by Webster Griffin Tarpley and Anton Chaitkin, which traces in great detail the convoluted activities and relationships of George Bush Sr., reference is made in Chapter Four to the H. Smith Richardson Foundation [see page 56], which became 'a Bush family-dictated private slush fund which was to be utilized by the Central Intelligence Agency, and by Vice-President Bush, for the conduct [actually, just one of the conduits - Ed.] of the Iran-Contra adventures...'.

'The Bush family knew Richardson and his wife through their mutual friendship with Sears Roebuck's Chairman, General Robert E. Wood. General Wood had been President of the America First organization, which had lobbied against war with Hitler's Germany. H. Smith Richardson had contributed the start-up money for America First and had spoken out against the United States "joining the Communists" in fighting Hitler. Richardson's wife was a proud relative of Nancy Langehorne from Virginia, who married Lord Astor and backed the Nazis from their Cliveden Estate.... The H. Smith Richardson Foundation was organized by Eugene Stetson, Jr.., Richardson's son-in-law. Stetson (Skull and Bones, 1934) had worked for Prescott Bush as Assistant Manager of the New York branch of Brown Brothers Harriman'.

[This is how these Octopus-related narratives, which drop names everywhere with tedious regularity, proceed. One must be patient].

'In the late 1950s, the H. Smith Richardson Foundation took part in the "psychological warfare" of the CIA. This was not a foreign, but a domestic, covert operation, carried out mainly against unwitting US citizens. CIA Director Allen Dulles and his British allies organized MK-ULTRA, the testing of psychotropic drugs including LSD on a very large scale, allegedly to evaluate 'chemical warfare' possibilities. In this period, the Richardson Foundation helped finance experiments at Bridgewater Hospital in Massachusetts, the center of some of the most brutal MK-ULTRA tortures'.

As has been summarised [page 62], Eli Lilly Co. synthesised LSD for the Central Intelligence Agency's brutal MK-ULTRA offensive, which at a later stage was allegedly controlled by Richard Cheney, George Bush Jr.'s Vice President. Russell S. Bowen reports that 'after leaving the CIA [sic: this is of course inaccurate] in 1977, George Bush was made a Director of the Eli Lilly pharmaceutical company by none other than Dan Quayle's father and family, who owned the controlling interest in the Lilly company and the Indianapolis Star. Dan Quayle subsequently allegedly acted as a go-between for drug kingpins, gun runners and US Government officials' implicated in what is formally known as the Iran-Contra scandals (although this phrase has since acquired the broader meaning of referencing the entire hornets' nest of related scandals). 'The entire Bush family were large stockholders in Lilly, Abbott, Bristol, Pfizer, etc. After Bush's disclosure of assets in 1979, it became public [knowledge] that Bush's family still had a large interest in Pfizer and substantial stock in the drug companies. In fact, Bush actively lobbied illegally both within and without the Administration as Vice President in 1981, to permit drug companies to dump more unwanted, obsolete or especially domestically-banned substances on Third World countries'.

'While Vice President, Bush continued to act illegally on behalf of pharmaceutical companies by going to the IRS [Internal Revenue Service] for special tax breaks for certain drug companies manufacturing in Puerto Rico. In 1981, Bush was ordered to stop lobbying on behalf of the drug companies, by the US Supreme Court. He did, but the pharmaceutical companies still received a 23% additional tax break for their companies in Puerto Rico which made these American-outlawed drugs for sale to Third World countries'[43]. As is revealed in Addendum 3 on page 679, Dan Quayle has subsequently allegedly been engaged in finding 'placement' opportunities for the endless streams of drug-trafficking proceeds which are laundered via so-called 'hedge funds'.

Since this flow-of-funds is relentless and never-ending, the primary objective of its 'hidden' managers is to find 'investment opportunities' so that the funds can conveniently be placed or invested as quickly as possible, after having been 'parked' with hedge fund accounts. This explains why Dan Quayle's investigations have involved seeking 'investment' opportunities in the shape of a rescued Japanese bank and bankrupt airlines, including Air Canada. The fact that a target organisation is commercially unviable or effectively bankrupt is not, in this context, a barrier to such 'buyout' investments. On the contrary, organisations in such an advanced stage of commercial and financial decrepitude may be ideal depositories for such laundered funds, given that they necessarily require financial injections that are significantly larger than viable enterprises, by an order of magnitude.

Since the flow of drug-trafficking proceeds has at times been far greater than the flow of funds arising from oil and gas transactions (although the much higher oil price structure (in mid-2006) brought the two sources of Black funds into line), an army of 'specialists' such as the alleged Illuminati operative Dan Quayle is engaged in seeking out bolt-holes for the never-ending and ever-ballooning cascade of global drug remittances.

EUGENICS AND MIND- AND PERSONALITY CONTROL

An addendum to the activities of the Bush-linked H. Smith Richardson Foundation may conveniently be included here. Averill Harriman (1913), involved in racial purity issues and the mastermind of the eugenics movement, had based this activity at Yale University, where the American Eugenics Society maintained its headquarters. Tarpley and Chaitkin reported in 1992 that 'the coercive psychiatry and sterilization advocates had made the Yale/New Haven Hospital and Yale Medical School their laboratories for hands-on practice in brain surgery and psychological experimentation' - one of the lines of enquiry controlled by Himmler in Nazi Germany which were continued in the United States after the importation of a large number of Nazi scientists from 1946 onwards [see Chapter 8]. 'And the Birth Control League was there, which had long trumpeted the need for eugenical births - fewer births for parents with 'inferior' bloodlines. Prescott Bush's partner Tighe was a Connecticut director of the League, and the Connecticut League's medical advisor was the eugenics advocate Dr Winternitz' (of German extraction, naturally) 'of Yale Medical School.... In 1950, people who knew something about Prescott Bush knew that he had very unsavoury roots in the eugenics movement.

Eugenics and psychological mind- and personality-manipulation were twin obsessions of Heinrich Himmler's Nazi scientists. All projects initiated through the agency of Luciferians acquire a 'seething energy' of their own [see page 72] - a case in point being a Center for Creative Leadership partly funded and established by the H. Smith Richardson Foundation (linked to Bush Sr.), located north of Greensboro, North Carolina (not far from the seat of American/'world' Scottish Rite Freemasonry).

An investigator for the Tarpley-Chaitkin book toured the facility in 1990 with a guide, who said that 'in these rooms, agents of the Central Intelligence Agency and the Secret Service are trained. He demonstrated the two-way mirrors through which the Government employees are watched, while they are put through mind-bending psychodramas. The guide explained that "virtually everyone who becomes a general" in the US armed forces also goes through this "training" at the Richardson Center. Another office of the Center for Creative Leadership is in Langley, Virginia, at the headquarters of the Central Intelligence Agency. Here also, Richardson's Center trains leaders of the Central Intelligence Agency .

The Order of Skull and Bones, and most of the other 'fraternal' Yale University societies, with their secret passwords and handgrips, furnish naive and worldly young men with varying degrees of mental conditioning and brainwashing, depending upon the witchcraft content of their rituals and gobbldegook - the 'Bones' cult being the most diabolical because, as discussed, it imposes an intensive crash-course upon the neophytes with the specific intent of inducing infestation and/or possession by evil spirits. The Author remembers an American graduate who suddenly appeared at Christ Church, Oxford, and stayed for one year. The physical appearance of this person was awesome and dark: frightening in fact. A generation or so later, the Author encountered this individual at a party in New York, and his physical appearance remained as dark as ever. He is listed as 'Bonesman' of a Class of the late 1940s.

People's faces do not necessarily betray the fact that the person concerned has dabbled in witchcraft: but they often do. While referred to by those on the inside as 'The Order' - a feature of many Illuminati organisations: indeed the use of this phrase is a definitive indication of Illuminati membership, as already mentioned - Skull and Bones is, as we have seen, also referred to by some as Chapter 322 of a German secret society. Researchers usually leave this observation hanging in mid-air, failing to seek identification of the German secret society concerned. The Author believes, and is certain, that the German secret society in question is the Illuminati. Antony Sutton was unsure, in the 1980s, whether this sect had remained in existence after it was suppressed in Bavaria in the eighteenth century. This book proves that it exists, using new contemporary information, and drawing on multiple sources, old and new, to expose its cynically manipulative modus operandi. Skull and Bones is indeed a primary locus and spawning pond of the Illuminati virus in the United States.

More and more evidence of this truth is being brought together by researchers. In his book The Holocaust, the distinguished historian, Martin Gilbert, revealed that it was agreed at the notorious Wannsee Conference in 1942, when expansion of the Nazi 'Final Solution' was finalised under the cold supervision of SS Obergruppenfuhrer Reinhard Heyrich and the Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler and other top Nazis, that should the 'Final Solution' not be completed by Nazi Germany, this agenda for the completion of the 'Final Solution' and the implementation of a New World Order would be transplanted over time to the United States [see Chapter 8]. When Hitler invoked his Thousand-Year Reich, he was not simply bragging. In The Twisted Cross by Joseph Carr, it was further revealed that when Hitler arrived in the Bavarian Alps, he would climb up into the mountains and scream into the wind for Satan to possess him, and to give him power to become the Antichrist reigning on earth for a thousand years. Furthermore, Hitler was trained, in his early years, by Jesuits, like Weishaupt.

The Nazi regime was an operation of the Illuminati: and the Third Reich has installed itself in Washington, DC - a process that began almost immediately following the Second World War, while the world was being diverted by the distraction of the emerging Cold War which froze relations between the West and another product of the Illuminati, Stalin's Marxist-Leninist Soviet Union and Bloc, for a pre-ordained period of precisely 40 years (the Berlin Wall was dismantled in 1989 just as soon as the 40 years had been completed). How this happened, and what the implications are for the United States - which is today equipped with the apparatus (concentration camps, an Amtrak gassing facility in Indianapolis, special trains for the removal of dissidents, guillotines etc) is now quite well understood - thanks to extensive recent research and, once again, diligent work that has been published inter alia on the Internet. This narrative is continued in Chapter 4, entitled The Hex of Himmler.

The Author interpolates here an interesting discovery that he made in June 2005, while interviewing and recording the observations of a distinguished US operative whose past work for the US Presidency has no equal. When the Author pointed out that certain nefarious US official policies and activities in the 1980s represented Works of Darkness and that he and others were actually working for the Illuminati rather than for the President of the United States (POTUS), he remarked that, operationally, 'we didn't realise that, at the time. I understand it now'. And it is true that (other) former supporters of the New Underworld Order within the CIA are now actively fighting its implementation, which may be one of many reasons why the controllers' timetables are constantly slipping. One CIA operative told an informant: 'We even called this plan to seize America for the New World Order 'The Final Solution', and this is what we called it from inside the CIA'. This fact was volunteered when the CIA insiders concerned revealed to the informant how they had themselves helped to design some of the concentration camps that will be activated when Martial Law is imposed in the United States following another provocation by cut-outs for Germany's 'Black' DVD[45].

It seems almost superfluous to add that this evidence reinforces the Author's view that the criminalised Central Intelligence Agency its agencies and other dimensions of the US intelligence community are, or are fully capable of being, a reprobate menace to the American Republic and its people, and that it is a prerequisite for any possible resolution of the colossal US corruption and subversion crisis, that the intelligence services are sharply disciplined, cut down to size, and forced to comply with the Rule of Law, as President Kennedy once intended (an intention which cost him his life, of course). The irony is that this may not be possible without intervention by the military - which is itself Masonically corrupted, and cannot, it seems, be relied upon to act solely in the interests of the American people. If the necessary crackdown were to occur, those who need to be rounded up would need to be taken from the intelligence structures themselves: they could all be 'comfortably' housed in just one of the odious concentration camps that they have devised and installed, in pursuit of the transferred Nazi 'Final Solution' abomination.

The 'Brotherhood of Death' - a.k.a. Skull and Bones, a.k.a. The Order, formerly the Russell Trust Association (incorporated in 1856), more recently (in 1961) reorganised as RTA Incorporated - is the primary generational source of the Nazi Illuminati (Illuminazi) mentality that can be detected in elements of US society and within parts of its colossal interlinked intelligence and political/policymaking structures.

The Society's members, mindful that the skull on their symbol has no mandible, so that it cannot 'speak', are sworn to silence; and all non-members are known as 'outsiders' or 'vandals' (Weishaupf s 'profane'). Since the publication of the cited works by Antony Sutton and Andrei Navrozov on Skull and Bones, certain Russell Trust papers previously available for perusal in the Sterling Library at Yale, have disappeared. There is naturally no requirement for secrecy, unless the holder of secrets has something to hide: secrets are superfluous if there is nothing to conceal.

Initiates are required to leave the room if anyone present raises issues involving a mention of Skull and Bones; and they are precluded, under oath, from answering questions about The Order and its organisations. When Andrei Navrozov attempted, via correspondence, to procure a response to a question about The Order from President Bush (Sr.), he drew the standard response that this was a matter he could not discuss. Kris Millegan explains, on page 20 of his book, that 'when Don Schollander (Skull and Bones, 1968), the Olympic Gold Medallist and only known Skull and Bones member living in Portland, Oregon, was contacted by local Wilamette Week reporter John Schrang regarding his involvement with The Order, he said: 'If s really something I can't talk about'[46]. But the precautions that The Brotherhood of Death has taken over the years to prevent the leakage of its secrets, based in part on blood oaths, have been very far from successful, so that a substantial body of information about its filthy, depraved occult-pagan ritual activities has entered into the public domain in recent years.

In summary, as a result of the leakage of these secrets, it is clear that The Order practices a form of mind- and personality-manipulation through sexual abuse. It is well known that personality-splitting techniques developed by the Nazis and elaborated inter alia by US intelligence through its MK-ULTRA and related programmes can involve the exploitation of sexual abuse, which is the means whereby the personality is destabilised and 'split'. For True Christians, this is the mechanism whereby the victim's will is neutralised and he (or she) is led to invite evil spirits in - the opposite procedure to the means whereby Jesus Christ reveals Himself to us, after we have believed on Him and taken steps to become familiar with His Word (even if we have only just started this process). Here is the Scripture reading which confirms this:

'Behold I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me'[47]. Instead of opening the door, by the exercise of their free will, to Jesus Christ, who is the Way, the Truth and the Life, initiates of The Brotherhood of Death have invited other forces in; and if they recognise their error later in life, they may encounter extreme difficulty in expelling them - which can only be achieved in the context of total repentance, a contrite heart, and an effort of will: although it certainly can be done, as most of us have the chance for personal salvation. 'Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool'[48]. By the time that it dawns upon the trapped initiate that he has been led towards perdition, the riches which have accrued consequent upon his service to Lucifer, the 'god of this world', may have smothered any desire to change course, which may well be far too uncomfortable to be contemplated.

According to the late Antony C. Sutton, the acknowledged pioneer and expert on The Order, Ron Rosenbaum may have been correct in deducing that the other two 'Senior Societies' at Yale - Scroll & Key and Wolf's Head, supposedly competitive societies also founded in the 19th century - are part of the same network. 'Senior Societies' exist, apparently, only at Yale. In an article published in Esquire in September 1977, Rosenbaum stated ('very accurately', according to Sutton) that 'anyone in the Eastern Liberal Establishment who is not a member of Skull & Bones is almost certainly a member of either Scroll & Key or Wolf's Head'[49,50]. In one ritual, Rosenbaum explained (in a magazine accustomed to touching upon such matters), the initiate emerges from the Tomb naked, engaged in mud-wrestling with another initiate, a sequence ending in anal intercourse. The article, based on details of the initiation ceremony in question, which took place in 1940, contained inter alia the following statements:

'McGeorge Bundy wrestled baked in a mud pile as part of his initiation'.

'Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart... dressed up in a skeleton suit, howled wildly at an initiate in a red velvet room inside the Tomb...'.

Ron Rosenbaum's Esquire article further described part of that initiation ceremony thus: 'New man placed in coffin - carried into the central part of building. New man chanted over and reborn into society. Removed from coffin and given robes with symbols on it [sic]. A bone with his name on it is tossed into [human] bone heap at start of evening. Initiates plunged naked into mud pile'.

Antony Sutton explains as follows on page 201 of his book on this subject, citing the very respected researcher Rosenbaum as his source:

'According to Rosenbaum, "one can hear strange cries and moans coming from the bowels of the tomb during initiation. Four elements of the initiation ceremony are recorded: (1) That the initiate has to lie naked in a sarcophagus; (2) That he is required to tell the "secrets" of his sex life to fellow initiates; (3) That patriarchs dressed as skeletons and acting as wild-eyed lunatics howl and screech at new initiates; and (4) that initiates are required to wrestle naked in a mud pile"'.

It should be recalled that this reprobate debauchery is indulged in by the initiates under immense peer pressure. Having been programmed to lust after membership, its achievement locks them into the sarcophagus of Lucifer for the rest of their lives.

MAIN FEATURES OF THE NEW WORLD ORDER ACCORDING TO SUTTON

Sutton's conclusion, which has never been contradicted and which is consistent with all the reliable research that has emerged on this subject in recent years, although it is incomplete, is that The Order is indeed a component of the sect of the Illuminati [see Chapter 7] and that it exists in order to bring about the establishment of a German-dominated New World Order - namely, "a planned order with heavily restricted individual freedom, without Constitutional protection, without national boundaries or cultural distinction', and that the characteristics of this New World Order - which will facilitate the triumph of criminalism, hence 'New Underworld Order' - will be as follows (Sutton's list having been compiled in the 1970s, so that much of what he predicted has since materialised, as all serious students of this vast subject will be aware):

1. Education will be perverted in order to prescribe and dictate how the population will be required to behave [= for instance, Outcome-Based Education].

2. Money: Wealth and the exchange of goods will be controlled by the New Underworld Order elite, namely by the highest ranks of the Illuminati.

3. The Law will exist as a mechanism for the enforcement not of justice, but rather of the arbitrary will of the state, regional and world government, world law and the world legal and court systems. This is of course already the case in the European Union context, where the European Court of Justice exists specifically not to dispense justice, but to enforce the will of the Collective, and to advance its agenda.

4. Politics will be manipulated so as to ensure its absolute consistency with the Illuminati's requirements, directing each state or regional bloc. Democracy will be false, elections will be overtly rigged, and 'undesirable' Representatives, Senators or Members of Parliament will be ruthlessly weeded out, so that they cannot serve as roadblocks to the implementation of the global New Underworld Order strategy. Independent publishers such as this Author will be stalked, spied upon and framed to eliminate them from the scene. It is hardly necessary to elaborate that this state of affairs exists 'as we speak' in both the US and the British and European contexts. See further comments on the manipulation of 'democracy' in Figure 21, panel opposite, on page 69].

5. The Economy will exist purely to enable the illuminised elite to accumulate additional wealth. Note: There is an obvious conflict here: One of the elements of the Illuminati's programme which Antony Sutton may not have fully anticipated is the 'population reduction' plan, which has been discussed for instance at successive Illuminati Gorbachev Foundation/State of the World (= 'World State') Forum events in the United States. At the first of these mammoth mind-manipulation and influence-building fests, held in San Francisco in 1995, the proposition that 90% of the world's population needed to be eliminated, 'to protect the planet', was promulgated. The AIDS epidemic is doing a 'fine job' on this particular score in Southern Africa, where, in Zimbabwe (where a roll of toilet paper cost Z$200,000 in June 2006), at least 2 million people were expected to die of starvation in 2005 alone. Such an outcome would be absolutely perfect for cadres of the Illuminati, who can then (they surmise) move in and take over Zimbabwe's rich mineral and other resources: which is why not a finger has been lifted against the odious Stalinist dictatorship of the ogre Mugabe. But the snag is: if the workforce has perished or been liquidated, (a) who will, e.g., work the mines, and (b) to whom will end-products be sold, so that the Illuminists can be enriched? As with all the inventions of the Devil, they haven't thought this one through properly. And as all their schemes generate chaos and confusion, they'll never be able to do so.

Figure 21:

HYPOCRISY, LIES AND INSTABILITY

An extraordinary feature of those who deal in lies is that they come to believe them, as Dr Josef Goebbels found out. Not only did he and Hitler succeed in selling their lies as truth to the German people, but Mr Schicklgruber came to believe them himself.

A case in point, unfortunately, is President George W. Bush (Jr.), who very tactlessly informed the Iranian people on 16th June 2005 that their General Election would 'change nothing'. The Iranian people, he said, 'deserve a genuinely democratic system in which elections are honest, and in which their leaders answer to them, instead of the other way round'. The Rest of the World was left speechless at this hypocritical arrogance.

This was indeed a shocking statement - and was received in Tehran as such - coming from a man whose elections in 2000 and 2004 were stolen, according to the most reliable information to hand. In 2000, James Baker III allegedly obtained $40 million from Carlos Lehder, a US-German Illuminati asset who had been instrumental in setting up the drug cartels in Colombia (which are creations of US intelligence: see Chapter 3), in exchange for his release from US custody and his transfer to Germany. Al Gore was told, upon alighting from a limousine, that he had not, after all, as he had been advised when he had climbed into it, won the election; some $32 million was allegedly handed over to the Democratic National Committee in exchange for their conceding the election, while $8.0 million was allegedly spent to bribe officials, prison staff, judges, lawyers, etc., to observe omerta.

In 2004, the election was rigged electronically [see Addendum 1, p. 662], and a consignment of gold (looted from the basement of the Twin Towers?) was allegedly paid to John Kerry.

According to author Kris Millegan, Robert P. Johnson, a.k.a. William Barr, an operative, informed William Clinton in Arkansas, while he was the corrupt Governor of that corrupt State, that 'you are our fair-haired boy, but you do have competition for the job you seek' (of President of the United States). 'We would never put all our eggs in one basket. You and your State have been our greatest asset' (for an explanation of which, see Chapter 3). 'Mr Casey' (the Director of Central Intelligence) 'wanted me to pass on to you that unless you  up [sic] and do something stupid, you are Number One on our short list for the job you always wanted' ['Fleshing Out Skull and Bones', Ed. Kris Millegan, op. cit., page 18].

Thus William Casey, the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, who was also a Sovereign Knight of Malta, signalled to William Clinton, through George Bush Sr.'s last Attorney General (like Bush Sr., and Clinton, an intelligence operative), that provided he (Clinton) didn't 'mess up', the intelligence community would instal him as President. In other words, it is not the electorate who choose the presidential candidates, it is the intelligence community - an intolerable usurpation of power by an organisation that is supposed to SERVE the Executive Branch, rather than to CONTROL it. As in the 'former' Soviet Union, it is the intelligence community that's in the driving seat -which means that American democracy is just as much of a sham as President George W. Bush Jr. said that the Iranian version is.

And what is so disturbing about this is that the Washington elite apparently assumed that Iranians, who are heirs of a much older civilisation than that of the United States and are highly sophisticated, are ignorant of the fact that US democracy is a sham, and has been a sham for more three decades - at least since President Carter was replaced by Ronald Reagan and George Bush Sr., following the deception operation known as the 'October Surprise'. In actual fact, the US Presidency has proved to he a highly unstable institution. In the modern era, the President of the United States has been assassinated, removed or imposed consecutively ever since the Eisenhower era. And most sensible, informed analysts now believe that Kennedy's murder was a German-inspired CIA 'inside job', with the actual culpability, if ever allowed to emerge, liable to shock the whole world.

It is therefore grossly inappropriate for ANY President of the United States to lecture the Iranians, the Russians, or anyone else, about so-called 'democracy'. Likewise, given the emasculated condition of British democracy, the rigorous controls that have been legislated for over the qualifications of candidates, and the oppressive overhang of the institutions of the corrupt, Leninist, duplicated EU structures, no British Prime Minister should use such rhetoric either. We should remove the rotten motes from our own hard eyes first. ■

6. History will be bastardised, rewritten and manipulated to promulgate lies and to represent evil as good, and good as evil, which is of course scripturally verboten.

7. Mass psychology will be used to manipulate the way people think. 'Psy-Ops' will be openly and ruthlessly conducted by the official propagandists in order to hide and misrepresent what is happening on a national and a global scale. [This process is today working 24/7 and overtime, as all who are not sitting on their brains can understand. Some intelligence operatives who are engaged in the colossal US domestic 'Psy-Ops' operation have expressed surprise to the Author and to one of his special US contacts, that we understand so much of what is going on: for instance, absurdly, we are not supposed to have fathomed that the US and British political systems are controlled, so that it is almost neither here nor there who wins an election, as the Illum-inati always win. Apparently we weren't supposed to have been clever enough to work this out. The intelligence officer who realised that the Author's US contact understood this perfectly well, was astounded, and somewhat rattled.

8. Philanthropy will be exclusively Pharisaical, so that people (the goyim) think well of the controllers. For example, on 10th June 2006, Mikhail Gorbachev, supreme head of the KGB Continuum, held a vulgar white-tie banquet at Althorp, the Spencer family's Northamptonshire estate, ostensibly in aid of the raisa Gorbachev Foundation. The fawning British 'mainstream' media lavished nauseous praise on his 'philanthropy'.

9. Medicine will provide the state with sole power over health, life and death. This was a primary control objective, by the way, of the Illuminati's prize disciple, Lenin.

10. Religion will be totally paganised and perverted so that the 'Ancient Mysteries' (occultism, kabbalistic magic, and all the related abominations including the summoning up of evil spirits) will be condoned, encouraged or facilitated. Note: The Author distinguishes, in the 'Christian' context, between 'Churchianity' which, as the staggering decadence of the Church of England demonstrates, is largely alien to 'the Way the Life and the Truth', and True Christianity, based on Faith, Grace and Scripture.

11. Media: The broadcast and print media will be controlled, so that what people think and know will be in the hands of the controllers. This is the situation today.

12. Continuity: The controlling Illuminised elite will appoint its own followers and disciples to ensure longevity into future generations: The Thousand-Year Reich. They have pursued this objective with success for several generations already.

Although this Author has somewhat elaborated the late Antony Sutton's twelve identified objectives, which were first prophesied by him in 1977, it can be seen that they have been largely accomplished - which is why the world is now experiencing a crisis of historically unprecedented proportions. Specifically, the educational system has been hijacked, to produce young people with the 'politically correct attitudes' and little or zero profound knowledge, especially of Scripture and history, and to provide space for abominations such as 'sex education' and 'death education'. The creation of money is in the hands of geomasonically controlled central and commercial banks, which have usurped de facto control over, and have in many cases stolen, or used for self-interested collateral and cross-collateralisation leverage and hypothecation purposes, untold trillions of US Government fiat money funds held in offshore accounts of US Government Title 18, Section 6 intelligence corporations which were originally legitimised under President Reagan's Executive Order 12333, of 1981 [see box, page 20].

The law in both Britain and America is being systematically undermined and replaced by false law: for example, the ancient body of English Common Law is being overwhelmed by the 'superior' law of the European Union Collective, even as the European Court of Justice exists in order to further the interests of the EU political collective, not to dispense 'justice'. The political democratic system has been perverted in both Britain and the United States so that there is no true democracy at all: what happens at elections is that there may be a change of selected controlled personnel, that's all. This, as will be seen in Chapter 7, is 100% in conformity with long-range Illuminati strategy.

With the constant enlargement of corporations and the free-wheeling expansion of certain types of business such as bookstore chains (which are major absorbers of the endless pipeline of drug money), economic and financial power is being consolidated into fewer and fewer hands. The bookstores are also major outlets for the mass distribution of diabolical 'noise' 'music' CDs and Satanic videos, which are swamping the minds and souls of young people to the virtual exclusion of all else in the United States - consistently, as we have seen, with the death orientation of the Illuminati cadres that are promoting this Luciferian filth. History is being and has been rewritten, so that British schoolchildren have hardly any awareness of English history, but know all about colonialism, global warming and other 'politically correct' issues.

Psychology has long since been perverted to manipulate minds and to divide personalities both individually and collectively, to break down the family, to split the sexes, and to control the masses, inter alia through the proliferation, especially in the United States, of endless, pernicious Psychological Operations ('Psy-Ops', perpetrated by cadres of intelligence operatives, at every level. The abuse of philanthropy, so that the 'benefactor's' good works' are extensively publicised, and the general public is indoctrinated with 'politically correct' 'causes' and 'good works' which serve the double-minded interests of the Illuminati, is routine. The abuse of medicine through such devices as the contamination of vaccines, compulsory vetting of children with mandatory prescribed interventions, and the dispensing of death by staff working to intelligence instructions, is known in some US institutions. Euthanasia, or Satanic legitimised 'mercy murder', was being debated in the confused British Parliament in May 2006.

Organised religion has been degraded and perverted, with the reprobate Church of England being led, for instance, by a confirmed Druid, given to complex, convoluted, interminable and spiritually barren pronouncements, and its activities being characterised by an almost total lack of spirituality and a wholesale departure from the teachings of Jesus Christ; as for the Roman Catholic religion, its commonly acknowledged faults are legion; and the abuses perpetrated by many of its priests as a consequence of the reprobate, unnatural and repressive prohibition against priests marrying, need no introduction. The media is perceived by thinking people in the United States and Britain to be controlled, with US intelligence known to be proud of its 'achievement' in bringing the print and broadcast media under its thumb. Indeed, this boast was explicitly made at a US intelligence conference attended by one of our contacts, and was presented as the CIA's most impressive achievement. In the United Kingdom, it has for many years been impossible for analysts such as this Author to carry on any meaningful conversation at all with a 'mainstream' British journalist, since the minds of such people are clogged with preconceived notions, with bogies and 'slides' such as their facile acceptance of the lie that there is no such thing as a conspiracy, with 'politically correct' opinions, and with an underlying arrogance which almost defies description. For this reason, the Author considers it a complete waste of time to engage with such people, and prefers to disseminate his work 'by other means'.

THE KABBALISTIC NUMBER 322 AND LUCIFER'S 'SEETHING POWERS'

A few further points need to be made about 322, before we examine the international drugs dimension that the ffluminati, through the Brotherhood of Death, have integrated into US strategy. The significance of the use of the Kabbalistic 'magic' number, 322, is explained in a number of parallel ways. William Russell, the heir to a drug-running business, imported the blueprint of the society from Germany in 1832, as we have seen, so the most basic 'line' is that The Order is the second chapter of a German secret society (a branch of the ffluminati) established in 1832, hence 322. Confusingly, though, there are rooms designated 323 and 324 in the Tomb on the Yale campus.

A more sophisticated, and probably more accurate parallel source of The Order's obsession with 322 (although some dismiss this as a quaint fable) is that it stands for the homosexual orator Demosthenes who committed suicide by taking poison - the preferred 'liquidation method' of the ffluminati: hence the skull and crossbones on bottles of poison - in the temple of Neptune in Calauria, in 322 BC

Although the names of Skull and Bones neophytes are changed upon initiation, the membership list (known as 'Addresses') is made available to each member, using the initiates' real names. These names are provided in a copy bound in black leather with peculiar symbols inside and outside. The owner's name and the letter 'D' are gilt-stamped on the outer cover of the earlier issues which have emerged into the public domain, at least to the end of the 19th century. The list is surrounded by a heavy black border, signifying the death of the named initiate, as he adopts his new 'Bones name' - i.e. has been 'reborn' into this 'death cult', which is both nonsensical and upside-down, that is to say, entirely typical of a fraud perpetrated by the Evil One, who is the author of confusion and lies. Moreover, crucially, lies are followed by (spiritual and/or physical death: the two go together: as Jesus Christ told the murderous Pharisees (who were plotting to liquidate him: 'Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar and the father of it'[51]. In the pure light of this Truth, we can see all the more clearly, then, why Skull and Bones is also called The Brotherhood of Death. It is a self-perpetuating nest of lies and death indoctrination. As such it is a deadly menace to the American public, to the American people, and to the whole world. Through self-replicating mechanisms such as those perpetrated by Skull and Bones, devilish practices, debaucheries, infestations and demonic possessions of past decades are perpetuated and projected indefinitely into the future.

The ceremonial fixation with the initiate being lowered into a coffin and then 'rising again' from it, is modelled upon and is an echo of the 'raising to life' of the candidate in the Pyramid Mysteries, as explained by the 33rd Degree Mason, Manly P. Hall, in ''The Lost Keys of Freemasonry or The Secret of Hiram Abiff [see Figure 16, page 45]. Hall makes it crystal clear that Masonic initiation into the 'craff (= witchcraft) is intended to infest the initiate with the power of evil. This admission is contained in Hall's promise that the initiate will acquire knowledge of 'the dynamo of living power', through which he will 'learn the mystery of his craft [i.e., of witchcraft]. The seething energies of Lucifer are in his hands'[52]. And he is unknowingly en route to perdition.

Antony Sutton reported that 'the first class list of 1833 has two blank lines in place of the eleventh name on the list. This supports the argument that the society has German origins and this is the listing of the anonymous German connection'[53].

In calculating and expressing a given year, the Brotherhood of Death adds 322 to the current year, so that 2006 is 2006 + 322 = 2328. Demosthenes is alleged to have founded a Greek patriotic society in the same year that he committed suicide, and is also reported to have been a proponent of murderous Satanic practices. Plutarch wrote about Demosthenes as follows:

[Demosthenes] 'was meagre and sickly from the first, and hence had his nickname of Batalus given him, it is said, by the boys, in derision of his appearance; Batalus being, as some tell us, a certain enervated flute-player, in ridicule of whom Antiphanes wrote a play. Others speak of Batalus as a writer of wanton verses and drinking songs. And it would seem, too, that some part of the body, not decent to be named, was at that time called batalus by the Athenians. But the name of Argas, which they also say was a nickname of Demosthenes, was given him because of his behaviour, as being savage and spiteful, argas being one of the poetical words for a snake; or for his disagreeable way of speaking. Argas being [also] the name of a poet who composed very harshly and disagreeably. So much, as Plato says, for such matters'[54].

According to the wife of a 'Bonesman' who must remain anonymous, each initiate has the letter 'D' stamped or etched in the small of his back. Young American women, when considering whether to become engaged to a high-flying young Yale Graduate, need, as a routine precaution, to investigate whether their beau has this bodily characteristic; and if such a mark is discovered, should consider carefully whether they wish their lives to be encumbered with the dark consequences of his initiation into The Order of Skull and Bones.

In 1928, Clarence W. Mendel wrote a critical article about the Yale secret societies, especially the three Senior Societies, in 'Yale Daily News', in which he inaccurately concluded as follows: 'They [the secret societies] can be a blessing to Yale, and Yale will not tolerate their being a curse'.

This is the absolute reverse of the truth: these secret societies, especially Skull and Bones, Scroll and Key, and Wolf's Head (if the second and third are, as Rosenbaum believed, part of the same network), are a curse to Yale; and Yale has persistently tolerated them and has allowed them to become institutionalised: so that Yale therefore tolerates them being a curse. As a consequence, Yale College is itself a Black curse upon the American people, upon US society, upon its political system and establishment, and through these, upon the whole world. It is an engine of witchcraft, a pernicious and evil Illuminazi nest of death and abomination; and until its baleful influence, which overwhelms any positive contributions Yale may have made to society, is removed, it will continue to spread its accursed evil throughout the United States and the world.

Most of all, Yale stands for double-mindedness, which is the essence of the curse of the two-faced, dialectically-oriented Illuminati. 'A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways'. Instability, confusion, lies, cynicism, cold-heartedness, self-absorption and double-dealing are the marks of the 'Bonesman' Illuminist. Among normal people, double-mindedness is a hazard of our humanity, and a challenge to be overcome, as we progress spiritually. But the Illuminati base their entire approach to geopolitics upon a deliberate strategy of double-mindedness. Thus a Wolfowitz can preside over the planning and perpetration of the offensive against Iraq one year, and ascend two years later to the globalist 'welfare' role of President of the World Bank - without any blushes, secure in the knowledge that the 'mainstream' media can never grasp how, in conscience, he could make such a transfer. Double-mindedness is the secret. ■

22
LAUNDROMAT
ALLEGED U.S. ILLUMINATI CRIMINALIST CONNECTIONS
WESTERN SUGAR
Directors: GEORGE BUSH SR, GENERAL MANUEL NORIEGA
OLIVER NORTH, GENERAL RICHARD SECORD
NORMAN BROWNSTEIN, LEONARD YALE MILLMAN
AIMCO (NHP)
WWF GROUP
SHADOW GOVERNMENT, CIA ASSETS
Oliver North, Ted Shackley, 'Al Martin', Dick Brenneke, Gunther Russbacher, Michael Riconosciuto, Gene Tatum
AND MANY OTHER OPERATIVES US DEPARTMENT OF 'JUSTICE'
LEE RADEK, Public Integrity Division, a.k.a. The God Squad, MARK RICHARD, DAVID MANN
HARVARD ENDOWMENT FUND
ALTEL
'BLACK' CORRUPTION CONTROL:
DVD DACHAU
CAPRICORN [= goat] HOLDINGS
UNITED BANK OF DENVER
DENVER CONNECTION
SYSTEMATICS (PROMIS: Inslaw affair)
OHIO CONNECTION
Flatiron Construction Company, Colorado
M & L Business Machines
ARKANSAS CONNECTION + William Weld
HARKEN ENERGY George Bush Jr.
Bar Op
Robert Joseph
WESTERN SAVINGS & LOAN
ROSE LAW FIRM
Jackson Stephens
Stephens Inc.
Carl Lindner
CARLYLE GROUP **
LEONARD YALE MILLMAN
Denver king-pin
Former Father-in-Law of Stewart Webb (Federal whistleblower) *
INTELLIGENCE ANALYST
Michael Milken
BCCI [CLOSED DOWN BY U.S. INTEL]
ARKANSAS DEVELOPMENT FINANCE AUTHORITY
King Harris
Albert Rose
Mill Rose Construction Co.
Lyons
James M. Lyons
OMNI BANK
Hillary Clinton [= CIA: 'Queen Melusina']
Vince Foster [with whom Hillary had a prolonged affair]
Webster Hubbell
William Kennedy
BILL CLINTON [CIA]
TRICOR
IRAQGATE
BNL
Gulf War syndrome scandals
Marvin Davis
MAURICE STRONG
Don Lasater
Allyn International Neckle Sewing Machines
KEY BANK
PARAMOUNT PICTURES
ADNAN KHASHOGGI
AMERICAN FINANCIAL CORPORATION
MARC RICH
MARVIN DAVIS
ROBERT VESCO
BERNIE CORNFELD
WHITEWATER DEVELOPMENT
Charles Keating
John King
King Resources
MDC Holdings Inc
Richmond Homes
SILVERADO SAVINGS & LOAN
Neil Bush, Director
LINCOLN SAVINGS & LOAN
E. Systems
IMPERIAL SAVINGS & LOAN
Beneficial Finance
What is MAURICE STRONG (UN operative and top Illuminati globalist) doing here? VERY good question. In 1980s, he was on Board of the Better World Society with GEORGIY ARBATOV [KGB/top Gorbachëv aide], Chinese official Zhou Boping, Jimmy Carter, Ted Turner and other Illuminati figures
RAYTHEON
Norman Brownstein
Director: CITICORP
Director: Chubb Securities
Larry Mizel
Philip Winn
MADISON SAVINGS & LOAN
TWIN CITIES BANK OF LITTLE ROCK
BEACH FEDERAL BANK
AMERICAN CONTINENTAL CORPORATION
ENRON [Serial Frauds]
Ken Good
Bill Walters
WINN GROUP (HUD Fraud)
KISSINGER & ASSOCIATES
Note: Dr Henry Kissinger = alleged Soviet agent BOR alleged cover for DVD Dachau
Blinder & Robinson
ATLANTA SECURITIES
CORAL GABLES SECURITIES
Ray Harvey
John Dick
NOTE: This chart does not include significant other entities alluded to in numerous related contexts in the narrative of this book.
NATIONAL BROKERAGE GROUP OF COMPANIES
VENTURA SECURITIES
COMPENDIUM TRUST (Jersey, Channel Islands)
INSEL TRUST (Isle of Man)
AIG Insurance
AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL GROUP, INC.
['American' = CIA].
Blackstone Group
HOUSTON ENERGY PARTNERS LTD.
GEORGE BUSH SR., JAMES BAKER III, ROBERT MOSSBACHER
Meyer Blinder
MAURICE GREENBERG
CARLYLE GROUP **

Figure 22: This adapted chart, first prepared in 1999 and updated in successive years (most recently in 2002), shows links between the Bush Family, the Clintons and some of their scandals, AIG (the huge insurance industry organisation allegedly used for money-laundering), and the Carlyle Group, which allegedly acts as one of a number of favoured Illuminati 'storehouses' for the accumulating wealth of the 'chosen illuminated ones', as well as a useful 'funny money' fiat distribution pipeline, like many so-called 'hedge funds'. The Author has adapted this chart to show that the corruption control is exercised by the Nazi Continuum 'Black' intelligence agency, Deutsche verteidigungs Dienst, Dachau - through George Busche Sr. (as of 2006), identified as the alleged actual head of DVD.

*The author of the original chart is Stew Webb, the former son-in-law of a Denver-based mogul, Leonard Yale Millman. His information is based upon detailed knowledge obtained during his marriage to the former Miss Millman. Note how the alleged Bush criminalist 'Family's' connections interconnect inter alia with those of the alleged intelligence criminalist Clintons. This exposure is of course only partial.

Chapter 2: THE CURSE OF YALE: Notes and references:

1. Mark, Chapter 3, verse 22. In this verse, the scribes accused Jesus of being possessed of the Devil (Beelzebub) and of casting out devils by invoking the Devil. 'Bonesmen' are effectively pledged, through repulsive initiation rites, to the Devil. This alone could explain The Order's use of 322. The Lord makes it quite plain that to accuse Him of being possessed by Satan and of casting out devils in the name of the Devil, represented a blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, for which no forgiveness is possible. This warning is given in the context of the scribes' mentioned lie that he was casting out devils by the power of Satan: 'Verily I say unto you, All sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewithsoever they shall blaspheme: But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation; Because they said, He hath an unclean spirit' and that he was casting out devils by invoking Beelzebub. [Mark, Chapter 3, verses 28-30].
2. Mark, Chapter 3, verses 23-26.
3. 'Get thee behind me, Satan'. If we tell him to get lost, he and his demons cannot harm us, because he cannot destabilise us - unless we invite or make it possible for him and them to do so. 'Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Then the Devil leaveth Him, and, behold, angels came and ministered unto Him' [Matthew, Chapter 4, verses 10-11]. See also Luke, Chapter 4, verse 8.
4. 'Girl's rape filmed by teenagers on mobile', The Times, London, page 2, 18th June 2005.
5. Job, Chapter 1, verses 6 and 7: 'Now there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan came also among them. And the Lord said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it'.
6. First Epistle of Pefer, Chapter 5, verse 8: 'Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the Devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour'. Peter then gives us the hope which is of the Holy Spirit (verses 9-11): 'Whom resist steadfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world. But the God of all grace who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, settle you. To him be all glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen'.
7. Matthew, Chapter 18, verse 6. This is preceded by: 'And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me' [verse 5].
8. Mark, Chapter 9, verse 42: 'And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were cast into the sea'. And in Luke, Chapter 17, verses 1 and 2, the Lord's warning to those who corrupt children is crystal clear: 'Then said he unto his disciples, It is impossible but that offences will come; but woe unto him, through whom they come! It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones'. In the New Testament of Jesus Christ, where a severe warning is repeated, it addresses an issue of exceptional gravity. It is clear, for those who have ears to hear and eyes to see, that offending (corrupting) little children and young people is an offence so grievous that no forgiveness is possible: in other words, such offence represents blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, for which the Lord tells us elsewhere that no forgiveness is obtainable. Jesus makes this crystal clear in Matthew Chapter 12, verses 31-32: 'Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man [Jesus], it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come'. This is repeated in Mark, Chapter 3, verses 28-29: 'Verily I say unto you, All sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewithsoever they shall blaspheme; But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation'. See also Note 7.
9. Psalm 127, verse 1. This is a Psalm of Solomon, who was preparing to build the First Temple at the time. It recognised that if the Lord was not 'on side', the project would ultimately fail.
10. Psalm 32, verse 10.
11. Psalm 119, verse 165.
12. 'Fleshing Out Skull & Bones: Investigations into America's most Powerful Secret Society', edited by Robert A. (Kris) Millegan, TrineDay, LLC, Walterville, OR 97489, 2003, ISBN 0-9752906-0-6.
13. 'Fleshing Out Skull & Bones: Investigations into America's most Powerful Secret Society', Edited by Robert A (Kris) Millegan, op. cit.. This is an excellent compendium of information, including historical articles and materials, on Skull and Bones, a.k.a., 'The Order'. It should be noted that many Illuminist organisations are referred to internally as 'The Order' - including Ordo Templi Orientis, Opus Dei, the Society of Jesus (Jesuits), and the sect of the Illuminati, which has infiltrated governance and key organisations - including Freemasonry, the Mormons, Jehovah's Witnesses and many others. Indeed, as observed elsewhere in this book, the use of the term 'The Order' to describe an organisation or sect signifies that the organisation in question is a component of the Illuminati. All are mechanisms of mind-control and personality modification.
14. These details are taken from the summary by Kris Millegan in 'Fleshing out Skull and Bones', op.cit, pages 1 et seq.. Not all the quotations are supported by references, but the research is considered by other analysts to be accurate.
15. Margaret Elizabeth Stucki, 'War on light: The Destruction of the Image of God in Man Through Modern Art', Freedom University Press, Florida, 1975, page 7; recited by the late Skull and Bones expert Antony C. Sutton in 'America's Secret Establishment: An Introduction to the Order of Skull and Bones', Liberty House Press, Billings, Montana, 1986, ISBN 0-937765-02-3.
16.The Author was informed in early 2005 by a senior US intelligence official, in an email, that the tsunami was induced/natural, which was an oblique way of confirming that it was induced. Separately, another senior US intelligence official has informed the Author specifically that the tsunami was artificially induced for control purposes, and that the atrocity was a cooperative operation involving several important countries, including the United States, Russia and probably the United Kingdom. 17. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 9, verse 1.

18. Romans, Chapter 1, verses 28-32.

19. 'Fleshing out Skull and Bones', op. cit., page 418, in an essay entitled: 'God and Man and Magic at Yale', one of a number of related treatises in this volume.

20. The Torah: A Modern Commentary', Union of American Hebrew Congregations, New York, Rabbi W Gunther Plant, Ed., 1912-, ISBN 0-8074-0055-6, page 624.

21. Urim and Thummim: 'And thou shalt put in the breastplate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim' [Exodus, Chapter 28, verse 30; 'And he put the breastplate upon him [Aaron]; also he put in the breastplate the Urim and the Thummim' [Leviticus, Chapter 8, verse 8]; 'And of Levi, he said, Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one' [Deuteronomy, Chapter 33, verse 8]; 'And the Tirshatha [Governor] said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy things, till there stood up a priest with Urim and with Thummim' [Ezra, Chapter 2, verse 63]; 'And the Tirshatha said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy things, till there stood up a priest with Urim and Thummim' [Nehemiah, Chapter 7, verse 65]. Since they used the Hebrew words Urim and Thummim, it is evident that the assembled Oxford and Cambridge academics who translated the King James Bible were ignorant of, or could not agree upon, an appropriate translation of these two terms. This uncertainty is echoed, as indicated, in the findings of the modern rabbinical authorities, who are nevertheless consistent in asserting that Urim and Thummim were indeed devices of the oracle, meaning YES and No.

22. The General Epistle of James, Chapter 1, verse 8, and verse 6.

23. 'I am the Way, the Truth and the Life. No man cometh to the Father but by me'. John, Chapter 14 verse 6.

24. See Note 25 and the quotation from 'Morals and Dogma' by Albert Pike, on this page (43).

25. Pike, Albert, 'Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry', first published 1871, House of the Temple, Washington DC, 1969, page 321.

26. Reiteration of the relevant somewhat tedious information about Yale's many secret societies is not attempted in extensive detail here, since that work has been done by others. The most recent compendium of such information is the mentioned volume, 'Fleshing Out Skull and Bones', edited by Kris Millegan, op. cit. The first serious modern study was undertaken by the late Antony C. Sutton in 'America's Secret Establishment: An Introduction to the Order of Skull and Bones', Liberty House Press, Billings, Montana, 1986, ISBN 0-937765-02-3, op. cit.

27. Clarence W. Mendel, from 'Fifty Years of Yale News', 'Yale Daily News', 28th January 1928, New Haven, CT; cited in 'Fleshing Out Skull and Bones', op. tit, pages 521 et seq..

28. Andrei Navrozov, The Gingerbread Race: A Life in the Closing World Once Calle Free', Picador, Pan Books Limited, Pan Macmillan Publishers Limited, London and Basingstoke, UK, 1993, ISBN 0-330-37636-8.

29. 'At Skull and Bones, Bush's Secret Club Initiates Ream Gore', Ron Rosenbaum, The New York Observer', 12th September 2004.

30. Andrei Navrozov, The Gingerbread Race', op. cit., page 279

31. First Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, Chapter 6, verse 19: 'What? Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?' Luke, Chapter 17, verse 21: 'Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! For, behold, the Kingdom of God is within you'. See also Acts, Chapter 8, verse 48: 'Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands'. Temple- and cathedral-building is spiritually diversionary. Speculative masonry is therefore itself derived from a spiritual blind alley.

32. // Corinthians, Chapter 11, verse 14. The entire passage (verses 13-15) is of crucial importance for anyone who wishes to see through the diversions of the Devil, including those perpetrated by fake formal religion: 'For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And no marvel: for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness, whose end shall be according to their works'. But in the case of The Order of Skull and Bones, this abomination is so evil that no attempt is made to hide its filthiness, its foul-mouthed vulgarity, and its Satanic orientation. The Order's attempts to cover up its devilish occultic aberrations have become less and less effective in recent years, and the truly abominable nature of this Curse of Yale has been and is being exposed. This is happening because, as Jesus Christ clearly warned, no evil secrets can be covered up for ever. The criminalised intelligence community exerts massive energy in covering up past criminal operations, or botches, thereby revealing that it is perfectly well aware that the activities in question (such as drug operations) are criminal abominations. Let the Lord speak clearly to those who have ears to hear and eyes to see: 'For there is nothing hid, which shall not be manifested; neither was anything kept secret, but that it should come abroad' [Mark, Chapter 4, verse 22]; 'For

THE HEAD OF GERMAN 'BLACK' INTELLIGENCE

In October 2005, intelligence operatives attended the Munich Beer Festival - accompanied by an overhead satellite. Why did they need a satellite at the Beer Fest? Because the real reason for their presence at this convivial event was not to get themselves legless on Bavarian brews, but rather to monitor the HQ of German long-range Nazi Continuum strategic deception intelligence, based at Dachau, near Munich - Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst. In the same month, the Author published an issue of his financialjournal International Currency Review, in which the late Sir Edward Heath, Lord (Roy) Jenkins, and Geoffrey Rippon (who, with Heath, signed the British EEC Accession Treaty) were exposed as agents of the Abwehr (DVD), so that the Treaty, having been signed by traitors engaged in strategic deception, was and remains null and void. The Author also exposed the fact that successive EU Collective treaties have been procured by means of corrupt 'payola' payments - naming specific sums paid to key political figures in exchange for their services in trying to procure the failed European Constitution Treaty.

As a consequence of the Dachau surveillance operation identified above, it has been confirmed to this Author that George H. W. Bush Sr. was (as of 2006) allegedly the actual head of the German 'Black' agency - while other significant DVD penetrations were identified. So the writing is on the wall for the German long-range strategic deception planners, who, though in control of accumulated stolen funds on a prodigious scale, thought that their cover was impenetrable, and that any complicity in the 9/11 and 7/7 atrocities would never be discovered. As always, they went too far, and may pay a heavy price. ■ nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither anything hid, that shall not be known and come abroad' [Luke, Chapter 8, verse 17].

33. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 2 verses 1-8: 'And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven. Now when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language. And they were all amazed and marvelled, saying one to another, behold, are not all these which speak Galileans? And now hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born?' There follows a list of the foreign places from which the Jews of the diaspora, who were at Jerusalem, came, and the languages in which the Apostles and disciples who were filled with the Holy Spirit, were speaking. In other words, what they said made perfect sense in these foreign languages: whereas, in the instance of false 'speaking in tongues' described in the main text, the output heard by the Author over the telephone was chaotic, hideous, without meaning, joined-up and, to anyone not 'in the Word', would have sounded terrifying. Because it was diabolical.

34. This was an extremely unpleasant experience. Not only did this character unleash a torrent of meaningless demonic gobbldegook three times during the extensive conversation, but he progressively twisted Scripture until it was obvious that he was beyond aberrant. In retrospect it appeared that the object of this exercise was to test the Author's faith and knowledge of Scripture, as certain Illuminati intelligence cadres have been working for years on ways to demolish Christian faith, which is done inter alia by studying those whose faith is very strong, to identify why it 'works' and thus what methods can most effectively be used to neutralise it. All such efforts have historically failed and will of course continue to fail, since 'Heaven and Earth will pass away, but my words shall not pass away' [Matthew, Chapter 24, verse 35] The operative then demanded that we send him ALL our publications, shouting 'I want everything you publish. I don't care what it costs, d'you hear me?' So we duly obliged. It was bizarre, and indicative of how deranged many of these people are.

35. There is really little difference between the evil enticement by these means of naive, if headstrong, young undergraduates, and the corruption of children. Both deny the individual the opportunities which life offers and represent blasphemy against the Holy Spirit.

36.The identity of the lady who provided the late Antony Sutton with the bound copy containing very extensive historical listings of 'Bonesmen' is known to the Author.

37. These names are selected from an alphabetical list of 'Bonesmen' to be found on pages 675-693 of 'Fleshing out Skull and Bones', edited by Kris Millegan, op. cit.

38. This drug network is documented in a number of works, including: 'The Politics of Heroin in South East Asia', by Alfred McCoy, Harper & Row, 1991; The Great Heroin Coup: Drugs, Intelligence & International Fascism', by Henrik Kruger, South End Press, 1980 [A/ofe; South End Press is a far-left US publishing house; however the facts in this book are accurate]; and 'Double-Cross: The Explosive, Inside Story of the Mobster Who Controlled America', by Sam and Chuck Giancana, Warner Books, 1992. See also: 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye: How the United States betrayed its Own POWs in Vietnam', by Monika Jensen-Stevens & William Stevenson, Plume, 1991; and The Big White Lie: The Deep Cover Operation That Exposed the CIA Sabotage of the Drug War', Michael Levine, Thunder's Mouth [sic]. See also Chapter 3 of the present work.

39. 'Fleshing out Skull & Bones', op. cit., page 11.

40. Statement reported personally in 1995 to the Author by William Norman Grigg, a Senior Editor with The New American', P.O. Box 8040, Appleton, Wl 54912.

41. 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye', op. cit,: see Note 17.

42. The Immaculate Deception: The Bush Crime Family Exposed', Russell S. Bowen, America West, P.O. Box 2208, Carson City, NV 89702, ISBN 0-922356-80-7, page 101. Also available through: Emissary Publications, PMB 1776,9205 S.E. Clackamas Road, Clackamas, OR 97015. Telephone: 503-824 2050.

43. The Immaculate Deception', op. cit., pages 98-99.

44. 'Fleshing out Skull and Bones', op. cit., page 303, quoting with permission from Chapter Four of 'George Bush: The Unauthorized Biography', 'Executive Intelligence Review', 1992, written by Webster Griffin Tarpley and Anton Chaitkin, which contains more information about George Bush than any other source the Author knows. The problem with the book is that it was published by 'Executive Intelligence Review', an organisation run by the alleged counterintelligence operative Lyndon Larouche, who was a Marxist-Leninist agitator in the 1960s. However several researchers working for this outfit have excellent track records, so it is problematical for analysts to accept this source as genuine. On the one hand, the organisation publishing such material is hampered by an allegedly unfavourable reputation, while on the other hand some of their analysts work to the highest standards. All other considerations aside, the main problem with the analyses undertaken by these people is their habit of stringing long lines of connections together and drawing conclusions from the links such connections allegedly imply. All research into Skull and Bones, and into the history of the Bush family and the Nazi connections of Prescott Bush, suffer from this problem: in particular, 'straight' Skull and Bones research cannot avoid extensive analyses of the relevant personnel and their connections and activities both at Yale College and afterwards. The sober analyst must therefore be on guard; but as with all such research, truth and factual information can be recognised for what it is, and separated out from conjecture. The sources cited in this Chapter all pass necessary credibility tests: indeed, in 'Fleshing out Skull and Bones', the weakest essay is by an academic who plays around with 'conspiracy theory', obviously unaware that Lenin specifically proclaimed, in writing, that his Revolution was part of a massive conspiracy. The Author can illustrate the kind of linkages that are suspect, few of which are evident in these works, but which do appear in past work by 'Executive Intelligence Review'. For instance, the Author was both at Eton and an undergraduate at Christ Church, Oxford, at exactly the same time as Lord (Jacob) Rothschild. The kind of false analysis which is criticised here would deduce from these facts that Christopher Story knows, is in thrall to, acts on the instructions of, does the bidding of, is part of the circle of, and advocates New World Order policies espoused by, Lord Rothschild, all of which statements would be untrue. Rothschild's estate lies only a few miles away from where the Author is writing this book: but nothing whatsoever can be read into this, just as none of the other speculations, if ever made (which they never have been) could be verified.

45. 'The Final Solution and US Martial Law: The Deadly Link', by Pam Schuffert: unpublished monograph report from Germany, 2002, supplied to the Author by the distinguished US researcher and warrior for sanity, Charlotte Iserbyte. The Author's reference to the comment by a key US intelligence operative interviewed by the Author in June 2005 is of exceptional importance, as it confirms his suspicion that a number of talented and dedicated operatives were deceived by their own controllers, a widely-used technique which has special relevance here. Understanding that such people were deceived enables us to resolve conflicts arising from the fact that they participated in operations which were clearly Luciferian, and yet are now ready and willing to warn the world of the consequences of the Illuminati's intended hegemony.
46. 'Fleshing Out Skull and Bones', Kris Millegan, op. cit., page 20.
47. Revelation, Chapter 3, verse 20.
48. Isaiah, Chapter 1, verse 18. It is possible for almost all to be saved: after all, with God, anything is possible. But any member of the Illuminati who reads this book must realise that repentance is an absolute prerequisite for salvation. The example of the conversion of the Apostle Paul is an expression of the hope and opportunity we have for salvation: members of the Illuminati sect are not precluded, provided they have not participated in blasphemy against the Holy Spirit. If they have done this unknowingly, 'they may still be OK' (eligible for salvation') as our Lord's stricture on this issue is not absolute, if the text is read carefully. See Notes 1 and 8.
49. 'America's Secret Establishment', Antony C. Sutton, op. cit, pages 5-6.
50. The article by Ron Rosenbaum cited by Antony Sutton appeared in 'Esquire', September 1977, and was entitled: 'The Last secrets of Skull and Bones'. Sutton comments on page 6 of his book, in a note: 'Unfortunately, the article completely misses the historical significance of Skull and Bones, although it is an excellent source of lurid details and the mumbo-jumbo rites'.
51. Gospel of John, Chapter 8, verse 44.
52. Manly R Hall, 'The Lost keys of Freemasonry or The Secret of Hiram Abiff', page 48, Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Company, Inc., Richmond, VA, 1923-1976, ISBN 0-88053-044-8, which is 'Dedicated to the Seekers of Light wherever dispersed upon the face of the globe'.
53. 'America's Secret Establishment', Antony C. Sutton, op. cit., page 7.
54. Essay on Demosthenes by Plutarch, written about 75 BC, translated by John Dryden.

THE PROPORTIONS OF THE CRIMINALISM CRISIS

Criminalism is a word coined by the Author for use in his financial serial publications to distinguish officially sponsored criminal operations from 'stand-alone' mafia-style organised crime.

Criminalism means the exploitation of state-sponsored criminal operations in the interests of strategy, an activity that is manifestly open to abuse. For instance, according to Pat Cameron, a former Los Angeles-based attorney for the US Secret Service/Treasury intelligence operative Leo Wanta, former President George Bush Sr. allegedly sought to withdraw $210 billion of funds from one of the myriad Title 18, Section 6 US Government intelligence-sponsored corporations set up by Wanta for the implementation of state intelligence operations. Leo Wanta, a co-signatory of the account, refused to apply his signature, pointing out that the funds in the bank accounts of one of the offshore Ameritrust corporations belonged to the US Government, not to an individual. Partly because of his refusal to meet the former President's wishes, and because separately - in his role as a US Treasury/Secret Service analyst and Trustor - he wrote on a financial print-out that he was auditing 'Acceptance of value by former U.S. President of the United States George (Jorge) Bush is direct violation of our USA Title 5, Section 7353, et seq.: Jim Baker III told me to just "Shut Up", as I am protected by Rogers Houston Memorandum to Co-operate', but I kept Receipts & Notes', he was subsequently arrested on trumped-up charges, falsely alleged by officials to be dead, and made to suffer extreme humiliation and imprisonment/house arrest for an imposed period of many years: just for doing his duty. Separately, Hillary Clinton allegedly withdrew a very large sum of money from Grenada-based Crozier Bank. She and her CIA operative husband have acquired property in Ireland, to which they may intend to flee should the authorities finally decide that they must be prosecuted - there being no extradition treaty between Ireland and the United States.

President Ronald Reagan's Executive Order 12333 [see box, page 20], which, in 1981, authorised the establishment by intelligence cadres of corporations at home and abroad for intelligence purposes, and for their sponsorship and ownership to be denied, opened up myriad opportunities for corruption by intelligence operatives. Powerful intelligence 'barons' and other senior figures who control US intelligence offshore bank accounts may be liable from time to time to be tempted to take some of the funds for their own purposes. So many instances of this behaviour have been identified by the Author that it is concluded that a proxy US mob gang war has been raging for years between cadres of operatives owing allegiance to competing-cooperating barons, as they struggle for control of colossal US financial assets. At the same time, trillions of dollars' worth of funds have been misappropriated. This is the mirror image of what has of course been routine practice in the criminalised 'former' USSR.

Gorbachev's Politburo authorised similar 'private' corporations a decade after President Reagan's Executive Order 12333, as a consequence of which the number of Soviet intelligence-linked corporations ballooned - many of them carrying the tell-tale suffix 'ex'. A similar situation has accordingly arisen in the 'former' Soviet Union, where the Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) officer serving as President, V. Putin, has been masterminding a campaign to force intelligence officers like Mikhail Khodorkovsky to disgorge the 'assets of the state' which were 'temporarily' privatised into their hands in order to fool the international community with a 'new form' of Leninist 'state controlled capitalism'.

In short, Illuminati money operations typically devolve into ruthless criminal behaviour. ■

CHAPTER THREE

THE LURE OF DRUGS

DRUGS AS THE LUBRICANT OF THE NEW UNDERWORLD ORDER

Because the Illuminati secretly run the global drug networks - as will be revealed by the Illuminati defector whose ghastly findings about this global control sect are reviewed in Chapter 7 - and because the historical connections between the Luciferian Skull and Bones society at Yale College and drug-trafficking have been discussed in Chapter Two, this Chapter addresses the drug-trafficking dimension of the New Underworld Order. Specifically, it reveals the massive, decades-long involvement of German-linked elements of the United States' intelligence community in drug-trafficking - arguably the biggest sub-scandal of the myriad scandals touched upon in this book (which of course, necessarily scratches only the surface of these issues, since it is impossible (a) for any single human brain to encompass the enormity of what is going on and (b) no single individual can possibly, via the public domain, amass details of the innumerable drug-trafficking networks, scams and operations that are being worked overtime at any given moment).

MAIN REASONS FOR THIS STUDY'S FOCUS ON THE UNITED STATES

To start with, though, it is necessary to correct certain misapprehensions. First, this book is not intended as a blanket attack on the US intelligence community, but rather upon the rotten components of it which are manipulated by the (Dachau) Forces of Darkness. The Author knows that many honourable US intelligence officers exist: indeed, he has had the privilege of knowing a few of them. These people are known to be disgusted and demoralised by the cancer of corruption, and not a little concerned at the magnificent opportunities it offers, by definition, to covert continuing enemies of the United States for blackmail, and for consolidation of the scourge of interpenetration which has immobilised intelligence agencies of the Great Powers. Secondly, the Author knows that it has been suggested, inaccurately, in some quarters that the Author has 'done an about face' - focusing on what is wrong in the West in general and the United States in particular, rather than, as in the past, on the Soviet dimension of the World Revolution.

This is inaccurate: those who have made such allegations have failed to understand, or refuse to consider, the reality that the Illuminati's preferred methodology is to manipulate 'opposites' (the Hegelian dialectic), with the intention of creating the conditions for 'progress' towards their global control objective. In general terms, therefore, the division of ideologies into 'left' and 'right' is a crude, populist deception for consumption by the masses which observers and analysts need to see through, before any reliable understanding of the world's problems can emerge. The corollary to the unjust allegation in question is that the Author is not paying adequate attention to the continuing Russian/Soviet dimension of the criminalist onslaught upon the West. That is untrue: the first two books published by this Author's book publishing company, Edward Harle Limited - The Perestroika Deception by the Soviet defector, Anatoliy Golitsyn, and Red Cocaine, by Dr Joseph D. Douglass Jr. [see: www.edwardharle.com] - explicitly addressed the Soviet dimension of the World Revolution, and the covert Soviet drug offensive against the West. A further, later, investigation - this Author's own analysis, The European Union Collective - revealed how the European Union, as Gorbachev proclaimed in London on 23rd March 2000 - is 'the New European Soviet'.

The focus of this book on the United States reflects several considerations. First, the United States has long since imported, and integrated into its 'class' Zeitgeist primarily via Yale College, the entire baggage developed by the Illuminati, a hyperactive-ly powerful, evil sect born and bred in Germany which serves as a deep covert instrument for the fulfilment of long-range German strategy to establish irreversible global hegemony. This deep penetration has laid the basis for the unprecedented crisis that America faces today, because few US strategists have a clear grasp of its significance. The Thousand-Year Reich' is a concept normally associated with Hitler: but in actual fact, it represents a long-term strategy elaborated by pan-Germans spanning the years from Frederick the Great, Bismarck, Haushofer and their Nazi heirs onwards. Secondly, this study's focus on the United States reflects the reality that Britain and the United States remain decisively 'the joint Main Enemy', in the eyes of both German (covert Nazi) and the Soviet (covert Marxist-Leninist) strategists, who have systematically, acting secretly together at the intelligence level, subverted and decapitated British power and global authority, and are concurrently engaged in massive Fifth Column and subversion operations in the United States (although they both underestimate the huge military strength of the United Kingdom, which remains truly awesome). These strategists see control over the United States as the key to global control, which is why the United States is the primary target of covert continuing German (Nazi International) global deception strategy, masterminded by the Dachau-based Nazi 'Black' German intelligence service, Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst, or DVD [covert German Defence Service] which, with back-up assistance from the parallel French 'Black' covert intelligence operation, manipulates and ultimately controls, with a separate Soviet dimension, the Islamic terrorist networks spun originally from the Muslim Brotherhood. This was established by the Abwehr in the Middle East during the 1920s in order to undermine British influence in the region - Al-Qaeda having been definitively identified as a manipulated instrument of the DVD. It will be shown in Chapter 8 that the Nazi Continuum has specifically stated, in a document captured by the Allies in the early 1950s, its intention of establishing the Thousand-Year Reich on the ruins of the United States. The German offensive against Britain is today concentrated mainly in the EU entrapment mechanism.

Although, given the focus of this book, this Chapter addresses the scandal of US intelligence drug operations and collaboration with organised criminal elements, it is not to be assumed that the Author is unaware of the nefarious drug-peddling activities of the British, German, French, Spanish, Dutch, Israeli, Chinese and probably the Swiss authorities. Cadres of French and German intelligence have been proliferating drug-trafficking operations, for decades. 'Clean' British intelligence sources advise that the Nazi apparat under Hitler, presided over by that evil genius Heinrich Himmler and the Abwehr, were well aware of the demoralising impact of drugs as a sabotage weapon. As Dr Joseph D. Douglass Jr. explains in his book Red Cocaine, the Soviet (and subsequent covert Soviet) drug-trafficking operations in the Western Hemisphere were and are, to this very day, coordinated via the Americas Department of the Cuban Communist Party, which is controlled by the Jesuit-educated intelligence officer, Fidel Castro, whose DGI intelligence service was always heavily penetrated and directed by KGB operatives. For many decades, French intelligence has used cocaine-trafficking proceeds to penetrate and sustain the US Democratic Party, while the Republican Party has been the beneficiary of heroin-related proceeds developed by German (DVD) intelligence assets. The identity of one such asset is exposed in this Chapter. Spanish 'Black' intelligence is devilishly criminalised, exploiting its Latin American connections, especially in Colombia, for drug-trafficking and covert blackmail and bankrolling purposes - with Spain today awash with drugs and allegedly used (until he was ordered out of Spain in June 2006) by George Bush Sr.'s Latin American drug-related deliveries into Europe on behalf of the DVD. Chinese intelligence were running drugs long before Mao Tse-Tung used drugs against his own people prior to 1949, after which he presided over the externalisation of Chinese Communist drug activities, with a regional focus. In the 19th century, British and American interests were, as noted in the preceding Chapter, involved in opium and general narcotics trading at the expense of Far Eastern Untermenschen. So the involvement of intelligence communities - which are primarily occultic secret societies - in criminal drug operations independently from and in collaboration with, self-standing organised criminal networks, has been the norm for perhaps two hundred years.

A GREAT POWER MUST UNILATERALLY RENOUNCE DRUGS

A senior US intelligence operative told the Author in 2005 that 'if you attack the drug operations, they will kill you'. He said this not in order to threaten, but to enlighten. To which the obvious answer is that no part of the known truth is eligible for suppression. Drug-related intelligence criminality perpetrated by so-called civilised nations is a Satanic aberration that reveals the criminal nature of the governments that permit such activities, even on the 'pragmatic' ground that 'everyone else is doing it, so we have no choice. There is no alternative'. Actually, there is: what a national government thus compromised has the option of doing is to voluntarily renounce, and to order all its structures to cease and desist from, all drug-related activity - on pain of the same severe penalties that are (or ought to be) served up to drug traffickers at every level. Those who will reply that 'the world is not like thaf (as one worldly-wise and deeply cynical US intelligence operative said to the Author in March 2005), need to look at themselves in the mirror, take stock, and repent - or they will indeed 'die in their sins'.

However, this certainty does not seem to alarm them. For the evil people we are talking about are indoctrinated with the Nietschian nihilism expressed on the grim engraving upon the west wall of the Skull and Bones 'Tomb' on the Yale campus: 'Ob Arm, ob Reich, im Tode gleich'. For such people, death is 'the terminus': yet their demented occultic 'religion' impregnates them with the Luciferian lie that we live in a 'mechanistic world' and that they, as 'chosen ones', are privileged to be empowered (through ritualistic progression) to manipulate the opposing 'mechanistic forces' of 'good' and 'evil' (although they do not in fact believe in good and evil at all, notwithstanding that in their blinded eyes, 'Lucifer' is good and Jesus Christ (uniquely) is perceived to be the personification of evil, given that the Devil 'turns everything upside down'). And to 'compensate' them for the absence of any hope arising from their obeying the Evil One, these Luciferian occultic Masonic nutcases have invented the ludicrous delusion of 'reincarnation'.

So to 'hope' for any of the competing Great Powers to renounce the drug-trafficking operations of their criminalised intelligence communities will doubtless seem ridiculous to any cynical intelligence officer who may have been ordered to read this book. Yet it is exposure that such people fear most: after all, senior US intelligence officials have boasted, and expressed pride in the fact that, they control the US media - which they do in order, of course, to minimise exposure. And such control of free speech feeds, necessarily, on itself: as the darkness descends, exposure of official criminality becomes less and less feasible, but never impossible to achieve (since the media's controlling intelligence cells can never be 100% certain that 'breakouts' will not occur). These people are 'lost: in whom the god of this world' (Lucifer, the Prince of this World) 'hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them' [Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 4, verses 3-4]. Those, therefore, who are feared most, are those into whose souls this brilliant true light has indeed shined: for if, by accident, any such being should reach appropriate high office, he or she would be bound, if so empowered, to demand the immediate cessation of all drug-related operations by the penetrated authorities and their compromised structures, whatever the consequences. For governments that not only tolerate such activities, but participate in them, are criminal governments.

DRUG OPS AND POLITICAL PAYOLA BY BRITISH INTELLIGENCE

For the British political parties, the consequences of any cessation of official drug-related operations would be severe. In the 1950s and 1960s, the two main British political parties enjoyed paid-up memberships in excess of one million each. When the Labour Party (under the corrupted Harold Wilson) and Conservative Party (under the corrupted long-term German Abwehr agent, Edward Heath: see Chapter 8) embarked upon the treacherous course of 'taking Britain into Europe', both realised that the British electorate would be fundamentally antagonistic to the collectivisation and therefore the destruction of their ancient British sovereignty, that their memberships would decline, and that, accordingly, some other means of financing would become necessary. The means to hand was, and remains, drugs. In 1972, when the treasonous German agents Edward Heath and Geoffrey Rippon signed the UK Treaty of Accession to the European Economic Communities, the number of heroin addicts was of the order of 30,000. The total number of heroin addicts today exceeds 300,000; and these people are supported by the (criminalised) National Heath Service, which provides them with methadone, cynically ensuring that their demand for heroin after 'treatmenf will continue.

The collapse of political memberships has accelerated in recent years. In May 1997, when 13,517,911 British electors voted for the Labour Party, the symbol of which is the Rosicrucian Rose, it had 407,000 members; in May 2005, when 9,547,944 people voted for Labour, it had 200,000 members. A similar collapse of Conservative Party membership has occurred. Whereas funds for General Elections were successfully raised in the 1950s and part of the 1960s by local activists, the flow of funds from the 'grass roots' has to a considerable extent dried up, as cynicism, propelled by dissatisfaction and disgust at Britain's corrosive EU membership, has proliferated.

Membership of the European Union, which, as will be explained later, is an operation of secret German long-range strategic intelligence, has been associated with the corruption of British politics - the EU and its structures being accustomed to and driven by German-style corruption on the grand scale [see Chapter 8]. Accordingly, with the penetration of MI6 and other elements of the British intelligence community, drug operations are now routinely deployed to bankroll the two main political parties (the Author had no information at press date on the financing of the Liberal Democrats, although their limpet-like adherence to and support for the sterile policy of British membership of the Collective suggests that similar arrangements may apply). And the funds are made available by certain intelligence cadres, with large sums being transferred from offshore accounts, in exchange for sizeable rake-offs for the perpetrating 'benefactors' concerned.

Specifically, MI6, under John Scarlett, is oriented towards the German/French axis, with Scarlett, in particular, suspected of being an asset of Franco-German intelligence. In 2004 and early 2005, MI6 attempted to smear this Author, as he prepared to expose the giga-financial operation to finance the New Underworld Order presided over by George Bush Sr., in his financial journal International Currency Review. The Author, pre-warned of this intention by a veteran British journalist with deep MI6 contacts, proceeded to publish 16 pages of detailed information, in the journal, about how the intended smears were conveyed to him, ostensibly 'to make you sit up'. Following this 'blow-back', the smearers appeared for a time to have ceased and desisted. Their clumsy libels against this Author consisted of allegations that the Author was somehow associated with Sir Mark Thatcher in connection with the aborted Equatorial Guinea fiasco (in which a group of mainly British investors / operatives were supposedly engaged in plotting to overthrow the dictatorial government of that oil-rich country). A second, equally farcical version had the Author engaged in some underhand transaction in Monaco with Bernie Ecclestone, the British motor racing king-pin, an alleged drug dealer who was involved in the notorious Great Train Robbery in the 1960s. Such absurd inventions, concocted inside the MI6 building, overlooked the well-known fact that the Author works 24/7, 365 days of the year on his business's books and serials, so that there would be no time for any such stupid ventures. The veteran British journalist who retailed the Mark Thatcher invention, Gordon Thomas, warned the Author that MI6 had obtained unspecified false information about the Author, which had been retailed to the British media. This outrage was also reported in International Currency Review.

In the light of the Author's knowledge that elements of MI6 are not only 'working with' German and French intelligence against Britain's interests, but that MI6 is in the habit of frustrating the work of honest MB operatives working round the clock against the Al-Qaeda cells ultimately controlled by German 'Black intelligence, one can see why MI6 stupidly dislikes the Author and all his works. That corrupted intelligence organisation will dislike him all the more for revealing, herewith, that MI6 accommodates the GO-2 'anti-drug' cadre of UK intelligence community, at their Lambeth headquarters, and that GO-2, far from curbing drug-trafficking into Britain, actively encourages and facilitates it. Specifically, it coordinates two drug cartels which are the sources of corrupt drug finance made available to the main British political parties by its 'good offices'. After informing the Author of these dreadful facts, the reliable intelligence sources who provided this information, added in unison: 'Britain has a criminal government'. It is to be hoped that these necessary exposures will help any critics in the United States to understand that both our countries are victims and at the same time perpetrators of these unspeakable evils, so that this book's focus on the evils identified inside the US structures and society, must not be construed as being in any way indicative of bias on the part of the Author against the United States.

Knowing how sensitive Americans are to criticism of any kind, this needed to be said, not least since the Author is a frequent visitor to the United States and a devoted fan of that great country. Indeed the Author's very familiarity with parts of America has, in part, motivated this investigation - which has been assisted by the relative transparency of US society, and by tensions caused by foreign penetration inside US intelligence: the underlying source of leaks by paradoxically dissident loyal US operatives.

Keeping the main British political parties afloat and at times awash with drug money has of course irreparably corrupted the British political system, converting the genuine democracy that flourished up to the 1950s and 1960s into a the decadent criminalised cess-pit that we see before our eyes today. The reverse of the drug money coin is, of course, the familiar word: BLACKMAIL. Should a key political party, or elements within it, show signs of deviating from 'the agenda', GO-2 and MI6 have the means, shall we say, of ensuring that any such intended 'deviancy' is brought back 'on message' with minimal delay. In the unlikely event of a 'mishap', taking the form of some indiscreet politician persisting with deviations from 'the line', heavy hints or threats are issued concerning the dire consequences liable to attend any such departure. And what is the 'line' to which all the main UK political parties are required to adhere so rigidly? You guess right: no rocking of the European Union boat. No talk of Britain leaving the German-dominated European Union. And of which key country is the European Union a long-term foreign policy strategic extension and deception? Answer: Germany. The key political parties are paid for by drug money, coordinated by the DVD, Dachau.

GERMANY EXPORTS ILLUMINISM AS ITS MAIN STRATEGIC COVER

German intelligence has always influenced and been present deep within foreign targeted intelligence and policymaking circles - not least within the Soviet intelligence and Communist Party structures. The Illuminist Grigory Efimovich Rasputin-Novy was widely assumed by the Russian nobility to be a German subversion operative. As Edvard Radzinsky has explained in his book 'Rasputin: The Last Word' [Weidenfeld and Nicholson, and Phoenix, Orion Books Ltd., London, 2000, page 527]: 'At the time, they were already saying on every [street] corner and in every home that Rasputin was in the pay of German agents. And Rasputin, and the Tsarina who deferred to him, and [Anya] Vryubova [the Tsarina's closest friend] - the 'dark forces' - decided to lead Russia out of the war'. But that, indeed, was what Rasputin, who had been 'prepositioned' with the Imperial Family by German intelligence prior to the war, was instructed to do.

It is, indeed, a speciality of German intelligence to position operatives at the heart of targeted royalty. For instance, Mrs Wallis Simpson, a dark and sinister (as well as being an unsurprisingly ugly) woman, has been described to the Author by an intelligence source as a German agent, whose task had been to persuade King Edward VIII of the necessity of not impeding the Third Reich's plans in general, and remaining neutral in any war that might break out, in particular.

And an incident in which Prince Harry, who once showed signs of excessively wild youthful behaviour, was photographed dressed up in a Nazi era uniform was, the Author is reliably informed, a typical discrediting operation masterminded by the Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst, which, like its Abwehr predecessor, has a long history of intermeddling with targeted European Royal Families. The fact that the British Royal Family is of partly German origin is not material, as the family and its national loyalties predate the hyperactivity phase of German Illuminism.

Finally, Lavrentii Beria, Stalin's odious Uluminati secret police chief, was a long-serving German deep penetration agent. While his (Jewish) boss, the Illuminist Josef Stalin (Djugashvili), was alive, Beria was accustomed to dining with the tyrant in the middle of the night (as Stalin, being 'of the darkness', preferred, like the occult Illuminist Hitler, to work at night: the daylight bothered him). Beria certainly maximised the potential for implementing Karl Marx's vow to procure the destruction of as much of humanity as possible. But as soon as Stalin was dead, Beria took it upon himself to travel to East Germany, with the intention of procuring the outcome that was finally orchestrated by Soviet military intelligence under Vladimir Putin in 1989-91, directed by KGB Supremo Gorbachev.

As for the German Illuminist, Karl Marx, likewise of Jewish extraction (but having had a Protestant upbringing), he abandoned his early Christian learning well before his twenties (as did Stalin, who had been a seminary student in his teens), and took to writing demonic poetry and plays. In his poem 'The Pale Maiden', Karl Marx wrote: Thus Heaven I've forfeited, I know it full well. My soul, once true to God, Is chosen for Hell'. This is uncannily close to the 'lyric' belted out by the Finnish Illuminati-controlled devil Lordi at the 51st Eurovision 'Song' Contest on 20th May 2006: 'Wings on my back, I got horns on my head, My fangs are sharp, and my eyes are red: Not quite an angel or the one that fell; Now choose to join us [the whole point - Ed.] or go straight to Hell'.

As he became demon-possessed, having, like Lenin, Stalin and Hitler, indulged in occult activities, Marx's private writings became openly demonic. Marx was enticed into the occult while at University - just as 'tapped' Yale 'Bonesmen' are enticed into occultism by means of the intensified crash course in demonic possession that they so eagerly embrace after being 'chosen'. Having proclaimed in one youthful outburst identified by the Romanian hero and Pastor, Richard Wurmbrand, who discovered and examined Marx's poems, plays and other writings, and his letters to his father[1], that 'Nothing but revenge is left to me', Marx spent the rest of his life, which he lived in unclean, dishevelled chaos, in pursuit of revenge against the Lord Almighty: 'I wish to avenge myself against the One who rules above', he wrote, thus revealing that, contrary to the common supposition, he was far from being an atheist. You can't take revenge against someone who doesn't exist.

'Embracing me', he wrote under demonic possession, 'the world will dumbly pass away, And then sink down to utter nothingness...'. And, having abandoned God, imagining he could spite the power that creates life, he dedicated his existence to turning truth upside down, which meant, as it means today, substituting death ('collateral damage') for life. Incredibly, too, Marx actually revealed, in an early poem, that he intended to 'go all the way' to becoming 'like a god' - the temptation elaborated at the beginning of the Book of Genesis, propelled by the 'seething energies of Lucifer'[2]: for in one screaming poem, he wrote, according to Pastor Wurmbrand's research: 'With disdain I will throw my gauntlet Full in the face of the world, And see the collapse of this pygmy giant [God] Whose fall will not stifle my ardour. Then I will wander godlike and victorious Through the ruins of the world And, giving my words an active force' [i.e., empowering them with the 'seething energy' derived from his 'familiar' spirit(s)], T will feel equal to the Creator' (even though Marx says that the Creator will have 'collapsed').

Such was, and remains to this day, the madness and demonic energy typical of members of the huge covert sect of the Illuminati, spawned originally from a Jesuit cradle in Germany. These are Tosf souls who consciously seek to outwit the prophesy of the greatest of all the Lord's prophets, Isaiah: 'How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! How art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!' (i.e., Lucifer weakens the nations, as we see so clearly today). 'For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into Heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God... I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the most High'[3].

The Soviet Government established by Trotsky and Lenin was the first large-scale pitch-Black Illuminati-sponsored regime of the modern era, despite having been formulated and directed mainly by operatives of Jewish extraction (for the Illuminati are neutral and agnostic about Jewishness, even though many are Jews: they use the Jews, and having made full use of their talents, discard them later, as necessary, while at the same time reserving the option of using them as scapegoats for their own open-ended criminality, as will be explained in Chapter 7 on the Illuminati. This is one of the most disturbing characteristics of what the Apostle Paul referred to as 'the mystery of iniquity'[4].

The second such modern Great Power Illuminist abomination was of course Nazi Germany. Following the fall of Hitler's regime - which the whole world mistakenly assumed 'meant' the collapse of Nazism - many similar abominations, modelled along Illuminist lines, sprang into existence: the Communist Chinese and Cambodian regimes and, most conspicuously today, the Illuminist regimes of North Korea, of Cuba and of Libya's Colonel Qadhaffi (who has surely one of the most evil of all recognisable faces) - and of the former Iraqi Ba'ath regime presided over by the Illuminist Saddam Hussein. That particular system was directly based upon the Nazi model, being originally a creation of covert Nazi intelligence. Following the First World War, Hungary experienced a brief encounter with Illuminism, in the format of the murderous Bela Kun interlude. Without exception, the speciality of each of these abominations was mass slaughter. And the Illuminati 'black regime' model was developed in Germany. It now manifests itself most conspicuously in the United States, where a Nazi-style 'coup d'etat by instalments' is in progress 'as we speak', and swat teams with helmets similar to those worn by Nazi stormtroopers are sent in to stricken cities (like New Orleans) and the Federal Emergency Management Agency does nothing except belatedly deliver a consignment of 25,000 bodybags. Were these then filled with bodies, or with drugs, as in Vietnam?

ONGOING COVERT SOVIET CRIME AND DRUG-TRAFFICKING OPS

Germany's covert orientation towards, and penetration of, the Russian structures, did not cease with orchestrated, controlled, and typically Leninist 'collapsible Communism', although Vladimir Putin was reported in mid-2005 to be engaged in measures to purge his structures of German intelligence agents. That this reported purge was under way highlighted an issue left unresolved in this Author's first book ''The European Union Collective' - namely that the long-range double-headed 'enemy' of Britain and the United States (France/Germany-covert USSR), cannot rely upon its own coherence, since these powers are all ambitious, ruthless, and divided against and among themselves. Of course, the covert Soviet strategic continuum has different ideas about where this will all lead, from the long-range intentions of covert Nazi intelligence, with its focus on a German-dominated 'Thousand-Year Reich' to be built on the ruins of the United States. Thus, in May 2002, the top Soviet Mlitary Intelligence (GRU) officer, Vladimir Putin, addressing the new NATO-Russia Council, felt confident enough to tell the assembled leaders of NATO: 'We should call ourselves the House of the Soviets'. The former Secretary-General of NATO, Lord Robertson, 'once' a Communist, who was in the Chair, responded by saying: 'I will declare that to be a joke' - which, of course, it was not. On the contrary, Putin was deadly serious, and those present, including President George W Bush, knew it. Yet even though President Bush Jr. was indeed present, the US President was quoted as parroting at another public venue, on 17th July 2002: 'Russia is no longer the enemy. Communism is dead'- the old, long since discredited mantra from the 1989-91 period.

Given that the 'collapse of Communism' was orchestrated by Soviet intelligence, with extensive clandestine financial engineering assistance from the West, it follows that the Communist dimension of the World Revolution dialectic, including its drug-trafficking and organised criminal operations, have remained not just intact, but hugely invigorated by the predicted realisation that the West has remained fast asleep while this strategic deception proceeds in accordance with the Soviet revolutionary blueprint initially formulated by the Comintern in 1928 and upgraded after the death of Stalin. This was all explained in 'The Perestroika Deception'[5], by the genuine Soviet defector, Anatoliy Golitsyn, and is elaborated upon in successive issues of Soviet Analyst[6], a publication edited by this Author. The Soviet (and now covert Soviet) Illuminist regime is 'stand-alone' in terms of its own revolutionary agenda, in accordance with the routine geomasonic Illuminist discipline of the dialectic of mechanistic 'opposites'.

Many reports have been published in 'Soviet Analyst' exposing dimensions of ongoing Soviet criminalist and drug intelligence activities, which are run in parallel with covert German, French and Spanish intelligence-coordinated drug-trafficking operations. Addendum 6 on page 695 ('Covert Soviet Financial Scams') is included specifically in order to emphasise the essential point that Soviet criminalism (= the exploitation by intelligence of organised criminal operations in the interest of strategy), which is State ('Revolution') policy, remains a hideous menace: it looks at Soviet intelligence criminalist penetration of the banking system, glimpses of which slipped into the public domain in the late 1990s in the context of the scandals surrounding the Soviet intelligence scams involving the embezzlement of $4.8 billion of IMF money, and Russian money-laundering operations via Bank of New York, Republic National Bank of New York, and innumerable offshore entities, including FTMACO, based in Jersey, and various Cyprus-based offshore companies. Moscow's southern Cyprus-based money-laundering centre was established in the late 1980s by the son of Andrei Gromyko (Katz), the former long-serving Soviet Foreign Minister and briefly President, who suddenly vanished from his senior position with the Soviet Academy of [Leninist] Sciences and surfaced in Cyprus, where as indicated he arranged for Cyprus to be used for Russian intelligence money-laundering purposes - residing in Limassol, close to the two British Sovereign areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia. For a number of years, Gromyko Jr.'s telephone number (under his family name of Katz) could be found in the Limassol telephone directory.

On 11th November 1999, the Bulgarian Ambassador to the United States, Philip Dimitrov, addressed a meeting in Washington, DC, attended by the Author. His theme was the progress of Bulgaria generally 'since the fall of Communism'. As soon as questions were invited, the Author asked the following question: 'Is the official firm KINTEX still in business, run by KGB officers and trafficking in drugs?' KINTEX is a large, notorious Bulgarian state-owned conglomerate, run as always by Bulgarian intelligence, which is allegedly involved in drug-trafficking (almost all corporations with the suffix 'ex' are KGB-related operations). Taken aback, the Bulgarian Ambassador blurted out that 'the KGB people who were running KINTEX have been cleaned out' [sic]. This was the first-ever official confirmation that KINTEX 'was' a KGB corporation. The response also confirmed, first-hand, the Bulgarian connection to the Uluminati's global-drug-traffick-ing operations. When the Author pressed home with the supplementary question 'Is KINTEX still involved in drug-trafficking?', Mr Dimitrov did not answer the question, but repeated, with some irritation, his earlier statement that 'the KGB people who were running KINTEX have been cleaned out'. He then stormed out of the meeting.

As the Author argued in Soviet Analyst[7], if the Bulgarian authorities had been genuinely interested in getting out of the global drug-trafficking business, why in that case keep KINTEX alive at all, since its alleged drug operations had been so widely publicised over the years? Why not at least change the entity's name? Secondly who, exactly, 'cleans out' the KGB? No-one, of course, since the relabelled KGB is in the driving seat - in all States of the 'former' Soviet Bloc, as previously: indeed all East European and other Bloc States' intelligence services remain in the same subordinate relationship with Soviet intelligence as was the case prior to the application (by the KGB and GRU) of the 'collapsible Communism' strategic deception in 1989-91. The same applies to their Interior Ministry structures. The false-flag, puppet 'non'-Communist Bulgarian Government would never have been in any position to order Soviet KGB officers to leave KINTEX, especially since KINTEX 'was' so deeply involved in the implementation of Soviet global drugs strategy, which has the highest priority. Finally, the very fact that KINTEX has remained fully operative confirmed, without a shadow of doubt, that Mr Dimitrov was being 'economical with the truth': for, obviously, KINTEX has remained in the global drug business, and under the control of the (relabelled) KGB, as before. Indeed, given the massive ongoing US intelligence drug-trafficking operations which will be discussed, there can never have been any question of 'former' Soviet Bloc drug-trafficking operations being mothballed or closed down.

SOVIETS UNLEASH CRIMINAL CADRES INTO WESTERN STRUCTURES

In the 1990s, several prominent Russian officials (Communists masquerading as 'non'-Communists, as has by now become routine) made it evident that covert Soviet global revolutionary strategy entailed the unleashing of an army of Soviet criminal intelligence operatives into Western structures.

For example, Boris Uvarov, functioning under the label of the Serious Crimes Investigator of the Russian Federation, made it crystal clear for the benefit of anyone listening, that Western authorities had still, as late as the early 1990s, failed to realise what was about to hit them. According to the late Claire Sterling a CIA operative, author and pioneer of serious open investigations into the interaction of the criminal underworld with intelligence communities and vice versa, Boris Uvarov, with typical Bolshevik 'candid arrogance', let the cat out of the bag when he pronounced:

'Naturally it's wonderful that the Iron Curtain is gone, but it was a shield for the West Now we've opened the gates, and this is very dangerous for the rest of the world. America is getting Russian criminals; Europe is getting Russian criminals. They'll steal everything. They'll occupy Europe. Nobody will have the resources to stop them. You people in the West don't know our mafiya yet. You will, you will'[8].

This offensive represented a primary dimension of Moscow's economic and financial warfare operations against the West - the reverse of, or 'blowback', in opposition or response to, the extensive financial and economic warfare offensives being waged by Western (especially British and American) intelligence specialists against the Soviets and their fake 'non'-Communist successors in 1989-92. Some of the US Financial Warfare operations against the 'former' Soviet Union, including the removal of about 2,000 tonnes of official gold from the vaults of the Soviet Central Bank (Gosbank) and the degradation of the rouble, were masterminded by the heroic and unjustly treated US Secret Service/CIA/FBI intelligence officer Leo Wanta, whose subsequent exposure of criminal demands by US Presidents resulted in his illegal incarceration and house arrest.

In his excellent book 'Red Mafiya: How the Russian Mob has invaded America' [Little, Brown and Company, New York, 2000, page xv], Robert I. Friedman noted that 'the FBI has described [Vyacheslav Kirillovich] Ivankov as the most powerful Russian mobster in the United States. Before coming to the U.S. in 1992, he spent many years in the GULAG for a number of gruesome crimes, including torturing his extortion victims, and he had personally ordered the killing of so many journalists, police and civilians in Russia that a ruling council of mob bosses banished him to America. He arrived with several hundred no-neck thugs led by a former KGB colonel'. According to other sources, at least 17,500 Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) operatives were embedded in the United States and its structures by the mid-1990s - an unconscionable state of affairs which is all the more disconcerting given that the continuing Soviet GRU controls and supervises the Soviet element of the drug offensive against the United States and the West. For, naturally, the United States is far from the only key Western country to have been targeted by covert Soviet (Russian) intelligence criminalists. The consequences of drug operations in Britain by intelligence criminalists have predictably proved absolutely disastrous, and the British Government has consistently covered up the scale of its comprehensive failure in the so-called 'war against drugs', exactly as has consistently been the case in the United States. Whereas we know, and the Author documents in this Chapter, that German-linked elements of the vast US intelligence community are up to their necks in drug-trafficking, and have been so engaged for decades, the British tradition of official secrecy has hitherto prevented the exposure of any British intelligence involvement in this Luciferian activity. This can only mean one of two things: either British intelligence has been able to hide its complicity much more successfully than the leaky US intelligence community, which is riven by internal strife and rivalries; or else the British intelligence authorities have rightly refrained from participating in this evil game. The first alternative is correct: GO-2, a British 'Black' intelligence agency within MI6, not only controls two drug cartels and enables the proceeds to be deployed to finance the degraded political system, but also feeds cocaine into British schools.

In late August 2002, officers from the (overt) Bavarian Office for the Protection of the Constitution told the German newspaper 'Die Welt'[9] that Russian crime syndicates operating in Germany had close links to the Russian intelligence structures and also with 'high-ranking officials from politics and industry in Russia'. According to the German newspaper, in the past, German law enforcement officials had suspected that only former intelligence agents were involved with Russian organised crime groups.

But 'today', the report affirmed, they had evidence that active duty officers were involved. According to unnamed Bavarian officials: 'Often extremely flexible, interlinked businesses serving primarily money-laundering purposes have been established, commissioned by Russian intelligence services and criminal organisations'.

The funds earned from these criminal activities flowed mainly into real estate, restaurants and hotels. Endeavouring to reconstruct the various sophisticated criminal transactions, the investigators complained that 'through the purposeful establishment of global links of firms and accounts, the flow-of-funds frequently can hardly be reconstructed', according to one literal translation from the German. The overt German security service confirmed separately that Russian organised crime operatives are 'cooperating with' Russian intelligence officers in criminal businesses engaged in human trafficking, money-laundering and illegal immigration scams. It made no mention of the massive heroin-trafficking conducted by the covert Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst.

Thanks to compartmentalisation, which is as prevalent inside German intelligence as within the vast US intelligence community, it is possible that the overt officials concerned were unaware of DVD's dug operations. Whatever the truth of the matter, this German leap towards understanding was extremely belated. What on earth prevented German officials from making the connection earlier? The answer was revealed in the report itself: They thought, or purported to believe, that the criminals in question were 'former' Russian intelligence officers, who had resorted to crime - whereas of course they were and remain intelligence officers who were redeployed, along with criminal cadres released from the Soviet GULAG, specifically to realise the full potential of criminalism, in the interests of ongoing Soviet subversion and sabotage strategy.

Why did they make that false assumption? First, because the overt German intelligence and Jaw enforcement communities may, as indicated, work apart from the long-range strategists working inside the Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst at Dachau, even though the DVD also has its officers penetrated deep inside the overt German Bundes Nachrichtendienst (BND) service (just as GO-2 sits inside MI6); and operatives and police cadres in the open structures do not 'think dialectically'. And secondly, because of course they had fallen for the early lie that, following the Soviet 'August coup' provocation in 1991, the so-called 'purge' of the Soviet security services undertaken by Vadim Bakatin that year, was genuine - so that, therefore, hundreds of thousands of 'former' KGB operatives had been 'thrown out of work' and had resorted to crime as a means of survival. By jumping, along with their comparably deluded colleagues in other Western intelligence, or at least, policymaking, communities, to this lamentably false and naive conclusion, they found themselves well-primed to absorb the easily-transferred lie that the organised crime activities in which these 'out-of-work' intelligence officers were involved, were 'stand-alone' operations - like the US mafia-type activities familiar to Western movie audiences (even though the Chicago mafia has been used for decades by US intelligence to carrying out 'dirty work' operations, such as 'liquidations').

On 25th April 2005, 14 notorious Chicago mafia gangsters - including such criminals as Joseph (the Clown) Lombardo, Frank (the German) Schweihs, Frank (Gumba) Saladino, and other professional 'old mafia' criminals and murderers, reputed for decades to have been the city's key organised crime gangsters, and most of whom should have been arrested years and decades ago - were suddenly rounded up by the Chicago Police Department. The United States Attorney, Patrick J. Fitzgerald, announced the indictment of the 14 reputed mobsters and their associates on charges of plotting and executing 18 murders as far back as 1970.

So why on earth were these criminals left alone for up to 35 years, to get on with their filthy activities? Several of the accused are now in their mid-70s. The late respected analyst Sherman Skolnick, who knew the local scene well, has advised that a longstanding 'nexus' between the local Chicago CIA station chief, the local FBI, the Internal Revenue Service and other components of the corrupt US Federal bureaucracy in Chicago were in the routine habit of employing the services of the Chicago Mafia, known as 'the boys', to perform the US Federal Government's dirtiest jobs, such as domestic political assassinations 0ohn and Robert Kennedy) and foreign 'liquidations' in Mexico and Central and South America, to order - together with operations to import drugs into the United States, penetration of foreign governments through dope trafficking, flooding foreign jurisdictions with counterfeit paper money, smuggling high-tech weapons and gold, and manipulating the mass media through blackmail and other practices. He further advised that this 'old-style' Mafia 'Establishment', having become sclerotic and set in its ways, had come to stand in the way of the Federal authorities' preferred alternative underworld structure in Chicago - namely the highly-disciplined, experienced Russian mafiya cadres who have taken over the local underworld, many of whom are KGB and Soviet Spetsnaz operatives. He informed the Author and others that 'the US Gestapo' now prefers to delegate its dirty work to these ultra-efficient, professionally trained Soviet criminal classes. The informant added that there are good reasons to believe that the vast Chicago Russian mafiya, operating with impunity, consists, in part, of renegade Mossad and Jesuit cadres[10].

CRIMINALISATION OF CAPITALISM PREDICTED BY CLAIRE STERLING

This horrendous state of affairs was explicitly anticipated by Claire Sterling, following investigations which she described in her classic work 'Thieves' World'. In the course of a telephone conversation with a known US intelligence operative in 2004, a friend of your correspondent mentioned that two copies of 'Thieves' World' had been acquired, one for this Author and one for his friend. 'Oh', said the operative, 'I thought we had bought them all up' - by which he meant that a systematic attempt had been made to buy up or remove all copies of 'Thieves' World' [see Figure 23 below] from the open marketplace.

Armed with this information, the Author was of course pre-advised as to the singular importance of the intelligence contained in this work which is the classic source for early information on the financial, economic and criminal warfare dimensions of the red-

FROM 'THIEVES' WORLD' By Claire Sterling

Simon & Schuster, New York, 1994, ISBN 0-671-74997-8

'Far from the commonplace affair it may seem, laundering crime money can be an intoxicating power game. A global turnover of half a trillion narcodollars [as of 1994 - Ed.] produces colossal amounts of converted, expendable capital that can go anywhere overnight A launderer converting it by reinvesting it can move faster than any company accountable to stockholders or any State agency or international body'. Page 31.

'Naturally it's wonderful that the Iron Curtain is gone, but it was a shield for the West. Now we've opened the gates, and this is very dangerous for the rest of the world. America is getting Russian criminals; Europe is getting Russian criminals. They'll steal everything. They'll occupy Europe. Nobody will have the resources to stop them. You people in the West don't know our Mafiya yet. You will, You will'. Page 113, citing comments by Boris Uvarov, Russian Serious Crimes Investigator.

'People like [the distinguished US Secret service/ US Treasury operative Leo Wanta were doing the big straight swaps. Like an underground clearing house, they were collecting the rubles from Russian enterprises and rounding up foreign buyers. 'Hundreds of Russian firms chip in the rubles to get hard currency that isn't taxed away by the government; without people like Wanta, they'd be paying 30 cents on the dollar to the Central Bank. They're dying to do it. Wanta could line up a hundred billion rubles in a week'. Pages 203-204.

'Oh, I thought we'd bought them all up'.
US intelligence officer, on learning in 2004 that the Author and a colleague had acquired two copies of this book.

THIEVES' WORLD
THE THREAT OF THE NEW GLOBAL NETWORK OF ORGANIZED CRIME
CLAIRE STERLING
AUTHOR OF THE TERROR NETWORK AND OCTOPUS

Figure 23. Thieves' World: The Threat of the New Global Network of Organized Crime, by Claire Sterling, Simon & Schuster, New York. 1994, disguised the intelligence operations that were embedded within international Financial Warfare transactions.

hot intelligence war that rages behind the scenes and the headlines 'as we speak'. Among the notable insights from this classic work, are the following:

'Describing the [criminalism] scene in the summer of 1992, Deputy Chief Anatoliy Trechov of Moscow's Interpol declared: 'Less than half of our joint ventures work. Only a quarter deal with their declared activities. Two or three out of five are financed with money of dubious origin. Many joint ventures are fictitious. Often they're one-man operations to swing hard currency deals. Four thousand of them have rights of access to the foreign market. At least 500 of our mafiya groups use them to link up with international crime - in the United States, Italy, Germany, Austria, France, Canada, Poland'. Six months later, Boris Yeltsin himself adjusted this last estimate upwards. 'At least a thousand Mafiya groups have contacts with international organised crime', he said. 'The American and Sicilian Mafias' (Claire's code for US intelligence) 'were the first in, by way of what was arguably the biggest black market currency swap ever perpetrated. As they and others moved in deeper, their Russian confederates moved out farther'.

In other words, (a) 'collapsible Communism', a long-planned Soviet Leninist strategic intelligence deception, was orchestrated and lubricated, in part, by means of intelligence interaction with the Soviet and Western intelligence underworlds; and (b) the interaction of US and Western criminalised or underworld-linked intelligence operatives with Soviet criminal intelligence experts, flung the door wide open for the mass walk-in of Soviet intelligence criminalism experts that has since taken place - so that 'collapsible Communism' is being followed by the engineered collapse of capitalism.

Enemy objectives include seizing control of the Western financial system - via its engine room, the banking networks - to compromise capitalism irretrievably, to milk the system for their own World Revolution objectives, to enrich themselves in the process, and to integrate the consequently criminalised Western financial entities with their own criminalised structures, so as to consolidate monopoly control. To the extent that Western and US intelligence understands belatedly what has happened, and what its own operations facilitated, the defeatist rationale that prevails today is that things have gone so far that 'we have no choice but to compete and to wage secret intelligence warfare on their terms'. In other words, the secret global intelligence war has acquired the characteristics of its model - Mafia gang warfare.

MAXIMISING THE POTENTIAL OF SOVIET INTELLIGENCE CRIMINALISM

As a consequence, the covert Soviet intelligence criminalism offensive has indeed been empowered (due mainly to irresponsible components of the US intelligence structures) to maximise the potential of unfettered criminal and drug-trafficking operations, protected by its detailed knowledge of endless parallel US criminal intelligence activities. Put another way, the US intelligence and policymaking communities are paralysed by the fact that, since the German element of US intelligence is itself so deeply compromised through its underworld and drug-running operations, they lack all moral authority - so that US operations to contain the spread and depredations of Soviet criminalism have been neutralised by their own ill-advised and reckless criminalism behaviour. It is also the case that since of course Soviet intelligence has made it its business to stay well informed, in real time, about US intelligence criminalism operations, it regards any protests and opposition from the West about its crime offensive with cynical derision.

By descending into the sewer with Russian criminal operatives, the United States' German-influenced intelligence services have smothered themselves in the same filth as their Soviet counterparts. All sewer rats are brown: there are no distinctions. By merging intelligence operations with the domestic and Soviet underworlds, US intelligence has, over the years and especially since the 'changes' of 1989-91, laid itself wide open to compromise, blackmail and consequent further deep penetration by foreign intelligence - under the guise of 'cooperation' both above and below the radar. And covert Soviet intelligence is of course only too well aware of the criminal histories of prominent past and present Illuminati operatives in the US political firmament who are protected inter alia by the US Secret Service, and by their intelligence covers and their high offices, from the consequences of any exposures of their serially criminal activities (so far).

Russian organised criminal operations at home and abroad are not independent at all: they are controlled and run by the intelligence services, under cover of the basic illusion summarised above. Vadim Victorovich Bakatin, who supervised the 'reorganisation' of Soviet intelligence after the 'collapse', earned the Order of Lenin from Gorbachev in 1987.

In late December 1999, the Financial Times of London carried reports elaborating on earlier leaks from US authorities to the effect that Russian [GRU-linked] 'organised crime figures' had been contributing to the campaign funds of prominent US politicians. In fact, what has been happening is that both Chinese and Russian elements have been 'competing' to make contributions (Chinese intelligence cadres being heavily involved in drug-trafficking as well, both in competition with, and in collaboration with (as necessary) their Soviet and American intelligence competitors/collaborators). The tactical purpose of such contributions is that, prior to exposure, the politician concerned (the victim) is susceptible to the underlying threat of blackmail; while after exposure, he or she is liable to be discredited: in this way, the electoral prospects of candidates favoured by the dialectical Left can be enhanced at the expense of 'unreliable' candidates.

For instance, the former Republican Mayor of New York, Rudolph Giuliani, was allegedly identified from 1993 and 1997 election records as a recipient of funds ($46,250) from family members and businesses linked to Semyon (Sam) Kislin - named in a 1994 internal report by the Federal Bureau of Investigation [FBI] as a Russian KGB crime syndicate member. Kislin also helped to organise fund-raising events yielding millions of dollars for Mr Giuliani's campaigns, including a once expected bid for the US Senate.

The Russian commodities trader further donated $8,000 to the campaigns of the New York Senator, Charles Schumer, a Democrat, while also contributing to the campaigns of several other political figures all across the political spectrum, including the Clinton-Gore re-election campaign, and Republican Senator Alfonse d'Amato. Kislin even sat on the New York City Economic Development Board.

Likewise, Jacob Bogatin, an associate of the Russian KGB/GRU operative Semyon Mogilevich - identified by both US and British intelligence as the head of a Russian crime syndicate - made donations to the US National Republican Congressional Committees in 1996-98. An Interpol report dating from 1996 claimed that Kislin's firm, Trans Commodities Inc., was used by two 'reputed mobsters' from Uzbekistan, Lev and Mikhail Chernoy, for fraud and embezzlement purposes. An FBI intelligence report dating from 1994 on the Brooklyn-based Mafia organisation headed by Vyacheslav Ivankov [see page 89], the imprisoned godfather of Russian organised crime in the United States, listed Kislin as a 'member/associate' of Ivankov's gang - claiming that his company co-sponsored a Russian GRU-criminalist boss and contract killer for a US visa, and asserting that he was a 'close associate' of a notorious GRU-linked arms smuggling operative, Babeck Seroush, an Iranian 'hoodlum' who later settled in Russia.

One interesting point here was that Seroush was indicted in 1984 by Rudolph Giuliani, who was then the US Attorney for the Southern District of New York, on charges of conspiring to smuggle semiconductors and night-vision goggles to North Korea. But West Germany, where he was living - protected by DVD - declined to extradite him to the United States. Mr Seroush was an Iranian-born 'Communist' who first moved to the Soviet Union in the 1970s and specialised in smuggling high-tech military equipment for the Red Army. He also has a record of drug-smuggling. According to the FBI and Interpol, 'an intelligence firm called Trans Commodities Inc. laundered millions of dollars and was used for fraudulent banking documents by the Chernoys in the early 1990s, with the brothers 'engineering' the takeover of much of Russia's metals industry, notably aluminium, through alleged embezzlement, money laundering and murder. The FBI report claims that in the early 1990s, Mikhail Chernoy was 'doing business as Transcommodities (sic), a New York-based trading company which is known to have laundered millions of dollars from Russia to New York'.

Further, a 1996 Interpol report based on several continuing investigations of the Chernoys, claimed that Blonde Management, controlled by the Chernoy brothers, is 'a money-laundering company target of US law enforcement'. The Uzbeki Chernoys were said now to be Israeli citizens and were 'suspected of money laundering, embezzlement of funds, and contract killing', according to Interpol.

The Russian authorities revealed separately to the FBI that the Chernoys reportedly 'defrauded' the Russian Central Bank of more than $100 million through an elaborate scam involving dozens of fictitious companies. The brothers then used the funds as seed money as they and a London-based holding company, Trans World Group, rapidly gained control, through a maze of offshore companies and alliances, of Russia's aluminium industry, while acquiring a large stake in the processing and distribution of other metals and petroleum products. This, at least, is the received, inadequate, sanitised, Western official interpretation of these particular matters. All such 'snapshots', by definition, omit details of parallel and connected operations on both sides - that is to say, on the part of criminalism cadres within the corrupt Soviet structures who were collaborating and continue to collaborate with their Israeli, Western and US counterparts in similar scams. Strategic analysis illuminates matters further. The initial funds were of course made available by the Russian Central Bank for use by these KGB/GRU officers to establish 'state-controlled capitalism'/criminalist structures.

BIZARRE AND RUTHLESS TREATMENT OF OPERATIVES

It is standard practice for Soviet intelligence (as well as for US intelligence) to leave operatives who 'mess up', to dangle in the wind, after exposure, only to be rehabilitated (often with a new ID) later, once the relevant publicity has died down (or not, as the case may be). In the covert Soviet Union, the most conspicuous victim of this practice in recent years has been Mikhail Khodorkovsky, a minor Minister in the late Gorbachev Government, senior KGB officer, and founder of the European Union Bank in Anguilla, identified not only as a KGB money-laundering entity but also as a 'bank' used by the German-American sometime CIA Director of Operations, a Mr Edward Lyle Bryan (Goeringer): see Addendum 7 on page 701 for details. In the US context, the FBI spy, Robert Hanssen, labelled when he was convicted on 6th July 2001 after pleading guilty to 15 counts of espionage, as the spy who did more damage to US national security than anyone in history, was reported to have been incarcerated in an underground cell at the vast intelligence and solitary confinement complex in Denver, with no natural light and only a computer for companionship. It was said that he would be serving life, having cooperated with the authorities in exchange for them not asking for the death penalty. Yet in June 2005, the Author was authoritatively informed by an impeccable US intelligence source that Hanssen was a free man, living on the West Coast.

'Mike' Delmart Vreeland, an operative who predicted the 9/11 attacks from a prison cell in Toronto, and who was said by a high-level US Pentagon intelligence officer to be 'no longer a threat to you' (this Author) 'because he is in solitary confinement for a very long time, and his case is sealed', was reported (a) to have been released from incarceration, again in June 2005, after serving no more than six months of such 'punishment', and having probably been held for his own protection, in view of the sensitive operations in which he had been involved; while (b) he was simultaneously reported to be still in solitary confinement (which remained the case as of June 2006). The Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI) operative identified the Iraqi connection with Al-Qaeda, bringing back from an operation in Moscow the text of a message from Uday Hussein to President Putin dated June 2000, in which the precise date and targets of the 9/11 events were identified [see Figure 24, page 97]. This text has been criticised as a possible forgery, in which case it would have been designed to deflect attention away from the actual controllers of Al-Qaeda, and the inspiration behind the Iraqi Ba'athists, namely Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst, Dachau. The Illuminati's controllers reserve the right ultimately either to rescue and protect their own operatives, or else to treat them with ruthless harshness. In sensitive cases, operatives who, according to the rule that protection may be afforded them in hospital or jail, ought to have been liberated long ago, may be jailed, 'for their own protection', for many years, or held under house arrest.

Abandonment by their handlers and intelligence communities is the risk that such operatives are required by their CIA or their KGB/GRU superiors to accept, as part of their job description. Those Soviet operatives who were to become 'oligarchs' accepted the poisoned chalice in the format of an opportunity to 'become billionaires overnighf -which was the offer made by Soviet intelligence at the outset of the orchestrated 'changes' in the late 1980s under the KGB strategic intelligence chief, Mikhail Gorbachev.

THE OLIGARCHS: KGB/GRU OPERATIVES FAKING 'FREE ENTERPRISE'

Specifically, the intelligence officers who subsequently emerged as 'oligarchs' - such as Vagit Y. Alekperov, Pyetr O. Aven, Boris Berezovsky, Mikhail M. Fridman (Friedman), Andrei I. Kazmin, Mikhail B. Khodorkovsky, Vladimir O. Potanin, Aleksandr P. Smolensky, Vladimir P. Vinogradov, Rem Vyakhirev, Anatoliy Chubais, Vladimir Wolfovich Zhirinovsky, and a few years later (in 2004) Roman Abramovich - were 'tapped' by their GRU and KGB intelligence superiors and asked whether they would like to wake up the next morning as billionaires, it being implied that their talents suited them for the task - on the unspoken (or perhaps formal) understanding that, as happened in the 1930s, the Party-State would in due course require the assets, which were to be privatised into their hands, to be handed back with compound interest[11].

When some of them, such as the mentioned KGB operative/politician Mikhail Khodorkovsky, were judged to have become too powerful or arrogant, or had embezzled too much, President Putin (who was himself still 'owed' $30 billion of 'special' funds from US secret intelligence sources in 2006) demanded that they disgorge their assets, or, in this case, arrested the operative concerned and held him sine die in jail. This massive operation, in which the 'assets of the Party-State were 'privatised' into the hands of selected KGB/GRU officers, was implemented in order to convince the naive international institutions, governments and policymakers blinded by the dazzling 'success' of orchestrated 'collapsible Communism', that the 'changes in the Soviet Union (and Bloc) were for real, and that the 'former' Communists had embraced 'capitalism' - whereas, in reality, these manoeuvres represented an elaborate Leninist strategic ruse, assisted by Western 'Financial Warfare' intelligence, called 'State-controlled capitalism': a more sophisticated variation of Lenin's New Economic Policy 'state capitalism' of the 1920s, which Stalin closed down within the space of three weeks in the following decade.

Interestingly, three weeks was the precise length of time that Mikhail Gorbachev took to close down - for international public consumption only - the 'Stalinist model' of Communism, in August and September 1991. According to The Washington Post[12], President Putin launched his intelligence operation to claw back the 'assets of the Party-State' that had been 'privatised' into the hands of these selected KGB/GRU 'oligarchs', at a round table meeting of 21 such KGB/GRU 'oligarchs' held in Moscow in July 2000. Addressing the meeting in his familiar Aesopian surreal Bolshevik method of speaking Putin warned: 'I only want to draw your attention to the fact that you have yourselves formed this very state, to a large extent through political and quasi-political structures under your control. So perhaps what one should do least of all is blame the mirror'.

Given that compartmentalisation also exists within the Soviet intelligence services, although not to the extreme extent that bedevils US intelligence, Putin was informing the highly intelligent, specially selected, largely Jewish criminalist KGB crooks concerned that he was perfectly well aware that they were intelligence operatives who had exploited their control of overt political and covert (= 'quasi-political') structures, to leverage the colossal wealth that they had accumulated - and (unspoken) that the assets that they controlled as a consequence of their criminalist intelligence operations belonged ultimately to the State (which would in due course be requiring restitution and disgorgement with all the interest due to it), as occurred when Stalin set the precedent in the 1930s.

In the modern era, the main initial wave of Soviet criminalist specialists arrived in the West during the mini-perestroika years under Leonid Brezhnev, in the early 1970s. In 'Red Mafiya', Robert I Friedman pointed out that 'in America, Miami had become the Russian mob's second city. Like Brighton Beach, it had a large Russian immigrant population. In the early 1970s, the Miami Beach Police Department began to notice that an inordinate number of Russian emigre taxi drivers were committing criminal acts. These Russians didn't fit the cops' preconceived notion of crooks, however. "They were always neatly dressed and very clean-cut and gave the appearance of wanting to fit in and learn the American way of life", said a Federal law enforcement report, written in Figure 24, opposite, top (1): The text of a letter from Uday Hussein, Saddam Hussein's eldest son, to Vladimir Putin, dated 9th June 2000, predicting the 9/11 attacks, which the US intelligence officer 'Mike' Delmart Vreeland obtained in Moscow and was assigned to courier along with three diplomatic bags, to Canadian intelligence, but which he copied after sensing that something was about to go awry after he had landed at Toronto Airport. There, instead of being met by Canadian intelligence, he was approached by Russians. He handed over dummy diplomatic bags and kept a copy of this Note, which some have tried to dismiss as a forgery. It specifically confirms Iraqi complicity in the 9/11 attacks, implying Soviet involvement - thereby masking the reality that Al-Qaeda is controlled by DVD, Dachau, i.e. German involvement. Figure 24, opposite, lower image (2): Vreeland's 'Prison Note' scribbled ostensibly in the dark, on the floor of a Toronto prison cell. The Note was dated August 2001, and contained the phrase: 'They will paint me crazy and call me a liar... Let one happen stop the rest!!!'. After 9/11, the sleepy Canadian authorities woke up to the significance of this Note and passed it to their US counterparts. The Note also contains the intriguing observation: 'No comments on Lehder', a reference to the German (Colombian) DVD operative who masterminded the establishment of drug-trafficking cartels for criminalised US intelligence: see page 151 et seq.

❶

Date : Fri, 5 Jun 2000 15:40:24 -0400
Attachments : PROMT_sOnlineTranslator(2).txt (25k)

Быстрая радиация от взрыва не должна быть обсужденной в большой детали, однако, нейтроне, и лучи гаммы выпустят смертельные дозировки в от 4 до 7-мильной квартиры. Что - нибудь живущее в той области будет мертво так или иначе от начального взрыва. Начальная забастовка(удар) и или нападение, если Вы будете, начнется в Центре международной торговли 9-11-2001, нашими братьями в причине. Трехмильный Остров и Пентагон - также цели, которые мы не будем пропускать в начальной террористической стадии нападения, которая я мог бы добавлять, отброшу Американцев и оставлю их clueless к реальной забастовке(удару) после отпуска. Если все идет как запланировано, нападение будет работать также. После Американцев, кто без сомнения будут думать, что Осама виновен, война начала с его группой, стенды Российской империи, чтобы заставить первые плоды войны в сумм денег, обещанных Американцами помогать им поскольку, они всегда сделали в прошлом, это чисто время. Американцы предложат Москву что - нибудь, что это может, чтобы заставить это - поддержка, объявление, это - то, когда Вы сторона с ними и фарфором входите в W.T.O.. В некотором пункте(точке), Осама сообщит его ядорного оружия, купленного из России, мы будем отрицать это и будем утверждать, чтобы были украдены .WE НЕ ДОЛЖЕН ПОЗВОЛИТЬ АМЕРИКАНЦАМ ЗНАТЬ О НАШИХ НОВЫХ СПУТНИКАХ! Наконец, с Канадским Дипломатом и wildcard американский Офицер разведки Вриланд Delmart Пупа и Бастиен Марк, будут иметь дело в пути, подходящем к нам, наше Американское должностное лицо гарантирует это. Бастиен умрет от естественной причины, лейтенант Вриланд станет требуемым преступником, и его морские отчеты(рекорды) исчезнут .. так будет это случаться с другими, мы не будем называть. Последний(прошлый). ЕСЛИ, Буш Выигрывает выбор, мы будем использовать Vreelands старого Партнера, чтобы убить его после отпуска, только когда вещи, кажется, возвращаются к нормальному. Я пошлю большее количество деталей вовремя, пока мы не встречаем(выполняем) снова. Быть сильными мой союзник, будущее Америк Собирается быть нашим. Посыльный только, Kuday H.

❷

19

"N"
D.E.M.J. Vreeland
7th
October
2001

Now, just —
Sears tower ? Chicago world trade centr
white house —
pentagon ?
world bank Malasia — water supplies —
Scotia Building Toronto —
Parliament Bldg. Ottawa —
Royal Bank Toronto or [illegible] —

[illegible] they will paint me crazy and call me a liar.

[illegible] let one happen — stop the rest!!!

name
Dimitri
CHALKIN
OLEG
MARC
HENRY
OTTAWA
VLADIVOSTOK
(DR. HAIDER)?
bilateral

— Re. comments so [illegible] — Re. Thompson, [illegible]
Transfer [illegible] custody, [illegible]
my own [illegible] my [illegible] — Nov 20

C/R — Cov agreement TC-97

1994. Gradually, the Miami police learned that these taxi drivers were involved in many of the same crimes that had made the Italian Mafia so powerful: extortion, narcotics, gambling and prostitution. "They were a very tight group of criminals who had a code of silence that even the threat of arrest could not break", the report added'[13].

'By the late 1980s, the Miami Beach Police noted that crimes involving Russian criminals were growing craftier; their schemes more involved - well-organized narcotics trafficking, burglary and counterfeiting rings, and sophisticated bank and jewellery frauds. Even as the Russian mobsters graduated to white-collar crime, a continuing influx of Russians allowed them to control the streets, "RUSSIAN ORGANIZED CRIME IS A NEW AND SERIOUS THREAT TO SOUTH FLORIDA", warned a 1994 report. 'This is a well-educated group of active, young criminals' - specially trained in criminalism by Soviet intelligence, which has presided over a mass exodus of KGB and GRU operatives who have long since become embedded all over the United States, in universities, government, software (especially), business operations, and functioning as drivers, restaurateurs, you name it. In addition to Miami Beach and Brighton Beach, Brooklyn is now flooded with Russians, Chinese and other immigrants, who have been buying up property, pushing the local tradesmen out of business, establishing ethnic diners all over the place, and generally asserting their ownership. The Russian 'taxi driver phenomenon' has also been reported throughout the country. And in June 2005, New York real estate agents were being swamped with money from Russia and other 'former' Soviet Bloc countries. Funds for the purchase of New York apartments were being wired to them, sight unseen, on the basis of the brochure alone.

Of course the invasion of Soviet criminalist operatives, while most noticeable in the United States, has proliferated in Europe, too, leveraging the potential associated with the corruption of elements of the German, French, Spanish, Dutch and British intelligence communities, and of the European Union structures, which are institutionally corrupt. On 18th June 2005, Spanish police arrested 28 alleged Mafia bosses from 'former' Soviet Republics in 11 cities and resort towns in Alicante, Catalonia and the Costa del Sol, in what was described as the largest swoop on organised crime in European history. In this sting, called Operation Wasp, police froze 800 bank accounts, searched 41 estates and businesses, and confiscated 42 Porsches, Jaguars and other luxury cars.

Some €400,000 in cash and cheques were seized, along with guns, jewellery and properties, including a small mansion in Barcelona. Most of the capos were reportedly from Georgia, a traditional centre of criminal operations in Soviet times and for generations previously. They laundered money from illegal activities in their home countries and abroad, 'through a vast and expanding network of properties, restaurant chains and bars along the Spanish coast. They were charged with money laundering, bankruptcy fraud and maintaining ties to organised crime'[14].

Spain, at the crossroads between Europe and Africa, is also the main entry point for drugs and money from the Latin American cartels, which as this Chapter will show are far from being 'stand-alone' operations, but are controlled by foreign intelligence. The mentioned swoop was one of several large-scale police operations against international drug trafficking, prostitution and money-laundering rings on the Spanish coast, as the local authorities struggle to prevent Spain from 'becoming another Colombia' -the image that they have in mind. At the beginning of the same month, Spanish, Portuguese and British police found nearly five tonnes of cocaine worth an estimated £225 million at street level aboard a trawler off the Spanish coast, arresting 11 people, including three Britons. In March 2005, another laundering ring was broken up by simultaneous raids. The size of the law enforcement hauls has been increasing.

Reports such as these indicate that some European police forces are becoming more effective and appropriately ruthless in discovering and apprehending perpetrators of the absolutely heinous crime of drug-trafficking, which cynically wrecks the lives of millions of foolish and vulnerable people, and of innocent and impressionable children. A colossal industrial structure has been established to facilitate distribution of the drugs: for instance, on the very same weekend that the massive swoop that has been described took place, The Guardian', one of the British newspapers that gave the sting most coverage, was simultaneously sponsoring the annual 'pop music' festival at the ancient occult site at Glastonbury. This is timed every year as close as possible to the summer solstice, which is one of the primary dates of the occult calendar. The drug distribution infrastructure exploits such events to maximise the distribution of their product, the consumption of which goes hand in hand with 'enjoyment' of diabolical 'music' (noise) and dabbling in the occult. Indeed the proliferation of drugs, which is a project of the Illuminati as will be elaborated later, and the subculture they encourage, has been a carefully calculated prerequisite for the explosion of interest and dabbling in the occult[15].

EVERYONE IS IN ON THE ACT: SO 'ANYTHING GOES' IN THIS HELL

The rampant activities of 'former' Soviet Bloc drug operatives, mistaken in the West as manifestations of a 'stand-alone' 'ex'-Soviet Mafiya - whereas in reality these people are all connected with and supervised by the ongoing covert Soviet intelligence services -have proliferated most of all because Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU), which directs the Soviet dimension of the drug offensive because it is considered a weapon of war and sabotage, is fully aware of the fact that US intelligence has been engaged in drug-trafficking on a massive scale for decades, driven originally by German penetration of the CIA. Naturally, the Soviet attitude is that counterdrug operations against Soviet intelligence criminalists can never achieve decisive success while the Central Intelligence Agency continues with its own cynical money-making operations from the drug trade. Although close lay observers have known for many years about this scandalous state of affairs, the intelligence services have been adept at keeping the lid on this prospectively explosive scandal - and have more incentive for doing so than ever, given that everyone is in on the act. Drug-trafficking, holding financial assets in secret numbered offshore accounts, and ignoring the tax and reporting regulations imposed by metropolitan authorities, is 'acceptable' in this Thieves' World, a.k.a. the New Underworld Order. For instance, as the distinguished drugs expert Rachel Ehrenfeld has pointed out[16], George Bush Sr., a top CIA operative of course, took immediate steps to provide himself and the CIA with what he thought would be appropriately dense cover. 'To be sure, he did not wait long to announce his own views on drugs' - the problem being that the views he announced were false, and were not his real views. Those were formulated during his Senior Year at Yale, as an occult adept of Skull and Bones, and in the context of his German intelligence connections and orientation. 'In his inaugural address, the new President made clear [that] the fight would be a priority. Bush's early appointment of William Bennett and his orders to the drug czar to produce a plan within six months were' not 'steps in the right direction', as Rachel politely suggested, but rather measures to provide cover for the continuing scandal of rampaging drug operations in which the CIA remained involved. Unfortunately, Ms. Ehrenfeld allowed her optimism to gain the upper hand, insofar as the US Government's true intentions were concerned. Nor did she distinguish between the probably honourable intentions of the various US anti-drug structures, and the notoriously evil intentions and practices of elements of the penetrated US intelligence services, which is the most depressing and alarming feature of the crisis the world faces. Obviously, if 'the main enemy's' intelligence services are engaged in global drug-trafficking, all expressions of concern at the Soviet drugs offensive against the West, such as those elaborated by Dr Douglass in 'Red Cocaine', were bound to be jeopardised. For, before the United States can ever hope to stem and counter the flood of Soviet-, French-, German-, Mexican- and Spanish-provenanced drugs, and the corruption and money-laundering flows associated with them, its own filthy house will need to be put in order. And since the intelligence services run and control the Government, what chance is there ever of that happening?[17]

The Central Intelligence Agency has controlled and accumulated colossal stocks of 'Black Operations' funds ever since President Harry Truman signed the National Security Act in 1947, which, with its amendments and successor legislation, has created a 'crooks' charter' environment - separating the intelligence community from the rest of the US Government, given its command of vast resources that Congress knows nothing about. The first lay analyst to come to grips with this was Jeffrey Robinson, in his excellent book 'The Laundrymen', first published in 1994[18]. 'Right from the beginning', wrote Robinson, 'the Agency's more consequential role would be 'covert'. Officially included in that category have always been: subsidies to individuals; financial support and 'technical assistance' to political parries; support of private organizations, which includes labour unions, business companies, cooperatives, and so forth; economic operations' (meaning financial and economic warfare); and 'para-military or political actions designed either to overthrow or support a regime'.

Mr Robinson acknowledged extensive assistance from the Customs Attache at the US Embassy in London, John Hurley, and many officials from the US Department of Justice, US Customs, the Federal Bureeau of Investigation (FBI), the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), the Criminal Investigation Division of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), and the Office of the District Attorney for New York County, as well as (in Britain) from HM Customs, the National Criminal Intelligence Service (NCIS), and the Metropolitan Police; and from the relevant Canadian, Australian and European law enforcement and financial regulation authorities.

'As the CIA could never finance any of these things publicly... they operated their own laundry. The Director' (of Central Intelligence) 'maintains a top-secret slush fund - a huge pile of invisible money that Congress knows nothing about - for which he's accountable directly, and only, to the President'. This, of course, means in theory that the Director of Central Intelligence has to be meticulous in his stewardship of such 'Black' funds - unless perchance the President himself happens to be corrupt, or to 'know everything', as allegedly was, and remains, the case with George Bush Sr..

'What's more', Mr Robinson continued, Dwight Eisenhower created - and every President since has followed suit - a top-secret group to advise the CIA on the best use of those funds and, when necessary, to procure additional monies for specific covert operations. In Ike's day, the group was called the 5412 Committee, named for' (i.e., after - Ed.) 'the National Security Council paper that authorized it. It was then, and remains today, the most secret organization in the United States of America'[19].

This secret 'Black Ops' funding organisation operates below Cabinet level and is charged with reviewing and approving all of the United States' clandestine operations, 'in order', Robinson elaborated, 'to protect the President from any clandestine operation gone wrong', which happens all the time: indeed a vast proportion of the energies of the intelligence community is permanently engaged in covering up botched jobs and preventing exposure of operations which have been misconceived or badly handled. 'Considered so ultra-sensitive that not even the National Security Council is kept informed of its activities, those few men who know about it refer to it simply as The Special Group'[20].

Figure 25, top and above: Colombian Police and Navy officers inspect key components of a huge Russian-fabricated 'drug' submarine in Facatativa, just outside Bogota, the capital of Colombia, on 7th September 2000. On the preceding day, Colombian Police officials had discovered the submarine under construction in a shed, along with documents in Russian, Spanish and English. Police and Naval officials said that the submarine would have been capable of shipping 200 tons of cocaine below the ocean's surface. Its largest component measured 100 feet long by 11 feet wide. INSET: Captain Fidel Azula stands inside a large component to measure its dimensions. These pictures illustrate the intensity of today's drug-related intelligence warfare.

PRESIDENT 'PROTECTED' AGAINST BACKWASH FROM IRAN-CONTRA

Just as the Soviets go in for relabelling elements of their security services, their US counterparts do the same. Various Administrations have altered the name of this 'Special Group' from 5412 to various other obscurely derived titles, including 'The 303' and "The 40 Committee'. But the concept behind this ultra-secret organisation has remained unchanged (or at least that was the case when Robinson's book first appeared in 1994) - 'that it must be the Special Group, and not the President, who officially approves certain plans - such as illegal interventions into the internal affairs of another State'. While 'the buck stops at the Oval Office', it appears that the President's approval of any Special Group proposal is only ever given verbally. Since all communications within the Oval Office are, as we all know from Watergate, recorded (by the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI), which also monitors and records every telephone conversation into and out of Capitol Hill), a record obviously exists of verbal presidential approvals (although this statement needs to be qualified as well, since ONI has a habit, on occasion, of expunging certain communications and leaving tapes blank, where this is considered 'necessary').

The President will be briefed on a Special Group proposal by a member of what Robinson calls 'the Cabal', consisting of the President's National Security Advisor, the Secretaries of State and Defense and the Director of Central Intelligence. 'The members of the group work it out among themselves, and then brief the President. Nothing is written down with his name on it. Nothing is ever signed by him. That way, should something go wrong, the CIA can 'rightfully' claim they acted on the authority of the Special Group, which means that the President can ostensibly deny that he has ever approved of such an activity'[21]. This is, of course, Talmudic loopholism, a.k.a. legal sheis-terism, at its 'finest'.

Jeffrey Robinson appears, back in 1990, to have been extremely well informed, as this Author is about to confirm. As he pointed out, 'if, as has often been suggested, Ronald Reagan knew anything at all about the Iran-Contra affair, that would have been down to his Administration's equivalent of the 5412 Committee.... Iran-Contra is, in fact, a perfect example of what the Committee is supposed to do. If you accept the premise that William Casey, as Director of Central Intelligence, committed the CIA to engage in the illegal activities for which Oliver North was tried, then the plan would almost certainly have been brought up in a Special Group meeting. The Secretaries of State and Defence would have known about it, agreed to it, and presented it for final approval to the President. But because nothing is written down and therefore nothing can ever be traced back to the President' (except, this Author must add, from the recordings of what went on in the Oval Office), 'Ronald Reagan's denial of any knowledge of the affair is an impenetrable defence'.

Even so, it may have been considered prudent for former President Reagan to spend his final years in a state of mental confusion. An attempt to poison this Author, while in Washington, having been made in March 2005, the subject of the lengths to which certain forces within the US intelligence community are prepared to go, is naturally of exceptional continuing interest to him. According to research he has conducted, certain cadres possess access to the means to induce cancers (through, for instance, injecting a toothpaste tube using a syringe while the target is away from his hotel bedroom) and mind-eroding diseases like Alzheimer's. Nancy Reagan believed that more than one attempt was made on her husband's life and she is reported to have intimated privately that the then Vice President may have been involved. The Author has established that the distinguished US Secret Service/Treasury intelligence officer Leo Wanta saved President Reagan's life once (he informed the Author modestly, but the Author believes he may have done so on two separate occasions). It would have made typically diabolical sense for the forces in question to have decided that it would be safest to have President Reagan's mind confused beyond any possibility of him recalling any details about Iran-Contra (a phrase which stands for a much wider range of operations than is usually implied) by artificially inflicting him with Alzheimer's. Everything could then be wrapped up with a magnificent funeral, attended by the Great and the Good.

President Reagan's Special Group empowered the CIA 'to funnel money to right-wing forces that were trying to overthrow the leftist government of Mauritius, to spend millions trying to destabilise Colonel Qadhafi's regime in Libya and to bankroll the Afghan rebels with hundreds of millions of dollars. White House and CIA records now [Robinson's book is dated 1994, as noted - Ed.] suggest that in the first six years of his Administration, Reagan knew of and/or approved of at least 60 money-laundering plots to finance CIA covert activities'.

Innumerable examples of such covert illegal activities abroad could be listed, ranging from the Bay of Pigs to the complex Financial Warfare operations aimed against the Soviet system. It is only necessary to mention here one instance of such activity that appeared to be especially pertinent during the summer of 2005. Since 9/11, the US Government has been empowered by the complacent and hijacked Congress to undertake almost any subversive operation clandestinely. The Mujahadeen el-Khalq (MEK), an Iranian opposition terrorist group, once directed by Saddam Hussein's Mukhabarat security services, was reported by Scott Ritter, the former United Nations weapons inspector in Iraq, to be 'now working exclusively for the CIA's Directorate of Operations'[22]- a transformation that will have been effected with the lubricational assistance of untold sums of clandestinely assembled 'Black Ops' money. Mr Ritter commented that 'it is a bitter irony that the CIA is using a group still labelled as a terrorist organisation, a group trained in the art of explosive assassination by the same intelligence units of the former regime of Saddam Hussein, who are slaughtering American soldiers in Iraq today, to carry out remote bombings in Iran of the sort that the Bush Administration condemns on a daily basis inside Iraq'[23]. But in a hell like this, U-turns and lies are the norm.

It may help to pause to highlight a crucial insight that emerges here. All of a sudden, brutalised intelligence structures that were accustomed to fulfilling the commands of the Saddam Hussein regime, since overthrown by the United States, are being used by the former Iraqi regime's enemy to implement its policy in Iraq. Likewise, during and after the Iranian Revolution in 1979, the Shah's dreaded SAVAK secret police structures switched sides and served the Illuminati-controlled Islamic governing structures with even greater zeal than they had defended the Shah's regime. Similar switches took place in Afghanistan. The objective observer has a choice: he can simply put such 'adjustments' down to pragmatic, opportunist intelligence community decision-making or else he can pay attention to what such 'switching' implies. What it implies is that the terrorism and drug-trafficking structures that may be at loggerheads at one point in time, cooperate closely in other (later) circumstances, so that loyalties among them have no ultimate meaning.

That would be 100% consistent with the central finding and theme of this book, which is that opposing dialectical 'forces' are manipulated by the double-minded Illuminati master strategists and operatives (which are far from being unidentifiable, as will be shown) in what they consider to be a wholly mechanistic world. The accuracy of this assessment will become apparent in Chapter 7 on the Illuminati.

Even more apparently incongruously, the US Secretary of Defense, Donald Rumsfeld had, by midsummer's day 2005, paid two known visits to Azerbaijan, the fief-dom of the son of the former Brezhnev era Communist Party boss and apparatchik, KGB General Gaidar Aliyev, to prepare the ground for 'a massive military presence that will foretell a major land-based campaign designed to capture Tehran'[24], according to Mr Ritter.

Earlier, Mujahedeen rebels in Afghanistan, who were, late that year, operating as elements of the 'Northern Alliance' fighting the Taleban, which was standing in the way of US oil projects in the region, were corralled into the new Afghani official structures and Government following the US attack on Afghanistan in late 2001. These Mujahedeen had been heavily engaged in drug trafficking in earlier years, while fighting against the Soviet-supported Government. Among these drug cadres, the CIA's main client was Gulbuddin Hekmatyar, a leading Afghani drug lord and heroin refiner. CIA-supplied trucks and mules that had previously conveyed US arms into Afghanistan were now used in order to transport opium to laboratories along the Afghani/Pakistani border. The output from these laboratories provided, for some years, up to 50% of the heroin consumed annually in the United States and 75% of the heroin used in Western Europe. In 1990, US officials admitted that they had failed to investigate or take any action against these drug operations, out of a desire 'not to offend' their Afghani and Pakistani associates.

Dennis Dayle, a former head of a key department within the US Drug Enforcement Administration made the following statement to a journalist in the late 1990s:

'If the following statement were made to American citizens, would you agree with it? "Enormously powerful criminal organizations are controlling many countries, and to a certain degree controlling the world, and controlling our lives. Your own [US] Government to some extent supports them and is concealing this fact from you". I KNOW that to be true. That is not conjecture. Experience, over the better part of my adult life, tells me that this is so. And there is a great deal of persuasive evidence.... You can contain drug trafficking by the immobilization of the few cartels that truly control it...'. AND BY IMMOBILISING THE INTELLIGENCE CADRES, LIKE BRITAIN'S CORRUPT GO-2, WHICH FACILITATE THE CARTELS' OPERATIONS.

'IF YOU ATTACK THE DRUG OPERATIONS, THEY WILL KILL YOU'

As noted on page 81, this was the warning issued in 2005 to the Author by a very friendly US intelligence executive. This book could not have been published without a detailed expose of international competitive drug-trafficking, which the intelligence officer concerned agreed is an abomination and a crime against humanity. The warning was issued not as a threat but in the Author's interest. However this study would have made no sense without a proper look at the drug-trafficking component of the unprecedented international crisis. Drugs support the international financial system, although sophisticated hypothecation techniques have been developed which can function independently of open-ended laundered drug money flows. A Great Power like the United States - and a Great financial Power like Britain - should summon the courage and the greatness to renounce this abomination. Britain can lead the way immediately by putting its secret 'Black' intelligence agency GO-2, which is supposed to combat the drug offensive, out of business forthwith. How about it? ■

Unfortunately, however, Mr Doyle, though operating at the 'sharp end' of the inadequate US 'war against drugs', may not have been aware that the Colombian drug cartels were themselves established by the Central Intelligence Agency, spearheaded by a STASI (cover for DVD) operative called Carlos Lehder (son of the Nazi escapee Wilhelm Lehder) who may have used his CIA cover itself as cover for his STASI (former Eastern German intelligence) connections, which was in turn a cover for his true allegiance - to the covert Nazi DVD, based in Dachau. A certain number of STASI operatives are known to have been operating for some years with or within the US intelligence community, one prominent and powerful (not to mention ruthless) such operative having been a certain Eva Teleki (real name Sturzl), who moved to London in 2004. She controlled billions of dollars' worth of funds belonging to the US Government, and was suspected by certain intelligence experts as being or having been a paymaster for Al-Qaeda cells operating in the United Kingdom, of which there were then said to be at least 15, as late as September 2005.

Mr Doyle's observation that the US Government 'to some extent supports them' (the powerful criminal organisations, which are manifestations of the Illuminati - the Mafia having been established in Italy by Giuseppe Mazzini, the occultist and partner of the notorious necromancer and Masonic king-pin Albert Pike, and the founder of modern Italy), 'and is concealing this fact from you' (the American people), was of course a gross understatement. Forget the modifying phrase 'to some extent'. The reality is worse by an order of magnitude: together or in competition with the intelligence services of the covert Soviets, the Israelis, Chinese Communists, Britain, France, Germany, Spain and The Netherlands and others, elements of the CIA have organised and were/are running frenetic, lucrative, controlling drug-trafficking warfare operations in Latin America, Afghanistan, Turkey and elsewhere. The participation of government agencies in this evil business is a scandal of millennial proportions which will result in the corruption of all ordered governance everywhere, since the financial, banking and capitalist systems have become victims and collaborators in this historically unprecedented global organised intelligence crime wave. And the corruption of governance is what the planners of the New Underworld Order, the Illuminati, both anticipate and always intended. It is also what Boris Uvarov predicted [see page 88].

THE CYNICAL MANIPULATION OF 'DEMOCRATISM'

In the US context, such operations will certainly have been pre-approved by the 'Black Ops' financial centre, or 'Special Group', which controls funds of such magnitude that it need never apply to Congress for permission for anything. This means, self-evident-ly, that this secret sub-Cabinet level organisation is much more powerful than any other component of the US Government, including the President himself - which in turn means that the United States' democracy is a total sham. It is, in fact, nothing more than a thoroughly dishonest display of 'democratism' - meaning in the Soviet context, the creation and maintenance of the illusion of democracy. This word is to be found in the Soviet literature - for instance, on page 96 of 'Proletarian Internationalism: Guideline of the Communists', by V. Plyanksky, published in 1970 by Novosti Press Agency Publishing House, Moscow[25]. The United States practices a form of 'democratism' - maintaining the illusion of democracy for public consumption, but in practice offering the electorate no more than the appearance of a choice of personnel ostensibly from the 'Left' or the 'Right' of the dialectic, while the intelligence services, which are in turn controlled by the Illuminati at the highest levels, in fact control the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches of the overt Government, selecting and imposing their own candidates.

Both countries cynically and corruptly practice forms of 'democratism', in order to sustain the elite intelligence controllers' fragile 'legitimacy', although the covert Soviet model is the subject, from time to time, of literary inventiveness - the most recent example being a definition offered by Irina Khakamada, who had the effrontery to stand against GRU-President Putin in the controlled and manipulated March 2004 Russian 'presidential election', but was unable to obtain any air-time on NTV. 'There is no democracy in Russia', she told 'The Guardian' in July 2005[26]: 'There is only a virtual matrix of democratic space created by the Kremlin's Political Departmenf, since in fake 'posf-Soviet Russia it is not even considered safe to allow 'democratism' games such as are orchestrated in the United States to sustain the illusion that the people can influence the outcome of elections other than by means of changes of personnel. Whereas in the United States, it does not matter who wins elections, since the intelligence services always win, in covert Soviet Russia, it does not matter who wins elections, as the covert Communists, controlled by the intelligence services with which the covert Communist Party of the Soviet Union is integrated, always win[27]. As Mme Khakamada elaborated, the Kremlin's Political Department 'copies reality. If there is a democratic opposition to the Kremlin, it creates a different one loyal to the Kremlin'. Irina Khakamada explained how a rise in leftwing youth activism was countered by the Kremlin launching "Nashi" - a youth group designed to tackle 'Fascism' and corrupt bureaucracy - that held a 60,000-strong rally in Moscow under police protection. 'This system creates dangers', she added. 'When I was competing for the Presidency, an important part of the audience was thinking I was part of the matrix'. She added that only her strong criticism of the Kremlin's handling of the Nord Ost theatre siege, in which 129 people died, proved to voters that she was genuine. However Mme Khakamada's candour was itself false: all political activists on the Moscow stage are 'part of the matrix', as the entire political charade continues, as has been the case for over two decades, to be managed along Leninist deception lines (whereby political opposition forces and factions are all centrally controlled) for ignorant Western public consumption.

WHERE INTELLIGENCE IS IN CONTROL, CORRUPTION IS THE NORM

In a controlled, false 'democracy', where the intelligence services call all the shots, the primary issue facing the society is invariably corruption, which typically assumes (as has happened in these countries) epidemic proportions, and where corrupt practices are cynically accepted as the norm - give or take some cosmetic arrangements, such as the feeble US anti-drug structures, designed to enable the double-minded controllers to maintain at all times that 'everything is being done to see to it that these problems are addressed' etc, etc, etc. Jeffrey Robinson's observation that 'if you accept the premise that William Casey, as Director of Central Intelligence, committed the CIA to engage in the illegal activities for which Oliver North was tried, then the plan would almost certainly have been brought up in a Special Group meeting', was extremely prescient. The Author has obtained, from deep within US intelligence, the text of an Affidavit prepared six months before his death by William Casey, President Reagan's Director of Central Intelligence, in which the accuracy of Mr Robinson's assessment is confirmed (except that this Author suggests that, as will be seen, the operations identified therein may have been so secret that not even the 'Special Group' was officially aware of them: indeed, this is implied by the text of the late William Casey's document).

The text that follows was provided by the Author's source prior to its inclusion in documentation associated with the case of [Colonel, a.k.a. Pvt.] William M. Tyree, who has remained unjustly imprisoned for allegedly murdering his wife - who was in fact 'liquidated' by US intelligence because she kept a diary in which she recorded details of CIA drug-running operations. The document subsequently formed part of the defendant Tyree's case against the US Department of the Army, Civil Action Number 99cv2709, in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, dated 8th November 1999, presided over by The Honourable Colleen Kollar-Kotelly, filed by the Attorney of Record, Raymond Kohlman, of 7 Milton Street, Attleboro, Massachusetts 02703. When the Author sought in June 2005 to check facts with Mr Raymond, he discovered that there was no trace of such a lawyer in the State of Massachusetts, and that the address given was the office of a property sales firm called Welch Real Estate. As is revealed below, Raymond Kohlman 'just happens' to have been the attorney who filed a lawsuit, discussed below, on behalf of the wrongly imprisoned former Green Beret, William Tyree (which will 'fall into contexf as we proceed with this exposure). The significance of Raymond Kohlman's 'disappearance' will emerge below.

The text of William Casey's Affidavit appeared separately in Uri Dowbenko's book Bushwhacked [2003 [pages 100-103]], but the text cited below was handed personally to this Author by a US intelligence contact in 2005. The Author naturally agrees with Uri Dowbenko's conclusion (on page 99 of his book), that 'Casey's rationalisation of his heinous behavior and his cocaine trafficking, which he frames as a noble battle against the enemies of Western civilization - should be required reading for every student of 20th century history, and every student of psychopathology. Casey's Apologia Pro Vita Sua is the classic defence of a world-class criminal'.

CASEY'S AFFIDAVIT JUSTIFYING U.S. INTELLIGENCE DRUG OPERATIONS

William Casey's Affidavit, or 'statement of position', prior to its inclusion in any court papers, is given here verbatim (with no corrections, except for the elimination of some wrongly-placed apostrophes, and that the Author has divided the statement into numbered sections and has inserted in square brackets some unavoidable italicised interpolations) as shown below. Casey later committed suicide in hospital in order to protect the President of the United States, according to a very senior knowledgeable[28] source, and contrary to the received views that he died of natural causes or was murdered.

'I, William J. Casey, declare:

I have found that freedom is a priceless commodity that demands constant vigilance to guaranteed [sic] its longevity.

1. I was assigned to the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) in London, England, during World War II. During that time I befriended a young German soldier named Gunther [Russbacher], who later became one of the key covert operatives of the CIA-US secret criminal government. I used Gunther and several other anti-Nazi German prisoners of war in OSS operations within Nazi Germany'. [In other words, the drug proliferation operations, including the establishment as a deliberate act of US state policy, of the drug cartels in Latin America, over which William Casey, and later William Colby, presided, as DCI Casey was now to explain, were inspired by German [Nazi] colleagues and assistance - a fact of crucial importance for this analysis].

I knew this violated Geneva (War) Convention [sic]. I did not care. The Geneva Convention was but a set of rules governing man's atrocities committed in the name of political ideology. To wage war with rules is to prolong human suffering. Open warfare is the last resort of a civilized nation and must be used sparingly. Wars must be fought savagely utilizing all tools and tricks at hand. Gunrher was a tool. Ignoring the Geneva Convention was the trick.

2. After I became Director of Central Intelligence (DCI) on January 28, 1981, I was approached and briefed by William Colby, former DCI. My history with Bill Colby is known. Colby notified me off the record of two operations he was still running in Latin America [i.e., Colby continued running these after he had ceased to be DCI - Ed.]. Both operations were without the knowledge of, and consent of, the United States Congress, President Ronald Reagan or even the United States intelligence apparatus' [implying that operations sanctioned and initiated by the 'Special Group' may bypass even the intelligence structures themselves, which has obvious further implications - Ed.]. 'Colby identified the operations as "A-6" (RED MIST) and "A-7" (PROJECT SANDMAN). A-7 entailed smaller operations. I was told that A-6 identified individuals and the build-up of the Communist threat in Latin America. Some intelligence collected in A-6 was used in TASK FORCE-157 [the details of which Casey did not identify here - Ed.].

3. I was told that A-7 was "the Phoenix program" of Latin America. It involved the assassination of the Communist infrastructure throughout Latin America. I was told that Colby authorized assets involved in A-6 and A-7 to engage in narcotics trafficking to finance both operations [sic]. Colby engaged in similar operations that I know of in Vietnam for the same reason.

4. Colby candidly informed me that he had prepositioned more than one million pounds of cocaine in Panama between December 1, 1975 and April 1, 1976. This was done with the aid of our gallant ally, General Manuel Noriega. The cocaine was transported into El Salvador, Costa Rica and Honduras between 1976 and 1981. Colby now sat in front of me with hat in hand and requested my help in the delivery of the cocaine to the American market.

5. I was told that Colby was using a mutual friend of ours, Colonel Albert Vincent Carone, United States Army, Military Intelligence, to field A-6 and A-7. Al Carone is a charismatic patriot that General Joseph W. Stilwell [sic] introduced us to in late 1945. Beside the usual qualifications, Al Carone brought to the anti-Communist effort a direct connection to his longterm friend, Vito Genovese.

6. Genovese was the head of gambling and narcotics for the controlling Mafia family in New York to [sic] which Carone was made a member. Carone is a friend of international fugitive Robert Vesco [resident in Castro's Cuba, Fidel Castro being a Jesuit-educated intelligence officer - Ed.]. Carone has several anti-Communist intelligence sources that include Marita Lorenz, a [German] friend of Fidel Castro. Al Carone is the younger brother of Dr Pasquale Carone. Dr Carone worked for Central Intelligence on other matters.

7. Colby told me that the profits from the prepositioned cocaine would be laundered through Al Carone, the New York Mafia and Robert Vesco [who, as indicated, was hiding in Communist Cuba, indicative of Illuminati double-minded, two-facedness - Ed.], then redirected to the anti-Communist effort through Colby.

8. After discussion with Al Carone, I made the decision to bring the prepositioned cocaine into Mena Airport, Mena, Arkansas. Central Intelligence has used Mena Airport on prior occasions. This time the cocaine is the tool. The trick was to ignore the law and avoid public scrutiny. We were helped in our efforts by William J. Clinton and William F. Weld [concerning the exceptional importance of whom, see box opposite, page 109].

9. By 1984, all prepositioned cocaine had arrived at Mena Airport and additional cocaine sources were secured. Cocaine was being transhipped through Hangers Four and Five at Ilopango Airbase, El Salvador. My point man at Mena was Adler Berriman Seal (Berry [sic: i.e., Barry] Seal, who was gunned down by machine-gun fire in the Salvation Army parking lot in Baton Rouge, Louisiana on 19th February 1986 - Ed.].

10. Bill Clinton [when Governor of Arkansas] has proved invaluable so far by con taining the local law enforcement investigations into the intelligence activity at Mena'.

• The Author interrupts here to make a critical point. Until President George W. Bush Jr. signed the National Intelligence Reform Act on 17th December 2004 (one-third of which is secret, so that no-one knows what the Act contains - an astonishing development given the United States' (false) image as a paragon of transparent democracy -Ed.), it was of course illegal for the CIA to conduct operations on American soil (a rule which the CIA broke routinely; but nevertheless, it was illegal). More generally, since the CIA's clandestine operations are almost invariably illegal, the intelligence community is at constant risk of mobilising the forces of law enforcement (not to be confused with law and order) against them. The obsessive secrecy surrounding operations and the identities of operatives is driven in part by this reality. Historically, when things go badly wrong (as in the Iran-Contra nexus of cases), exposure of the Agency' illegal operations occurs inter alia as a consequence of this institutionalised tendency for the clandestine services to clash with the Rule of Law, and hence with law enforcement.

The underlying, and inescapable, conclusion to be drawn is that the serially illegal operations of the US intelligence services are incompatible with the 'freedom' which President Bush Jr., for instance, preaches to the Rest of the World ideologically. Scott

WILLIAM WELD: COCAINE SHIPMENTS FIXER

William F. Weld was cited by William Casey, the late Director of Central Intelligence under President Reagan (who committed suicide in hospital in order to protect his President), as the primary legal 'fixer' whose job was to frustrate and neutralise bona fide investigations into the cocaine shipments into Mena, Arkansas. 'Bill Weld', Casey affirmed, 'as Assistant United States Attorney, was placed in charge of the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. This was done so that Bill Weld could control investigations into Mena by Federal law enforcement agencies. The placement of Weld... proved invaluable'.

In other words, this man, who later became the Governor of Massachusetts, and in 2005 announced that he would be running for the Governorship of New York State, obstructed justice ostensibly in the interests of national security, but actually (or also) in order to facilitate the distribution of poisonous drugs destined for consumption by American citizens in gross contravention of the law. Drug-running is a crime against humanity, and aiding and abetting it represents wilful participation in a crime against humanity.

William F Weld has played an important behind-the-scenes role in furthering preparations for the imposition of the New Underworld Order upon the world, again ostensibly 'in the interests of US national security'. He was, for instance, the recipient of a letter dated 16th May 1985 from William Bradford Reynolds, Assistant Attorney General, Civil Rights Division, of the US Department of 'Justice', now in the public domain, which read as follows: 'Dear Mr Weld: As agreed Messrs Manichur Ghorbanifar, Adnan Khashoggi, and Richard Armitage will broker the transaction of PROMIS software to Sheikh Khalid bin Mahfouz for resale and general distribution as gifts in his region, contingent upon the three conditions we last spoke of. PROMIS must have a soft arrival. No paperwork, customs, or delay. It must be equipped with the special data retrieval unit. As before, you must walk the financial aspects through Credit Suisse into [Mahfouz'] National Commercial Bank. If you encounter any problems, contact me directly. Sincerely, Wm. Bradford Reynolds, Assistant Attorney General, Civil Rights Division. ■

Ritter goes further. "'Liberation" and "democracy", he wrote in June 2005, 'have become none-too-subtle code words within the neo-conservative Cabal that formulates and executes American foreign policy today, for militarism and war'[29].

And the Author goes yet further than Mr Ritter, whose statement is correct, as far as it goes. For the Illuminati, who ultimately control the intelligence services, democracy is impermanent and will be discarded and dispensed with at the appropriate time. That time has already passed, so that US democracy is now, as indicated, an illusion, a deception, and a variant of Soviet 'democratism'. In due course, the nuisance of having to go through the massive inconvenience of 'fighting' and rigging elections, will be discarded altogether. Therefore, when the President of the United States uses the weasel words 'democracy' and 'liberation' or 'freedom' in justification of the Illuminati policies which he is helping to carry out, the fact that these are empty slogans is, to him and his associates, neither here nor there - since for these people, as with Lenin, all institutions are temporary, expendable, transitory, and replaceable in accordance with the requirements of the World Revolution of the ffluminati that these people in reality serve.

THE US GOVERNMENT TRUSTOR WHO 'ROSE FROM THE 'DEAD'

It is also appropriate here to interpolate another crucially important fact. This is that operatives professionally engaged for many years in implementing the hidden policies of the ffluminati may normally have been in ignorance of the fact that this is what they were doing. It is obvious that William Casey thought that the conflict between 'freedom' (as he put it in his Affidavit) and Communism was a life-or-death struggle upon which the future of humanity rested - whereas it turned out to be just a stage in the manipulated and orchestrated arena of controlled tensions that the ffluminati's deeper strategists were accustomed to managing and directing given their concept of the world as a 'mechanical space' within which opposing forces could be manipulated - since they believe that the universe is mechanical, and the opposing forces that they purport to control are likewise mechanical, although they may pay lip service (only) to the concepts of good and evil. They can do no more than that - since for these people, Lucifer is good and Adonai (Jesus Christ) is the epitome of evil, as he stands for the opposite of their 'Do as Thou Wilt' philosophy and alibi.

Leo Wanta has acknowledged to the Author, again for the record[30], that he and his colleagues 'did not understand' at the time that their operations were furthering the strategies of the Illuminati. They thought that they were working exclusively for Uncle Sam. The Author's judgment, having interviewed this heroic US figure at length, is that this entirely spontaneous admission, was thoroughly honest, and in no way contrived. The Author had burdened him with no prior leading questions which might have elicited such an observation. This reinforces the Author's view that the Presidency of the United States, together with the US intelligence services, or key elements thereof, are in fact masquerading as instruments of the Government of the United States, while in practice they are being used as primary instruments of the Illuminati. To describe this central point in blunter language, the US Presidency and the intelligence community which serves it have been hijacked by the Illuminati, in accordance with their modus operandi of inserting their agentur adjacent to or inside the highest levels of governance.

In such conditions, a loyal servant of the United States such as Leo Wanta, whose patriotism no-one has ever, or could ever, question, was himself deceived and double-crossed, into believing that his loyalty was reciprocated at the very highest level -

(D) 890811 / 36 / 11 / 918125 FIFTY BILLION USD ($ 50,000,000,000.00) 16.45
SENDING BANK: BANCO EXTERIOR DE ESPANA MALAGA SPAIN
(13) — RECEIVING BANK: BANK OF CHINA HONG KONG
ABA: ACCT #:
CREDIT: SYNERGY TRUST

FIN, p70

(D) 890811 / 36 / 11 / 918140 TWENTY FIVE BILLION USD ($ 25,000,000,000.00)
SENDING BANK: BANCO EXTERIOR DE ESPANA MALAGA SPAIN
(1) — RECEIVING BANK: MORGAN GUARANTY TRUST NY NY
ABA: 021000238 ACCT#: 722000011
CREDIT: UNION BANK OF SWITZERALND GENEVA SWITZERLAND
ABA: 422 - 861 UBS CH ACCT #: 336397
CREDIT: INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL SERVICES LTD R J GEORGE Sr & DON WILCOX

D:22

890812 / 36 / 11 / 918149 TWO BILLION FIVE HUNDRED MILLION USD
(D) [$ 2,500,000,000.00]
SENDING ~~BANK: BANCO EXTERIOR~~ DE ESPANA MALAGA SPAIN
(1) — RECEIVING BANK: MORGAN GUARANTY TRUST NY NY
ABA: 021000238 ACCT #: 722000011
CREDIT: HAWAII NATIONAL BANK HONOLULU HAWAII
ABA: ACCT #: GENERAL ACCOUNT
CREDIT: HAWAII NATIONAL BANK CORP TRUST DEPARTMENT

(D) 890810 / 36 / 11 / 716882 ONE BILLION USD [$ 1,000,000,000.00]
SENDING BANK: BANCO EXTERIOR DE ESPANA MALAGA SPAIN
RECEIVING BANK: BANCO DE PANAMA PANAMA CITY PANAMA
ABA: ACCT #:3294 - 5528
CREDIT: PILGRIM INVESTMENTS / JORGE BUSH

(D) 890811 / 36 / 11 / 1018231 FIVE HUNDRED MILLION USD [$ 500,000,000.00]
SENDING BANK: BANCO EXTERIOR DE ESPANA MALAGA SPAIN 25-B
(1) — RECEIVING BANK: MORGAN GUARANTY TRUST NY NY
ABA: 021000238 ACCT #: 722000011
CREDIT: BANK OF AMERICA WALNUT CREEK CA.
ABA:1210003580466 ACCT #: 0224006685
CREDIT: PINNACLE HOLDINGS / FRANCIS X. DRISCOLL ATTORNEY TRUST

Acceptance of value by former U.S. President of the United States, George (Jorge) Bush is direct violation of our USC-A Title 5, Section 7353, et seq —

Jim Baker III told me to just "shut up" as I am protected by Rogers Houston Memorandum to "co-operate", but I kept receipts & notes —

Figure 26: As a senior US Secret Service/Treasury/CIA/FBI Financial intelligence operator, Leo (Lee) Wanta, who saved President Reagan's life on at least one occasion, was called upon to verify payments associated with the raising from 200+ international banks of $27.5 trillion in 1989-91, an operation presided over inter alia (but mainly) by George H. W. Bush. The funds were raised to 'enhance' the so-called 'global security environment', to buttress components of the international financial system, which may have been in systemic danger, and essentially to provide the New Underworld Order strategists (the Illuminati's controllers) with enough financial resources to impose their One World plans on the whole world, and to bribe every policymaker, intelligence officer, ruler, influential media baron, and other targeted power-broker, in the whole world, for the whole of the 21st century. Gorbachev sponsored a 'Global Security Project', and was closely involved with this operation. During the massive fund-raising, there was an 18-month hiatus, during which time the funds, to be paid out in US dollars, were held or sterilised by the Federal Reserve Board. When Wanta came to check through all the transactions, he found that large sums had been siphoned off into private accounts. In particular, George Bush Sr. (alleged DVD) had benefited, contrary to US law, as his note above makes clear.

whereas in reality it was being abused. It is hardly surprising that, when President Bush Sr. came to demand that Wanta allow him to withdraw funds from the $210 billion on deposit in an account or accounts of Ameritrust, one of the Title 18, Section 6 US Government secret intelligence corporations of which Wanta was a co-signatory and Trustor, Wanta refused to give his signature for the withdrawal of the funds, on the ground that they belonged to the US Government, not to an individual. Later, when auditing geofin-ancial transactions associated with the raising of $27.5 trillion to finance the 'Global Security Environment' (code for the New World Order, a.k.a. 'The New Underworld Order') in his capacity as a high-level Secret Service/US Treasury operative, Leo Wanta annotated a computer transactions print-out as follows: [Figure 26, page 111]:

'Acceptance of value by former US President of the United States, George (Jorge) Bush is direct violation of our USA Title 5, Section 7353, et seq. Jim Baker III told me to just "SHUT UP", as I am protected by Rogers-Houston Memorandum to "co-operate", but I kept receipts & notes'.

What this meant was that, having discovered the alleged embezzlement by the former President of the United States, Wanta, as a special secret service agent, had alerted the Treasury to this state of affairs, only to be slapped down by Jim Baker, President Bush Sr's long-time factotum and 'fixer', who is himself a lawyer. All present and former Presidents of the United States, including those who are deceased, are protected in perpetuity by the Secret Service. This gives them effective criminal immunity.

So, having established that President Bush Sr. had allegedly arranged for the diversion of certain international funds, and given his mentioned earlier point-blank refusal to accommodate President Bush's demand that he disgorge for Mr Bush's alleged use separate US Government secret intelligence funds of which he was the custodian, Leo Wanta, arguably one of the most brilliant intelligence and Financial Warfare officials ever to have been employed by the US Government - the man who saved President Reagan's life and engineered the financial submission of the Soviet Union in 1991 -found himself at the receiving end of the ruthless, revengeful wrath of the Illuminati.

After Leo Wanta had likewise refused to accommodate a similar alleged request from President Clinton, that President summarily dismissed William Sessions, the head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (which is subordinate to the CIA, to the great detriment of the Rule of Law) in 1993, in order to prevent Sessions from pursuing the matter; Vince Foster (who was spying for the FBI against Mrs Hillary Clinton, even though he was allegedly her lover) was murdered, Mrs Clinton having headed the Children's Defense Fund, an intelligence slush account (Hillary being an intelligence operative like her CIA husband) from which, likewise, it had been intended that funds should be embezzled; and Mr Wanta was arrested in Switzerland, where he had travelled inter alia with an FBI order to arrest the international criminalist Marc Rich (Reich) and was thrown into a stinking Swiss dungeon for 134 days, before the Israeli Prime Minister, Yizhak Rabin, interceded with the Swiss authorities to procure his release. He was then flown in shackles back to the United States, arraigned before a New York US court, released unconditionally, but rearrested on the Courthouse steps on a trumped-up State of Wisconsin tax evasion charge. This led to him being unjustly convicted and jailed for 22 years, although his sentence to jail was later commuted to house arrest.

On 14th November 2005, following payment in July that year by a third party of a court-ordered sum which included illegally charged State tax that he had already paid twice earlier, Mr Wanta was unconditionally discharged and became free to work and travel: but 13 years of the life of one of the most talented of all US Secret Service operatives of all time had been wasted, and countless financial and other opportunities for the alleviation of the US Government's severe financial problems, had been forfeited - all in order to protect the tawdry reputations high-level criminalist operatives.

As Trustor of the $27.5 trillion raised in 1989-92 from more than 200 international banks, for the 'Global Security Fund' and 'Environment' - an amount which was looted by criminalist cadres and worth well over $60 trillion by June 2006 - the reappearance of Leo Wanta on the scene when US intelligence had deliberately spread the lie that he was dead, caused a collective heart attack within the international financial community. The lie that Mr Wanta was dead had provided 'cover' for the misappropriation of these funds, located offshore, by crooked operatives and international banks, which had been using them extensively as collateral, had cross-collateralised them and hypothecated their value, in some cases in order just to stay afloat. Thus the corrupt intelligence cadres and the banks had a community of interest in representing that Leo Wanta, the official Trustor on behalf of the US Government, was dead - relying upon Statutes of Limitations, upon administrative arrangements such as Lloyd Bank TSB's statement to the Author in April 2006 that 'we destroy documents after ten years', and on the unfounded belief that he was deceased, which would have meant that the funds devolved to the banks. When it was discovered that he was NOT dead, both intelligence operatives and banks had to scramble to 'restore' or 'replace' trillions that had been misappropriated, misused or stolen.

Underlying this colossal crisis was the dark state of affairs arising from President Reagan's Executive Order 12333 [see page 20], whereby US intelligence operatives are empowered to establish commercial corporations at home and abroad and to run their associated bank accounts, while denying any intelligence involvement. Given the intensity of CIA compartmentalisation, this enables crooked operatives to represent that the corporations in question are their own, rather than US Government, entities - which means that, if registered offshore as most of them are, operatives may be liable to seek to enrich themselves 'at the expense of the US Government itself. It is 'not for nothing', as they say in Moscow, that the Clintons have acquired (allegedly with such funds) property in the Irish Republic, which has no extradition treaty with the United States*.

CIA BUSINESSES USED TO WASH FUNDS FOR COVERT OPERATIONS

It is a tribute to Jeffrey Robinson's acumen that he managed to unravel so much before the concrete evidence of such activities became available to researchers who could slash their way through the dense undergrowth of disinformation which surrounds this dark forest of lies. For in The Laundrymen', discussing CIA-controlled businesses, or cut-outs, Robinson stated that the CIA had used them for years to wash money through them to pay for all sorts of covert activities. His context was a huge CIA command post located on the campus of the University of Miami, following the Bay of Pigs fiasco. Operatives there, under the codename JM/ WAVE, 'directed the activities of a reported 3,000 Cuban agents whom they'd set up in false businesses. 'In one particular case, a CIA operator found that he could make more money running an Agency cut-out than he could by staying on the payroll. According to the rules, he was required to turn over the extra money to the Government. So he simply resigned from the CIA, kept the business and kept the profits. The CIA never said a word, because they couldn't admit they'd owned the business in the first place'[31]. And this was many years before President Reagan's Executive Order 12333 specifically authorised such intelligence cut-outs to be established and for their intelligence provenance to be denied.

*During his period at Oxford University, Bill Clinton shared a house at 46 Leckford Road, in 1968-69, with Strobe Talbott, who later became Deputy Secretary of State under Clinton, and Frank Adler, who resisted the Vietnam draft and later committed suicide. The property earned its place in history as the house in which Clinton puffed on joints but 'didn't inhale', while he was supposedly studying on a Rhodes Scholarship. Four years later, a man called Howard Marks moved in with his girlfriend, to study physics. Not long after he left Oxford, Marks began dealing in drugs, and he ended up masterminding a drug cartel with a turnover of £100 million, before being arrested and jailed for 25 years. After being released early from jail - perhaps he was a GO-2 asset? - he wrote a best-selling autobiography called 'Mr Nice'.

But we have diverged from the text of Casey's document, which continued:

'11. Bill Weld, as Assistant United States Attorney, was placed in charge of the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. This was done so that Bill Weld could control investigations into Mena by Federal law enforcement agencies. The placement of Weld has proved invaluable'.

Here we have explicit confirmation that the US intelligence community frustrates US domestic law enforcement, with which, as indicated, its operations are wholly incompatible - quite apart from being usually moral repugnant. Leo Wanta explicitly told the Author that drug-trafficking is immoral and an abomination; but it was also he who then added that 'if you go after them, they will kill you'[32]. This was not a threat: he does not do that, as he is a devout follower of Jesus Christ. It was a warning about the viciousness of the Illuminati. It follows that the supremacy of the criminalised elements (especially the German-oriented components) of the US intelligence community, which cooperate with and form part of, the flluminati, is a menace to the continued existence of the Republic. It has been consistently driving it in the direction required by the flluminati - which by definition can have nothing whatsoever to do with the interests of the people of the United States, let alone with those of the Rest of the World.

'12. I ordered John Poindexter, Robert McFarlane and Oliver North to go outside normal channels and use available assets, including the Mafia, to ensure the arrival of the cocaine into Mena Airport. The arrivals occurred in no small part through the efforts [of] personnel assigned to the National Security Agency (NSA) and Army Security Agency (ASA). The men and women of the NSA and ASA blinded early warning defense satellites and radar grid[s] to enable the aircraft to land undetected at Mena Airport. The NSA and ASA operations were SEA SPRAY and JADE BRIDGE.

13. I have learned that the course of the democratic [sic!] struggle for Nicaragua and Latin America is beginning to swing in our direction. I attribute this success to A-6 and A-7 which Bill Colby had the insight, precision and spine to carry out. I take notice of the heroic efforts of Al Carone, Bill Clinton, Bill Weld, John Poindexter, Bud McFarlane and Ollie North [names familiar to all who have tried to understand Iran-Contra -Ed.]. Without these men, A-6 and A-7 would not have appeared.

14. Freedom is a priceless commodity. The amount of freedom you enjoy is a result of the amount of vigilance you invest.

15. My actions may be recorded as criminal, condemning countless Americans to drug dependency. I don't care. All wars produce casualties. Generally the more violent the war, the shorter the length. My choice was either to stare down a protracted Cold War guerrilla insurgency in Latin America, or use the means available to finance and wage a violent war of short duration for democracy. I stand by my decisions. The tool is cocaine. The trick is to understand that the drug user had the freedom to make a choice. They chose the drug. I chose to use their habit to finance the democracy that all Americans enjoy. To keep those Americans safe from the Communist threat knocking on our back door in Latin America. For a change, the drug user will contribute to society.

16. I declare under penalty of perjury that the above facts are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

17. Executed this 9th day of December 1986 in Mclean, Virginia.

[Signed] William J. Casey'.

• • •

Now that this admission, from the late Director of Central Intelligence, that the CIA engages in drug-trafficking as a matter of deliberate state policy has been documented (rather than presumed from the vast accumulation of circumstantial evidence hitherto in circulation), it is clearly this Author's straightforward duty to highlight, for the record, its fallacies and what this abominable revelation implies.

In the first place, as already hinted, the former DCI was clearly ignorant of the fact that his focus on 'defeating Communism' in Latin America, and his mental approach to this challenge, precluded any understanding on his part of the fact that he, along with so many others, was no more than simply a manipulated pawn in the greater game of death being played by the invisible Illuminati handlers. For quite clearly, William Casey saw the challenge he thought he faced, in the same black-and-white terms as his predecessor, William Colby. And he believed his own slogans. The opposite of Communism, for him, was 'freedom'. Unless he was lying in his Affidavit, Mr Casey appeared to have no knowledge or inkling of the possibility that the Vice President he served was actually playing a much deeper game, serving enemy forces beyond the United States whose interests did not coincide with those of the American people. The Author wishes to emphasise this important fact, since Leo Wanta has separately and honestly confirmed in an interview with the Author, as indicated, that 'we didn't understand that at the time' [viz that the Illuminati were manipulating and directing our activities].

So, both William Casey and Leo Wanta were being deceived. Even the head of the CIA was a victim of the occultic Illuminist forces that control US intelligence.

CIRCUMSTANCES SURROUNDING THE DEATH OF WILLIAM COLBY

It is much less clear that Colby did not understand. Although it might appear from Casey's evidence that Colby saw the Communist threat to 'democracy' in the same black-and-white terms, the fact that he was continuing to control two massive illegal operations in Latin America many years after he had ceased to be Director of Central Intelligence himself, suggests otherwise. Born on 4th January 1920, William Colby became Director of Central Intelligence on 4th September 1973 - following James R. Schlesinger, when President Nixon shifted him to the post of Secretary of Defense. President Gerald Ford, the 'highest' and most occult Mason ever to have occupied the Oval Office, advised by Dr Henry Kissinger (the top Illuminati operative, alleged member of the 'high' German Illuminati Directorate, and the alleged Soviet agent BOR), dismissed Colby in late 1975, and replaced him by George H. W Bush. Schlesinger (of German extraction) resurfaced later as the head of the crucial Mitre Corporation [MIT -Massachusetts Institute of Technology] established by Kissinger himself.

Since William Casey was not appointed CIA Director of Central Intelligence until January 1981, it is clear that William Colby continued to run the super-secret intelligence operations A-6 and A-7, the existence of which was unknown to the President, Congress and the intelligence community, between the date of his replacement by George Bush Sr. in late 1975 and January 1981, a period of more than five years.

If Casey's statement that William Colby said that not even the intelligence community knew about these operations, a fresh question arises: whose operations were they? This Author believes that, in the light of what follows, they represented secret operations of German 'Black' intelligence, since later in this work it will be revealed, from an Illuminati defector source, that the global drug trade is run by the Illuminati. And it will also fall out that the cover of defeating Communism in Latin America was indeed used to procure the establishment by the CIA of the Latin American cartels.

For these were, as we shall see, far from 'stand-alone' phenomena.

On 29th April 1996, a correspondent for the UK newspaper Daily Express, Peter Birkett, told Chris Ruddy of NewsMax.com, that his newspaper's MI6 sources had claimed that William Colby was assassinated by US intelligence operatives, presumably to cover up the Latin American cartels scandal. Colby was reported to have disappeared from his country home on the Wicomico River in Maryland. The immediate official 'line' was that he had died in a canoeing accident, after his waterlogged canoe was found on the shore near his home. The Associated Press, which has become more and more of an official mouthpiece, reported that Colby was 'missing and presumed drowned', having died as the result of 'an apparent boating accident'. The news agency elaborated that Mrs Colby, who was in Texas at the time that her husband had disappeared, had spoken by telephone with him on the day that he had vanished, and that he had told her that he was not feeling well 'but was going canoeing anyway'. A week later, Mrs Colby rebutted the Associated Press report, telling The Washington Times that her husband had been perfectly well and had made no mention of going canoeing. The cause of death was reportedly a so-called aneurism, causing him to drown, resulting in hypothermia. However Mrs Colby later said that her husband had said in his phone call that he planned to have his dinner, take a shower, and go to bed. Investigators said that he left his dinner unfinished, went out in his canoe in the middle of the night on a rough and windy river without his lifejacket, experienced a heart attack, and drowned.

His body, inevitably, surfaced in the water, near his waterlogged canoe, a week later. Researchers, naturally unconvinced, due to the failure of the facts to match, added Colby to the list of 82 operatives and others who had, by that early stage, died suspiciously since President Clinton came to office, murdered in part by agents of his predecessor. Given that some 450+ operatives and others with detailed knowledge of dimensions of the nexus of scandals still called 'Iran-Contra' had been 'taken down', incarcerated, liquidated or placed under house arrest as the intelligence community scrambled to cover up their illegal operations, or rather to pour sand onto the raging fire of controversy which partial exposure of its 'heart of darkness' and of its illegal activities had ignited, William Colby's suspicious 'drowning' must indeed be counted among the hundreds of casualties of these endless scandals. This Author has separately described the purges and murders which took place during the Clinton era as the US intelligence community struggled to cover up its past misdeeds, as comparable to one of the multiple waves of arrests, liquidations and false accusation fests perpetrated under Stalin (Djugashvili), albeit of less horrendous proportions. They presage much worse purges to come, given the readiness and ease with which those abominations were committed, as the Republic ditches its false democracy, scraps the Constitution, and realises the full potential of the Third Reich which has surreptitiously installed itself in Washington. This will only happen, however, if the German-oriented Fifth Column gains the decisive upper hand, which was still far from inevitable, as late as mid-2006.

HOW THEY 'JUSTIFY' DRUG-TRAFFICKING IN THEIR TWISTED MINDS

The familiar and probably to come extent diversionary focus on Clinton as the instigator of such abominations diverts attention from the likelihood that these murders -and the hundreds of arrests, incarcerations and 'disappearances' reported routinely during the Clinton years - were orchestrated by the 'German' elements of the US intelligence community, fearful that their nefarious secret activities would culminate in a decisive backlash. The fact that they have been so comprehensively covered up, despite multiple leaks via the courts and in the open media, makes this a certainty. Just as likely is the parallel reality that since the Iran-Contra anti-Communism operations masked the deeper Illuminati drug-running programme, the multiple 'Clinton deaths' were actually Illuminati assassinations in all but name. And since the Illuminati provide German 'Black' intelligence with what it has hitherto assumed to be impenetrable cover, the phrases 'German Black intelligence' and 'Illuminati' are fully interchangeable here.

Put another way, the Illuminati Dark Forces would resort to anything to hide their global drug operations, and would never brook typically botched US intelligence operations exposing the Illuminati's drug-running and money-making activities.

The second irony is that the late Director Casey's justification for the illegal operations initiated under William Colby that he adopted and expanded, was intellectually flawed. The Author has been informed that drug-taking is considered by the perpetrators to be 'recreational', so that what is happening is that a product that is 'required' and 'in demand' for recreational use, is being supplied - the unspoken corollary being: what is wrong with that? How can anyone who is not depraved use this crass argument?

But since this spurious argument appears to remain intact to this day, the Author hereby takes it upon himself to demolish it, even though this task has long since been conscientiously performed by Dr Joseph D Douglass Jr, in his book: 'Red Cocaine: The Drugging of America and the West'[33] [Edward Harle Limited, London & New York, 1999].

Dr Douglass conclusively demonstrated what ought to be apparent to CIA analysts who know a thing or two about psychotropic drugs (after all, MK-ULTRA and its parallel and successor 'Black' programmes were/are CIA operations), that marihuana, cocaine, heroin and artificial drugs are not naturally in demand, but rather that on the contrary, supply stimulates demand, rather than the other way round. What Casey's mistaken argument omits is the nature of these drugs. If you eat an orange and decide that you would like to eat more oranges because they taste nice, you are doing yourself no harm, as oranges are a natural food provided for our nutrition and enjoyment. But these drugs are not nutritious: they are addictive. The demand that arises following their supply is a consequence not of 'recreational demand' but of demand resulting from addiction.

The fact that the source of demand for drugs is their addictive characteristic presupposes that if the drugs are not available, then addiction cannot occur, given the lack of supply. In other words, William Casey's argument, which is evidently sustained as an alibi by CIA drug-runners and their controllers to this day, is based upon an egregious, diabolical, disgraceful lie. For any supposedly civilised government to permit elements of its structures to conduct (in the case of the United States, on a colossal scale) drug-running operations, and to justify such nefarious behaviour by resort to a lie as crude as this, is beyond catastrophic. It represents the grandfather of all scandals. This necessary condemnation applies to the Author's own Government as well, given the intelligence now to hand about the corrupt drug-running activities of the GO-2 intelligence cadre working from within MI6 headquarters in Lambeth, Central London.

To this lie is often attached the further deceit that 'if we don't do it, others will fill our shoes'. To which the answer is: so what? If other evil states sponsor drug-running operations, that is a scandalous matter for their own governments or peoples to address. The United States has created or elaborated a global drug monstrosity, financing its intelligence operations from drug-running just like the Chinese and the Soviets.

And the most powerful drug-running country today is arguably the United States. If a miracle were to happen, and the overpowerful US intelligence services were to be brought to book and forced (somehow) to cease and desist, a vast component of the drug scourge that is degrading mankind would be neutralised. The United States could then begin to restore its globally shattered and tawdry reputation by deploying resources in opposition to the equally nefarious drug-running operations of its dialectical rivals.

Unfortunately, this is evidently not about to happen, because drug-running is an operation not just of US intelligence, but of the Illuminati which controls it, or elements of it. Hence, there is, as matters stand, no will to address this gargantuan crisis, not least because the continued 'integrity' of the international financial system depends upon the continued pipeline of laundry money generated by the drug trade. The money supply expands to meet the demand for funds with which purchases of drugs are financed.

William Casey ran his argument into a brick wall with his penultimate statements that 'the drug user[s] had the freedom to make a choice. They chose the drug'.

The deceitful implication here is that the user of drugs has the choice to cease to consume them. The answer to that is that (a) he would not have begun to consume them if the CIA/DVD had not facilitated their supply in the first place {see above) and (b) that once addicted (which can happen almost immediately), exercising 'the freedom to make a choice' becomes at once extremely difficult, for physiological reasons.

It is true that druggies can, with an immense effort of will, achieve separation from these products of the Devil. But, as the late Mr Casey and all those CIA and other US intelligence officers who sup with the Devil on this score know perfectly well, the addictive characteristics of the drugs ensure that the balance of probability is that the drug addict will constantly seek to renew the temporary gratification obtained from using the drugs supplied by the CIA's drug operatives and foreign criminalised intelligence collaborators. Therefore, the argument deployed here is thoroughly dishonest. It is a lie.

Finally, William Casey admitted in his Affidavit that he couldn't care less about (a) the fact that he had violated the Geneva Convention or (b) that his actions condemned 'countless Americans to drug dependency'. The Author will spell this out more clearly:

The late head of the US intelligence community stated that he was perfectly comfortable 'condemning countless Americans to drug dependency'.

Note that Mr Casey used the imprecise phrase 'countless', which, taken literally and in context, might be construed as implying indifference as to whether the number of Americans whose lives his actions blighted and destroyed in exchange for 'freedom' amounted to a thousand, ten million, or two hundred million. That is what his statement means. If 200,000,000 Americans were condemned to drug dependency, that would have been fine with the late Director of Central Intelligence. The victims would have been dead by now - but free! Since none of his successors have done anything to reverse this activity, and what follows will reveal and confirm that the so-called Colombian drug cartels were established by US intelligence, it is clear that the United States is in desperate need of leadership by people who can think straight, and whose minds are not confused, who judgment is not wanting and who are not Luciferians.

Criminal governance can never escape detection. The US authorities have been criticised for failures surrounding their handling and interpretation of warnings ahead of the 9/11 attacks, with a strong overtone of suspicion that the authorities themselves may have been complicit in the catastrophes. It is now well understood in sensitive quarters in both London and Washington that Al-Qaeda is a front for German/French 'Black' intelligence and that the explosive charges which demolished the US buildings were laid by collaborators. The backgrounds of key individuals such as George Tenet, allegedly an asset of French intelligence, and of his mentor, the Skull and Bones alumnus David L. Boren [see page 587 et seq.], later the head of the University of Oklahoma, in whose backyard a number of operatives associated with the atrocities lived and were trained, reinforce evidence separately sifted by US and UK intelligence that 9/11 and 7/11 were acts of war committed against the United States and Britain, which, if repeated, may trigger very grave consequences. The discovery that the Northern Underground Line beneath the Thames was meant to have been breached by a bomb, and upwards of 10,000 Londoners drowned on 7/7, plus GCHQ intercepts associated with the attacks pinpointing French and German 'Black' intelligence involvement, have been kept - like the real conclusions about 9/11 - under wraps, for one reason only: the desire to avoid the prospect of a Third World War, not against the covert Soviet Union, but once again against Germany, the Nazi Continuum of which has, by its own admission (see Chapter 8) never ceased waging war against the 'main enemy' - Britain and the United States. The methods employed include proxy terrorism, bribery, corruption, Fifth Column penetration, and drugs.

THE AFFIDAVIT OF US SPECIAL FORCES OFFICER EDWARD P. CUTOLO

The next 'smoking gun' document confirms how extensive the super-secret off-off-budget and hidden operations revealed to William Casey by Colby had been, providing further documented proof of CIA drug-running operations. It is an Affidavit by Edward P. Cutolo, dated 18th March 1980[34], the details of which corroborate Casey's assertions, provide extraordinary insights into possible tensions between the Illuminati forces and corrupt elements of the US intelligence community, and reveal collaboration with Israeli intelligence (known as Megawatt operations). The text of this Affidavit, dated 8th March 1980, is given below in full. [The reader is asked to exercise patience as the narrative develops]:

'I, Edward P. Cutolo, having been duly sworn, do state under oath:

1. I am currently the Commanding Officer of the 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne), 1st Special Forces, Fort Devens, Massachusetts. 2. I swear affirmation to the contents of this affidavit freely and without coercion or threat to my person.

3. In December 1975, I spoke with Colonel "Bo" Baker concerning a classified mission that he commanded during that month, inside Colombia. The mission was known as WATCHTOWER. [Note: Colonel A. J. Baker, a US intelligence officer, later died mysteriously in Germany while undergoing minor surgery at a US facility - a familiar 'happening', the Author understands. At the last count, the total number of operatives, lawyers and others associated with Iran-Contra to have been 'taken down' exceeded 430 - Ed.].

4. Following a lengthy discussion with Col. Baker, I was introduced to Mr. Edwin Wilson and Mr. Frank Terpil. Both Wilson and Terpil were in the employ of the Central Intelligence Agency. Both Wilson and Terpil inquired if I was interested in working for short periods of time in Colombia and I acknowledged that I was.

5. In February 1976, I commanded the second WATCHTOWER Mission into Colombia. This mission was 22 days long and ended with only one reportable incident occurring between team members and a Colombian army unit. There were no fatalities received by WATCHTOWER team members. There was no indication that the Colombian army unit sustained fatalities.

6. The purpose of Operation WATCHTOWER was to establish a series of three electronic beacon towers beginning outside of Bogota, Colombia and running northeast to the border of Panama. Once the WATCHTOWER teams (Special Action Teams) were in place, the beacon was activated to emit a signal that aircraft could fix on and fly undetected from Bogota into Panama, before landing at Albrook Air Station.

7. During the February 1976 WATCHTOWER Mission, 30 high performance aircraft landed safely at Albrook Air Station where the aircraft were met by Colonel Tony [sic] Noriega, who is a Panama Defence Force [PDF] Officer currently assigned to the Customs and Intelligence Section. Noriega normally was in the company of other PDF officers who were known to me as Major Diaz-Herrera, Major Luis del Cid, and/or a Major Ramirez. Also present at most of the arrivals, was Edwin Wilson, and an unidentified male Israeli national.

8. The cargo flown from Colombia into Panama consisted of cocaine.

9. The [mentioned] male Israeli national was identified and known to members of the [US] 570th Military Intelligence Group in Panama who only specified that this individual had the authority from the U.S. Army Southern Command in Panama to be in the A.O. [sic].

10. In March, 1976, a third WATCHTOWER Mission was implemented and I was in command of that mission which lasted 29 days and engaged in the same tactics used in the February 1976, mission. The March mission encountered a serious accident and resulted in several Special Action Team members being injured from wounds suffered while they were attempting to exfiltrate from Colombia across the border into Panama where helicopters were waiting to extract them.

11. The March 1976 mission incident occurred as the Special Action Team that was on station at Turbo, Colombia, encountered 40 to 50 armed men. Action Intelligence reports identified the armed men as local bandits. In regards to this incident the helicopters waiting in Panama, to extract the Special Action Team, entered Colombian air space without authorization and successfully extracted the Special Action Team, after an estimated six- or seven-minute fire-fight.

12. During the March 1976, WATCHTOWER Mission, 40 high performance aircraft landed safely at Albrook Air Station where they were met in the previously related fashion by those named.

13. After the WATCHTOWER Mission in March 1976, I lost touch with several of the men who had served on the Special Action Teams. I made no attempt to locate them.

14. In 1978, I assumed command of the 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne) at Fort Devens and recognized two soldiers [there].

15. The two soldiers [that] I recognized were assigned to 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne). One [of them] was assigned to a Special Forces Operational Detachment Alpha in the 3rd Battalion - Sgt. John Newby. The other had just been reassigned off an Operational Detachment Alpha following a criminal Investigation Division matter being levied against him, PFC William Tyree. Tyree was reassigned to a Forward Support Team but had been carried for the preceding month on the 2nd Battalion's roster.

16. Upon the assumption of command, I created and implemented 12 separate Special Action Teams. Their mission was to implement Army Regulation 340-18-5 (file number 503-05). My authority for this action came directly from FORSCOM through Edwin Wilson who appeared before me in my office at 10th Special Forces Group Headquarters. This action was taken to develop surveillance of politicians, judicial figures, law enforcement agencies at the State level, and of religious figures [in conformity with the remit of the A-6 RED MIST program identified by William Colby when he briefed William Casey in 1981 - Ed.]

17. Edwin Wilson explained that it was believed that Operation WATCHTOWER might be compromised and become known if politicians, judicial figures, police and religious entities were approached or received word that U.S. troops had aided in delivering narcotics from Columbia into Panama. Based on that possibility, intense surveillance was now undertaken by my office to ensure that if WATCHTOWER became known about, the U.S. Government and the Army would have advance warning and could prepare a defense [sic].

18. I was under orders never to inform Colonel Forrest Rittgers, [who was] Commanding Officer of Ft. Devens. The reason for this order, I was told, was that in the event Ft. Devens personnel were caught in the act of implementing the surveillance, Col. Rittgers will have a margin of plausible deniability with which he may be able to downplay and defend against injuries [sic].

19. The surveillance was unofficially referred to as Operation George Orwell based on the theme of the surveillance and the George Orwell published work '1984'.

20. I instituted surveillance against Ted Kennedy, John Kerry, Edward King, Michael Dukakis [who was later a Vice Presidential candidate], Levin H. Campbell, Andrew A. Caffey, Fred Johnston, Kenneth A. Chandler, Thomas P. O'Neill [later the House Speaker], to name a few of the targets. Surveillance at my orders was instituted at the Governors' residences of Massachusetts, Maine, New York, and New Hampshire.

The Catholic Cathedrals of New York and Boston were placed under electronic surveillance also. In the area of Ft. Devens, all local police and politicians were under surveillance at various times. [In other words, A-6 (or its clone) was being implemented domestically, as well - which was doubly against the law then prevailing - Ed.].

21. I specifically employed individuals taken from the 441st Military Intelligence Detachment and 402 Army Security Agency Detachment assigned to the 10th Special Forces Group to supplement the Special Action Teams carrying out Operation Orwell.

22. I also recruited a number of local State employees who worked within the ranks of local police and as court personnel to assist in this operation. They were veterans and had previous security clearances. They were told at the outset that if they were caught they were on their own.

23. Among the Special Action Team personnel was (then) SP4 William Tyree. Tyree had learned of the Operation and requested in person to be part of it. Tyree was used in less than a dozen surveillances.

24. In October 1978, it became known to me that SP4 Tyree was receiving telephone threats to his wife and himself. He made that fact known to his First Sergeant, Frederick Henry, and then approached me. Following our discussion, I considered placing Tyree under surveillance to arrive at who was behind the threats and whether or not the threats had the potential of compromising Operation Orwell.

25. On 26 December 1978 I began a file on SP4 Tyree and assigned a three-man surveillance Special Action Team to the multi-dwelling apartment complex [that] SP4 Tyree shared with his wife. That unit was in place from that date until 14 February 1979.

26. On 5 January 1979, Tyree appeared before me to receive a Field Grade Article-15 (non-judicial punishment) for his part in the theft and sale of military property. I had to make an example out of Tyree and instituted the most severe punishment possible. I concluded that with pending Congressional inquiries, the Post Commander (Colonel Rittgers) would reverse my decision on appeal, in Pvt. Tyree's favor. A reason to support this conclusion, in addition to pending Congressional inquiries, was the fact that the proceedings against Pvt. William Tyree were flawed from the outset of the investigation with a number of discrepancies.

27. I was told and understood that the main reason for seeking the Article-15 against him was to make an example of him, to show others that cooperation with the Command law enforcement agencies was mandatory.

28. On 26 January 1979, Pvt. Tyree tendered his Appeal of my sanction. The Appeal is attached. It is the best example of what proof existed against Pvt. Tyree when he came before me on 5 January 1979. It also names the characters in another matter that was unfolding as of that date.

29. By 29 January 1979, Senator Garn's office had contacted the Army Liaison Office in Washington D.C, on behalf of Pvt. Tyree who referred the matter to my office, as I was Pvt. Tyree's Commanding Officer. I then notified Sgt. Doucette in Washington D.C, that it would be approximately two weeks before further action could be taken in regard to the threats Pvt. Tyree was receiving. At that point I knew the threats were taking place, but had not ascertained from whence they originated.

30. At approximately 0945 hours on 30 January 1979, Pvt. Tyree reported to my office at 10th Special Forces Group Headquarters per my instructions. Pvt. Tyree reported that between 2400 hours and 0100 hours of the previous night his wife had received another threatening phone call. I was notified of the call by the Special Action Team in place at the Tyree residence prior to speaking with Pvt. Tyree. I ordered Tyree to keep this matter to himself as it was being investigated. I notified Pvt. Tyree I would contact him between 1200 and 1300 hours at his duty station as soon as I could look into a matter that pertained to the threats. This meeting lasted until 1019 hours.

31. On 30 January 1979, at approximately 1147 hours, two men were dropped in the parking area of the apartment complex that Pvt. Tyree resided within. One man was identified as Erik Aarhus. The second man, due to his face being covered, could not be identified as the two men entered the apartment building where the Tyree family resided. Surveillance indicated that at least one of the two men entered the Tyree apartment and left prior to the arrival of Pvt. William Tyree and his wife at noon.

32. On 30 January 1979, at noon, Pvt. Tyree and his wife were seen arriving at the apartment complex they resided in. Pvt. Tyree never exited his truck and Mrs. Tyree entered the building where their apartment was located. After she disappeared, a car almost ran into Pvt. Tyree as he was leaving the parking lot. Mrs. Tyree was stabbed to death in their apartment shortly thereafter.

33. Following a scream, local police were notified. The first police car responded quickly and a single officer entered the building where the Tyree family resided. After the officer entered, one of the two men exited from a window on the ground floor of the building This widow was identified as the Tyree bedroom window. The man seen leaving this window was identified as SP4 Earl M. Peters. Peters exited the window wearing blue denim, with a red hood sticking out of the rear neck area of the blue denim jacket. He was carrying a box, green and white in color that was described by the Special

Action Team as long and flat in appearance. Peters then walked from the building to the driveway entrance of the apartment complex and walked in the general direction of the main street in Ayer, Massachusetts. Within 5 or 6 minutes after the first police officer arrived, a second officer identified as the Police Chief appeared.

34. After the Police Chief had arrived, a third vehicle arrived. This was 10 to 15 minutes later. That vehicle carried an unknown man in his late 30s. He was later identified as the landlord of the Tyree apartment.

35. Upon knowledge that Mrs. Tyree was dead, the Special Action Team did notify me of this fact and I did place Pvt. Tyree under intense surveillance. In addition, I placed SP4 Peters under surveillance and at approximately 1405 hours during the afternoon of the murder Sp4 Peters signed a weapon (12 gauge shotgun, Remington 1100) into the Service Company. The weapon was in a long flat green and white box bearing the name 'Remington' across the front and back sides. [*Note: The author of the Affidavit says Mrs Tyree was stabbed, but inconsistently stresses Pvt. Peters' gun - Ed.].

36. Pvt. Tyree was questioned and cooperated in a limited fashion. He was then taken to the 441 Military Intelligence Detachment where he slept overnight on the Commanding Officer's couch, under guard. The following morning, I spoke to him in my office at the 10th Special Forces Group Headquarters. I informed him of the surveillance and of what I knew had occurred to his wife. He knew at that point that SP4 Peters and Pvt. Aarhus had both been involved in the murder and he began to talk to me.

37. Pvt. Tyree admitted, on 31 January 1979 in my office to me, that his wife had been killed, he felt, because of a set of diaries she had kept. Tyree explained that SP4 Peters and SP4 Rosario were named throughout the books as being involved in [certain] illegal matters on and around Ft. Devens. I knew [that] Rosario had been alleged to be involved in such matters and knew the information could be true. Then Pvt. Tyree admitted that his wife knew of Operations WATCHTOWER and Orwell, as he had seen it in her diaries the previous night. Pvt. Tyree swore he didn't reveal the Operations to her and I believed him. Tyree didn't know where the diaries were at this time.

38. Upon Pvt. Tyree leaving my office, I initiated contact with Massachusetts State Police Lieutenant J. Dwyer, of the Middlesex District Attorney's Office. Lt. Dwyer had cooperated previously on Operation Orwell and understood the urgency of the situation. Lt. Dwyer notified me that during a search of the Tyree apartment he [had] discovered the diaries behind the fridge with a note to the family of Elaine Tyree. He did not disclose the contents of the note.

39. Shortly before noon on 2 February 1979, I received a telephone call from Lt. Dwyer indicating he would drop off the diaries belonging to Elaine Tyree at my office. Upon receipt of the diaries I reviewed them, noting [that] much of Operation WATCHTOWER and Orwell was written about throughout the many pages of the diaries.

40. After my review, I contacted Colonel Moore of the U.S. Army Liaison in Washington D.C., and notified him of the scope of the issues involved in the murder of Elaine Tyree. I did notify him at that time of the possibility that arms and narcotics trafficking played a role in her murder. Due to security issues surrounding Operations WATCHTOWER and Orwell, I did not indicate how the arms and narcotics trafficking figured in the murder of Elaine Tyree, however.

41. Despite repeated warnings to stay out of the investigation and to remain silent, Pvt. Tyree was arrested on 13 February 1979, after [he had] attempted to bring about the arrest of Pvt. Aarhus. The surveillance Special Action Team reported that an armed confrontation between Pvt. Tyree and SP4 Peters occurred prior to the arrest of Pvt. Tyree.

42. During February 1979, Pvt. Tyree was arraigned on the pending civilian criminal charges. It was too risky to allow a military court to review the charges against Pvt. Tyree with Operation Orwell still ongoing and Senator Garn's office requesting a full investigation. Pvt. Tyree therefore had to stand before a civilian court of law on the criminal charges.

43. Prior to the arrest of Pvt. William Tyree, Lt. Dwyer approached me and insisted on knowing whether or not Tyree had ever served in Vietnam. I suspect Lt. Dwyer was attempting to learn if Tyree's involvement in the military operations elsewhere were being covered up the way Operation WATCHTOWER was. I replied in the negative, that Tyree had never been in the Republic of South Vietnam. I then contemplated for the first time [the possibility] that Tyree might go public on Operations WATCH-TOWER and Orwell because I had not come forward. Based on that conclusion, I gave orders to erase certain parts of his military records.

44. Actual information erased included the attendance of Pvt. Tyree at certain service schools and references to overseas service. I ordered all records to be erased that linked Pvt. Tyree to Operation WATCHTOWER or Orwell. Service schools and badges [that] I know were erased included his Taper Flash Special Forces Qualification', 'Crewman's Aviator Wings', 'Canadian Airborne Badge', and 'Master Parachute Badge'. I also gave orders to disenfranchise Pvt. Tyree from [the] Special Forces. I wanted no-one standing up for him and in the process dragging the information concerning Operation WATCHTOWER into the public eye. [Note: And to hell with poor Pvt. Tyree, whose wife had just been murdered because she knew about the US military's illegal drug-running operations, and who had himself been arrested after confronting his wife's murderer - Ed.].

45. Unknown to him, Pvt. Tyree underwent a hearing on the criminal charges in a local courthouse, under the surveillance of Operation Orwell. I learned through transmissions that Tyree only spoke of defense issues with his attorney, but [had] never mentioned Operations WATCHTOWER or Orwell. In the process of Pvt. Tyree's hearing, a State police officer from Lt. Dwyer's office discovered [that] the State courthouse was under surveillance. This led to the arrest of the senior Court Officer, Ira Kiezer, who took full responsibility and never mentioned my office.

46. After the hearing concluded, the presiding judge in the Tyree matter found no reason to bind Tyree over for the trial on the murder of his wife. I found myself faced with the possibility that Pvt. Tyree, upon release, would become angered at my decision to disfranchise him. So I approached Lt. Dwyer who informed me that an indictment had already been secured for Tyree and that he would stand trial for the charge of murder. Lt. Dwyer expressed concern that there would not be enough evidence to warrant a guilty finding against Tyree. Lt. Dwyer indicated that the only person with enough credibility was SP4 Peters. I could not inform Lt. Dwyer that Peters had been the person responsible for Elaine Tyree's murder.

47. After weeks of consideration, I concluded that the security of Operation WATCHTOWER and Orwell came first and AR 340-18-5 strictly prohibited the disclosure of intelligence gathered pursuant to that regulation.

48. On 29 February 1980, Pvt. Tyree was convicted of murder and will spend the duration of his life incarcerated. I could not disseminate intelligence gathered under Operation Orwell to notify civilian authorities who actually killed Elaine Tyree. [Note: For illegal operational reasons, including the need to cover up US drug-running, therefore, an army private (named as a Colonel in the court documents to which Casey's Affidavit was appended, but as 'Private' in Cutolo's Affidavit) faced spending the rest of his life in jail for murdering his wife, even though his Commanding Officer knew who had actually committed the murder (false witness). The Author's enquiries have indicated that the unfortunate Pvt. Tyree is still incarcerated (as of June 2006). - Ed.].

49. The current intelligence on Archbishop Romero (El Salvador) indicates [that] he is in receipt of physical evidence supporting several allegations that the United States is currently, [along] with Honduras, Costa Rica, El Salvador, and Panama, covertly training and sponsoring freedom fighters attempting to overthrow the current regime in Nicaragua; that these freedom fighters are also being supported from funds arising from Operation WATCHTOWER in part; that Mr. Robert D'Aubuisson (El Salvador) secretly aided the freedom fighters by allowing US advisors to train the freedom fighters inside El Salvador; [and] that Sr. D'Aubuisson was contacted by Edwin Wilson and Frank Terpil prior to the freedom fighters being trained inside El Salvador.

This information made it necessary to protect Operation WATCHTOWER and Orwell regardless of the costs [i.e., regardless of the murder of Pvt. Tyree's wife by someone other than her husband and regardless of the fact that this US military officer or soldier was languishing in prison, where he faced spending the rest of his life - Ed.].

50. I have been in communication with Lt. Dwyer. In November 1979, after some prodding, Lt. Dwyer and the Middlesex District Attorney went to the Massachusetts Supreme Court and obtained a ruling that prohibits any court but the Massachusetts Supreme Court from ordering the arrest of suspects in the Tyree murder. I am told that this is without precedent and that normally any court can issue arrest warrants for suspects in a murder. This will ensure that only Tyree and Aarhus are arrested for the murder and that SP4 Peters will not have to be subjected to having to defend himself on the witness stand. That also could bring about the entire matter being made public as by this time, I am certain that SP4 Peters is acutely aware that something is afoot, or he would have been arrested when the hearing in the local courthouse was held. [Another instance of the perversion of the US system of 'justice' by intelligence - Ed.].

51. I mailed the diaries of Elaine Tyree to a post office box number in Langley, Virginia, per instructions of Edwin Wilson who contacted me by telephone concerning the diaries [i.e., the diaries were sent to the CIA, where of course they have been suppressed - Ed.]. Wilson also notified me of the intelligence on Archbishop Romero.

52. I reviewed the diaries prior to mailing them. The diaries contained most of the information on SP4 Peters, as Pvt. Tyree indicated they did. I suspect that this was the motive for Peters' killing of Elaine Tyree. The diaries contained no mention of Pvt. Tyree or his alleged illegal dealings. I suspect that Elaine Tyree only wrote in the diaries relating to soldiers other than her husband, who were involved in illegal activities in and around Ft. Devens.

53. The diaries kept by Elaine Tyree mentioned certain personal entries that can corroborate the fact that I saw the diaries, that they exist, and that the information contained within them is accurate. There were numerous entries relating to Elaine Hebb Tyree's family located in Maryland, and her friends in the army.

54. January 1978 entry: 'Rosemary got a job with the FBI and has to be in Washington D.C. by January 31, 1978. Cindy and Edie got out of the hospital today (that is, Thursday)'.

55. From reading the entry on Cindy and Edie I suspect that [the] actual date of their release from the hospital was 12 January 1978. But no specific date was given, nor was the hospital named that they were admitted to.

56. January 1978 entry: 'Rosemary will be leaving for Washington D.C., on Sunday. I may ride back with her'.

57. From reading the entry concerning Rosemary driving to Washington, I suspect the actual date Rosemary left the Hebb family home in Cumberland, Maryland, to travel to Washington, possibly with Elaine Tyree, was 29 January 1978. No actual date was given in the diaries, nor was there further mention whether or not Elaine Tyree actually rode 'back with her.'

58. November 1978 entry: 'SP5 Scott had a little baby girl. She was due in July. I remember her back before she came to Ft. Devens'.

59. From a reading of the entries on SP5 Scott which begin to appear in the diaries around April 1978, I suspect this female was a member of a unit Elaine Tyree was assigned to either at Ft. Lee, Virginia, or at Ft. McClellan, Alabama. In either case, this is an intimate fact obviously known only to Elaine Tyree, as no one else would need any knowledge about when another female friend gave birth, and the gender of the baby born to the female friend in question.

60. January-February 1978 entries. 'I've been running around with Heidi Urban. We go all over together when I don't have duty.... Pat Imbu left in mid-January'.

61. From my reading of the entries on Heidi Urban, the main facts appearing obvious are that Elaine Tyree is then at Ft. Lee, Virginia [and] that Pvt. William Tyree is not present as he is at Ft. Devens, Mass. Other than Elaine and Heidi, no-one, specifically not Pvt. Tyree or myself, could know that Elaine and Heidi were 'running around together' at that time, unless these facts are represented in the diaries maintained by Elaine Tyree in her own handwriting. Elaine Tyree was [now] assigned to Company C, 1st Battalion, Quartermaster School.

62. November 1978 entry: 'Dear Diary, my brother Steven who has been stationed in England for a over a year, is coming home on the 20th for good'.

63. From reading the entries on Steven, I learned that he is currently assigned to an Air Force Base in England and that Elaine Tyree got along well with him.

64. From further consideration and reading entries on SP5 Scott. I conclude that Mrs Elaine Tyree knew this female at Ft. Lee, Virginia, in the sense that both Scott and Elaine Tyree underwent the same training there. I don't gather from the entries that SP5 Scott married or had a name change between her duty at Ft. Lee, Virginia, and Ft. Devens, Mass., but I could be forgetting or overlooking the numerous personal entries in the diaries in an attempt only to view data pertinent to Operation WATCHTOWER or Orwell.

65. November 1978 entry: 'Peters came by the apartment today. Bill spoke with him in the front room while I was washing dishes. Peters is thinking about buying a new truck. Bill asked Peters if he was going to have Dennis Testagrossa steal this new truck and burn it so [that] Peters could collect the insurance the way Peters had the last time? Peters laughed and said the payments are better on this truck than the one he had Testagrossa steal from the parking lot of Carlin's Bar. This was the first I knew that Peters was involved in the stealing of his own truck. Peters told me [that] Bill was not involved because at the time Bill was under too much attention'.

66. I have not seen proof that Pvt. Tyree was involved in illegal activities. I have seen ample proof that he is foolish and eager to do things his way, since Pvt. Tyree's involvement in the March 1976 WATCHTOWER incident with the 40-50 armed Colombians.

67. I have detailed the pertinent events in this Affidavit should something happen to me. The lug nuts have been loosened on my car tires twice in the past week. I have had someone tamper with my car once and I have received telephone calls at my home where no one answered at the other end. I have seen other men involved in Operation WATCHTOWER meet accidental deaths after they had also been threatened.

68. Sgt. John Newby reported that he had received threats just prior to the parachuting accident that claimed his life in October 1978. It was at that time that (then) SP4 Tyree began to report threatening phone calls. I saw a pattern and still believe that a pattern exists. [Note: The only difference being that, this time round, it's Cutolo who senses that his life is in danger, rather than the incarcerated army private. Cutolo also died prematurely].

69. I gave Colonel Baker the original copy of this Affidavit. [Note: As indicated earlier, Colonel A.J. Baker died suddenly while undergoing light surgery under anaesthesia at a US military facility in Germany -Ed.]. I gave true copies to Mr Hugh B. Pearce, and to Mr Paul Neri of the National Security Agency, and instructed each person to deliver this Affidavit to the authorities in the event [that] something occurs to me. [Note: And a great deal of use that would be, wouldn't it, given that 'the authorities' are themselves the perpetrators of these murders and illegal activities. It is understood that 'something did indeed happen' to Cutolo, later. -Ed.].

70. I believe [that] the friends I have entrusted with the original and copies of this affidavit will place the national security of the United States and American interests in Latin America first, and if circumstances allow, will bring this affidavit to the attention of the authorities in the event that something occurs to me.

71. During the conversation with Edwin Wilson, I was informed of the sensitive data related to Archbishop Romero. He also spoke to me concerning operation WATCH-TOWER and the geopolitical climate in Latin America and the need to maintain security. I notified him that I had requested to release intelligence gathered from Operation Orwell to civilian police authorities involved in the Elaine Tyree murder and that the Staff Judge Advocate's Office had denied the request.

72. Edwin Wilson [then] explained that Operation WATCHTOWER had to remain secret and gave these reasons [for his demand]:

(1) If the operation became public knowledge, it would undermine present governmental interests as well as those in the future;

(2) There are similar operations being implemented elsewhere in the world. Wilson named the 'Golden Triangle' of Southeast Asia and [also] Pakistan [in this context]. Wilson stated [that] in both areas of the world, the CIA and certain other intelligence agencies are using the illegal narcotics flow to support forces fighting to overthrow Communist governments, or [else] governments that are not friendly towards the United States. Edwin Wilson revealed [the names of] several recognized officials [from] Pakistan, Afghanistan, Burma, Korea, Thailand and Cambodia as being aware of and consenting to these arrangements, similar to the arrangements in Panama;

(3) Wilson cited the military coup in Argentina in 1976, the coup in Peru in 1976, the collapse of the Somoza Government in Nicaragua in 1979, and the growing civil war in El Salvador as examples of the need for operations like WATCHTOWER, as these operations funded the ongoing US effort to combat Communism and [to] defeat various activities directed against the United States or matters concerning the United States.

73. Edwin Wilson [then] explained that the profits from the sale of narcotics were laundered through a series of banks. Wilson stated that over 70% of the profits were being laundered through the banks in Panama. The remaining percentage was being funnelled through Swiss banks with only a modest remainder being handled by banks within the United States. Wilson indicated that a large proportion of the profits are brought into the banks of Panama without being checked. I understood that some of the dollar profits in Panamanian banks arrived through Israeli couriers.

I became aware of that fact from normal conversations with some of the Embassy personnel assigned to the Embassy in Panama. Wilson also stated that an associate whom I don't know also aided in overseeing the laundering of funds, which were then used to purchase weapons to arm the various factions that the CIA saw as friendly towards the United States. The associate's name is Tom Clines. Wilson indicated that most of [the activity under] Operation WATCHTOWER was effected on the authority of Clines.

74. I was notified by Mr Edwin Wilson that the information forwarded to Washington D.C., was disseminated to private corporations that were developing weapons for the US Department of Defense. Those private corporations were encouraged to use the sensitive information gathered from the surveillance on US Senators and Representatives as leverage [with which] to manipulate those Congressmen into approving whatever costs the weapons systems incurred. [Note: This is a formal, explicit acknowledgement of the widespread use of blackmail by the US intelligence community as an instrument of domestic and international military policy. - Ed.].

75. Edwin Wilson named three weapons systems when he spoke of private corporations receiving information [that was derived] from Operation Orwell:

(1) An armored vehicle;

(2) An aircraft that is invisible to radar;

(3) A weapons system that utilizes kinetic energy. I got the impression [that] this weapon was being developed either for use by NASA or for CBR [sic] purposes. I wrote down what I recalled at the time and it is attached [omitted by the source for this presentation as being not strictly relevant, as was certain other related material - Ed].

76. Edwin Wilson indicated to me during our conversation which entailed the dissemination of Operation Orwell information and the identification of the three weapons systems, that Operation Orwell would be implemented nationwide by 4th July 1980. [Accordingly]:

77. As of the date of this affidavit, 8,400 US police departments, 1,370 churches, and approximately 17,900 citizens have been monitored under Operation Orwell. The major churches targeted have been Catholic and Latter-Day Saints [sic]. I have stored certain information [that was] gathered by Operation Orwell on Ft. Devens, and pursuant to instructions from Edwin Wilson have forwarded additional information gathered, to Washington, D.C. [Note: At that time, the CIA was prohibited from spying on US citizens domestically: but what the hell, the law is only there to be exploited when the intelligence community needs its protection: at all other times, it can be disregarded - Ed.].

78. Per orders from Edwin Wilson, I did not discuss the implementation of Operation Orwell with my staff or others outside beyond the personnel assigned to surveillance. The only matter [that was] discussed with Operation Orwell personnel was what the Special Action Teams needed to know in order to carry out their mission. Certain information was collected on suspected members of the Trilateral Commission and also the Bilderberg Group. [Note: This formal documented admission is extremely significant. The Author is advised by reliable intelligence sources that the Trilateral Commission is a subversive front for German long-range 'Black' Intelligence, while the Bilderberg Organisation allegedly selects and approves personnel and Illuminati agentur in order to ensure that the interests and objectives of the Illuminati, serving ultimately, as a practical matter, German long-range global hegemony strategy, are always sustained - Ed.]. Among those that information was collected on were Gerald Ford and President Jimmy Carter. Edwin Wilson indicated that additional surveillance was implemented against the former CIA Director George H. W. Bush. Sr., whom Edwin Wilson named as a member of the Trilateral Commission. [This statement confirms that Operation Orwell was directed domestically against the long-range German/DVD Fifth Column in the United States - Ed.]. [Mr Cutolo added]: I do not have personal knowledge that Ford, Carter or Bush were under surveillance.

79. I spoke to Colonel James N. Rowe on 5 March 1980. I specifically requested that Col. Rowe communicate with several contacts he possesses within the CIA. I requested Colonel Rowe to check out Mr Edwin Wilson. I had two concerns. The first was that Edwin Wilson may pose a threat to national security by disseminating classified information on the CIA's activities to personnel without a clearance or a need to know that information. Edwin Wilson, during his conversations with me, outlined information that was classified and which I had no need to know: information that pertained to the activities of the CIA in the United States and Latin America. I've related such conversations with Mr Wilson herein. The second concern I had was the issue of his authority and [of his] connection to Thomas Clines. I was told repeatedly that Clines was the agent in charge and that Wilson worked with Clines. Colonel Rowe indicated that he would make the inquiries I requested and would contact me with that information as soon as he had something. Colonel Rowe indicated that it would be 60 to 90 days before he would speak to the CIA contact that was most apt to have knowledge of the information I requested. I agreed to meet Colonel Rowe at Ft. Bragg the next week in June in the event Colonel Rowe received documentation relating to the information I sought.

80. On 7 March 1980, Colonel Rowe contacted me. During the course of our conversation Colonel Rowe informed me that his initial inquiries with CIA contacts confirmed that Edwin Wilson was working for Thomas Clines at the times in question. Colonel Rowe indicated that Edwin Wilson was under scrutiny by the CIA at that time but had not been given the details of the circumstances surrounding the events of that matter. Colonel Rowe also indicated that there was an Israeli aspect to the matter involving Edwin Wilson, and Colonel Rowe provided the name of David Kimche as being the Israeli most likely to be involved with Edwin Wilson.

[Note: David Kimche was head of the Israeli Foreign Office and therefore in charge of Mossad, the Israeli foreign intelligence service. He was the most powerful and most senior of all Israeli foreign and intelligence officials. For David Kimche to have been involved in such operational matters meant that Israeli intelligence is heavily involved in drug-trafficking operations, too, as is confirmed shortly. Indeed, as will be seen, the Israeli drug operations in Latin America (and elsewhere) are extensive (and may be intertwined with parallel Soviet drug-trafficking operations - Ed.]. With regard to my concerns that Edwin Wilson posed a possible threat to national security or to the inner working of the CIA, Colonel Rowe indicated that off the record, that was a concern of several people to whom he had also spoken.

Colonel Rowe further indicated that he would be in receipt of documentation by the first week of June [1980] which listed Edwin Wilson's involvement in several operations. I specifically asked Colonel Rowe if he had the names of any of those operations at this time and his reply was in the negative. Colonel Rowe did indicate that it was his understanding that each operation had basically the same characters involved, and Colonel Rowe named two other individuals involved with Edwin Wilson. Colonel Rowe named Robert Gates and William J. Casey as officials who had been named in the documentation he would acquire prior to our scheduled meeting in June 1980

81. On 7 March 1980, after my conversation with Colonel Rowe, I made [some] inquiries through Paul Neri and Pentagon contacts and was informed that David Kimche had ties with the Israeli Intelligence Agency known as 'The Mossad'. I also asked that I be provided a photograph, if any existed, of David Kimche. I requested such a photograph to determine if Mr Kimche was the unidentified male Israeli national who met the aircraft flying into Albrook Air Station during Operation WATCHTOWER. In addition, I sought whatever photographs existed on those who were known associates of David Kimche for the same reason.

82. During March 1980 I received three photographs from Army Intelligence contacts at the Pentagon. Amongst the three photographs were two individuals I recognized. David Kimche's photograph had been shown to me by a friend, Col. Robert Bayard, shortly prior to his murder in Atlanta, Georgia, in 1977. According to Bayard, Kimche was due to meet with him later. Shortly thereafter, I was informed through the normal lines of communication that Col. Bayard was murdered. As of this date his murder remains unsolved. The photograph of Kimche that Colonel Bayard had produced appeared to be a surveillance photo. There is no doubt that Kimche was the person Bayard named as being in the photograph. According to Colonel Bayard, Kimche was due to meet with him to discuss a matter that related to Col. Bayard's previous duty in the U.S. Army and assignment in the CIA.

83. The second individual I recognized from the three photographs I received, was listed as Michael Harari. I was informed that Michael Harari is listed as a senior Mossad agent. Harari was the unidentified male Israeli national that met the aircraft which flew into Albrook Air Station during Operation WATCHTOWER. He was the one who gave Edwin Wilson two briefcases full of U.S. currency in various denominations. The briefcases were given to Edwin Wilson at the end of the operation in February and March 1976. It is my understanding from Pentagon contacts, that Harari's activities in Latin America are well known, including his drug trafficking endeavors. I was also informed from those same contacts that the Pentagon, on the orders of several Washington VIPs, have gone to great lengths to keep the activities of Harari a secret. I have begun preparations to meet with David Kimche or Michael Harari while in Europe on annual NATO exercises. I intend to verify that Harari was the individual who gave Edwin Wilson the briefcases while at Albrook Air Station during Operation WATCHTOWER.

84. I was informed from Pentagon contacts, off the record, that CIA Director Stansfield Turner and former CIA Director George Bush are among the VIPs that shield Harari from public scrutiny. Those Pentagon contacts further indicated to me their knowledge that Operation WATCHTOWER was implemented and of my involvement in that operation. This was the first time that U.S. military authorities confirmed to me that the Operation occurred and gave their approval. I also learned that Mr Harari was a known middleman for certain matters involving the United States inside Latin America. Harari acted with the support of a large network of Mossad personnel throughout Latin America and worked mainly in the import and export of arms and drug trafficking.

85. As a further means of corroborating this affidavit, on 9 February 1979, I spoke to Colonel Rittgers concerning the release of Pvt. Tyree from Walter Reed Medical Center in Washington D.C., where he had been admitted on 5 February 1979. Colonel Rittgers notified me that Pvt. Tyree had fully recovered from the depression, which was brought about by the murder of Mrs Elaine Tyree. Colonel Rittgers indicated that upon arrival at Ft. Devens later that day, he would interview Pvt. Tyree to determine for himself if Pvt.. Tyree felt he was in any real danger.

86. I also spoke to Captain Gruden who was then the Commanding Officer of the 409th Army Security Agency Company, based in Augsberg, Germany. The telephone call was brief and I inquired into what information PFC Tina Gregory might be expected to give in support of Pvt. Tyree's trial defense. The surveillance of the civilian court house in the early stages of the criminal proceedings against Pvt. Tyree indicated PFC Gregory could have knowledge about Operation WATCHTOWER since PFC Gregory and Mrs Elaine Tyree were very close friends. I was not able to learn much from Captain Gruden who was leaving his office when I called. In order not to attract attention to the value of the information PFC Gregory may or may not have, I passed the entire phone call off as my being interested about the fate of Pvt. Tyree who was under my command.

Signed under the pains and penalties of perjury on this 11th day of March 1980. Edward P. Cutolo Colonel Infantry Commanding'. [Since deceased].

• • •

THE AFFIDAVIT OF THE LATE US ARMY COLONEL EDWIN WILSON*

Edwin Wilson, a retired US Army Colonel who - like so many others involved in the nexus of operations generically known as Iran-Contra, died under mysterious circumstances (in November 1996) - certified in his own Affidavit, parts of which have been made available to this Author, that 'Mr Tyree had been decorated in relation to the classified operations he participated in. Following the participation of Mr Tyree in the WATCHTOWER operation, he was called upon to serve his country in a variety of classified operations in Latin America, Africa and Pakistan. Our investigation [conducted by Colonel Wilson as an Army Military Intelligence (MI) officer into the William Tyree case - Ed.] found that these subsequent operations came under the general project referred to as SANDMAN. SANDMAN was a project of the United States Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). SANDMAN also involved soldiers of the United States military. The information about SANDMAN is limited. SANDMAN exclusively dealt with so-called "wet operations" (assassinations) and Mr Tyree was involved in several assassinations that were verified by Special Forces soldiers we interviewed. This resulted in Mr Tyree receiving a variety of decorations, which the US Army refuses to admit were ever awarded to Mr Tyree'. The late Colonel Wilson's Affidavit also revealed that Wilson had 'gone back to source', i.e. had interviewed William Colby: 'Ironically during conversations I had with Mr Colby, I learned that he had personally requested and attained [that] a waiver be given to soldiers involved in WATCHTOWER and SANDMAN. One of those soldiers was Mr Tyree. From my involvement in the CIA Program MK-ULTRA' - the true meaning of which acronym Colonel Wilson now divulged - 'Manufacturing Killers Utilizing Lethal Tradecraft Requiring Assassination, I was aware that waivers could be given in regards [sic] to meritorious action during the course of intelligence related operations'.

---

*The Report of the Congressional Committees Investigating the Iran-Contra Affair, November 1987 [House Report # 100-433/Senate Report #100-216] states, in Chapter 21, on page 327, that General Richard Secord, overall controller of 'the Enterprise... the group of offshore companies that carried out the Iran and Contra operations', was introduced to Edwin Wilson, a former [sic!] CIA officer who had become enormously successful in international business dealings'. Note 18 appended on page 329 of the Report and referring to this statement adds: The principal source of Wilson's wealth turned out to be arms deals. During 1983, Wilson was convicted of conspiring to sell arms and explosives to Libya as well as of conspiring to murder the Federal Prosecutor and six witnesses in his trial' [information based upon reports in The Washington Post, 14th March 1983, page A17; and the same newspaper, 10th January 1984, page A4].

Executive Order 12333 was signed by President Reagan almost as soon as he had settled in at the White House in 1981. The inspiration for this crucial Executive Order has been exposed in a lawsuit brought (unsuccessfully, as of 2006) by the aforementioned Green Beret William Tyree (the subject of the foregoing Affidavit sworn by the late Colonel Cutolo) who had languished in jail for 23 years (by the summer of 2006) for a crime he did not commit (the murder of his wife Elaine, who kept a diary in which details of CIA and DIA drug-running connections were described) and who is the main subject, as indicated, of the preceding Affidavit by Colonel Edward P. Cutolo.

The American investigative author Rodney Stich has explained the context of this Affidavit in his book Defrauding America[35]: The CIA utilized the Army Intelligence Agency in Operation WATCHTOWER, which began in the mid-1970s. US Colonel A. J. Baker was ordered to oversee part of Operation WATCHTOWER and turned the operation over to Colonel Edward P. Cutolo, who also commanded the 10th Special Forces based at Fort Devens, Massachusetts'.

Lawsuits are typically a source of revelations and exposures of criminal intelligence operations in the United States: by contrast, in Britain, detailed information about intelligence criminalism as, for instance, might have been revealed in the course of the lengthy trial proceedings concerning the defunct, corrupt intelligence institution Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) that were concluded in London in 2006, tend to be less readily obtainable. That institution, a money-laundering conduit used for international organised criminal chug-running and terrorism money-laundering operations, was closed down by US intelligence - having originally, in 1972, been partially established by Bank of America, allegedly a US intelligence bank, which originally bought shares in BCCI, before selling them off quietly into the market ten years later.

Rodney Stich's observations continued:

'[Cutolo] who had been ordered by the CIA to supervise Operation WATCH-TOWER, grew increasingly concerned about its flagrant illegality and conducted an investigation in an attempt to bring it to a halt.... Fearing that he might be killed because of the investigation, he prepared a fifteen-page single-spaced Affidavit dated March 11, 1980 [actually, 8th - Ed.] describing the CIA drug-trafficking and other activities.... Cutolo was [duly, as he had anticipated - Ed.] killed, as were several other people working with him to expose the drug-trafficking operations.... The Affidavit exposed the installation and operation of the radio beacon towers [for the guidance of aircraft bringing in drugs] and several of the drug flights in which he participated'.

'The Cutolo Affidavit described the killing of an Army servicewoman, Mrs Elaine Tyree, who had knowledge of Operation WATCHTOWER which she described in her diary. To shift attention from the actual killer and his connection to the ongoing drug operation, the military charged [Elaine] Tyree's husband with the killing. "It was too risky to allow a military court to review the charges against Pvt. Tyree", read the Affidavit'. Rodney Stitch's explanatory narrative about this Illuminati murder continued: 'At the first military hearing, the presiding judge found no reason to bind Tyree's husband over for trial for the murder of his wife. This decision risked further investigation and possible exposure of the corrupt operation. Army pressure caused the county prosecutor to indict the husband for murdering his wife even though the Army knew [that] the actual killer was someone else. [False witness and the perversion of justice - Ed.]. The Cutolo Affidavit stated: "On 29 February 1980, Pvt. Tyree was convicted of murder and will spend the duration of his life incarcerated [as has indeed so far been the case - Ed.].

I could not disseminate intelligence gathered under Operation Orwell [a surveillance operation directed against US politicians and others] to notify civilian authorities [as to] who actually killed Elaine Tyree'". Clandestine intelligence operations involving such egregious serial illegality have to be covered up by ever more desperate lies, false witness and murder. But has anyone in authority taken this on board? It is to be doubted.

WILLIAM TYREE'S WRONGFUL IMPRISONMENT LAWSUIT AND AFFIDAVIT

It is from Pvt. Tyree's own lawsuit against the CIA et al., a so far vain attempt to procure his release, that 'further and better particulars' about how the US intelligence community was self-sucked irretrievably into the sewer of Latin American drug-running, and why this happened, has been obtained. The late William Casey's own Affidavit, the text of which has been cited, locks all these revelations into place, leaving zero doubt that the CIA's penchant for drug-running has been exploited (as will be seen) by the Illuminati, which finances its operations inter alia precisely from such activity. And as this book argues and demonstrates, the Illuminati, spawned in its modern from from Germany, is a global instrument of covert German Nazi (Himmlerian) world hegemony strategy.

The Author knows for certain that American intelligence has itself been double-crossed, since, as has been explained, one of its most distinguished and effective operatives informed him specifically on 9th June 2005, in response to the Author's comment that 'these are ultimately operations of the Illuminati': 'Yes, but we didn't know that, at the time'. Given the Author's knowledge of and relationship with the source concerned, he is certain that this statement is accurate. It opens the lid on the possibility (which the Author believes to be a certainty) that rogue Illuminati forces working within and manipulating elements of the US intelligence community have systematically exploited its corruption and weaknesses in pursuit of an Illuminised agenda that diverges sharply from the interests of the United States (however misconceived in the first place) and its misled and largely innocent population.

William Tyree's lawsuit has been described by one intelligence operative turned historian as 'a work of art, a masterpiece of legal reasoning and an important historical source document'[36]. It began by questioning the legality of all Executive Orders and similar 'decrees' issued by US Presidents - which form a parallel body of 'law' promulgated independently of the Executive and Judicial Branches of the Federal Government.

All attempts to question the legality of these unilateral presidential decrees have so far failed. Tyree's lawsuit pointed out that Executive Order 12333 authorised 'the privatisation of intelligence and covert operations and permitted agencies other than the CIA to conduct 'Special Activities', thus effectively opening the door, previously closed by the National Security Act of 1947 et seq., to the White House National Security Council Staff or even private entities/assets, i.e. third party cutouts, to carry out covert operations'. Uri Dowbenko has written that 'in plain language, this means that the CIA could subcontract or "farm out" their drug-smuggling and assassinations to third party personnel and continue to enjoy their "plausible deniability", i.e., denying any knowledge or involvement with criminal activities'[37]. Permission to lie about the intelligence provenance of so-called Title 18, Section 6 US Government (intelligence) corporations was specifically provided for in the text of Executive Order 12333. But while these people flout the law all the time, they also use it to crucify those they discard.

The 101-page Complaint or lawsuit dated September 1998, claiming $63 million on behalf of his client - filed by Ray Kohlman, the lawyer who was the Attorney of Record in respect of William Casey's Affidavit, the pre-filed text of which has been cited above, and whom the Author found (in June 2005) had 'vanished' from his Massachusetts office address - states that William Tyree was falsely imprisoned in the context of the theft of diaries kept by his murdered wife Elaine, which contain evidence that would have exonerated him and exposed the false witness against him at his trial.

Tyree had married Elaine on 31st December 1977. As Uri Dowbenko explained, 'she was an avid diarist who had been keeping detailed notes on all the illegal activities she was observing'[38]. Kohlman's apparent disappearance from his Massachusetts office, is either a precaution for his own safety following his action in filing the lawsuit (Case Number 98CV11829JLT), or else indicative of the possibility that he, too, has been liquidated, 'suicided', compromised or otherwise disposed of, along with the 450+ operatives, lawyers and others whose connections with Tran-Contra' have proved their undoing or worse. The Complaint exposed not only detailed information about CIA drug-running and money-laundering operations, but also that the so-called Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) - a shadowy and seemingly unconstitutional entity which has the power to suspend the US Constitution and to usurp the power of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches of the US Federal Government - was established independently of Congress, using the vast profits from CIA drug-trafficking. The lawsuit, accompanied by numerous Affidavits and appendices, named the Central Intelligence Agency, former CIA Director and President George Bush Sr., and the self-admitted official assassin D. Gene Tatum, as defendants 'in the far-reaching case involving US Government sanctioned drug smuggling, murder and cover-up'[39].

ENTER A U.S. ARMY COLONEL AND MAFIA-CONNECTED MONEY-LAUNDERER

William Tyree's Complaint and lawsuit contains first-hand details and revelations of these nefarious (Illuminati) activities, by US Army Colonel Al Carone, who, as we have seen, was identified by William Casey in his (cited) Affidavit - details which, 'corroborated with evidence from other sources, reveals a dark history of the United States that has been neglected by mainstream historians'[40] and censored by the American media, which CIA cadres have openly boasted of being under the thumb and control of the Agency[41]. Indeed the same cadres made it clear, in the course of a lecture attended by one of the Author's contacts, that the general public has no right to know 'the truth', and that the only class entitled to know what is really happening is the intelligence community. This is because the intelligence community, ignoring all legality, is engaged in organised criminal activities going far beyond its remit, which it seeks to hide from the general public, not least because many of these evil activities are designed to ensure the intelligence community's independence from its only legal source of funding - the US Congress. By developing 'off-balance sheet' financial resources such as the financial pipelines generated by hypothecation and global drug-dealing, the US intelligence community has accumulated unfettered power, which it exercises over both the Executive and Legislative Branches of Government in its own, rather than the Republic's, interests. The Tyree lawsuit cites at length from information provided by Colonel Carone -who himself died in on 7th January 1990, in Albuquerque, New Mexico, obviously of an induced CIA cancer, as his medical records stated that he perished due to 'chemical toxicity of unknown etiology'. Carone was 'a CIA paymaster and a Mafia-connected money-launderer [see William Casey's Affidavit - Ed.], who incidentally held the rank of full Colonel in Army Intelligence. As Colonel Oliver North's bagman, he also couriered large amounts of cash in and out of the country'[42]. Carone was, however, ordered to perform these and related functions directly by the Director of Central Intelligence, William Casey, himself. And Casey was, as he himself acknowledged in his Affidavit, simply continuing clandestine operations that had been in train for many years previously, and which William Colby was still running, without the knowledge of the US President, Congress or even (as he affirmed) the US intelligence community itself, many years after he had ceased himself to be DCI.

Rodney Stich, as well informed on these matters as Uri Dowbenko, elaborated in his book 'Defrauding America' that 'Carone had complex relationships'. [He] 'was a member of the Gambino [Mafia] family', although as Casey's Affidavit text revealed, he was 'co-opted' into the Gambino family, the Author suggests, for operational intelligence reasons. Carone had 'connections to other crime groups in the eastern part of the United States' and was 'a detective on the New York vice squad, a member of the military and a CIA operative'[43]- an all-round criminalist intelligence officer, in fact. Colonel Carone's evidence, incorporated in William Tyree's massive Complaint, continued:

'Once Ronald Reagan became President, his old-time friend William Casey, the head of the CIA, was able to convince him to sign Executive Order 12333 into effect... which took the CIA out of [the] covert operations business... authorized the use of private assets/entities to be used by the National Security Council to conduct covert operations including the drug [smuggling]... Allowing private assets and entities to do the dirty work meant [that] the CIA could do whatever it wanted to do, in or out of the United States...'.

Of course, the CIA has always effectively been in that position; but there is no doubt that Executive Order 12333 'essentially privatised the CIA's drug-smuggling, making the Agency even more insulated from discovery of its criminal activities'[44] - or so, for a time, it was officially assumed. 'You had National Security Council staffers that were tied right into drug-trafficking themselves, like Ollie North. Hell, his diary had everything in it. Between his diary and your wife's [Elaine's] diaries, the whole thing is blown. Totally compromised', Carone reported to Tyree[45]. This special, Mafia-linked source in whom William Casey had placed so much trust at the outset of this disastrous series of manipulated misadventures, revealed the depths to which US intelligence had sunk - only to die suddenly, like so many other Iran-Contra whistleblowers. And as Carone further informed William Tyree, he 'had delivered [drug] money to the gangs because they were on the CIA payroll under Executive Order 12333, which allowed the CIA to hire outside sources to help the CIA perform their jobs' [as Carone, with his blinkered operative's vision, saw the situation - Ed.]. 'He had delivered money to the gangs because they transported the drugs across the United States, i.e., Atlanta, Norfolk, Philadelphia, New York and Boston'. CIA/DVD drugs, that is.

Colonel Carone also fingered George Bush Sr. and Bill Clinton as CIA operatives, not that these facts are anything new: the point is that Colonel Carone's Affidavit explicitly confirmed them: 'George Bush was CIA prior to the assassination of John Kennedy in 1963' and 'the Governor of Arkansas that looked the other way at Mena, Bill Clinton, was CIA back in the late 1960s'. Mena Airport was the CIA's drug transhipment airport, to which aircraft laden with cocaine flew in undetected (the Author uses the past tense only because later information is not available), assisted by the blinding by National Security Agency and Army Security Agency personnel of US early warning satellites and radar installations (Operations SEA SPRAY and JADE BRIDGE).

Carone further informed William Tyree, according to Tyree's Affidavit, that 'he had taken money to a female named Ruth Paine in late 1956 on orders from William Casey', an OSS-CIA operative as he states in his own Affidavit. Carone said that Paine was approached by the CIA to find and recruit an individual that was expendable [and] with Communist ties and some type of anti-American background.... Carone said that when Ruth Paine found the individual, she notified her CIA contact, identified as George De Mohrenschildt, who in turn contacted his CIA supervisor, identified as George Bush. Carone said that George Bush was the same George Bush that was CIA Director [sic]. Carone said the individual located by Ruth Paine was identified as a Mr Lee Harvey Oswald. FBI records/reports filed within 14 days after the assassination of President Kennedy will reflect that Mr George Bush met with J Edgar Hoover, as Bush was trying to ascertain what the FBI might have stumbled onto by mistake in regards to the Ruth Paine-Oswald connection'. These comments allude to the alleged involvement of German 'Black'intelligence in Kennedy's assassination.

The late Colonel Carone's sworn testimony, replicated in William Tyree's Complaint, which sheds such detailed light on the consequences of William Casey's controversial decisions - all justified, as Casey's Affidavit itself reveals, by what Uri Dowbenko described (aptly, in view of what follows in Chapter 6 on the Jesuits) as 'Jesuit casuistry' - revealed that Carone 'was a paymaster for both US Military Intelligence personnel and CIA personnel when Tyree knew and worked with him. He also worked as a representative of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International [BCCI] which he stated was a bank founded by the US Intelligence Community in part to finance covert (Black) Operations worldwide without the approval of Congress'. BCCI was closed down by US intelligence - after the bank's nefarious criminalist intelligence activities began to be exposed. Immediately ahead of its closure, the bank actually possessed assets of $17.0 billion, and liabilities of some $9.0 billion. Hence it was more than just solvent: it was cash-rich. The excess funds were embezzled or diverted by US intelligence.

'He (Colonel Al Carone) was authorized to withdraw funds from First American Bancshares (a.k.a. BCCI) account #2843900, which he stated was a 'Black Operations' fund unknown to the US Congress at the time' - consistently with Casey's Affidavit statement Carone elaborated that he was the middleman between certain CIA factions and certain Mafia families that operated illegal enterprises in New York City. Carone told the Plaintiff [Tyree] that the CIA used BCCI, BNL (Banca Nazionale del Lavoro), BCP and Intermaritime Bank to launder money for Black Operations worldwide and for the Mafia in New York City'.

Note the interesting reference to 'certain CIA factions', which reconfirms that the CIA is riven by internal frictions, rivalries, tensions and perverse loyalties to certain 'competing' 'barons' such as George Bush Sr., Hillary Clinton and Al Gore, who, in turn, may be beholden to foreign powers and elements of their intelligence services.

William Tyree's lawsuit then filled in these further dots:

'Colonel Carone said [that] the military drug trafficking Operation WATCHTOW-ER fit[ted] in the picture in the following fashion. Between 1971 and 1972 [sic], BCCI was conceived and born primarily as a bank for the US Intelligence Community to go around Congress in funding so-called 'Black Operations'. In December 1975, February-March 1976, Operation WATCHTOWER took place [sic] that brought over 100 military-style plane loads of cocaine out of Colombia into Albrook Air Station in Panama. In 1976, Arkansas businessman Jackson Stephens and Indonesian businessman Mochtar

Riady formed Stephens Financial Ltd in Hong Kong which led to a meeting of Stephens and Riady with members of the BCCI' [sic].

'In 1977, Jackson Stephens invited BCCI into America and helped BCCI bring about the purchase of First American Bancshares, operated by Clark Clifford and Robert Airman.... Jackson Stephens and Mochtar Riady were in business together and paid off politicians from Arkansas to look the other way and ignore the CIA cocaine operation at Mena, Arkansas. The Lippo Group, i.e. Mochtar Riady, had been involved with Bill Clinton since Clinton was Governor in Arkansas. Stephens, Riady and the CIA are in bed together. They own a lot of people. They have a lot of money. They get things done. I answer to Stephens indirectly. I answer to his money is who I answer to [sic], and so does everyone else at the CIA that wants to get things done where Stephens has influence'.

William Tyree's lawsuit, which was already 11 years old when this book was being finalised, further alleged that the criminalised intelligence thugocracy, or Illuminati mob, that have hijacked the US Government, has established its own parallel structures for overthrowing the US Constitution and imposing a coercive state.

With the assistance of the 9/11 'Reichstag Fire' provocation, the later establishment of the Department of Homeland Security, or Ministry of State Security, together with the passage of the original post-9/11 Patriot Act USA and subsequent legislation - including the National Intelligence Reform Act signed into law by President Bush Jr. on 17th December 2004 - a much denser superstructure of oppressive mechanisms and legislation has been grafted onto the original framework installed by elements of the US intelligence community to enable the Constitution to be scrapped, and the intelligence cadres that control the Government to seize absolute power, dispensing with the aggravation of constantly having to report to Congress. The obscenely delayed response to the Hurricane Katrina disaster in New Orleans and along the Gulf Coast, and the subsequent spin to the effect that local authorities are unable to handle disasters so that national 'solutions' are needed, was intended to provide the basis for a further 'giant leap forward' - as the 'coup d'etat by instalments', modelled on the Hitlerian precedent, forged ahead with apparent impunity. The breaches in the levees occurred several hours after the hurricane had vanished, suggesting prepositioned explosives; Amtrak and Greyhound Buses refused to assist in evacuations, suggesting that they were ordered not to participate; the so-called Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), now absorbed within the Department of Homeland Security, did nothing significant to assist the endangered population, until they graciously despatched a consignment of 25,000 body bags to the stricken area on 8th September; and the President at first praised the 'incompetent' Michael Brown, head of FEMA, before he was ordered a week later to return to Washington in disgrace. Rations diverted from the stocks of the British military, on being received in the United States, were commandeered by arrogant officials on the ground that they contained beef which had to be tested for contamination. Whereas the whole world was waiting to see pictures of relief being distributed to the traumatised residual population, all we saw was Nazi-style swat teams descending the escalator in the New Orleans Convention Center, and military convoys, ships (jamming electronic communications) and armed men descending on the place as though on some kind of macho 'high'.

Immediately following the commencement of hostilities in Iraq in March 2003, President George W Bush was seen on the White House video punching his hands into the air and exclaiming 'feels good, feels good' [see Addendum 4, page 681]. None of this 'feels' at all good to outside observers, let alone to unbrainwashed Americans.

As indicated, the Tyree Complaint referred specifically to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). The lawsuit alleged that FEMA, created by Executive Order, is illegitimate not simply because all Executive Orders may be illegal, but also 'since Congress had to approve FEMA for two specific reasons:

(1) FEMA is a vaguely written Executive Branch-created agency that has the power to suspend the US Constitution and put the Legislative and Judicial Branches of Government out of work [evidently Michael Brown was bewildered by the powers he could wield, or else a blazing row took place behind the scenes during the New Orleans fiasco, as a consequence of which he was made to look helpless - Ed.]

(2) FEMA is an Executive Branch creation that clearly affects all three branches of Government capable of silencing the voice of the people (i.e., Legislative) and the legal redress of the people (i.e., Judiciary)'.

FEMA: A COVERT MILITARY ENTITY FUNDED BY DRUG MONEY

According to the lawsuit, FEMA was initially funded by laundered drug money. The Plaintiff alleges that the defendants CIA and George Bush did intentionally engage in the complained-of conduct herein to conceal... the origins of FEMA, and that profits from drug trafficking by the CIA were used in some part to originally fund FEMA and the drafting of the FEMA infrastructure'. William Tyree's Complaint further stated that Colonel Carone had told him (the Plaintiff) that 'Colonel Ollie North worked on developing a plan known as FEMA, which would in an ill-defined national emergency, allow the US Military to take control of the United States to ensure national security' and that Colonel Carone had said that 'FEMA originally stood for "Federal Emergency Military Action" (i.e. Martial Law) but was retitled "Federal Emergency Management Agency" because it would be better received by the people of the United States' (a presentational and purely cosmetic adjustment). This would explain why little aid arrived in New Orleans (2005) for a week and why all we saw on TV were the images of military vehicles and personnel, and swat teams. Tyree's Affidavit elaborated separately that the late Colonel Carone had also claimed that 'he took drug profits that were clean and laundered in 1982-1984 to the following: NSC (National Security Council)' -Colonel Oliver North, who used the funds to create and develop FEMA' [sic].

So FEMA, at the epicentre of the post-Katrina storm in the United States, was established by CIA drug money. That figures. There are now 600-800 prison camps in the United States, with a particularly large such establishment in Alaska (see the partial list in Appendix 2 to Chapter 8, page 612). Until the third quarter of 2005, these camps, which were operated or to be operated by FEMA, were all staffed and even surrounded by full-time guards, but held few inmates, although some of them contained large numbers of prisoners. Under arrangements prevailing right through the New Orleans disaster phase (which Vice-President Richard Cheney called 'an exercise', when he said on 10th September 2005 that 'we are on top of this exercise' - meaning, that from the perspective of the coup d'etat by instalments, all was going according to plan), the camps were to be activated under Martial Law conditions. Since Martial Law was indeed declared, applicable to certain areas, following Hurricane Katrina 'exercise', some FEMA camps were activated accordingly. The significance of Mr Cheney's observation becomes evident in this context. So far as he and the hidden Illuminati controllers who have hijacked the US Government are concerned, the New Orleans catastrophe had tested the readiness of the concentration camp apparat which FEMA exists to operate. The name of this extremely sinister organisation, now incorporated under the control of the Department of Homeland Security (US Ministry of State Security), is deliberately misleading, as has been explained.

A large number of Presidential Executive Orders, now associated with FEMA, have been accumulated over three decades, which would enable the President of the United States to suspend the Constitution and the Bill of Rights at will. The main Executive Orders concerned are listed on page 605. One question, hard to answer at the time this book was being finalised, has been: what has interfered with the timetable of the coup d'etat by instalments? Why have there been so many instalments to date? What has been preventing the Illuminati from consolidating their gains and 'going all the way'? It is not as though the Executive Branch lacks the necessary powers to finalise the transformation of the United States into the Fourth Reich, as is intended, overnight. For instance, the Federal Government can take over all modes of transport and the control of highways, seaports and airports, can seize full control of the communications media, and can seize all electrical power, gas, petroleum, fuels and minerals. The authorities can grab all means of transportation, including personal cars, trucks or vehicles, and may, by Executive Order, impose total control over all highways, seaports and waterways. They can take over all food resources and farms and can mobilise civilians into work brigades under official supervision (Communist direction of labour). The Government can also immediately assume control over all health, welfare and education functions, while the Postmaster General is designated to operate a national registration system for all persons in the United States. Another Executive Order allows the Government to take over all US airports and aircraft, including commercial planes. The Housing and Finance Authority can, under Executive Order powers, relocate communities, build new housing with public funds, designate areas to be abandoned, and establish new locations for populations. The Government can take over all railroads, inland waterways and public storage facilities, while a separate Order specifies the responsibilities of the Office of Emergency Planning and gives authorisation for all Executive Orders to be put into effect simultaneously at times of increased international tension and economic or financial crisis. There is a special Order which allocates authority to the Department of Justice to enforce the plans set out in Executive Orders, to institute industrial support, to establish judicial and legislative liaison, to control all aliens, to operate penal and correctional institutions (the US GULAG), and to advise and assist the President in respect of these powers; and critical emergency preparedness functions are assigned to Federal Departments and agencies, with one Order consolidating 21 operative Executive Orders issued over a 15-year period.

And in a little-reported development, the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, which enables the US President to seize the property of a foreign country or national, and has been implemented in respect of Iranian, Cuban, Libyan, North Korean and Iraqi assets, has since 1979 been partly the responsibility of FEMA: in that year, these foreign asset seizure powers were transferred to FEMA in the course of a sweeping consolidation, although they have in practice been exercised by the Treasury.

So, the CIA-controlled pipeline of drug money is disgorging its contents, in part, into the bank accounts of the corporations that are engaged in the construction or upgrading of the US concentration camps, or have been so engaged in the recent past.

And what physical assets are historically associated with concentration camps? Obviously, death trains. An updated catalogue of the concentration camps - which are replicated in Canada, where virtually all military bases, especially those located north of the 50th parallel, are set up with concentration camps - is provided, as noted, on page 612. Details of what is known (in the public domain) of the US death and population transportation trains, all modelled on the Nazi precedent, are provided on page 602 et seq.. An Amtrak railcar repair facility in Marion County, Indianapolis, is reliably reported to have 3-4-inch gas mains leading to large furnaces (crematoria), helicopter landing pads, railheads for prisoners, Red/Blue/Green zones for the classification and processing of the incoming human beings, one-way turnstiles, barracks, towers, high fences topped with razor (barbed) wire, and an adjacent refrigeration plant facility for the bodies pending cremation. Separately, the Author was informed in September 2005 that a television film had been shown in Indiana, in which 21 local concentration camp facilities were identified, and in which scenes of people being forced into delousing and disinfecting areas were shown. Thereafter, the video stopped, with no explanation. The Author's source indicated that the reason the film stopped with the disinfecting operation was that, thereafter, the lives of the people in the film came to an abrupt end. It was not clear whether this represented an enactment, or was 'for real'. The 'mystery of iniquity' again.

The Author suspects, as do several of his advisers, that the US coup d'etat by instalments is far further advanced than is generally realised, and that it was, in the second half of 2006, by no means out of the question that 'Final Solution' operations were being reconsidered. A similar conclusion could be drawn from the unknown fate of large numbers of the poor Blacks who were were forcibly removed from New Orleans, in what appeared to be an outbreak of ethnic cleansing (sorry, Mr Cheney, it was an 'exercise').

Ghastly and shocking though these revelations are bound to be to any sane person, there is a great deal more evidence that the criminalisation of the US Government structures, consequent upon the Government having been hijacked by the Illuminati, may be almost beyond recall. As one US intelligence operative put it to one of the Author's US friends, 'they are out of the gate and can't go back'. But they can be fatally tripped up.

TELL-TALE CLUE OF ILLUMINATI PROVENANCE OF THE U.S. 'GULAG'

We are now able to link the Illuminati directly with FEMA and the concentration camps and death trains infrastructure. The highest 'Degree' of the sect of the Illuminati is entitled 'Rex'. This level of 'Illumination' represents the apex of the 'Greater Mysteries', and is superior to the rank or 'Degree' of 'Magus' [see Chapter 7 on the Illuminati: e.g., Figure 78, page 497]. Within the complex FEMA nexus of regulations and schemes is the 'Rex-84' Program, ostensibly established in part to exert control over any 'mass influx' of illegal aliens across the Mexican/US border. Under this plan, such hoardes would be rounded up and held in detention (= concentration) camps. It was under 'Rex-84' that the policy of closing down US military bases and converting many of them into concentration camps was initiated. Two sub-operations that are associated with 'Rex-84'are Operation Cable Splicer and Operation Garden Plot, which were to be implemented once the 'Rex-84' Program had been initiated for its original purpose (as probably occurred in the context of the New Orleans atrocity, but may have been happening earlier, as suggested above). Cable Splicer is a plan to procure the 'orderly takeover' of State and local governments by the Federal Government. FEMA was intended to be the executive arm of the planned US Nazi-style Police State, with a brief to head up all operations; but, as indicated, FEMA itself was subsumed within the Department of Homeland Security under George Bush II: so that, as the New Orleans event may have revealed, lines of communication may have become atrophied or severely compromised. At all events, the concentration (sorry, 'detention') camps have railroad facilities as well as roads leading to and from the detention infrastructures, while many also have an airport close at hand. Most of the concentration camps can house a population of 20,000 prisoners, with the largest concentration camp being based outside Fairbanks, Alaska. This is a massive 'mental health' facility, modelled along Himmlerian lines (but on a far larger scale), which is equipped to hold approximately 2 million people. Many of the camps are even referred to locally as 'Rex-84' camps - an example being a camp at Oakdale, 90 miles east of San Francisco, CA, which is capable of holding 20,000 people. While the majority of the US concentration camps were devoid of inmates as late as the first quarter of 2006, a number of camps were known to be heavily populated - an example being a renovated internment camp at El Reno, on Route 66, Colorado, which holds 12,000 inmates 'as we speak'. Camps holding ex-New Orleans residents were also said to be extensively in use.

Before continuing, it is appropriate to review the dynamic of the intended Fourth Reich, currently being haltingly constructed on the planned ruins of the United States, which appears to be well on track towards becoming the worst abomination in world history. A Government which, like that of the United States, has been so comprehensively compromised that its intelligence community is up to its neck in criminal operations, cooperative operations with the Mafia, and above all, drug-trafficking and distribution activities - and associated with which powerful individuals have enriched themselves, accumulating vast hidden financial power, including licence to order the liquidation, framing, incarceration, discrediting, or beating up of 'enemies', recalcitrant journalists, whistleblowers and others who stand up to their serial thuggery - will inevitably reach a 'tipping point' beyond which recovery from such institutionalised corruption becomes impossible. This is happening in the United Kingdom, as is evident from the Author's detailed observations, published in International Currency Review, of the institutionalised looting that is characteristic of the European Commission and its related structures, which has spread its corrupt way of life to all the EU 'Member States'.

HOW CRIMINALISM LEADS INEVITABLY TO AUTHORITARIANISM

The point is that it is though criminalisation - especially the universalisation of drug-trafficking and distribution, with its accompanying scourge of comprehensive financial corruption, and the accompanying decadence with which these evils are associated - that the safeguards against what is happening before our eyes in the United States are challenged, eroded, and finally openly dismantled, to the bored indifference of the majority of the (disenfranchised) electorate, with its one-track 'baseball game' mentality. It was disconcerting for the Author to be informed by a Belgian, long resident in the United States and married to an American, that 'the American people will just love the coming dictatorship. They are ideal fodder for this. In the United States, if you cross someone, you are quite likely to have your tires slashed, or to be subjected to other forms of wanton harassment, since these people cannot bear to be contradicted or told what they don't want to hear'. Of course, this is far from the mentality of the millions of Americans who understand, to a greater or a lesser extent, what lies in store, and who, in many cases, devote a considerable part of their waking hours to trying to alert their fellow citizens to what awaits them. But the assessment does not, unfortunately, diverge from the Author's own somewhat bitter experience.

Which takes us straight back to the Special Group, mentioned earlier, that functions 'below' the National Security Council but is actually (in a rather Leninist twist) superior to the NSC - the secret operations of which are not necessarily known even to the President of the United States, let alone to the US Congress. These glimpses of serial Hluminati criminalist abominations -just a selection from a colossal menu which would require several large volumes to describe - were originally justified, as we have seen, on the spurious, false and nonsensically cynical basis that it made perfect sense to sell drugs to Americans, in order to fight Communism. What this knowledge reveals to us is with what diabolical subtlety the Illuminati leveraged and exploited the dialectic of the Communist 'threat'. The late DCI, William Casey, motivated by the precedent established by William Colby, and by his intelligence associates of German background, was possibly naive enough to fall for the bait. Had he been in a position to apply appropriate standards, and had he seen through the deception, Casey would have ordered the clandestine drug operations in Latin America to be closed down.

As we shall see, the chief organiser of the cartels was actually a German agent working deep within the corrupted American intelligence structures, named Carlos Lehder. While, therefore, on the surface, with the benefit of intelligence divulged in the following pages, it would appear that the cartels were established by elements of the deeply corrupted US intelligence structures, the actualite was that a covert Nazi - working, the Author suspects, for the DVD, based at Dachau - was primarily instrumental, under higher alleged German assets (such as, allegedly George H. W. Bush Sr. and his henchman, Jim Baker), in setting up the Latin American cartels. Assuming this to be broadly correct, the DVD was engaged, together with its co-conspirators in Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) which works through the Americas Department of the Cuban Communist Party, in ensuring the long-term subversion of the United States and the terminal corruption of US intelligence and of the banking system. German and Soviet covert intelligence work together, representing the two blades of one operational pair of scissors [see page 629].

This leaves currently unresolved the allegiance of William Colby, who was responsible for facilitating the discrediting (unsuccessfully) of the genuine Soviet defector, Anatoliy Golitsyn, who revealed, in detail, the Soviet long-range revolutionary subversion strategy in his books 'New Lies for Old' and ''The Perestroika Deception'. Was he, like Edward Heath, Geoffrey Rippon, Roy Jenkins and the Dulles Brothers, a long-term German Abwehr/DVD agent? When Carlos Lehder was suddenly released and relocated not to Colombia, but to Germany, in 2000 [see page 156], his release from jail and relocation were arranged by former President Bush Sr.'s factotum, Jim Baker.

As has been seen, William Casey's rationale (Jesuit casuistry) was based upon the egregious lie that drug users consume toxic substances out of choice - whereas, after having succumbed to the initial temptation, their addiction drives their demand, which is met by supply: so that if the supply is absent in the first place, the initial temptation is not present, and the subsequent artificial demand cannot arise.

Ignoring the reality that drugs differ from all other commodities in that their consumption is driven by supply, not demand (a typically Satanic inversion), has led the United States, and much of the rest of the world, to the verge of a millennial crisis not only of governance, but also of modern society. The outcome is spreading lawlessness and the wholesale corruption of the collaborating international banking system. The end-result, that we are witnessing today, is the collapse of the Rule of Law.

HOW THE DIALECTIC MISLED EVEN THE UNITED STATES' TOP SPIES

The disturbing revelation so far is that the United States' top intelligence officers were so preoccupied with their opposition to Soviet Communism, that they lacked any understanding of the dialectical reality that the Cold War masked the lack of any discontinuity of long-range pan-German strategy. The Nazi Fifth Column inside the CIA specialised in exploiting the menace of Communism to disguise DVD strategy, predicting, for instance, a large Communist buildup in Latin America in the early 1970s. Operation WATCHTOWER was initiated to preposition drugs in Panama/Central America from South America, ostensibly to fund covert actions against the predicted Communist threat. The prediction became reality, and the flow of cocaine into the United States increased as a result of the prediction. Since the Vietnam experience, policymakers knew that it would be useless asking Congress to finance covert action in Latin America. An avenue needed to be established that took the CIA out of the picture, because the CIA was already busy fending off allegations of trafficking drugs out of Southeast Asia and Europe; and the CIA needed to avoid being seen to be tied into the Latin American cocaine trade. Operation WATCHTOWER generated vast quantities of cocaine which was meant to be sold to finance anti-Communist operations in Latin America because Congress had shut down general funding of anti-Communist activities in that region. Likewise, heroin trafficking had been undertaken by the CIA in Southeast Asia on the pretext of 'fighting Communism'. Nor did US intelligence, both military and 'civilian', develop and apply this diabolical strategy in any way half-heartedly - treating, and continuing to deal with, the American people with ruthless contempt. On the contrary, it is American intelligence - influenced and, as will be shown, led by German penetration agents - which, acting on the basis of the same instructions that were adopted by William Casey, was responsible for establishing the Colombian drug cartels, which the international general public has all along assumed to have been home-grown, self-standing organised criminal networks. Exposure of this abomination has, thanks to the CIA's control of the American media, and the fecklessness of elements of its British counterpart, been suppressed. Perhaps it was this particular abomination to which President George H. W Bush Sr. is reported to have referred when he made the apocryphal comment that 'if the American people knew what we have done, they would string us all up on lamp posts'. As the Author has observed elsewhere, stock market punters might be well advised to buy shares in their local street furniture manufacturer, as an unprecedented number of lamp posts will be needed in any overdue settling of scores with the mobsters who, under cover of their intelligence community and Illuminati backgrounds, have long since effectively torn up the American Constitution, destroyed the Rule of Law, and nullified the Bill of Rights.

Figure27: The late CIA DCI, William Colby, who was found drowned following a 'canoeing accident' in 1996, directed two super-secret drug operations in Latin America which have gravely destabilised the Republic.

On 17th April 2004, the Author, who was speaking by telephone from England to a contact in the United States, observed in a decisive manner that the staffs of US official structures that were engaged in drug-trafficking needed to be 'string up from lamp posts' - a remark intended to evoke the admission attributed to George Bush Sr.. The telephone line went dead. A few days earlier, the Author had been speaking transatlantically with another American friend on the same subject, commenting forcefully that one thing was certain: all who push drugs are engaged in creating hell on earth not least for their addict victims, and they themselves will all go to hell itself.

You guessed correctly. The transatlantic telephone connection went dead again. Obviously, the Dark Forces listening to the Author's telephone conversations don't like being reminded that they themselves are locked inside the fast train to hell.

THE C.I.A. HAS HISTORICALLY ALWAYS 'JUSTIFIED' ITS DRUG OPERATIONS

But of course, there has always been a 'rational' alibi to cover US intelligence drug-running operations. CIA criminalist operations proliferated up to 50 years ago in the shadow of the overt Cold War. By the 1980s, the CIA and its controlled cadres were engaged in a convoluted hidden drug-trafficking programme involving high-ranking La Cosa Nostra figures, the Gambino crime family, the Japanese Yakuza - with various associated cabals engaged in political intrigue at both the State and national levels - espionage, weapons technologies including trafficking in biotoxins such as the pathogen which produces mad cow disease (illuminating why the British authorities 'needed' to 'sacrifice' cattle some years ago on such a colossal scale, as they may have been combating 'blowback' against British intelligence), drug trafficking, money laundering and of course murder-for-hire. The CIA is the covert operations division of the US Executive Branch's foreign policy strategists, and has been engaged in multiple terrorist activities over the years: in fact, like the KGB, it has been described as a terrorist organisation.

Such abominable abuses of secret power were and remain possible not least thanks to the National Security Act of 1947 et seq., which can very accurately be described in combination as providing US intelligence, like its covert Soviet and Chinese counterparts, with carte blanche to perpetrate criminal operations and to rampage around the world implementing scams against foreign governments and selected individual targets, with impunity. In other words, US intelligence is covered by a 'crooks' charter' -supplemented by the geomasonic culture of omerta rooted in oaths taken by Masons at several stages of their progressive initiations - which end by not even excluding treason and murder from the obligation upon members of 'The Brotherhood' to protect each other against exposure of their crimes, including High Crimes and Misdemeanours involving the highest office-holders.

So incestuously intertwined have these geopolitical underworld covert criminalist intelligence operations become that it has even been known for 'rival' intelligence agencies to run drug rings within their competitors' intelligence communities. The deep penetration operations masterminded by Carlos Lehder appear to have been a case in point. Another such example of this concerns an Israeli intelligence officer known as Al Holbert, who in due course rang alarm bells by investigators who had not been aware of this evil man's background. Al Holbert was allegedly the king-pin behind a huge drug-running organisation functioning within the CIA called 'The Company' (not to be confused with the identical familiar term for the CIA).

Since interpenetration of 'rival' national (and domestic) intelligence agencies is the 'name of the game', it is hardly surprising that a corollary must be interpenetration of drug operations within the targeted intelligence communities. Since, by descending into the drug-trafficking gutter, intelligence communities compromise themselves irreparably, penetration is soon transformed, via 'rivalry', into (Satanic) cooperation.

ANOTHER 'SMOKING GUN' AFFIDAVIT IN WHICH THE U.S. GOVERNMENT'S CRIMINALITY IS EXPOSED

In the United States, insights into the cesspit of corruption that has engulfed the US structures as a consequence of the failure of the CIA to use a long spoon prior to supping with the Devil in its Illuminati incarnation, are frequently obtainable from open court records. The following Affidavit was distributed on 5th March 2005 by the activist Stew Webb on behalf of the wronged FBI Special Agent Richard Taus. It sheds further light on the culture of 'omerta' characteristic of gangland, of which elements of the US Federal Government are today so notoriously an extension. This gangland holds large numbers of political prisoners - intelligence officers and agents who have have refused to go along with the organised criminal behaviour of their Government.

AFFIDAVIT OF RICHARD M. TAUS

'I, Richard M. Taus, declare and state: I am a former Special Agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation assigned to the New York Field Office and the Brooklyn-Queens Metropolitan Resident Agency from July 1978 to November 1988. I was assigned to both the Foreign Counter-intelligence Division and the Criminal Division.

During this period, my investigations into these matters revealed criminal activities and operations which I reported and documented to my superiors in the FBI, as follows:

- The involvement of officials, agents and operatives of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) with organized crime members and drug-trafficking activities. And the participation of members of the CIA who engaged in the looting of the Savings and Loan (Thrift) Industries, financial scams and fraudulent securities transactions.
- The involvement of people from the National Security Agency Staff and Council and the White House in criminal activities associated with funding the acquisition of military supplies and equipment, arms and ammunition, which were referred to as the Iran-Contra Arms Initiative, known as Irangate, and the Iraqi scandal (Iraqgate).
- Associations between known and suspected members of the Mafia, and CIA agents in conducting drug-trafficking activities and financial frauds.

I was ordered by my supervisors in the FBI to halt these investigations, destroy my written reports, terminate my informants and make no reference to these criminal and subversive activities implicating high-ranking Government officials, politicians, Mafia and business leaders who controlled and manipulated Government agencies and operations.

Without any support from my superiors at the FBI New York Field Office, I then sent a letter describing what I had discovered in my official status as an FBI Special Agent, to the FBI Director, William Sessions, and this was ignored. I proceeded to write [to] Congressional officials, among them Senators Arlan Spector, Alfonse D'Amato, John Kerry and Congressman Norman Lent, Charles Schumer, and many others who were on both the Senate and House Intelligence Oversight Committees. None of the above officials or representatives provided any support or assistance in exposing the CIA-White House corruption and the obstruction of justice tactics by my FBI superiors.

My sole purpose in preparing this Affidavit, to be used by the former FBI Special Agent-In-Charge of the Los Angeles Field Office, SAC Ted Gunderson*, is to bring to justice the criminal and subversive activities that I and other Government agents and operatives have discovered during our official and Government-related duties.

I declare and affirm under penalty of perjury that these statements are true to the best of my knowledge and belief. Executed this 13th day of August 1997, in the County of Clinton, State of New York. Richard M. Taus'. ■

*The source, Stew Webb, stated on 5th March 2005: This is being released because Ted Gunderson, named in this Affidavit, has done nothing for Richard Taus', who remains in a Federal Prison. To remove operatives and agents who 'cause trouble', the Illuminati controllers are in the habit of causing their imprisonment on trumped-up charges, using false witness, or inducing lethal 'accidents'. Like the Mafia, which is an Illuminati invention.

THE COMPANY' [NO RELATION]

This organisation was initially exposed by The San Francisco Chronicle on 28th April 1982, under the heading 'STORY OF SPIES, STOLEN ARMS AND DRUGS'. It consisted of 'about 300 members, many of them former military men or ex-police officers with nearly $30 million worth of assets, including planes, ships and real estate'. The article elaborated that 'Federal drug agents said that the organization had imported billions of dollars' worth of drugs from Latin America, and was also involved in gun-running and mercenary operations'. Its specialised military equipment consisting inter alia of a TV camera for taking pictures during the hours of darkness, 1,500 rounds of small arms tracer ammunition for use in night combat, nine infrared sniperscopes, a remote-controlled helicopter, and secret components from the radar unit of a Sidewinder guided missile, which were stolen from a US Naval Weapons station in the Mojave Desert.

The San Francisco Chronicle obtained this and other related information after Mr Brian Leighton, a former Assistant US Attorney in Fresno, California, had been instrumental in facilitating the indictment of 29 members of 'The Company' in 1981. US Federal agents had reported to the Grand Jury examining the matter that the stolen equipment was going to be used to provide drug operatives with electronic equipment, with some of it being intended for trading to drug suppliers in Colombia. Among the 29 drugs and arms operatives indicted was a former US narcotics officer called Andrew 'Drew' Thornton, who was aged 40 at the time. Once again, the judicial system was having to examine a criminalist operation with nefarious intelligence connections.

On 13th September 1985, The LOS Angeles Times published a report on Thornton's death, entitled: 'FORMER NARCOTICS OFFICER PARACHUTES OUT OF PLANE, DIES WITH 77 POUNDS OF COCAINE'. The article said that Thornton had been indicted in 1981 (see above) for 'flying a plane to South America for a reputed drug ring known as The Company''.

Interviewed by The Los Angeles Times, Mr Leighton made the following understandably cynical comment: 'I'm glad his parachute didn't open. I hope he got a hell of a high out of that...'. Leighton subsequently went into private law practice.

Further public domain information concerning The Company' appeared in a now obscure book by Sally Denton called 'THE Blue Grass Conspiracy'. This book revealed that The Company's' base was located at Lexington, Kentucky, and that US prosecutors in Lexington, Fresno (Brian Leighton) and Miami had been cooperating in an operation to 'bring The Company down'. The San Francisco Chronicle noted that in January 1982, Gene Berry, a State prosecutor located in Charlotte Harbour, Florida, was shot in the face as he answered his door. Police subsequently arrested a certain Bonnie Kelly for Berry's murder. Bonnie's husband, Mike McLure Kelly (codenamed 'Gopher'), was a suspected member of 'the Company', who later pleaded guilty in the Fresno, California, case.

Significantly, the 'former' Israeli intelligence operative, more recently operating from Montreal, Ari ben-Menashe, lived for a time in Lexington.

Sources have advised this Author of the existence of a declaration by Mr William Hamilton, the inventor of the original PROMIS software (which reconciles conflicting software programs and can be used inter alia to hack into bank accounts) which contained inter alia the following statements:'... On or about April 3, 1991, I spoke by telephone with Mr Brian Leighton, an attorney in private practice in Fresno, California. He stated that during the 1980s, while serving as an assistant United States Attorney in Fresno, California, he had investigated a nationwide criminal enterprise known as 'The Company', which was engaged in illegal drug trafficking on a massive scale'.

AL HOLBERT, DOUBLE OR TRIPLE AGENT

In 1991 and 1992, coinciding with 'the changes' in the 'former' Soviet Union ('collapsible Communism'), a series of sudden violent deaths of US intelligence operatives, all connected with the 'Iran-Contra' affair (shorthand for a much broader secret nexus of off-balance-sheet intelligence operations) began. One of the very earliest victims was Alan Michael May, aged 50 - a former Northern California Field Director in Richard Nixon's Presidential campaign and the lawyer for Mr Nixon's brothers Donald and Edward (who was found dead in his San Francisco home on 19th June 1991). This was some four days after the 'Napa Sentinel' newspaper described May's role in the alleged plot by officials of the Republican Party to bribe Iranian officials to delay the release of US hostages until after President Reagan's inauguration in January 1981 (the operation known as 'The October Surprise'). Alan May was allegedly involved with a certain Al Holbert in 'the Company', described separately at the time by a concerned US intelligence source, as 'a current national security nightmare to this country'.

From such sources it has been possible to assemble certain intelligence about this Al Holbert. First, he was exceptionally interested in technology (i.e., accessing advanced US technology with a view to stealing such secrets for intelligence purposes). He had a firm grasp of physics, mathematics, chemistry and military hardware: in other words, from these multiple interests alone one could deduce that he was a military intelligence operative. Secondly, according to the US operative Mchael Riconosciuto, who knew and dealt with Holbert from 1961 to 1981, Holbert passed on secrets he obtained through his myriad contacts in the United States, to the Israelis. Thirdly, on arrival in the United States (year unspecified by the Author's source), Holbert went to work for the US Treasury in Philadelphia. A spokesperson for the Treasury confirmed that Holbert was 'involved at very high levels, giving special training'. So, is the US Treasury that criminalised?

Roconosciuto further elaborated: 'Al Holbert taught courses in interrogation techniques. He also taught touchkill techniques, you know, with the thumbs on the temples and various scary areas like that. He moved around to a lot of different (US) agencies. He got involved with the FBI and he was involved with the Drug Enforcement people'. Notwithstanding these myriad penetrations, he told Riconosciuto throughout his 15-year acquaintance that he worked for the Israelis.

However other US intelligence officers had been curious, not to say suspicious, of Holbert for a long time. When pressed about the possibility of Holbert having been a double agent, Riconosciuto replied, in the course of a debriefing:

'Well, he was with the Soviets, but he was also with the Israelis. Holbert definitely is connected with Israeli intelligence. I mean, there's no ifs and buts, or maybes... He was decorated in combat for them'.

Michael Riconosciuto travelled to Israel, where he met an official who was the Deputy Israeli Defence Minister for a number of years, in charge of defence production, a friend of Ariel Sharon. It was through this official, and a General Peratt, that Riconosciuto reconfirmed Al Holbert's position with the Israelis. Riconosciuto is on record as having told US intelligence (which he also served) that 'Holbert is definitely one of their boys. I got an admission out of General Peratt that Al Holbert was... a Trotskyite, and they knew about it; and I couldn't understand why they kept a guy like that around. I was told that I just didn't understand the ways of the world'.

This is a familiar intelligence operative put-down. In this context, what was intended to be meant here was that Riconoscuito didn't understand the dialectical method, whereby both dimensions of conflict are managed and macro-controlled by a common manipulative source, from above (cf. the 'scissors strategy': pages XXXIII and 629). However Riconosciuto knew much that was of interest to his interlocutors, including the fact that Holbert reported to one Jean-Pierre Boegner, a French operative, whose address was the extremely expensive one of 114 Champs Elysees, Paris 8ieme, France.

According to another key source, Jean Pierre Boegner reported directly to Colonel Stefan Uznanski of Ukraine, a very senior KGB (not GRU) officer. This would make sense, because although the GRU (Soviet Military Intelligence) plans and directs the Soviet dimension of the drug offensive against America and the West, the KGB handles all the financial arrangements.

Uznanski was based in Vienna and Salzburg. Boegner served time in a French jail following one of the assassination attempts on General de Gaulle. Riconosciuto eventually discovered from Holbert that he was also a Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) officer, and that he had bragged that there were (in the mid-1990s) over 35,000 GRU agents active on the North American continent. According to US operatives working with the CIA-linked Wackenhut Corporation, the actual number at that time was about 50% lower - still a colossally high and disturbing number, implying that there was no barrier to these Soviet operatives entering the United States. That is consistent with what is known about the Soviets' 'criminalism offensive' against the United States and the West, based on boasts by senior 'post'-Soviet officials that the West was being flooded with criminalists from the Soviet Union and from all over Eastern Europe. Riconosciuto added: 'You know, he's touched the Central Intelligence Agency, the Treasury Department, the US Secret Service and various local law enforcement agencies all over the country'.

SOVIET DRUG OPERATIONS CONDUCTED FROM WITHIN THE CIA

Does this outline information represent just evidence of Soviet penetration of US intelligence, or was Al Holbert at one stage essentially running 'The Company' or certain of its key operations, from within US intelligence, while at the same time serving the Israelis and the GRU? Sophisticates imply that drug and related criminalist operations are now, and have been for perhaps two or three decades, a 'free-for-all' sphere of activity in which the criminal intelligence classes of key drug-peddling countries and regions like the 'former' Soviet Union, Bulgaria, China, Germany, France, Spain, Israel and the United States collaborate, compete and are integrated with, either their own domestic or else foreign intelligence cadres - so that it has ceased to make sense to interpret these appalling developments as indicative of power struggles between nation states, since the drug and related criminal businesses have all been comprehensively internationalised. They ignore all national borders. For instance, cooperation between criminalism operatives of US and Israeli intelligence can be traced back to the assistance provided to the CIA by the (Jewish) Meyer Lansky crime syndicate from Chicago, with which the CIA was cooperating from an early stage of its existence. The Lansky Syndicate reportedly set up international drug-running operations from Southeast Asia through the CIA-linked Corsican Mafia in the Mediterranean. The resulting lucrative joint Lansky-CIA international drug racketeering operations thrived against the background of deep US involvement in Southeast Asia, which was itself a perverse cover for US intelligence drug-smuggling activities: and since the Vietnam War years, the CIA has been at the forefront of heroin and cocaine trafficking globally.

Concerned observers will doubtless ask: what is the extent to which these activities represent official policy? We know that the ongoing covert Soviet drug offensive against the West is official policy (sabotage). So, does the United States pursue a countervailing or similar strategy? The answer is that US intelligence has been criminalised since the Second World War, and that one of the 'justifications' it uses to 'rationalise' this behaviour is precisely that the United States has no choice, because 'everyone else is doing it'. As has already been discussed, this 'line' is immoral and intolerable. A so-called Great Nation like the United States should have the guts to suppress its own drug-running operations, to announce this to the whole world, and then to warn other countries' intelligence services that the writing is on the wall for them, as well. To continue in thrall to the blanket corruption and associated blackmail arising from its intelligence community's descent into the gutter will result in the destruction of the Republic. Unfortunately, the grip of the German Fifth Column/Illuminati on the US intelligence and official structures is so comprehensive that this outcome seems almost inevitable. As an example of the use of drugs for political purposes by the United States, it is thought in this context that Turkey has long been a key route through which US intelligence-linked operatives have been filtering drugs into the 'former' Soviet space. Public domain information exists to the effect that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) 'inadvertently' uncovered the colossal CIA drug trafficking scandals. However the FBI is subordinated to the CIA, which is in turn subordinated to the National Security Agency (NSA) and, after Mr Bush Jr. signed the National Intelligence Reform Act on 17th December 2004, to the Director of National Intelligence, the first holder of that new post being John Negroponte. The frustration of honest FBI agents is evident from open intelligence concerning one or more FBI Affidavits in support of applications to intercept wire communications, in order, according to one of these FBI Affidavits, to determine 'source, type and quantity of narcotics/controlled substances, methods and means of delivery, and the source of funding for purchasing narcotics/controlled substances'. The relevant intercepts were to be implemented in respect of a number of very well-known CIA operatives and their superiors. The resulting intercepted communications read like a 'Who's Who' of US organised criminal intelligence.

OPEN DATA ON U.S. OFFICIAL DRUG-RUNNING

Mr Ron Rosenbaum, the investigative reporter who has written for Vanity Fair, reported some years ago in one of his articles, on Gilberto Rodriguez Orejuela, head of the Cali drug cartel, who was 'deeply involved with Michael Abell, formerly of the US Department of Defense'. Copious notes for a proposed book by Danny Casarolo, the journalist murdered by the familiar Illuminati means of poison and whose death William Hamilton has said was related to his investigation into the linked PROMIS software scandal, were deposited by his brother, Dr Tony Casarolo, with the Western Historical Manuscript Collection at the University of Missouri. According to a graduate student who examined the notes, they focused on a cabal of leading US intelligence operatives, one of whom was identified as Glen Shockley, a CIA contract employee who allegedly ran 'Jose Londono' of the Cali Cartel. This information is derived from a taped interview with Michael Riconosciuto conducted by US Government agents while he was negotiating for inclusion in the Witness Protection Program.

If US intelligence operatives were 'running' Cali Drug Cartel operatives, does it not follow that the Cali Cartel, the Medellin Cartel, and other such drug-running organisations in Latin America may actually have been (and their replacements or successors today actually are) operations of US intelligence? It has been confirmed to us at the highest level that this is indeed the case. The Colombian cartels were established by US intelligence. But behind this operation, at least one notorious German (DVD) operative has been identified. And as will be explained when we examine the Illuminati sect in detail, global drug-trafficking is the Illuminati's main speciality, together with prostitution, human trafficking, and other abominations of this nature.

Gilberto Rodriguez Orejuela was arrested, along with a certain Jorge Luis Ochoa, the notorious drug runner, in Madrid, a European centre of Illuminati drug ops., and extradited to Colombia in the mid-1980s. Rodriguez Orejuela was kept in jail in Cali, of all places, for a full year. Other inmates ran errands for him and the prison director referred to him as Don Gilberto. His cell resembled a hotel suite, as he was allowed to equip it with whatever luxuries he chose. On an occasion referred to as the Day of the Prisoner, it was Sr. Rodriguez Orejuela himself who hosted a huge party away from the prison - attended, among others, by the State Governor.

When his trial eventually took place, it was a farce, the main witness against him being a lowly US Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) agent who did not speak fluent Spanish. He was accordingly provided with an official interpreter who did not speak fluent English. She found it impossible to convey the details of his evidence, and the agent spent much of his time on the witness stand with his face buried in his hands, poor man, attempting to contain his disbelief. The trial was not even held in the courtroom itself, but rather in the Judge's office, which was so overcrowded that it could barely hold the participants, let alone representatives of the press and television who travelled to Cali from Bogota. The local media wholly ignored the trial.

During the trial hearing, Rodriguez Orejuela even directed the television crews as to when they could and could not run their cameras. His first decision each day was to choose the menu for lunch, whereupon, as befits a Mafia boss, he would instruct one of his many attending aides what to buy. At lunchtime, the improvised courtroom was turned into a canteen and Rodriguez Orejuela would invite the Judge to join him, an invitation that His Honor was careful not to decline, for fear of his life.

TYPICALLY FARCICAL ACQUITTAL

In July 1987, Rodriguez Orejuela was acquitted of all the charges that had been brought against him. This meant that not only was he a free man in Colombia, but he was further immune from extradition to the United States on the original charges. In any case, by then the reconstituted Colombian Supreme Court had decided, by a single vote, that Colombia's extradition treaty with the United States was unconstitutional.

The Colombian Government of the day subsequently attempted to repair the flaws in the legislation underlying the treaty, but in June 1987, the Supreme Court rejected it for a second time. All-night parties were celebrated that very night in Medellfn, Cali and Bogota. As one observer in Medellin put it, 'they celebrated the news as they do when they crown (drug world jargon for 'successfully complete') a trip. For them, it was the best crowning they ever had'. In the present context, it appears that Rodriguez Orejuela's trial was a farce because he was a key asset of US intelligence, with which he was cooperating and who were 'running' him, meaning that his operations were actually drug operations of US intelligence. In the interests of fairness, though, it is necessary to mention in passing that justice in Colombia in those days (and probably still today) was/is a farce generally. This is odd, because suburbs of Bogota look exactly like, say, Weybridge, in Surrey, England - with ersatz Tudor-style houses and English-style gardens that seem to have been lifted straight out of prosperous London suburbs. The reason for this state of affairs is that Bogota's plusher suburbs were built in the 1930s by builders who used UK housing plans, reflecting the extensive British influence in Colombia (something that comes as a surprise to many). Given this influence, it is very curious that the British do not appear to have succeeded in implanting in Colombia the standards, or anything at all approaching the standards, applicable to the pre-E.U. British system of justice.

Middle class Colombians are sophisticated and highly critical of their own country, although they routinely use the standard excuse that there's nothing wrong with the drug business because it just meets demand - whereas of course, as discussed, drugs are the one commodity in the world that depend for their sales figures on supply, not demand. If the supply is cut off, demand falls away (admittedly leaving existing consumers suicidal, but at least more liable to survive). Colombian lawyers, asked for their opinions of the local criminal justice system, are often brutally candid. For example:

THE CORRUPT COLOMBIAN LEGAL NON-SYSTEM

In the 1980s, two British reporters were taken on a tour of Bogota's courts. They duly found out that the Colombian court and justice systems are 'a joke'. 'The prosecutor, sporting an open collar shirt, swivelled in his chair, smoking a cigarette and drinking soda from a bottle. The three-member jury looked aimlessly at the ceiling with no apparent interest in the arguments of one of the defence lawyers, whose table was partially covered by half-eaten sandwiches. The defendant paid no attention to the proceedings whatsoever, while his relatives chatted loudly among themselves and exchanged luncheon snacks. "And this is a showpiece", explained our knowledgeable guide'.

'In cases like these, we were told, juries almost inevitably vote for acquittal - for fear that if they don't, they will be the next victims. The judges share that fear. "They don't make enough money to live decently, they don't make enough to buy a car, they are not important enough to deserve decent protection", said our guide. "If you want to see the bottom line, go along to one of the office bathrooms" (American euphemism for toilet); "there is no toilet paper, no soap, no towel. Under those circumstances, who isn't going to have a price?"'

The Colombian drug capo, Carlos Lehder, of crucial significance, as already indicated, did not get off so lightly after he was captured, although his capture had momentous consequences very much later. In late January 1987, a man walked into the office of a high-ranking local police officer in Medellin and asked how much reward he would receive if he told the authorities where to find 'one of the capos you're looking for'. He was told that although the Colombian Government had approved the payment of rewards for information, there was, as yet, no budget to finance them. So the man walked out of the Police Station, saying: 'I won't tell you, then. Think about it, and I'll call you in a few days'.

When he duly returned, he was informed that the Colombian Government had still not been able to provide any money for such rewards, but that the US Embassy in Bogota was willing to pay $50,000 for reliable information.

For that amount, the informant disclosed where Carlos Lehder was hiding, but did not name him. At dawn on 4th February 1987, Major William Lemus of the Rionegro Police and 35 police officers raided a residence in the small town of Guarne, located about 20 miles from Medellin. A startled guard opened fire with a machine gun, but dropped the weapon and ran, as soon as he saw the uniforms. A dozen young men, all in their underwear, emerged from the residence and also tried to escape, but Major Lemus threatened to shoot them. Then Lehder, who now appeared at the doorway, announced: 'Hold your fire please. I'm Carlos Lehder'. Whereupon Lehder and his young men (hireme?) posed for a photograph, as though they were victims of some practical joke, while Lemus called his superiors in Medellin and announced: 'The Virgin has smiled on us. We have captured Carlos Lehder Rivas'.

According to the received version of the events which followed, the police called the Mayor of Medellin, who telephoned the Minister of Defence in Bogota. As a result, at 10.45 that morning, the President of Colombia asked the Minister of Justice whether Carlos Lehder could be extradited immediately to the United States. Before noon, a US Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) plane was on its way from Florida. In the afternoon, Lehder was taken to Bogota by the Colombian Air Force and at 5.07pm he was placed aboard the DEA's Turbo Commander. Before midnight, less than 18 hours after his arrest, Lehder was already incarcerated in a US jail in Tampa, Florida. All the usual procedures and international rules had been disregarded.

Subsequent reports from Colombia suggested that the Medellin Cartel and its extended family were perfectly content that Lehder had been removed from their midst. The other drug king-pins were thereafter allowed to live in comparative peace.

Why were the Colombian king-pins so satisfied with this state of affairs?

GERMAN-COLOMBIAN PARENTAGE

At the time of his deportation, Carlos Lehder Rivas was worth up to $3.0 billion, of which only $2.0 million was subsequently traced. Bear in mind that the CIA 'contract' employee, Glen Shockley, as we have seen, allegedly 'ran Jose Londono' of the Cali Cartel. In 1992, in exchange for his testimony against Manuel Noriega, an asset of US intelligence (who had decided that he wanted a larger cut from US drug operations) and originally a subordinate of Sr. Lehder, the American authorities reduced Lehder's publicly announced sentence from life plus 135 years, to 55 years (for public consumption). The original prosecutor of Lehder, Robert Merkle, later complained that Lehder's special treatment in prison, and the reduced sentence, together with alleged protection for him and his family in the United States, represented a travesty of the so-called Witness Protection Program.

'First of all, Lehder's testimony was entirely gratuitous and unnecessary for a conviction of Noriega. Secondly, they gave a deal to the guy who was directing the bad activities, to convict someone who was following directions'. In other words, with respect to drug operations, Carlos Lehder Rivas was the capo and Noriega -who at one stage angered the CIA by advising them not to transfer arms to the Nicaraguan Contras in exchange for drugs - was indeed his subordinate. Which, in translation, meant that Noriega was originally 'run' by Carlos Lehder.

According to his legend (which means that the information may be inaccurate), Lehder was born in the United States of a German father (Wilhelm) and a Colombian mother. Given the very extensive penetration of the Central Intelligence Agency, over several generations, by Germans, Sr. Lehder was clearly 'suitable material' for CIA recruitment - especially as he started his criminal life as a low-level drug dealer in Mchigan, home of many notorious drug Mafia Illuminati families, and whence the similar low-life perpetrator, 'Mike' Delmart Vreeland, also emerged from the underground into the intelligence community [see details of his findings implicating Uday Hussein in 9/11, Figure 24, pages 96-97]. Another prominent, and ruthless, operative of German extraction was the CIA Director of Operations - the previously mentioned German-American named Lyle Edward Goeringer, who called himself Paul K. Bryan. This senior official was involved inter alia in extensive financial money-laundering transactions through the European Union Bank in Anguilla, established by the key KGB operative and one-time junior Gorbachev Minister, Mikhail Khodorkovsky: see Addendum 7, page 701].

After doing time for a drug-related car theft, Lehder (according to the version of his life promulgated for public consumption), 'decided to seek his fortune in Colombia'. In reality, after surviving for a time as a car dealer, being a German Illuminati offspring he was recruited into, or penetrated, the US intelligence community - elements of which typically seek out such corrupt personnel from the low-life criminal communities - and was despatched to Colombia to establish new US detection-free secure drug-trafficking arrangements. It seems highly unlikely that a low-life Michigan car dealer would have been entrusted with the responsibility of establishing a network of drug cartels, which is an extremely demanding brief; and much more likely that this man was a German intelligence asset fully trained for the task he was to be required to undertake.

Carlos Lehder duly inaugurated, on behalf of his overt US intelligence superiors, efficient, high-tech arrangements for the mass distribution of drugs into the United States - thus declaring war against all Americans. Police officers in New York City have told contacts of ours that they know perfectly well that elements of the US Federal Government machinery (namely, cadres within the intelligence communities) are keen to maximise opportunities to generate hidden illegal profits from mass drug transactions, the proceeds being used to mmimise the CIA's dependence upon the Congress for funding, and also to enrich individual operatives wherever possible.

U.S. DRUG OPERATIONS DESTABILISE COLOMBIA

At the southernmost tip of the Bahamas, now an independent country, Lehder found a remote landing strip (Norman Cay). He secured the strip by bribing local Bahamian officials and terrorising its neighbours. Lehder then established a conveyor-belt system, with jets arriving at Norman Cay loaded with cocaine, for offloading and then reloading onto smaller planes for despatch into northern Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas (home of the central location of Scottish Rite American Freemasonry).

At the time, the uninvolved elements of the US authorities were watching only the country's southern borders, so aircraft that arrived at different points well north of the border were not under surveillance. The first load that Lehder shipped in 1982 yielded $1.0 million profit for two days' work. Having tested the new arrangements, Lehder, secretly pursuing and implementing the CIA's strategy, proceeded to talk the other local drug lords into establishing a cooperative, which developed into the Medellin Cartel. At the peak of the Cartel's power, a jet loaded with up to 300 kg of cocaine arrived every hour at the Bahamian airstrip. By the early 1980s, Lehder operated 15 cars and trucks, three aircraft, a helicopter, 12 haciendas, an apartment building and nine other properties, including a huge Bavarian-style tourist complex in Armenia City, Colombia, together with drug assets everywhere.

As in the Soviet Union, when US intelligence operatives become excessively greedy and forget who they are supposed to be working for, they are typically cut down to size. In Lehder's case, the primary problem was that the violence he spawned was disproportionate, and furthermore left the US intelligence community in serious danger of reprisals ('blowback') from Colombia - which would have been inconvenient, given the country's reserves of oil and of course its endless pipeline of supplies of drugs which provides the colossal hidden reserves of the CIA with constant replenishment. Yet the American authorities never charged Lehder with murder - merely with drug dealing and money laundering - even though acts of violence conducted on Lehder's behalf were documented in a US Federal detention order compiled in 1987.

Specifically, the US authorities stated that Lehder and others were responsible for assassinating the Colombian Justice Minister in 1984; for the armed attack in 1985 on the Colombian Supreme Court building that killed 11 justices and 84 others; for the assassination of two newspaper editors in Colombia and 26 other journalists; for the shooting of Colombia's Ambassador to Hungary in 1987; and for a long list of murders of street police officers, informants and Colombian Government officials.

Given this murderous litany, it ought to strike anyone who is not sitting on their brains, as astonishing that Carlos Lehder Rivas was not retained in Colombia, tried for all these dreadful crimes, and executed. The reason this did not happen was that Lehder was a key US intelligence operative, and his services might be required by the criminal elements of the US Government at a later date: which they were.

LEHDER CONTACTS HIS SUPERIORS

Despite his integration within US intelligence, Carlos Lehder considered his own self-acquired power to be so great that at one stage he threatened to kill one US Federal Judge every week if he was ever caught. This threat, typical of an operative with the mentality of a Nazi, prompted US officials to put narcotics agents, their families and other officials on worldwide alert after his arrest. During Lehder's trial in 1988, US Marshals were parked outside the homes of prosecutors and other agents involved in Lehder's case.

Why did the US authorities react in such an extreme manner to this man's odiously threatening behaviour, which they should never have tolerated? The answer to this question is that, although he was regarded as extremely dangerous, not least because of everything he knew about nefarious US drug-running operations out of Latin America, Lehder was a covert foreign operative who exercised control and power as a consequence of his status vis-a-vis Illuminati colleagues at high levels within the US intelligence and other structures. He qualified for special treatment, and his power had to be respected. When he uttered that threat, the US authorities knew that he was ruthless enough to carry it out, and had supporters in high places who would or might cover up for him. Because of this status, the Government established a deal with Lehder from the very outset of his incarceration. Instead of being held in Florida where he was to be tried, Lehder was housed in a two-cell unit at the US penitentiary at Marion, Illinois, and was provided with a telephone, as well as many other conveniences.

Once ensconced there, he used his leverage within the US intelligence community to contact aides to George Bush Sr., the alleged DVD king-pin, whose hand has allegedly been seen in all these events from the assassination of President John F. Kennedy onwards. During the following 18 months, senior FBI, CIA and other investigating agencies interviewed Carlos Lehder in the comfort of his prison cell.

But Robert Merkle, the prosecutor, knew nothing of these contacts with the US intelligence community. Although Lehder boasted of possessing sensitive information about corrupt governments throughout Central and South America and the Caribbean, Lehder testified only in the case of Noriega - and, as Merkle said, his testimony was wholly superfluous, contributing nothing of relevance to the Prosecution's case.

In the autumn of 1995, Lehder complained that he was the victim of a double-cross. In a letter he wrote to US District Judge William Hoeveler of Miami, who had presided over the Noriega case, Lehder asked to recant his testimony because he said that the US Government had reneged on a deal whereby his sentence would have been reduced further - to 30 years. Such a sentence reduction would have made him eligible for extradition to Colombia or Germany. Within weeks of that letter being sent, according to several protected witnesses consulted by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette for an article published on 26th May 1996, Lehder was whisked away into the night. Consulted by the newspaper, neither Colombian nor German officials said they knew where he was.

Robert Merkle is on record as saying that 'I know that Lehder, right after he was arrested, tried to cut a deal directly with [former Vice-President George H. W.] Bush and the FBI.... There's a lot of stuff that went on that was very questionable. I have been speculating for years that Lehder was free but I figured he'd be in Germany or a tax haven with his money, which he still has. One of the major things that was agreed in terms of indicating that he made a deal, was that Lehder wasn't required to turn over assets'. In 1996, Merkle had commented publicly that Lehder 'received a very large quid for a very small quo'. Why wasn't Lehder required to disgorge his drug proceed assets?

Because he was an intelligence officer controlled ultimately by Germany's ultra-covert continuing Nazi International intelligence service, DVD. Carlos Lehder was an Illuminati operative whose true allegiance was to Germany, not the United States.

U.S. TREASURY CONFIRMS LEHDER'S 'OVERT' STATUS

A certain glamorous operative, Coral Talavera Baca, who ostensibly became Lehder's wife, was reported in a US Treasury document compiled by a Secret Service agent to have begun hiding Lehder's financial assets when aged 23 in 1987, the year that Lehder was captured - inter alia in a Bohemian company called Capital Investment Group (CIG). The Treasury report also stated that Carlos Lehder was an employee of the US Treasury, and a free man. The US analyst/investigator Michael Ruppert later discovered that Talavera was employed by the American International Group (AIG), the huge and since scandal-ridden US insurance group, at Two Rincon Center, San Francisco.

The American insurance industry is notoriously corrupt and is believed to be in receipt of vast inflows of laundered drug money annually. The biggest supplier of funds and controller of this industry in the United States and overseas is allegedly the so-called super-stock market guru, Warren Buffett, who allegedly launders funds inter alia for clients known as the 'hofjuden', or highly placed Jewish/Khazar wealth-holders.

On 11th September 2001, Buffett was at a business meeting convened at Offutt Air Force Base, to which location President George W. Bush Jr. was flown in Air Force One, after he had finished reading that notoriously occultic story about a goat to some schoolchildren. Offutt is the base at which the President of the United States has access to certain crucial operational facilities. AIG has had close ties to the Central Intelligence Agency since the 1950s. One can draw one's own conclusions.

AIG has also been linked closely with the long notorious Arkansas Development Financial Authority (ADFA) and Goldman Sachs, headed by Mr Robert Rubin, later US Treasury Secretary under President Clinton. During the 1990s, Goldman Sachs and the allegedly corrupt Harvard Endowment Fund channelled vast resources (as much as $300 billion) to Russia. On 1st December 1987, Goldman Sachs distributed a confidential Memorandum concerning the projected establishment offshore, in Barbados, of a reinsurance company (yet another prospective laundering vehicle) called Coral Re, using the first name of the glamorous beauty and operative who became Lehder's wife. All potential investors, including Ruppert says, the State of Arkansas' ADFA, were requested to return or destroy the Memorandum if they were not intending to take part. Coral Re was an offshoot of AIG, and of course ADFA was at the centre of numerous allegations of money-laundering operations connected with the Mena Regional Airport (Arkansas) drug delivery centre associated with the Iran-Contra series of interlinked covert intelligence programmes in the 1980s. Maurice Greenberg, now the ex-Chief Executive Officer of AIG, had been a candidate for appointment as the CIA's Director of Central Intelligence in 1995, revealing his importance as an alleged money-launderer for the intelligence community. Indeed, it has hardly been necessary for the covert Soviets to despatch their criminalism operatives into Western structures in order to corrode and collapse them from within, since the corrupted CIA has been doing just that for years.

EVIDENCE OF SOVIET CONNECTIONS

Ruppert, who is former policeman with a generally respected investigative record, and is probably an operative himself (so that what he reports has to be put through a counterintelligence wringer before being considered 'reliable'), reported in 2001 that he personally investigated Capital Investment Group (CIG) in San Francisco, and established from the entity's corporate filings that the company had been located at 601 Gateway Boulevard near San Francisco Airport until their filings ceased in 1997.

Michael Ruppert further reported that he had personally 'poked around' the building until he could find someone on the building staff who had been there in the mid-1990s. 'Oh yeah', said one of the building's employees, 'the Russians. There was Boris and Vladimir and Natasha. They treated the eighth floor like it was Russian territory.... They had so many extensions running and so many computers going that they blew the fuses in the building six times. Everybody was complaining about them. They left us in 1996, I think. I have no idea where they went after that'.

LEHDER FUNDS TO PAY OFF THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE

In April 2005, an impeccably knowledgeable US source informed the Author that when Al Gore alighted from a limousine in 2000 convinced that he had won the Presidential Election that year, he was staggered to be informed by a senior representative of the Democratic National Committee (DNC) that, no, there had been a computer glitch, and his victory was far from assured.

The source informed us that James Baker HI had allegedly been in touch with Carlos Lehder in jail, and had requested that he hand over a large sum of money immediately, in exchange for his freedom. It transpired that Lehder procured $40 million from a bank, on being driven there, of which some $8.0 million was allegedly deployed to pay off officials for them to erase all trace of Lehder having ever been at the prison facility in question, while $32 ($32.2?) million was allegedly transferred, not to Al Gore, but to the Democratic National Committee. Carlos Lehder Rivas was then conveyed to Germany.

It is clear, therefore, that Lehder was (is) a German DVD operative who worked within the corrupted US intelligence community, to establish key drug distribution networks as official US covert policy in Latin America, ostensibly on behalf of the Illuminati, providing as always cover for the DVD. Like a number of operatives who have been working 'inside' the US intelligence community - since one consequence of interpenetration is that 'we are all good friends now' - Lehder may have had a STASI (East German) controller or handler. But the STASI, too, have all along provided cover for the Nazi International's secret 'Black' intelligence service, based at Dachau, the DVD.

In his 'Prison Note' [reproduced on page 97] the Office of Naval Intelligence officer 'Mike' Delmart Vreeland incorporated the following cryptic remark: 'No comments on Lehder - No thank you. No comments'. His Note was prepared for submission to his superiors in a 37-page report in which he intended to indicate what he would reveal in exchange for US intervention to procure his release from custody, freedom to live in his own apartment in Ottawa, and a new ID. It will be recalled that Lehder started his criminal existence as a small-time drug dealer in Michigan, the same area from which the very similar character Vreeland emerged.

Vreeland's unexplained comment about refusing to answer any questions that might be put to him about Carlos Lehder begs a sizeable number of questions, and if Lehder's legend is based on fact could also be related to the possibility that the two may have known each other or even collaborated in Michigan in their early years, so that Vreeland would have been well aware how dangerous Lehder was and is. But the Author discounts this interpretation, in favour of the likelihood that Vreeland, who is from a long-established US-Dutch Illuminati family, knew whom Lehder really worked for, and understood his importance to the Dluminati and thus to German 'Black' intelligence. Vreeland's generational Illuminati family background would explain his reluctance to be interrogated on drug-running issues connected with Carlos Lehder's operations in Latin America, since Vreeland's speciality seems to have been the 'former' USSR. His reluctance to talk about Lehder also suggests his knowledge of links between Lehder's former activities and not only German 'Black' intelligence, but also Soviet Military Intelligence, which is known to have been penetrated by the Abwehr/DVD. The Russian language note, surfaced by Vreeland, from Uday Hussein addressed to Putin [Figure 24, page 97], and dated June 2000, served the function of implicating Soviet intelligence in 9/11, to divert US and British intelligence from identifying the reality that the 9/11 atrocities attributed to Al-Qaeda were instigated by the DVD, from Dachau.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATIVE ILLUMINATI INTELLIGENCE DRUG-RUNNING

If Lehder, as his name suggests, is also of Jewish extraction, there may further have been a connection with Israeli intelligence - with whom the CIA has collaborated, as has been seen, in Latin America. One confirmation of this was contained in William Tyree's Complaint, where he stated that 'in February and March 1976, a second and third WATCHTOWER operation took place under the command of Colonel Edward Cutolo, and more cocaine was brought into Albrook Air Station, Panama. [Tyree]... saw the CIA officer Edwin Wilson, CIA officer Frank Terpil, CIA asset/officer Colonel Albert V Carone, and Israeli Colonel Michael Harari'.

Israeli, British and South African operatives were reported in June 2005[46] to be engaged on behalf of the Pentagon on 'above top secref operations under the umbrella codenamed Task Force 121 (TF 121), using special operations personnel in the US Army's Delta Force, Green Berets, Navy SEALS, British Special Air Service (SAS) and Special Boat Service (SBS) and various ex-US and foreign intelligence personnel, to undertake illegal kidnappings, assassinations of foreign political leaders and figures, drug-running, and other destabilising operations abroad under cover of the 'the war against terror', which is of course carefully orchestrated. British Special Forces had been joined by South African Reece Commandos and Israeli Sayaret Mat'kal operatives. These cadres were said to be operating under the authority of the US Defense Secretary, Donald Rumsfeld, the Undersecretary for Intelligence, Stephen Cambone (the veteran operative) and the Deputy Undersecretary for Intelligence, Lieutenant General William G. Boykin. These Pentagon-controlled units, operating primarily out of the Joint Special Operations Command (JSOC) at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and Fort Drum, New York, were reported to be active in Latin America, especially in Colombia, where they have been linked to the smuggling of cocaine in order to finance 'off-the-books' operations being carried out by the Pentagon commandos. In April 2005, five US military operatives were arrested by Colombian authorities for attempting to smuggle cocaine on a military flight to Texas. A month later, two further US troops were arrested in Colombia for attempting to smuggle 32,000 rounds of ammunition destined for Colombian counter-narcotics units, to the right-wing paramilitary terrorist and drug smuggling group calling itself the Self Defense Forces of Colombia. The US Ambassador to Colombia, William Wood, reportedly refused to extradite the US military operatives back to Colombia, invoking the US-Colombia Treaty which apparently grants US military personnel diplomatic immunity. In other words, what was happening in the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s is happening in the 21st century: there has been no change in US official drug-running behaviour and operations in Latin America: none whatsoever.

CIA/DVD-MEDELLIN MONEY-LAUNDERING NEXUS

According to an informed source, in the late 1970s, Jeb Bush (now Governor of Florida, with a Colombian Jewish wife), was installed as head of the Venezuela branch of Texas Commercial Bank, a principal owner of which was Mr George Herbert Walker Bush ('Sr.'). This bank branch allegedly became a staging post for the mass laundering of proceeds from the Medellin Cartel which, as we have seen, was controlled by the US Treasury and secret DVD (Dachau) Nazi intelligence operative Carlos Lehder. In fact the Cartel was, according to this very source, 'co-founded by Carlos Lehder as a Bush family business partner'. The source elaborates that this drug cartel 'was part of the whole CIA operation into the Southern States of the United States, headquartered, in part, at an airport in Western Arkansas, at Mena. The Elder Bush, his sons Jeb and George W, and Ollie North, and Bill Clinton, were all part of the operation. Guns were smuggled by CIA flights to Central America with side-trips to Colombia to pick up huge shipments of cocaine, which supported the Colombian economy more than coffee'. The resulting massive profits were deployed to finance further clandestine operations and scams associated with the ongoing intelligence corruption pipeline known as the Tran-Contra Affair'. The distinguished late US investigative journalist Sherman Skolnick reported from Chicago on 24th August 2001 that, while working at the Press Office of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, Chandra Levy (who, like Monica Lewinski, was an Israeli intelligence officer) may have stumbled upon detailed information linking the Bush Family to the Oklahoma City bombing and/or to the Family's partnership with the so-called 'Colombian' drug baron Carlos Lehder.

Another transmission point for the vast flow of drug proceeds arising from these criminalist US intelligence operations was allegedly the very small First National Bank of Mena, Arkansas, which was bought by the 'ethnic Chinese' Riady family, also linked to the Bush family and Bill Clinton. This bank allegedly became a transmission point for the colossal dope cashflow which was then allegedly transferred up to Garfield Ridge Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago. Its principal shareholder for many years was US Congressman Dan Rostenkowski. Likewise the Chicago bank's Board Chairman was for many years an alleged former US Secret Service (i.e., US Treasury) official, Dan Shannon. For his part, Rostenkowski was closely aligned to the key Chicago financial markets - the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Board Options Exchange - which allegedly provided, of course, the next stage in the laundering process. In 1994, Rostenkowski was indicted on corruption charges and stepped down as House Ways and Means Committee Chairman, losing his seat in that year's Congressional elections. In 1996, he pleaded guilty to mail fraud, was fined, and served a 17-month sentence.

It may be helpful here to recap some of the main findings arising from this study. With respect to the intelligence on US drug-running operations in Latin America that have been considered to date, the following facts have been established:

1. Carlos Lehder Rivas, who masqueraded as a Colombian drug dealer, was in fact a US Treasury/CIA intelligence operative sent to Colombia to organise, rationalise and then control the flow of drugs from Colombia (and Bolivia and Peru to an extent) into the United States, and to arrange appropriate money-laundering facilities. As well as being a US Treasury operative he was a deep cover agent of the German secret ongoing Nazi Black intelligence organisation, DVD, Dachau.

2. An ongoing covert Soviet and a possible STASI involvement have been identified. The STASI label has always been in part a cover for the Nazi International's DVD.

3. The Central Intelligence Agency is as usual shown to be a cynical criminal organisation masquerading as an intelligence community, and financing its operations from drug-trafficking - to the severe detriment of the population it 'serves', just like its covert Soviet counterpart. It has recently been reconfirmed to the Author at the highest level that the CIA is financially independent of Congress - as indeed is perfectly obvious from all the research he has been conducting in this area of the enquiry.

4. It follows that the intelligence services are long since out of control, in control, and need to be brought decisively under control if this crisis is ever to be surmounted.

Ralph McGhee, who was a CIA operative for 25 years, mainly in Southeast Asia, where he witnessed US bombing and napalming of villages and of their inhabitants, has pointed out that 'the CIA is not now, nor has it ever been, a Central Intelligence Agency'. It is the covert action arm of the President's foreign policy advisers. In that capacity it overthrows or supports foreign governments while reporting 'intelligence' justifying those activities. It shapes its intelligence, even in such critical areas as Soviet nuclear weapons capability, to support presidential policy. Disinformation is part of its covert action responsibility and the American people are the primary target of its lies'.

Since at least the Vietnam War era, the CIA has been at the forefront of heroin trafficking. In addition to being the main source of US propaganda for domestic and foreign consumption - hence, inter alia, the proliferation of conflicting disinformation and diversionary US Information Warfare websites, many of which are controlled by a central apparatus, the Author has been told [see Note 3, Chapter 7, page 512] - the CIA is indeed the covert arm of the predatory US Illuminist Government, and has accordingly been engaged traditionally in many terrorist operations. In fact, the CIA is itself a terrorist organisation, funded primarily by the profits of drug-smuggling. President Bush Jr.'s 'war on international terrorism' provides (or is de facto supposed to provide) the United States with cover for its own terrorist activities, some of which have already been alluded to here. The CIA's serious drug-running activities were pioneered in and prior to the Vietnam Era by the Jewish Meyer Lansky Syndicate operating out of Chicago, which had already established international heroin running operations from Southeast Asia via the CIA-linked Corsican Mafia in the Mediterranean (Corsica being a particularly nasty little island where a bed-and-breakfast hostess once refused to hand the Author back his passport so that he could leave, without a corrupt payment). The atmosphere in Corsica reeks of the French Mafia.

The US intelligence community has been 'off the rails' for decades. The stench of this criminal organisation's activities reeks in the nostrils not only of informed American people, but of the whole world. At Watergate, for instance, President Richard Nixon was discarded in order to cover up CIA money-laundering. The key 'smoking gun' tape revealed Nixon's acceptance of the need to mobilise the CIA to halt the FBI's Watergate investigation because the FBI had 'run into' a CIA covert operation. When asked why he thought it was a CIA operation, the FBI Director of the day commented: 'Because of the amount of money involved'. The lesser-known Watergate burglars were mainly from the ranks of Cubans associated with the CIA's Miami station.

Watergate had much wider connotations, not least involving the Israeli nuclear programme, which are not relevant here. The verdict of H. R. Haldeman, referring to a Mexican bank used for laundering relevant funds, is however pertinent to this analysis: 'If the Mexican bank connection was actually a CIA cover operation all along, unknown to Nixon; and Nixon was destroyed for asking the FBI to stop investigating the bank because it might uncover a CIA operation (which the Helms Memo seems to indicate that it actually was after all), the multiple layers of deception by the CIA are astounding'*[7]. They reflected, and reflect, of course, 'the mystery of iniquity'.

The main point here is that the CIA was heavily engaged in money laundering (as it had been in earlier years as well) in the 1970s: and the central figure, as has been the case ever since, was George Bush Sr.. But behind George Bush stood his mentor - the senior Illuminati operative, German Jew and alleged member of the secret Illuminati Directorate, Dr Henry ('Henny') Kissinger, the alleged DVD agent who persuaded the Illuminati's President Ford to give Bush Sr. William Colby's job.

As has been alluded to, Dr Kissinger is allegedly a long-term Soviet agent, whose Soviet codename is BOR, as well as being allegedly a mole for the DVD. His presence at the epicentre or environment of US governance for decades, and his relationship with and influence over George Bush Sr., have provided ample scope for foreign manipulation of, and interference in, the affairs of, the United States, which has reached epidemic proportions. But the question is: which foreign power does Dr Kissinger allegedly serve?

Given his mentorship of George Bush Sr. and his German provenance, the answer to this question suggests itself unequivocally: and soundings among high-level intelligence circle have indicated that this assessment is correct. If so, then Dr Kissinger's 'outer defence' - rumours of his Soviet allegiance, 'corroborated' by his Soviet code-name BOR - mask his actual, deeper allegiance to the Nazi International in general, and to the Dachau-based DVD 'Black', hidden intelligence community, in particular.

Another cover employed by DVD operatives, as has been seen, is the 'former' East German STASI label. Manipulation of high-ranking US political figures is facilitated by the institutionalisation in such circles of vice of every kind, and their foolish attendance

THE BOHEMIAN GROVE: WHERE THE ELITE ARE FILMED IN DEBAUCHERY FOR BLACKMAIL

For the past 130 years [as of 2005], world leaders and members of the US elite have travelled to Sonoma County, Northern California, in July, to participate in orgies and occult activities on a secluded 2,700 acre compound called the Bohemian Grove. On 15th July 2000, the US talk show host, Alex Jones, and colleagues, including a British contingent, managed to penetrate the notorious Bohemian Grove by clandestine means, and to film some of the repulsive activities that were taking place during this annual summer camp of Illuminati.

Bohemian Grove is the site of an annual two-week gathering of prominent males, with participants having included the likes of Henry Kissinger, James Baker III, David Rockefeller, John Lehman, Elliot Richardson, Newt Gingrich, George Bush Sr. and Jr., Jimmy Carter, Richard Nixon, Helmut Schmidt, General Colin Powell, Richard Cheney, Gerald Ford, William Simon, Ronald Reagan, William French Smith, and William Perry, former Secretary of Defense under Clinton, also a known participant. Participation in this 2,700-member club, founded in 1872 amid a certain amount of mystery, may entail a wait of 15 years before coveted admission is granted.

Herbert Hoover once referred to the Bohemian Club's Annual Summer Encampment as 'the greatest men's party on earth'. In reality, Bohemian Grove events celebrate and institutionalise 'the spirit of Bohemia', according to Peter Phillips, of Sonoma State University, who actually wrote a doctoral thesis on the Grove. Bohemia is of course in Germany: so what this means is that the Illuminati, which in its modern format originated in Germany, indulge in pagan occult rituals, permissive sex and various abominations, the mildest of which is an occult ceremony beneath a huge idol in the shape of an owl, called Moloch - the Caananite god to which the pagan tribes, and at times the children of Israel, sacrificed 'unwanted children' (postnatal contraception). In 'Paradise Lost', John Milton described Moloch as follows: 'First Moloch, horrid King, besmirched with blood, Of human sacrifice, and parents' tears, Though, for the noise of drums and timbrels loud, Their children's cries unheard, that passed through fire, To his grim idol'. In Scripture, Moloch is condemned as the worst of all the ancient abominations: but the Illuminati 'Useful Idiots' attending the grim, pagan ceremony held at the Bohemian Grove every summer, revere it, reaffirming before it their Luciferian preferences.

Programmed 'Monarch' sex slaves are routinely employed to 'entertain' the assembled debauched members of the globalist elite, and to facilitate the gratification of their animal desires. The annual gathering of these nutcases begins with the so-called 'Cremation of Care' ritual, in which a mascot is burned in effigy, symbolising 'freedom from care - a trap for the unwary. Various bizarre enactments take place. Druids in red-hooded robes march in procession and chant to the Great Owl Moloch, according to many inside reports obtained not only as a consequence of Alex Jones' penetration in 2000, but also from the scores of local men who work in the Grove as servants. One near-victim has described the Bohemian Grove's inner hideaways and secret locations - which include an UNDERGROUND (U.N. derground), a Dark Room, a Leather Room, and a Necrophilia Room. Occult human sacrificial rituals, involving the murder of babies, children and 'discarded' sex slaves, have also been credibly reported, given a sizeable accumulation of insider information about this place of serial abominations.

Cathy O'Brien, the 'Monarch' sex slave deprogrammed by Mark Phillips, has identified the underlying evil purpose of the Bohemian Grove as BLACKMAIL. She reported that her 'handler' had told her about high-tech, undetectable cameras using fiber-optics, and fish-eye lens cameras that are positioned strategically in each of the Bohemian Grove's numerous sexual perversion theme rooms. She has reported that 'I was programmed to function in all rooms at the Bohemian Grove in order to compromise specific government targets according to their personal perversions'. That's how Luciferian US intelligence does its business.

She and Phillips calculated that no-one would believe what they have divulged in their book Trance Formation of America' [see main text], in which these comments were published, unless they were dead. This calculation proved to be correct. At the same time, neither replied to the Author's letter enquiring whether Mark Phillips was actually engaged in an experiment to establish whether a programmed (MK-ULTRA-style) 'Monarch' sex-slave could be successfully and permanently deprogrammed; and when one receives no response from such operatives, this normally means that the questions put to them cannot be answered without compromising their operations: i.e., the Author's suspicion is correct. ■ at annual Bohemian Grove events [see page 161], at which they are encouraged to indulge in sexual, drug and drinking excess, and which they are erroneously informed cannot or will never be exposed. However the real purpose of the Bohemian Grove orgies is precisely to ensure participants they can be manipulated through blackmail, since secret cameras witness their debauched behaviour, of which they are discreetly reminded 'as necessary'. Reverting to the case of Dr Kissinger, the traditional, long-term penetration of the Soviet intelligence sector by German Nazi 'Black' operatives provides the known context for this operative's use of his suspected Soviet connections as cover for his real affiliation - service to the Nazi International. At this point, we can hear some argue that any such allegiance would be surreal, since, as a Jew, Dr Kissinger would be 'sure' to be antagonistic towards Nazism. However, that would be a shallow, knee-jerk reaction. For the reality is that Zionism is a form of Nazism. In his early working days, the Author foolishly joined a Jewish merchant bank in London, for which he was totally unsuited. There, a much older woman who worked in the same department took pity on him, and 'looked after' him in the canteen at lunchtime. The Eichmann trial was the main feature in the news at the time. The Author remembers saying to this kind lady: 'How come Eichmann, a Jew, presided over the Holocaust?' To which she replied: 'Don't you know that a Jew's greatest enemy is another Jew?'. That first-hand remark should, though a cliche, eliminate any fanciful notion that Dr Kissinger could not possibly be, for instance, a covert DVD operative. On the contrary, his clear Illuminati credentials, and the fact that he is alleged to have been thrown out of his synagogue by his local Jewish community, clarify this man's geopolitical orientation and loyalties. A 'handle' on this man's nature can be obtained by contemplating the fact that, after appearing incongruously as a mourner at Princess Diana's Memorial Service at Westminster Abbey, Kissinger was observed the next evening in a London nightclub, ogling at a Turkish belly-dancer.

CYNICAL U.S. DECEPTION OF COLOMBIA

Now that we can see clearly that the Medellfn cartel was controlled by, and was an instrument of, US intelligence, manipulated or probably even commanded in turn by at least one German Nazi covert operative, who appears to have been whisked away from Colombia by the DEA and quickly incarcerated 'for his own safety', it can also be seen that the Colombian Government, while benefiting financially, has been cynically deceived by the US Government, of which the vast US intelligence community forms an overbearingly powerful component. If we pursue this line of reasoning further, a number of disturbing insights emerge. The Cali Cartel replaced the Medellin Cartel; and just like the Medellin Cartel, the Cali Cartel has been, and is, clandestinely controlled by a foreign power - namely, the United States.

During his heyday operating in Colombia, Lehder financed the establishment of a newspaper and a new political party, the Movimiento Nacional Latino. His colleague, Pablo Escobar, founded a newspaper, and was elected to the Colombian Congress in 1982. By the following year, Escobar's personal wealth was estimated at $2 billion.

He proceeded to finance the construction of a barrio for poor families in Medellin - a 'philanthropic' gesture typical of successful giga-criminals the world over. In mid-1983, Tranquilandia, which was then the largest cocaine laboratory in history, went into production on the banks of the Rio Yari in Los Llanos. It operated no less than fourteen independent, fully equipped laboratories, water and electricity supply, roads, dormitories, and its own airstrip, and it produced 3,500 kg of pure cocaine every month.

When the Colombian President of the day, Belisario Betancour, appointed Rodrigo Lara Bonilla Minister of Justice, the political climate abruptly changed. Bonilla suddenly launched a sharp offensive against the drug trade, inducing one of Bogota's leading newspapers, El Espectador, to publicise some of the crimes committed by Pablo Escobar. In March 1984, a massive Colombian Police posse raided Tranquilandia and arrested everyone working there. The police proceeded to confiscate seven aircraft, weapons and vehicles, plus all the chemicals on the premises. (These chemicals are typically manufactured by only a handful of corporations, of which Eli Lilly, with which George Bush Sr. has or has had key connections, is one). Fourteen tonnes of cocaine were reportedly seized and thrown into the river.

THE U.S.-TRIGGERED COLOMBIAN COCAINE CIVIL WAR

The Cartel disappeared from view, with the exception of Carlos Lehder, who offered, in exchange for immunity from prosecution, to pay off Colombia's entire foreign debt, then standing at $13 billion. After agonised consideration, this proposal was turned down by the Government. However once the publicity had died down, the Medellfn Cartel continued business more or less as usual. In particular, it began to invest its profits in land, and later in industry. Then, as the drug operatives became major landowners, they created their own private armies to protect their investments. In 1984, Lehder or associates in or working for the Medellfn Cartel, killed the Justice Minister, Rodrigo Lara Bonilla. The Government responded in an odd manner: it implemented the old Extradition Treaty, which had been signed years earlier with the United States, but had never been applied. Four minor drug traffickers were at once sent to the United States to stand trial, to maintain the illusion for public consumption that 'something is being done'.

The Cartel then started a public campaign against the Treaty, but failed to shift the Government's stand. So the Cartel began to target the Treaty's leading supporters, such as Guillermo Cano, the publisher of El Espectador, who was assassinated in late 1986. The Attorney-General was later shot to death. In February 1987, the Colombian security forces and the anti-narcotics police, with cooperation from the US Drug Enforcement Agency, captured and immediately extradited Carlos Lehder to the United States.

It is not known whether the DEA operatives were aware that they were handling an operative employed by the US Treasury and US intelligence generally - to organise and deliver a pipeline of colossal profits for the benefit of corrupt US official cadres and to inflate the vast hidden resources of the intelligence services.

The consequences of the United States' secret intermeddling in the national affairs of Colombia, and of its abominable and cynical manipulation and seizure of control over the Colombian drug trade (paralleled later, under George H. W. Bush Sr.'s Presidency, in Panama), were catastrophic. The United States literally succeeded in destabilising Colombia - which some believe may well have been an outcome not inimical to CIA planners, given that the United States is a key global revolutionary power and that it is capable of being a menace to the stability of the whole world.

In August 1989, the Medellfn Cartel assassinated the leading presidential candidate, Luis Carlos Galan, thereby threatening what remained of the corrupted integrity of Colombia's fragile democracy. All hell then broke loose. Galan's murder triggered a declaration of all-out war by the Government; and the United States - which had provoked the chaos from the outset - immediately offered $65 million of emergency aid and logistical support. If these funds were taken from a CIA 'Black' budget, there was of course no shortage of resources that could be raided for this purpose.

President Barco of Colombia thereupon confiscated 989 buildings and ranches, 367 aircraft, 73 boats, 710 vehicles, 4.7 tonnes of cocaine, 1,279 guns and 25,000 rounds of ammunition from the Cartel's structures. The traffickers responded with a demonic reign of terror, burning the farms of regional politicians in Antioquia, and detonating bombs at many banks, newspaper offices, political party headquarters, and private homes in Bogota, Cali, Medellin and Barranquilla. In September 1989, an explosion destroyed the offices of El Espectador. During November, a mid-air bombing killed all the 101 passengers and six crew members aboard an Avianca flight from Bogota to Cali. In December, a massive truck bomb ripped into the bottom floors of the National Police Agency (DAS) in Bogota, damaging buildings 20 blocks away.

The war culminated in a massive manhunt that led to the killing of another prominent Cartel leader, Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha, known as 'El Mexicano', who had been suspected of masterminding the reign of terror. After his death, the remaining Cartel leaders urged the Government to negotiate. Extended negotiations then led to the surrender of the three Ochoa brothers, and Pablo Escobar and their aides.

On the face of it, the no-holds-barred drug war represented the consequences of yet another CIA operation, or nest of evil operations, that (as usually happens) went so badly wrong that the overt responsible structures of the US Federal Government had to intervene (inter alia, with the $65 million of aid). But if Colombian officials and Ministers had been properly informed, they would have been well aware that the United States had been playing extremely cynical and dangerous games in Colombia, which elements of it had been exploiting for criminal covert purposes for years.

With this effective truce, the farcical character of the Colombian justice system kicked in again. The deal that was struck was that the traffickers had to surrender and plead guilty to just one crime, in exchange for guarantees that they would not be extradited like Carlos Lehder (who had simply been transferred back to base, albeit not in the manner he might have preferred), and they would serve reduced sentences in a specially constructed prison in Envigado, the home town of Pablo Escobar, close to Medellfn. To conclude the matter, the Constitutional Assembly ruled formally that the Extradition Treaty did not apply to Colombian nationals. But it manifestly continued to apply to non-Colombian nationals, like Carlos Lehder.

CARTEL DECAPITATED: SO IT WAS BUSINESS AS USUAL

With the surrender or deaths of all the top leaders of the Medellfn cartel, guess what? Narco-terrorism subsided, but the drug business remained unaffected! An estimated two or three tonnes of top quality cocaine continued to reach the United States every week from Colombia alone, in cargoes smuggled in by sea or air. Escobar and his associates were, for the time being, having to put up with the inconvenience of operating their cocaine businesses from behind bars. They all had telephones.

When Pablo Escobar escaped from his jail following a 'botched' attempt to remove him from La Catedral (the prison) to a more secure location, narco-terrorism resumed. For the next 18 months, Colombia's elite Search Block sought Escobar, tracking down and then killing most of his aides and collaborators. Finally, after 499 days of searching the special unit located Escobar in December 1993, and shot him dead.

However thanks to US intermeddling and the parallel activities of Cuban and Soviet-linked rival drug networks, drug trafficking out of Colombia has continued expanding. For while Colombia's elite force concentrated its resources in hunting one man, the other cartels were of course quick to take advantage of the situation. The Cali Cartel, which likewise developed during the 1980s, moved quickly to take over the markets of the now shattered Medellfn Cartel, becoming Colombia's largest drug producer.

And as has been explained, the Cali organisation was led by the Rodriguez Orej-uela brothers, at least one of whom was controlled by US intelligence. In other words, the German-oriented cadres within the CIA did not place their eggs in one basket, but diversified their sources of drug pipeline funds, to guard against the possibility (likelihood) that one or more of the networks that they had established would be blown.

The problems which leaders of the Cali Cartel faced were quickly dissipated (see above), and by 1994, this US-sponsored Cartel was believed to be controlling over 80% of New York's cocaine market, with dominant shares in other US and European markets. The criminalised intelligence services of both the leading revolutionary powers -the 'former' USSR and the United States - are engaged in drug offensives against their populations, in conformity with the Satanic priority of the dialectical World Revolution, to create chaos out of order. The later Cali king-pins diversified into opium poppies and into heroin, apparently reflecting changes in consumer habits in the United States, but in reality catering for drug demand stimulated by supply. Meanwhile the German, French, Italian, Spanish, Mexican and Israeli 'Black' intelligence communities continued to thrive, through cooperation and competition with the US and Soviet networks, as never before.

The arrest in June 1995 of the Call Cartel leader, the US intelligence asset-operative Gilberto Rodriguez Orejuela, involved in excess of 3,000 troops raiding dwellings in Bogota and Cali. Yet Colombia continues to benefit from an inflow of an estimated $6 billion annually from the illegal drug operations set up originally, and controlled by, US intelligence - a factor which of course ensures that the networks established by US intelligence on behalf of its German Illuminati controllers continue to function normally.

At the same time, Colombia's political fabric had been severely destabilised. Not only was the ruling political class targeted, but the arrest of Gilberto Rodriguez Orejuela did little to alter the dynamics of the Colombian drug trade: and the Government has been subsequently been unable to repeat the success it achieved against the Medellin Cartel. In other words, it was business as usual.

One apparent reason for this is that the political classes generally have been further corrupted. President Ernesto Samper was obliged to spend much time during his final years in office refuting allegations that his election campaign had been financed by drug money. President Samper's Liberal Party successor, Horacio Serpa, lost the election in June 1998 to the 'Conservative' Andres Pastrana, who in 1994 had exposed Sr. Samper's corrupt connections with the Cali Cartel.

COLBY, CASEY AND IRAN-CONTRA

At the risk of some repetition, but in the interests of clarity, let us briefly revisit William Casey's Affidavit, in order to draw out the main features of this sobering narrative. After William J. Casey, an old Office of Strategic Services (OSS) operative based in London during the Second World War, became the CIA's Director of Central Intelligence (DCI) on 28th January 1981 under President Ronald Reagan (in office, thanks to George Bush Sr.'s 'October Surprise' operation to bribe the Iranians with $32 million, to release the US hostages from Tehran only after President Reagan's inauguration), he was approached and briefed by the former DCI, William Colby (who was found drowned many years later), who informed him off the record about two operations that he was continuing to run in Latin America. Both these operations were being run without the consent or knowledge of the US Congress, the President or even the intelligence apparatus itself. One reason for this level of secrecy was that the operations were actually directed by covert German Nazi drug-running intelligence, with Colby unknowingly in charge.

The operations were identified by Colby under the codenames of A-6 (RED MIST) and A-7 (PROJECT SANDMAN). A-7 was the 'Phoenix Program' of Latin America, involving the assassination of the Communist infrastructure throughout Latin America. A-6 identified individuals and the build-up of the Communist threat in the region.

William Colby authorised the US intelligence assets involved in A-6 and A-7 to engage in narcotics trafficking to finance both operations, having himself engaged in similar operations in Vietnam for the same purpose. Between the beginning of December 1975 and 1st April 1976, Colby prepositioned more than a million pounds of cocaine in Panama, with the assistance of General Manuel Noriega. This cocaine was conveyed to El Salvador, Costa Rica and Honduras between 1976 and 1981. It now needed to be conveyed to the American market.

CIA-MAFIA UNDERWORLD LINKS EXPOSED

To assist him in these nefarious operations, Mr Colby used the aforementioned Colonel (Dr) Albert Vincent Carone, a US military intelligence officer, with experience also in working for the CIA, and close Mafia links, to field the A-6 and A-7 operations. Dr Carone had a long-time 'friend', Vito Genovese, head of the gambling and narcotics activities for the controlling Mafia family in New York, of which Dr Carone, who was also a friend of the international fugitive Robert Vesco (hiding from US justice in Cuba), was made a 'member'. Thus elements of the US military, as well as the CIA, are mafiosi.

Contrary to the universal view, Fidel Castro, who received a Jesuit education, like so many revolutionaries and spies, has maintained secretly cordial relations with certain US structures all his life. The Americas Department of the Cuban Communist Party, run by Cuban intelligence cadres under the control of the KGB, directs all covert Soviet drug-trafficking operations in the Western Hemisphere, in 'competition' with the colossally subversive drugs offensive of the CIA's Illuminati against their own population.

William Colby arranged for the profits from the preposifioned cocaine to be laundered through Dr. Carone, the New York Mafia, and Robert Vesco (who has been hiding out in Cuba since his exposure). They were then to be redirected to fund the anti-Communist operations in Latin America, through Colby himself. Hence, Robert Vesco, the fugitive from US justice, remained at the same time a long-term money-laundering collaborator with the CIA. (As for the facts on the ground, the House of Representatives' Intelligence Committee knew perfectly well that the Sandinistas were not shipping arms to Communist guerrillas in El Saldavor, as President Ronald Reagan had claimed. Congressman Lee Hamilton complained that 'we were, however, unable to respond to the President's (erroneous) assertions because this information was classified. The Democratic and admittedly fiercely anti-Reagan Senator Moynihan elaborated: 'I knew the President's claim could not be substantiated, but I knew this from classified briefings which a Chairman or Vice Chairman of such a committee is sworn not to discuss in public. The effect is to hide things from the American people that they need to know').

Casey discussed these matters with Dr Carone and accordingly decided to have the prepositioned cocaine brought into Mena Airport, Arkansas, which the CIA had used on earlier occasions, and through which large volumes of cocaine had been, and would continue to be, shipped into the US interior. Assisting William Casey so as to ensure smooth operations were William J. Clinton, a CIA operative, later the President of the United States, and William E Weld [see Casey's Affidavit, and the box on page 109], the scion of a well-known banking family (White Weld having been an early adviser to the Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency), who later became Governor of Massachusetts and was in 2006 seeking the Governorship of New York State. As Assistant US Attorney, Weld was placed in charge of the Criminal Division of the US Department of 'Justice'. The purpose of this appointment was so that William Weld could control investigations into Mena by the US Federal law enforcement agencies, which of course knew nothing (or not enough) about the detail of these criminal intelligence activities.

Clinton assisted Casey by systematically smothering the Arkansas law enforcement investigations into the drug-running operations by the CIA through Mena. That was why Clinton was elevated to the Arkansas Governorship. William Casey now instructed Robert McFarlane, John Poindexter and Oliver North to go beyond 'normal channels' and to use 'available assets, including the Mafia', to ensure the arrival of the cocaine into Mena Airport. Personnel assigned to the National Security Agency (NSA) and the US Army Security Agency (ASA) facilitated the cocaine arrivals, with the early warning defence satellites and the radar grid being blinded to enable the cocaine-laden aircraft to land undetected at Mena Airport. The codenames for these NSA and ASA operations were SEA SPRAY and JADE BRIDGE.

As we have also seen, evidently William Casey justified these criminal decisions, actions and policies by invoking the false pretext that US drug users have a choice: whether to consume drugs or not. This alibi is both morally and practically indefensible, as well as being ignorant nonsense. In the first place, as discussed, drug consumption is a consequence of supply, not demand. In the case of food for normal sustenance, such as corn flakes, there is a natural demand from the population, which is met by supply.

However in the case of addictive drugs, two factors differentiate them from all other commodities. First, there is no natural demand for drugs such as cocaine. Its insidious usage spreads as a consequence solely of supply - to foolish people who are offered cocaine at parties, for instance. If the drug is available, then demand for it can be generated. If the supply is cut off, demand (except from those unfortunates who are hooked on the drug) dries up. Secondly, demand from users who have started to use the drug because of its availability (supply) is artificially and exponentially increased because of the resulting addiction. It follows, obviously, that William Casey's self-interested and shallow 'justification' for continuing the de facto Illuminist strategy of his predecessor was wholly devoid of intellectual validity quite apart from its Satanic immorality.

As for William Colby himself, his preoccupation with decapitating the Communist infrastructure in Latin America may seem to have provided absolute confirmation of his anti-Communist credentials. For instance, Colby reportedly presided over nearly 25,000 assassinations in Vietnam. But the longer-term consequences of his authorisation of open-ended drug dealing by US intelligence assets have been so disastrous, and so predictable, that, if it were not for the fact that he was blinded by the dialectical trap in which he had to operate, they might have implied a subversive intent. They are certainly consistent with the parallel strategy devised by Dr. Kissinger (the alleged Soviet agent BOR and German Illuminati controller) to establish the precarious system whereby oil invoices issued by oil producers are denominated exclusively in US dollars.

THE PITIFUL DRUG DECADENCE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM

Figure 28 below shows that as opiate and cocaine supplies in the United Kingdom proliferated between 1970 and 2000, the numbers of dependent users of these imported drugs known to treatment services grew exponentially. The chart may be compared with Figure 29 on page 169, in which exactly the same progression in the United States, between 1960 and 1980, is recorded. As has been explained, the drug crisis in the United Kingdom is now controlled by a corrupted intelligence cadre, GO-2, which "facilitates" the operations of two drug cartels, financing the main political parties and ensuring largely trouble-free distribution of these drugs, to the fury of drug interdiction operatives and law enforcement elements, who know what is going on. It was in this context that the Author was informed, in the third quarter of 2005, by two senior, disgusted, intelligence officers, that 'we have a criminal government in the United Kingdom'. For a component of government to preside over drug-running operations is a scandal of extreme proportions, and it is hoped that exposure inter alia via this study will serve the official perpetrators with appropriate notice that this state of affairs will not be tolerated, and that efforts will be made to bring these criminals who - as in the United States -hide behind their 'national security' screen - to justice. Furthermore, since GO-2 operates from the Lambeth headquarters of MI6, the leadership of which in 2005 was considered by the Author's informants to be unreliable (to put the matter mildly), MI6 is a party to

OPIATE AND COCAINE USERS IN THE UK [THOUSANDS]
■ ADDICTS NOTIFIED TO HOME OFFICE
▨ ADDICTS IN TREATMENT
100
90
80
70
60
50
40
30
20 10
0
70
72
74
76
78
80
82
84
86
88
90
92
94
96
98
0

50,000 LONDONERS ADDICTED TO CRACK COCAINE
According to researchers at Imperial College London and Bristol University, there were almost 50,000 crack cocaine addicts in London by 2005, against about 13,600 users identified in the 2001-02 British Crime Survey. This finding, based on data from 12 London boroughs, and publicised on 20th September 2005 by 'The Guardian', suggests that 1.3% of 15-44-year-olds use crack. This would be consistent with the Author's intelligence on UK official criminalism. ■

Figure 29. New opiate and cocaine abusers in the United Kingdom, 1970-2000. Increased drug dependency reflects increased supply - which is co-ordinated by GO-2, a UK intelligence cadre which is supposed to be engaged in anti-drug operations. According to furious UK intelligence sources, GO-2 controls or works with two drug cartels, thus frustrating drug-interdiction operations by the diminishing proportion of the UK intelligence community that remains uncorrupted. Note: As discussed elsewhere, GO-2 operates out of the MI6 headquarters in Lambeth, just across Vauxhall Bridge in Central London. In 2004-2005, MI6/GO-2 attempted to smear the Author, who retaliated by published a detailed account of these attempts in his global financial journal, International Currency Review.

this abomination. Drug-running is a crime against humanity and the Author regrets to say that the British Government condones and participates in this form of atrocity.

In 2005, the cost of damage to health and social functioning due to heroin and/or crack cocaine usage was conservatively estimated at £5.0 billion annually. In the United Kingdom, drug users were estimated to commit no less than 36,000,000 crimes a year, that is to say, 56% of the (colossal) total number of crimes. The British police have long since given up bothering to find the perpetrators of crimes, unless murder, rape or some other high-profile aberration is involved. The notion that British taxpayers receive value for money, in the form of protection, from the police, is wholly discredited. When the Author sought to advise the authorities of a possible terrorism dimension, he struggled to make himself understood to a half-literate police clerk at Belgravia Police Station, who made so many mistakes that he kept pulling sheets out of his record book and starting over again. A day and a half later, there had been no follow-up, despite the urgency of the matter; and the Author was reduced to calling the Downing Street Press Office, as a result of which a Scotland Yard officer telephoned to make an appointment. In general, the police service is dismal, and morale appears to be low - doubtless because the police know that the Government is itself involved in drug-running.

The Author's UK intelligence sources estimate that Britain now has 300,000 heroin addicts, compared with 30,000 in 1972, when Britain was illegally 'bounced' into membership of the corrupt European Economic Communities [see Chapter 8]. They openly attribute this state of affairs to Britain's EU membership in general, and to the ease with which German, French and Spanish intelligence-linked drug cadres have consequently been able to penetrate the UK structures and networks, in particular.

Figure 29. New cocaine users in the United States, 1962-80 [in thousands], showing conclusively the correlation with with increased supplies of the drug. In the early 1960s, when supplies were low, recorded addiction was of minimal proportions. Data source: Rouse, B.A., Ed., 1995, 'Substance Abuse and Mental Health Statistics Yearbook', DHHS Publication No. (SMA) 95-3064, Government Printing Office, Washington DC. Reproduced from 'Red Cocaine: The Drugging of America and the West, by Dr Joseph D. Douglass Jr., Edward Harle Limited, 1999, page 157. Dr Douglass attributed the increased supply and cocaine addiction to the entry of Soviet-controlled drug-traffickers into the market. Extrapolation of the chart would also reflect the consolidation of the Latin cartels set up by US intelligence, fronted inter alia by Lehder.

Despite the fact that GO-2/MI6 'facilitates' the drug-running and distribution operations of two drug cartels into and within the United Kingdom, available data on the UK drug crisis are provided, believe it or not, by the Downing Street Strategy Unit. Whether this curious fact reflects ignorance on the part of the apparatchiks working there, with respect to the abominations perpetrated from Lambeth, or whether we are confronted with the 'blind eye' syndrome, or one part of the official structures having no clue what is happening in other areas of the Government, is unknown. But according to this source, the total heroin and/or crack user population in Britain had reached 280,000 by mid-2005 (the numbers are not additive), with an estimated 260,000 people hooked on heroin, 140,000 users of crack, and 250,000 people addicted on cocaine. The estimated average annual spend per heroin addict was £10,000 - which means that cash-flow generated by this abomination alone was of the order of £2.6 billion. The estimated 140,000 crack users were also spending about £10,000 annually on their vice, generating a further £1.4 billion; while the 250,000 cocaine users were spending some £5,500 each, generating a further £1.4 billion annually - for a total annual inflow of £5.4 billion. The Table on page 171 provides further details of the size of the scam - suggesting that 31 retail tonnes of heroin, 10 tonnes of crack and 22 tonnes of cocaine were flooding into the United Kingdom annually, implying that interdiction operations are totally ineffective.

To ensure that this is indeed the case, the Blair Government abolished the ancient Customs and Excise Department, which had made progress with its interdiction activities - merging the department into the notoriously incompetent Inland Revenue. The Author's informants advise that this was done, in part, in order to remove the annoyance of Customs seizures, so as to allow this lucrative trafficking in human misery, to expand unimpeded. It appears to be 'justified' by the same dishonest argument that is used in the United States and was spelled out by William Casey in his Affidavit.

Figure 30. The cost of drugs per week for a UK heavy abuser. Usage of crack cocaine, cocaine and heroin was conservatively estimated in mid-2005 to be generating at least £5.4 billion annually. Taking the use of other drugs into account, the conservative estimate would be of the order of £7.0 billion annually. However analysts believe that the actual cash-flow generated as a consequence of the permissive supply of drugs into the United Kingdom could be much higher. Usage follows supply, not the other way round. The Government cynically maximises the potential for cash-flow generation by means of National Health Service prescription of methadone for heroin addicts, so that when released from treatment, they revert to heroin usage.

With the two main political parties hooked into this criminalised system, Britain is rapidly cascading downwards into the same abyss as the United States; and hardly a single prominent voice is heard in Westminster, on the BBC, or anywhere except sometimes in the columns of 'The Guardian' newspaper, complaining about this disgraceful, scandalous and abhorrent state of affairs. When the Author asked informants whether contenders for the leadership of the British Conservative Party were liable to 'go along' with this scandal, he was informed that David Davis deplores this abuse. But does anyone else? One or more senior figures are reported to be addicted to crack cocaine.

Ignorance in Britain, not least in media circles, concerning the clandestine official forces that are engaged in drug-trafficking is almost universal. On 5th July 2005, extensive publicity was given to a report by Lord Birt, the former Director General of the BBC, who is paid by the Prime Minister to 'think ahead' on behalf of the Downing Street Strategy Unit, which exposed the extent to which the British Government's purported anti-drugs policy had failed. The report effectively stated that the result of the 'war against drugs' so far had been a massive increase in consumption. The massive increase in consumption was facilitated by GO-2/MI6, but of course this fact, of which Lord Birt, in fairness, may have been ignorant, was never mentioned. If an allusion to the possible involvement of Britain's own intelligence cadres in drug-trafficking and facilitating the operations of two drug cartels was included in Lord Birf s original draft, any such reference had been removed by the time the document was made available for public consumption. If Lord Birt had consulted the right people in the intelligence community, we would certainly have learned about this abomination.

Lord Birt employed management consultancy-speak and semi-spurious quantifying techniques to describe the Government's failure on this score, illustrated by the report's finding that traffickers into the British market enjoy such high profits that seizure rates of 60%-80% are needed in order for there to be any impact on the flow of drugs into the country - whereas nothing greater than 20% has ever been achieved. The document was presented in full to the Prime Minister in June 2003. On 1st July 2005, following action under the new British Freedom of Information Act, only 52 of its 105 pages were published. Release took place on the eve of the ghastly 'New World Order' 'Live 8 'concert', a mass mind-manipulation and propaganda fest fronted by a character called Sir Bob Geldof who seems to be 'licensed' from on high to mastermind such mass psychology operations. By publishing the document immediately ahead of that event, the authorities had hoped that its findings would be 'buried'; so 'The Guardian', which is seized of the Government's propensity to play such routine dirty tricks, cleared its front page on 5th July 2005 to provide maximum coverage to the report, which was supposed

UK DRUG USAGE ESTIMATES*: MID-2003

These estimates are conservative*	HEROIN	CRACK	COCAINE
Estimated user numbers [data not additive]	260,000	140,000	250,000
Estimated average annual spend per user	£10,000	£10,000	£5,500
Annual cash-flow generated per year	£2,600,000,000	£1,400,000,000	£1,400,000,000
Price per gram	£60.00	£105.00	£60.00
Derived retail tonnes consumed per annum	31	10	22

Estimated UK usage and spending on heroin, crack and cocaine. Source: Downing Street Strategy Unit to represent Phase One of Downing Street's reappraisal of UK official drugs policy. In December 2005, Lord Birt brought forth Phase Two of his analysis, entitled 'Diagnoses and Recommendations', which remained unpublished when this study went to press.

The half of the Phase One report that was not published, but was nevertheless leaked to 'The Guardian', contained a scathing verdict on UK official operations to disrupt the drugs supply chain. This was the nearest that Lord Birt felt able to go (or his official censors would allow him to go) in drawing public attention to the fact that Britain has a criminal government. The 'missing' information summarised by the newspaper concluded that the estimated UK annual supply of heroin and cocaine, which it said could be transported into the country in five standard-sized shipping containers, had a value conservatively estimated at £4.0 billion. Among the officially suppressed data (withheld because it was supplied by a security agency) was a table provided by the National Criminal Intelligence Service showing average UK street prices for various drugs. The average cost tor a heavy cannabis (marihuana) user was given as £89 a week, and £525 for a user of crack cocaine. Users of cocaine were said to be spending £420 a week, and heroin addicts £300 weekly: see Figure 30, on page 170.

The suppressed pages, according to 'The Guardian', stated that the drugs supply market into Britain is sophisticated, and that attempts to intervene had not resulted (as of June 2003) in sustainable disruption to the market at any level. 'Government interventions against the drug business are a cost of doing business, rather than a substantive threat to the industry's viability.... Because upstream UK suppliers enjoy high profits, they are more able to absorb the cost of interception. Thus upstream seizures may temporarily impact street availability, but are unlikely to threaten the viability of any individual business'. Stressing the hopeless inadequacy of seizure rates, the study said that the outcome over the preceding decade and a half had been that, 'despite interventions at every point in the supply chain, cocaine and heroin consumption has been rising, prices [have been] falling, and drugs have continued to reach users'.

Since 'The Guardian' had access to the pages of the first Birt Report which were withheld under the Freedom of Information Act, and since the newspaper's coverage made no mention of the involvement of intelligence services, it may be assumed that it was made clear to the newspaper that such references would not be welcome. But they are necessary. And now that intelligence confirmation of this scandal has been forthcoming it will be interesting to see whether the filthy activities of GO-2/MI6 are brought to a halt through an overdue change of personnel, or whether, as usually happens, the buck will be passed, the messenger will be shot, and the crisis will simply escalate.

Lord Birf s report subsided, unfortunately, into the usual mushy rhetoric about the number of deaths in Britain from drugs (749 annually from heroin and methadone) being nothing like the 6,000 annual deaths from alcohol abuse and the 100,000 deaths inflicted by smoking tobacco. There were 674 annual hospital admissions on mental health grounds resulting from cannabis use, compared with an average of 3,480 in the case of heroin users (on the basis of the outdated data contained in the report). But three million people in Britain (5% of the population) use illicit drugs every year. Figure 28 shows the exponential notified increase in UK dependent opiate and cocaine users between 1970 and 2000 inclusive. It reveals that prior to the collapse of morality and the international competitive drug-running free-for-all presided over and facilitated by intelligence communities, there were hardly any dependent opiate and cocaine users in the United Kingdom at all.

Drugs are distributed not least at mass Psy-Ops events such as the Glastonbury

Festival which coincides every year with the occult summer solstice, and which attracts hoardes of brainwashed young (and not-so-young) people, who waste their weekends sleeping together and smoking pot, while listening to tawdry, often Satanic, sounds from a distant rostrum - a pastime which binds them ever more closely into the decadent 'New Age' of Aquarius subculture, leaving their minds and souls empty, their bodies exhausted, and their spirits alienated as far as Satan can procure, from their Maker. The 'Live 8' 'concert' of trashy 'music' held in Hyde Park at which Sir Bob Geldof was hugged in public by Tony Blair in a revolting display of touchy-feeliness, was another such deliberately demoralising artificial event, which the British media blew up out of all proportion. These mass Psy-Ops events, which occur with ever increasing frequency as the New Underworld Order unfolds, are intended inter alia to substitute 'global values' for the lost morality which has been fostered in part by the distribution of drugs by criminalised intelligence communities allied to the Illuminati. They are components of the continuing, orchestrated campaign to try to force 'universal values' upon the whole of humanity, and to deny our precious individuality.

THE PRESCRIPTION OF THE GERMAN AGENT, LAVRENTII BERIA

It has already been stated that Lavrentii Beria, Stalin's odious Interior Ministry secret police chief, was a deep-cover German agent. This fact is well understood among UK

'THE COMMUNIST MANUAL OF INSTRUCTIONS ON PSYCHO-POLITICAL WARFARE' With an Introduction by Lavrentii Beria

From Volume 9, Congressional Record, 1939

'This misalignment of the loyalty of youth... sets the proper stage for a realignment of their loyalties with Communism. Creating a greed for drugs, sexual misbehaviour and uncontrolled freedom... will with ease bring about our alignment'.

- Note that Beria understood that demand for drugs has to be created (through supply), since of course, no natural demand for such poisonous substances exists - a simple reality that UK and US authorities choose to ignore.
- Beria prescribed that Psychopolitical operatives masquerading as 'mental healers' must be placed in the close entourage of the children of prominent leaders. This method represents a manifestation of the Illuminati's rule, based upon Jesuitical practice, of positioning their agentur adjacent to seats of power, or better still, occupying powerful positions. This is why intelligence officers are Presidents, Prime Ministers, holders of high office, and top officials in leading countries. In the psychopolitical context German intelligence has successfully destabilised foreign regimes using 'mental healers' - instances being: (1) Rasputin, a German agent who operated right deep inside the Russian Royal Family; (2) Mrs Wallis Simpson, an agent for the Abwehr, who penetrated the British Royal Family with a view to influencing the King to disapprove of war against Germany. Edward VIII was allowed to claim that he had renounced the throne because of love for his 'commoner' companion, but in reality he was forced to abdicate when the Abwehr's penetration was exposed; and (3) Susie Orbach, a 'mental healer' (psychoanalyst) from the US West Coast allegedly not recognised professionally in London, who may have targeted Princess Diana. ■

BRAIN-WASHING

A Synthesis of the Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics

PSYCHOPOLITICS - The art and science of asserting and maintaining dominion over the thoughts and loyalties of individuals, officers, bureaus, and masses, and the effecting of the conquest of enemy nations through "mental healing."

Figure 31: 'Brain-Washing': A Synthesis of the Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics', or the 'Communist Manual of Instructions on Psychopolitical Warfare', as exposed by Kenneth Goff in testimony before a US Congressional Committee hearing in Washington DC [Extracted from Volume 9 of the 1939 Congressional Record].

intelligence operatives. So, following Stalin's death, Beria took it upon himself to implement instructions from his covert German (Nazi) controllers, and travelled to East Germany where he had intended to start the process which the KGB and the GRU actually implemented more than a generation later, in 1989 - at the end of the 40-year period that was secretly agreed between the Allies and Stalin during which Germany was to be occupied by all the wartime 'Allies'.

While working for his occultic Illuminist meister, Beria indulged in the extirpation of human beings on a scale which would have made his German mentors, Karl Marx and Adolf Hitler, envious. The proportions of Beria's 'population reduction' orgy of terror will, however, have been marginal compared with what may have been planned for the United States, and which would be put into effect if the Fourth Reich were to complete its elevation into view on the ruins of the Republic. This is what Nazis stated, in a document exposed in Chapter 8, that they intend to achieve; and many thinking Americans who have managed to avoid being brainwashed and psychologically manipulated by their partially criminalised intelligence services, recognise instinctively what could be in store. Given Lavrentii Beria's long covert service to the Nazi International at the epicentre of Stalin's murderous Illuminist regime, and given that Beria was one of the most odiously Satanic of all the Illuminati's 'Soviet' revolutionaries, it is instructive to review what this ogre had to say about the use of drugs to poison and destabilise targeted populations.

His poisonous advice appeared in a textbook prepared by the Comintern for use by US underground Communist training schools. It contains an address by Lavrentii Beria to American students attending Lenin University in Moscow, prior to 1936. The text of this address was published as a Foreword to the subversive document - which was originally entitled 'THE Communist Manual of Instructions in Psychopolitical Warfare', and was employed in the United States for the training of Communist political cadres in the 1930s.

It was first exposed by a Mr Kenneth Goff, who was a dues-paying member of the Communist Party USA (CPUSA) from 2nd May 1936 to 10th October 1939, when he resigned in disgust, in order to appear voluntarily before the Un-American Activities Committee in Washington, which was chaired at that time by Martin Dies. During the years of his US Party membership, Goff attended a Communist Party school located at 113 E. Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, which functioned under the name of The Eugene Debs Labor School. The curriculum included training in psychopolitics, including 'the art of capturing a nation through brainwashing and fake mental health - the subjecting of whole nations of people to the rule of the Kremlin by the capturing of their minds'[48]. This conditioning included the use of drugs, and the sexualisation of youth, with the deliberate intent of disassociating young people from their national loyalties, and their families. It is manifest that Beria's evil prescription has been fulfilled to the letter, through the creation of Satanic 'music' and a drug-pop culture which alienates them from their families, promotes wholesale promiscuity, and procures the breakdown of the family, institutions and society that has taken place.

It is also clear that Mr Goff did not understand that the programme he was outlining was the agenda of the Illuminati. In the document exposing the Illuminati, dating from the late 18th century that the Author examines in Chapter 7, it will be seen that the promoters of societal breakdown knew, and know, that what they prescribe for youth is wrong and undesirable, but they justify what they prescribe with the excuse that the outcome will be 'for the greater good' (of the Brotherhood): the end justifies the means.

'THE COMMUNIST MANUAL ON PSYCHOPOUTICAL WARFARE' AND PARALLEL U.S. ABOMINATIONS

'The Communist Manual on Psychopolitical Warfare' was used in the United States in the 1930s for training Communist cadres. The Manual was exposed by an American Communist, Kenneth Goff, who resigned from the Communist Party USA (CPUSA), in 1939, after three years as a dues-paying member, operating under his own name and an alias, John Keats.

In 1939, Goff appeared before the Un-American Activities Committee chaired by Martin Dies, in Washington DC, and his testimony was published in Volume 9 of the Congressional Record of that year. Allegations that the text was a British forgery, are false.

The Soviet Illuminati regime defined psychopolitics as 'the art and science of asserting and maintaining dominion over the thoughts and loyalties of individuals, officers, bureaus, and the masses, and the effecting of the conquest of enemy nations through "mental healing"'.

By 'mental healing' was meant intervention by fake 'psychiatrists' whose evil task, while masquerading as that of healing, was actually to destabilise and control the minds of their targets. Particular emphasis was placed upon the targeting of the spouses and children of prominent figures in the policymaking and political firmaments of 'enemy' countries.

The families of these persons', the Manual asserted, 'are often deranged from idleness and glut, and this fact must be played upon, even created. The normal health and wildness of a rich man's son must be twisted and perverted and explained into neurosis and then, assisted by a timely administration of drugs or violence, turned into criminality or insanity. This brings at once someone in "mental healing"' (e.g., Rasputin, a German agent) 'into confidential contact with the family, and from this point on, the very most must then be made of that contact'.

This prescription is identical to the splinter-programming operations of specialist US intelligence cadres working within the framework of the Himmlerian tradition and such mind-control programmes, designed to split targeted personalities, as MK-ULTRA Project Monarch, under which Multiple Personality Disorder was created and subdivided so that the victim acquires a wide range of 'alters' which his or her handler can trigger using pre-programmed words or phrases from 'The Wizard of Oz', 'Alice in Wonderland', and many other freakish mind-fantasies.

The fact that Lavrentii Beria, who has been exposed as a German agent, like Rasputin, was promoting the same Satanic destructive degradation prescriptions as the heirs of Nazi psychological warfare operatives, provides irrefutable confirmation of the common Illuminati origins of the two primary 20th Century 'Black' regimes, Soviet Communism and Nazism.

In the United States, official researchers in this field established how to exploit the Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD), or Dissociative Identity Disorder (DID) created by means of near-death trauma (violence) and gross sexual abuse in their victims. DID represents the mind's sane response to insanity - providing a mechanism for dealing with trauma that is beyond comprehension. For instance, incestuous rape (extensively used for this purpose, as parents in this business ritually abuse their children) violates primitive instinct and surpasses pain tolerance.

By compartmentalising the memory of such horrendous abuse, the rest of the mind can function 'normally' as though nothing had happened - until reminded of the past abuse. This compartmentalisation, Himmler's researchers and their Satanic US and German CIA heirs discovered, is created by the brain actually shutting down neuron pathways to a specific part of the brain. The same part of the brain that is already conditioned to the trauma then deals with it again and again, as 'needed'.

Lavrentii Beria, being an agent for the Abwehr who reached the position of head of the Soviet NKVD, was talking 'the same language'. The 'Manual', to which he provided an introduction, taught, for instance, that 'exercises in sexual attack on patients should be practiced by the psychopolitical operative to demonstrate the inability of the patient under pain-drug hypnosis to recall the attack, while indoctrinating a lust for further sexual activity on the part of the patient'. For this purpose, unsuspecting patients were to be satiated and hooked with opiates, cocaine, and other mind-bending drugs. ■

We can see this much more clearly today, given the intensive research that has been taking place into these issues, and the brazen lack of concern shown by promulgators of the 'New Age' abominations, about such exposures as have already occurred. Of special interest here is the Communist Manual's instructions concerning the distribution of drugs:

'By making available drugs of various kinds, by giving the teenager alcohol, by praising his wildness, by stimulating him with sex literature and advertising to him or her practices as taught at the Sexpol[49], the psychopolitical operator can create the necessary attitude of chaos, idleness and worthlessness into which can then be cast the solution which will give the teenager complete freedom everywhere - Communism'.

In case it should be imagined that the prescribed outcome (Fasco-Communism) is outmoded, any brief study of the logical conclusion of what is happening and intended in both Europe and the United States will confirm that the projected end-product is 'Fascist Communism'. And if it should be thought that, as a covert Nazi, Lavrentii Beria would not have wanted to promote Communism, a moment's recollection of the Stalin-Hitler dialectic ('International' Socialism versus 'National' Socialism) will bring the observer back 'on message'. Recall, too, that the regimes of Lenin/Trotsky and Stalin, on the one hand, and of Hitler, Himmler, Goebbels et al on the other, were the first mega-Illuminati Black regimes, created as models for the future, and based on the false dialectical 'opposites' developed by the 'two Karls', Ritter (Fascism) and Marx (Communism) [see page 558] whose work was sponsored by the Illuminati. Because the Illuminati, and their Nazi associates have never been defeated - the destruction of the Hitler regime having been mistaken for the destruction of Nazism - these demonic forces, driven by the 'seething energies of Lucifer', have never rested, and intend to implement their hellish plans. As the Nazi paper examined in Chapter 8 explained, 'for us, the war never ended'.

The psychopolitical operator (a false psychiatrist or psychoanalyst, such as those spawned especially in the United States following the mass migration of revolutionary actives like Wilhelm Reich, from Freud's Vienna-based school) was in a position, the 'Communist Manual' advised, to turn children into beasts:

'The role of the psychopolitical operator in this is very strong. He can, from his position as an authority on the mind, advise all manner of destructive measures. He can teach the lack of control of this child at home' ('do as you please' education). 'He can instruct, in an optimum situation, the entire nation in how to handle children -and instruct them, so that the children, given no control, given no real home, can run wildly about with no responsibility for their nation or for themselves'.

This agenda [see also Chapter 2] has long since been implemented in both Britain and the United States - taking the dark form of 'Outcome-Based Education' in which the child's attitudes and acceptance of 'universal values' are rated far above his or her acquisition of knowledge and skills. It is hardly surprising that in neither country can sizeable numbers of graduates spell or compose sentences properly, and that in the United States, attention spans can now be measured in nanoseconds. This is obvious whenever one is unfortunate enough to glance at almost any US TV programme: sub-liminal messages and rapidly changing images are intentionally consistent with the minimisation of attention spans. This condition in turn maximises the potential for the malevolent Illuminati elite to exploit, manipulate, mislead, deceive, control, and ultimately perpetrate atrocities against, its own citizens, with 100% impunity. That people could be so consistently ill-intentioned is hard to comprehend: but we are describing reality.

'TO MAINTAIN AND EXPAND POWER, RULERS MUST DEPLOY TERROR'

The intended mass psychopolitical offensive was delayed, beyond the Soviet Union, because of the outbreak of the Second World War. It was resumed in the 1950s, after Stalin's death, when it was integrated into the Communist long-range deception strategy later exposed by Anatoliy Golitsyn in his classic works 'New Lies for Old' and 'The Perestroika Deception'[50]. With our closer understanding of the German origins of these evils, the precise correlation of Lavrentii Beria's drug-based prescription for the creation of societal 'chaos out of order', and the parallel prescriptions of the Frankfurt School [see Addendum, Chapter 4], become glaringly self-evident. The 'Communist Manual' further prescribed the psychomanipulative ingredients necessary for any sustained reign of 'state terror', the relevance of which can be seen much more clearly in the light of contemporary random global terrorism attacks such as the DVD/Al-Qaeda 9/11 atrocities, Madrid or the DVD-coordinated terrorist attacks in London on 7th July 2005.

For instance, the 'Communist Manual' proclaimed that: 'An element of terror must always be present on the part of those who would govern'. Were George Bush Sr. and Jr., Vice-President Cheney and their cohorts ever students of the 'Communist Manual on Psychopolitical Warfare'? Their obvious understanding of the role that terror is meant to play, according to the Illuminati, in the retention and maximisation of power, appears to be a practical consequence of their comparable indoctrination, programming and conditioning as controlled and controlling operatives through MK-ULTRA-type mind-focused and sex-based Monarch abominations - Mr Cheney having at one stage allegedly been in charge of the MK-ULTRA and related Himrnlerian-Tavistock conditioning programmes developed by the CIA. The pedigree of these Satanic mind- and personality-modification methods stretches back to the Nazi scientists [Chapter 8] and earlier.

Lavrentii Beria's odious prescriptions must seem primitive by the standards of the diabolical perpetrators of Himmlerian Psychological Operations and the mind- and personality-modification techniques that the CIA, the Tavistock Institute and other centres of these evil traditions in the West, and these 'inventors of evil things', have since contrived to develop. But 'qualitatively', there is no difference whatsoever between the cold prescriptions and institutionalised brutality taught by Beria, Himmler and Cheney.

THE END JUSTIFIES THE MEANS • MAN IS AN EXPENDABLE ANIMAL

The reprobate and hellish Lavrentii Beria taught that 'the (false) psychiatrist (by which was meant: psychopolitical operative) is aptly suited to this role, for his brutalities... are inexplicably complex, and entirely out of view of human understanding.... If you would have obedience, you must make it clearly understood that you have no mercy. Man is an animal. He understands, in the final analysis, only those things, which a brute understands.... The end thoroughly justifies the means. The degradation of populaces is less inhuman than their destruction by atomic fission, for to an animal who lives only once, any life is sweeter than death'.

As will be seen in the Chapter on the Illuminati, The end justifies the means' is the sect's primary and explicitly stated rationale - central to its conspiratorial modus operandi, and of greater fundamental importance even than 'Do as thou wilt', the professed motto of one of the Illuminati's most perniciously reprobate manifestations, Ordo Templi Orientis, to which George Bush Sr. allegedly belongs.

Lavrentii Beria, the German (Nazi) agent operating at the epicentre of Stalin's dictatorship, who endorsed these utterly depraved, authoritarian 'principles', which included the ruthless maximisation of the potential of drug-trafficking operations as a weapon against targeted populations, met an appropriately ghastly end, crawling on his knees and begging for the mercy that he had systematically denied to millions of his victims.

According to one description of Beria's last moments, the Soviet KGB 'defector' Yuri Ivanovich Nosenko 'made an interesting revelation that, if true, adds a curious footnote to the story of one of history's most diabolical villains. Nosenko claimed that he was one of the agents who arrested Lavrentii Pavlovich Beria, the man who had been Stalin's chief executioner during the mass exterminations of the prewar purges. As head of the People's Commissariat for Internal Affairs (NKVD), a predecessor of the KGB, Beria had presided over the most feared secret police agency of its day. Millions died at his orders. But, according to Nosenko, when given a pistol and told to shoot himself, Beria cried uncontrollably, clutching at the boots of those who tried, in vain, to convince him to do "the honourable thing". Beria was finally shot dead by one of his captors', who is believed by some to have been Nosenko himself.

As elaborated in the preceding Chapter, the mentally deranged perpetrators of Works of Darkness, whether actual members of the huge sect of the Illuminati, or their duped operatives, agentur, adepts and implemented, have only one product: death.

Which is of course why drug-trafficking, which leads addicts to an early grave, is their preferred means of financing the completion of their World Revolution, a.k.a. the New Underworld Order. Pending their early demise, drug addicts (whose fragile lives have been destroyed by these Dark Actors, the odious intelligence operatives who have prostituted themselves and their countries' integrity for the cash-flows 'needed' to finance covert control operations without the sanction of the legislatures that are supposed to oversee their activities) are left to attack old ladies and to rob passers-by, in their desperate search for funds with which to finance the addictions induced by the supply of drugs from which the Illuminati finance their global hegemony abominations.

As for these deaths, they represent, for the corrupt perpetrators, 'collateral damage'. The end justifies the means. Human life is expendable. Man is an animal. This doctrine is the Luciferian reverse of the Way, the Truth and the Life. Our consolation is that, as Paul tells us, 'they which commit such things are worthy of death' [Romans, 1, 32].

Verne Lyon, a 'former' CIA undercover operative, who appears to have realised that the slogan at Langley is a lie, and has understood where all this is leading, states:

'Given the power granted to the office of the Presidency and the unaccountability of the intelligence agencies, widespread illegal domestic operations [by the CIA] are certain. We as a people should remember history, and not repeat it. It is therefore essential that the CIA be reorganized and stripped of its covert operations capability. Effective Congressional oversight is also an important condition for ending the misuse of the intelligence apparatus that has plagued every US Administration since the formation of the CIA. A great deal is at risk: our personal freedoms, as well as the viability of this society. The CIA must be put in its place.'

'Should we demand or allow anything less, we will remain vulnerable to these abuses and will face the risk of decaying into a lawless state destined to self-destruction'.

This prophecy was uttered many years ago. Its accuracy cannot be disputed. It is late in the day, indeed, for honourable Americans and Britons to begin a belated agitation for the drug crimes committed against humanity by their intelligence barons to cease, and for those powerful figures who mastermind these abominations to be brought to justice. Given the depravity of their crimes, lamp-post treatment would hardly be out of order. ■

Chapter 3: THE LURE OF DRUGS: Notes and references:

1. Publicised in the classic work 'Marx and Satan' by Pastor Richard Wumbrand, a former leader of the underground church in Romania, who was of Jewish extraction and who spent 14 years in a dungeon located beneath the palace inhabited by the dictator, Nicolae Ceausescu. This remarkable book is available from The Voice of the Martyrs: www.persecution.com.
2. The 'seething energies of Lucifer': see e.g., page 72 and Note 52 to Chapter 2, on page 78.
3. Isaiah Chapter 14, verses 12-14. Verses 15-17 continue appropriately: ''Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit. They that see thee shall narrowly look upon thee, and consider thee, saying, Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, that did shake kingdoms; That made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof; that opened not the house of his prisoners?' Who does this remind you of?
4. 'The mystery of iniquity' is mentioned and explained by the Apostle Paul in his Second Epistle to the Thessalonians, Chapter 2, verse 7: 'For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way. And then shall that Wicked [One] be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming: Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders. And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they receive not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie; That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness'. This is a perfect description of those who invoke the pretext of 'peace' and protecting people from terrorist attacks, as justification for perpetrating atrocities. By his brilliant phrase 'the mystery of iniquity', Paul also means that the rational, normal person trying to lead his life in accordance with civilised standards of morality cannot understand what drives these evil people: it is a mystery. This mystery is really only explainable in spiritual terms, namely that they are 'possessed': driven by the 'seething energies of Lucifer'.
5. 'The Perestroika Deception: The World's Slide towards the Second October Revolution ['Weltoktober']', Anatoliy Golitsyn, Edward Harle Limited, London and New York, 1995 and 1999 (reprinted four times). Copies of this work are available, as is the case with all our titles, from the London and New York offices (www.edwardharle.com).
6. 'Soviet Analyst'' is edited by this Author and is published by World Reports Limited, 108 Horseferry Road, Westminster, London SW1P 2EF, UK. For details, see website: www.sovietanalyst.com.
7. 'Caught Red-handed', Soviet Analyst, Volume 26, Number 2, February 2000, page 2.
8. 'Thieves' World: The Threat of the New Global Network of Organized Crime', by the late Claire Sterling, Simon and Schuster, New York, 1994, page 113; from Claire's interview with Boris Uvarov in Moscow, July 1992.
9. 'Die Welt', 29 August 2002.
10. 'Soviet Analyst', Volume 29, Number 7, May 2005, page 12.
11. In 'The Party's Gold', by Igor Bunich, Kiev, circa 1986, the author recalls how Stalin ordered his NKVD (Interior Ministry) chief, Genrikh Grigoryevich Yagoda, to demand full details of all the co-revolutionaries' secret Swiss bank accounts and their numbers. Yagoda duly procured this information and furnished it to Stalin (Djugashvili), but omitted details of his own Swiss bank accounts. Stalin, however, who had his own 'inner inner' super-secret intelligence service, checked the bank account numbers off against the list supplied by his own agents, and found Yagoda's secret bank account details, which had been omitted from the list that Yagoda had himself prepared. Stalin now demanded that all those on the list repatriate the 'assets of the Party-State' which they had raped ('the Party's Gold'), which all did, hoping that by repatriating the assets they had stolen, their lives would at least be saved. But when the time came, Yagoda received a bullet through the temples, like all of the other prominent Leninist revolutionaries with the single exception of Krupskaya, Lenin's widow, who broke down and wept in Stalin's presence. Stalin relented and preserved Krupskaya's life. GRU-President Vladimir Putin's campaign against the 'first generation' of (KGB-GRU) 'oligarchs' (who are today being succeeded by an even more flamboyant group of such operatives) is modelled upon Stalin's operation to recover 'the Party's Gold', i.e. the assets of the Party-State which were 'privatised', for international public consumption and cosmetic hoodwinking purposes, into the hands of the selected KGB and GRU operatives who later became known as 'the oligarchs'.
12. The Washington Post', 29th July 2000.
13. 'Red Mafiya: How the Russian mob has invaded America', Robert I. Friedman, Little, Brown and Company, Boston, New York and London, 2000, page 149.
14. 'Police swoop on Spain's Costa crime kings', The Guardian', London, 21st June 2005, page 10.
15. Human sacrifices at Satanic abominations now take place all over the United States at the Summer Solstice, around 22nd June and at the annual event of Demon Revels (the High Grand Climax) on the 24th December. Other occult dates on which such atrocities (animal and/or human sacrifice and dismemberment) are perversely revelled in, include 7th January (St Winebald's Day), 20th January (Inauguration Day, 2005; and another Grand Climax Day), 2nd February (Sabbat Festival with Satanic revels), 25th February (St. Valpurgis Day), 1st March (St Eichstadt), 14th April (variable date of Good Friday, the day of the death of Christ, which is greatly celebrated by these people), 21st April, 30th April (Walpurgisnacht), 20th July (five weeks and one day after the Summer Solstice), 1st August (Lammas Day), 7th September (Marriage to the Beast Satan), 20th September, and 28th and 31st October (so-called Satanic Holy High days). For human sacrificial victims, if animals are not used, the perpetrators of these atrocities - towards which official blind eyes are routinely turned, not least because of the involvement of elements of the official structures and law enforcement in such activities - steal babies from hospitals, or else use drugged females. In March 2005, it was reported in the 'mainstream' media that the FBI has a list of 22,000 women in the United States who have been reported missing, and that none of the women on this list are ever found. Women victims are typically scouted for at all-night orgy-rave parties, during which they are drugged, and from which they never return. Indeed some such parties are staged for this very purpose. Commentaries allege that the actual number of females who have disappeared in the United States is far larger, by an order of magnitude. The same kind of thing takes place in the United Kingdom, whence so many of these evils originate. For instance, an ordained churchman, known to the Editor, told us several years ago that the number of cases of human sacrifice which he himself knew about in a given recent year, in the diocese of Exeter alone, was 19. Multiplied by the number of Church of England dioceses, this would imply several hundred abominations of actual female human sacrifice in England and Wales alone, every year. If reported at all, such intelligence tends to be based upon anonymously supplied information, or upon leads collected by concerned priests. The same source further informed us that the actual data about these 19 human sacrifice instances were expunged from a report which is evidently compiled from time to time by the Church, and routinely 'buried'.

16. Rachel Ehrenfeld, 'Narco Terrorism: How Governments around the World have used the Drug Trade to finance and further terrorist activities', Basic books, HarperCollins Publishers, New York, 1990, page 177.

17. Rachel Ehrenfeld, whom the Author has interviewed and whose pioneering work and serious approach to the subject he greatly admires, addressed, in 'Narco Terrorism', the operations of intelligence criminalist drug traffickers from Bulgaria, Cuba, Lebanon and Syria, Colombia, Peru, Bolivia and the United States, omitting the drug-trafficking activities of the Israelis, the British and the Chinese Communists and Triads. Although her omission of information about Israeli trafficking may have been intentional, the lack of information about the drug-trafficking operations of the Chinese Triads, is paralleled in the present work, for reasons of space. But a brief note on the Chinese Triads' drug operations appears in the box on page 182.

18. Jeffrey Robinson, 'The Laundrymen': Inside the World's Third Largest Business', Simon & Schuster Ltd, London. Mr Robinson had been resident in London for 15 years when the third edition of this work was published in 1998.

19. Robinson, 'The Laundrymen', op. cit., page 332.

20. Robinson, 'The Laundrymen', op. cit., page 332.

21. Robinson, 'The Laundrymen', op. cit., pages 332-333.

22. Report by Scott Ritter dated 19th June 2005.

23. Scott Ritter, op. cit.

24. Scott Ritter, ibid.

25. The entire proceedings of the Conference (the International Conference of Communist and Workers' Parties, held in June 1969 in Moscow - a replay of the 1960 81-Party Conference at which the Soviet long-range strategy was approved) were based on Leninist methods of work, typical of the Communist movement, viz democratism and the equality of all [Communist] Parties in considering the agenda. 'Proletarian Internationalism: Guideline of the Communists, V. Polyansky, Novosti Press Agency Publishing House, Moscow, 1970, page 96. This document happens also to contain an officially sanctioned confirmation of the accuracy of Anatoliy Golitsyn's analysis elaborated in his classic works 'New Lies of Old' and 'The Perestroika Deception'concerning the Communist Party of the Soviet Union's long-range deception strategy. The following passage (pages 94-95) says it all: The 1957 and 1960 Moscow Conferences of representatives of Communist and Workers' Parties have made a deep imprint upon the history of the International Communist Movement. They made a major contribution to the development of Marxist-Leninist theory. At these Conferences by the collective efforts of the fraternal Parties, the objective laws of development of the world revolutionary process were defined, and the principles of the international strategy of the Communist movement in a new situation elaborated'.

26. 'The Guardian', G2 section, 6th July 2005, page 5.

27. 'Political Affairs, Theoretical Journal of the Communist Party CSA', September/October 1994, page 43: The Central Committee of the Party [entitled] The Union of Communists' and the Moscow City Committee of the CPSU [= Communist Party of the Soviet Union - Ed.] congratulate you on the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Communist Party, USA.... And today, in the time of growing reaction in the world, the CPUSA remains loyal to Marxism-Leninism and continues to be one of the most authoritative vanguards of the world Communist movement. We, Soviet Communists, will always remember your moral support.... We are glad to tell you that... the Communist movement in Russia and the Soviet Union is reviving and its influence is growing'. The April 1995 issue of 'Political Affairs' contained an article by Sam Webb, Secretary of the Labor Commission of the CPUSA, who had earlier returned from the Third Congress of the Russian Communist Party, held in Moscow in January 1995. Page 4 of this issue contained the following paragraph: 'Also attending were other components of the Communist Movement in Russia. The most prominent was the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, which acts as a coordinating structure of the parties of the former USSR'. These references are entirely consistent with the statement by President Gorbachev at the 29th Congress of the CPSU on 6th July 1990, that 'in a democratic [sic!] state, a changeover to a multiparty system is inevitable. Various political parties are gradually being formed in our country. At the same time, a fundamental renewal of the CPSU is inevitable. What is the most civilised process of modernising the Party, the one least painful for the people? First, it is necessary to organisationally codify all the platforms that exist in the CPSU and to give every Communist time for [controlled - Ed] political self-determination. I am sure that most rank-and-file Communists link the Party's future with the democratic wing. Secondly, to change the name of the Party [RELABELLING]. It should be a party of democratic socialism. [And] the Party should divest itself of all State functions'. • As Anatoliy Golitsyn explained and anticipated, without being burdened by the day-to-day running of the country, the CPSU could concentrate upon implementing, on a global scale, the Leninist model of the Revolution. Note, finally, that in Gorbachev's statement, there is a presumption that the Communist Party of the Soviet Union shall remain in existence, as a supremely powerful political force, which is exactly what happened. Nowhere is there any suggestion that the CPSU should be wound up: and it wasn't. • THE PARALLEL WITH THE SECRET, COVERT NAZI CONTINUUM IS STRIKING. THE NAZI PARTY WAS 'DIVESTED OF ALL ITS STATE FUNCTIONS' WITH THE DEFEAT OF HITLER'S THIRD REICH IN 1945. IT WAS THEREFORE LEFT TO DEVELOP AND APPLY LONG-RANGE GLOBAL 'THOUSAND-YEAR REICH' STRATEGY, WITHOUT HAVING TO WORRY ABOUT DAY-TO-DAY POLITICAL MANAGEMENT.

28. The Author, who was allowed to record the interview in question, which took place in 2004, has this statement on tape, which is stored remotely in a secure location.

29. Scott Ritter, report dated 21st June 2005, op. cit.

30. In an extended, recorded, interview conducted by the Author on 9th June 2005.

31. Jeffrey Robinson, 'The Laundrymen', op. cit, page 334.

32. Taped statement, in the same interview as is referred to in Note 30.

33. 'Red Cocaine: The Drugging of America and the West', by Dr Joseph D. Douglass Jr., Edward Harle Limited, London and New York, 1999. See website: www.edwardharle.com.

34. The text of this Affidavit was first published in 'The Latin American Times', Volume 17, Number 8, January 2003, World Reports Limited, 108 Horseferry Road, Westminster, London SW1P 2EF, United Kingdom. The Author's attention was drawn to the Affidavit by a US intelligence source who is among those who are disgusted at the corruption of the Agency.

35. Rodney Stich, 'Defrauding America', cited by Uri Dowbenko in: 'Bushwhacked: Inside Stories of True Conspiracy', Conspiracy Digest LLC, Montana, 2003, pages 89 ef seq.

36. Uri Dowbenko, 'Bushwhacked', op. cit. [in Note 35], page 91.

37. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 91.

38. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 92.

39. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 83.

40. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, 91.

41. Senior US intelligence operatives lecturing on a cruise off the West Coast of the United States in 2003 boasted openly of the intelligence community's exceptional success in bringing the mainstream media under its control. A witness who was present divulged to the Author that they boastfully considered this to be their greatest success, by far.

42. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 84.

43. Cited by Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 85.

44. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 94.

45. Uri Dowbenko, op. cit, page 94.

46. 'Rogue Ops: Task Force 121 under FBI investigation', intelligence report by Wayne Madsen, posted on 26th June 2005.

47. H. R. Haldeman, in 'The Ends of Power', New York, 1978, page 64.

48. 'Brainwashing: A synthesis of the Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics', with an Address by Stalin's NKVD Chief, Lavrentii Beria, and an Editorial Note by a former US Communist, Kenneth Goff. The document was made available in association with Goff's testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington, DC, in 1939. See main text and Figure 31, page 173.

49. There are very few references in the Communist and Reichian literature to the Sexpol, which was a department of the Lenin School in which 'sexual politics' was taught. The 'methodology' for the exploitation of sexuality for revolutionary purposes was developed mainly by Wilhelm Reich, a leading 'light' of the revolutionary Frankfurt School based at the University of Frankfurt during the Weimar Republic period. Reich invented the phrase 'sexual revolution'. In 1934, Wilhelm Reich was expelled from the German Communist Party, from the International Psychoanalytic Organization [sic], and finally from Germany itself by the Nazis. A Freudian 'clone', Reich was a member of the Austrian Communist Party from 1927 to 1930 (in Vienna) and of the German Communist Party from 1930 to 1934, during which periods he organised sex clinics to help Austrian and German youth. The late Dr Leo Raditsa, a friend of the Author, of St John's College, Annapolis, MD, wrote, in an unpublished manuscript sent to the Author in 1999, that 'the sexual revolution of the sixties and seventies when Reich was read everywhere without, however, much public discussion, could not have occurred without Reich and, of course, his teacher, Freud'.

50. 'New Lies for Old', Anatoliy Golitsyn, Dodd, Mead, New York, 1984. Several years after the publication of this classic work, Dodd Mead went out of business. Subsequently, several illegal pirated editions of the work appeared in the United States, which are in breach of the author's copyright. Using a combination of his knowledge of the KGB's Leninist methodology and retained inside information, Golitsyn predicted inter alia the removal of the Berlin Wall and the bringing to fruition of the Soviet long-range strategic deception strategy, both of which were duly implemented under President Gorbachev, who had been head of the all-powerful CPSU Administrative Department under Yuri Andropov (Lieberman). Gorbachev (real name Orbach or Korbach) remained head of the KGB Continuum until at least 2005, when his overall supervisory responsibilities may (although the Author personally doubts this) have been taken over by Yevgeniy Primakov (Finkelstein), leaving Gorbachev free to continue escorting a wealthy US West Coast divorcee and gathering intelligence on the US social circuit. The Perestroika Deception, Golitsyn's second classic work, was first published in 1995, and was edited by this Author. It has been reprinted four times and is available from Edward Harle Limited at the London and New York offices [www.edwardharle.com]. This second work contained a large number of predictions about the future course of events, based upon Golitsyn's self-initiated memoranda to the Central Intelligence Agency, which approved publication after screening for security issues. The Soviet Leninist long-range deception strategy is described in both volumes. Additional documented intelligence about the long-range deception strategy is contained in the Author's book 'The European Union Collective', Edward Harle Limited. London and New York, 2002: see again www.edwardharle.com. The details of the Soviet strategic deception component are not elaborated here, as this would take us away from the focus of the present work. The three mentioned titles provide comprehensive information about Soviet strategic deception and how it has been deployed to hoodwink the West - as a key element of the Illuminati's dialectical manipulation process. ■

• • • Note on Putin: That Vladimir Putin is a senior Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) operative is not in doubt, even though very senior CIA officials who were so informed by a contact of the Author's during a 'spy cruise' off the West Coast of the United States, were surprised and alarmed to be advised of this crucial fact, assuming him to be a KGB officer. That Putin is GRU is evident not least from his general demeanour, especially from his fixation with the martial arts. One respected senior hands-on US intelligence officer, who used to go drinking with Putin in Leningrad, and who was interviewed in May 2004, told the Author: 'Of course he's GRU. We always knew he was dangerous because of his preoccupation with judo etc'. 'Mike' Delmart Vreeland, an Office of Naval intelligence operative with hands-on experience in Moscow, separately confirmed that Putin is a GRU officer. Michael Waller, the US expert and historian of the KGB, has reported that a biography of Putin, viewed on the Internet in 1997, alluded to Putin's GRU background, but that this information was edited out of subsequent versions of his biographical details (after he had risen to international prominence). Finally, it is evident from the quite extraordinary hagiography of Putin, 'First Person: An Astonishingly Frank Self-Portrait of Vladimir Putin', ghost-ed by Nataliya Gevorkyan, Natalya Timakova and Andrei Kolesnikov, Public Affairs, Perseus Books Group, New York, 2000, that Putin has a background with Soviet military Intelligence. Putin masterminded the successive satellite 'revolutions' from East Germany, working in collaboration with US intelligence cadres. ■

THE MASONIC CHINESE TRIAD DRUG CADRES

Shamefully, the world's leading countries compete among themselves for advantage in the world's most valuable business - drugs. The Chinese drug-running community is dominated by the criminal offshoots of the Chinese Triad Society, a once colossal 'patriotic' organisation formed to rid China of its hated Manchu overlords, the Ch'ing dynasty. The original Triad Society has continued to flourish in Hong Kong and in every sizeable Chinese community overseas - which means just about everywhere. Most of its members are hardworking, law-abiding citizens. But in the early 1980s, the criminal minority among them was known to be organised into more than 1,500 gangs, with over 500 based in Kong Kong alone, engaged in narcotics, prostitution rackets, illegal gambling, protection rackets, and murder-on-demand.

The Chinese have a long tradition of secret societies, with the first thought to have been formed 2,000 years ago. The resulting instincts for secrecy have given Chinese intelligence a considerable advantage over its foreign rivals, while also ensuring that Chinese criminal organisations have earned a reputation for ruthlessness and efficiency that makes Mazzini's Mafia and its heirs look amateurish.

Writing in the best book on this subject, 'Triangle of Death: The Inside Story of the Triad's-the Chinese Mafia' [Routledge and Kegan Paul, London, ISBN 0-7100-8732-2, date uncertain] the Australian-born researcher, Frank Robertson, stated: 'Today there is no valid comparison between the Triad Society and the Mafia, and even less with Western Freemasonry, although there is a similarity in some of the recognition signals used by the Chinese Society and Masons'. The author distinguishes between the original nationalistic organisation and its non-criminal continuum, which he calls the Triad Society, or 'The Society', and the Chinese criminal gangs, which he calls 'the Triads'. Photographs of the hand-signals used by the Triads show that they are all left-handed, involving elaborate contortions of the left hand to generate signals with exotic titles such as 'Head of Dragon' and 'Tail of Phoenix' (the sign of a branch commander). There is also a photograph of 'the secret Triad hand-clasp used by the Second Lodge in Hong Kong', showing that the Triad initiating the greeting uses his left hand to clasp his colleague's right hand in a completely unnatural manner. The author's dismissal of Masonic influence or connections is obviously inaccurate, since the facts that Triads operate in Lodges, and use initiation ceremonies and secret handshakes, make it clear that this organisation, like its lethal Japanese criminal counterpart, the Yakuza, is a huge Masonic op. ■

CHAPTER FOUR

THE HEX OF HIMMLER

THE PSY-OPS DEVIL IN THE RITUAL FIRE SACRIFICE

Among the spectators, including a group of Israelis, who were conveniently situated in Brooklyn directly across the river from the World Trade Center as the two passenger aircraft hit the Twin Towers on 9th September 2001, was a 'photographer' named Mark Phillips. Within days of the atrocities, photographic stills of the smoke and the flames engulfing the towers were released into the public domain. The Author became aware of the existence of the two images, shown here in Figure 3, page 11, and Figure 32 below, which purport to reveal the face of the Devil in the smoke and flames.

The image of the Devil in the smoke was traced to Associated Press, the London bureau of which the Author knew well. On enquiring at the Picture Library whether the image was available, he was informed by the Librarian that he had only recently become aware of the image, and that there appeared to be just one among a series of frames which contained the image of the Devil's face in the smoke. The Author established that the images were timed at 8.59 am on 11th September 2001, and were submitted electronically to AP's bureau at 9.13 am. In separate investigations, the Author and colleagues have established that all enquiries to Associated Press concerning 9/11 have had to be routed through the Washington Bureau, which indicates very clearly that information on these events is controlled by US intelligence, of which Associate Press is essentially an extension and which it is is known to serve generally.

Figure 32: The face of the Devil in the smoke during the 9/11 abomination [see also Figure 3, page 1 7] which appeared in images attributed to Mark Phillips that were submitted electronically at 8.59 am and were received, according to the London AP office, at 9.13 am. This would have provided just 14 minutes for the frame(s) to be doctored to illustrate the presence of Satan at this Illuminati Ritual Fire Sacrifice.

Initially, it seemed to the Author to be impossible for such an image to be inserted within the brief timeframe of 14 minutes implied by the timings given by the AP Librarian in London, which are marked on the source of the stills. The Author was initially therefore inclined to accept the terrifying pictures as genuine. Concerning the CNN photograph [Figure 3, page 11], which shows another face of the Devil in the flames, the Author has not been able to establish the relevant time-sequence.

According to David Bay, of the independent US Baptist Cutting Edge Ministries, two former Satanists called him within two hours after these pictures were released, to inform him that the demons, especially the image in Figure 32, looked exactly like demons they had seen during an occult ritual in which demons physically manifest themselves in this dimension (after being 'conjured'). Some of the most powerful demons in Satan's kingdom are known as Fire Demons, as implied by the Author's late friend Malachi Martin who confirmed, as reported on page 7, that Illuminati and 'high' geomasonic initiates 'have all passed through [initiation] that involves three things: the infliction of pain without flinching, the infliction of death without flinching, and the use of fire'. It was to Fire Demons that the ancient pagan peoples, including at times the children of Israel, sacrificed their children to Moloch (post-natal contraception), which 'illuminates' the evil represented by the idol Moloch in the shape of a giant owl that is at the centre of bizarre occult ritual ceremonies at the Bohemian Grove [see box, page 161], frequented by the Illuminati, including [see the same box] the German Illuminist, Helmut Schmidt. (All German Chancellors are selected by the DVD, Dachau). The appearance of these demons can legitimately be interpreted as confirmation that the 9/11 attack on the Twin Towers - which were blown up from deep underground (in accordance with the final paragraph of Protocol 9 of the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', which is the Illuminati blueprint for the New World Order (Kingdom of Satan)), skewed so that the blame for Dluminati atrocities is transferred to the Jews (see Chapter 7) - was a fire ritual sacrifice carried out by the Illuminati - the New Orleans catastrophe being by contrast, a water or drowning sacrifice. (The Holocaust was an earlier mass sacrifice abomination).

In 1990, Steve Jackson, a creator of card games, began developing a card game that he later called the 'Illuminati New World Order' (PNWO) game. The British intelligence-linked Psy-Ops so-called 'White Magic' occultist David Icke, has drawn attention to the most striking of the cards in this game, which include a card showing a terrorist attack on the Twin Towers. The card game was eventually published in 1995. But right at the start of the process of developing the game, Jackson received an unwelcome visit. He stated [on www.sjgames.com] that 'on the morning of March 1, 1990, without warning a force of armed Secret Service agents - accompanied by Austin police and at least one civilian 'expert' from the phone company - occupied the offices of Steve Jackson Games and began to search for computer equipment.... A large amount of equipment was seized, including four computers, two laser printers, some loose hard disks, and a great deal of assorted hardware', including the computer containing the blueprints of the new game. Steve Jackson later won the subsequent court case.

In those days, the Secret Service was ultimately controlled by George Bush Sr., and Jackson and Icke have speculated that President George Bush Sr. may have been worried about something that S.J. Games was up to, and organised the raid in an attempt to shut the firm down so that the card game - which anticipated an event that was then still 11 years into the future - would never appear. In the event, the game was produced and won the 1995 Origins Award for Best Card Game.

CIA PSY-OPS DABBLING INEVITABLY CONJURES UP DEMONS

Mark Phillips openly advertises himself on the Internet as a 'former' CIA operative. There is of course no such thing as a 'former' intelligence officer. And this man is much more than a routine cloak-and-dagger man. He is a professional handler, with a special expertise: psychological operations - a nefarious discipline, derived from the experimental activities of Heinrich Himmler and his cadre of evil Nazi scientists: activities that Western intelligence agencies, notably the British and the American communities, have elaborated, as of course have the covert Soviets.

Phillips is the co-author of a controversial and extremely unpleasant Psychological Operations (Psy-Ops) book called Trance Formation of America: The True Story of a CIA mind-control Slave [1995] with Cathy OBrien, the so-called MONARCH slave in question [see box, page 161, page 224 et seq., and Figure 42, page 225]. Mark Phillips deprogrammed her[1]. Photographs of Phillips reveal him to resemble the epitome of a CIA or DIA officer - large forehead, white, typically stressed-looking and not at all a happy man. This reflects the fact that he is an expert in mind- and personality-programming, and segmentation, behaviour modification, deprogramming, manipulation and 'psychic driving' - with experience in mind-control and MK-ULTRA-type trauma-based mind-bending.

Phillips is or has been involved in top secret US Government investigations into 'secret knowledge' (dabbling in the occultic 'Ancient Mysteries') which may include activities akin to sorcery, wizardry, divination, demonology psychological manipulation, personality-splitting through sexual abuse, and related nefarious activities 'pioneered' under Heinrich Himmler and annexed by the Soviet Union and the West following the Second World War, which the Western Allies foolishly concluded had erased Nazism from history (a fatal, millennial error). Secret knowledge equals power, the intended end result being (global) control - which is what the New Underworld Order perpetrators are seeking. This is of course the most demonic form of idolatry. Remember what Satan said to the Lord when he was tempting Him? [page 23]: 'Again, the Devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me'. ALL 'kingdoms' are in Satan's hands.

What these geomasonic New Underworld Order fanatics, members of the congregation of the Synagogue of Satan (the Illuminati), have done, is the precise opposite of what the Lord did: they have fallen down before Satan to worship him. But Satan, being 'the father of lies and a murderer from the beginning' and 'the author of confusion', is of course playing deadly games with them, which is what his demons invariably do when invoked. All conjuration runs the extreme risk that those doing the invocations will certainly be deceived. Satan is not a reliable partner, and cannot easily be shaken off once a person has entered into an agreement with him or his minions.

THE CORRUPTING INFLUENCE OF THE BRITISH TAVISTOCK INSTITUTE

Yet the Illuminated Ones continue to believe that what they call The Project - to procure global control at all costs, eliminating billions of human beings in the process if 'necessary' - is feasible, and even 'on track' to succeed, notwithstanding that the current generation of Illuminati intelligence patriarchs are becoming exceedingly long in the tooth, having missed several 'completion deadlines', many being long past normal retirement age: another typical trick of Satan. Here they are, turning the whole world upside down in pursuit of their Luciferian objectives, having fallen down and worshipped Satan, who they imagine has given them 'permission' to proceed - but who, in reality, is tricking, deceiving and impeding them, complicating and generally making their life as close to a living hell on earth, as it will most certainly be for them when they descend into the pit.

A primary source of demonic mind-control research for the past three-quarters of a century and more has been the Tavistock Institute, established by the British Military Intelligence officer Sir John Rawlings-Reese in 1921, initially to study the effects of shell-shock on British troops who survived the First World War, and soon to establish the 'breaking poinf suffered by men under extreme stress. His successor in 1932 was Kurt Lewin, a German Jewish operative who soon transferred from Britain to the United States in the 1930s, the first of many prewar German intelligence infiltrators, and set up the Harvard Psychology Clinic [see box opposite, page 187]; and during this period, the Tavistock Institute supposedly focused on strategic warfare studies. The Institute was established under the direction of the secret British Psychological Warfare Bureau. An offshoot of this notorious Institute, the National Institute for Applied Behavioural Studies, organises so-called 'sensitivity training' for corporate leaders and government groups and organisations. The influence of the Tavistock Institute as a source of knowledge on behaviour modification in Britain, the United States and Commonwealth countries, especially Australia, Canada and New Zealand, should not be underestimated. Its prophet was the Austrian-German of Jewish extraction, Sigmund Freud, and it pioneered behavioural science along Freudian lines. Its 'network' includes the far-left, often subversive University of Sussex; the Stanford Research Institute; the Esalen Institute at Big Sur, CA, directed in the 1980s by Dr Jim Garrison, who established the Tamalpais Institute on 10th April 1991 which became the Gorbachev Foundation/USA on 10th April 1992; the Hudson Institute (specialising in futurology); the Heritage Foundation; the Georgetown University Center for Strategic and International Studies (where US State Department personnel are trained); US Air Force Intelligence; and the RAND (= Research ANd Development) Corporation; plus the CIA's crucially important Mitre Corporation [MIT - Massachusetts Institute of Technology] which is engaged inter alia in procuring that every computer in the world will report directly into the Pentagon.

Other prominent Tavistock-related mind-bending operations include the Human Ecology Fund (part of the MK-ULTRA infrastructure supporting illegal experiments on mind-control), the Ditchley Foundation, created in 1957 (which has an American branch), and is used as an important conduit for secret Tavistock instructions, the Brookings Institution, Flow Laboratories, National Training Laboratories (NTL), the Institute for Applied Behavioural Sciences, National Education Association, the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce (at the University of Pennsylvania), and the Institute For The Future which, though funded by the Ford Foundation, draws its long-range forecasting from the Tavistock Institute. This institute's projects define what it believes to be the changes that will be taking place within 50-year time-frames: its so-called 'Delphi pan-

KURT LEWIN: GERMAN TAVISTOCK OPERATIVE

The Tavistock Institute 'of Human Relations' [sic] operates from long-established offices at 30 Tabernacle Street, London EC2A 4DD, on the fringes of the City of London. It distributes Human Relations, published by Plenum Press, and a new journal calling itself Evaluation. Having been set up originally by Sir John Rawlings-Reese to study the effects of shellshock on British troops, it appears to have been targeted almost from the outset by elements of the German Illuminati - Sigmund Freud being its original 'prophet' (who settled in Maresfield Gardens, London, when he moved to Britain).

In 1932, the German 'refugee' of Jewish extraction, Kurt Lewin, managed to penetrate the Institute, of which he quickly became a Director. In the following year, Lewin surfaced in the United States, still calling himself a 'refugee'. He was the driving force behind the establishment of the Freudian Harvard Psychology Clinic. It should not be assumed that because this entity originated much of the propaganda campaign to turn the US public against Germany, in preparation for the United States' entry into the Second World War, Lewin, being of Jewish extraction, was fundamentally anti-German. On the contrary, as is the standard practice of deep penetration operatives, he aligned himself with the Zeitgeist of the day, while at the same time performing the subversive tasks for which he had been selected. Dr Henry Kissinger, who experienced a meteoric rise to power later, another of these German refugees of Jewish extraction, was a student of Sir John Rawlings-Reese.

In 1938, President Roosevelt executed a secret agreement with the British authorities, under the terms of which the Special Operations Executive was instructed to formulate US policies. In implementation of this agreement, Roosevelt despatched General Donovan to London for indoctrination (partly at the Tavistock Institute), preparatory to setting up OSS, which became the Central Intelligence Agency in 1947, under the supervision of SOE-SIS. OSS methods, extended to and massively elaborated by the CIA, have always been driven by guidelines originally established by the Tavistock Institute which, as we have seen, was penetrated by German operatives and modelled its operations along mechanistic lines which deny humanity and treat human beings like mindless animals. The Institute's title implies that its main focus is the fostering of harmonious 'human relations', whereas its real purpose is the development of methodologies to control human behaviour - the identical Illuminati remit to that followed by Heinrich Himmler.

The Tavistock Institute 'of Human Relations' originated the mass civilian bombing raids conducted by Roosevelt and Churchill as clinical experiments in the monitoring of mass terror. All Tavistock and its related American foundations have a single objective -to break down the psychological strength of the individual, by means of such devices, borrowed inter alia from the Frankfurt School and mimicking the programme of Lavrentii Beria, as mass brainwashing ('political correctness') and the fostering of a mental attitude of sullen, grim resignation in the face of the advancing New Underworld Order of the Illuminati. Any technique that helps to break down the family unit, and family-inculcated principles of revealed religion (only available through True Christianity), honour, reliability, respect for the female sex, patriotism and sexual behaviour, is deployed by Tavistock 'school' scientific manipulators as weapons for manipulating 'the masses'.

With the de facto partial ascendancy of the Illuminati, mass invocations of occult forces are also increasingly in evidence - recent examples being the mass sacrifice of British farm animals (animal sacrifices) in the late 1990s, and new controlled 'natural' catastrophes (with occultic connotations) invoking the forces of air, fire, earth and water. Freudian psychotherapy, malevolently applied, induces permanent mental illness through the destabilisation of the psyche and character. The victim may then be advised to 'establish new rituals of personal interaction' - meaning to indulge in brief sexual encounters which in fact set the participants adrift with no stable personal relationships, thus destroying their ability to establish or maintain a family. In the United States, the Tavistock School' has developed such power that no-one achieves prominence in any field unless he or she has been trained in scxalled 'behavioural sciences' at Tavistock or one of its numerous effective US subsidiaries. All the operations of the Tavistock School' are directed towards producing cyclical collapse, which explains why the CIA's 'Heart of Darkness' yields such poisonous fruit. ■ els' decide what is normal and what they consider to be abnormal, and prepare position papers to 'steer' Government. It recommends the liberalisation of abortion legislation and drugs usage, that cars entering urban areas should pay tolls, teaching birth control in schools, legalising homosexuality, transferring planning permissions and zoning controls to central government, and the establishment of new communities in rural areas (a la Pol Pot, using concentration camps). Of exceptional power and importance, too, is the notorious Institute for Policy Studies (IPS), which spawns satellite operations like raindrops. Although ostensibly an instrument for aligning US policy with that of the overt/covert Soviet Union, it is considered also to be a Tavistock 'network' agency. Finance for the IPS was derived from the Samuel Rubin Foundation and the Stern Family Fund - Samuel Rubin having himself been a member of the Soviet Comintern.

The founder of the Hudson Institute in 1961, Hermann Kahn (of German Jewish extraction and background) also founded the RAND Corporation. B. K. Eakman, writing in a study entitled Educating for the New World Order [provenance uncertain], has revealed a manual for 'change agents' developed for the US Government by the RAND Corporation, which he described as... 'a how-to manual with a 1971 US Office of Education contract number on it entitled 'Training for Change Agents', plus seven volumes of 'change agent studies' commissioned by the US Office of Education from the RAND Corporation in 1973-74; and scores of other papers submitted by behaviorist researchers who had obtained grants from the US Office of Education for the purpose of exploring how to 'freeze' and 'unfreeze' values, to 'implement change' and to turn potentially hostile groups and committees into acquiescent, rubber-stamping bodies by means of such strategies as the goofy 'Delphi Technique'. (For strategy, read: stratagem - Ed.). The RAND Corporation's main function is brainwashing using Tavistock-type techniques, which are derived from the German Frankfurt School [see pages 254-258], the Freudian influence, and the input of prominent Himmlerians of German background such as Hermann Kahn.

It should be understood, again, that the inevitable focus on the United States in this book is not to be construed as indicative of any bias on the Author's part: on the contrary, the United States is the victim of nefarious European intrigues, the primary sources of which have historically been Britain and Germany, although the focus of this work is the German dimension because the Illuminafi serves as a global programme and extension of the hegemony strategy of the continuing Nazi International. All three countries (and of course others, like France, Italy and Spain) are themselves victims of the machinations of the synarchy offensive - the conspiracy of secret societies and cabals owing allegiance to Lucifer and which remain hell-bent upon procuring global control, condemning 94% of the world's population to subordinate status while the remaining 6% (which this Author considers to be a generous proportion) consolidate their control of the world's assets, especially energy and food resources. There is little doubt that the inspiration and controlling centre of this synarchy conspiracy is Germany.

These evil forces and entities, to a greater or lesser extent driven by the 'seething energies' of Lucifer, have made it their business to seek the means to control populations by the use of psychotropic drugs and psychological operations (Psy-Ops), and in particular to identify ways to procure the submissive obedience of subject populations in perpetuity. It would appear, however, that the authorities concerned lack conviction that they will ever succeed - which explains, for instance, why the British Government maintains a colossal secret arms dump at the British Army's key base at Catterick, Yorkshire. The arms which were handed in following the controversy surrounding the

GEOPOLITICS - A PAN-GERMAN (NAZI) INVENTION

According to the 'Encyclopedia Americana' editions accessible from the 1960s, geopolitics was defined as follows: 'For this university of education... modem Germany - The Third Reich - is primarily responsible. The war which blocked Germany's initial drive for world dominion, and the revolution which put into power the Nazis who were to launch the second drive, gave us geopolitics. German GEOPOLITIK is the logical product of a materialistic and deterministic school of thought which, through more than two centuries, has progressively gained sway over the German mind until it reduced man to the status of a biochemical entity. Geopolitics, in its quest for an invincible brand of power politics, has taken unto itself such varied fields as economics, jurisprudence, the social sciences, medicine, psychology and military strategy'.

The accuracy of this assessment - complete with the realisation by the author that the Second World War represented a further drive for world domination, implying that the drive had by no means been abandoned - is unique for the period.

The 'American Encyclopedic Dictionary', also dating from the 1960s, described geopolitics specifically as 'a doctrine of Nazi Germany, advocating aggressive expansion'. And in his address to American students attending Lenin University in the 1930s for indoctrination (incorporated as a preface to 'Brainwashing', the version of The Communist Manual of Instructions on Psychopolitical Warfare', which was used in the United States in the 1930s for the training of Communist cadres in the United States, the deep covert German Abwehr operative and long-term German penetration agent, Lavrentii Beria, who headed Stalin's repressive NKVD (Interior Ministry and a predecessor of the KGB) asserted:

'Psychopolitics is an important if less known, division of geopolitics'.

So Beria presided over the implementation of the pan-German (Nan) tradition and methodology of geopolitics in the Soviet Union, which he integrated into the curriculum for the training of Soviet and external Communist cadres.

It is hard to imagine a more absolute confirmation of the fundamental identity of National Socialism (Nazism) with International Socialism (Communism), which the Illuminati manipulated dialectically then, and are continuing to manipulate today, in furtherance of their global hegemony agenda. Lenin himself was a German Abwehr agent, who consolidated the breakthrough achieved by his fellow German agent - the psychopolitical operative, Rasputin, whose infiltration into the inner sanctum of the confused, superstitious and semi-deranged Russian Imperial Family, procured the disintegration of Tsarist power. Other German or German-tradition psychopolitical operatives who performed a similar function have included [see also page 173]:

- Mrs Wallis Simpson, the sinister German Abwehr agent who, using her occult female powers, bewitched her target Edward VIII as part of an elaborate German operation which was intended to keep the British out of the wars that the occult Illuminist Adolf Hitler and his Black Illuminati colleagues were planning.
- Susie Orbach, a US West Coast 'psychoanalyst' practising in London, who may have been instrumental in converting her target Princess Diana from being a sweet, semi-innocent Princess into a hard-bitten and embittered divorcee, bent on revenge.

The Author has been informed that German occult Black intelligence is particularly keen on this form of subversion, which involves placing a 'healer' adjacent to the targeted individual, for subversion purposes. There was no difference at all between this methodology and that promulgated by the odious Lavrentii Beria, who wrote:

'Psychopolitics is a solemn charge. With it you can erase our enemies as insects. You can cripple the efficiency of leaders by striking insanity into their families through the use of drugs.... You can change their loyalties by psychopolitics.... By psychopolitics create chaos, leave a nation leaderless".

And the 'Manual', based on the occultic German methodology that Beria used, advocated 'creating a greed for drugs, sexual misbehaviour and uncontrolled freedom.... By making readily available drugs of various kinds, by giving the teenager alcohol, by praising his wildness, by stimulating him with sex literature and advertising to him or her practices as taught at the Sexpol, the psychopolitical operator can create the necessary attitude of chaos, idleness and worthlessness...' needed to facilitate the attainment of hegemonic objectives.

GO-2, a 'Black' intelligence cadre located inside MI6, is engaged in precisely such subversive drug-distribution operations on behalf of the Illuminati. It should be closed down immediately. ■

Dunblane mass murders on 13th March 1996, were also hoarded at Catterick. This arms dump - over and above a consignment of 17,500 Heckler and Koch and 22,500 pump action shot guns bought up by the authorities for police use - is the British Government's back-up resource, for use in the event that the population fails to meet official subservience expectations, and such weapons are needed to contain the popular insurrection when it wakes up to the reality of the UK 'coup d'etat by instalments'.

DIMENSIONS OF THE BEHAVIOUR MODIFICATION OFFENSIVE

Before following Mark Phillips' activities somewhat further, various connections which illustrate how far infra-governmental research into mass and individual behaviour modification has developed since 1921, and since Himmler's experiments using such ogres as Dr Mengele, are worth reviewing here - as governments compete among themselves to find or perfect psychopolitical tools to control their own and 'enemy' populations. Some of these references may seem unconnected, but that conclusion would be inaccurate. Subliminal mind-control research in the United States was pioneered inter alia by a Dr Milton Erickson. A 'classic' work called 'Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis' by Dr William S. Kroger, has been in use for many years. The leading US scientist specialising in dissociative disorders in the 1990s was Dr Bennet Braun, of German extraction. Such experts deal in activities like 'revivification', which is a technique for painless, non-abreactive memory recovery. A clinical technique called hynosleep has been developed which programmes a mind-controlled slave to die. Such slaves are used for various nefarious intelligence purposes, including suborning and seducing Presidents, senior officials and diplomats, or for acting as 'lone-wolf' assassins. In the United States, many 'mental health care technologies' have been held back from public use - for the usual reason: national security. Likewise effective therapy regimes for dissociative disorders have never been released for general application, in order to protect nefarious secrets concerning classified mind-control research. Under the National Security Act of 1947, amended in 1986 and probably subsumed by the National Intelligence Reform Act, which President G. W. Bush signed into law on 17th December 2004 (one-third of which, recall, is secret), the US Government can now censor or cover up anything they choose.

Scientology, a demonic cult, founded by L. Ron Hubbard, who was friendly with Jack Parsons, head of the Californian chapter of the ultra-Satanic Ordo Templi Orientis, exploits subliminal mind-control techniques acquired during Hubbard's military service with US Navy Intelligence: hence this appallingly demonic cult was a product of one of the most lethal US intelligence services, the Office of Naval intelligence (ONI).

Mr Hubbard invented a fake 'science' which he called 'Dianetics', a mind-control technique which he named after his first wife Diane. At the Chicago BookExpo America event in June 2004, the Author observed a very large area devoted to Scientology, and was approached by several witches who evidently thought he would be appropriate material for indoctrination. Considering that the very smallest display area, just a few feet square, costs $4,000 just for the area on which a display stand is to be erected alone, it was evident that this operation has sizeable funds at its disposal - an impression reinforced by anyone who has visited, for instance, Scientology's establishment at East Grinstead, Sussex. The Author has separately established that a number of well-known sects in the United States are in fact covers for money-laundering operations and are run by US intelligence officers. Scientology appears to fits this profile, and remains an operation connected to the Luciferian official behaviour modification apparatus.

SCIENTOLOGY: OFF IN A SATANIC ORBIT OF ITS OWN

Scientology, which is totally fake, is a corrupt money-making machine that preys upon vulnerable young people, especially if they have money. As an outgrowth of the fashion for Luciferian mind-control and personality-manipulation abominations developed in the Himmlerian tradition - and as a consequence of the evil activities of the British Tavistock Institute which, as we have seen, was influenced, if not 'taken over' by, an

SCIENTOLOGY =
PSYCHO-POLITICAL TERRORISM
AN OPERATION OF U.S. COUNTERINTELLIGENCE

STEP 1: DIAGRAM ILLUSTRATING THE INITIATION OF THE FRAUD

Notwithstanding that Himmler was a primary originator of psycho-manipulation techniques such as those developed and elaborated by Scientology, the German authorities concluded that Scientology is a seditious totalitarian 'psycho-terror' organisation intent upon mind-control, global dominion and criminal operations, and which is engaged in money-laundering and financial crimes.

Book sales [& at book fairs]
Media advertising
Commissioned field staff
Targeting of celebrities
Strategic infiltrations
Kidnapping off the street
... yielding new prospects.

Having lied non-stop so routinely, Scientology nowadays depends upon previously 'successfully' deluded 'thick' celebrities to drive in new 'shills' – 'Useful Idiots' like Tom Cruise, John Travolta, Kirsty Aley, Jenna Effman, Ann Archer, for example (as per e.g., Madonna with Kabbalah).

WISE (= World Institute of Scientology Enterprises [vehicle for corporate fraud]:
TradeNet : Laundering Operations
Rev. Reed Slatkin's Ponzi Operation.
The Rev. Kent Stryker's Charities.
Vancouver Stock Exchange frauds.
Digital Lightwave and other scams.

More WISE operations perpetrated via: Affiliated US corporations such as Hollander and Sterling, engaged in selling Hubbard's so-called 'management technology'; Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Veterinary Surgeons, corrupt Insurance Companies, brokerages, and other targeted clusters of 'the willing'.

External propaganda publications, e.g.: Freedom. Special reports. Fraudulent press releases. Huge volumes of Internet domain names to trap the unsuspecting.

Targeting of children and minorities – those they feel don't yet have a clue about their true nature. Uses bogus 'Study Technology'. So-called World Literacy Crusade, Drug Free Marshalls, and other 'worthy' operations/ traps.

Scientology's false Claims include: Bridge to immortality and superior powers, plus false medical claims. Hubbard's Military Record: Unfit for command. Dianetics = placebo effect. Scientology = fake religion + Secrets of the Universe + scientific double-talk + Orwellian 'Newspeak'.

Targeting and infiltration of Local Civics, Churches, Political Parties, Attorney Generals' Offices, Consumer Protection Offices, the Internal Revenue Service, Congressional Staffers. Retains Lobbying firms e.g. Federal Legislative Associates.

UNDUE INFLUENCE FEEDBACK LOOPS:

Front Organisations:
Drug Free Marshals,
Applied Scholastics. PLUS:
Various so-called 'religious freedom' (agitprop) fronts.
World Literacy Crusade.

Go to Step 2: Extending the time before the anticipated mind-fraud is discovered.

'Oh what a tangled web we weave, When first we practice to deceive'.
– William Shakespeare a.k.a. the intelligence operative and occultist, Francis Bacon

Members of the public are referred to internally using characteristically Nazi-style abusive terminology, such as 'raw meat' or 'wogs'.
Source: Ron Hubbard

Figure 33: How the Scientology fraud is initiated: This and the next four diagrams [Figures 34-37] show how the fraud against innocent targets is initiated, prosecuted and 'protected' by fraud and deception.

operative ('psychopolitician') of German Jewish extraction, and which built its most heinous aberrations upon the work of Freud (who moved to Britain from Vienna) - its activities can be examined in considerable detail, thanks to the brave exposures of some of its victims who have managed to regain their right minds and their emotional and intellectual stability. All the statements in what follows are fair comment and alleged.

Like many of these operations, including Moral Re-Armament (MRA) [see page 199], this organisation seems to have vast financial resources - which does not inhibit it in any way from seeking by allegedly foul means to maximise its finances (a common feature of all 'fake' religions and sects). It is in fact one of the most heinous manifestations of the Works of Darkness spawned by UK and US intelligence, which have paralleled, competed with, and been modelled on, the manic mind and psyche experiments conducted by Himmler's scientists. A brief study of how it operates will therefore reveal the depths of depravity to which these Luciferian Illuminati 'scientists' typically descend, as they seek to drag innocent human beings into the pit along with their own deluded, mad operatives. Scientology is nothing less than a form of institutionalised sorcery using mental programming techniques developed in accordance with the odious traditions of the CIA's MK-ULTRA programme, and its multiple Luciferian offshoots and variations, such as MONARCH (the programme to create high-level sex slaves who are used to convey secrets among targeted members of the global leadership elite), BLUEBIRD, ARTICHOKE, MK-DELTA and MK-NAOMI. Large numbers of Nazi mind-control experts who had been working for Himmler were exfiltrated from Germany, mainly after the War, and were put to work inter alia (but mainly) in the United States, where they continued to elaborate the manipulative occult-oriented techniques they had developed or been working on under Himmler, in the institutes affiliated with Britain's Tavistock Institute, originally set up by the British Army Institute of Psychological Warfare.

Ron Hubbard first surfaced from the Black intelligence world when he published a work called 'Dianetics: The Modern Science of Mental Health' in 1950. He then steered straight for 'church' status, establishing the first Church of Scientology in Los Angeles on 18th February 1954. Thereafter, Hubbard expounded his demented 'beliefs' and sorceries in over 40 books and 2,500 taped lectures. These days, the Church of Scientology claims to have more than 8 million members in 3,200 churches in some 54 countries, with a deluded UK membership alone, of 100,000 victims. However credible critics say that worldwide membership of the Church of Scientology is closer to 50,000, with British membership no higher than 1,500.

In conformity with the pack of lies and fabrications on which this abomination is based, Scientology has taken very good care to substitute its own morality for Christianity. Its flavour is encapsulated in the cult's concept of 'acceptable truth', which of course begs the question: 'acceptable to whom?' Those who fall for this false 'religion' gain nothing and, as is typical with such organisations, are allegedly bled financially throughout their troubled memberships. Investigation of Scientology's dark activities is precluded by its 'charitable' (in the United States) status, and further by its status as a 'church'.

In reality, this appears to be a typical criminal intelligence organisation, using familiar intelligence community scamming and deception methodology, and steeped in Himmlerian mind-control and personality-manipulation techniques. At the very apex of its headquarters building is a 'Christian' cross augmented by a four-pointed star.

The former Scientology victim who developed the charts [Figures 33-37] shown on these pages distilled in them the fruits of many years of dark existence in this collective, unknowingly helping to run the scam - followed by many years trying to recover from those sterile and wasted years, and millions of dollars and ten years of litigation fighting these evil people, who have raised aggressive and malicious litigation to the status of an art form. Litigation is a primary means by which Scientology seeks to defend its reputation, oblivious to the reality that to anyone with even basic information about this sect, it simply stinks. Like the intelligence community generally, its evil activities are so promiscuous that it is forever engaged in cover-up operations.

The Author experienced this fact at first hand when, many years ago, he made the mistake of travelling to East Grinstead, East Sussex, where he had been summoned by a

HYPNOTIC DELUSIONS

THE REPROGRAMMING STAGE

TO MAXIMISE THE PROSPECTS FOR CONTROL STEP 2:

DIAGRAM ILLUSTRATING THE TIME EXTENSION ROUTINE

At Stage 2, Scientology programmers, knowing that their fraudulent activity will in due course be discovered by the targets themselves, embark upon steps to extend the time before duped adherents ('shills', formerly 'raw meat or 'wogs') 'see the light, while reprogramming the minds of their dupes to believe anything, through the use of hypnotic techniques augmented by subliminal electric shock.

SHAME FEEDBACK LOOP:
If not resolved then go here.
ADULATION: POSITIVE FEEDBACK LOOP
EXTREME SECRECY

Disconnection policy: Members and staff who know anyone who connects the dots and becomes troublesome, must be disconnected or 'handled'.

Questioning the "tech" triggers discipline by "ethics" conditions and auditing (at person's expense), consuming additional sterile time and financial resources...

Escapes thwarted by 24 hour guards and in some cases actual fencing and barbed wire.

Concentration Camps [RPF] and 'Isolation Policy' as in the Lisa McPherson death + Stress induced damage to hypothalamus: damages long term memory, thwarting future testimony of disgruntled members.

TOTAL DEGRADATION: Infliction of degradation that is so severe that few would ever testify as having endured it, if still capable of remembering.

Use of lie detector 'E-meter', extremely detailed questionnaires, interviews, and security checks to determine every member's family and work connections for use by Scientology and to control them.

'Hubbard the wise man' image: Plagiarism of previous art without attribution makes a clever con-man look like a prophet to the target – instead of the con-man he always was.

When the false claims are not realised, a new 'secret' upper-level is unveiled to appease unending optimism – constantly extending the path, so that victim won't notice that it all goes nowhere.

XANU The "secret levels" – invoking the spirits of dead space aliens. Some analysts incorrectly assert that this manipulation stage is just science fiction, but in reality, the focus is now on conjuring up evil spirits, or playing at such activities.

Levels of initiation – referred to as Grades V, VA & R6EW – were developed by one John McMaster, (Clear #1). All traces of this homosexual operative have been deleted from the internal history of this abomination called Scientology.

E-Meter provides 2 to 6 volt DC, hand to hand. Swedish* research shows evidence that this causes changes at the cellular level, which may help explain addiction to Scientology's serial lies and inventions.

Scientology Online Censorship Software prevents the membership from gaining access to public court records as well as to certain specific individuals and topics.

All that is good is due to the efforts of the founder and all that is bad is due to the poor discipline of the mark, or the 'enemies' of Scientology.

Adulation Positive Feedback Loop testimony of people who are part of the way across 'The Bridge to Total Freedom'. 'Emperor has no clothes' syndrome plus placebo effect.

*Nordenström: 'Biologically Closed Electric Circuits; 'BCEC Systems", 1982 Nordic Publications

Figure 34: These summaries seek to explain by means of graphics how Scientology applies its initiation levels, false techniques, electric shock, isolation policy in concentration camps, and degradation abominations.

print buyer who wanted to place a print order. On asking the local taxi driver to take him to the magnificent Saint Hill HQ of Scientology, an ancient castle, he immediately sensed that the driver hated the place, since he fell silent and refused even to say thank you when paid. The Author removed himself at high speed from East Grinstead, perceiving the error of his ways, after sensing the pitch-dark atmosphere there.

A MONEY-MAKING MACHINE THAT EXPLOITS THE VULNERABLE

Scientology smells of filthy lucre. Its multiple critics have estimated that Scientology makes about $300 million annually from its operations worldwide. Enquiries in recent years have led the Author to conclude that a substantial number of weird cults and sects are in reality money-laundering operations - a fact that was separately confirmed to the Author by the respected US-Israeli drug money expert, Ms. Rachel Ehrenfeld, in 1999. Certain very well known 'cults', and new elaborations thereof, which deserve extensive exposure, are just that. To mask such activities, they also preside over ruthlessly efficient scamming mechanisms for making money - like constant circulars requesting resources to fund litigation, or money to construct spectacular cathedrals or premises - and charge through the nose for all their services, indoctrination, training etc.

A CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE TO FOOL JUDGES AND OFFICIALS

(TREATMENT OF THOSE WHO CONNECT THE DOTS)

STEP 3: INTIMIDATION, LITIGATION, OPPRESSION, COERCION

Those victims, members and staff who 'connect the dots' and 'discover the fact' of the fraud, are liable to be subjected to any of the nefarious assaults and oppressions shown in the diagram below.

IRS 'charitable' status granted to Scientology (after innumerable years of litigation) in a sealed secret court closing agreement Blackmail or the purchase of an IRS insider suspected.
Stealing of critical books from US Public Libraries; even the systematic removal of newspapers and magazines from newsstands.
Orchestrated letter-writing and e-mail campaigns undertaken by deluded adherents of Scientology, to influence the gullible media.
A Head of Scientology and Bill Clinton are/were both known to have used or to use the services of the law firm Williams & Connolly.
Targeting of writers, publishers of critical books, articles and TV/radio shows. If this fails, then advertisers are targeted.
Printed material on 'Dead Agents' and other intimidating productions plus details of auditing and forced confession procedures designed to terrorise the targeted individuals.
Religious Smokescreen put up by orchestrated letter-writing campaigns by ever-deluded adherents to influence cynical public officials, despite the cult's extreme continuing notoriety.
Standard intelligence community practice: Targeting of:
Critics
Ex-members
Children
Custody/divorce
Lawyers
Insurance cos.
Judges
Juries
Employers Supporters
Neighbours
Pets
Office of Special Affairs [O.S.A., a.k.a. 'G.O.'] Uses internal and external publications to discredit attackers and to label all critics with the standard 'conspiracy theorist' put-down lie.
Routine use of litigation stress as the mace and financial burdens induced by litigation as the sword – to procure silence. It is remarkable that after decades of all this, victims still adhere.
Private Investigators hired via law firms managed by Scientology's Office of Special Affairs.
Generates false reports to local and Federal Government [as in attacks on Stacey Young's cat sanctuary 1998] described on NBC Dateline [plan to frame Ms. Paulette Cooper re a bomb threat to Henry Kissinger (a.k.a. Soviet agent 'BOR') in 1977. Documents seized by the FBI.
Interference with livelihoods and ability to make a living.
If unable to attack directly, then Scientology will attack supporters, job, or landlord.

Figure 35: This graphic explains how victims, members and staff who 'connect the dots' and 'discover the fact' of the fraud are subjected to diabolical methods of attack, including litigation and false witness.

Confused youths who may make the serious initial mistake of entering the surprisingly shabby London base of Scientology called London Org., may find themselves filling in a 200-part questionnaire called the 'Oxford Capacity Analysis' test, as a result of which they are very liable to be 'scientifically' diagnosed as depressed, unstable, nervous, shy, at a loss, etc, etc, etc - that is to say, afflicted with a general condition for which Scientology possesses all of the answers. Naive newcomers are shown a film about 'mind technology which eulogises the extremely dead L. Ron Hubbard, whose revolutionary [sic!] ideas could of course change the person's life, and eventually the whole world. Naturally, the movie fails to to describe what the world would be like after the undefined 'changes' advertised.

At an introductory course, for which they must pay, candidates are told that their inability to 'understand' issues is attributable to 'mental blocks' called 'engrams', and that these must be removed in order for the person to become 'clear' and in a position to 'realise one's full potential'. So, here we go yet again: this is yet another version of the lie that men can become as gods - the lie perpetrated by the serpent in Genesis. As the candidate 'progresses', he or she is subjected to 'auditing' and is liable to be put on an 'emeter', a crude lie detector. While all this is going on, constant pressure is exert-

SOME KNOWN TECHNIQUES
USED FOR THE SAME PURPOSE
(METHODS USED TO COERCE AUTHORITY ITSELF)

STEP 4: FALSE WITNESS, TRICKERY, LIES AND THREATS

Standard intelligence community fraudulent practice, trickery, bait and switch and similar techniques are used to create maximum confusion. Litigation pressure is exerted ruthlessly and without mercy. Decades of such activity have not dimmed the 'seething powers of Lucifer' which drive this dreadful US counterintelligence menace, condemned abroad as a 'psycho-terrorist' organisation.

Documented pattern of fabricating allegations of a criminal or a despicable nature: exploitation.

Generate well written, but false allegations of criminal or despicable activity, then send this to multiple US agencies, and to foreign governments and media, disguising Scientology as the source of the lies.

If an official agency or individual is successfully tricked into investigating the critic of Scientology (i.e., takes the bait) to see if the allegations are true, THEN Scientology feeds the FACT of that inquiry back into this chain of false data to make the allegations more plausible: a standard counter-intelligence technique.

Find anyone who believes a false, libellous statement (false witness) and then quote that person, thereby escaping liability: or hedge a libellous statement with waffle, such as 'upon best information and belief'. Technique used against journalists, newswires and the judiciary.

Having found one of their own malleable members, Scientology will convince the selected internal 'Useful Idiot' of the veracity of their claims, thus escaping liability for malicious libel which might otherwise apply. At this stage of the hideous game, Scientology must rely upon the 'success' of its own programming and brainwashing operations to ensure the continued cooperation of the internal 'Useful Idiot' concerned. Having created the hell in which they live and have their being, the perpetrators are themselves now victims of their own satanic deviousness, anxiously propping up their inverted pyramid of lies which has long since become unstable and in danger of collapse. This is prevented by every dirty trick imaginable, including new ruses invented all the time.

Even if no US State or Federal agency is 'successfully' misled by the distorted information, the elaborate ruses are used as rhetoric in even tenuously related civil litigation, in order to try to baffle the court with innuendo. The fabrications are further used on various controlled websites. Systematic use is made of every opportunity to maximise the potential of the lies in question, using all means at their disposal.

If Scientology successfully deceives a law enforcement agency into prosecuting its bogus claims, they WIN whether the person gets convicted or not, as the target must bear the expense of untangling the farrago of falsehoods that has been fabricated. Because of the cult's intelligence connections, its operatives behave exactly like your average criminalised, scamming intelligence operative and con artists.

Figure 36: Scientology, like all US intelligence-related scamming organisations, does not refrain from using its 'seething powers of Lucifer' to coerce, mislead and undermine the structures of authority themselves.

ed on the victim to take a 'purification rundown', lasting a week (of saunas and vitamins costing £1,000, according to victim reports in the United Kingdom).

On a number of websites, the 'secrets' of certain upper levels of this 'church' are pointedly exposed. But it is not even necessary to research such sites to be aware of the many layers of deception perpetrated on innocent, if ill-advised, victims. A concept (shown in wall posters) called The Bridge to Total Freedom' identifies the 'ways' to get to 'clear' and beyond, which is called Operating Thetan 8 - when one allegedly acquires the power of telekinesis and astral projection (both of which are demonic activities). One ex-victim says: 'No-one would ever tell me how much it would cost [to 'get there'], but former Scientologists have claimed a figure of more than £250,000'.

One of the 'church's' most controversial processes is the familiar mind-control technique, already mentioned above, known as 'auditing' - a process of 'eradicating one's engrams' by revisiting past traumas. The same ex-victim told "The Times' (London, 18th February 2004): 'I was required to go over various horrible incidents for hours until my head hurt, and I felt scared and unhappy'. Scientology disseminates a portfolio of very bizarre 'facts' that are supposed to lie at the end of the 'bridge'. A British ex-victim says: 'Had I known that at the end of the Bridge to Total Freedom we are all covered in dead space aliens as the result of the actions of an ancient galactic ruler, Xenu (or Xanu), I would never have been interested in the first place'. Of course this is all demonic, totally fake garbage concocted by that very dead and mad US intelligence operative Ron Hubbard, who, like so many of these Illuminati nutcases, seems to have generated these demoniac fantasies while evidently possessed by demons. And indeed, this first-hand revelation tells us something vital: all references to 'space aliens' that one reads about nowadays are actually coded mentions of demons. Since modem Westem man does not believe in God, he does not believe in demons either. So they go by another name.

The same former UK Scientologist attended a special gala evening at Saint Hill to which no less than 7,000 people had been invited, two-thirds from European countries other than Britain. His description of that event contained a further clue to what Scientology is all about: 'In the oak-panelled entrance hall there were men and women dressed in what looked like some sort of naval uniform, pressing people to join the Sea Org., a quasi-military wing of the 'church'. All around were various booths, united in their single purpose: persuading people to part with their money in pursuit of the goal of becoming a 'clear' - namely, a fully brainwashed, manipulatable, mind-controlled zombie, who, being a deluded, deceived 'Useful Idiot', has had to pay for the privilege.

In the United States, an astonishing 150 Scientology 'churches' and corporations benefit from Internal Revenue Service Section 501(c)(3) full tax-exempt status (granted in 1993, after years of litigation and, in the view of some, following alleged bribery of IRS officials, and renewed in 1999). It has been alleged that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) entered into a tax agreement with the Scientology organisation providing tax benefits that had previously been determined by the US Supreme Court to be unlawful.

Specifically, after 20 years of opposing full tax-exempt status for Scientology, the IRS unaccountably reversed itself, and the US Federal Government now assists and participates in Scientology's expansion abroad in conformity with the sect's arrogant written policies of 'taking over the control or allegiance of key political figures... the proprietors of all news media [and] those who monitor international finance'.

Now, in what context have we come across this before? Obviously, in relation to our brief look at Lavrentii Beria's Satanic teaching materials on 'psychopolitics'.

This reveals that the provenance of Scientology's mind- and psyche-manipulation dementia is identical to the provenance of Beria's abominations - namely, the perverse teachings of components of the German Illuminati cadres, such as the Frankfurt School, which migrated en masse to the United States in the face of the Nazis' harassment of its Jewish members. That was one of the many contradictions typical of the Nazis - another of which was the Nazi Party's oppression of homosexuals, notwithstanding that Nazi recruiting techniques and youth programmes were redolent with

MANAGING 'TRAITORS'

OPPRESSIVE CONTROL METHODS

(APPLIED TO THOSE WHO SEE THROUGH THE LIES)

STEP 5: ALL MEANS USED TO DEFEND THIS ABOMINATION

The United States is one terrorist attack (permitted and/or perpetrated by the US authorities themselves or by international intelligence allies, as in the case of 9/11) from Martial Law. The ruthlessness with which drugged and programmed US military and intelligence personnel have abused, and continue to abuse, prisoners in Afghanistan, Iraq and many other locations, including the British island territory of Diego Garcia, and the fact that a large number of US concentration camps have been readied for use in such an eventuality, provide indications of what is to come. The mentality driving these prospective horrors is interchangeable with, and akin to, the twisted dementia of Scientology, which brooks no opposition, and treats all critics as scoundrels and enemies, to be destroyed, Its totalitarian mindset of Nazi Stalinism represents America's future.

Adherents are coerced to sign secrecy and confidentiality agreements which are meant to silence them forever. This is to ensure that victims do not wake up from their dream until the Statute of Limitations for fraud has expired.

O Hubbard was convicted of fraud in France. His wife and other executives served time in prison after the largest domestic spying case in US history: United States vs Mary Sue Hubbard.

Scientology identifies for its leadership positions those who consider every good tiling that happens to be attributable to the 'exact duplication' of Ron Hubbard's 'copyright' technology, and every bad thing to be due to the inadequacy or failure of the mark (language of the curt). Thousands of copyright registrations are typically filed - breaking books up into small sections. This device makes 'fair use quotation' difficult and easier to sue for. And they can't wait to sue...

Pattern of blackmailing Federal Judges: Judge Richie in US vs. Mary Sue Hubbard.

Use of litigation 'to harass, not to win', plus Black Propaganda and character assassination, is similar to the tactics of Third Reich. The German Government recognised this behaviour and placed Scientology under surveillance, labelling it a 'psycho-terrorist' organisation. Other countries have adopted very negative responses to this evil coercive cult Scientology has been denied religious and/or tax-exempt status in France, Belgium, Germany, Spain, Israel, Greece and even Russia. Given its intelligence links, this suggests that it is indeed loathed by its own evil progenitors/collaborators.

Scientology uses what it calls 'acceptable truth' rather than the concept of the whole truth, in other words, it has invented its own depraved system of 'relative morality". This is similar to Soviet 'socialist morality and also to 'socialist legality'. Its fake' religious' stance lends this false 'credibility*.

SCIENTOLOGY AND ITS MYRIAD FRONTS ALL USE THE TECHNIQUES DESCRIBED IN THESE DIAGRAMS. THEY ARE THE FAMILIAR SCAMS OF INTELLIGENCE.

One US Judge suffered attacks on his dog, and had his car tyres slashed. Scientology pursues litigation against its dissident members and staff with a clear view to obtaining a gag order for silence, to prevent its ex-members from alerting the slumbering, controlled and compromised 'mainstream' media.

The primary governing internal law of Scientology is referred to as 'The Supreme Test', which represents what Hubbard called The ability to make things go right" (for Scientology).

Scientology deploys the Hubbardian Doctrine of 'acceptable truth' instead of the Whole Truth [see at left]. Another invention is its related 'Fair Game Law' (viz., the end justifies the means) and something called its 'Simon Bolivar Policy'.

There are reports of a massive truck-driven shredding machine running for 24 hours a day for many weeks in anticipation of a raid on Scientology.

In certain death cases (Lisa Macpherson being one), it was falsely asserted that 'cremation' is a religious doctrine, to hide evidence. There is in fact no Hubbardian 'doctrine' about cremation.

Chronic elevated levels of adrenal hormones caused by constant stress to victims results in damage to the hypothalamus in the brain. Disgruntled staff members are detained and sent to internal prison camps for reprogramming. [Professor Steven Kent: 'Brainwashing in Scientology's Rehabilitation Project Force'].

Data is given to private investigators who then 'discover' it in the course of their investigations.

At one point in recent years, Scientology was retaining at least three firms of private investigators in Washington DC full-time, without any typically odious Scientology litigation emerging. A source has suggested that this activity may have targeted US Congress or Executive Branch officials. The innermost secrets of members (victims) are collected for blackmail purposes when needed, in order to ensure silence and to gain cooperation.

Physical threats: One technique is the gangland method of chasing enemies on the road and then forcing their cars into the ditch, or worse.

Hubbard invented the ideological assertion that all who attack Scientology have criminal backgrounds, thereby 'justifying' relentless pressure, intimidation, coercion and harassment against all who cross its crooked, demonic path.

Figure 37: Finally, the mad perpetrators of this scamming machine are compelled to devote time and resources to 'managing' those who have seen through the lies and scams, who are treated as 'traitors'.

homosexuality: both being instances of Illuminati double-mindedness. These days, Washington seems quite content with Scientology's 'Fair Game' practices, which mandate the use of litigation augmented by many other overt and covert means to 'harass', 'terrify' and/or 'utterly destroy' those whom Scientology perceives to be its enemies - which is to say, former members and staff who have seen through its endless deceptions.

A detailed submission by former Scientology victims to Congressmen F. James Sensenbrenner and John Conyers, Chairman and Ranking Minority Member respectively of the US House of Representatives' Judiciary Committee in February 2002, contained a reference to Scientology's 'policy and practice of requiring certain staffers (such as Scientology's Sea Org. members) to have abortions', together with 'secular policies and practices that include child labor law violations and other civil and human rights violations'. The complaint to the US Congress further confirmed the cult's 'policies and practices [that are] intended to "utterly destroy" those citizens and others (such as the former IRS Section 501(c)(3) Cult Awareness Network) that the religious corporation (Scientology) deems to impede its objectives'.

CULTS AND SO-CALLED CULT-BUSTERS: A SELF-SERVING DIALECTIC

'Cults' like Scientology are created or exploited servants of the Illuminati, as are the dialectical opposition to them - the equally controlled 'cult-busters' (operating dialectically on the basis of problem-reaction-solution, or Thesis-Antithesis-Synthesis). The America-based Cult Awareness Network (CAN) was exposed in 1995 as a front for the Anti-Defamation League, the powerful Zionist agitprop organisation. The Zionists are essentially Jewish Nazis, incongruous though this may appear, thanks to the success of long-term Psychological Operations (Psy-Ops) over the decades since the Second World War - one consequence of which was that the world was persuaded to equate the defeat of Nazi Germany with the destruction of Nazism and their vast apparat, which never took place. One of the prime movers behind CAN was the notorious US intelligence mind-control operative, Dr Louis Jolyn ('Jolly') West [see page 212], who was connected to a similar group called the American Family Foundation. West was the intelligence psychiatrist chosen by the authorities to 'analyse' Jack Ruby (Rubenstein), who shot Lee Harvey Oswald, the CIA operative-patsy accused of assassinating John F. Kennedy, and who understood that he had been set up (to mask the fact that the hit was a German Abwehr/DVD operation). Rubinstein was in turn an operative of the US-based global mafia king Meyer Lansky (born Maier Suchowjansky in Grodny, USSR), an instrument of the Rothschilds, servant of Israel, and essentially an arm of Mossad. Meyer Lansky's Chicago-based mafia organisation performed 'services' for US intelligence, including as has been seen, setting up drug-running operations in Asia.

The fake 'church' of Scientology has a 'secular' arm called the World Institute of Scientology Enterprises ('WISE'), an umbrella organisation controlling the organisation's myriad 'business' ventures. Businesses owned by Scientologists are licensed to use its so-called 'secular technology' (also incongruously referred to as 'religious technology') in exchange for license fees often exceeding 10% of gross revenues. But it is unwise to do business with WISE, for both WISE and a senior 'church' entity called RTC may enter the relevant premises, close them down and seize all 'their' assets at any time. The IRS-Scientology agreement of 1993 required WISE to be disbanded no later than 1995, but both Scientology and the IRS have ignored this provision. This suggests that Scientology remains an alleged scamming instrument of the criminalised segment of the US intelligence community.

Figures 33-37 on pages pages 191-197 reflect, as has been indicated, the findings of a former Scientology victim who opted to reveal what he had learned and experienced during half a lifetime wasted in the clutches of this evil cult. One can obtain some idea of how evil this organisation is considered to be by recalling that certain leading governments, the intelligence and secret operations of which are no strangers to the occult, regard the organisation as anathema. For instance, the British authorities refused to grant Scientology tax-exempt status, on the ground that it lacks any socially redeeming qualities. It has been denied religious or tax-exempt status in France, Germany, Belgium, Spain, Israel, Greece and Russia. In five of these countries, it has been raided by the police.

In Germany, the organisation has been described as a seditious totalitarian 'psycho-terror' group intent upon global domination, and engaged in money-laundering and financial crimes. German courts have recently upheld the official electronic surveillance of Scientology for reasons of national and internal security, and the protection of the state and its democracy. The Author has included this information not least in order to provide a context for the following observation. The ultra-secret (no longer) Black intelligence service of the Nazi International, based appropriately in Dachau, known by the initials DVD (for Deutsche Versicherungs Dienst or Deutsche Verteid-igungs Dienst, meaning either German Insurance (in the sense of insuring the future of Nazism) Service, or German Defence Service (with the same connotation) was, the Author discovered, hardly known about at all in Germany itself as late as September 2005. The Author's exposure (in International Currency Review, Volume 30, Number 4, distributed in October 2005) of this organisation's existence, and that the late Sir Edward Heath, the former British Prime Minister was a long-term Abwehr agent, may have changed this situation. DVD is basically the successor intelligence service to the Nazi Abwehr, and has served ever since as the 'Black' (hidden, wholly unaccountable) intelligence service of the continuing covert Nazi International. The DVD is not financed by German taxpayer funds, but the German Government (at Chancellor level) approves its actions. It is therefore by no means incongruous that the overt German structures should, for instance, have raised serious objections to the Satanic cult called Scientology and all its evil baggage, not least since Germans are by no means ignorant of the ghastly activities of Heinrich Himmler and his death scientists.

In the United States, Scientology's compound, located near Hemet, in California, has been labelled 'armed and dangerous'. In other words, this is quite clearly a psycho-control instrument of criminalised counterintelligence, although this reality is disguised by an 'agreement' with the US intelligence community.

MORAL RE-ARMAMENT AND OTHER MIND-BENDING OPERATIONS

Another long-established US mind-bending operation is Moral Re-armament (MRA), which uses the familiar technique of group exposure accompanied by implied subsequent blackmail potential. Young men selected from 'good universities' are typically brought to MRA hideaways arid premises in the United States or at Caux, Switzerland, and in Mayfair, London, where, sitting in circles, they are encouraged to confess all their weaknesses and sins. Once thus stripped of the natural means of psychological protection and self-preservation, the young victims are putty in the hands of their behaviour modification manipulators and controllers. At a later stage of indoctrination, they are subjected to hard-sell pressures to hand over financial resources to the group. One long-term victim of this sect was the late British Conservative MP, Patrick Wolridge-Gordon.

This apparat hides behind respectable fronts, thereby deceiving the US population and the whole world. For instance, the American Psychiatric Association, an alleged instrument of the synarchical New World Order conspiracy, disseminates disinformation about treatment modalities for severe dissociative disorders, such as what used to be called Attention Deficit Syndrome. The founder of the American Psychiatric Association, Dr Ewan Cameron, conducted MK-ULTRA mind- and personality/behavioural experiments in Canada. At meetings of various servants of Lucifer and 'The Project' to establish the Satanic New World Order, such operatives and implementers indulge in 'revelation of method' introductions, such as secret signs and handshakes [see pages 732-737], in-group references and coded language, enabling secret society members to identify one another, as they befuddle the contemptible masses. These 'flawed' masses were and are to be 'perfected', which was the rationale adopted by the controllers of the British Round Table, Skull and Bones operatives and their servants the Rockefellers, to justify their sponsorship and practice of research into psychiatry, eugenics and euthanasia.

This particular abomination is now 'top of the agenda' in Britain, the United States and The Netherlands: hence those publicised terminations of terminally ill patients and of 'imperfecf newly-born babies. The linkages are truly horrendous: for instance, the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Anthropology, Eugenics and Human Heredity and its associated institutes (which changed their collective name after Hitler's defeat in 1945 to Max Planck Institutes[2]), were funded by the Rockefellers. In 1927, the Rockefeller Foundation provided funds for the construction of the Max Planck Institute's first building. The Institute was headed by Hitler's racial purity expert, Ernst Rudin. For three decades after the war (at least), thousands of people in many European countries were sterilised. A cadre of US intelligence is engaged in the sterilisation of parts of the Mexican population to this day. A protege of Ernst Rudin, Franz J.KaIlmann, who became a key US heredity research operative in New York State, received funding from the US controllers of Scottish Rite Freemasonry to prove that mental illness was hereditary. Indeed, from 1949 to 1963, a certain Robert Hanna Felix was director of psychiatric research for Scottish Rite Freemasonry - revealing that the controllers of the occultic Scottish Rite are well aware that their witchcraft operations are consistent and integral with mind modification.

BEARING THE BRUNT OF WILHELM WUNDT

These aberrations are all traceable historically to the influence of Wilhelm Maximilian Wundt (1875-1920) of the University of Heidelberg, who took the chair of philosophy at the University of Leipzig, where he established the first psychological laboratory, founded a journal of 'Philosophical Studies', and redefined psychology, especially with respect to its application in education to train servants of the state. Education is a subset of human engineering. Wundt perversely believed that psychological studies should be based upon physical reactions. Humanity thus becomes essentially valueless in a mechanistic world - to be played around with, modified or destroyed at will, and with impunity. Wundt's research was adopted and applied by the Prussian military and Government, and incorporated into a three-tiered schooling system in which 0.5% of pupils (the Akademie) are taught to think; 5.5% (Realschulen) are partially taught to think; and 94% (Volkschulen) of the students learn obedience, freedom from stressful thinking, and how to follow strict orders. It was therefore hardly surprising that the demoniac Adolf Hitler (Schicklgriiber) encountered little opposition among the general population to his hypnotic speeches, prescriptive demands and commands, as the first generation of Berlin schoolchildren brought up under the Volkschulen system were ripe for his manipulative mass behaviour modification offensive. The Volkschulen approach ensured that its students would not learn creative thinking, by dividing whole ideas into sub-subjects (mathematics, science etc) and then dividing these units into smaller units, and also by dividing time into small units. This is the teaching methodology used to this day, although it has been overlaid by Outcome-Based Education, which seeks to deliver young people with the 'correct' attitudes, and who have absorbed 'politically correct' concepts which, by definition, preclude creative thinking altogether. Modern education is also (deliberately) hampered by the demonic diversions provided by the insidious pop culture, which is a mass mind-control and behaviour modification transmission device to inculcate young minds with the Works of Darkness.

The Luciferians behind this devilish assault on our children[3] believe that they have the upper hand not least because children (or, as they prefer to call them, after the goat, 'kids') are being brought up nowadays to be computer literate at an early age, a state of affairs which promotes what they regard as the most disrupted state of society, one of disassociation, in which the individual is isolated from other members of the group. His or her main interaction is with electronic media, which in turn is 'just perfect' for the Luciferian project, since the Internet has been turned into the most efficient means for transmitting pornography ever invented: and the sexualisation of the young is 100% consistent with geomasonry and with the focus of all Masonry and witchcraft. Public health institutions have likewise been hijacked, or else founded in the first place as vehicles for the transmission of Luciferian propositions, one of the most notorious of which is a statement by Dr G. Brock Chisholm, who pronounced that 'the re-interpretation and eventual eradication of the concept of right and wrong are the belated objectives of nearly all psychotherapy'. No wonder an International Study Group for the Effects of Psychotropic Drugs on Normal Humans discussed, at their conference in 1967, the directions that mind-control and behaviour modification studies and results would follow up to the year 2000. These are all projects of the Luciferian controllers of the New Underworld Order.

Since the 1960s, sodium fluoride has been added to water in many developed countries where Luciferian powers hold hidden levers of power and influence. This is done not to preserve tooth enamel, as was proclaimed, for instance, by an oral hygiene propaganda unit run by Gibbs Toothpaste (part of Unilever) in the 1960s, but as a means of controlling the population through mass medication, since this substance was thought to be a mechanism for the reduction of resistance to domination, control and loss of liberty. The part of the brain responsible for an individual's power to resist domination is a small area of the brain tissue in the rear occiput of the left lobe. Repeated doses of tiny amounts of fluorine poison can narcotise this area, ostensibly rendering a person submissive to the will of persons seeking to control and govern him. Fluoride usage is a direct product of this Luciferian behaviour modification research. Charles Eliot Perkins, who was despatched by the US Government after the Second World War to annexe and take over I. G. Farben, the notorious manufacturers of Zyklon-B poison gas, stated that 'any person who drinks artificially fluorinated water for a period of one year or more will never again be the same person, mentally or physically'.

As a corollary to this effective denial that the human being is anything more than a bunch of atoms, to be manipulated at will, psychology according to Wundt became the study of the brain and the nervous system, discarding the notion that human beings have souls on the basis that if something is not scientifically quantifiable, it is not worthy of investigation. And Wundt's influence spread to the East as well as to the West: for example, Lenin's favourite psychologist, Ivan Pavlov (Pavloff), studied physiology in Leipzig. Pavlov unravelled patterns of animal behaviour through his experiments with dogs: in 1906, for instance, he measured their salivation by cutting holes in their cheeks, into which he inserted tubes. In his book 'Bio-Dynamics: The Battle for Youth' [1930], Dr Boris Sokoloff[4] recalled Professor Ivan Pavloff, whom Lenin consulted during a 'sabbatical' lasting several months at his dacha, pronouncing:

> 'There is no soul; there is only a reflex - a difference in electrical potentials and an increase in ions and irritation. We should not try to make an issue of our weakness by allowing ourselves even to think that we shall never understand this or that. We must understand everything and we shall. This will come to be'.

The influence of Wundt on psychology, psychiatry and education in the United States was paralleled, thanks to the studies undertaken by the key mid-19th century Bonesmen Gilman, Dwight and Russell, by the influence of Hegel, whose dialectical method is central to the modus operandi of all Luciferian control practitioners, from the revolutionary Leninists to members of The Order. The dialectic postulates that every force (Thesis) creates or is confronted by an opposing force (Antithesis), creating conflict, which in turn generates a third force, namely Synthesis (Thesis + Antithesis = Synthesis). The hotbed of Hegelian theorising has for a century been Johns Hopkins University, which 'figures', given its Skull and Bones origins and connections.

In the United States, the so-called 'father' of behaviourist psychology is reckoned to be John Broadus Watson (1878-1958), the evil Wundtian behavioural scientist who emerged from the heavily German-influenced University of Chicago where he learned all about Wilhelm Wundt and perversely taught that a child's wishes, needs and feelings should be treated as though they did not exist. This doctrine of Satan, which contravenes Jesus Christ's explicit teaching that no-one can enter into the Kingdom of God unless they humble themselves as little children, has damaged millions of young people for more than two generations. Watson is notorious for having boasted that he could take any 20 human infants and, by applying behavioural techniques, could create out of them whatever kind of person that he wished, whether beggar, butcher or thief. Children were to be removed from their mothers during the third or fourth week, otherwise attachments were sure to develop. Watson, who seemed to hate love, argued that mothers loved their babies for sexual reasons: otherwise, why would they kiss their children on the lips? He loathed mothers whose 'excessive affection' rendered a child forever dependent and emotionally unstable (the absolute reverse of the truth of course, as the Devil turns everything upside down). Children, therefore, should never be kissed, hugged or allowed to sit on their mothers' laps. Any occasional kissing should be confined to the forehead. Parents would soon discover their capacity for being 'perfectly objective' and yet kindly towards their children. The Author remembers an aunt who behaved exactly as prescribed by Watson: naturally, she was considered hard-hearted, cold and aloof.

Watson's behaviourism placed emphasis on the external behaviour of people and on their reactions to given situations, rather than on the internal, mental and spiritual condition of the people concerned. In the obtuse opinion of this fellow, analysis of the behaviour and the reactions human beings was the only objective method of gaining insight into human behaviour: which of course made sense from his warped perspective, since as a follower of Wundt he dismissed the ideas of spirit and soul as make-believe. Another misguided Wundt student - and US military intelligence operative -B. F. Skinner, developed operant conditioning and was the evil inventor of the 'Skinner Box', a crib-sized container into which children are placed for the purposes of conducting mind-control research, and for conditioning purposes.

For instance, one of the favoured techniques, extensively used in Illuminati training sessions, is placing a child in such a confined space with a rabbit, and telling the child that he will not be released until he has strangled the rabbit. This diabolical practice is designed to procure that the child becomes indifferent to inflicting pain without flinching, and to killing without flinching (as explained by Fr. Malachi Martin). The Author has established independently from US experts with direct Illuminati family background experience that this abomination is precisely as described here.

PROJECT BLUEBIRD-ARTICHOKE-MK-ULTRA-MK-SEARCH

mind-control experimentation in narcohypnotic techniques was initiated during the 1940s in a number of formerly belligerent countries. Project BLUEBIRD (relaunched as ARTICHOKE in August 1951 in a cover-up exercise), headed by Morse Allen, was mounted by US intelligence (the Joint Intelligence Committee) to develop methods of conditioning personnel to prevent unauthorised extraction of information from them. LSD, first synthesised by Sandoz Laboratories in Basel, Switzerland, in 1938 and by Dr Albert Hoffmann in 1943, arrived in the United States in 1949. Its arrival was an ingredient in the US intelligence community's developing work on the manipulation of human behaviour and mind-control, which 'blossomed' (to use a totally inappropriate word here) with Richard Helms' recommendation that the CIA must expand its research into both offensive and defensive brainwashing which became MK-ULTRA. Experiments with LSD were conducted by a Dr Harris Isbell, and overseen on behalf of the Scottish Rite by Robert Hanna Felix: one of these experiments involved giving Black prison inmates LSD for 75 consecutive days, with the dosage being increased whenever tolerance for LSD was indicated. In a similar experiment at Pont Saint-Esprit in France in 1951, the entire town went raving mad. One of the leading US mind-control experts, George Estabrooks, conducted research into the creation of hypnotically programmed couriers and into the hypnotic induction of split personalities. These victims, often used as hands-on operatives, have handlers like all other intelligence operatives, who can trigger pre-programmed reactions in the subject, such as ordering him to undertake an assassination (programmed omega subjects).

The American analyst Michael E. Kreca has expertly summarised the sordid history of the US Government's contribution to the United States' drug problem, in the following manner[5]. In September 1942, the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) Director and Army Major General William 'Wild Bill' Donovan began his search for an effective 'truth serum', to be used on prisoners of war and captured spies. Starting with a budget of $5,000 and the blessing of President Franklin Roosevelt, he enlisted the aid of a few prominent physicians and mind-control psychiatrists such as George Estabrooks and Harry Murray as well as the former Prohibition agent and notorious Federal Bureau of Narcotics (FBN) Director Harry Anslinger.

The OSS/FBN team first tested a potent marijuana extract, tetrahydrocannabinol acetate (THCA), a colourless, odourless substance, lacing cigarettes or food items with it, and administering them to volunteer US Army and OSS personnel, all of whom eventually acquired the nickname 'Donovan's Dreamers'. Testing was also conducted under the guise of treatment for shell shock, the original Tavistock Institute remit.

Donovan's team found that THCA, which they termed 'TD', for 'truth drug', induced 'a great loquacity and hilarity', and even, in cases where the subject didn't feel physically threatened, some useable 'reefer madness'. Peyote, morphine and scopolamine were judged too powerful to be used in effective interrogation. In the light of all this, Donovan concluded, 'the drug defies all but the most expert and search analysis, and for all practical purposes can be considered beyond analysis'. The OSS did not, however, end the programme. By that time, faced with the terrifying ship losses the United States was suffering because of the efficiency of German U-boats, Donovan pressed on, hoping to find some effective chemical means to help in the interrogation of captured German U-boat sailors and naval officers.

In May 1943, George Hunter White, an Army captain, OSS officer and former FBN agent, gave standard cigarettes laced with THCA to an unwitting August Del Grazio, an influential New York City gangster nicknamed 'Augie Dallas'. Del Grazio, who by then had done prison stretches for assault and murder, had been one of the Mafia's most notorious enforcers and narcotics smugglers. Michael Kreca's analysis reveals that he operated an opium alkaloid factory in Turkey and was a key participant in the long-running Istanbul/Marseilles/NYC heroin pipeline commonly known as the 'French Connection'. Influenced by the THC, Del Grazio (who was also helping to smuggle spies and Mafiosi into German-occupied Italy) revealed volumes of vital information about underworld operations, including the names of several high-ranking city and state officials who took bribes from the Mob. Donovan was encouraged by the results of White's tests, commenting in writing that 'Cigarette experiments indicated that we had a mechanism offering promise in relaxing prisoners to be interrogated'.

The extensive wartime German (Himmlerian) experiments with various hallucinogenic drugs at the Dachau concentration camp, directed by Dr Hubertus Strughold, later honoured as 'the father of aviation medicine', aroused great interest in the United States - especially after a US Navy Intelligence technical mission to Dachau in October 1945 reported in detail on Strughold's work. So great was the US official interest in what had been going on at Dachau, in fact, that when the OSS and its successor, the CIA, imported nearly 800 German scientists of various specialties under the auspices of the infamous 'Project Paperclip' during 1945-55, it made sure to include Dr. Strughold.

Dr. Strughold's barbaric 'medical experiments', for which his subordinates were tried and convicted as war criminals at Nuremburg, were nothing more than a series of bizarre and unspeakably brutal Satanic tortures. Even so, he learned a lot about human behaviour and mescaline, a natural alkaloid present in the peyote cactus. Mescaline, long central to many Native American religious rituals and first chemically isolated in 1896, is a phenethylamine, the ergoline skeleton of which is also contained in lysergic acid (a tryptamine).

Sandoz Laboratories' chief chemist Dr. Albert Hofmann also discovered a lysergic acid derivative called ergonovine, a medication used to retard excessive postpartum uterine bleeding. Based on his work with ergonovine, Dr. Hofmann initially derived d-lysergic acid diethylamide tartrate-25 (LSD, a refined alkaloidal liquid byproduct of the rye fungus, ergot) in a series of experiments in Zurich in 1938. He used the naturally occurring lysergic acid radical, the common item in all ergot alkaloids, as the major component of the substance. Further experiments in this vein yielded psilocybin, derived from the Mexican Psilocybe Cubensis mushroom, hydergine, essential today in the

PROJECT MKULTRA, THE CIA'S PROGRAM OF RESEARCH IN BEHAVIORAL MODIFICATION JOINT HEARING

BEFORE THE

SELECT COMMITTEE ON INTELLIGENCE

AND THE

SUBCOMMITTEE ON HEALTH AND SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

OF THE

COMMITTEE ON HUMAN RESOURCES
UNITED STATES SENATE

NINETY-FIFTH CONGRESS

FIRST SESSION

AUGUST 3, 1977

Printed for the use of the Select Committee on Intelligence and Committee on Human Resources

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE
96-408 O WASHINGTON : 1977

For sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office
Washington, D.C., 20402
Stock No. 052-070-04357-1

Figure 38: The images of covers of Congressional reports are shown here and in the following pages in order to provide precise indications of certain published sources of open domain information on CIA-'Tavistock School' mind- and personality-manipulation and abusive research activities, such as near-death trauma, conducted in the German Himmlerian tradition by the US intelligence community.

improvement of cerebral circulation in geriatric patients, and dihydroergotamine, an important ingredient in blood pressure medication.

The well-read and broadly educated Dr. Hofmann knew that ergot had a long natural and cultural history as both a medicine and a poison. Ancient Greek midwives used to give an ergot-based, gruel-like drink, called kykeon, to their patients who were about to give birth. Kykeon was also consumed during the autumn Eleusinia, the ancient Greek agricultural festival celebrated in honor of the goddess of agriculture, Demeter. Across the Atlantic, sacramental Maya morning glories, beautifully depicted at the ancient Mayan temple-palace complex at Teotihuacn, Mexico, dating to about 1450, also contained ergot-based alkaloids.

However, the mindset governing the drug research work conducted by the Central Intelligence Agency and the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) was far different from that of Dr. Hofmann's. To the Cold War spymasters, ex-Nazis like Dr. Strughold were definitely evil, but they were useful as well. This pervasive amoral pragmatism led, of course, to the odious, notorious and repellent MK-ULTRA experimentation, developed by Dr Sydney Gottlieb [see page 208], in which, for nearly 25 years, thousands of everyday Americans, both military and civilian, were heavily closed with numerous very potent artificial psychoactive drugs, often without their knowledge or consent. An unknown number of foreign, including British, individuals, were targeted in 'remote' psychological manipulation exercises by Dr Gottlieb's 'scientists'. The pervasive amorality of this Himmlerian experimentation also led to the prevailing US intelligence community culture of 'anything goes, as we are protected by the National Security Act et seq., and there's nothing anyone can do about it, not even Congress, as we have our people in all the top intelligence, policymaking and political slots'.

Michael Kreca elaborated that this phenomenon of the obsessive focus and reliance upon 'the interests of national security' - the expediency mentality - combined with the United States' celebrity-obsessed pop culture which gleefully raises and shamelessly promotes snake oil hustlers as well as the pharmaceutical industry's expensive 'pill for every ill' philosophy, was a recipe for incompetence and arrogance far more hazardous than any synthetic alkaloid that had been developed, and came as no surprise to experts like Dr. Hofmann. LSD proved to be invaluable in the psychiatric treatment of certain patients: the actor Cary Grant was cured of alcoholism by carefully administered doses of the drug under close medical supervision, because it is thousands of times more potent than the traditional herbal mixtures. In fact, it is thousands of times more potent than the milder of the entheogenic alkaloids. It is effective at doses of as little as a ten-millionth of a gram, which makes it 5,000 times more potent than mescaline. It should never be taken without training or supervision, Michael Kreca warned.

The Navy tested mescaline as part of its 1947-53 Project CHATTER. The personality-modification Project MK-ULTRA itself was first organised in 1949 by Richard Helms under the direction of the German Abwehr agent Allen Dulles, and was initially labelled as Project BLUEBIRD. Two years later, it was renamed ARTICHOKE (after one of Dulles's favourite foods), and then it was relabelled MK-ULTRA in 1953 - finally becoming MK-SEARCH in 1965 until the program's 'official termination' eight years later.

MK-ULTRA was directly responsible for the sudden wide underground availability of LSD, phencyclidine (PCP, also called 'angel dust'), dimethyltryptamine (DMT), 2,5-dimethoxy-4-methylamphetamine (STP), and other very powerful synthetic psychoactive drugs in the 1960s. A decade earlier, the CIA and the US Army had contacted Sandoz

. 1:
H88:
D84 .1043

HUMAN DRUG TESTING BY THE CIA, 1977

HEARINGS
BEFORE THE
SUBCOMMITTEE ON HEALTH AND SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH
OF THE
COMMITTEE ON HUMAN RESOURCES
UNITED STATES SENATE
NINETY-FIFTH CONGRESS
FIRST SESSION
ON
S. 1893

TO AMEND THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE ACT TO ESTABLISH THE PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION FOR THE PROTECTION OF HUMAN SUBJECTS OF BIOMEDICAL AND BEHAVIORAL RESEARCH, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

SEPTEMBER 20 AND 21, 1977

DEPOSITORY
GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
RECEIVED
FEB 16 1978
STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK
AT ALBANY

SUNY-ALBANY
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

Printed for the use of the Committee on Human Resources

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE
[illegible] O WASHINGTON : 1977

Figure 39: In 1966, the double-minded Richard Helms ordered the destruction of the MK-ULTRA files (and probably those of related Luciferian programmes), but of course the work, and the invention of 'evil things', continued. Congressional hearings were being conducted on this subject, and on the abusive testing of drugs on humans, as late as 1977. Dr Gottlieb supervised CIA mind-control research up to 1973.

Laboratories requesting several kilograms of LSD for use in the test programme. Dr. Hofmann and Sandoz refused this request, so the CIA Director Allen Dulles persuaded the Indianapolis-based pharmaceutical luminary organisation, first mentioned in Chapter 2, Eli Lilly (later the pioneers of and chief cheerleaders for the widely prescribed antidepressant Prozac) to synthesise the drug contrary to then existing international patent accords - making the US Government and Lilly the first illegal domestic manufacturers and distributors of LSD.

The product was distributed via the Central Intelligence Agency's organised crime allies and through the FBI's counterintelligence programmes (COINTELPROs) directed against various revolutionary activist groups of the period. The actual definition of the codename MK-ULTRA remains, for some, unclear; but a former Army Special Forces Captain, John McCarthy, who ran the CIA's Saigon-based Operation Cherry which targeted the Cambodian ruler Prince Sihanouk for assassination, claimed, with Edwin Wilson [see Chapter 3] that MK-ULTRA did (does) indeed stand for 'Manufacturing Killers Utilizing Lethal Tradecraft Requiring Assassination'.

On April 10, 1953, in a speech at Princeton University, the CIA's Director of Central Intelligence, Allen Dulles (further feeding the already widespread but misguided fear about the high effectiveness of the alleged Chinese 'brainwashing' of US prisoners of war in the Korean context) warned that the human mind was a 'malleable tool', and that the 'brain perversion techniques' of the Communists were 'so subtle and so abhorrent' that 'the brain becomes a phonograph playing a disc put on its spindle by an outside genius over which it has no control'. What Mr Dulles concealed, of course, was that Britain and the United States had been working overtime on perfecting similar techniques for many years, and that the original sources and inspiration for these aberrations was the same. He also concealed the DVD propaganda component of his warnings.

In its simplest and most odious form, propaganda involves condemning one's opponent publicly for doing what one is already doing privately. One characteristic of liars and deceivers is that they usually accuse their opponents of the sins that they are committing themselves. Dulles, of course, was that very 'outside genius'. Three days after warning assembled Princetonians of the disturbing ramifications of these techniques, he had directed MK-ULTRA researchers to perfect them.

Dr. Sidney Gottlieb, the CIA's expert on lethal poisons, (who was reputedly the inspiration for Stanley Kubrick's bizarre Dr. Strangelove character played by Peter Sellers in the 1964 film of the same title) led the operation as the Director of the Chemical Division of the Technical Services Staff and, via a front organisation called The Society For Human Ecology, and distributed $25 million worth of drug research grants to Harvard, Stanford, UC Berkeley and other US institutions. In later life, Dr Gottlieb became well-known for his enigmatic observation that 'the bottom line on this whole business has not yet been written'. Gottlieb was among many prominent behaviour modification and mind-control experts from Germany, of Jewish extraction, who have collaborated over the decades to create the new hell on earth which the Luciferians have been constructing not least in order to destroy True Christianity (which is impossible). In the 1960s, Gottlieb travelled to the Congo, with a little black bag containing a biotoxin destined for the toothbrush of his target, Patrice Lumumba.

The technique of applying poisons to a target's toothbrush has contemporary resonance following the state-sponsored poisoning in 2005 of the self-motivated US patriot Andrew Stephenson, of Seattle, who almost single-handedly toured the United

,4.1
H88:
B52/3/
977
.1043

BIOLOGICAL TESTING INVOLVING HUMAN SUBJECTS BY THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE, 1977

HEARINGS
BEFORE THE
SUBCOMMITTEE ON HEALTH AND SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH
OF THE
COMMITTEE ON HUMAN RESOURCES
UNITED STATES SENATE
NINETY-FIFTH CONGRESS
FIRST SESSION
ON EXAMINATION OF SERIOUS DEFICIENCIES IN THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT'S EFFORTS TO PROTECT THE HUMAN SUBJECTS, OF DRUG RESEARCH

MARCH 8 AND MAY 23, 1977

DEPOSITORY

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
RECEIVED
NOV8 1977
STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK
AT ALBANY

SUNY-ALBANY
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

Printed for the use of the Committee on Human Resources

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE
97-867 O WASHINGTON : 1977

Figure 40: Many secrets concerning the US intelligence community's emulation and elaboration of Nazi experimentation were only revealed in the course of Congressional Hearings in the 1970s. But since the CIA is self-financing (its Congressional appropriations being just pocket-money) and is essentially accountable to no-one at all, exposures of its Himmlerian abominations have made no difference to its behaviour.

States to draw public attention to the intended falsification of the 2004 General Election outcome by means of the manipulation of electronic voting machines and software [for a review of the electronic methods that have been developed to 'control democracy', namely, so as to finalise the substitution of 'democratism' for 'true democracy', see Addendum 1, page 662]. After exhausting his financial resources, Andy made the fatal mistake of travelling to Washington DC, in search of a lobbying job on Capitol Hill. On the return flight to Seattle, he was violently ill, and shortly afterwards was diagnosed with cancer of the pancreas[6]. The late Jimmy Goldsmith, the British businessman turned founder of the since-defunct Referendum Party, mysteriously developed cancer of the pancreas within 18 months of his starting to write and give speeches against free trade and Britain's participation in the European Union Collective. On investigating these and other mysterious deaths, the Author established from impeccable intelligence sources that the favoured technique is to enter the target's hotel bedroom while he is out attending a conference or meetings, and to inject his toothpaste tube with the biotoxin du jour, which may also be applied to the toothbrush. The reason for this procedure is that biotoxins are most efficiently and rapidly absorbed via the underneath of the tongue.

Poor Mozart was poisoned when, through 'The Magic Flute', he exposed the occult evils of Freemasonry, despite his reliance on financial handouts from known Masons. When Captain William Morgan exposed Freemasonry with his little book, published in 1827, entitled 'Illustrations of Freemasonry' [from which the old drawings of Masonic 'grips' etc shown in Addendum 10 on page 734 and on page 10 are taken], he was murdered. Stephen Knight, the British author of 'THE Brotherhood: The Secret World of the Freemasons'[7], one of the first modern exposures of Freemasonry, was likewise liquidated.

Wherever possible, Illuminati assassinations, as in the case of Mozart, are conducted by means of poisoning; and the modern focus has been on developing biotoxins which mimic natural illnesses. The pancreas being one of the most sensitive of all the internal organs, a Himmlerian biotoxin has been developed which either mimics or creates cancer of the pancreas, which has the 'advantage' that the victim appears normal until close to the end.

For two decades, the odious Dr Sidney Gottlieb, the US Government's leading poisoner (who died and descended to hell on 10th March 2005), presided over the CIA's Technical Services Division, where he supervised the invention and preparation of lethal poisons, experiments in mind-control and the administration of LSD and other psycho-active drugs to unwitting subjects. There remains a possibility that the CIA had been concerned that Gottlieb, who was tending to move towards tentative 'repentance' in his declining years, may have been about to expose a wide range of the CIA's most diabolical programmes, amid the general revulsion at the atrocities committed by CIA-linked operatives at Abu Ghraib and many other locations in Iraq, Jordan, Afghanistan, and on the British Territory (leased to the United States) of Diego Garcia).

The Abu Ghraib atrocities were simply elaborations of certain abominations committed in the context of the CIA's demonic Phoenix Program, supervised by William Colby in Vietnam. A team of CIA 'Wehrmacht' 'psychologists' established a base at Bien Hoa Prison near Saigon, where suspects were being held after Phoenix Program round-ups. They proceeded to perform Himmlerian experiments on the prisoners. In one of these, three prisoners were anaesthetised, their skulls were opened, and electrodes were implanted by CIA doctors into different parts of their brains. The prisoners were revived, placed in a room and given knives while the electrodes were activated. The CIA observers 'hoped' they would attack each other. When they didn't, they were shot dead.

MIDNIGHT CLIMAX: USING SEX FOR CONTROL AND ENTRAPMENT

Earlier, George Hunter White, of THCA-laced 'Lucky Strikes' fame, had returned to the FBN (now the Drug Enforcement Administration) at the end of the war, where he continued to research behaviour modifying drugs. In 1955, he was a high ranking FBN administrator who helped the CIA develop and implement a similar operation called MIDNIGHT CLIMAX. In this infamous scheme, 'safe houses' staffed with prostitutes were established in San Francisco. The hookers lured men from local taverns back to these safe houses after their drinks had previously been spiked with LSD. White's team secretly filmed the subsequent events in each house. The purpose of these so-called 'national security brothels' was to enable the CIA to experiment with the use of sex and mind-altering drugs to extract information from test subjects - and, it was planned, from spies, prisoners of war, defectors and saboteurs. The sex entrapment apparatus run out of premises close to Dupont Circle in Washington, DC, was and is an ongoing byproduct of this 'research'. It performs the function of entrapping diplomats and other targets for espionage and blackmail purposes. Not all diplomats are suitable fodder for invitations to the Bohemian Grove in California, which specialises in blackmail entrapment.

MIDNIGHT CLIMAX was ostensibly terminated after eight years when the CIA's Inspector-General of the day, John Earman, charged that 'the concepts involved in manipulating human behaviour are found by many people within and outside the Agency to be distasteful and unethical'. It would be reassuring if this perspective had made the slightest difference to the way this criminalised organisation behaves, but of course it hasn't. Mr Earman asserted that 'the rights and interests of US citizens were placed in jeopardy'. Earman further noted that LSD 'had been tested on individuals at all social levels, high and low, native American and foreign'. MK-ULTRA's bureaucratic godfather, Richard Helms, summarily rebuffed Earman's charges, claiming that 'positive operational capacity to use drugs is diminishing, owing to a lack of realistic testing. Tests', Helms continued, 'were necessary to keep up with the Soviets'.

However, Helms reversed himself a year later when testifying before the Warren Commission, the cover-up operation headed by Gerald Ford (a.ka. the alleged pornography boss Leslie Lynch King. Jr.) investigating the assassination of President Kennedy, claiming that 'Soviet research has consistently lagged five years behind Western research'.

Upon formal retirement from the bureaucracy in 1966, George White wrote a startling farewell letter to Dr. Gottlieb. He reminisced about his MIDNIGHT CLIMAX work, and uttered these notorious, cynical and frightening observations, which have since become legendary: 'I was a very minor missionary, actually a heretic, but I toiled wholeheartedly in the vineyards because it was fun, fun, fun. Where else could a red-blooded American boy lie, kill, cheat, steal, rape and pillage with the sanction and blessing of the all-highest?'

Where else indeed, but as a member of what would later become the hypocritical War on Drugs, as cover for drug-trafficking? For by the end of the 1950s, the CIA was financing just about every qualified LSD researcher and psychologist it could find, through contractors such as the Society for the Study of Human Ecology

In 1966, Richard Helms ordered the destruction of MK-ULTRA's files, but of course the work continued, and Congressional hearings on the subject were being conducted as late as 1977 [see Figures 38-39] - with the CIA's mind-control research supervised up to 1973 by Dr Sidney Gottlieb. Visitors to Long Island who have friends living there, as does the Author, will at some stage discover that the 'ground zero' location for eugenics research (for the past century) has been Cold Spring Harbour, LI.

MK-ULTRA experimentation, in which Vice-President Richard Cheney was allegedly involved in a senior supervisory role, did not of course follow standards for medical experimentation (such as informed consent) established at Nuremberg. Between 1958 and 1960, LSD tests were conducted to establish how an LSD-dosed soldier would behave under interrogation. By the mid-1960s, at least 1,500 US Chemical Corps army personnel had been subjected to LSD experimentation. The psychoactive compound quinuclidinyl benzilate (BZ), first tested at Edgewood Arsenal in 1959, was given to about 2,800 soldiers and was deployed in grenades, mortar shells and missiles used in Vietnam. In MK-ULTRA training of Navy personnel for deployment in 'combat readiness units', the men were strapped to chairs with their eyelids clamped open and were forced to watch films of carnage until they were desensitised. One report says that these men were also compelled to watch propaganda aimed at the dehumanisation and vilification of other cultures, which they were required to hate.

Meanwhile Aldous Huxley (whose homosexual lover was D. H. Lawrence), of the Tavistock Institute, and a member of the filthy British drug and homosexuality cult called Children of the Sun, spearheaded a Tavistock project to intoxicate elements of the US population with LSD in about 1950 (an episode the trademarks of which have been obliterated by the subsequent LSD period publicised by Dr Timothy Leary: see below). The gullible American population was prepared for LSD by Huxley's very evil book, The Doors of Perception. Huxley pronounced that 'there will be in the next generation or so, a pharmacological method of making people love their servitude, and producing ... a kind of painless concentration camp for entire societies'. The diabolical Esalen Institute at Big Sur, California sponsors, to this day, meditational and psychoesoteric training with links to Aldous Huxley. The US Army reservation on the former US military base at The Presidio, outside San Francisco, is the location of a Satanic child molestation ring with which the notorious US military intelligence operative Colonel Michael Aquino, the head of the Temple of Set, was associated. A military research laboratory there develops, tests and modifies advanced US Government mind-control knowledge and applications.

THE JOLLY JAPES OF LOUIS JOLYON WEST

These evil activities were then developed in the following manner. An employee of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Jerry Garcia, was employed to channel youth dissent and rebellion into 'benign' and non-threatening directions. Still in the 1950s, the US Public Health Service [sic!!] meanwhile employed the services of the prominent LSD proponent, Dr Timothy Leary, to popularised the use of LSD, which was of course extremely damaging to those who followed this evil example. The intended mass infusion of LSD into US culture was contrived to turn the masses away from political activism and towards a life of 'ecstatic mystic peasantry' - an objective that has comprehensively failed. Dr Leary's drug experiments, undertaken at Harvard University, were funded by the CIA, which also trained or trains operatives to raise children to become sex slaves (Project MONARCH slaves). A number of covert mind-control slave camps are known to exist in the United States, of which Mount Shasta is one.

On the day of the Oklahoma City bombing - a mass traumatisation event, like the assassination of President Kennedy and 9/11, which was intended to influence and affect the United States' national identity and cohesiveness, to fracture the souls of the American people and to accustom them to the perception that the nation and its Government are subject to hidden forces beyond their control - a certain Dr Louis Jolyon West appeared on the prime-time Larry King Live nationwide TV show, which is thought to be extensively used to deceive the American people, to characterise Timothy McVeigh as yet another 'lone nutcase'. And who was Louis Jolyon West, mercifully no longer with us to torment humanity (1924-99)?

On 2 January 1999, this evil man, a key US mind-control specialist, died, like Lenin, of a rapidly advancing malignant tumour which even he lacked the power to overcome. Formerly the celebrated psychiatric consultant to the US Air Force, occupant of the Chair of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioural Sciences at the University of California, and Director of its Neuropsychiatric Institute, Los Angeles (UCLA), this fellow was born in Brooklyn, of immigrant Russian-Jewish parents. After enlisting in the military, he was sent to the University of Iowa where he participated in a secret specialised training programme. His later work on behaviour modification and mind-control for US intelligence developed into an extensive study of cults, torture and brainwashing. He worked in particular as a court-appointed psychiatrist, examining Jack Ruby, the murderer of Lee Harvey Oswald.

During the Korean War, West studied Soviet and Chinese techniques of brain-washing and torture. He said at the time that US prisoners-of-war had falsely confessed to engaging in germ warfare because their captors had instilled a sense of guilt in them through solitary confinement, prolonged sleeplessness and physical abuse, which he described as the classic tools of brainwashing. These 'just happen' to be precisely the 'tools' employed by US intelligence and its 'cut-ouf torturing and interrogation organisations like CACI at Abu Ghraib and the large number of similar enterprises scattered around Iraq and Afghanistan. In the course of his research, West demonstrated that prisoners could become convinced of their own guilt by these same 'tools' of solitary confinement, physical abuse and lack of sleep. He extended these findings to his study of cults, pontificating that they practice 'the three Ds: debility, dread and dependency'. He was accused by some of killing an elephant named Tusko at Oklahoma Zoo in the 1960s with an overdose of LSD, while he was directing an LSD research programme for the CIA at the University of Oklahoma. In 1962, Louis Jolyon West published a tome on hallucinations, which he had edited, consisting of papers by prominent members of the American Psychiatric Association and other scientists on such issues as the spiritual effects of LSD and the experiences of schizophrenics.

Dr West was cleared at TOP SECRET level for work on MK-ULTRA operations. He was to have headed the UCLA Violence Project, which had been approved by President Reagan but which was ostensibly cancelled in response to public protest. The project was to have been housed in a Nike missile site outside Los Angeles, in the Santa Monica mountains. In his book 'Journey Into Madness', the British writer Gordon Thomas says that Dr West had proposed (but this Author suspects that the CIA had proposed) the creation of a financially well-endowed multidisciplinary Center for the Study and Reduction of Violence, within the confines of which doctors would explore all types of violent behaviour, what caused it, and how it could be detected, prevented and treated.

The Center was to have dealt with individuals who displayed antisocial and impulsive aggression tendencies. Its laboratories were to specialise in genetic, biochemical, and neurophysiological studies of 'violent individuals, including prisoners and hyperkinetic children'. This proposal was enthusiastically promoted by Governor Ronald Reagan of California, but the State Legislature thought it was evil, and refused to sanction the development of the means to enable the State to monitor individuals with implants from central control stations. Two South American doctors, working at detention centres in Paraguay and Chile, who were familiar with the work of Himmler's Dr Mengele, were to have been recruited for this Satanic project with which Ronald Reagan was so enamoured: one was to run the Center's shock room, and the other was to direct the Center's psychosurgical operating unit, where the latest lobotomy techniques were to be used. In 1994, ''The Times', London, estimated that 15,000 people had been implanted with electronic brain devices during the preceding decade.

A number of other abhorrent CIA mind-control MK-ULTRA programs were supposedly cancelled - although the frequency with which such cancellations have been reported suggests to the Author that these 'cancellations' may represent disinformation. One was a proposal to implant brain electrodes in prisoners at Vacaville State Prison, California, the site of Himmlerian CIA mind-control experiments on the drug pemoline under another related programme called MK-SEARCH. The prisoners were to be monitored by remote tracking technology after discharge. If they entered a restricted area or exhibited sexual arousal patterns on remote EEG equipment, a signal would be sent to their brain electrodes immobilising them, while law enforcement personnel would be despatched to apprehend them. A second mind-control experiment at Vacaville State Prison, set up in February 1972, was also supposedly 'aborted'. A Maximum Psychiatric Diagnostic Unit there was to deal with selected inmates from the 700 held in solitary confinement in California prisons. A Luciferian programme, evolved from experiments such as those performed in Bien Hoa prison, near Saigon, in 1968, was developed for this unit, under which prisoners would have electrodes implanted in their brains to monitor them and to control their behaviour after discharge, using radio transmitters. Following public outrage, the California Department of Corrections called a press conference on 30th December 1977 to announce that the project had been 'temporarily abandoned for administrative reasons'. Other 'shutdowns' of nefarious programmes, attributable to negative public reaction, have been recorded - two notable instances being the Tuskeegee Syphilis Study and the Lafayette Clinic Aggression Project.

These supposed closures of Himmlerian programmes - which may well have been continued, of course, under different cover - demonstrate that when information about the evil practices of the hidden Luciferian establishment leak into the public domain, the American public (especially the Californian public, which has a commendable record in this respect) can be mobilised to a sufficient extent at least to make life temporarily inconvenient for these evil people - who include the Harvard brain electrode team, doctors from Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, the Navy Medical Neuropsychiatric Research Unit in San Diego, and the Veterans Administration Hospital, Salt Lake City. An outfit calling itself the False Memory Syndrome Foundation, with a board consisting of CIA and military doctors, exists not to investigate the 'syndrome', but in fact to disprove claims of cult mind-control - in order (of course) to cover up behaviour modification and mind-control operations of US intelligence which are in danger of being exposed by the victims, their handlers, or both (as in the case with which Mark Phillips is associated, even thought it appears that Phillips is or was nevertheless also engaged in establishing whether a MONARCH Slave can be permanently deprogrammed).

It was, by the way, that man of darkness, Dr. Gottlieb, from Germany, who sponsored CIA research by the notorious Dr Ewen Cameron at McGill University, Montreal, where he routinely dosed psychiatric subjects with jolts of electricity through their brains. What degree of demonic madness accounted for such abominations is hard to imagine.

THE NAZI CONNECTION ACTUALLY 'TOOK OFF' DURING THE WAR

Writing in their 1998 book 'Whiteout: the CIA, Drugs and the Press' [ISBN: 1-85984-8974], Alexander Cockburn and Jeffrey St. Clair revealed that the United States' enthusiastic infatuation with Heinrich Himmler's Illuminati Toten-scientists can be traced back to 1944, although as we have seen the German penetration in this dimension began in the 1930s. The story of the recruitment of Nazi scientists and warfare technicians by the Pentagon and the Central Intelligence Agency is well told in two excellent but unjustly neglected books: Tom Bower's 'The Paperclip Conspiracy' (1987)[9] and Linda Hunt's 'Secret Agenda' (1991)[10]. Hunt's reporting in particular, is first rate. Exploiting the Freedom of Information Act, she opened up thousands of pages of crucial documents from the Pentagon, the State Department and the CIA that should keep researchers occupied for years to come.

Information about experiments by the Nazi doctors was surfaced primarily from the trial record of the medical cases conducted at the Nuremberg tribunal, from Alexander Mitscherlich and Fred Mielke's 'Doctors of Infamy' (1981)[11], and Robert Proctor's frightening account in 'Racial Hygiene' (1988)[12]. The US Government's research into biological warfare is admirably profiled in Jeanne McDermott's book, 'The Killing Winds' (1979)[13]. The best account of the US Government's role in developing and deploying chemical warfare agents remains Seymour Hersh's book 'Chemical and Biological Warfare' (1969)[14] from the late 1960s. In an attempt to track down the cause of Gulf War Syndrome (which he perhaps 'didn't realise' was allegedly caused by aspartame in soft drink consignments), Senator Jay Rockefeller held a series of remarkable hearings on human experimentation by the US Government. These studies are cited to provide further references beyond the scope of this broader enquiry, which focuses on pan-German global control plans and their integration into the Dluminati dimension of Germany's Luciferian offensive.

The mass exodus of Himmler's Nazi scientists inter alia to the United States was not, as all analysts have hitherto assumed, solely a consequence of corrupt and pragmatic decisions made by amoral American and British intelligence officers and misguided policymakers, but was also - crucially, as is explained in Chapter 8 - an intended corollary of subtle Nazi propaganda and influence-building operations masterminded from the German Geopolitical Centre set up by the Nazis in Madrid in 1942. Anyone who loses sight of this central fact will miss the whole point of this book.

In their remarkable analysis, Cockburn and St Clair explained that 'a careful review of the activities of the CIA and the organisations from which it sprang reveals an intense preoccupation with the development of techniques of behaviour control, brainwashing and covert medical and psychic experimentation on unwitting subjects including religious sects, ethnic minorities, prisoners, mental patients, soldiers and the terminally ill. The rationale for such activities, the techniques and indeed the human subjects chosen show an extraordinary and chilling similarity to Nazi experiments. This similarity becomes less surprising when we trace the determined and often successful efforts of US intelligence officers to acquire the records of Nazi experiments, and in many cases to recruit the Nazi researchers themselves and put them to work - transferring the laboratories from Dachau, the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, Auschwitz and Buchenwald to Edgewood Arsenal, Fort Derrick, Huntsville Air Force Base, Ohio State, and the University of Washington'. Thus the Nazi International contrived with great skill to transfer Himmler's Satanic operations to the eager United States.

'As Allied forces crossed the English Channel during the D-Day invasion in June 1944, some 10,000 intelligence officers known as T-Forces were right behind the advance battalions. Their mission was to seize munitions experts, technicians, German scientists and their research materials, along with French scientists who had collaborated with the Nazis. Soon a substantial number of such scientists had been picked up and placed in an internment camp known as the Dustbin. In the original planning for the mission a prime factor was the view that German military equipment - tanks, jets, rocketry and so forth - was technically superior and that captured scientists, technicians and engineers could be swiftly debriefed in an effort by the Allies to catch up'.

'Then, in December 1944, Bill Donovan, head of the OSS, and Allen Dulles [the German Abwehr deep cover intelligence agent - Ed.], OSS head of intelligence operations in Europe operating out of Switzerland, strongly urged FDR to approve a plan allowing Nazi intelligence officers, scientists and industrialists to be "given permission for entry into the United States after the war and the placing of their earnings on deposit in an American bank and the like". FDR swiftly turned the proposal down, saying: "We expect that the number of Germans who are anxious to save their skins and property, will rapidly increase. Among them may be some who should properly be tried for war crimes, or at least arrested for active participation in Nazi activities. Even with the necessary controls you mention, I am not prepared to authorize the giving of guarantees"'.

But Cockburn and St Clair pointed out that 'this presidential veto was a dead letter even as it was being formulated'. A scheme codenamed Operation Overcast was under way as early as July 1945, approved by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Its purpose was to bring into the United States 350 German Nazi scientists, including Werner Von Braun and his V2 rocket team, chemical weapons designers, and artillery and submarine engineers. There had been some theoretical ban on Nazis being imported, but this was as empty as FDR's edict. In addition to Von Braun, the Overcast shipment included such notorious Nazis and SS officers as Dr. Herbert Axster, Dr. Arthur Rudolph and Georg Richkey.

Von Braun's team had used slave labor from the Dora concentration camp and had worked prisoners to death in the Mittelwerk complex: indeed, more than 20,000 had died there from exhaustion and starvation. 'The supervising slavemaster was Richkey. In retaliation against sabotage in the missile plant - prisoners would urinate on electrical equipment, causing spectacular malfunctions - Richkey would hang them, twelve at a time from the factory cranes, with wooden sticks shoved into their mouths to muffle their cries. In the Dora camp itself, he regarded children as useless mouths and instructed the SS guards to club them to death, which they did'.

This record did not inhibit Richkey's high-speed transfer to the United States, the authors reported, 'where he was deployed at Wright Field, a US Army Air Corps base near Dayton, Ohio'. Richkey was then put to work overseeing security for dozens of other Nazis who were by now pursuing their researches for the United States. 'He was also assigned the task of translating all of the records from the Mittelwerk factory. He thus had the opportunity, which he used to the utmost, to destroy any material compromising to his colleagues and himself. By 1947 there was enough public disquiet, stimulated by the columnist Drew Pearson, to require a pro forma war crimes trial for Richkey and a few others. Richkey was sent back to West Germany and put through a secret trial supervised by the US Army, which had every reason to clear Richkey since conviction would disclose that the entire Mittelwerk team now in the US had been accomplices in the use of slavery and the torture and killing of prisoners of war, and thus were also guilty of war crimes. The US Army therefore sabotaged Richkey's trial by withholding records now in the United States and also by preventing any interrogation of Von Braun and others from Dayton: and Richkey was acquitted. Because some of the trial materials implicated Rudolph, Von Braun and Walter Domberger, however, the entire record was classified and held secret for forty years, thus burying evidence that could have sent the entire rocket team to the gallows'.

'Senior officers of the US Army knew the truth. Initially the recruitment of German war criminals was justified as being necessary to the continuing war against Japan. Later, moral justification took the form of invoking "intellectual reparations" or, as the Joint Chiefs of Staff put it, as "a form of exploitation of chosen rare minds whose continuing intellectual productivity we wish to use". Endorsement for this repellent posture came from a panel of the National Academy of Sciences, which adopted the colleg-ial position that German scientists had somehow evaded the Nazi contagion by being "an island of nonconformity in the Nazified body politic", a statement that Von Braun, Richkey and the other slave drivers must have deeply appreciated'[15].

But these excuses were soon overwhelmed by a much more saleable proposition. 'By 1946, a rationale based on Cold War strategy was becoming more important. Nazis were needed in the struggle against Communism, and their capabilities certainly had to be withheld from the Soviets. In September 1946, President Harry Truman approved the Dulles-inspired Project Paperclip, the mission of which was to bring a targeted 1,000 Nazi scientists to the United States. Among them were many of the vilest criminals of the war: there were doctors from Dachau concentration camp who had killed prisoners by putting them through high altitude tests, who had frozen their victims and given them massive closes of salt water to research the process of drowning. There were the chemical weapons engineers such as Kurt Blome, who had tested Sarin nerve gas on prisoners at Auschwitz. There were doctors who had instigated battlefield traumas by taking women prisoners at Ravensbriick and filling their wounds with gangrene cultures, sawdust, mustard gas, and glass, then sewing them up and treating some with doses of sulphur drugs while timing others to see how long it took for them to develop lethal cases of gangrene'.

Cockburn and St Clair continued: 'Among the targets of the US Paperclip recruitment program were Hermann Becker-Freysing and Konrad Schaeffer, authors of the study 'Thirst and Thirst Quenching in Emergency Situations at Sea'. The 'scientific' study was designed to devise ways to prolong the survival of pilots downed over water. To this end, the two scientists had asked Heinrich Himmler for "forty healthy test subjects" from the SS chief's network of concentration camps - the only debate among the scientists being whether the research victims should be Jews, gypsies or Communists. The experiments took place at Dachau. These prisoners, most of them Jews, had salt water forced down their throats through tubes. Others had salt water injected directly into their veins. Half of the subjects were given a drug called berkatit, which was supposed to make salt water more palatable, though both scientists suspected that the berkatit itself would prove fatally toxic within two weeks. They were absolutely correct. During the tests the doctors used long needles to extract liver tissue. No anaesthetic was given. All the research subjects, of course, died. Both Becker-Freysing and Schaeffer received long-term contracts under Paperclip; Schaeffer ended up in Texas, where he continued his research into 'thirst and desalinisation of salt water.'

Becker-Freysing was given the responsibility, the authors reported, 'of editing for the US Air Force the massive store of aviation research conducted by his fellow Nazis. By this time he had been tracked down and brought to trial at Nuremberg. The multi-volume work, entitled 'German Aviation Medicine: World War II', was eventually published by the US Air Force, complete with an introduction written by Becker-Freysing from his Nuremberg jail cell. The work neglected to mention the human victims of the research, and praised the Nazi scientists as sincere and honourable men 'with a free and academic character labouring under the constraints of the Third Reich'. One of their prominent colleagues was a certain Dr. Sigmund Rascher, also assigned to Dachau. In 1941 Rascher informed Himmler of the vital need to conduct high-altitude experiments on human subjects. Rascher, who had developed a special low-pressure chamber during his tenure at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, asked Himmler for permission to have delivered into his custody 'two or three hundred professional criminals', a Nazi euphemism for Jews, Russian prisoners, and members of the Polish underground resistance. Himmler quickly assented and Rascher's experiments were under way within a month.

'Rascher's victims were locked inside his low-pressure chamber, which simulated altitudes of up to 68,000 feet. Eighty of the human guinea pigs died after being kept inside for half an hour without oxygen. Dozens of others were dragged semi-conscious from the chamber and immediately drowned in vats of ice water. Rascher quickly sliced open their heads to examine how many blood vessels in the brain had burst due to air embolisms. Rascher filmed these experiments and the autopsies, sending the footage along with his meticulous notes back to Himmler. "Some experiments gave men such pressure in their heads that they would go mad and pull out their hair in an effort to relieve such pressure", Rascher wrote. "They would tear at their heads and faces with their hands and scream in an effort to relieve pressure on their eardrums". Rascher's records were scooped up by US intelligence agents and delivered to the Air Force'.

That is how keen the relevant evil cadres of the US intelligence community were to obtain and build upon these hellish findings. The US intelligence operatives were in fact so entranced with their mission, that they went to extraordinary lengths to protect their recruits from criminal investigators at the US Department of Justice. One of the more despicable cases was that of Nazi aviation researcher Emil Salmon, who, though a Jew, had helped during the War to set fire to a synagogue filled with Jewish women and children. Salmon was sheltered by US officials at Wright Air Force Base in Ohio after being convicted of crimes by a denazification court in Germany.

ENTER THE OFFICE OF NAVAL INTELLIGENCE

Through its Technical Mission in Europe, the US Navy was also hot on the trail of state-of-the-art Nazi research into interrogation techniques. The Navy's intelligence officers soon came across Nazi research papers on truth serums, this research having been conducted, yet again, at Dachau concentration camp, by a Dr. Kurt Plotner. Plotner had given Jewish and Russian prisoners high doses of mescalin and had watched them display schizophrenic behaviour. The prisoners began to talk openly of their hatred of their German captors, and to make confessional statements about their psychological makeup. Reading Dr. Plotner's reports, the US Naval Intelligence officers discovered that Plotner had experimented with some success with mescalin as a speech- and even truth-inducing drug, enabling interrogators to extract 'even the most intimate secrets from the subject when questions were cleverly put'. Plotner also reported researches into mescalin's potential as an agent of behavioural modification or mind-control.

Cockburn and St Clair reported that 'this information was of particular interest to Boris Pash, one of the more sinister figures in the CIA cast of characters in this early phase. Pash was a Russian emigre to the United States who had gone through the revolutionary years at the birth of the Soviet Union.... In his capacity as head of security Pash had supervised the OSS officer George Hunter White's use of THC on Manhattan Project scientists. In 1944 Pash was picked by Donovan to head up what was called the Alsos Mission, designed to scoop up German scientists who had been involved in atomic, chemical and biological weapons research. Mr Pash set up shop at the house of an old prewar friend, Dr. Eugene von Haagen, a professor at the University of Strasburg, where many Nazi scientists had been faculty members. Pash had met von Haagen when the doctor was on sabbatical at Rockefeller University in New York, researching tropical viruses. When von Haagen returned to Germany in the late 1930s he and Kurt Blome became joint heads of the Nazis' biological weapons unit'.

'Von Haagen', the authors reported, drawing on their study of official documents, 'spent much of the war infecting Jewish inmates at the Natzweiler concentration camp with diseases, including spotted fever. Undeterred by the wartime activities of his old friend, Pash immediately placed von Haagen into the Paperclip Program, where he worked for the US Government for five years providing expertise in germ weapons research. Von Haagen put Pash in touch with his former colleague, Blome, who was also speedily enlisted in the Paperclip Program. There was an inconvenient hiatus when Blome was arrested and tried at Nuremberg for medical war crimes, including the deliberate infecting of hundreds of prisoners from the Polish underground with TB and bubonic plague. But fortunately for the Nazi man of 'science', US Army Intelligence and the OSS withheld mcriminating documents they had acquired through their interrogation. The evidence would not only have demonstrated Blome's guilt but also his supervising role in constructing a German CBW laboratory to test chemical and biological weapons for use on Allied troops'. Blome was acquitted.

One final excerpt from Cockburn and St Clair's analysis is relevant here. 'In 1954, two months after Blome's acquittal', they asserted, 'US intelligence officers journeyed to Germany to interview him. In a memorandum to his superiors, Mr H. W Batchelor described the purpose of this pilgrimage' in the following terms - which will have warmed the cold hearts of the long-term strategic deception operatives of the Nazi International at the Madrid-based German Geopolitical Centre [see Chapter 8], who had been largely responsible for enticing the short-sighted Americans to embrace the Nazi intelligence and scientific communities, in pursuit of their long-range strategy of establishing the Nazis' Thousand-Year Reich on the ruins of the United States itself:

"We have friends in Germany, scientific friends, and this is an opportunity to enjoy meeting them to discuss our various problems".

At the session, Blome gave Batchelor a list of the biological weapons researchers who had worked for him during the War and discussed promising new avenues of research into weapons of mass destruction. The authors concluded that 'Blome was soon signed up to a new Paperclip contract for $6,000 a year, and flew to the United States, where he took up his duties at Camp King, an army base located outside Washington, DC. In 1951 von Haagen was picked up by the French authorities. Despite the tireless efforts of his protectors in US intelligence, the doctor was convicted of war crimes and sentenced to twenty years in prison'.

Thus the 'received view' that US intelligence hastened to exfiltrate as many Nazi scientists and intelligence specialists as it could, in the context of the rivalry induced by the Cold War, is incorrect. On the contrary, US intelligence, aided and abetted by the British, lusted after these Nazis and their Satanic expertise from the get-go.

ENDLESS INTELLIGENCE MACHINATIONS TO DESTABILISE SOCIETY

In 1999, 'The Albany Times Union' reported that the University of Albany had closed down research being conducted by Professor Kathryn Kelley, who had been examining the fears of people who claimed to have been surgically implanted with communications devices capable of reading their thoughts. Dr Kelley referred in writing to a massive implant research programme funded by the National Security Agency and the US Department of Defense, costing $2.0 billion. Exposure of this research by Dr Kelley herself and concerned graduate students, resulted in the University's announcement; but it was obvious that the project itself continued (and that, again, the work Dr Kelley was doing would also have continued). One graduate student, Gregory George, who reported that he was part of a team assigned to lay the factual foundations for implant research, was reported to have identified several firms that had developed 'trans-tympanic transducers' - instruments functioning like mini-telephones that send voice messages to the inner ear. At a conference in Orlando, Florida, in the same month, Dr Kelley had explained how a subject might be implanted with such a device during anaesthesia, perhaps leaving tiny stitches visible in the ear. She referred to the devices as RAATs (short for radio wave, auditory, assaultive transmitting implants). Dr Kelley wrote in her paper that 'when (short-wave) operators transmit to or scan RAAT implants in victims, they can talk to the victims remotely and anonymously, and hear the victim's speech and thoughts'. Her paper must have annoyed her ultimate funders by pointing out that the National Institutes of Health routinely deny any Government role in such research - lying to the American public.

In 1995, Ralph Tortorici, who claimed that the American Government had planted microchips in his body, held a class of 37 students hostage and shot one student during a struggle at the University of Albany. In 1999, the gunman hanged himself in his prison cell. In 1994, Advanced Neurotechnologies developed a brain-to-computer interface that can translate brainwaves into coded data. A microchip called, ominously but appropriately 'Soul Catcher 2025', that can be placed behind a human eye to record all visual and physical sensations as well as thought, is reportedly under development at British Telecom's Martlesham Laboratories. The extent of British involvement in behaviour modification, mass mind-control and Psy-Ops is evident from the extensive list of US organisations with which a clear link to the Tavistock Institute is or has been identified, following the transfer of the German Jew Kurt Lewin to America in the 1930s.

The direct involvement of Scottish Rite Freemasonry in behaviour modification, mind-control and personality manipulation research and operations has already been alluded to. But how many people know that the murderers Charles Manson and Sirhan Sirhan were connected to the AMORC Rosicrucians, the Satanic sect which is embedded within Scottish Rite Freemasonry and which has published a secret document containing instructions on how to summon up the Devil himself? Manson's operating base was the Spahn Movie Ranch which was purchased after Manson's incarceration by the German Krupp Family - key figures involved in the arming of Hitler's Third Reich. Many of the Manson murder victims in Georgetown, Guyana, had been involved in Satanism and death rites. Congressman Leo Ryan, who had uncovered information linking the CIA to the creation of mind-control cults, went to Guyana to investigate. His appearance there reportedly triggered the suicides and murders. Dr Mootoo, a Guyanan pathologist who was the first to arrive at the Jamestown atrocity scene, concluded that all but three of the 'suicide' victims had been murdered.

'INVENTORS OF EVIL THINGS' AND MEDDLERS WITH SOULS

In Paul's Epistle to the Romans, the perpetrators and promoters of such evils were precisely identified. The list, as we have seen, includes a description of the Luciferians and their abominations who are exposed in this analysis, who have put God aside and presume to be in a position to reorder every dimension of human existence, including spirituality: hence, for instance, an organisation in the United States calling itself the Council on Spiritual Practices, which in fact investigates every psychoscientific aberration and occult 'spiritual' departure under the sun. Paul included, in his list of 'the lost', a category of 'abominable persons' which precisely fits the reprobate characters itemised here: 'inventors of evil things'. Among these is an offshoot of Scientology founded by one Robert DeGrimston called The Process, which specialises in 'returning' the mind to a blank state (tabula rasa) through violence. This is attempted during certain Masonic rites, when the candidate is picked up bodily and thrown about the Lodge and between participants, as shown here in the illustration from Captain Morgan's exposure of Freemasonry dated 1827 [Figure 41].

Figure 41: The caption to this illustration from Captain William Morgan's exposure of US Freemasonry dated 1827, entitled 'Illustrations of Masonry', reads as follows: 'Candidate as Hiram Abiff falling into the canvas, having been struck in the forehead by the setting maul of the supposed third ruffian, Jubelum. This spooky name mimicks the pejorative occultic-masonic initials J.B.M., short for the blasphemous Jesus Bethlemitus Maledictus, and is associated with the names of two other ruffians, Jubela and Jubelo, who are proclaimed to be 'missing' when a roll call of the workmen on Solomon's Temple is called by the Master in one of the key Masonic ceremonies. The three ruffians are thought to represent a blasphemous insult to the Holy Trinity of God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit. The ceremony in question is accompanied by much violence, as is confirmed by the following excerpts from Captain Morgan's account, citing the prescribed Lodge language: '[Seizing the candidate by the throat... and jerking him about with violence].... The ruffian then gives the candidate a blow with the twenty-four-inch gauge across the throat, on which he fled to the West Gate [of the Temple], where he was accosted by the second ruffian, Jubelo, with more violence, and on his refusal to comply with this request, he gave him a severe blow with the square across his breast, on which he attempted to make his escape at the East Gate, where he was accosted by the third ruffian, Jubelum, with still more violence, and on refusing to comply with this request, the ruffian gave him a violent blow with the common gavel on his forehead, which brought him to the floor...'. Thus the central ceremony of Blue Lodge Freemasonry is infested with violence, infesting Masons with a tolerance of violence as 'collateral damage'. This ritualised violence is also associated with an attempt to clear the candidate's mind by forcing him to ensure an ordeal after which nothing will ever be the same for him again. With such a tabula rasa, Luciferian infestation can proceed.

To 'cleanse' new members of the Khrystos/Krigonogov cult, the victims were fed 'Jordan Water' which induces cell mutation and assists in the brainwashing process. Among the mind-control weapons reportedly used in Waco, Texas, during the siege of David Koresh and his group were portable electromagnetic devices. Experiments using Extremely Low Frequency (ELF) transmission have been reported, assaulting inner city residents as guinea pigs. Never-ending false reports about aliens (demons), and alien abduction, are thought by some to represent a cover for mind-control experimentation. The sudden drop in ozone levels observed in the 1970s was triggered by electromagnetic bombardment of the atmosphere, not by greenhouse gases. The electromagnetic broadcasting installations are known to exist in a number of advances countries, including the United Kingdom and the United States, where this dimension is controlled by the High-Frequency Active Auroral Research Program (HAARP), activated in 1997 and located in Gakona, Alaska, that is capable of changing weather patterns, inducing hurricanes and earthquakes. It is run by the US Department of Defense, the Phillips Laboratory of the US Air Force, and the Office of Naval Research. Weather modification, as over New Orleans and the US Gulf Coast, is achieved by altering the molecular composition of an atmospheric region. The Pentagon claims that HAARP exists for ionospheric research purposes.

The essence of the evil Tavistock method is the degenerate psychology which the German Tavistock operative Kurt Lewin called 'group dynamics', such as the method used by Moral re-Armament. In a Lewinite brainwashing session, individuals from varying backgrounds and with contrasting personalities are manipulated by a 'group leader' to form a 'consensus' of opinion, thereby procuring a new 'group identity'. The key to this insidious process is the creation of a controlled environment in which stress is introduced (sometimes called dissonance), designed to destabilise and crack an individual's belief structure. Using the peer pressure of other group members, the individual is 'cracked', and a new personality is supposed to emerge, equipped with new 'values'. The parallellism of this method with the Skull and Bones and Masonic ritual of being 'born again' out of a state of death in a coffin, is no coincidence. The degrading experience causes the person to deny that any change has taken place - which means, in effect, that the victim has been brainwashed without being aware of what has occurred. This is in fact the same method, with some minor modifications, as that used in all so-called 'sensitivity groups' or 'T-groups', or in the context of the rock-sex counterculture which exists to make money while destroying the family, and in 'touchy-feely' format, as promoted by the Esalen Institute - which succeeded on one occasion in brainwashing over 500 Catholic nuns to leave the church and the teaching profession. It is also the method being used by 'Common Purpose', a sinister brainwashing operation run secretly by the UK Central Government from an office in Whitehall.

'Group dynamics' are deployed on a large scale by one of the leading US 'Tavistock School' entities, National Training Laboratories (NIL), which was established in 1947 by members of the US Tavistock network and located originally on an estate at Bethel, Maine. The specific objective of NTL's remit was the brainwashing of government officials, educational institutions and corporate bureaucracies in Tavistock's 'methodology', so that such brainwashed 'leaders' could then be used either to run Tavistock 'group dynamics' sessions themselves, to to hire other similarly trained groupies to do the job.

From the mid-1950s onwards, National Training Laboratories (NIL) put most of the United States' corporate leaderships through mass brainwashing programmes, while running similar programmes for the State Department, the Navy, the Department of Education, and other components of the US Federal bureaucracy. It is believed that several million such officials and servants of the state have been 'deconstructed and rebuilf by the National Training Laboratories, now called the NTL Institute for Applied Behavioural Sciences, based at Rosslyn, Virginia.

This organisation's West Coast base is Western Training Laboratories in Group Development, and there are various satellite organisations. One of NTL's biggest customers since the 1950s has been the National Education Association, which is the largest organisation of teachers in the United States. In 1964, the NTL became a direct component of the National Education Association, establishing 'group sessions' in all of its branches and affiliates. Whenever you hear of 'group sessions' taking place, be sure that what is happening is a form of brainwashing originally propounded and developed by the Tavistock Institute and its manic affiliates, loci of the 'seething energies' of Lucifer.

With funding from the US Department of Education, the NTL Institute designed all the programmes for the training of US primary and secondary school teachers, and has had a hand in the development of the most insidious of prevailing and ongoing 'educational reforms', including Outcome-Based Education, sex education and 'death education'. The Tavistock-related NTL Institute for Applied Behavioural Sciences is a brainwashing centre specialising in artificial stress training, in which participants suddenly find themselves immersed in having to defend themselves against vicious accusations, familiar from our earlier look at Scientology's similarly odious abominations.

The Tavistock Institute's known network extends from the far-left University of Sussex, to the Hudson Institute, founded by the German Jew Hermann Kahn in 1961. As indicated, Khan also founded the CIA's most prominent related agitprop think-tank, the RAND Corporation. Other related organisations (already listed) include the Heritage Foundation (founded by Paul Weyrich with funding from Joseph Coors, a beer magnate), the Center for Strategic and International Studies at Georgetown (which trains US State Department personnel), US Air Force Intelligence, and the CIA's Mitre Corporation. A network of secret New Underworld Order groups such as the DVD front, the Trilateral Commission, the Ditchley Foundation, the Mont Pelerin Society and the Club of Rome (which 'educates' us all on the need for population reduction, which it plots) provides a complex conduit for New Underworld Order Luciferian instructions to the Tavistock organisations in the United States. The US branch of the Ditchley Foundation has been run by Cyrus Vance, the former US Secretary of State, and Director of the Rockefeller Foundation, and by Winston Lord, President of the Council on Foreign Relations. The wife of Winston Lord, a Bonesman, was the Chairwoman of the Board of Freedom House, a misnamed publishing house. It is a Council on Foreign Relations front which is allegedly involved, inter alia, in the manipulation of the 'Christian Righf which has been heavily targeted by the CIA over the years.

One of the most odious of alleged American Nazis was Senator Robert C. Byrd, who 'justified' mind-control activities as a means of thrusting mankind into accelerated revolution, in conformity with neo-Nazi principles. Mankind's spiritual needs must be manipulated in order to bring about 'world peace' through what Byrd considered 'the only means available - total mind-control under the New World Order'. Mark Phillips' deprogrammed sex slave Cathy O'Brien reports that Byrd 'believed in the Nazi and KKK principles of "annihilation of underprivileged races and cultures" through genocide' - to breed 'the more gifted - the blondes of this world' [see panel, page 251].

BACK TO MARK PHILLIPS, D.I.A. PSY-OPS 'DEPROGRAMMER' - PHOTOGRAPHER

With this background in mind, we can now revert to some considerations about Trance Formation of America, the atrocious Psy-Ops book by Mark Phillips and the MONARCH slave he says he has deprogrammed, Cathy O'Brien. Mr Phillips' full name is Marquart (Mark) Ewing Phillips, who was born on 17th May 1943 in Nashville, Tennessee. In the introduction to the book (which contains evidence of degradation, depravity, sexual indulgence and drug-crazed behaviour among holders of high office associated with psyche manipulation and criminal activity protected under the guise of security spanning many US Administrations, that is far more disturbing than the already alarming enough details published so far in this work), Mr Phillips writes as follows:

'This brief and highly condensed contribution is intended to provide an understanding of why, when, and where I embarked on a study of the most secret technology known to man: Trauma-based mind-control' which has evolved from experiments being conducted by Heinrich Himmler's Satanised scientists. 'Through the publication of declassified United States Government documents, our US Department of Defense (DOD) admits that this ancient wizard's mechanism for control is so dangerous that most information pertaining to it must remain classified as TOP SECRET. As the employee of a DOD subcontractor with exposure to mind-control research, I was required to sign an oath of secrecy. To this day I am restricted by law from revealing certain specific information that directly pertained to my employment as, among other "sensitive" exposures, a US DOD subcontractor in mind-control research'.

Phillips adds: T was able to liberate MK-ULTRA victims, Cathy O'Brien and her daughter, Kelly, from the invisible grip of this US Government secret weapon of control'. The book records what Mr Phillips says is the story of the rehabilitation of the MONARCH sex slave Ms. Cathy O'Brien and her daughter, Kelly - although Cathy O'Brien's reported attempts to obtain rehabilitation rights for her daughter Kelly have been repeatedly blocked on 'grounds of national security'; and in the process, an enormous amount of disgusting, disreputable, reprobate and frankly repulsively compromising material about top US officials and leaders, past and present, is recorded.

A sequel to 'Trance Formation of America', entitled 'Mind Kontrol - The Proof', dealing with MK-ULTRA, MK-DELTA (chemical and biological warfare) ARTICHOKE., BLUEBIRD, LSD, Psylocybin, hypnosis, interrogation techniques and other control methodologies used by the US Government, and allegedly based on 17,000 images obtained under the Freedom of Information Act and well over 34,000 files, has since been published by O'Brien-Phillips, who also have a video for sale entitled 'mind-control Out of Control', and have made a business out of their revelations (that is to say, of revelations by Cathy O'Brien), which reveal how successful Mark Phillips has been in deprogramming Cathy. Indeed, one of the purposes of this book is to illustrate, perhaps by design, that it is possible to rehabilitate pre-programmed and abused MONARCH sex slaves. The other main purpose may be to signal that the authorities' retention of Cathy's programmed daughter is a scandal, like everything else in this Luciferian cesspit of evil. The book also serves the purpose of adding greatly to the openly available detail about extreme degradation and corruption in high places, which, as the intelligence services know, not least from Hitler's experience during the Second World War, the vast majority of the population won't want to believe, or will be all the more confused by.

This Author is accustomed to teasing out truth from falsehood in copy prepared by Soviet intelligence, and it is his opinion that if Phillips' document represented an ele-merit of a Soviet discrediting offensive, it would contain certain tell-tale language and idiomatic traits too inconsequential (to the reader) to review here. This is not a Soviet discrediting work, although following the 'Period of Escalating Violence', as laid down in the Comintern's 'Blueprint for World Revolution' [1928], the next stage is indeed a concerted operation to discredit the leaderships of 'enemies of the Revolution'.

Motivated by the necessity to establish whether the 'photographer' called Mark Phillips who took the 9/11 picture(s) of the Devil in the smoke is the same person who ghosted/co-authored Cathy O'Brien's 1995 detailed expose of the application of trauma-based mind-control programmes in the interests of strategy, the Author wrote to Ms O'Brien, in the spirit of O'Brien-Phillips' requests for input, implied by their website. The letter asked whether Ms O'Brien represented a 'deprogramming case study', implying a scintilla of doubt as to whether the pair's representation that 'Cathy Phillips', as she now is, is indeed a survivor of Project MONARCH'S (MK-ULTRA) mind-control programme, and that Mark Phillips is the person ('former' intelligence operative) who rescued her, represents the full story. The Author received no reply to his letter, which is more or less to be expected if the addressee is an intelligence operative. The letter asked whether Mark Phillips is the same Mark Phillips who 'took' the Devil-in-the-smoke photographs. Since there was no reply to this question, the Author has concluded that the two Phillips are indeed the same.

TRANCE FORMATION of AMERICA
The True Life Story of a CIA Mind Control

Figure 42: 'Trance Formation of America' by Cathy O'Brien, which exposes, in enormous detail, the sex-based mind-control manipulation operations of the Illuminati at the highest Black levels of Government in North America. The lurid content is so detailed that it cannot be fiction.

In which case, it is evident (as is almost always the case when one follows such a line of reasoning) that the operative in question is NOT a 'former' Psy-Ops' operative, but remains engaged in this line of esoteric activity, and was responsible for distributing some of the the image(s) of the Devil in the smoke. While it was a Psy-Ops operation, it is also likely that, since the destruction of the Twin Towers was a Fire Ritual Sacrifice, the Devil or demon images were real: they did not need to be faked. This would explain how it was possible for the Devil-in-the-smoke image to be delivered to Associated Press within 14 minutes of extreme pressure and drama.

The intelligence agent here seems to be more than simply a 'former' CIA 'Psy-Ops' expert, but rather may be a fully paid-up Tsy-Ops' operative. In a rational environment, such a discovery would perhaps throw into question the entire grim contents of 'Trance Formation of America' and its reports of high-level participation in degrading behaviour modification (brainwashing) or mind control operations contained therein - considering that the phrase Project MONARCH is not mentioned in any open intelligence documents, and that Ms. O'Brien apparently cannot remember any dates or Air Force Laboratory layouts that could be verified by an objective researcher seeking to check her facts. This lack of information forces at least one observer to conclude that the entire package of material the Phillipses have published could have been compiled from already published accounts.

ARE THEY 'LICENSED' TO PUBLISH SUCH COMPROMISING MATERIAL?

Furthermore, Mr and Mrs Phillips have continued with apparent impunity to publish material, in the United States, that remains in the public domain, which condemns holders of the highest offices as the most foul and contemptible of human beings, accompanied by exhaustive detail including dates, locations and details of who else was present at given sexual abuse abominations. To be able to publish such extremely damaging information - about Presidents Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford (a.k.a. Leslie Lynch King), about Richard Cheney's alleged sexual brutality and involvement in high-voltage tortures, or the handing of $2.5 million of pornography profits to a MONARCH slave for crediting with the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI), about the joint participation of the Jesuits and the CIA in torture just before death in the course of Nazi-style Death's Door Programming in PROJECT MONARCH (the internationally recognised cryptic codename for which is 'Freedom Train'), about Bill Bennett, the so-called Drug Czar and Bill Clinton at the Bohemian Grove, about the alleged evil of Senator Robert Byrd and the facility with which Bill Clinton had mastered mind-control access to MONARCH sex slaves - implies that such 'releases' of information are 'sanctioned' and therefore controlled. It is not unknown for horrendous atrocities (for instance, such as those perpetrated at Abu Ghraib) to be 'surfaced' from the intelligence world, as a means of masking the emergence of even more compromising material. Another possibility is that public reaction to such disclosures is monitored, to gauge how 'successful' mass desensitising operations have been. Further, since it is apparent that Mark Phillips was responsible for the Associated Press 'Devil-in-the-smoke' frame(s), one cannot be certain that these Satanic Psy-Ops revelations of his are not themselves a component of a broader, ongoing 'Psy-Ops' programme. Psychological Operations perpetrated against the American people by structures of their own Government have escalated by an order of magnitude in recent years, as the Luciferians imagine that they are approaching the realisation of their mad plans to reorganise humanity and the whole world.

The Devil-in-the-smoke image was replicated, as shown in Figure 3 on page 11, by a Devil or demon image seen amid the flames, which was broadcast by CNN. The Author is therefore certain, given all the circumstances and the known facts, and recalling that former Satanists recognised the Devil-in-the-smoke figure as identical to devils conjured during Satanic Fire Rituals, that the images were genuine, not fakes, and that, as an experienced Psy-Ops manipulator and CIA mind-control expert and therefore a de facto occultist, Mark Phillips would not have been surprised that the Fire Ritual of the Twin Towers duly conjured up fire demons, as provided for in the magical invocation procedures of the 'Ancient Mysteries' to which these Illuminati adhere, aspire to, and which they seek to universalise. As for the gross publicity that the Phillipses' have given to the absolutely unspeakable evils described in their book, they themselves suggest that colleagues had informed them that no-one would believe what they have revealed, unless they had been liquidated. They have not been murdered, as far as is known.

Finally, as Goebbels, Himmler and Hitler discovered, the perpetration of unspeakable acts on a mass scale, or on any scale, sounds so gross and unlikely as to be unbelievable. Those who know the truth are afraid, at the very least, of being made to look foolish by retailing it: so they shut up. Exactly the same syndrome is evident today: if some of the information collected from the public domain by observers such as this Author were to appear in the 'mainstream' press - although this may change - the general supposition has been that it would not be believed.

But when millions of Americans are 'disappeared' and squeezed into specially equipped railcars, standing room only, and are forced to hold onto straps while the trains run the length of the United States, up into Alaska and through the Bering Strait tunnel into the 'former' USSR, where they will be disposed of and never heard of again, the Author and those who know about these abominations, if still alive, will perhaps look less foolish than some would like to make them look today.

Mrs Phillips writes, of the second book, that 'much of the information enclosed herein has been corroborated and validated through brave and courageous 'clean' members of the law enforcement, scientific and intelligence communities familiar with this (i.e. her own) case. These individuals' efforts helped me to understand and corroborate what happened after a lifetime of systematic physical and psychological torture orchestrated to modify my behaviour through totally controlling my mind. Some of these courageous individuals are employed by the very system that controlled me, and live in fear of losing their jobs, their families, or their lives. They have gone as far as they dare towards publicly exposing this tool of engineers of the New World Order - to no avail. This book is a grassroots effort to solicit and enlist the public and private support of human rights advocates, the recognized, respected doors in America to expose this invisible and social menace...'.

'The expertise of my primary advocate and skilled deprogrammer' - which means that Mr Phillips of course learned his deprogramming skills from the same secret sources that teach the Satanic programming skills in the first place, as she now admitted - 'developed though his US Defense Department knowledge of 'Top Secret' mind-control research and researchers, was responsible for the restoration of my mind to normal functioning. As a result, I have recovered memories related to this text, and, having survived the ordeal, have reached this point of enormous frustration' - by which she must have meant that she earnestly seeks to persuade Americans somehow to demand that these Satanic practices conducted by the authorities must cease. If that is true, why did she or Mr Phillips not answer the Author's letter, as the Author is being of assistance here?

'In 1988, through a series of brilliantly orchestrated events, Mark Phillips rescued me and my 8-year-old daughter, Kelly, from our mind-controlled existence and took us to the safety of Alaska for rehabilitation. It was there that we began the tedious process of untangling my amnesic mind to consciously recall what I was supposed to forget'.

'Many US and foreign government secrets and personal reputations were staked in the belief that I could not be deprogrammed and rehabilitated to accurately reveal the criminal covert activities and perversions in which Kelly and I were were forced to participate, particularly during the Reagan/Bush Administrations. Now that I have gained control of my own mind, I view it as my duty as a mother and American patriot to exercise my gained free will to expose the mind-control atrocities that my daughter and I endured at the hands of those in control of our government. This personal view of Inside Pandora's Box includes a keen perception of how mind-control is being used to apparently implement the New World Order, and a personal knowledge of WHO...

of the so-called "masterminds" are behind this world and mind dominance' programme.

All of which sounds highly commendable; indeed, as indicated, the Author was so impressed that he wrote, as indicated, to Ms O'Brien, at the publicised address, indicating inter alia his intention of elaborating upon this issue (in this book). No response.

mind-control and personality modification operations are among the myriad evil tools being deployed to leverage the world towards One World Government. Colossal financial resources have been corralled for that purpose. Other methodologies include mass Psy-Ops, terrorism, the global distribution of pornography and biowarfare byproducts in the form of generic pharmaceuticals via the Internet, the degradation of entertainment, the hijacking of sport and 'spectacles' for global propaganda purposes, the exploitation of environmental issues, innumerable scams and financial and commodity warfare operations, military operations conducted by proxy, dialectical scene-setting (creation of Thesis and Antithesis), the liberal misuse of the legal process, false witness, and assassinations - to name only some of the more widely used 'chaos'-making mechanisms.

IMPLICATIONS OF THE FAILURE TO REPLY TO THE AUTHOR'S LETTER

Because the Author received no reply to his letter, and also because Trance Formation of America was published in Las Vegas - where the intelligence community creates propaganda and disinformation films and videos, so why not printed material as well? - he has had to conclude that the availability of Cathy O'Brien's material in the public domain, and the fact that she and Mark Phillips appear to be able to continue publishing this material with impunity, must suit the perpetrators of these atrocities. As in the covert Leninist Soviet Union, the existence of 'controlled opposition' (controlled dialectical Antithesis) provides the Thesis with 'credibility'. But that, of course, implies that Mr Phillips is quite content with this state of affairs, especially as he may continue, apparently, to be engaged in Psy-Ops operations (at least, as at 9/11).

So here we have (a) intelligence operative(s) publicly rebelling against the abominations demanded of them by their superiors; (b) remaining alive despite revealing state secrets and detailed descriptions, which could not possibly be invented, of the debauched and reprobate behaviour of past and present holders of the highest offices in the United States, complete with code names, and other details which could only be obtained from inside knowledge; and (c) perhaps continuing to work for the very perpetrators of atrocities whom they condemn in the open exposure material.

Is this all done to maximise confusion; does it reflect extreme continuing antagonisms and divisions inside the intelligence services (about which there is much separate evidence); or is the publication of these titles itself a component of the endless cycle of cynical Psy-Ops operations in which the reprobate US intelligence services are perpetually engaged? Or is it that these intelligence operatives suffer from the consequences of having had their personalities split themselves, and are kind of bipolar - agreeing with all sides of every question while they continue working for the Satanised ogres who employ them? As has been mentioned, the Phillips' were themselves informed that no-one would believe what they had published unless they themselves were liquidated, which has not happened - the implication being that 'no-one believes this stuff'. But the Nazis discovered that crimes of Satanic ruthlessness and intensity, organised on a production-line basis, can be largely (but not completely) hidden from view, even though large numbers of Germans had to be involved in their administration - simply because the sane mind, to retain its integrity, rejects what it rightly considers to be abhorrent.

BASED ON THE EGYPTIAN BOOK OF THE DEAD'

Whatever the correct answer to such questions, if their are any, given this world of induced Satanic chaos, Mr Phillips has submitted to at least one interview in which he tried to explain the broader context of US official mind-control operations, and correctly traced the outline history of this Satanic cluster of programmes to the Nazis. In the excerpts that follow, Mark Phillips also confirmed an assessment reached separately from public-domain information by this Author - namely, that the Second World War, including the Illuminati-contrived dialectical struggle between National Socialism and International Socialism (Communism), never ended: it just shifted across the Atlantic. Since the Bush-Cheney intelligence cadre displays continuity with the Himmler-Nazi tradition of pre-emptive attack, and the Clinton-Kerry-Gore cadre with the Communist 'line', while the Bushes, Dick Cheney, Bill Clinton and John Kerry are each and every one of them intelligence operatives, it follows that the Second World War has been continuing within the US intelligence community without ceasing. This would be entirely consistent with documented proof that the Nazi International strategists intended to continue the war until the Thousand-Year Reich has been established in Washington, DC.

Mark Phillips was interviewed by 'Guerrilla News Network' (date uncertain) which, despite its revolutionary name, is a serious website; and the fact that it was through this medium that Mr Phillips provided serious, if cynical and at times complacent, answers to important questions, does not detract from the need for Mr Phillips' remarks to be given serious consideration:

Q: Define the term 'Psychological Warfare' (Psy-Ops).

A: 'Psychological warfare is nothing more than a series of well-planned and well-executed, invisible programmes all working in tandem - none of them knowing what the others are doing - to manipulate the minds of our enemies or our adversaries into believing something quite different from reality. So they are misled and we in turn win the war that's actually never been fought on a battlefield'.

Notice that Mark Phillips does not define who 'our enemies or our adversaries' are, that are being lied to (which is what his elaborate answer meant: they are being lied to). He omitted to say that 'our enemies or our adversaries' could be (in this context) the American people, or selected components of it - those who do not, for instance, go along with the undermining, collectivisation or loss of national sovereignty inherent in the conspiracy to establish the New Underworld Order, or who do not accept the validity of innumerable official programmes, including compulsory vaccination, the substitution of mind-bending and propaganda for education, and the mandatory application of revolutionary 'politically correct' 'solutions' in the workplace. By this very omission, this obviously highly skilled ongoing Psy-Ops intelligence expert all but revealed that it is legitimate for such techniques to be used against the domestic population, whose primitive expectations must be 'modified' to conform with the authorities' preferences.

Q: Explain the origins of mind-control.

A: mind-control research has been around since 'The Egyptian Book of the Dead' was recorded. You can see the entire formula for trauma-based mind-control right there in 'The Egyptian Book of the Dead'. It has escalated from there through various religions, or cults as they are called, for thousands of years. And as a result of that, Hitler gave Himmler a charge to research the multi-generationally incest-abusing families of Northern Europeans. Because Himmler had found out that these people had incredible, what Hitler termed, 'super-human' traits as a result of this mind-control.

Before we go any further, let us recall the deeper relevance of all this. In Scripture, the term 'Egypt' is synonymous with 'the Darkness' (no offence to modern Egypt being intended here), since the children of Israel were led by the Lord 'out of the darkness into the light' in a real-time and real-life metaphor for the challenge that faces all of us. Our natural tendency is to descend towards the darkness, which is why Lucifer is having such a ball 'as we speak' - as the Illuminati offensive against True Christianity, which they seek (in vain) to extinguish, appears to have gained the upper hand. Phillips' response confirms that the CIA, taking its cue from Himmler and the Tavistock Institute, 'leverages' the 'darkness' of the 'Ancient Mysteries' for geopolitical purposes.

In short, here we have further proof - this time, from an expert horse's mouth - that the US Government's black intelligence services have been investigating the occult, the 'Works of Darkness' away from which the Lord led the Israelites[16]. The panel on page 231 confirms that this is indeed the CIA's objective. The whole point of Exodus is that the children of Israel were being removed from Egypt - universally recognised to be the Biblical metaphor for Darkness - and led towards the Land of Milk and Honey (a living metaphor for the True Light). Exodus and the history of the transfer of the people of Israel from Egypt to Canaan is a 'living parable', showing how the Lord leads us from the darkness in which, through sin, we have languished, into His glorious light of Truth. By dabbling in these 'Ancient Mysteries', occult works of sorcery and darkness, the US intelligence services, which control the Federal Government, have magnified the Illum-inati's intended transference and universalisation of that darkness into the contemporary world, where it is in the process of being re-magnified in conflict with the Light - which these evil, misguided and demented people call the darkness, just as they call the darkness (of Lucifer) the light. Moreover there is separate evidence (from the RAND Corporation, the US intelligence 'think-tank' established by the German Jew, Hermann Kahn that the US Government's reprobate intention is indeed to 'bring the whole world back to Egypt' (the Darkness); for, as indicated earlier, these people, who are NOT atheists, all know that they are heading straight for the pit. The lust for 'Egypt, the Prize' expressed in the document summarised in the panel opposite, provides documented proof of this statement. Reverting now to Phillips' interview:

Q: Give us a little history lesson. As World War II was ending, the Nazis had done a lot of research (along these lines). How did the Allies feel about these people and their research?

A: What the United States was concerned about was that these Nazis [Himmler's occultic research scientists and operatives - Ed].... had all this information and data, but we couldn't seem to prosecute them. Because they had already, a lot of them, scattered out to various countries like Russia, Italy and South America [sic]. So what the CIA persuaded Congress to do [was] to pass this Project Paperclip [sic], as a legal means of importing these people into the United States and introducing them into our military industrial complex, including our colleges and universities. Their view was this: If we don't bring these people into our country and contain them, then our enemies, the Soviet Union, will get them.

In other words, the Nazis didn't lose the war; they just had to move. So Hitler's Thousand Year Reich' boast was less foolish than we once thought. And it is clear from our study [in Chapter 8] of the operations of the Nazi International, established by the German Abwehr as the German Geopolitical Centre in Madrid in 1942 (but planned several years earlier), that the super-secret Nazi (Reinhard Gehlen) 'Black intelligence service DVD', based in Dachau, has been at war with us ever since.

THE ILLUMINATI IN THEIR OWN MAD WORDS:

THE RAND CORPORATION LOOKS FORWARD TO THE DARKNESS:

'EGYPT IS THE PRIZE'

The CIA-linked RAND Corporation presented a talk to the US Defense Policy Board on 10th July 2002, accompanied by 24 slides. It contained inter alia the following slogans, which will doubtless seem very odd to anyone who has visited modern Dubai:

- The Arab world has been in a systemic crisis for the last 200 years.
- It missed out on the Industrial revolution. It is missing out on the digital revolution.
- It lacks inner resources to cope with the modern world.
- Its self-esteem is shattered. Could God be wrong [sic!!!]?
- Turn the rage against those who contradict God. The West, object of hatred.
- A whole generation of violently anti-Western, anti-American, anti-modern shock troops.
- Wars, since independence, have been the principal output of the Arab world.
- All Arab states are either failing states or threatened to fail.
- The tension between the Arab and the modern world has reached a climax.
- The Arab world's home-made problems overwhelm its ability to cope, so the crisis is consequently being exported to the Rest of the World.
- There is no public space for debating ideas, interests, policies.
- Plot, riot, murder, coup are the only means to bring about political change.
- In the Arab world, violence is not a continuation of politics by other means: violence IS politics, politics IS violence. This culture of violence is the prime enabler of terrorism.
- Terror as an accepted, legitimate means of carrying out politics goes back 30 years.
- 9/11 was a 'symptom' of the crisis spilling out of the region. [Nonsense: It was DVD].
- The paroxysm is liable to last for several decades.
- The US response will decisively influence the duration and outcome.
- Once upon a time., there was a partnership between America and Saudi Arabia.
- Since 1745, 58% of all rulers of the House of Saud have meant a violent death.
- Wahabism loathes modernity, capitalism, human rights, republics, democracy, religious freedom, an open society, and practices the opposite.
- Saudis under Prince Abdullah launch a putsch within Sunni Islam, shifting from a pragmatic policy to promoting radical Islam.
- Saudi Arabia is central to the self-destruction of the Arab world and the chief vector of the Arab crisis and outwardly-directed aggression.
- The Saudis are active at every level of the terror chain, from planners to financiers, from cadre to foot-soldier, from ideologist to cheer-leader.
- There is a daily outpouring of virulent hatred for the United States from the Saudi media.
- Dismantle and ban all the Kingdom's 'Islamic charities' and confiscate their assets.
- The Saudis are hated throughout the Arab world: lazy, overbearing, dishonest, corrupt.
- Iraq is the tactical pivot.
- Saudi Arabia the strategic pivot.
- EGYPT THE PRIZE..

The final point, EGYPT THE PRIZE, reveals the true purpose of this extraordinary outburst of RAND invective. Egypt has relatively little oil. But it is the Biblical Land of Darkness, the original source of 'The Egyptian Book of the Dead', on which the CIA's Himmlerian occultic investigations, experimentation and MK-ULTRA-type abominations are openly acknowledged to be modelled. The Pharaohs tried in vain to prolong life by focusing their misguided and ignorant religious attention on the dead. RAND lets the black cat out of its black bag. ■

PROJECT PAPERCLIP REVISITED, AND HITLER'S INTEREST IN MIND-CONTROL

The interview with Mark Phillips yielded further official revelations:

Q: What was the exact nature of Project Paperclip?

A: Project Paperclip was a United States Government (sanctioned by Congress) CIA project that actually began in 1947, having been approved by Congress in 1946, to sanction the importation of Nazi and Fascist scientists into the United States.

Q: What were the basic mechanics of Project Paperclip?

A: Project Paperclip was nothing more than a transport operation. The airline that I worked for, Capital International Airways (i.e. CIA, which later handled drugs - Ed.) was a large contributor to this. Every airline that I know of in the United States was used, whether they knew it or not. But Capital, along with a couple of other carriers, were the primaries. Capital was actually put into business in 1947 because of Project Paperclip. And it was just the transportation of moving these people and their families around the world, wherever they wanted to go. But mainly, the first wave, was to bring these scientists. There were 700-odd scientists that were propulsion scientists and some 600-odd who were not propulsion scientists; they were psychiatrists. Or mind sciences people. I wouldn't distinguish them by calling them psychiatrists.

Q: So when they got here, what were some of the duties that these Project Paperclip scientists had to work on?

A: Werner von Braun was put in charge of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to develop what Hitler had already developed, the V2 rocket, into something that could carry people or individuals into outer space.

Q: Was this propulsion research linked to mind-control?

A: We're talking about two separate sciences here, mind-control and propulsion science. Both of them were part of the Hitler war machine. Some of these people were dedicated Nazis. Some of them were Jewish [so that Hitler had continued using Jewish scientists, who betrayed people of their own ethnic background, and whose continued presence in the Nazi structures reveals that the sacrifice of millions of Jews, gypsies and others, was a witchcraft sacrifice masked by an official policy - Ed.]. Some of them were Gentiles. Some of them were Austrian. It was a whole cross-section of people. These were just people. But they were involved in some of the highest technologies known at that time, which included propulsion sciences and mind-control.

Q: So when did the CIA pick upon mind-control and where did it go from there?

A: Well the 'CIA' was actually working on it in the 1920s. But there was no CIA in the 1920s. So it was really being done in private laboratories and quite openly, and by 1931 there were a couple of articles that actually hit the national papers like Dr Skinner's work and him putting his daughter in what was known as the 'Skinner Box'. And, of course, we have photographs of that. The CIA's interest in it became piqued [sic] when, after World War II, they found that more research had been done by Hitler on mind-control of not only the masses, but of individuals too. More research was dedicated to that than even to the rockets. And as a matter of fact, Werner von Braun commented to a reporter [on one occasion] that if the money had been spent on rockets and not diluted in some of these other areas, they would probably have won the war.

Q: So Hitler was hugely interested in mind-control.

A: [Paraphrase]: He was. Hitler didn't believe that a nuclear holocaust was the answer to how to win the war. He did not believe in nuclear weapons [sic]. The V2 rocket was even outfitted with whistles so that it would begin to terrorize the targeted popillation. It was a psychological warfare weapon combined with an ordnance delivery system that had never been seen before on the planet. So he was overwhelming Northern Europe, particularly Great Britain, with these rockets, as a psychological thing, more than because of any sort of damage they could do....

Breaking off here, the Author was brought up partly in London, and remembers the months when we were being bombarded by V2 rockets. It is true that once the engine had switched itself off, there was an eerie silence, followed by a sharp whistling sound before the explosion. The eerie silence was by far the worst part. Mark Phillips did not experience this terror, and his comment playing down the physical damage inflicted by V2 rockets is make-believe. In Winnington Road, London N2, where we once lived, most of the houses in the road were empty burned-out shells. The Author and his brother sometimes played around the wrecks of these burnt-out houses. It was a matter of pride to remain in a house which had not been destroyed.

The interview proceeded:

A: [Continued]: The mind-control aspect of it was a hidden science that Hitler [cherished] steeped in mysticism [Author: i.e., the occult]. He had sent a whole troupe of his scientists all the way to Tibet to discover what [the Tibetans] knew with regard to mind-control.... We've got the videos and the tapes of that trek, sending these [German] scientists up the side of these mountains in Mongolia [sic! Is Phillips' geographical knowledge faulty?]. I mean, this is major stuff - that he would stop right in the middle of the war to send valuable scientists into such an extraordinary environment.

Q: [Paraphrase]: What is the status of mind-control research in the United States?

A: mind-control research in this country for war purposes, psychological warfare purposes, started out really for the military, and for espionage. So around 1952, the CIA's reporter over in Korea released the term 'brainwashing' to introduce the whole idea and concept to the American people that there was something else in the arsenal of weaponry of the Chinese.

Q: What is it about the mind sciences that make them so appealing to groups who want to dominate and control other people? [A loaded question - Ed.].

A: All wars are won in the minds of the people, not on the battlefield. I believe this is the basis for the United States, as well as for other Governments that are actively engaged in mind-control research and applications. In fact, that's their belief.

Q: What was the thinking behind the CIA's initial desire to create MK-ULTRA?

A: I believe that the thinking of the OSS at that time, and the OSI, of course, that became the CIA.... the CIA was given the responsibility for actually placing individuals out of Project Paperclip, these Nazi and Fascist scientists dealing with the mind-control sciences, into the military-industrial complex for further development of this secret technology that Adolf Hitler regarded as the world's most dangerous and absolutely the best war tool that anyone could have for taking over the planet [sic].

Q: What was it called?

A: The name for the mind-control research [project] established in this country was MK-ULTRA, and the earliest that we know about [it] through Freedom of Information documents is 1952.

Q: Is that the only name for mind-control operations in the United States?

A: MK-ULTRA evolved actually [from] Project BLUEBIRD, the first project to spin, and that was in 1947. Actually some people say it was in 1949, but documents prove it was in 1947 [sic]. So it started immediately upon these Nazi scientists being brought into this country. They immediately dovetail[ed] into Project BLUEBIRD and then it went to MK-ULTRA and then [to] MK-SEARCH. I mean, it's changed its names so many times that nobody knows what it's called now [in short, this Satanic activity continues - Ed.].

Q: Who were the first subjects exposed to MK-ULTRA?

A: The first subjects that the CIA was interested in were people who were coming out of the battlefield and people who had actually been exposed to primitive forms of brainwashing by the Russians as well as the Chinese, Japanese, and, from my knowledge, then in Korea, of course. In 1952, it was announced by a CIA news person who was reporting from the front that we had soldiers coming back who were saying what great people and what a great country North Korea was. And that was just unheard of at that time....

Q: Who were their next targets?

A: Well, I believe that the next targets were people that were incarcerated within penitentiaries and mental institutions, as proven by Dr Ewen Cameron's research.

Intervention by the Author He is aware of one case of telephonic mind-control research intervention by US operatives in the United Kingdom between the years 1985 and 1988, in the context of a dispute between brothers concerning the will of their late mother, who had instructed solicitors on her death bed to exercise her Power of Appointment under an old family trust in favour of the brothers' sister, who was in need of income for her lifetime because of a disability. The intervention, which was accompanied by a physical break-in, involved attempts to manipulate the mind of the brother who had facilitated the visit of the solicitors, as a result of which the other brothers thought that they had been deprived of their inheritance. Among eccentric exogenous interventions, which included scams such as the familiar device of faxed 'confirmations of order' for a very large delivery of coffee beans, and advance delivery advices for goods or services never ordered, were repeated garbled messages left on an office answering machine. In those days, such machines usually had an LED display showing how many messages were retained in the memory. In the evening repeated instances of the same garbled message, would cause the LED display to reach 40 or 50 messages. When the matter was reported to the telecommunications authorities and law enforcement, after 2,200 such messages, the source of the problem was finally, allegedly, traced to a teenage Sri Lankan living in his parents' home in South London. After a period of several months free from this intervention, the entire syndrome started up again

On the second occasion, Scotland Yard became involved, the trouble was traced to the same source, and the intervention ceased. The Author is of course referring to his own personal experience. It was at the end of this episode, which coincided with the break-in, that the charming Scotland Yard detective on the case told the Author: 'Mr Story, all I can tell you is that it wasn't us'. The garbled voice used a phrase making use of the two generic words in the Author's serials publishing company, World Reports [Limited]. It is quite probable that the story about the mentally defective Sri Lankan was invented in order to provide the Author with an explanation for the failure of the operation. When a CIA operative calling himself Carl Story telephoned the Author in June 2003 and alluded to having been aware of the Author and his work 15 years earlier, the Author was able to connect some of the dots.

It would be interesting to know what lessons the reprobate MK-ULTRA-type mind-control freaks thought they had learned from this exercise, which inflicted much gratuitous pain, suffering and anxiety on the Author and his family. When the Author related this story (which has been severely condensed in the foregoing summary) to a certain US MK-ULTRA victim in the Washington DC area in the late 1990s - a victim, who has managed to pull himself out of the mental pit into which the CIA's evil manipulations had deposited him - he laughed and said 'Welcome to MK-ULTRA'.

[Mark Phillips' interview now continues]:

Q: And how did the Government use the law to protect themselves?

A: In 1947, after the President of the United States told the Pentagon and the US Congress that he'd made a mistake signing this Project Paperclip into law, there was of course an exemption in the Project Paperclip legislation which stated that 'no person who belonged to the Nazi Party could be brought into this country' - which just about eliminated everybody they could have brought in on Project Paperclip. [This is not quite the full story: see below - Ed.]. So, what they did was, they established the 1947 National Security Act, which adopted the rules of ethical [sic] military conduct which the military had been using for years to protect our country's secrets [!!! - Ed.]. [But] what actually happened was that we have never had such cascade of losses of national secrets, intelligence secrets, technology secrets, since that time. Never. It's been unprecedented in American history that we have lost this much information'.

'The reality was and is that the National Security Act of 1947... it was just to cover crimes. It was not to cover secrets'.

So here we have an admission, from a man identified and labelled as a 'former' DIA officer (but who is also reported to be a CIA operative) who clearly remained -at least until 9/11, and given the failure of the Phillipses to respond to the Author's letter despite the inviting tone of their publicity material, allegedly remains - involved with the intelligence services, that the purpose of the National Security Act of 1947 is to provide the entire intelligence community with carte blanche to commit heinous serial crimes, including those already alluded to in this analysis. This is a view with which the very best independent analysts agree, and with which the Author most certainly also concurs. In order for the Republic to save itself, the most drastic repeal of that legislation et seq is an absolute prerequisite; and of course there is not the slightest indication that this is 'about to happen anytime soon'.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN TRIED TO STOP THE NAZI INFLUX...

The manifestly sanitised and simplified account by Mark Phillips can be augmented by open domain information. President Truman agreed in September 1946 to authorise Project Paperclip, after the discovery of particle/laser beam weaponry, flying discs (saucer-like vehicles) and other advanced technology at German military bases - the War Department having urged that NASA and the CIA must control this technology and the Nazi scientists and engineers working on it.

President Truman expressly excluded, though, anyone 'found to have been a member of the Nazi Party and more than a nominal participant in its activities, or an active supporter of Nazism or militarism'. The US War Department's Joint Intelligence Objectives Agency (JIOA) carried out detailed background investigations of the scientists. In February 1947, the Director of JIOA, Bosquet Wev, submitted the first group of German scientists' dossiers to the US State and Justice Departments for review. Most of the dossiers were damning and the visa requests of the first batch were all denied. This infuriated Wev, who wrote a memorandum warning that 'the best interests of the United States have been subjected to efforts expended in "beating a dead Nazi horse"' - a statement which contained two errors: first, importing these evil men would, as a senior British intelligence officer warned, prove to have fatal consequences over the longer term; and secondly, the Nazi horse was by no means dead, just feigning tiredness.

Meanwhile the Director of Central Intelligence (CIA), Allen Dulles, whom the Author has already identified as a German (Nazi) Abwehr agent (information derived from British intelligence sources), had formed an unhealthy friendship and partnership with General Reinhard Gehlen, the former Nazi intelligence chief operating in the Soviet Union. Gehlen began by feeding false 'information' to Dulles, and consequently to Truman, which appeared to show that the Soviets were poised to attack the West.

Specifically, he reported that the Soviet forces in Eastern Europe were comprised of 208 crack assault divisions, most of which were high-speed motorised rifle and tank divisions, Gehlen's data showing that the Communists outnumbered Western forces in Europe by a ratio of ten-to-one. Then, early in 1947, Gehlen informed the newly consolidated but fledgling CIA that his agents had noticed subtle changes in Soviet billeting and leave policies, and that troops were being recalled for some unspecified reason, which he implied could be the start of a preparation phase for the suspected invasion. This was followed by an outright prediction by General Gehlen that the Soviets would move rapidly once all troops and equipment had been activated, and that it would not be long before Western Europe suffered a Soviet Blitzkrieg. [See also Chapter 8].

All these reports were calculated disinformation concocted by Gehlen, since by 1946 the Soviet Army was over-extended, under-equipped and exhausted from prior combat. Many of the battalions that had reached Berlin had arrived on foot. There was not even sufficient motorised transport to move one entire division without depriving another of its motorised assets. Almost 50% of the Red Army's transportation was still horse-drawn! Additionally, US Army intelligence had itself established that the bulk of Soviet forces in Eastern Europe were bogged down rebuilding the Eastern Zones, reorganising security (intelligence) structures following the 'defection' of Gehlen, suppressing the local populations, and performing official administrative functions. Indeed the US military intelligence estimate was that Soviet ground and air forces would not be combat effective against the Western powers for at least a decade.

But, willingly 'duped' by Gehlen, and convinced by Bosquet Wev's arguments, the Abwehr agent Allen Dulles had the Nazi scientists' dossiers rewritten to delete incriminating Nazi evidence, as a result of which manoeuvre, the Gehlen scientists were delivered to the CIA via the Agency's own airline, Capital International Airways. The Agency subsequently embarked upon a myriad programmes derived from, triggered and inspired by the Nazis' mad research, including MK-ULTRA/ARTICHOKE and OPERATION MIDNIGHT CLIMAX. The man most responsible for this carefully planned Nazi 'switch' was Dulles, who became Director of Central Intelligence.

During and following the so-called 'collapse' of the Soviet Bloc (orchestrated by the KGB-GRU, with expert US and Western 'Financial Warfare' assistance), a significant cadre of East German STASI operatives mysteriously 'switched' sides and have been monitored 'working for' US intelligence. One of these operatives is a certain Eva Teleki (nee Sturzl). Under instructions from a very high-up US source, she appeared at a jail in which the US intelligence hero Leo Wanta was being illegally and unjustly held, and procured a Power of Attorney over an estimated $69 billion of funds. In 2004 she transferred to London. STASI is cover for DVD. This represented a transfer of US funds into the hands of the Nazi Black intelligence agency based at Dachau. Nothing has changed.

TRUMAN WAS DOUBLE-CROSSED BY THE NAZIS INSIDE THE C.I.A.

Writing in 'The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists' in 1985, Ms. Linda Hunt, also the author of 'Secret Agenda', wrote that she had examined more than 130 reports on Project Paperclip subjects, and had found that every one of them 'had been changed to eliminate the security threat classification'. The American people, and the whole world, are now paying the price for this millennial error of judgment. Meanwhile President Truman, who had explicitly required the Project Paperclip legislation to preclude the importation of Nazi scientists, was evidently never made aware that his directive had been violated, a fact that State Department archives and memoirs from that era confirm. According to another analyst, Clare Lasby, Project Paperclip officials 'covered their designs with such secrecy that it bedevilled their own President; at Potsdam, he denied their activities and undoubtedly enhanced Russian suspicion and distrust' - since the Soviets knew from their own HUMINT sources what was going on. In other words, Stalin thought that Truman had lied to him; and there is nothing that a liar loathes more than being lied to. However what had happened was that Truman's own intelligence structures had double-crossed him and had withheld from him the truth of the matter, which is treason.

An example of how the details of key scientists' backgrounds were sanitised in this way by the US intelligence services - thereby serving their own interests, and those of the Germans/Illuminati, rather than those of the American people as was required by President Truman - applies to the dossier on Dr Werner von Braun, the most celebrated of the imported German scientists. A US military intelligence report on the German rocket scientist dated 18th September 1946 stated that 'subject is regarded as a potential security threat by the Military Governor'. But the following February, a revised security evaluation of von Braun stated that 'no derogatory information is available on this subject. ... It is the Military Governor's opinion that he may not [sic!] constitute a security threat to the United States'. Nazi characters admitted into the United States thanks to this egregious treachery, procured by means of Nazi penetration of the US intelligence community - which flew in the face of the wishes and precise intentions of the President and Congress of the United States - were some of the blackest [see also pages 215-219]:

Arthur Rudolph: The wartime Operations Director of the previously mentioned Mittelwerk factory at the Dora-Nordgausen concentration camps, where 20,000 workers died from beatings, hangings and starvation. Rudolph had been a member of the Nazi Party since 1931. In 1945, a military file on this creature had reported: '100% Nazi, dangerous type, security threat!!! Suggest internment'. By contrast the JIOA's final dossier on him stated that there was 'nothing in his records indicating that he was a war criminal or an ardent Nazi or otherwise objectionable'. So Dr Rudolph, fresh from presiding over those deaths and beatings at Dora-Nordgausen, became a US citizen and later designed the Saturn-5 rocket used in the Apollo moon landings. But in 1984, when his war record was finally re-investigated, he fled to West Germany, which did NOT extradite him back to the United States.

Wernher von Braun: From 1937 to 1945, von Braun was the technical director of the Peenemunde rocket research centre, where the V2 rocket, which (contrary to Mark Phillips' flaccid comment) devastated parts of the United Kingdom, was developed. By 1970, this man, whose Nazi past had been 'expunged for the record', was the associate Administrator of the US National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Kurt Blome: This high-ranking Nazi scientist told US military interrogators in 1945 that he had been ordered in 1943 to experiment with plague vaccines on concentration camp prisoners. He was tried at Nuremberg in 1947 on charges of practicing euthanasia (extermination of sick prisoners), and of conducting experiments on human beings. Although acquitted, his earlier admissions were well known, and most observers were of the opinion that this man had participated in Satanic experimentation against humans. Two months after his Nuremberg acquittal, Blome was interviewed at Camp David, Maryland, on issues connected with biological warfare. In 1951, he was hired by the US Army Medical Corps to work on chemical warfare projects. His file made no mention of Nuremberg.

Major General Walter Schreiber: According to Ms. Linda Hunt's article for the well-respected Atomic Scientists' organisation, the US Military Tribunal at Nuremberg heard evidence that 'Schreiber had assigned doctors to experiment on concentration camp prisoners and had made the funds available for such experimentation'. The Assistant Prosecutor said that this evidence would have resulted in Schreiber's conviction if the Soviets, who had held him from 1945 to 1948, had made him available for trial.

Once again, Schreiber's Paperclip file made no mention of this evidence. So 'The Project' found work for this fellow at the Air Force School of Medicine at Randolph Field, Texas. When the conscientious columnist, Drew Pearson, publicised the Nuremberg evidence in 1952, the resulting negative publicity led the JIOA to arrange a visa and a job for Schreiber in the Nazi state of Argentina, where his daughter was living; and on 22 May 1952, Schreiber was flown to Buenos Aires.

Hermann Becker-Freysing and Siegfried Ruff: These two, with Kurt Blome, were among 23 defendants in the Nuremberg War Tribunal 'medical case'. Becker-Freysing was convicted and sentenced to 20 years in jail for having conducted experiments on inmates at Dachau concentration camp - starving them, and force-feeding them sea water that had been chemically altered to make it drinkable. Ruff was acquitted in a close decision on charges that he had killed as many as 80 Dachau inmates in a low-pressure chamber designed to simulate altitudes in excess of 60,000 feet. As already indicated, before their trial, Becker-Freysing and Ruff were paid by the US military to write reports about their grotesque experiments on human beings.

In October 1945, a US Navy technical mission to Dachau concentration camp reported in detail on various German wartime experiments carried out on inmates, using hallucinogenic drugs. These were directed by the previously mentioned odious Dr Hubertus Strughold, who was also imported to the United States under Project Paperclip after the War. This ogre's barbaric 'medical experiments', for which his subordinates were tried and convicted as war criminals at Nuremburg, amounted to 'nothing more than a series of bizarre and unspeakably brutal tortures. Even so, he learned a lot', wrote the independent US expert, Michael E. Kreca[17], in 2001, 'about human behaviour and a natural alkaloid found in the peyote cactus called mescaline' (that substance long central to many Native American and Australian aborigine religious rituals).

While the Project Paperclip Nazi operatives were settling down in the United States, General Gehlen - having convinced the Americans thanks to the Nazis' placement of their Abwehr agent Dulles in the 'top slot' that, given his unrivalled knowledge and contacts, he was the right man to rehabilitate the German intelligence community - began re-establishing his presence in West Germany, after receiving the go-ahead from Allen Dulles to establish a quasi-'private' intelligence organisation, to be called The Gehlen Organisation, which became the DVD, based at Dachau. This of course quickly regained control of most of the former agents now based inside the Iron Curtain; and, with the help of many of his former staff, Gehlen put many of them back to work. In spite of 'agreeing' with the Americans (not Dulles) not to hire any former Gestapo, SS or SD members, he nevertheless sought them out and placed them on the payroll (financed by the CIA, i.e., the CIA's payroll), regardless of his undertaking; and of course the by now deeply Nazi-penetrated CIA did nothing to prevent him. A similar state of affairs arose in Iraq in 2004, when the US authorities, lacking adequate (or indeed any worthwhile) HUMINT, re-hired Ba'ath party thugs, military and operatives, having earlier ruled out any such hirings. This 'came naturally' to certain US cadres, given that the Iraqi Ba'ath regime (like its Syrian counterpart) was modelled upon Hitler's Third Reich. The fact that it was supported by the Soviets, who built a large number of bases in Iraq to 'match' the American military bases constructed in Saudi Arabia inter alia by the CIA's Vinnell Corporation, should not mislead us: for, traditionally, Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU) has been extensively penetrated by deep cover German (Nazi) operatives.

Heinrich Rupp: Rupp has been convicted in the United States of bank fraud. As a CIA operative, he was deeply involved in the Savings and Loan scandals and scams masterminded in part by elements of the corrupted US intelligence community, including allegedly members of the Bush ('Crime') Family. A Federal Grand Jury reported their acceptance of the veracity of testimony that Rupp, the late CIA Director William Casey, who was then Ronald Reagan's Campaign Manager, and Donald Gregg, who became US Ambassador to South Korea, flew in a supersonic military aircraft with George Bush Sr. and other operatives to Paris in 1980, during the election campaign in which Bush Sr. was on the ticket with Ronald Reagan. The testimony in question stated that three meetings were held on 19-20 October 1980 at the Hotel Florida and the Hotel Crillon. It was at this meeting, according to court testimony, that arrangements were made to sabotage President Jimmy Carter's re-election campaign by procuring a delay in the release of the US hostages in Tehran until after Mr Carter had been defeated (popular frustration at the hostage crisis being, as predicted, to blame for his defeat). The hostages were indeed released on 20th January 1981, immediately after Reagan and Bush Sr. were sworn into office. Iran had been promised the release of its financial assets which had been frozen by the US Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control, and the basis for the subsequent Iran-Contra scandals was established. This effective 'coup d'etat', known as the 'October Surprise', necessitated the transfer of George Bush Sr. from the United States to Paris and back for a scheduled appointment in such a manner that no-one would know he had ever left (a precaution which ended in failure, since extensive details of this operation have since leaked into the public domain). Some $45 million of 'Black Operations' funds was procured to bribe the Iranians to comply with the US political operatives' requirements, but only $32 million was paid to them - the rest having been 'misappropriated' en route. The stealing of such secret 'Black' funds goes on all the time.

One of the guests at the Inauguration of President Reagan was Licio Gelli, founder of the secret neo-Fascist Masonic Lodge P-2 - a double agent for the CIA and the KGB, identified by Mark Phillips and Cathy O'Brien as 'the central figure in Europe and South America that linked the CIA, [the] Masonic Lodge, the Vatican, ex-Nazis and several South American Governments, the Italian Government, and several international banks' - key flluminati players of the New Underworld Order.

Among Gehlen's 'recruits' were Franz 'Streber' Six and Emil Augsburg, members of an SS mobile Death's Head (Totenkopf) killing squad that had hunted down and murdered Soviet Jews, intellectuals and partisans. Gehlen also re-recruited the Gestapo Chiefs of Paris and Kiel, as well as Willi Krichbaum, the (Jewish) former senior Gestapo chief for Southeastern Europe.

The fact is that, as mentioned, the OSS, and its then relabelled successor intelligence organisation, the CIG (Central Intelligence Group), forerunner of the CIA, deliberately chose, thanks to the successful Nazi penetration of US intelligence at the highest level by the Abwehr agent Allen Dulles, to 'believe' General Gehlen's lies about Soviet military capabilities - because his false arguments facilitated their intended annexation of the Nazi scientists, contrary to Presidential and Congressional instructions.

INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY ALREADY IN THE DRIVING SEAT IN THE 1940S

It was thus already the case, immediately following the Second World War (and indeed previously) that the US intelligence community was driving and detenruning US policy, not the other way round, although the intelligence cadres were always meticulous about making sure that, for public perception purposes, the Executive and Legislative branches appeared to remain in charge. Today, that process has gone so far beyond the point of no return that the disconnect between what the American public perceives to be the White reality - that the Republic has a Constitution and a Government that abides by it and serves the people - and the Black actualite', is complete. Nor can members of Congress do their job properly: all their Capitol Hill and private office telecommunications are permanently bugged by the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI).

Allen Dulles was indeed a traitor to the United States: he knew perfectly well that Reinhard Gehlen was lying through his teeth about the Soviet threat. All veteran OSS agents would have known that the Soviet divisional resources were far less strong in manpower than the US and Western equivalent. A Soviet division was typically one-third as strong as an American division, and its leadership was far less effective. Rather than being able to function in combat with flexibility, with officers able to make on-the-spot field decisions, Soviet officers had to wait for orders from upper-echelon sources before reacting to any change in the flow-of-battle. Since they retained in their collective memory horrific details of Stalin's purges, they dared not act on their own initiative, for fear of being shot at dawn. This rigidity had at times caused the Soviets grievous losses and defeats; whereas, by contrast, the US and British forces had encouraged battlefield decisions to be made at the lowest levels during the heat of conflict.

According to a 'former' CIA officer, 'Gehlen's reports and analyses were sometimes just retyped onto CIA stationery and presented to President Truman without further comment'. This represents a remarkable level of outright foreign penetration. If the President had been on his toes he would have queried the absence of commentaries by the CIA sources, but obviously he wasn't that bright. President Truman reacted by ceasing military budget cuts, increasing spending for weapons research, military equipment and the (Nazi-inspired) space programme, and expanding the nuclear weapons programme. These decisions led to what became the nuclear charade, or strategic deception. The threat of a nuclear winter (assiduously promulgated by Hermann Kahn), and the fact that two nuclear devices cannot be detonated too close together in time, has long since made nuclear war 'inconceivable'. President Truman's change of mind, consequent upon the fact that his own intelligence services were purveying General Reinhard Gehlen's lies to him without comment, also resulted in the CIA being at the receiving end of millions of 'Black' dollars for covert operations. In the decade following the end of the War, the CIA consumed a large tranche of funds that it never accounted for.

According to Victor Marchetti, a former chief analyst specialising in Soviet military capabilities, and author of a study entitled 'The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence', 'the Agency loved Gehlen because he fed us what we wanted to hear. We used his stuff constantly, and we fed it to everyone else: the Pentagon, the White House, the newspapers. They loved if. Here is another open admission, into the White world, by an arrogant CIA operative, confirming that, as early as immediately after the Second World War, US intelligence was already completely out of control - deceiving the President, the military brass, and the American people via the press, as it pursued its own secret occult-esoteric power agenda. But actually, this agenda hadn't been originated by the US intelligence community at all: it was fed to and grafted onto the US intelligence structures by means of deep penetration, subtle influence-building, agitprop and corruption operations masterminded by the Nazi International from its headquarters initially established in Madrid during the Second World War. How the German Geopolitical Centre achieved this U-turn within the US intelligence and policymaking communities, building on the treachery of their Abwehr agent Allen Dulles, is recounted in Chapter 8.

Immediately after making the admission outlined above, Marchetti concurred that Gehlen was a consummate liar and a waste of time and space: 'Gehlen had to make his money by creating a threat that we were afraid of, so we would give him more money to tell us about it. In my opinion, the Gehlen Organisation provided nothing worthwhile for understanding or estimating Soviet military or political capabilities in Eastern Europe or anywhere else'. That was true: but Marchetti never understood the bigger picture.

TRIUMPH OF A COVERT NAZI DISINFORMATION OPERATION

For the reality was that the US intelligence and official structures fell victim to a massive German disinformation and strategic deception operation, the effect of which was to confirm the transfer of the mentality and certain of the structures of Hitler's Third Reich across the Atlantic, where it is flourishing as never before, and where it threatens - and this is no exaggeration - a repetition of the Nazi population reduction and control atrocities on a far larger scale. The Author believes that he may live to see this happening in his lifetime, unless exposure can thwart this catastrophe.

The resulting Cold War, fostered by Gehlen's lies and leveraged by the Nazi agent Dulles, which lasted for almost 50 years, cost US taxpayers alone approximately $8.0 trillion. The careful reader will have noticed that, since the US intelligence community knew, from the outset (a) that Soviet military capabilities were greatly inferior to US and Western capabilities, and (b) that nuclear war was out of the question for the technical reason cited above, the CIA, DIA, NSA, ONI and the rest of these intelligence organisations were deceiving the American public on this crucial issue for half a century.

They were doing this, in part, because they had become hooked on mind-control operations and on searching for the ultimate technologies of political control, ideas which were first developed in both Germany and in Britain, where an early pan-German penetration had taken place into the Tavistock Institute. And the targets of this nefarious endeavour are the innocent American people themselves.

Perfection of such technologies and intermeddling with the occult and the 'Ancient Mysteries', and the culture of lies that their development entails, enable privileged, Satanised intelligence elites modelled along Himmlerian lines, whose crimes are covered by blanket secrecy legislation, and which employ official appointments and political office as cover, to practice those very abuses that they condemn for public consumption in the White world - money-laundering, stealing public funds, drug-dealing, orchestrating terrorism and the engineering of a classic revolutionary Period of Escalating Violence, for instance - in order to invoke the proliferation of these evils as justification for the enslavement of their citizens, which in turn becomes essential in order for the criminalised intelligence cadres' crimes to be covered up. This morbid sequence of events is shown in diagrammatic form in Figure 43 on page 243 opposite. Hence the United States' Patriot Acts I, and II and III, and Britain's notorious Civil Contingencies Bill, 'guillotined' through the complacent Westminster Parliament in 2004-05, which provides Ministers, whips and any individuals they may designate, with powers to do anything they like, having declared a State of Emergency on the basis of extremely widely-drawn criteria. In other words, both countries have put in place the means to dispense with the annoyances and expense of 'democracy' altogether, in the face of evils or 'Reichstag Fire'-type events for which they are capable of being responsible. The use of the 'Reichstag Fire' mass traumatisation technique has been deployed already several times in the United States, yielding the desired mass behaviour modification consequences -and in the case of 9/11, providing the authorities with a pretext for the invasions of Afghanistan and Iran in response to the requirements of the oil corporations.

CIA IS PROLIFERATING DEMONIC INFESTATION AND POSSESSION

As will have been gathered en passant earlier, the Author was privileged to be a personal friend of the late Dr Malachi Martin, the Jesuit exorcist and author of many great works, including 'Hostage to the Devil' [Perennial Library, 1987 and HarperSanFrancisco 1992], in the course of which Malachi informed the Author in general terms about the mind-control and demonic possession deprogramming and exorcisms in which he was periodically engaged. The reader may wonder why, given the searing criticisms of the Jesuits elaborated in Chapter 6, the Author attaches any importance to the late Dr Martin's work and insights: and the 'short-form' answer to this legitimate query is that, to the Author's certain personal knowledge, Malachi was in the process of nearing the completion of a lifelong struggle to 'come out of her'[18] (the entrapment of Jesuitism, if not of the Catholic Church itself). It became clear to the Author that this great, late and sadly missed authority - blessed, there was no doubt, by the Holy Spirit when the Author first met him - made no distinction between programmed mind-control (by whatever Himmlerian or Tavistock-related 'technology' it had been procured), and possession by evil spirits. He knew that meddling with the occult, leveraging the Black Magic of the 'Ancient Mysteries', was a trap into which the US intelligence community had fallen, and that, as is inevitably the case, the consequences of such entrapment are unspeakable. As a Jesuit who understood and knew the evil ways of the Vatican and his own order, and was therefore familiar of course with the Jesuit tradition ('technology') of mind and personality programming and manipulation [see Chapter 6], and as a priest who was nevertheless at times imbued and led by the Holy Spirit, he was in a position to know the truth of this matter.

It follows from all this evidence alone that, in failing to take a long spoon to their unending Satanic banquet with the Nazi scientists and their Himmlerian mind-control experiments, which have proliferated ever since, the CIA and other US intelligence agencies involved in this demented, reprobate activity, have been proliferating demonic infestation and possession all over the United States, and externally. Hence the mindless, 'in-your-face' evidence of the wholesale spread of demonic and occult literature, Satanised 'music',

FOREIGN PENETRATION

Orchestrated by the German Geopolitical Centre [Nazi International] Madrid, activating the Reinhard Gehlen Organisation (DVD), Allen Dulles, George Kennan, other Abwehr assets, and a subsequent ongoing stream of criminal scientists.

CONSEQUENT AGGRAVATED CORRUPTION

Institutionalisation of lying, false witness and deception using the Cold War to cover up the 40+-year German criminal penetration of US structures [ongoing Project Paperclip]. Development of an 'anything goes' mentality under cover of omnibus 'crooks' charter' intelligence legislation [the 1947 US National Security Act et seq].

CRIMINALISATION OF INTELLIGENCE

Consolidation of links between organised crime and intelligence, leading to 'competitive' drug-dealing orchestrated by intelligence: e.g., the Latin American drug cartels set up by foreign agents such as Al Holbert and Carlos Lehder working within the US cooperative intelligence community, and a 'culture of scamming'.

CRIMINALISATION OF GOVERNMENT

Because US intelligence is partly criminalised and because primary positions (such as the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States) are owned, as in the Soviet Union, Britain, Israel, France, Germany and other countries), by senior intelligence officers for whom criminal ops. are the norm, a hellish environment is institutionalised at the highest levels, in which money-laundering, the stealing of public and intelligence funds, drug-dealing, the 'placement' of drug-trafficking pipeline proceeds with 'hedge funds', prostitution, occult practices and de facto gang warfare between 'competing' groups owing their 'allegiance' to antagonistic intelligence barons, who are traitors aligned with foreign powers, becomes routine.

CRIMINAL DICTATORSHIP

Complete with American death trains, concentration camps, institutionalised official lying, surveillance and propaganda - to ensure that official and intelligence crimes are covered up, and perpetrators are not all 'hung from lamp posts'. ■

Figure 43: Diagrammatic representation of how this foreign penetration of the intelligence community, and the consequent aggravation of corruption, leads over time to the collapse of orderly governance and the imperative of repressive dictatorship, as the high-level criminals seek permanent protection.

and death-oriented games and videos, which may be observed in every US chain bookstore, where each month more and more space seems to be devoted to these reprobate preoccupations of the demented Illuminati. 'Religion' now includes every form of pagan abomination under the sun, as any visitor to one of these stores can easily verify.

The Author enjoyed a long telephone conversation with Malachi, who was born on 23rd July 1921, exactly one week before his death in New York City on 27th July 1999. On that occasion, the often merry Irish priest was full of his usual banter, as well as indulging in very serious conversation with his unworthy interlocutor. The purpose of the phone call had been that the Author wanted to know whether he wished to continue his subscription to 'Soviet Analyst', a publication edited since 1991 by the Author. 'Oh yes, please, you're my lifeline', he said over-generously.

Some time earlier, Malachi had told the Author of an incident when he had been thrown by a powerful force from his writing stool, in the small cell-like room where he worked, in his friend's apartment on East 63rd Street. The lady of the house and her daughter had just left to go shopping. Shortly after they left, Malachi was flung to the floor by a force so strong and oppressive that he was unable to get up, and felt he might have languished, badly hurt, until he died. But the two women, who were smokers, had forgotten their cigarettes. So they retraced their steps, rode back up the elevator, and reentered their apartment - whereupon they found Malachi lying in a desperate state. 'Their cigarette addiction saved my life', Malachi had quipped. He had been certain that Evil Spirit had objected so strongly to what he was exposing in his books, that it had been unable to tolerate his activities any longer. That event reminds the Author that in the course of preparing this book, as mentioned earlier, the computer program automatically opened up a sequence of precisely 322 blank pages.

After relating this story, Malachi explained (as he did in 'Hostage to the Devil') how vulnerable the exorcist is to an attack during exorcism, and how he needs always to pray for protection, in case of such an attack. The Author has it on impeccable personal authority that Malachi suffered his fatal heart attack while in the process of exorcising a severely possessed young girl - exactly one week, as mentioned, after the Author had enjoyed his last conversation with him.

In one of his final public interviews, in 1999, Malachi alluded to the exponential increase in occult devilry that was and is permeating North America (and the United Kingdom, as well). 'For the first time in the work we have been doing for 31 years in this corner of the globe, during the last ten years or so, we have found young men and women, thirty-somethings or twenty-somethings, coming forward and saying: 'Listen, I made a pact with the Devil. I wanted this woman. I wanted this man. I wanted this job. I wanted this money. I wanted this, this, and this, and I made a pact and he gave it to me and now I can't get rid of him. He dominates my will. Please liberate me. And then people get to it by means of things like an ouija board, or by spiritual means or channelling'.

And by being abused by US intelligence mind-control technology and personality-splitting programmes derived originally from the experiments undertaken by Heinrich Himmler's Nazi scientists on concentration camp victims.

Referring generally to the Luciferians' apparent hegemony, Dr Martin elaborated:

'We are now, according to the official doctrine of the Luciferians, in what they call 'the Availing Time'. They have a tradition that in these years they can avail of the time to install the Prince, who is Lucifer, as the greatest power on earth, in charge of human civilization, and adored by men'.

This is that Lucifer, 'that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world'[19] - the god of Masonry, to which candidates are progressively introduced, as they are sucked deeper and deeper into the false, esoteric world of lies, the 'Ancient Mysteries' and murder which it has to offer, the god worshipped by 'high' Masons who are intelligence officers, by the holders of high office whom they have abused under their nefarious mind-control programmes, and whose children the intelligence services themselves routinely target for paedophilia and mind-control purposes.

And since Lucifer is a liar, all those who do or condone these things are, by definition, themselves deluded and deceived: and the pathetic dimension to all of this is that while they know perfectly well that this is the case, they continue down this path to destruction and the pit. To repeat: as Paul writes in verse 32 of the first Chapter of his Epistle to the Romans, these evil people 'knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them'. Thus Paul knew, by the Grace of the Holy Spirit, that those who do these things, and perpetrate these abominations (a) know that what they are doing will lead them to the pit of destruction (for as indicated earlier, they are not atheists), (b) yet continue with their abominations and (c) obtain satisfaction in doing them and in others doing them, and in enticing others to do them.

The Author knows of several instances in which US operatives have threatened each other with death; and since embarking on these enquiries, the Author has himself received seven separate such threats from these pathetic mental defectives, for daring to even think of exposing some of their serial abominations.

Malachi's interviewer asked to what end these deluded people were seeking to enthrone Satan on earth, and he replied simply:

'To exalt the power of Lucifer. That's the end in itself. It's the [sole] Luciferian purpose. If they don't do it in these years, then it is put off sine die, without resolution. They are very keen on getting it done'.

Authoritatively distinguishing between Satanism and Luciferianism, Malachi also had this to say, as has previously been noted, in part: There is a layer of Satanism, of Satanist ritual which prepares people for perfect Luciferian adoption. They [Satanists] have covens and sacrifices and rites. But the Luciferians have no rites, you know.... [Such levels of Satanism are] a preparation for Luciferianism, and there are reversals sometimes. You will find a crowd of Luciferians having a Satanic ritual as a reminder of things. But they [Luciferians, who consider themselves 'of a higher order'] have all passed through [the relevant niuminati initiation rites] and that involves three things: the infliction of pain without flinching, the infliction of death without flinching, and the use of fire'.

So, bombing the hell out of civilian populations, using the most lethal weapons imaginable, is not an issue for these 'inventors of evil things'[20]. Dropping fragmentation bombs on civilian populations is not an issue for the British or the American military, just as the abominations inflicted by the covert Soviet military in Chechnya and elsewhere are 'no problem' for the Illuminati's operatives in the Kremlin. Sexually abusing defenceless prisoners in the hell-holes of Abu Ghraib, the eight other such hell-holes in Iraq, the CIA control centres in Jordan, at Guantanamo, on the British island of Diego Garcia, and in any of the 23 prison hell-holes the United States has set up in Afghanistan directed from its main base at Kandahar (which, like Babylon and Tripoli just happens to sit on the esoterically important - for the Luciferians - 33rd parallel), is not an issue[21].

On 5th September 2004, Oleg Gordievsky the (false) Soviet defector who was reputedly the highest-ranking KGB officer to work for MI6 (which raises the obvious unanswered question: why has he not been liquidated for his treachery as is mandatory for all Soviet traitors?) wrote in ''The Daily Telegraph' that 'the attitude that I remember all too well in the KGB is that deaths are 'normal wastage''. This is the same as the US Illuminati concept of 'collateral damage'. If 100,000-300,000 people have been murdered in Iraq, that is 'collateral damage'. When the Author asked a US operative with extensive experience inside the 'former' USSR what was the difference between the attitude towards murder of the KGB-GRU and of US intelligence, he said: 'Not much. The Russians kill more'.

BRIEF PROFILES OF MIND-CONTROLLED ASSASSIN-OPERATIVES

One purpose of personality-splitting brainwashing operations is to create and maintain a large and expanding cadre of individuals suitable for recruitment as controllable operatives and assassins who will do the really dirty work, in response to instructions from their handlers. These multiple-split personalities have been programmed in such a manner that they have been made (through deviant sexual means and other ways of manipulating the psyche) responsive to trigger-phrases, often based upon make-believe stories such as 'The Wizard of Oz' and 'Alice in Wonderland', as described by the Phillipses in their books.

The Author and his associates have been informed repeatedly by US operatives, almost as though their statements represented warnings, that it is standard practice for one's children to be targeted. All children of intelligence officers in the Washington and Virginia areas are targeted, and large numbers wind up abused, and in various states of mental and physical disarray as a consequence. Some children of 'Illuminati' parents are genetically-bred to function as outstanding psychics. Among these, a number are trained to perform as psychic assassins, possessing the ability to induce cardiac arrest or neural dysfunction. It is said that the former Soviet General-Secretary Yuri Andropov (Lieberman), was assassinated in this manner. Among the more notorious 'lone nutcases' who were in fact MK-ULTRA-type programmed split personalities developed for assassination purposes, and who could be triggered by their handlers to perform assassinations on demand, were:

Sirhan Sirhan: This assassin was programmed at a racing stables in Santa Ana, California by two CIA mind-control specialists - one of them a priest. A co-worker of Sirhan at the stables was Thomas Bremer, whose mind-controlled brother Arthur, shot Governor George Wallace in 1972. Not many miles from the stables is a Synagogue used for mind-control purposes. Its rabbi is a 'former' Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI) officer. It is well known within the ranks of the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) that mind-controlled 'patsy' Sirhan Sirhan, in keeping with the 'patsy' who was arrested for the murder of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzak Rabin, actually fired blanks at Robert Kennedy, in order to misdirect the attention of eyewitnesses. At least one police officer's eyewitness report was re-written by a senior officer in order to protect the true conspirators. Moreover, police radio communication was disrupted (as in the Princess Diana assassination) thereby preventing the broadcasting of the descriptions of other suspects. Bill Kurtis's TV show, A & E Investigative Report, on the assassination of Robert Kennedy, suggested that Sirhan Sirhan was a mind-controlled assassin or 'patsy' created under Project ARTICHOKE. This programme was developed in order to create 'Manchurian Candidate' assassins (omega victims), who could be programmed to kill a target and then not even remember they had ever killed anyone at all. Sirhan Sirhan was perfect for the job. Angry at the death of his parents during a conflict with Israel, the convicted assassin of Robert Kennedy was said to have been in a trance-like state during and after the shooting. Later, Sirhan Sirhan affirmed emphatically that he did not actually remember anything that happened during the shooting. [This reference to Project ARTICHOKE suggests that it had a specific purpose, so that the earlier references to ARTICHOKE being one of the precursors of MK-ULTRA may not be wholly accurate. Artichoke rhymes with heart and choke, so it was probably concerned specifically with the training, personality-splitting and mind-controlling of assassins].

William Joseph Bryan, Jr.: One of the drummers with the Tommy Dorsey Band for some time was a certain William Joseph Bryan, Jr. (a.ka. William Joseph Bryon, and William Jenning Bryan HI, etc.). William Joseph Bryan, Jr. was a CIA mind-control creep who programmed people when he was with the Air Force as Chief of Medical Survival Training, which was a covert brainwashing section. Bryan opened up his own Hypnotherapy Institute on Sunset Strip in Hollywood, where he programmed targets for service to the Illuminati. It was this particular Bryan (a familiar CIA false name) who programmed Sirhan Sirhan to kill Robert Kennedy.

John Hinckley: This young man who wounded Ronald Reagan is another mind-controlled victim who has been unfairly victimised. Hinckley was programmed in Lexington by an aide to a British Intelligence psychiatrist, who had previously programmed the Son-of-Sam Satanic cultist David Berkowitz, a member of a Los Angeles Satanic cult called The Children, at a Westchester, NY, mind-control 'facility'. Like Patrick Purdy, who massacred seven Vietnamese children in a Stockton, California schoolyard, Hinckley had associated with neo-Nazis and had been prescribed mood-altering neuroleptic pharmaceuticals.

Curt Cobain of the 'musical' group 'Nirvana', was another victim, on this occasion of National Security Agency (NSA) brainwashing, and was 'terminated' by the NSA. Cobain, like Jimmy Hendrix, had started writing clues about the NSA's activities into his music, to communicate some idea of what was happening, to his music followers. This was a dangerous departure, given the extensive involvement of the CIA, for instance, in the drug-ridden 'country music' industry (which was and remains a key CIA outlet for its drugs). He referred in his music to the NSA as the 'friends inside his head' (i.e., his demon 'familiars'). Once the NSA puts on the highest level of brainwashing pain, the subject expires quickly. Cobain used heroin to numb and otherwise diminish the effect of the brainwashing. [Note: That victim's reference to 'friends inside his head' is typical of classic demonic infestation or possession. At the Gorbachev Foundation/State of the World Forum event in San Francisco in September 1995, the Communist agitator Barbara Marx Hubbard told an audience that she had a 'familiar' called 'John' whom she consulted at all times. Malachi Martin wrote about familiars in his classic work 'Hostage to the Devil'].

The Jonestown, Guyana, massacre, a group control experiment: Survivors of Jonestown have testified as to the effectiveness of the group control 'technology' used in Jamestown. After this gruesome experiment in mind-control was terminated with a massacre, large amounts of drugs were discovered. Just one footlocker at Jonestown alone contained 11,000 doses. The authorities prevented chemical autopsies of the bodies to ensure secrecy of the sophisticated concentration camp, which was used for medical and psychiatric experimentation by the CIA. What may have happened was that a programmed intelligence operative (a 'Clear Eyes') was accidentally activated, through a lone sequence. There was no way to stop the killings. All members of the cult were programmed to at least 'Level Three'. Only three deaths were attributable to cyanide; the rest died from gunfire. [Again, discussion of demonic infestation 'levels', or 'alters', is most authoritatively discussed by Fr. Malachi Martin in 'Hostage to the Devil'].

David Koresh: This operative/mind-controlled programmed assassin was a long time CIA asset. Waco had been a CIA centre for mind-control ever since the end of the Second World War. Many of the German Nazi mind-control scientists were brought to Waco to continue their experiments. The Waco 'sleepers' (of which there were seven in number) had somehow been triggered, and they were preparing to carry out their preprogrammed responses. The 'sleepers' in the compound were created to be programmed domestic terrorists and can be compared to the members of the Japanese cult, Aunt Shinri Kyo, which bombed the Tokyo subway with Sarin gas and killed and wounded hundreds of people. The seven sleepers in the Waco compound were within days of manufacturing a nerve gas toxin that would have been powerful enough to kill up to 350,000 people. A total of 86 men, women, and children were murdered in the Branch Davidian compound on Monday, 19th April 1993 -ALL of them at the hands of the four members of a CIA 'wet' team, operating under cover of the Delta Force. This atrocity had been preceded by another such event at Ruby Ridge. One message delivered as a consequence of this atrocity - which officials justified at the time on the basis that it allegedly prevented a far worse atrocity occurring (the deaths of 350,000 people) - was that the authorities want the American people to know the horror that will befall people who defy the Government, which is of course itself the cause of these Satanic disturbances.

Port Arthur Massacre, Tasmania, Australia: On Sunday 28th April 1996, an unknown professional combat shooter opened fire in the Broad Arrow Cafe at Port Arthur in Tasmania. In less than five minutes, 20 people lay dead, 19 of them killed with single shots to the head, fired from the right hip of the fast-moving shooter. The awesome display of combat marksmanship was blamed on intellectually impaired Martin Bryant ('Bryan' again) who was held in illegal strict solitary confinement for more than 120 days, until he was 'ready' to plead guilty. But no trial ever took place. He was probably liquidated. Other Tone nutters' (in the United States) who never stood trial include Mark David Chapman, Sirhan Sirhan {see page 246), James Earl Ray, Lee Harvey Oswald and David Berkowitz. A court trial is a nuisance and dangerous for the Illuminists.

[Note: Australia is extensively involved in these intelligence operations under secret accords with Britain and the United States. Aspects of the New Underworld Order will be run from a vast underground control centre near Alice Springs. This facility houses developments which are understood to have made a hardened and cynical US intelligence officer whose identity is known to the Author, to exit the facility as fast as he could, and to cease work which had involved frequent visits there].

John Lennon: Shortly before Lennon's death at the hands of a mind-controlled 'Manchurian Candidate'-type assassin, Mark Chapman, hired to 'terminate' Lennon who had by then become his own man and was considered a 'loose cannon', Lennon had had the audacity to 'ouf his mind-manipulation perpetrators in a Playboy interview, in which he had not only revealed details of LSD's completely unforeseen liberating impact upon human society and civilization, but also, even more to the point, had indicated that he was, like Cobain and Hendrix, aware of the extent to which he and other pop musicians had been set up by 'dark forces'- for use as mass sensitisation dupes.

The Columbine killings: This atrocity was associated with an ongoing operation in the United States to remove guns out of the hands of the American people. One month, to the day, after Columbine, another similar shooting occurred in Georgia. Such school killings, another of which occurred in Dunblane, Scotland (although this also aimed to cover up a vast high-level rent-boy scandal), are intended to inflame anger and hysteria, as occurred in early September 2004 in the 'former' Soviet Union in the case of the Beslan massacre of hundreds of schoolchildren. In the United States, Great Britain, Australia, and now the 'former' USSR, the media whips up anger and hysteria and keeps it fresh in the public's mind - with continual graphic, around the clock 'overkill' coverage and commentary on the dead and wounded victims, the pain and suffering of the families, and the traumatic scars left on children who watch television all over the world.

In the United States, President Clinton, a CIA operative working to instructions of course (although this man is also a very 'high' Mason), exploited the hysteria of the moment to blame guns for the problems in America's schools; whereupon, amid all the hysteria, Congress was pressured to pass more guns laws. But it gets worse. It is also true, in the US context, that in order to condition the public into supporting stricter gun-control measures - an absolute necessity for the conspirators, given America's gun-ownership tradition - mind-controlled children have been programmed to shoot classmates. One of the Columbine High-School shooters, Eric Harris, used to live at Plattsburg Air Force Base, in New York State, with his Air Force officer father. At the age of ten, Harris was allegedly accustomed to complain to his friends that he was being drugged at the base. This base, although officially closed, is known to harbour an enormous underground facility, which is allegedly still being used as a mind-control programming center. One Columbine teacher stated publicly that she was wounded by an adult male, not by a student (four adult gunmen took part). Federal personnel had visited the school earlier.

Because of the continuing controversy surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy - who had demanded that the CIA must cease its drug-trafficking operations, and whom the Nazi International wanted out of the way, which was why he was murdered - the Author has omitted a detailed note here on Lee Harvey Oswald, whose photographs certainly reveal him to have had the profile appropriate for a programmed assassin. Other such MK-ULTRA-spawned assassins have also included, of course, the Satanic Charles Manson, Timothy McVeigh and John Salvi.

It is estimated that there are between two and ten million mind-controlled victims in the United States. Victims are usually programmed to slash their arms if their front alter-per-sonality begins to recover memories of the trauma programming. This inhibits further autonomous memory recovery: they occasionally begin to recover memories if their programmer or handler dies. Many have been abused by their parents, a familiar, even standard aberration among Illuminati families. Buford Furrow, arrested for a shooting at the Jewish Community Center, in Granada Hills, California, was admitted to a psychiatric institution after slashing his arm in several places, behaviour consistent with mind-control activity. Significantly, a National Security Council (NSC) e-mail address for a Buford Furrow located at McChord Air Force Base, was deleted after his arrest.

Notwithstanding the widespread use of programmed operatives whose handlers can modify their behaviour by triggering their layered 'alters', colossal blunders costing agents' lives occur quite frequently. On 29th August 2003, US Ambassador Joseph Wilson told a Washington symposium that Karl H. Rove, President Bush's White House 'fixer', had been the person who had leaked to 'The Washington Post' that his wife, Valerie Plame, was a CIA operative of 26 years' standing. Her entire overseas team was liquidated.

CONFIRMATION OF THE FREE-WHEELING ILLUMINATI AT WORK

JANUS, an international Psychological Operations (Psy-Ops) team consisting of high-level scientists, serves NATO and operates from its headquarters in Belgium, which, as indicated elsewhere, is the financial centre of the Illuminati. In the United States, a group of highly intelligent African-American women, known as the Black Angels, is maintained by intelligence for Psy-Ops assassination 'wet affairs' (liquidation) work. According to an anonymous and disgusted US intelligence source, a total of 250,000 children in the United States were stolen from the streets over an unspecified period and used for experimentation purposes at 25 intelligence stations. The end justifies the means.

One of the most notorious manipulative projects of all, called the Montauk Mind-Control Program, was initiated after the Second World War on the old Montauk Air Force Base, Long Island, run by Dr John von Neumann, a pre-war Nazi scientist, and Jack Pruett, an Air Force operative, who was succeeded in due course by Dr Hermann C. Untermann and another Nazi expert (in electronics), Dr Matthew E. Zerrett. This project was initially funded by proceeds from the $10 billion worth of Nazi gold captured in 1944 by US troops, in a successful 'Financial Warfare' operation. The last of the Montauk experimental bases was reportedly 'closed down' on 12th August 1983. Dr Von Neumann, who came to the United States, as noted, before the Second World War, was reported by the US Government to have died in 1956; but in reality he was still alive as late as 1989, and in contact with US intelligence. This penetration suggests that the Nazi apparat had actually engaged in focused penetration ops long before the outbreak of the Second World War. When Hitler's regime had finally been defeated, the German Geopolitical Centre's subtle propagandists fostered the lie that Nazism had perished along with it - a strategic deception operation which has had terrible consequences.

The Phillipses have reported, and other sources concur, that, as has been mentioned, the MR-ULTRA programme, based upon Himmlerian technology, was the 'brainchild' not only of the odious Dr Sydney Gottlieb, but also of Richard Helms, later Director of Central Intelligence (DCI), and was intended to complete the development of techniques pioneered by Nazi scientists - including electrical shock, sleep deprivation, memory implantation, memory erasure, sensory modification, psychoactive drug experimentation, and 'many more cruel practices'. 'Project Paperclip', they add, 'ultimately brought in key players involved in the assassination of the Pope, the 'October Surprise' operation - the sabotage of President Carter's peace talks by means of an internal US intelligence-directed coup - 'and a great many other things still classified to this day'.

The Phillipses' published research 'shows that the OSS/CIA that was formed [by] the National Security Act [is] the same agency that [has] employed hundreds of Nazis [and] has been in alliance with the Vatican through various Agency connections such as Licio Gelli. The CIA/Vatican alliance that assassinated Pope John Paul I, John F. Kennedy and dictators of Third World countries, is the Illuminati'. This statement is accurate. Details of how Pope John Paul I was assassinated are given in Chapter 6.

And the Phillips' short-form (but of course incomplete) conclusion is stunning:

> The Bavarian Illuminati has been around for centuries in one way or another. Its presence in the 20th century is the direct result of the Nazis [sic]. The Nazi connections to the occult and the Bavarian Thule Society were parallel to the American members of 33rd Degree Freemasonry [sic]. When Operation Paperclip was successfully executed, the Nazi element of the Bavarian Thule society was fused with the American members of Freemasonry to create the [modern] Illuminati. Operation Paperclip, MK-ULTRA,

SELECTED UNEDITED STATEMENTS IN:
'TRANCE FORMATION OF AMERICA'
The True Life Story of a CIA Mind-Control Slave
By Cathy O'Brien and Mark Phillips

Published privately, 1995: Reality Marketing, Inc., Las Vegas, NV 89102, USA. See Figure 42, page 225.

• • • Rather than comment further on the content and flavour of this book, the Author has selected the following brief excerpts, which are self-explanatory. The book contains such horrific descriptions of eye-witnessed high-level corruption and CIA Himmierian debauchery that they cannot be reproduced here.

' In the past 150 years, there has been a resurgence of widespread interest in the so-called 'Black Arts' which include Satanism or Luciferian religions. These constitutionally-protected (in the United States) 'religions' use trauma to control the minds of their followers'.

' In 1971, The New York Times reported on ... a report to Congress [which] clearly showed that the CIA was interested in the cause-and-effect clinical findings that occult practices have on the Black Arts practitioner's and/or the observer's mind. Of particular interest to the CIA were the heightened levels of suggestibility that certain occult rituals produced in the minds of the practitioners. Cannibalism and blood rituals were ranked highest in the order of importance to their research '.

' Linda Hunt, in her book 'Secret Agenda', [cites] declassified Department of Defense documents identifying Project Paperclip as being the secret importation and relocation of Nazi and Fascist scientists into the United States over a 40-year period. These brilliant criminal scientists were primarily focused on two areas of research, rockets and the mind. They were placed in positions of authority in prestigious universities, colleges, industries, and NASA. Over the years, these imported criminals have directly influenced our society with advanced rocket technologies and mind-control applications through US Government-sponsored research.... Nazism, as a philosophy and form of government, is alive and destroying our country, in part, as a result of Project Paperclip'.

' Many US and foreign government secrets and personal reputations were staked on the belief that I could not be deprogrammed and rehabilitated to accurately reveal the criminal covert [and violently obscene - Ed.] activities in which I (and her daughter Kelly) were forced to participate, particularly during the Reagan/Bush Administrations'.

' Violations of laws and rights, Psychological Warfare intimidation tactics, threats to our lives, and various other forms of CIA Damage Containment practices thus far have remained unhindered and unchecked due to the National Security Act 1947 and the 1986 Reagan amendment to same, which allows those in control of our Government to censor and/or cover up anything they choose ».

' Project MONARCH was a US Defense Intelligence Agency TOP SECRET project... a mind-control operation which was [author maintains use of the past tense, but it's still happening] 'recruiting' multigenerational incest-abused children with Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD) for its genetic mind-control studies. Visual acuity of an MPD [victim] is 44 times greater than that of the average person'.

' Huntsville, Alabama, is a place with a NASA research facility and where [children] were regularly taken for the production of child and adult pornography films'.

[Senator Robert C] Byrd 'believed that in order for this world to survive, mankind must "take a giant step in evolution through creating [sic, i.e. Man is God - Ed.] a superior race". To create this "superior race", Byrd believed in the Nazi and KKK principles of "annihilation of underprivileged races and cultures" through genocide, to alter genetics and breed the more gifted - the blondes of this world'.

[Senator Robert C] Byrd said that 'our country's involvement in drug distribution, pornography and white slavery was 'justified' as a means of "gaining control of all illegal activities worldwide" to fund Black Budget covert activity that would "bring about world peace through world dominance and total control"'. In short Byrd had 'bought' the German Illuminati's programme for global control. ■

'October Surprise' and George Bush Sr. are all facets of the Illuminati, a group whose ideals are rooted in the occult, and dedicated to world domination'.

It is extraordinary that the entirely separate research by this Author, which carefully sought to by-pass and initially to discount the work of Mark Phillips and Cathy O'Brien, because of the unanswered questions that have been alluded to, has culminat-ed in exactly the same conclusion. The separate investigations in other Chapters of this book leave no room for doubt that Nazi 'Black' Intelligence has successfully leveraged its occult dimension, through systematic influence-building, penetration and the creation of an identity of purpose within US intelligence, as an instrument of Nazi global hegemony strategy. Put another way, the Illuminati fulfil the function of an occultic cover for German intelligence - which is directed by the secret DVD from a town that is synonymous with the mass production of death: Dachau. An impeccable, and knowledgeable, US intelligence source has separately confirmed the accuracy of this assessment.

This Author knows, from an intelligence source, that the Pope receives a briefing from the Vatican's CIA Rezident every Friday afternoon. Not least, since Cathy O'Brien traces early stages of her traumatised childhood to abuses inflicted upon her by her Catholic schoolteachers, she and Phillips have concluded that 'the CIA and the Vatican are the Illuminati'. Indeed Rome has been a central locus of Illuminism since Grand Master (33rd Degree) Giuseppe Mazzini, a revolutionary terrorist leader, Sicilian gangster, drug-dealer and the founder of the Mafia - a man who authorised thefts, arson and the poisoning of his opponents - divided responsibility for the control of the World Revolution with Albert Pike - taking responsibility for political operations, which were to be directed from Rome. The Vatican is the seat of the 'Beast-Lamb' - that is to say, translating John's inspired prophetic vision into our own perceptions, of the man whose number is 666, who stands in the place of Jesus Christ, and who presides over a place where, as Dr Malachi Martin personally told the Author, 'people are not nice at all'. ■

NAZI CONNECTIONS IN FULL WASHINGTON DAYLIGHT

Paul Weyrich, operative founder of the Heritage Foundation, a Melkite Greek Catholic, has a background with ties to Nazi collaborators. In the 1970s, Weyrich helped arrange appointments and political contacts on Capitol hill for Dr Franz-Josef Strauss, of Bavaria, who assisted Nazi collaborators. Dr Roger Pearson, writer and organiser for the Nazi Northern League, joined the editorial board of 'Policy Review', the monthly Heritage Foundation publication, in 1977. Dr Pearson's racist theories have been circulated worldwide by neo-Nazi and White-supremacist organisations. Pearson was brought to the United States by Willis Carto, the operative founder of the neo-Fascist Institute for Historical Review (Holocaust denial) and the Liberty Lobby which published the anti-Semitic 'Spotlight' newspaper, now succeeded by 'American Free Press'. The British Eugenics Society had this mention of Roger Pearson on its website: 'Hans K. Gunther, a Nazi anthropologist and eugenicist... was assisted by Dr Roger Pearson of the Eugenics Society, an important figure on the racist journal, 'Mankind Quarterly'. [This] racist journal was still pumping out venom [as of 1994], still influenced by Dr Roger Pearson. Josef Mengele's co-researcher at Auschwitz, Von Vershuer, was on the editorial advisory board of this journal before his death in 1970'. The Free Congress Foundation, the political arm of the Heritage Foundation, until recently housed the Coalition of the Americas, which used to be run by Laszlo Pasztor, a convicted Austrian Nazi collaborator. Pasztor was a former leader of the pro-Nazi Arrow Cross organisation in Hungary. During the Cold War period -which, as this book shows, was exploited, leveraged or engineered by the Reinhard Gehlen Organisation to provide a deception background for the furtherance of the Nazi International's long-range strategy - such operatives worked behind an anti-Communist cover. ■

Chapter 4: THE HEX OF HIMMLER. Notes and references

1. 'Trance Formation of America: The True Life Story of a CIA mind-control Slave', by Cathy O'Brien with Mark Phillips, Reality Marketing, Inc., Las Vegas, Nevada 89102,1995. It is pertinent that this book was published in Las Vegas, where considerable high-level US intelligence resources are devoted to the creation of disinformation films, videos and other media, including the ridiculous footage purportedly showing Osama Bin Laden (the CIA's 'former' asset Tim Osman) in a bathrobe on some moonscape or other. However, much of the information in this privately-published work, the cover of which is illustrated on page 225, is consistent with the entirely independent research conducted by the Author and his colleagues. Specifically, the Author has identified and publicised documented evidence of colossal funding operations that have been undertaken independent of governments, raising in 1989-92 an initial $27.5 trillion (which exceeded $65 trillion by the third quarter of 2006I ostensibly for the financing of the so-called Global Security Environment, linked to the Global Security Project headed by Mikhail Gorbachev in the early 1990s. Following the framing of the US Government Trustor of these funds, crooked US intelligence officers, intelligence crime family 'barons' and international banks made liberal use of the funds, until the Trustor, whom the CIA had said was 'dead', 'came to life' in 2005. O'Brien and Phillips (who are married) cite, on page 78 of their book, the following accurate statement by Senator Daniel Inouye (Democrat, Hawaii), which independently confirms that the Author's giga-financial researches into the funding of the Illuminati's New Underworld Order have been correctly focused. Referring to the New Underworld Order apparat as a 'secret government', he described it as follows before a Senate Subcommittee: ft is 'a shadowy Government with its own Air Force, its own Navy, its own fund-raising mechanism, and the ability to pursue its own ideas of 'national interest', free from all checks and balances, and free from the law itself. Senator Inouye's description indicated that he saw the 'shadow governmenf as a US phenomenon: but it is in fact a Shadow International Government - the secret structure of the Illuminati.
2. The associated German institutes (originally Kaiser Wilhelm Institutes, but from 1945 Max Planck Institutes, include the following: Biophysics (Frankfurt-am-Main); Chemistry, 1911 (Berlin-Dahlem); Biology, 1912 (Berlin); Medical Research; Physics (Berlin); Physical Chemistry and Electrochemistry, 1911 (Berlin, now the Haber Institute); Breeding Research; Leather Research; Brain Research; Foreign and International Private Law; Cell Physiology; Coal Research. In 1938, at a Berlin institute, Otto Hahn and Fritz Strassmann discovered nuclear fission.
3. 'And Jesus called a little child unto Him, and set him in the midst of them, And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, yet shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Whoso therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven. And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me. But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea': Matthew, Chapter 18, verses 2-6. 'But Jesus called them [little children] unto Him, and said. Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the Kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein': Luke, Chapter 18, verses 16-17. 'And Jesus, perceiving the thought of their hearts, took a little child, and set him by Him, And said unto them, Whosoever shall receive this child in my name receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me receiveth Him that sent me: for he that is least among you all, the same shall be great': Luke, Chapter 9, verses 47-48,
4. 'Biodynamics: The Battle for Youth', Dr Boris Sokoloff, Covici, Freide Publishers, New York, 1930, on page 8. Dr Sokoloff knew Lenin, but later fled from Soviet Russia to the United States. Sokoloff taught that senility is avoidable and that 'the struggle with senility is the problem of mankind and of modern science'. In other words, his quest was for immortality - the same as the quest of Masons and all Luciferians, who believe, pathetically, in reincarnation, one of the Devil's cruder deceptions.
5. 'How the US Government Created the 'Drug Problem' in the USA', excellent Internet essay by Michael E. Kreca.
6. Information about the state murder of the hero Andy Stephenson in 2005 was obtained both from the Author's contact with him in the months before he died, and from a close friend.
7. 'The Brotherhood: The Secret World of the Freemasons', Stephen Knight, Dorset Press, 1986, ISBN 0-88029-113-3.
8. 'Whiteout: the CIA Drugs and the Press', a classic analysis: Alexander Cockburn and Jeffrey St Clair, CounterPunch, 1999, ISBN 1-85984-897-4.
9. 'The Paperclip Conspiracy: The Hunt for the Nazi Scientists', Tom Bower, Michael Joseph, London, 1987, Boston, Little Brown and Company.
10. 'Secret Agenda', Linda Hunt, St Martin's Press, 1991.
11. 'Doctors of Infamy', Alexander Mitscherlich and Fred Meilke, 1981. Further details lacking.
12. 'Racial Hygiene: Medicine under the Nazis', Professor Robert Proctor, Harvard University Press, 1988, ISBN 0-674-74578-7.
13. The Killing Winds: The Menace of Biological Warfare', Weidenfeld and Nicholson, London, 1979, Arbor House, 1987.
14. 'Chemical and Biological Warfare', Seymour Hersh, 1969,1970, Panther Press, ISBN 0586-032959.
15. 'Whiteout: the CIA, Drugs and the Press', Alexander Cockburn and Jeffrey St Clair, op. cit..
16. Israeli and American archaeologists are now obtusely arguing that since there is no archaeological record of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and since the movement of 600,000 males and their families of the children of Israel into the wilderness and their wandering there for 40 years would have been logistically impossible and the Egyptians allegedly garrisoned Canaan at the time of the Exodus, the entire Exodus story is a myth. However extensive internal evidence makes it clear that this cannot be the case. No human mind, or group of minds, could have invented the inspired Old Testament literature.
17. Kreca, op. cit.
18. 'Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto Heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities', Revelation, Chapter 18, verses 4-5.
19. 'Lucifer, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world', Revelation, Chapter 12, verse 9.
20. 'Inventors of evil things': Epistle of Paul to the Romans, Chapter 1, verse 30. See also page 221.
21.'A reprobate mind' Romans, Chapter 1, verses 28-32. The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God', Psalms 14 and 53, verse 1. 'Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth': Psalm 46, verse 10. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit'; a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise': Psalm 51, verse 17. 'Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. For they shall soon be cut down like the grass, and wither as the green herb. Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass': Psalm 37, verses 1-5. 'But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear Fear him which, after he hath killed, hath power to cast into hell: yea I say unto you, Fear him': Jesus Christ, Luke Chapter 11,verse 5. Obviously, these people do not fear Satan, because many of them worship him. They are in for a rude awakening indeed.

ADDENDUM: THE FRANKFURT SCHOOL

The mass mind-control mechanism commonly referred to in recent years as 'political correctness' (PC) is a crucial instrument of the Illuminati's World Revolution, applied equally by both sides of the main 20th Century geopolitical dialectic - International versus National Socialism (although as is being demonstrated, National Socialism is in fact German International Socialism). It first emerged as a sub-ideology from the activities of the Frankfurt School, formerly the Institute of Social Research, which was established at Frankfurt University in Germany in 1923, and was relocated to New York City in 1934[1]. By the end of the Second World War, most of the original members of the Frankfurt School had become American citizens, a development which 'opened a new English-speaking audience for focusing on American forms of authoritarianism[2].

From 1930 onwards, the leading members of the Frankfurt School, Horkheimer, Adorno, Fromm and the French philosopher Marcuse, laboured to translate Marxism from economic into cultural terms, which they mainly achieved by crossing Marx with Freud[3]. Parallel work and thinking was being undertaken at the same time by Antonio Gramsci, the Italian Communist, who was to be incarcerated for nine years under Mussolini. The leading members of the Frankfurt School were all Jewish.

The first poisonous doctrine developed by the Frankfurt School was 'Critical Theory', the basis for the pretentious 'politically correcf 'studies' departments in American Universities. The Institute subsequently developed its so-called 'studies in prejudice'. These manipulative studies, notably as developed in Adorno's influential book 'The Authoritarian Personality', argued for the Revolution that anyone who defended or adhered to traditional Western culture and morality had a psychological problem. It is a well-known characteristic of the 'criminal' mentality that the perpetrator of a given trespass seizes every opportunity of accusing others of committing the same offence, in order to mask his or her own trespass. Yet the 'PC mentality has itself developed a category of offence which the PC mind is apt to condemn, in knee-jerk fashion, as 'finger-pointing' or 'type-casting'[4]. Both accusations prejudge the thinking and intentions of the accused, and therefore reveal prejudice in the mind of the 'politically correct' individual who purports to object to language employed by the accused. It can of course never be the PC perpetrator who has a psychological problem - which is of course the reverse of the truth. Once again, 'political correctness' turns the truth inside out and upside down. That is its Luciferian revolutionary purpose.

'Political correctness' displays the classical hallmark of all Luciferian ideologies, in that it 'demands that people live a lie'[5]. In fact, 'political correctness' demands that we must all accept in innumerable lies as the truth. Such lies include the revolutionary egalitarian assertions that men and women are interchangeable; that there are no differences between or among races or ethnic groups (when these groups are taken as wholes, as 'political correctness' requires, so that its lies in this context are based upon empty generalisations); or that homosexuality is normal and perfectly acceptable. As one analyst has explained, the unholy PC trinity that 'political correctness' demands that we bow down and worship consists of racism, sexism and homophobia[6].

The same veteran American intelligence observer and activist, Paul Weyrich [see box, page 252] has pointed out that all ideologies lead to coercion, dictatorship and thereafter in all probability to genocide[7]: and in many of his pronouncements, it seems as though they verge upon actual predictions, rather than just warnings. This may be because,' ironically', this operative came from a Melkite Greek Catholic background rich with links to Nazi collaborators and neo-Fascist organisations, so he would have known what he was talking about. One of his handlers was an operative called William Lind, described as 'very condescending and arroganf by one observer, who also said that Lind gave the impression of being 'an ageing Brownshirt'. The reason for the tendency towards dictatorship implied by Weyrich was that ideology is bound to fail - pending the procurement of definitive methods of forcing the whole of humanity to think alike (which the Illuminati are heavily engaged in seeking, but which cannot be achieved). For, since we are all wonderfully made, we are all, each one of us, miraculously different (which was what the Lord intended). Hence none of us naturally thinks in the same way; and the high priests of 'political correctness' know this perfectly well - which means that they fundamentally know that they are liars.

In other words, ideologies presuppose that the state or supranational entity (in the contemporary context) must adopt them as official ideologies, so that they become enforceable, and are enforced, by the state. This is where ideology leads because in the end there is no way to compel people to bow down to and accept lies except by threats of coercion, leading to the concentration camps and the GULAG.

The term that the promoters of 'political correctness' apply to any open defiance of its revolutionary mandates is 'hate' - illustrating that like all ideologies, 'political correctness' has developed its own 'Newspeak'. Anyone who defies any ideology is, as noted, suffering from a psychological problem - that is to say, he is 'nuts'. Hence, of course, the notorious usage of 'psychiatric hospitalisation' in the overt Soviet Union, and to a considerable extent in the United States, as a routine method of ensuring that those who are deemed to have erred in their attitude or thinking are 'brought to reason' - a practice which has continued without interruption into the false 'post'-Soviet era. Nor are overt and covert Communist regimes alone guilty of this profound evil today. On the contrary, the use of 'lunacy testing' and other 'psychiatric coercion' techniques is commonplace in the American military, in the intelligence community where handlers decide that their operative needs to be neutralised, as well as throughout the United States' penitentiary system, which in many respects carries a close resemblance to the Soviet GULAG.

Even so, it was the Soviets who were the first to reveal the central importance of 'political correctness' to the Luciferian Revolution, and to emphasise formally its intentionally coercive purpose. The pertinent pronouncement appeared in the primary compendium of Lenin's version of the dialectical Revolution entitled 'The Foundations of Marxism-Leninism', a compendium first compiled under Stalin and revised and updated after his death. In this document, it was affirmed that 'in deciding other affairs, methods of public influence, the influence of public opinion, will be utilised. Under Communism, public opinion will become a mighty force, capable of bringing to reason those individuals who might not want to follow Communist customs and rules of behaviour of the Community'[8]. It is important to recall that the overt Soviets were in the habit of publishing their revolutionary prescriptions as though they applied primarily to the Soviet Union and its satellites. In practice, the prescriptions developed and approved for 'domestic' public consumption were likewise sanctioned for international application: thus the essay in which this passage appeared was entitled 'Marxism-Leninism as a Philosophy and World Outlook'.

The Illuminati, being schooled and steeped in the occult, have always recognised that the achievement of the global hegemony after which they lust - which has become an international cooperative endeavour that serves (and this is crucial) the German long-range strategy - depends upon their mastery over and control of the human mind. In 1920, the British Amy General J. F. C. Fuller, pronounced farsightedly that the traditional methods of military warfare would be 'replaced by purely psychological warfare, wherein weapons are not used or battlefields sought... But [rather]... the corruption of the human reason, the dimming of the human intellect, and the disintegration of the moral and spiritual life of one nation by the influence and will of another is accomplished'[9].

The Nazi International, and their contributing mentors from the Frankfurt School, fully understood that corruption of 'the enemy', by all means to hand, given that for them 'the war never ended' [see Chapter 8], necessitated controlling his mental processes. Lenin, the German Abwehr operative, had exactly the same understanding, as was acknowledged by B. H. Liddell Hart, who wrote:

'Lenin had a vision of fundamental truth when he said that "the soundest strategy in war is to postpone operations until the moral disintegration of the enemy renders the delivery of the mortal blow both possible and easy". This is not always practicable, nor his methods of propaganda (to include sophistry, strategic deception, and strategic self-deception) always fruitful. But it will bear adaptation: 'The soundest strategy in any campaign is to postpone battle, and the soundest tactics to postpone attack, until the moral dislocation of the enemy renders the delivery of a decisive blow practicable'[10].

In the passage taken from 'Marxism-Leninism as a Philosophy and World Outlook', the emphasised words 'bringing to reason' reveal the coercive intent underlying revolutionary 'political correctness'. The Illuminist Revolution has no hope of ultimate survival, let alone of triumph world-wide, if it cannot first achieve control over our minds, and assure itself that this control will remain permanent: which of course it can never achieve, which is why revolutions go 'round and round in circles' (the revealingly literal demonic meaning of the word 'revolution').

Transferred to the United States because of the prospect of Nazi harassment of its Jewish membership, the Frankfurt School took care to re-invent authoritarianism so that it did not, at least for the time being, resemble its European counterpart. Instead of applying the threat of terror and physical and mental coercion, the Frankfurt School now attempted to enforce conformity of thinking by more gentle means. According to Martin Jay, the most effective of these were to be found in the cultural field. American mass culture thus became one of the central concerns of the Frankfurt School'[11]. In fact, Lenin and Trotsky realised almost from the outset that theatre and film, popular transmission mechanisms of popular culture, had to be brought under reliable revolutionary control, just as Lenin laid down that the press needed to be at the Revolution's service at all times - a lesson that the CIA has learned and has applied with gusto. In the course of a 'spooks' cruise' off the West Coast in 2003, a 'fly on the wall' reporting to the Author revealed that the senior US intelligence officers on board were particularly proud of their achievement in controlling the press. They have also sought to control the Internet, spawning a large number of deliberately contradictory Information Warfare agitprop websites.

An American student of the Frankfurt School wrote in 1976 that'... there was a meeting of American scholars at a conference on religious and racial prejudice in 1944. Over the next five years, a Frankfurt School team under the direction of Max Horkheimer conducted in-depth social and psychological profiles of Americans under the mentioned project entitled 'Studies of Prejudice'. One of the results was a book entitled 'The Authoritarian Personality' by Theodor Adorno, et al, that summarised one of the largest public opinion surveys ever undertaken in the United States. It was published in 1950, and conformed to the original Critical Theory in every respect. As a document that testified to the belief system of the Frankfurt School revolutionaries, it was essentially anti-God, anti-Christian, anti-family, anti-nationalist, anti-patriot, anti-conservative, anti-hereditarian, anti-ethnocentric, anti-masculine, anti-tradition and anti-morality. All of these are elements inherent in Critical Theory'[12], which owes much to the Jewish authors' infestation with the occult mumbo-jumbo of the Kabbalah.

The ostensible objective of the Frankfurt School's activities and research in the United States was much more subtle than had been the case in Europe. Their new, US-oriented purpose was education for tolerance, rather than praxis for revolutionary change. Having studied American liberal thought and attitudes carefully, they cleverly adapted their revolutionary rhetoric to suit and merge with the mainstream of liberal Left thought in America, while maintaining intact their cultural Marxist objectives. Their language now came to match more closely the liberal (i.e., socialist)'... New Deal rather than Marxist or radical language'[13].

But of course toleration was in fact the reverse of what the Frankfurt School was promoting. Yet, as Dr Gerald L. Atkinson has written, 'the non-authoritarian (utopian) personality, insofar as it was defined, was posited as a person with a non-dogmatic tolerance for diversity. This thought is dominant in today's Boomer generation, the New Totalitarians'[14]. And of course by the end of the century, 'diversity' was the watchword of all US and UK 'politically correct' thinking, having invaded the boardrooms of American and British industry, whence it permeated organisations of all kinds from the highest levels of management to the workforce. A certain US transportation utility spent millions of dollars in the late 1990s and into the new century on elaborate programmes to indoctrinate and brainwash the workforce, introducing one the Frankfurt School's gems - 'affirmative action' - everywhere.

In practice what this meant was that whenever a vacancy arose, no matter how qualified a Caucasian candidate for the post might be, preference was always given to the disadvantaged from an ethnic background. As one wag cynically put it, 'if you are an illiterate female Black dwarf who has served nine years in a penitentiary for drug abuse, you may be just the person we're looking for to head up our new public relations department'. Though this 'politically incorrecf example is exaggerated of course, and perhaps offensive to some, such upside-down 'thinking' is much less unusual in American industry and in the employment market generally, than the objective observer may believe. This kind of perversity has brought forth the phenomenon of 'attitude' (or 'attitood'), displayed so often by store assistants, servers etc, whose focus is upon what the customer says and believes (which such people arrogantly assume), than upon providing the requisite and expected standard of service. It is also consistent with Wundtian 'Outcome-Based Education' which postulates that it is not what the pupil learns that matters, it is his or her 'attitude'. Provided the child or teenager has been sufficiently indoctrinated in the norms of 'political correctness' - for example, to equate animals with humans ('animals rights') or to accept without question the wholly inaccurate assertion that the resources of 'the planet' (a 'politically correct', revolutionary environmentalist key-word) are finite, findings such as that the child cannot spell or write a coherent sentence in English and has learned next to nothing (even though what he or she is supposed to have been taught conformed strictly to the anti-nation state 'politically correct' collectivist agenda), are disregarded. What matters is that the child has the right 'politically correcf attitude. This aberrant Illuminati-sponsored abuse of education has spread far beyond the United States to the other main English-speaking countries.

'Cultural Marxism' and the dumbing-down of the higher faculties of man through provocatively sensate or affective miseducation and the blanket infliction of decadent, Satanic popular 'music' upon the population, as preached by the Frankfurt School in the United States, have created a partial mental 'tabula rasa' in the confused minds of glazed-eyed, targeted youth, preparing the way for and spawning knee-jerk responses to 'prejudice', 'bigotry' and 'discrimination'. These platforms preceded the destructive concepts of 'affirmative action', 'diversity' and 'multiculturalism' which are now dominant in American and British society, and within the bureaucratic structures of both countries.

Such mental aberrations are the direct descendants of the Institute's study in the 1940s of 'anti-semitism', by which was meant anti-Communism and 'discrimination' (by which was meant in turn support for capitalism). It was that 'study' which inserted the language of 'civil rights' (quite recently joined by 'civil society'), 'discrimination', 'women's rights', 'children's rights', and other minority 'rights' into mainstream American and, after an interval, into British 'culture'. The situation has long been reached in both countries in which care has to be taken not to 'upset' the 'feelings' of minorities, when in comparable situations the sensibilities of the majority Caucasians would never be a factor.

What is the underlying point of all this garbage, apart from being an exercise in mass mind-manipulation and control? A key point that has gone unnoticed is that, since the Illuminati strive to obliterate 'religion' (by which they mean the Torah and True Christianity: the false religions, they use), the resulting intended mental 'tabula rasa' is replicated by a spiritual vacuum, as well. So the inculcation of what the supreme Illuminist Mikhail Gorbachev proclaims to be 'common human values' is intended to replace the personal spiritual relationship that the True Christian enjoys with God: for, since the Illuminati are not atheists, but understand very well that spiritual forces exist, they seek to ensure that the forces in 'common usage' are those provided by their god Lucifer, rather than by God himself.

Moreover the resulting general acceptance of this tripe (especially among the young, who have been deprived of access to True Christianity, for instance) provides lucrative new opportunities for making money. Thus trashy pop stars and are easily hired to appear in Hyde Park, Central London, in the 'touchy-feely' presence of Tony Blair and this 'licensed' hippie, 'Sir' Bob Geldof, to 'promote' 'aid for Africa' and 'poverty reduction'. The 'Useful Idiots' who contribute to such mass Psy-Ops events by buying tickets or sending relief funds, have no means of verifying what happens to their money after it has been collected. If they knew that such events were usually massive scamming operations, the scales might fall from their bleary, befogged and misguided eyes.

As the American analyst Raymond V. Raehn has explained, 'Critical Theory' as applied mass psychology has led [in particular] to the radical deconstruction of gender in the American culture. Critical Theory required the distinction between masculinity and femininity to disappear. The traditional roles of mothers and fathers were to be dissolved, so that patriarchy would be ended. Children are not to be raised according to their biological differences, but should be free to move in and out of existing genders and gender roles, according to their own 'preferences. This reflects the Frankfurt School rationale for the disintegration of the traditional family'[15] which was 'necessary' in order to create the preconditions for a wholesale attack on private property. Property represents power, and the persistence of power centres other than in the hands of the Illuminist elite, is not to be permitted.

The Frankfurt School's perverted alumni preached that '... even a partial breakdown of parental authority in the family might tend to increase the readiness of a coming generation to accept social change'[16]. 'Change' is of course a primary keyword of the Revolution, and is routinely used without elaboration - that is to say, its terms are never defined. Whenever the word change is used with no indication of what it means (change from what and to what?), its use and purpose is intentionally deceptive and revolutionary. The 'politically correct', indoctrinated revolutionary or unwitting 'Useful Idiot' accepts all 'change' as being by definition desirable, and is trained not to waste time questioning what 'changes' are intended, or where they may lead. As indicated, the Revolution reveals both the weakness of its intellectual underpinnings and its deceptive nature by routinely failing to define its terms, and by shrinking from spelling out what the end-result of 'change' is intended to be. Its actives fear to do so, knowing perfectly that if their true revolutionary intentions were known, the coerced support upon which they rely would all but evaporate overnight.

Finally, we need to consider briefly the relevance of Jewish 'mysticism' as a factor in the subversive formulations of members of the Frankfurt School. Since all criticism of Jews by Gentiles is liable to be labelled anti-semitic, the most appropriate way to address the Judaic characteristics of the Frankfurt School is to rely upon criticism by a Jewish author and expert. The most helpful examination of the Jewishness of the Frankfurt School is perhaps to be found in an essay entitled 'Georg Lukacs and the Frankfurt School: A Case of Secular Messianism', examining the contribution of one of the Institute's leading 'lights', Georg Lukacs, by Joseph B. Maier[17]. In this important essay, the Jewish author acknowledged that German Jewry was preoccupied with the mysticism of the Kabbalah, which of course is derived from pagan Babylon and denies the existence of any absolute truth.

On the contrary, there are, according to one of the Frankfurt School's most important (though not self-admitted) teachers, Walter Benjamin, innumerable variations on any given theme. This utterly Talmudic approach he expressed in the following memorable statement: 'I have never been able to do research and think in a way other than, if I may so put it, in a theoretical sense - namely, in accordance with the Talmudic teaching of the forty-nine levels of meaning in every passage of the Torah'[18].

What this reveals is that, for these people, revolution - going round and round in circles - is Talmudic: for there are no absolutes, only interpretations. That is precisely the trap that the Nazi International's greatest project, the European Union Collective, has set for the ignorant and unwary non-German Goyim who have accepted that strategic deception device for the usurpation of national sovereignty, as genuine. In the EU context, there are no fixed truths: everything is debatable, transitory, arguable, temporary, contradicted, ephemeral, or expendable. That just happens to be the essence of Leninism, which has no values except 'the revolution' itself: that is to say, that 'going round and round in circles' is an end in itself. Lenin, as we have repeatedly seen, was a German-hired subversion operative, so it is no surprise that his mad, Talmudic ideas correspond precisely with those promulgated by the Frankfurt School, which coexisted with Nazism in Germany, and has prepared the ground for the Thousand-Year Reich to be erected on the ruins of the United States. As for why Jews collaborate de facto with Nazis, this mystery is resolved when one understands that Zionism is Jewish Fascism. ■

Chapter 4: The Hex of Himmler: ADDENDUM: The Frankfurt School

1. Paul M. Weyrich, 'Free Congress Commentary', March 2000. Weyrich founded the Heritage Foundation, one of the US institutes linked to the Tavistock Institute and which, as shown in the box On page 252, has alleged Nazi connections.
2. 'The Resister', Volume IV, Number 4, page 55, paper by Dr Gerald L, Atkinson, Cdr, US Navy (Retd). Dr Atkinson is author of 'The New Totalitarians: Bosnia as a Mirror of America's Future', and 'From Trust to Terror: How Radical Feminism is Destroying the US Navy'. The British Navy is afflicted by the same curse of 'politically correct' asinine stupidity.
3. Weyrich, op. cit.
4. At the Annual Meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank held in Prague in September 2000, the Author attended a seminar at which the speaker was Mary Robinson, an apparently high-level indoctrinated globalist who is intolerant of any point of view other than her own. When the Author raised several pertinent questions critical of her assertions, she failed to answer the questions, but accused the Author of 'type-casting' and 'finger-pointing'.
5. Weyrich, op. cit.
6. Weyrich, op. cit.
7. Weyrich, op. cit.
8. 'Osnovy Marksisma-Leninisma' [The Foundations of Marxism-Leninism'] in a collectively prepared essay entitled 'Marxism-Leninism as a Philosophy and World Outlook', Moscow, 1956.
9. Private paper by Robert D. Hickson, August 1996: The Sophistic Phenomenon and Strategic Psycho-Cultural Revolution: 'Narco-Democracies', Illusionary Liberation, and Miseducation unto the Corrosion of Sloth and Hopelessness', page 11.
10. Cited by Hickson, op. cit., page 12.
11. Martin Jay, 'The Dialectical Imagination: A History of the Frankfurt School and the Institute of Social Research', University of California Press, 1973.
12. Raymond V. Raehn, 'Critical Theory: A Special Research Report', unpublished, 1 April 1996; cited by Dr Gerald L Atkinson in The Resister', Volume IV, Number 4. The 'Critical Theory' of the Frankfurt School is quintessentially and tire-somely Talmudic and Leninist: everything is transitional: visible reality is uni-dimensional, reality is philosophy.
13. Jay, op. cit, page 227.
14. Cultural Suicide, Dr Gerald L. Atkinson, 'The Resister', Volume IV, Number 4, page 55.
15. Raehn, op. cit.
16. Jay, page 135.
17. 'Georg Lukacs and the Frankfurt School: A Case of Secular Messianism', Joseph B. Maier, private paper.
18. Walter Benjamin, 'Briefe', Volume 2, Frankfurt-am-Main, Suhrkamp, 1996, page 678.

CHAPTER FIVE

THE HOUSE OF LUCIFER

THE 'DIFFERENCE' BETWEEN SATANISM AND LUCIFERIANISM

Hitherto we have all but employed the terms the Devil, Satan and Lucifer interchangeably, which is perfectly valid because this infernal entity is indeed one and the same. However in the minds of the deranged 'Useful Idiots' who have fallen for this idolatry and have made a pact with him, or who seek, whether knowingly or not, to do so, there is an important distinction. Satanists, mentally deranged by the use and abuse of drugs, accuse the Lord God (of Christians) of having betrayed humanity. They are not atheists, but openly acknowledge and recognise that their god, Satan, occupies a position super-naturally which, equipped with the 'magickal' powers that they claim to be able to mobilise in response to what they know about the 'Ancient Mysteries', they conspire to evoke - often raising demonic spirits which turn the tables and possess them instead.

By contrast the Luciferians, initiates of kindred occult rites and of course labouring under strange delusions - because, as discussed earlier, the Being they worship is the king and author of lies and murder - deliberately place Lucifer at the top of their agenda, go about their evil business driven by his 'seething powers', and glorify him as the principle of all that is 'good'. In other words, being idiots and deluded idolaters, they have fallen for Satan's 'reversal' lie - that good is evil, and evil is good, as Satan, masquerading as the serpent, beguiled Eve in the Garden of Eden. To Luciferians, he is the equal of Our Lord (Adonay), whom they describe as the principle of evil - because He stands in the way of their motto (as expressed by the Satanic Illuminati sect called Ordo Templi Orientis): 'Do as thou wilt'. You want that woman? Take her. You want casual sex? Grab it. You covet that man's assets? Raid them. Accuse him unjustly; deploy false witness against him. Have him flung into jail. You want Iraq's oil? Seize it.

Luciferians have 'risen' (i.e. descended) via initiation to the level at which they have exchanged normal human sensibilities, sensitivity and emotion, for a 'higher (= lower) calling', in which they take great pride, devoid of all normal human emotion (which is actually spiritual death). The 'rising' Mason who is 'progressing upwards' (i.e., descending) towards the state of 'perfect understanding' as he is initiated serially into ever more demonic grossness and gobbldegook, acquires tell-tale characteristics which can be recognised as distinct from those of normal human beings. George Bush Sr., for instance, displays a patrician aloofness and deadness which is typical of such deluded personalities. One of the geomasons' most celebrated authors, Manly P. Hall, describes precisely, in ''The Lost Keys of Freemasonry' [1923][1], what the 'requirements' of high Masonry are supposed to be. It should be noted that each sentence in what follows needs to be read as a whole: if parts of a sentence are extracted out of context, the incorrect impression is given. For instance, in the first paragraph, 'simplicity with its accompanying power' follows 'kindness in the face of unkindness'. Simplicity, in the Christian and True Judaic perception is not accompanied by power, but is rather a prerequisite for divine acceptance by itself. In Hall's description of the twisted and deformed 'mature' Masonic personality that emerges from the first three (deliberately deceptive) Degrees (the Blue Degrees), all emotions are to be suppressed and overlaid with a cold air of innate superiority. The 'calmness' of the 'higher' Mason is derived from the fact that his soul is dead and his heart is stone cold. Since this is the condition into which the initiate is intended to emerge from the first three (Blue) Degrees only, just imagine what a frozen heart initiates of the 'higher' (= lower) Degrees are ordained to acquire. This illuminates the late Fr. Malachi Martin's statement that Luciferians and Satanists 'have all passed through in a sense and that involves three things: the infliction of pain without flinching, the infliction of death without flinching, and the use of fire'. In the following excerpts from Manly P. Hall's treatise, lies and reprobate occult advice are represented as desirable:

'The following requirements are necessary before the student can spiritually say that he is a member of the Ancient and Accepted Rite of the Fellow Craft:

1. The mastery of emotional outbreaks of all kinds, poise under trying conditions, kindness in the face of unkindness, and simplicity with its accompanying power. These points show that the seeker is worthy of being taught by a Fellow [witch]Craftsman.

2. The mastery of the animal energies, the curbing of passion and desire, and the control of the lower nature[2] mark the faithful attempts on the part of the student to be worthy of the Fellow Craft. [This deceitfully suggests that candidates are supposed to lead upright and chaste lives as their superiors do: they don't, and neither do their superiors, given the sexual orientation of Masonic ritual and symbolism. But pagan priesthoods purported to be celibate, in order to falsely enhance their 'standing' among the credulous populace - a base negation of human nature that has been disastrously perpetuated by the Roman Catholic Church].

3. The understanding and mastery of the creative forces[3] [i.e. connecting with demonic forces: see below], the consecration of them to the unfolding of the spiritual nature, and a proper understanding of their physical application, are necessary steps at this stage of the student's growth. [This is all about 'taming' and 'connecting with' or invoking the 'seething powers of Lucifer': again, see below].

4. The transmutation of personal affection into impersonal compassion shows that the Fellow Craftsman truly understands his duties and is living in a manner worthy of his order. Personalities cannot bind the true Second Degree member, for having raised one point of the compasses he now realises that all personal manifestations are governed by impersonal principles.

5. At this point the candidate consecrates the five senses to the study of human problems [i.e. not the things of the Lord: this is 'humanism', plus a slow-motion advancement towards demonic infestation - Ed.] with the unfolding of sense centers as the motive; for he realises that the five senses are keys, the proper application of which will give him material for spiritual transmutation if he will apply them to the common divisor of analogy... The Entered Apprentice [First Blue Degree] may be termed a materialistic Degree. The Fellow Craft [Second Blue Degree] is religious and mystical [sic], while the Master Mason [Third Blue Degree] is occult or philosophical [sic]. Each of these is a Degree in the unfoldment of a connected life and intelligence, revealing in ever fuller expression the gradual liberation of the Master from the triangular cell of threefold negation which marks the early stage of individualization'[4].

THE BLUE DEGREES ARE THREE SIDES OF AN OCCULT TRIANGLE

So, the first three (lowest) Degrees [see Figure 44 on page 263], the so-called Blue Degrees - hence the widespread application of blue as a symbol of Masonic affiliation, for instance as the colour of the United Nations, the background to the esoteric European Union flag, or as the colour employed by IBM, or 'Big Blue' - are three sides of a triangle, which of course is a primary occult symbol of the Kabbalah. In Manly P. Hall's book, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', on the page facing the preceding paragraph, is an illustration of the initiate standing atop the truncated pyramid with his arms outstretched and in his left hand a Tau Cross (a cross with a circle above the cross-beam), which is the Crux Ansata, representing the union of male and female = fecundity [see Figure 45 on page 265]. The caption beneath that picture reads, in the original: 'The Master Mason, having completed his labors [in the Blue Degrees - Ed] becomes a worker on a higher plane than the one in which the ordinary builder is permitted to work'. So the labourers in the 'Blue' Degrees - 'the blue canopy of the Masonic Lodge', as Hall describes them on page 61 of his book - are 'ordinary workers' who, as we have seen, are deceived as to the real nature and purpose of Masonry: they represent the vast bulk of the pyramid, from the base up to where it is truncated - as shown on the US $1.0 dollar note, emblem of the Illuminati that Americans use for small purchases without the majority of them having the slightest clue that the note they proffer to the sales person carries images symbolic of this Satanic nexus of cults called Freemasonry [Figure 53, page 334]. And only a select few Americans seem able to grasp that the single eye on the dollar bill, which is replicated from the Great Seal of the United States, is in fact the evil 'All-Seeing Eye' eye of Lucifer [Figure 54, page 335: see Figure 47 on page 281 for the occult Masonic images on both sides of the Great seal of the United States]. When ordinary uncompromised Americans willingly place their opened right hand across the left breast to hear or to sing the National Anthem, they are unwittingly performing the Sign of Fellow Craft (viz., the Second Blue Degree) without due guard [see Addendum 10, Figure G, page 737].

Once he is a Master Mason, a candidate is eligible, if selected, to move on up (i.e., down, of course) the much more rarefied ladder of occultic initiations shown in Figure 44 on page 263, which entice the adept towards the worship of Lucifer and to learn some elements of the sorcery and magick of the 'Ancient Mysteries' of Egypt and Babylon, including instructions on how to summon up demons and the Devil himself (in the Rosicrucian tradition). Even so, all those who embark upon these 'higher' initiation stages, are routinely tricked by their superiors, since all Works of Darkness deceive those who indulge in them.

Already, the naive 'Useful Idiots' who have embarked upon the so-called 'Blue Degrees' are being purposefully deceived by their peers; for Masonry is a Cult of Darkness that deceives its fellow Masons about the true meaning of its mad symbols and esoteric rituals. That brazen lying is of the essence, was made crystal clear by the Patriarch of modern American and 'world' Scottish Rite and Palladian Freemasonry, the sorcerer and necromancer, Albert Pike, when he specifically explained in his tome 'Morals and Dogma' that...

The Blue Degrees are but the outer court or portico of the Temple. Part of the symbols are displayed there to the Initiate, but he is intentionally misled by false interpretations. It is not intended that he shall understand them; but it is intended that he shall imagine [that] he understands them. Their true explication is reserved for the Adepts, the Princes of Masonry.... It is well enough for the mass of those called Masons, to imagine that all is contained in the Blue Degrees; and whoso attempts to undeceive them will labor in vain, and without any true reward violate his obligations as an Adept. Masonry is the veritable Sphinx...'[5].

The offensive and sterile culture of lies and deception, of the double-cross and of 'bait and switch', which is the norm in US and other intelligence circles, is derived explicitly from this institutionalised geomasonic tradition of deception. Hobbled by compartmentalisation, US intelligence operatives may be proficient and effective in whatever vineyard of sour grapes they live and have their deluded being, but they have no idea at any given moment who is deceiving them among the intelligence community and sub-community to which they belong - let alone who of their foreign contacts is liable to scam and double-cross them. These people forfeit true friendships and normal human relationships for the temporary buzz and lifelong uncertainty characteristic of the castle of lies and dirty tricks in which they live; and they know that if they 'mess up', they are very likely to be set up, abandoned, or otherwise abused by the ruthless, cold-hearted machine to which they belong. When they target people unconnected with intelligence, they usually blow their cover - because having emerged from the darkness, they have no idea how to function in broad daylight. This hellish environment reflects the fact that all intelligence organisations are essentially esoteric secret societies, impregnated with Masonry and therefore Illuminism and, in the case of the CIA and certain other leading intelligence networks, fatally compromised by their compulsive meddling with the occult.

Notwithstanding that all Freemasons are deceived by their peers, 'Blue Masonry' Degrees purport to inculcate the Lesser Mysteries of the Ancients, whereby only the exoteric doctrines were revealed. All subsequent Degrees, which cannot be accessed unless one has passed through the Blue Degrees, and is invited to 'go on higher', inculcate the supposed 'Greater Ancient Mysteries', incorporating Babylonian-Talmudic Kabbalism with the 'Egyptian Mysteries'. On initiation, Masons receive an alias by which name they are henceforth known in the Lodge, as is the case with The Order of Skull and Bones. All Masonry contradicts the Word of Jesus Christ by substituting 'help a brother Mason' for the Christian teaching that one should love one's neighbour as oneself, which means helping everyone as necessary, without distinction. The Brotherhood is not the Brotherhood of Man (the whole of Mankind) but of Men (the Illuminati).

MASONIC 'LIFE' 'ABOVE' THE BLUE DEGREES

The occult initiation stages that may follow passage through the three lowest Degrees of both the Scottish and York Rites of 'Anglo-Saxon' Freemasonry, are all metaphorically crammed within the approach to the 'capstone', i.e., they form the building blocks of the final courses of the Great Pyramid (of Egypt, the Biblical metaphor for the Darkness and the 'Mysteries' of which, as Manly P. Hall claims on pages 102-103 of 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry'[6], are 'progenitors of modern Freemasonry'). Certain of the 'highest' Illuminati celebrated the millennium at an occult rite at the Great Pyramid -their number reportedly including the alleged controlling Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst agents George Bush (Busche) Sr. and Dr Henry Kissinger. Senior German operatives are conspicuous within the higher ranks, where German is routinely spoken.

By the time that Lady Queenborough (Edith Starr Miller), the greatest lay investigator of Freemasonry, was completing her research in the early 1930s, it had become apparent that for any career in the financial sector, membership of a Lodge was an absolute prerequisite[7]. This state of affairs has long since been replicated in the United

EMBLEMATIC STRUCTURE OF FREEMASONRY

RED CROSS CONSTANTINE
ACTIVE 33°
ROYAL ORDER SCOTLAND
COUNCIL S J 19° TO 30°
SUBLIME PRINCE OF THE ROYAL SECRET
S J Consistory 31–32
YORK RITE
SCOTTISH RITE
Honorary 33°
A.A.O.W.M.S. shrine
Knight Commander of the Court of Honour
CONFERRED BY COMMANDERY CONFERRED BY COUNCIL
CONFERRED BY CHAPTER
ORDER OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR COMMANDERY
ORDER OF KNIGHTS OF MALTA
ORDER OF THE RED CROSS
SUPER EXCELLENT MASTER COUNCIL
SELECT MASTER
ROYAL MASTER
ROYAL ARCH MASON CHAPTER
MOST EXCELLENT MASTER
PAST MASTER (VIRTUAL) MARK MASTER
32
31 Grand Inspector Inquisitor Commander
30 Knight of Kadosh
29 Knight of St. Andrew
28 Knight of the Sun
27 Knight commander of the Temple
26 Prince of Mercy
25 Knight of the Brazen Serpent
24 Prince of the Tabernacle
23 Chief of the Tabernacle
22 Knight of the Royal Axe
21 Noachite or Prussian Knight
20 Master Ad Vitam
19 Grand Pontiff
18 Knight of the Rose Croix
17 Knight of the East & West
16 Prince of Jerusalem
15 Knight of the East or Sword
14 Grand Elect Mason
13 Master of the Ninth Arch
12 Grand Master Architect
11 Sublime Master Elected
10 Master Elect of Fifteen
9 Master Elect of Nine
8 Intendant of the Building
7 Provost & Judge
6 Intimate Secretary
5 Perfect Master
4 Secret Master
CONSISTORY OF PRINCES OF THE ROYAL SECRET
19° TO 32° CHIVALRIC
Chapter 17° - 18° Religious Council 15° -16° Historic
LODGE OF PERFECTION
4° TO 14° INEFFABLE DEGREES
4° to 14°
Chapter S A 15° to18°
EASTERN STAR
G
BLUE LODGE
MASTER MASON
3
FELLOW CRAFT
2
ENTERED APPRENTICE
1

Figure 44: A diagram derived from official speculative geomasonic sources in which the various symbols applicable to each Degree of the Scottish and York Rites are shown. Explaining all the occult symbolism resident in the emblems of each of the degrees, plus others, would require a separate volume. Note the existence of two categories of 33rd Degree, conferable upon both York and Scottish Rite adherents - the Honorary 33rd Degree, and the Active 33rd Degree. Certain candidates are selected by the Luciferian hierarchy for Honorary 33rd Degree status, such as the son of the late Shah of Persia (Pahlavi). Note that the emblem of the Eastern Star [bottom, right is the INVERTED PENTAGRAM, the sign of evil and of the Evil One, employed for invoking evil spirits. According to the 'Dictionary of Mysticism' [Frank Gaynor, New York, Philopsophical library, 1953, page 136], the pentagram 'is considered by occultists to be the most potent means of conjuring spirits: when the single point points down and a pair of points are on top, it is a sign of evil (Satan) and is used to conjure powers of evil'. Also the familiar sun with rays, arch, compass, square and G (for Generation and Gnosticism, not for God), are standard geomasonic occult symbols.

Kingdom which had an estimated 600,000 Masons in 1990 - to the extent that, in addition to presupposing progress in the City of London, a Masonic background is more or less essential in the legal profession, in the police and accountancy, among engineers, draughtsmen, engineering salesmen and corporate buyers (notably), among company directors, senior executives and contractors, and in the construction sector (architects, surveyors, petty officials, estate agents, builders, and the building trades), and wherever business and favours are accessible through contacts and networking. It is rife, believe it or not, in the reprobate Church of England and other British churches, notably the Church of Scotland and the Presbyterian Church of Wales - which is of course a contradiction in terms, and is de rigeur in local government (which is extremely corrupt in Britain) and to a considerable extent in Whitehall. Masonic initiation is also secretly prevalent, as in the United States, throughout the intelligence community and politics, although UK Members of Parliament are forbidden by their House rules to shake hands with other Freemasons within the precincts of the Palace of Westminster. The rationale for this is likely to be an earlier attempt to frustrate Masonic practice, in which brother Masons go to their brother Masons' aid to the exclusion of other considerations.

However a former MP has told the Author personally that many of his colleagues would disappear in the evenings for no known reason, gathering for private meetings in the precincts of the House, without ever inviting someone known not to be a Mason into their gatherings, or explaining the reason for their frequent absences. Masonry of course wastes a colossal amount of a person's lifetime, so Masonic activity must likewise wreak havoc in a politician's life, given that all politicians are deliberately worked to the bone (so that they have as little time to think and take in the 'larger picture', as can be arranged)[8]. Particularly insidious is the Speculative Society of Edinburgh, to which politicians, judges, police and other members of the control system belong. Freemasons deny that this clearly Masonic secret society has anything to do with Masonry: but as lies are the norm in this milieu, this is meaningless.

Indicative of the corrupting influence of Masonry among British country solicitors is the following description by the late Stephen Knight, author of The Brotherhood, who, like Mozart, died suddenly and mysteriously (shortly after his book appeared in 1984): 'The Law Society is one of the most Masonic institutions in the world.... A great many of the sixty-odd members of the Law Society Council as well as a high proportion of the Society's staff and committees: 90% of all male staff above the age of thirty are Freemasons. ... I have thousands of papers on one case... so well documented that it can be followed in minute detail. It involves one of the many Masonic members of the Law Society Council, who had personally committed an act of gross negligence which caused one of his clients to lose a £100,000 inheritance. Deliberate action on the part of several other firms of Masonic solicitors - some of the biggest names in the legal profession - acting in collusion with the original solicitor and with each other to cover up the negligence, brought the client to the edge of financial ruin. Having mortgaged his home, spent £15,000 in legal fees to lawyers who deliberately ignored his instructions, wasted valuable time and generated hundreds and hundreds of expensive, unnecessary documents, he was forced to apply to the Law Society, of which his chief opponent was an influential member, for legal aid. Finally, in 1982, after fighting Masonic manipulation of the legal system for more than a year, and only after a direct appeal to a senior and non-masonic official in the Department of Health and Social Security, which works in tandem with the Law Society on legal aid applications, he was granted a legal aid certificate - but on extremely onerous conditions'[9].

Figure 45: The Masonic candidate standing on top of the symbolic incomplete pyramid, which Albert Pike described, with no explanation and without elaboration, as 'the universal symbol of immortality' ['Morals and Dogma', page 633]. This statement appears in Pike's explanation of the occult mathematical religion of Pythagoras, or 'arithmomancy'. It is quite extraordinary that the paragraph in question contains a lie, or a denial of the geometry of the pyramid. Specifically, Albert Pike, who has just textually revered the Triangle with its three sides, now writes: 'For if the Triangle, figured by the number 3, forms the triangular base of the pyramid, it is unity which forms its point or summit'. But the base of a pyramid is not triangular, it is square! So all Pike's elaborate explanations of the hidden arithmomancy 'meanings' of triangles and pyramids, many of which contain unexplained dogmatic statements, are unreliable to the point of being eligible for ridicule. In this weird illustration from Manly P. Hall's 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', the candidate has reached the stage of near-immortality by ascending to the platform on top of the pyramid, brandishing a Tau cross, the symbol of the pagan slain-and-risen god, Tammuz, or 'crux Tau', 'crux ansata' and 'crux Hermis', the 'phallus' emblem of Generative Power and of 'eternal transmigrating life'. Immortality would be 'complete' if the four sides of the pyramid were actually to reach a single point: but the goal of perpetuating life, sought by Rosicrucian magick, has always eluded all these demented members of the broad 'Order of the Quest'.

The Author has personally experienced a disgraceful instance of apparent Masonic collusion between country solicitors in connection with a family matter, which was only resolved when he took the case to one of the very largest solicitors in London, who, at enormous cost, struck fear into the souls of these reprobate Masonic firms because of the sheer prestige of its name. As a result of the newly appointed London solicitor's intervention, all the country firms' earlier endless obstructive tactics suddenly ceased.

As for the UK intelligence services, absurd denials by British intelligence officers in the 1980s that Masonry exists or is rife inside the UK intelligence community, as is the case in the United States, reported in Stephen Knight's The Brotherhood, are belied not least by the occult-masonic MI5 symbol shown in Figure 1 on page 3. In the early 1980s, British intelligence tried to disguise the well-known Masonic influence with which it had always been plagued, given intelligence research that had revealed the likelihood of KGB penetration of the services through Masonic membership, the KGB and DVD having been well aware that the largest secret organisation in Britain has always been Freemasonry.

LURE OF MASTERY OF THE 'SEETHING ENERGIES OF LUCIFER'

It has been noted that Luciferians (and would-be Luciferian Masons as they 'rise') are, or run the risk of being progressively 'endowed' with, powers to manipulate (as these 'Useful Idiots' come to believe) the 'seething energies of Lucifer'. The source of this knowledge is Manly P. Hall himself, who, routinely uses the name 'God' when in fact he is secretly referring to Lucifer, and who writes as follows in 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry' [lies shown in italics]: 'Man does not listen to that little voice which speaks to him in ever loving ever sorrowful tones. This voice speaks of the peace accompanying the constructive application of energy which he must chain if he would master the powers of creation'[10].

Here is Satan calling the candidate/initiate, telling him that he can become like a god, which is what is meant by 'master[ing] the powers of creation'. But it gets worse: 'The lost key... is the mastery of emotion, which places the energy of the universe at their disposal. Man can only expect to be entrusted with great power by proving his ability to use it constructively and selflessly. When the Mason learns that the key to the warrior on the block is the proper application of the dynamo of living power, he has learned the mastery of his Craft. The seething energies of Lucifer are in his hands and before he may step onward and upward, he must prove his ability to properly apply energy. Incessant vigilance over thought, action and desire is indispensable to those who wish to make progress in the unfolding of their own being.... the firm, kind hand of spirit must curb the flaming powers of emotion with an iron grip'[11].

Satan, in the guise of Masonry, is spinning lies to the initiate, first of all, along the lines (in so far as any sense at all can be derived, for instance, from Manly P. Hall's extremely confused esoteric writings) that Freemasonry is the custodian of the 'Ancient Mysteries' which only the privileged few have ever accessed because only the super-initiated have been equipped down the centuries for reaching the level of 'perfection' needed to become imbued with knowledge of them; and that the natural emotions, with which we were all endowed by the Lord, as part of our equipment for enjoyment of the life we have been given, are to be suppressed. Anyone believing such garbage needs a head examination; but several million dupes worldwide, who have no idea that they are being deceived, walk headlong into this complex Satanic trap, and encumber their lives as they grope vainly in the Darkness for 'enlightenment'.

Is it because they have been indoctrinated into suppressing and controlling normal emotions that those mad, semi-possessed high-level Luciferians attend, for instance, the (German) Illuminati's Bohemian Grove [see box, page 161], where, having suppressed their emotions in accordance with their weird geomasonic training all year round, they drink themselves insensate and lie around the estate drunk and sick as dogs, consume illicit drugs, and indulge in Satanic, reprobate and cruel, bestial sexual practices - inflicting pain without flinching, inflicting death without flinching, and using fire to propitiate their god Lucifer? Is this the norm, because they have been brainwashed into suppressing their natural emotions? What does this mean? That a Luciferian Mason no longer loves a woman for her beauty, her grace, her mind, her personality, her spiritual gifts, the incredible unity of her person, the glory of her presence, but uses her for his own filthy self-gratification, and not her alone, but hundreds of others, too? And such behaviour has proliferated far beyond the self-interested Brotherhood - in conformity with the Illuminati's programme for young people from Britain, who are debauched by the foul pop culture inflicted on the country by these Luciferians, and who flock today to the innumerable Bohemian Groves that have sprung up to entice them into Satanic activity, and to consume the drugs produced and distributed by intelligence 'services'.

According to the late Manly P. Hall's sterile and cynically confused assessment and 'promise', the suppression of emotions is the key to placing oneself in a position where one will (according to the Masonic blueprint) be 'entrusted with great power'. Having mastered the emotions, the foolish dupe must then learn 'the proper application of the dynamo of living power' - namely, 'the seething energies of Lucifer', which will become his to use and manipulate. And here is the most egregious lie of all: for, far from ultimately procuring the power to manipulate and control 'the seething powers of Lucifer', the adept will be fortunate if he manages to avoid those demonic powers taking hold of him, to some degree. The Satanic deception is embedded in the enticing lie that the candidate will, through initiation, gain the power to control, manipulate, and use to his own advantage, these demonic powers - whereas the outcome will be that the powers assume control of him, as Satan always intends. In such circumstances, he will discover, far too late, that he cannot shake them off without a supreme exercise of his own will, and certainly assistance from a True Christian outside the Lodge. And there is no chance of relief without total repentance on the part of the possessed: he has to want to be rescued, and he has to have faith that the Lord Jesus Christ - the only name to which Evil Spirit ever responds and pays respect - can rescue him and restore him to normal life.

The Masonic (Satanic) lie that Man is capable, exclusively through Masonic initiation, of mastering the 'seething energies' of Lucifer, is derived from the heresy of 'Deism', which merges the existence of God with the false, manmade concept of a mechanistic world. 'Deism' can be encapsulated in the phrase 'God sleeps', and its esoteric 'magick' symbol is a circle with a diagonal line through it, which is widely used in public places and for modern road signs. This doctrine states that 'God, the Supreme Architect of the Universe, created all things, but then isolated himself from the entire creation and let it operate on its own. He fell asleep and hasn't been on top of the situation. This is the very essence of the teachings of Freemasonry'[12].

By means of this deception, celebrating the building of a stone temple and thus rejecting the Lord's statement that the human person is the temple of the Holy Spirit, preserves the idea that 'God' created the world, while inventing a mechanistic world within which the Illuminati/Masonic 'Chosen' assert that they are privileged to reorder Man's affairs. This device enables them to face both ways - to be double-minded.

IDENTITY OF THE EVIL ONE REVEALED AT FELLOW CRAFT STAGE

Even though Manly P. Hall is actually still talking here about what must happen to the initiate of the second lowest Degree (Blue Degree), Fellow Craft, he has, as has been seen, already introduced the name of Lucifer. So in fact it is at this lowly level, contrary to the received view, that initiates are introduced to Lucifer, or more specifically to the concept of his 'seething energies' (because in the ceremonies, there is no mention of Lucifer until a much higher level is reached). Therefore, in this sense, fashionable references to the initiation of the candidate into de facto Luciferianism occurring at 'capstone levels' are inaccurate. It is untrue to suggest that the Blue Degrees are basically innocuous. On the contrary, even at the Entered Apprentice level, the candidate is told that his tongue will be torn from his mouth, a revoltingly barbaric, Satanic proposition, if he divulges any of the Lodge's secrets. Nevertheless, as the shape of the pyramid below the truncated shelf shows, the vast majority of Masons belong to the three lower Degrees; and as members of Lodges at those levels, while they may delude themselves that Masonry is all about doing good works ('salvation by works') and having pleasant dinners with plenty of wine flowing, and cigars afterwards - with the 'workings' (ritual ceremonies) just a quaint hangover from some mystical past - in reality their minds are already being well and truly infected with elements of Satanism, their hearts hardened (because they must suppress their emotions) and their souls polluted with the smoke of the Evil One. Their minds are progressively filled with esoteric nonsense and make-believe, as can be imagined by reviewing the following passage from Manly P. Hall's invented description of the 'seething energies' in question. The reader of this passage (and of Manly P. Hall's book) has every right to conclude that the study and practice of Masonry, as a 33rd Degree initiate, had sent the late pagan Mr Hall completely mad:

'It is strange how divine powers may become perverted until each expression and urge becomes a ruffian and a murderer. The divine compassion of the gods manifests in this world of form very differently than in the realms of light. Divine compassion is energised by the same influxes as mortal passions and the lusts of earth. The spiritual rays of Cosmos - the Fire Princes of the Dawn - which seethe and surge through the unregenerate man, are the impulses which he perverts to murder and hate. The ceaseless power of Chaos, the seething spirals of perpetual motion, whose majestic cadences are the music of the spheres, are energized by the same great power that man uses to destroy the highest and the best. The same mystic power that keeps the planets in their orbits around the solar body, the same energy that keeps each electron spinning and whirling, the same energy that is building the Temple of God, is now a merciless slave-driver which, unmastered and uncurbed, strikes the Compassionate One and sends him reeling backward into the darkness of his prison'. After this outburst, the maddened Mr Hall starts waffling about 'the Fellow Craft of the Cosmic Lodge' which exists 'to teach mankind the lessons of self-mastery'[13].

The Author will waste no time seeking to decipher this convoluted gobbldegook, which lacks any scientific basis and represents the demented meanderings of a 'high' Mason who is also the author of 'An Encyclopedic Outline of Masonic, Hermetic, Kabbalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolical Philosophy: Being an Interpretation of the Secret Teachings concealed within the Rituals, Allegories and Mysteries of All Ages', published in 1928 (the same year as the Bolsheviks generated their 'Blueprint for World Revolution' at the 1928 Comintern Conference), in San Francisco, by H. S. Crocker Company Incorporated, of which only 100 copies were initially printed. This Rosicrucian document, which contains instructions on how to raise the Devil himself, discusses every conceivable dimension of the 'Ancient Mysteries', including activities that are labelled by Manly P. Hall himself as 'Ceremonial Magic and Sorcery'.

Figure 46: Frontispiece from the original libretto of The Magic Flute, printed by Mozart's Lodge 'Brother', Ignaz Alberti, in Vienna, 1791. The frontispiece, which was suppressed in later editions, is rich in Masonic symbols. The globalist Albert Einstein wrote, in his classic study 'Mozart, His Character, His Work' [Cassell and Company Limited, London, 1946-1956] that Mozart and his librettist for Die Zauberflote, Shikaneder, 'were Freemasons: Mozart an enthusiastic one, and Shikaneder surely a crafty and active one. The latter used the symbols of Freemasonry quite openly in the libretto. The first edition of the libretto [of The Magic Flute] contained something rare in such books, two copperplate engravings, one showing Shikaneder-Papageno in his costume of feathers, but the other showing the portal to the 'inner rooms', the Great Pyramid with hieroglyphics, and a series of emblems: five-pointed star, square and trowel, hour-glass and overthrown pillars and plinths. Everyone understood this. Mozart took care, by means of rhythm, melody and orchestral colour, to make the significance of the opera, an open secret, still clearer. He began and ended the work in E-flat major, the Masonic key. The slow introduction to the Overture begins with the three chords, symbolising the candidate knocking three times on the portal; and then in the climactic scene, Tamino knocks on three different doors. A thrice-played chord follows Sarastro's opening of the ceremonies in the temple. Woodwinds - the typical instruments of the Viennese Lodges - play a prominent part'. Yet nine weeks after the first performance of Die Zauberflote, Mozart died a truly wretched and painful death - as though, having in error celebrated and arguably mocked the 'magick' of the occult, he was duly rewarded with its sole product (death). The eternal mystery is how, given such secular and occultic preoccupations, Mozart composed some of the most sublime religious music ever written. It was as though his true 'divinely' inspired spirit kept seeking release from the worldly oppression of his financially supportive Masonic peers. There are also serious prophesied repercussions for people of Jewish extraction who dabble in such matters.

This subversive Rosicrucian publication contains the essence of the Zeitgeist of the Illuminati, as conveyed originally from mediaeval Germany to England and Scotland, via France, and then 'back' to Germany. In 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', the late Mr Hall betrayed signs of having indeed been clean deprived of his senses by such intermeddling and investigations. Rosicrucianism is appended to the Scottish Rite like a limpet, since the assemblers of ritual, sorcery and magick for Freemasonry, led by Albert Pike, sought to include all manifestations of such 'ancient devilry', without exception, in their stinking geomasonic cauldron - so that Freemasonry would become the globally acknowledged custodian of the 'Ancient Mysteries' for all eternity.

Huge swathes of Masons' private time are taken up with the rituals, meetings, dinners, and learning the verbal tripe that must be recited at 'workings' - time during which they desert their families; at the same time, considerable financial payments to the Lodge are demanded, which benefit not so much the Lodge itself, but the higher echelons of the Masonic pyramid, where luxurious living is the norm.

ACKNOWLEDGING THE TRUTH, AND THE NEED TO 'COME OUT'

'Blue Degree' Masons are already, from the outset of their ill-advised collaboration, sitting in the back pews of the House of Lucifer, even though few of them may realise this. Those who manage to wake up before being sucked further into this gradualist diversionary trap for the unwary, should resolve to make the necessary sacrifice and to take decisive early action on the basis of the Apostle Paul's injunction in his Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 6, verse 17: 'Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you'. But He won't receive the Mason while he is touching this unclean thing: no chance.

And in Revelation, Chapter 18, verse 4: 'And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, 'Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues'. While the Mason is sitting in the House of Lucifer he is, by definition, susceptible to infections of which he may have no immediate knowledge; and when, if ever, he realises what these are, it may be too late for salvation (although this is never the case, as the Lord's arm is 'stretched out still: 'For all this' [all the serial sins of the children of Israel] 'his anger is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still' [Isaiah, Chapter 5, verse 25]. By which is meant that although the Lord's anger at the person he loves having followed the wrong path, has not been assuaged, yet he is ready with his hand to pull the misguided, opinionated fool away from the course he has embarked upon, and to encourage him to take the right road - towards true, as opposed to fake, salvation, and protection from possession by the 'seething energies' of Lucifer.

Since we have quoted Isaiah, the greatest of the prophets (a word which can mean 'he who shows the right way'), let us also rejoice in his condemnation of these false prophets of Masonry, who preach lies instead of truth, and call them the truth:

'Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil, that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter. Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight... Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!' [Isaiah, Chapter 5, verses 20-21 and 23].

'For', writes Paul in the Second Epistle to the Corinthians Chapter 11, verses 13-15, 'such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light' [see Chapter 6]. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works'.

In other words, Masonry, like other false religions, deceitfully represents that it knows the true source of light, and will lead the candidate towards it. This is a false prospectus which anyone who is not sitting on his or her brains should be able to see immediately: for all groups and societies pledged to secrecy and demanding initiation before 'progress' are false, deceitful, oppressive and abominable both by definition and 'in the sight of the Lord'.

No initiation and no secrecy is demanded of those who seek the Lord Jesus Christ. He says: 'Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me' [Revelation, Chapter 3, verse 20]. And this offer is open even to some abominable people whose evil Works of Darkness are discussed in this book if they repent: 'Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord; though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool' [Isaiah, Chapter 1,18].

'But the fearful [of taking the plunge away from evil - Ed.], and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burnetii with fire and brimstone'. [Revelation, Chapter 21, verse 8].

CONFUSION AMONG 'CHRISTIANS', AND THE JEWISH RESPONSE

Since Satan is the author of all lies and confusion, and Lucifer is revealed as the false god that Freemasons hasten to worship (via his guises as the Great Architect of the Universe who went to sleep after his creation, and JAHBULON), it follows that nothing any Masonic authority has written in the past, and nothing that such people will write about Freemasonry in the future, can be relied upon. We have already seen that Manly P. Hall was apt to write rubbish; and there are passages in the works of Albert Pike which read as though the author was stoned on drugs, which may indeed have been the case. On occasion, he all but evokes Lucifer in his writings, as in the notoriously revealing passage from his 'Morals and Dogma' tome, which is the Bible of American Scottish Rite Freemasonry:

'Lucifer', he gushes, almost in his familiar sorcerer's invocation mode, 'the Light-bearer! Strange and mysterious name to give to the Spirit of Darkness! Lucifer, the Son of the Morning! Is it he who bears the Light, and with its splendors intolerable blinds feeble, sensual, or selfish Souls? Doubt it not!'[14].

With Lucifer in the driving seat, Masonic writers, deceived of course themselves, face the problem that they cannot be believed. So it is not surprising that the authorities differ concerning the provenance of the sorcery formulae and gobbledegook that infests the sterile rituals of Freemasonry. As we have seen, Many P. Hall states unequivocally that 'Egypf was 'the cradle of superior culture and most exalted philosophy' and he invokes 'undeniable evidence', which he fails to provide, 'that the Egyptian Mysteries were the progenitors of modern Freemasonry', before lamenting that the historical basis for his statement is actually all but lacking. With the benefit of our study of Scripture, we know that Egypt, as indicated, is the Old Testament's primary metaphor for 'the Darkness' (no insult intended to modern Egypt); and, as also indicated, we know that the historical information provided in Exodus is a 'living metaphor' for God's wish to lead us away from the darkness (of sorcery, idolatry, the burden of sin, lies, murder and false witness) into the light 'of His Holy Countenance'. Egyptian culture was focused upon death, whereas the intended culture of the children of Israel was focused upon 'the living God', who makes his Holy Spirit available to us if we seek him.

Later in the recorded history of the children of Israel, the elite and most skilled among them were exiled for 70 years to Babylon, as prophesied by Jeremiah, in Chapter 25, verse 11 (606 BC): 'And these nations [Israel and Judah, the two kingdoms] shall serve the King of Babylon seventy years'. In Chapter 29, verse 10 (599 BC) Jeremiah adds: 'For thus saith the Lord, That after seventy years be accomplished, I will visit you, and perform my good word towards you, in causing you to return to this place' [Jerusalem], which is of course precisely what happened when the prophets Ezra (536 BC) and later Nehemiah (446 BC) returned with large numbers of Babylonian Jews to the long-destroyed City of David. Those among their number of later generations who secured the permission and blessing of later Babylonian kings to return to rebuild Jerusalem, returned to the Word of God; but large numbers remained dispersed 'in Iraq', where they absorbed the magical sorcery and 'Ancient Mysteries' secrets of their pagan captors and hosts. After the destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70, when the sacrificial system of Moses ceased and the messianic rolls were destroyed, later generations of Jewish 'scholars' took the most elaborate steps to merge the Torah with Babylonian Kabbalistic sorcery, a process that occupied many centuries - generating the Judaism of today, which is foreign to True Christianity and so incompatible with it as to render meaningless the deceptive phrase, 'Judao-Christian civilisation'. That, for them, there are, say, 49 interpretations of any given Judaic scriptural phrase is itself absurd, and it reveals that for this culture, there is no truth: how can there be, if every phrase of their scriptures has 49 interpretations? The Judaic-Kabbalistic mentality, tradition and culture is, from the True Christian perspective, sterile - and reflects total the fulfilment of Jesus Christ's prophecy in Matthew, Chapter 23, verses 37-39, that since the Jews would not recognise who He is, and recognise the truth that He offered them, while He was with them, their 'house' would be empty and sterile - the word house meaning their 'religion':

'O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord' [meaning Jesus Christ Himself][15].

Rather than recognising who He is, the Jews have wasted two millennia fiddling around with the Babylonian Kabbalah, which their rabbis imported from Babylon and have merged incongruously with the Torah. In the spirit of Caiaphas, they have sought to destabilise and disadvantage Christianity ever since Jesus was executed. And since Lucifer enthroned himself in Rome almost from the outset, as is reviewed in Chapter 6, Jews, like almost everyone else, have confused True Christianity (of which most are entirely ignorant) with the reprobate Catholic Church, which for much of its history has been both conspicuously corrupt and the perpetrator, even, of crimes against humanity. Other Churches, especially the Church of England which was, of course, born of royal adultery, are 'daughters' of the Church of Rome, and are comparably reprobate.

In one sense, therefore, one cannot really blame the Jews for their animus against 'Christians', who for the most part were never followers of Jesus Christ. During the multiple outbreaks of the Jesuit-inspired Inquisition atrocities, authorised and promoted by the deceptively tided Pope Innocent III (1198-1216), which resulted in the murder of upwards of 50 million people over a period of 500 years, certain hapless victims were strapped to a long table known as 'the rack' and stretched by rope and windlass; heavy pinchers were used to tear out fingernails or were applied red-hot to sensitive parts of the body; rollers with razor-sharp knife blades and spikes were used, over which the 'heretics' were rolled backwards and forwards; women were installed in a deadly hollow iron instrument which was the size and figure of a woman, within which knives were arranged in such a way and under such pressure that the helpless victim was lacerated within its deadly clasp; victims stripped of their clothing had their arms strapped behind their backs with a cord, weights were attached to their feet and a pulley then suspended them in mid-air or dropped and raised them with violent jerks, dislocating parts of the body; and some sensible people who rejected Catholic propaganda had molten lead poured into their ears and eyes. Many Popes remain notorious for their odious deeds and their gross immorality. Pope Sergius III (904-911) obtained the Papal office by murder. John XII (955-983) is described in ''The Catholic Encyclopaedia' as 'a coarse, immoral man, whose life was such that the Lateran was spoken of as a brothel'; Pope Boniface VII (984-985) maintained his position by distributing stolen funds; Benedict VII (1012-24) 'bought the office of the Pope with open bribery'; and on 31st October 1501, Alexander VI (Roderigio Borgia, 1492-1503), who consulted astrologers and sorcerers, conducted a sex orgy in the Vatican, featuring 50 nude girls for the pleasure of his guests[16].

During the Council of Constance, three Popes, and sometimes four of them, cursed each other every day, calling their opponents (probably accurately), antichrists, demons, sodomites, adulterers and whatever other descriptive insult came to mind. A John XXIII (1410-1415) not to be confused with the modern Pope who curiously adopted the same name and number, was accused by 37 witnesses of fornication, incest, adultery, sodomy, simony, murder and theft. Innumerable witnesses proved that he had violated 300 nuns, who were kept for the purpose. This particular Pope was publicly referred to as the Devil Incarnate. He taxed everything in sight - including usury, gambling and prostitution.

According to 'The Catholic Encyclopaedia' itself, again, one of the very worst Popes was Boniface VIII (1294-1303). It states that 'scarcely any possible crime was omitted - infidelity, heresy, simony, gross and unnatural immorality, idolatry, magic.... Protestant historians, generally, and even modern Catholic writers... class him among the wicked Popes, as an ambitious, haughty, and unrelenting man, deceitful also and treacherous, his whole pontificate one record of evil'[17]. Many other Popes (not to mention one woman who masqueraded as a man but gave birth to a child during a procession from St Peter's to the Lateran, whereupon she died) - were guilty of abominations too numerous to list here.

In later years, the Pope, who stands in the place of Christ, was blasphemously pronounced to be Christ Himself. On 20th June 1894, Pope Leo XIII pronounced that 'we hold on earth the place of God Almighty'; and on 9th January 1870, the Vatican Council had proclaimed: 'The Pope is Christ in office, Christ in jurisdiction and power... we bow down before thy voice, O Pius, as before the voice of Christ, the God of truth; in clinging to thee, we cling to Christ'. Given such a dreadful background, it is indeed hardly surprising that the Jews have likewise clung over the centuries, in the face of such abominations, to the misapprehensions of their earlier leaders under Caiaphas.

THE JEWISH KABBALISTIC CONTRIBUTION AND DIMENSION

Moreover, such, historically, have been the provocations of evil men calling themselves Christians over the centuries, that it is almost reasonable to sympathise with decisions believed to have been constructively taken by Jewish leaders to undermine what they considered to be Christianity, which they cannot, or refuse to, distinguish from the Word of Jesus Christ - even though even a brief examination of Jesus' legacy leaves no doubt that the man-made, organised Christian churches are, for the most part, gross, blasphemous aberrations. The issue of Jewish influence within, or of cooperation and annexation via the Illuminati of, Freemasonry has been the subject of debate for a century and a half. On 3rd August 1855, Dr Isaac M. Wise, a Mason, published an editorial in the US journal "The Israelite', which contained the following 'illuminating' paragraph:

'Masonry is a Jewish institution whose history, Degrees, charges, passwords and explanations are Jewish from the beginning to the end, with the exception of only one by-Degree and a few words in the obligation'.

This statement was cited by Samuel Oppenheim in an article[18] published by the American Jewish Historical Society in 1910, in which this Jewish non-Mason elaborated:

'That the connection of Jews with Masonry in the early history of the United States was of benefit to them, as well as that it was to the advancement of The Order, is probably [sic] true, though little has been written on the subject by Jewish historians. An examination of the various publications accessible here [in New York], relating to Masonry, reveals the names of Jews who have often been mentioned in works treating of their race, and who have been representative men in their respective States. Their names appear in lists of members of the subordinate and Grand Lodges of many of the original thirteen States. They were, however, always a small minority in the few Lodges with which they were connected. Among their fellow members or those with whom they were brought into relation through Masonry were men prominent in the affairs of the nation. Several Jews are known to have been members of the Lodge with which Governor Oglethorpe, of Georgia, was connected. In the Lodge to which Washington belonged, a Jew... was a member. Jews, also, were members of the Lodge to which belonged Edmund Randolph and John Marshall, of Virginia, and DeWitt Clinton, of New York, all of whom were Grand Masters in their respective States. In Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, and South Carolina, prominent non-Jewish names were likewise met with as members of Lodges to which Jews were admitted. The relationship of Jews to The Order brought them naturally more directly into contact with their Christian brethren than would otherwise probably have been the case...'[19]. Note the author's use of the phrase The Order to describe Freemasonry, when he is really referring to The Order of the Illuminati. The use of this phrase by Jesuits, Opus Dei, Ordo Templi Orientis and innumerable others perpetrating Works of Darkness is indicative of the fact that all these organisations are instruments of Lucifer and either collaborate with, or are integrated within, the Illuminati. Three words are purposely omitted from all usage of this 'universal' phrase The Order', namely 'of the Quest': it stands in fact for 'The Order of the Quest'. The Brotherhood is 'The Brotherhood of the Quest' which is engaged in seeking 'happiness for all mankind', without Jesus Christ. If the words 'of the Quest' were added, the various compartmentalised sects would betray that they are of the Rosucrucian Illuminati.

Later in his analysis, Samuel Oppenheim reported that 'a consideration of what has been said herein shows the probability of Jews having been the first to introduce Masonry into the Colonies, and that the period of their greatest activity as Masons in

THE MASONIC 'NEW AGE' 'ALL ROADS LEAD TO GOD' LIE

FALSE BOAST OF THE ILLUMINATI MASONS

'Freemasonry is simply theosophy. It is the perpetuation of the worship of the old pagan gods of ancient Egypt, Greece, India, etc.....The contention is that God revealed himself ages ago, long before the Christian era, to the whole world; and that there is no essential difference between the gods of this land or of that'[1]. In other words, pagan deities are equated with Jesus Christ - which is to say, gods that represent devils, purport to be indistinguishable from Christ. Satan turns all truth upside down.

This familiar lie is repeated ad nauseam today by those who, out of ignorance or perversity, insist that the various organised 'religions' are all concerned with seeking the same God - so that it is as possible to blaspheme against false gods and prophets, as it is possible to blaspheme against The Lord. Yves Marsaudon (Scottish Rite) praised the so-called 'ecumenism' nurtured by Vatican II, thus: 'Catholics... must not forget that all roads lead to God. And they will have to [sic] accept that this courageous idea of free-thinking, which we can really call a revolution, pouring forth from our Masonic Lodges, has spread magnificently over the dome of St Peter's'[2].

This confirmation that the assault against Christianity (both as inadequately represented by the organised 'Christian' churches and by True Christianity based on the Word) is indeed a Masonic assault (driven in parallel of course by the Illuminati penetration within Freemasonry), is supported by numerous insiders, whose opinionated arrogance has provided yet further ample proof of this dimension of the Luciferian conspiracy. For instance, in Le Catholicisme Liberal [1969, repeated by Lefebvre, (see Note 2), page 100], Marcel Prelot, a French Senator and of course a Freemason, proclaimed that 'we had struggled for a century and a half to bring our opinions [sic!] to prevail with the Church and had not succeeded. Then came Vatican II, and we triumphed'[3]. In reality, they only 'succeeded' in penetrating a false representation of the Truth.

They did not succeed in the true sense: for it is a fact that evil spirit(s) will respond and consent to being cast out exclusively by Jesus Christ - a reality that will be confirmed by any genuine Christian exorcist, and which, in the Author's experience, provides the conclusive, unchallengeable proof of the unique divinity of Jesus Christ. The Author was made definitively aware of this by his friend, the late Dr Malachi Martin; but it is confirmed in Mark, Chapter 16, verse 17: 'And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my Name shall they cast out devils'.

Moreover the devils know him. for instance, the man who met Jesus in the country of the Gadarenes 'who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains'; who. with the gargantuan strength of the possessed, repeatedly broke his chains and fetters, and who 'always, night and day... was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying and cutting himself with stones', did something quite remarkable: 'When he saw Jesus AFAR OFF' - not close up but AFAR OFF - he 'ran and worshipped him, And cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the most High God: I adjure thee by God, that thou torment me not'[4]. For, indeed: The devils also believe, and tremble'[5].

Obviously, if devils can be cast out ONLY by the Name of Jesus Christ, as is the case, they cannot be cast out by the names of Confucius, Buddha, Mahommed, Matreya, or even by the name of Mary. Likewise, 'no man cometh to the Father, but by me'[6]. ■

Notes and references:

[1] 'The Menace of Freemasonry to the Christian Faith', Rev. C. Penney Hunt, The Freedom Press, Breaston, Derby, 1930, page 8. The title of this work is misleading, as it implies that the Christian faith might be 'defeated' by Freemasonry. However Christ taught us that The Gates of Hell shall not Prevail' against the great faith demonstrated by Peter and all the Lord's true followers, in His Word, and in our knowledge, through faith, that Jesus is indeed The Way, the Truth and the Life' and that, contrary to what all who claim that other gods are equal to Him, 'No man cometh to God save through me'.

[2] Quoted in Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, 'An Open letter to Confused Catholics', Kansas City, Angelus Press, 1992, page 89; cited by John Vennari in The Permanent Instruction of the Alta Vendita: A Masonic Blueprint for the Subversion of the Catholic Church', pages 23-24.

[3] Cited by John Vennari, op. cit., page 24.

[4] Mark, Chapter 5, verses 1-19.

[5] General Epistle of James, Chapter 2, verse 19.

[6] John, Chapter 14, verse 6.

the early history of the Republic was between 1780 and 1810. The Jews described in this paper were men of parts and character, and distinguished in the early American annals of their people. Their connection with The Order [unstated: 'of the Illuminati'/ 'of the Quest'] was no doubt of significant benefit to their coreligionists, as it was to themselves, and brought them into relations with many not of their race, prominent in the official and civil life of the country, who were also members of the fraternity. Nearly all were members of the Hebrew congregations in the cities where they resided'.

'Though it is not maintained that [it was] because they were Masons [that] they arranged during 1790 for the loyal addresses of their various congregations in Washington yet the facts presented herein may very well be considered in support of a theory that their connection with The Order made them feel doubly desirous to join in the welcome to the head of the nation, who like themselves was a Mason. The singular fact stands out that in Newport, the Jewish master of the Masonic Lodge delivered, on behalf of his Lodge, the first Masonic Address to Washington as President, at the same time that he delivered his address on behalf of his congregation, and that many members of the Hebrew congregations in New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, in Charleston and Savannah which likewise addressed Washington, were also Masons'[20].

From this singular evidence alone, it is crystal clear that active and overt Jewish penetration of operational (as opposed to dogmatic) Freemasonry in the United States had taken place prior to the country's occult Revolution, which was an operation of geomasonic forces based in Europe. For Jews versed in their rabbinical Kabbalistic literature, participation in Masonic Lodges did not entail any 'culture shock' or impose any learning curve, especially in the US context, since the Fraternity of the Rosy Cross -Kabbalistic occultists in the English Elizabethan tradition of Jewish alchemy and sorcery - claimed to have been directly responsible for fomenting the American Revolution itself.

ROSE CROIX, THE 'ORDER OF THE QUEST' AND THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Manly P. Hall's extremely rare occult work, referred to above, entitled 'An Encyclopedic Outline of Masonic, Hermetic, Kabbalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolical Philosophy: Being an Interpretation of the Secret Teachings concealed within the Rituals, Allegories and Mysteries of All Ages', contains the following passage which needs to be cited before this Author will reveal the Jewish Kabbalistic pedigree of the sect of the Rosicrucians, whose primary 'prophet' was Sir Francis Bacon, the Elizabethan and Jacobean sorcerer and mystic (and the probable author of the works of Shakespeare as is clearly revealed in Hall's cited work): The Fraternity of R.C. [Rosy Cross - the Rosicrucians - Ed.] is an august and sovereign body, arbitrarily manipulating the symbols of alchemy, Qabbalism, astrology and magic to the attainment of its own peculiar purposes, but entirely independent of the cults whose terminology it employs'.

The three major objects of the Fraternity are:

1. 'The abolition of all monarchical forms of government' [with the exception, for varying transitional periods, perhaps, of any 'collaborating monarchies', such as those of Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands - Ed.] 'and the substitution therefor of the ruler-ship of the philosophical elect. The present democracies are the direct outgrowth of Rosicrucian efforts to liberate the masses from the domination of despotism'. [This explains why the globalist elite and key Illuminati figures manipulate the 'left-wing' and 'right-wing' dialectical 'opposites' to procure the 'democratic' outcomes that they seek, and why they openly regard democracy as a temporary, interim, transitory, disposable phase which is scheduled for abolition: hence, for instance, the anti-democratic structures of the corrupt European Union Collective - Ed.]. In his Rosicrucian-Masonic treatise, Hall wrote that 'in the early part of the eighteenth century the Rosicrucians turned their attention to the new American Colonies, then forming the nucleus of a great nation in the New World. The American War of Independence represents their first great political experiment and resulted in the establishment of a national government founded upon the fundamental principles of divine and natural law [sic!]. 'As an imperishable reminder of their sub rosa activities, the Rosicrucians left the Great Seal of the United States' [see Figure 47, page 281]. The Rosicrucians were also the instigators of the French Revolution, but in this instance were not wholly successful, owing to the fact that the fanaticism of the revolutionists could not be controlled and the Reign of Terror ensued' [a phenomenon that was replicated after 1917 in Russia, and to which Manly P. Hall, who was living and writing in the immediate aftermath of the Soviet Revolution, carefully omitted to allude - Ed.].

2. The reformation of science, philosophy and ethics: "The Rosicrucians declared that the material arts and sciences were but shadows of the divine wisdom' [sic!] 'and that only by penetrating the innermost recesses of Nature could man attain to reality and understanding. Though calling themselves 'Christians' [sic!], the Rosicrucians were evidently Platonists and also profoundly versed in the deepest [occult] mysteries of early Hebrew and Hindu theology. There is undeniable evidence that the Rosicrucians desired to re-establish the institutions of the 'Ancient Mysteries' as the foremost method of instructing humanity in 'the secret and eternal doctrine. Indeed, being in all probability the perpetuators of the 'Ancient Mysteries', the Rosicrucians were able to maintain themselves against the obliterating forces of dogmatic Christianity [i.e. the dogmatic assertions of the Church of Rome, which they confused with 'the simplicity that is in Chrisf - Ed.] only by absolute secrecy, and by the subtlety of their subterfuges. They so carefully guarded and preserved the Supreme Mystery - the identity and interrelationship of the Three Selves - that no-one to whom they did not of their own accord reveal themselves has ever secured any satisfactory information regarding either the existence or the purpose of The Order. The fraternity of R.C., through its outer organization, is gradually creating an environment or body in which the Illustrious Brother C.R.C. [sic: Lucifer - Ed.] may ultimately incarnate and consummate for humanity the vast spiritual and material labors of the Fraternity'.

[Here, Hall anticipates the supremacy and hegemony of the Chief Rosicrucian, identifiably the blasphemous Christ Rose Croix, who is Lucifer - an intention epitomised and accelerated by such abominations as the foul revelling in Satanic exhibitionism of the reprobate Finnish 'Lordi', who 'won' the Eurovision Song Contest, a platform controlled by Illuminati forces, on 20th May 2006. We have to proceed now beyond this indication that the Rosicrucians, who are attached to and were the first to infiltrate Freemasonry, consider themselves to be the absolute custodians of the occult secrets of the 'Ancient Mysteries': it has been included here to show that the United States is a creation of the British custodians of Jewish kabbalistic sorcery, who left knowledge of their intent on the Great Seal of the United States - Ed.].

3. [And because they seek immortality on earth, and seek to prolong human life indefinitely as they secretly know that, having rejected Christ despite their absurd protestations to the contrary, they are destined for permanent spiritual and physical death - Ed.]: 'The discovery of the Universal Medicine, or panacea, for all forms of disease'. [It is no coincidence that it is in the United States that mass hypochondria is the most extreme, preoccupation with the taking of pills is a mass fetish, and where giant pharmaceutical companies occupy pride of place alongside their occultic global energy corporation collaborators, in the hierarchy of US Illuminist organisations pledged to the realisation of these Rosicrucian dream-fantasies of Lucif-erian origin]. There is ample evidence that the Rosicrucians were successful in their quest for the Elexir of Life. In his 'Theatrum Chemicum Britannicum', [the Rosicrucian occultist] Sir Elias Ashmole stated that the Rosicrucians were not appreciated at that time in England, but were welcomed on the Continent. He also stated that Queen Elizabeth was twice cured of the smallpox by the Brethren of the Rosy Cross, and that the Earl of Norfolk was healed of leprosy by a Rosicrucian physician... It is hinted by John Heydon [see below] that the Brothers of the Fraternity possessed the secret of prolonging human existence indefinitely.. .'[21].

In another work, entitled The Secret Destiny of America[22], Manly R Hall stated unequivocally that the United States was meant to be and to procure the fulfilment of the aspirations of The Brotherhood of The Order of The Quest, and he elaborated that alchemists, the Illuminati of Italy (ultimately led by Giuseppe Mazzini), the Knights of the Holy Grail in Northern Europe, 'Christian and Jewish Kabbalists' and 'the Rosicrucians in their hidden houses [who] used the Rose of Sharon as the symbol of brotherly love, a simple rearrangement of the letters r-o-s-e becoming e-r-o-s, the Greek God of [physical - Ed.] love, Eros. ...All these groups belong to what is called The Order of the Quest. All were searching for one and the same thing under a variety of rituals and symbols. That one thing was a perfected social order, Plato's commonwealth, the government of the philosopher-king'[23] [and his self-selected cohorts - Ed.].

Then Hall reveals how the occult Rosicrucians, who, as we have seen, regarded themselves as custodians of the 'Ancient Mysteries' and were dominated in Elizabethan and Jacobean England by Sir Francis Bacon, were responsible for the conversion of the Masonic (stone cathedral-building) guilds into the co-custodians of occult gobbldegook (speculative Masonry), in the following revealing passage:

'About the middle of the 17th century [the Baconian sorcerer - Ed.] Sir Elias Ashmole, patron of the liberal arts and founder of the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford, was initiated into the guild of the operative Freemasons of London, the first non-craftsman to be permitted membership. From that time on, the entire pattern of the guilds was changed, and speculative Masonry came to dominate the older form of the craft [i.e., it became witchcraft - Ed.], and the intellect builder came into his own. One veil of the old symbolism was lifted, to reveal in full clarity that the guilds were dedicated to a program social and political. In this way, the old dream of the philosophic [occultic, Luciferian - Ed.] empire descended from the ancient world to modern time. Secret societies still exist, and regardless of the intemperance of the times, they will continue to flourish until The Quest is complete. For more than three thousand years, secret societies [synarchy - Ed.] have labored to create the background of [esoteric, Kabbalistic -Ed.] knowledge necessary to the establishment of an enlightened democracy among the nations of the world'[24].

What was the precise connection between the Rosicrucians and the Jewish Kabbalists? It was manifestly close, both intellectually and, this Author suspects, physically; for several of their number, including John Heydon (Haydar) and Sir Elias Ash(er)mole, show signs of Jewish extraction. To complete this part of the analysis, it is necessary, finally, to cite a further passage in which the Jewish Kabbalistic-Babylonian connection is explicitly revealed; and this passage, too, is taken from Manly P. Hall's 'An Encyclopedic Outline of Masonic, Hermetic, Kabbalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolical Philosophy: Being an Interpretation of the Secret Teachings concealed within the Rituals, Allegories and Mysteries of All Ages', which extremely rare document contains the following passage:

'Johann Valentin Andreae is generally reputed to be the author of the 'Confessio' [context omitted here - Ed.]. It is a much-mooted question, however, whether Andreae did not permit his name to be used as a pseudonym by Sir Francis Bacon. Apropos of this subject are two extremely significant references occurring in the introduction to that remarkable potpourri, 'The Anatomy of Melancholy'. This volume first appeared in 1621 from the pen of Democritus Junior, who was afterwards defined as Robert Burton, who, in turn, was a suspected intimate of Sir Francis Bacon. One reference archly suggests that at the time of publishing 'The Anatomy of Melancholy' in 1621, the founder of the Fraternity of R. C. [the Rosicrucians - Ed.] was still alive. This statement - concealed from general recognition by its textual involvement - has escaped the notice of most students of Rosicrucianism. In the same work, there also appears a short footnote of stupendous import. It contains merely the words: 'John. Valent. Andreas, Lord Veru-lam'. This single line alone definitely relates Johan Valentin Andreae to Sir Francis Bacon, who was Lord Verulam, and by its punctuation intimates that they are one and the same individual'.

From this, it is clear that the remodeller of the (German-originating) Rosicrucians was Sir Francis Bacon himself. The text from Manly R Hall's rare work continues as follows, confirming that the Rosicrucians had adopted and integrated the sorcery of the Babylonian Kabbalah into their 'philosophy', and that John Heydon was one of the primary collectors and integrators of this tradition into the Rose Croix:

'Prominent among Rosicrucian apologists was John Heydon, who inscribes himself 'A Servant of God, and a Secretary of Nature''. In his curious work, 'The Rosie Cross Uncovered', he gives an enigmatic but valuable description of the Fraternity of the R.C. in the following language':

'''Now there are a kind of men, as they themselves report, namely Rosie Crucians, divine [words missing] officers of the Generalissimo of the World [i.e., the Prince of this World, a.k.a. Satan. a.k.a. Lucifer - Ed.], that are as the eyes and ears of the great King [Lucifer - Ed.], seeing and hearing all things: they say these Rosie Crucians are seraph-ically illuminated, as Moses was, according to this order of the elements, earth refin'd to water, water to air, air to fire'. He further declares that these mysterious Brethren possessed polymorphous powers, appearing in any desired form at will. In the preface of the same work he enumerates the strange powers of the Rosicrucian adepts:

''I shall tell you what the Rosie Crucians are, and that Moses was their Father...; some say they were of the order of Elias, some say the Disciples of Ezekiel; * * * For it should seem Rosie Crucians were not only initiated into the Mosaical theory, but have arrived also to the power of working miracles, as Moses, Elias, Ezekiel, and the succeeding Prophets did, as being transported where they please, as Habakkuk was from Jewry to Babylon, or as Philip, after he had baptised the Eunuch to Azorus [Acts, 8,40], and one of these went from me to a friend in Devonshire, and came and brought me an answer to London the same day, which is four days' journey; they taught me excellent predictions of astrology and earthquakes; they slack the Plague in Cities; they silence the violent Winds and Tempests; they calm the rage of the Sea and Rivers; they walk in the Air; they frustrate the malicious aspects of Witches; they cure all Diseases'''.

'The writings of John Heydon are considered a most important contribution to Rosicrucian literature. John Heydon was probably related to Sir Christopher Heydon, "a Seraphically Illuminated Rosie Crucian", whom the late F. Leigh Gardner, Hon. Secretary Soc. Ros. in Anglia, believes to have been the source of his Rosicrucian knowledge. John Heydon travelled extensively, visiting Arabia, Egypt, Persia, and various parts of Europe, as related in a biographical introduction to his work, 'THE Wise-Mans Crown, Set with Angels, Planets, Metals, etc., or the Glory of the Rosie Cross' - a work declared by him to be a translation into English of the mysterious book M brought from Arabia by Christian Rosencreuz'". [M is the 13th letter of the alphabet - Ed.]. The Kabbalistic magick, which is the essence of Rosicrucianism, was thus scooped up along with Middle Eastern Sufism, of which the (very dark) Emirs of Kuwait are custodians to this day.

In summary, the following important connections emerge:

1. The Patriarch of the Rosicrucians was Sir Francis Bacon.

2. Rosicrucian 'philosophy' incorporates the entire content of the Kabbalah's sorcery, alchemy, divination, astrology and other abominations [per Manly P. Hall's rare work].

3. 'Babylonian' Jews appear to have collected Kabbalistic secrets for incorporation into Rosicrucian 'philosophy' and to have promulgated the Babylonian dimension of the 'Ancient Mysteries' in Elizabethan and Jacobean England, collaborating with the Rosicrucians to maximise the potential of this connection.

4. Sir Elias Ashmole, a Jew and a leading Rosicrucian, was accepted into the 'guild of the operative' [i.e., practical - Ed.] 'Freemasons in London' in the middle of the 17th century, being the first non-craftsman to be so admitted; and from this position, he spearheaded the conversion of the powerful secret guilds (which had remained secret societies since their foundation in the first millennium, so as to preserve their building secrets and thus to be able to maintain desired pricing structures, like a sort of professional cartel -Ed.). By this means initially, Masonry was, from the outset of its new 'speculative' (occult) manifestation, permeated with the sorcery of the Babylonian-Jewish Kabbalah.

5. Jews occupied powerful and influential positions within Masonic Lodges in the United States long before the Masonic Revolution, which they welcomed enthusiastically, having been involved in its planning.

6. The Revolutionary United States was founded in a Masonic Lodge in Philadelphia, was later endowed with a capital city which is laid out (as is well known) to replicate various Masonic symbols, is driven by Rosicrucian-controlled Freemasonry, and was provided with a Great Seal which contains the R. C. secrets of its purpose. The Great Seal was imposed upon the new Republic by the Kabbalistic Rosicrucians 'as an imperishable reminder of their sub-rosa activities'. Later the Rosicrucians tried to pull the same trick in France, but initially failed, though a precedent was set for later upheavals.

It would appear that the United Kingdom was prevailed upon, coerced or otherwise persuaded to abandon her global Empire as a quid pro quo for the United States' assistance during the Second World War. At some stage during the War, the United Kingdom was made to understand that the Rosicrucian mission of the Revolutionary United States remained to be fulfilled and that a unity of purpose would be essential in order for these plans for global hegemony to be realised. Implementation of the Rosicrucian project for a 'New World' - that is to say, to be New World-driven - Order, which was initiated by Sir Francis Bacon and his secret affiliates on the Continent, especially France, the Netherlands and Germany, was not to be impeded any longer. It was, however, delayed by the Cold War, and is used as cover by the Nazi International dimension of German Illuminism.

THE ROSICRUCIAN GREAT SEAL OF THE UNITED STATES CLEARLY PROMULGATES THAT THE NATION'S GOD IS LUCIFER

ANNUIT COEPTIS
MDCCLXXVI
NOVUS ORDO SECLORUM
E PLURIBUS UNUM

Figure 47: The reverse and obverse of the Great Seal of the United States. The face of the pyramid, exclusive of the panel containing the date 1776, consists of 72 (for the mathematical financial Babylonian Rule of 72) stones arranged in 13 rows. The mystical number 13, revered by the mind-controlled geomasonic elite, is used prolifically both on the Great Seal and of course on the $1.0 dollar bill, which Americans use without realising that they are employing Luciferian money for their small transactions. On the $1.0 bill and the Great Seal there are 13 leaves in the olive branches, 13 bars and stripes in the shield, 13 feathers in the tail, 13 arrows, 13 letters in 'E Pluribus Unum' on the ribbon, 13 stars in the crest above, 32 long feathers representing the 32nd Degree in Masonry (at which stage the identity of the god they worship is revealed), 13 granite stones in the Pyramid, and 13 letters in Annuit Coeptis. For numerology, derived from Pythagorean arithmomancy, is central to kab-balistic reasoning. It is the geomasonically imposed Rosicrucian occult secret 'destiny' of the United States, as the instrument of a European cabal (from Kabbalah), to lead the world into the 'New Age' (of Aquarius), in which Lucif erian Jewish occultism replaces all traces of true Christianity (impossible) and false Christianity (very likely).

A NATION LIVING UNDER THE CURSE OF ITS OWN OCCULT SYMBOLS

When Benjamin Franklin, who was of Jewish extraction, travelled to France to be honoured by the French State following the American Revolution, he was received by the Lodge of Perfection in Paris, the most famous of all the French Secret Orders. His name, written in his own hand, is to be found in their record ledger, close to that of the Marquis de Lafayette. According to Manly P. Hall, writing in 'The Secret Destiny of America', 'Franklin spoke for the Order of the Quest, and most of the men who worked with him in the early days of the American Revolution were also members. The plan was working out, the New Atlantis was coming into being, in accordance with the program laid down by Francis Bacon a hundred and fifty years earlier. The rise of American democracy was necessary to a world program'[25]. Here, then, we have the confirmation that the United States is a Rosicrucian, and therefore Kabbalistic, creation, built upon the foundation of the Christian Colonies, the Christian tradition of which it usurped: hence the US legal prohibition of the teaching of religion (i.e., Christianity) in state schools'.

Unsurprisingly, therefore, the Great Seal of the United States, being a devious Rosicrucian concoction, is jam-packed with esoteric, occultic symbolism, which is replicated throughout the US Federal Government, as is illustrated by the familiar US official symbols and logos shown in Figures 48 and 49 on pages 289 and 293. Americans only became aware of what was on the reverse side of the Great Seal when it appeared on the one-dollar bill, in the Series 1935A.

The Statue of Liberty, which the whole world thinks of as representing freedom - is not what it seems, either. According to the American Christian analyst, Berit Kjos, 'Torch races date back to the ancient Greeks. A sanctuary in Olympia dedicated to the goddess Hestia, sister of Zeus, housed glowing embers which, every four years, would be fanned into flame by the winning athletes. To preserve the purity and power of the fire, it had to be moved with speed. Soon competitions developed to see which individual or group - a relay - could move the torch the fastest. The winner won the honor of lighting the fire in the name of the patron deity of the city'[26].

Freemasons provided the United States with its occult torch-bearing 'goddess': 'Towering above the shimmering but polluted waters she holds in her outreached arm and hand a torch of fire and light. A gift of the Masonic Order [of the Quest - Ed.], the modern inheritors of the Illuminati heritage, the Statue of Liberty was sculptured by Frederic Bartholdi [of Jewish extraction - Ed.], a member of the Masonic Lodge of Alsace-Lorraine. In Paris, France, the statue is significant to the secret societies [synar-chy - Ed.] plotting the New World Order'[27].

This Author has visited the United States many times annually since 1977, having visited earlier when living in Canada in the early 1960s. On almost every occasion, his visits to Washington, DC have coincided with some scandal or other. The impression gained by a non-resident is that Washington is a city in which scandals and corruption proliferate - a state of affairs that has probably never been worse than it is today. In mid-2006, US colleagues were openly in despair at the catalogue of scandals that had enveloped the Republican Party under President George W. Bush. But London has acquired a similar reputation, with elements of British intelligence engaged, like their US counterparts, in drug-trafficking operations, and thus committing crimes against humanity - specifically, their own people. Following the exposure by the Author's financial journal in October 2005 of horrendous institutionalised looting at the European Commission, the UK press, accessories to the corruption, stayed silent.

SYMBOLS OF KABBALISTIC SORCERY AND THE OCCULT ON THE GREAT SEAL OF THE UNITED STATES

Given his status as a primary historian and interpreter of Kabbalistic geomasonry, Manly P. Hall's explanations for esoteric sorcery symbolism on the Great seal of the United States must be taken seriously. The following explanations are taken from his book The Secret Destiny of America' [ISBN 0-89314-388-X], 1944, pages 126 et seq.:

- Phoenix: In mythology, the Pheonix lives for 500 years; only one bird lives at any one time; and at its death its body opens and a new-born Phoenix emerges. The Phoenix thus represents immortality and resurrection (reincarnation). It is used as an emblem of power, superiority, immortality. Represents the signature of The Order of the Quest.
- The Great Pyramid of Gizeh: The pyramid is composed of 13 (occult number) rows of Masonry, showing 72 stones. The pyramid is without a capstone. 'No trace has ever been found of the cap of the Great Pyramid. A flat platform about thirty feet square gives no indication that this part of the structure was ever otherwise finished; and this is appropriate, as the Pyramid represents human society itself, imperfect, incomplete. The Great Pyramid was believed by ancient Egyptians to be the tomb of the god Hermes, or Thot, the personification of Universal Wisdom.
- The 72 stones: This represents the Kabbalistic mathematical 'power of 72' phenomenon on which the Babylonian fiat money system is based. The 72 stones are also the 72 arrangements of the Tetragrammaton, or four-lettered name of God in Hebrew. These four letters can be combined in 72 combinations, resulting in what is called the Shemhamforesh, 'which represents, in turn, the laws, powers, and energies of Nature by which the perfection of man is achieved' [sic].
- Obverse of the Great Seal: The obverse of the Great Seal of the United States has been used by the Department of State since 1782, but the reverse was not cut at that time because it was regarded as a symbol of a secret society and not the proper device for a sovereign state'.
- The All-seeing Eye: Manly P. Hall writes: The pyramid is without a capstone, and above its upper platform floats a triangle containing the All-Seeing Eye surrounded by rays of light'. Dr Cathy Burns, the US author of 'Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated' [Sharing, Mount Carmel, PA, 1998] devoted a complete chapter [Chapter 20] on the All-Seeing Eye, which appears on MI5's symbol [Figure 1, on page 3]. It is one of the most prominent symbols of the Illuminati. In Masonry, the eye is used to represent Osiris. Albert Pike, the sorcerer and Grand Patriarch of modern US Freemasonry, stated that the All-Seeing Eye is 'the emblem of Osiris, the Creator' ['Morals and Dogma', op. tit, pages 15-16]. The All-seeing Eye is found in Egypt India and elsewhere in the world, as symbolic of the supreme occult power. Pike further explained that 'the Blazing Star has been regarded an an emblem of Omniscience, or the All-Seeing Eye.... It has the Kabbalistic meaning of the Divine Energy, manifested as Light, creating the Universe' ['Morals and Dogma', op. cit., page 16].

On 15th September 2005, 16 'cooperating' nations took part in a stage of a six-week military exercise called Exercise Bright Star, during which fixed-wing aircraft from the 13th US Marine Expeditionary Unit (Special Operations Capable) force and three other countries carried out a fly-past (in US English, a fly-by) above the Great Pyramid. A total of 8,000 US troops were operating in Northern Egypt (the PRIZE: see page 231] for the duration of the exercise. Details of this exercise were posted on the US Marine Corps' website, which has a jet-black background. ALL websites with a black background are Illuminati sites. Sergeant Justin R. Peterson, of Dearborn, Michigan, was quoted on the website as making the following Masonic observation: 'It was basically a multinational handshake'. The 16 nations taking part in the Exercise were from what the Illuminati Rosicrucian capos of the New Underworld Order project call the 'Functioning Core'. ■

ENGLISH AND GERMAN KABBALISM IN EARLY AMERICA

Sir Francis Bacon's Kabbalistic secret Society of the Rosie Cross 'was set up in America before the middle of the 17th century', according to Manly P. Hall, so that by the time of the American Revolution, the True Christian basis of the Colonies had been severely compromised by this Babylonian-occult infusion. 'Bacon himself had given up all hope of bringing his dream to fruition in his own country, and he concentrated his attention on rooting it in the New World [HENCE the slogan-phrase: 'New World Order']. He made sure that the American colonists were thoroughly indoctrinated with the [Illuminati's seemingly innocuous] principles of religious tolerance, political democracy, and of social equality. Through carefully appointed representatives, the machinery of democracy [which the Illuminists need to install in order to be able to manipulate the 'mechanistic' dialectical 'opposite' forces that they create - Ed.] was set up at least a hundred years before the period of the Revolutionary War'[28].

The Rosicrucians had meanwhile developed relationships and virile centres of Kabbalistic esoteric operations on the European Continent, having 'gone international' from their earliest years, as Hall elaborated:

'Bacon's secret society [the Rosicrucians - Ed.] was not limited to England; it was most powerful in Germany, in France, and in The Netherlands, and most of the leaders of European thought were involved in the vast pattern of his purpose. The mystic empire of the wise [sic, i.e. of sorcery] had no national boundaries and its citizenry was made up of men of good purpose [sic! Remember: the Devil turns everything upside down: this should read 'bad purpose', of course - Ed.] in every land. The Alchemists, Kabbalists, Mystics and Rosicrucians [i.e., soothsayers and sorcerers - Ed.] were the incisive instruments of Bacon's plan. Representatives of these groups migrated to the Colonies at an early date and set up their organization in suitable places'[29].

And the German dimension manifested itself from a very early stage, revealing that the German branch of Kabbalistic sorcery and Illuminism was engaged in America from the late 17th century onwards. Given this background, it is no longer hard to understand how it has come to pass that German Illuminism has such a brutal stranglehold within the US official, corporate and financial sector structures. 'One example', Hall explains, 'will illustrate the trend. About 1690, the German Pietist theologian, Magistar Johannes Kelpius, sailed for America with a group of followers all of whom practiced mystical and esoteric rites. These Pietists settled in Pennsylvania and their descendants still flourish in Lancaster County. Kelpius for some years lived as an Anchorite in a cave located in what is now Fairmont Park, Philadelphia. The Pietists brought with them the writings of the German Jewish mystic, Jacob Boehme, books on magic, astrology, alchemy, and the Kabbalah'. The Rosicrucians first emerged in 14th century Germany, long before Bacon hijacked their occult fantasies.

In 1627, Bacon had published his 'New Atlantis', as a kind of appendix to a work called 'Sylva Sylvarum', a natural history of ten centuries. It showed the figure of an ancient creature representing Time drawing a female figure out of a dark cavern. The meaning of this illustration is that through time, the 'hidden truth' shall be revealed. Manly P. Hall explained in 'The Secret Destiny of America' that 'this figure is one of the most famous of the seals or symbols of The Order of the Quest[30]. The document contained a single reference to a secret society and revealed allegorically that Bacon, having despaired of any prospect of establishing an 'ideal' society in touch with 'hidden forces' (demons), had set his mind on 'enlarging the bounds of human empire'[31] in the Americas.

THE SORCERY OF THE BABYLONIAN KABBALAH AND ITS MANIFESTATIONS

The Kabbalistic Degrees of 'higher' Masonry are in touch with all secret societies, both Masonic and non-masonic. Possession of a Kabbalistic diploma by the member of a non-Masonic Satanic sect enables non-masons to visit Lodges and inner shrines of ordinary Masonry in all countries of the world. This is because the heads of non-Masonic Satanic sects belong to exalted Degrees of the various Masonic rites; and if so requested by subordinates, the heads of such Satanic organisations will provide diplomas or documents providing entry to any Lodge anywhere, on demand, accompanied by 'sacred' words, and yearly and half-yearly passwords applicable to all the Masonic rites everywhere. All kabbalists indulge in necromancy, the forbidden practice of evoking the spirits 'of the dead', a component of the 'Ancient Mysteries' which the Luciferians seek to have enthroned as the international norm for all mankind.

However since Satan and his demons are the authors of lies and deception, spirits of the dead evoked in Satanic ceremonies or in occult seances are never those of the dead person in question, but are invariably evil spirits masquerading as such. These truths were even recognised by Carl Hackse, who made an extensive study of occultism under the pseudonym Dr Bataille in Le Diable au XIXe Ciecle[32]:

'According to the teaching of the Christian Churches, God allows demons certain limited powers, but they are not permitted to open the Gates of Hell and release a spirit at the request of one who evokes the dead. The dead, even damned, will not show themselves if evoked, nor would evocations be answered by those who had succeeded in attaining the Kingdom of Heaven, but the devils can and do, says the Church, substitute themselves for the deceased. They will impersonate a dead person whose appearance is demanded by invocations'. The Church is correct about this.

The Kabbalah is Occult Science itself, the secret Satanic theology of the initiates. So, when the 'ascending' Mason reaches the Kabbalistic Degrees, he becomes involved in Satanic invocations - as the Kabbalah, the Babylonian secret religion which has polluted Judaism and Freemasonry, teaches magic, or the art of intercourse with spirits and supernatural beings. The rare work by Manly P. Hall to which references have been made contains specific instructions on how to summon the Devil himself. Any such activity, which is typically facilitated by drug-taking, is extremely dangerous, opening the perpetrator to the possibility of demonic infestation, even possession. Once possessed, the victim can only escape by a stupendous excercise of will and through the acknowledgement of the supremacy, with his or her own lips, of Jesus Christ - the one and only Name to which Evil Spirit will respond, and of which it is terrified.

No human being can fully understand why it is that these spiritual phenomena exist. However this Author realised the truth of these matters as soon as he understood what has been stated above - namely, that it is a well-attested fact, acknowledged by all genuine, prayerful exorcists, that there is precisely ONE, and ONLY ONE, means of casting out devils - and that is through the Name and commandment of Jesus Christ. Only those who are 'right with Christ can perform exorcisms in safety.

Likewise, it is hazardous to confront directly those who are driven by the 'seething energies of Lucifer'. Precautions have to be taken. For example one should never, ever, accept an invitation to a meal or drinks with any of these 'Dark Actors Playing Games', for fear of suffering the fate of poor, brave Andy Stephenson, Mozart or David Kelly. The involvement of heads of government in sanctioning assassinations today is more widespread than most people realise, reflecting the scale of modern official criminalism.

COMMON SORCERY AND DIVINATION TECHNIQUES

There are two categories of Kabbalistic magic: divining magic, subdivided into several branches, and operative magic. Subdivisions of divining magic include:

- Astrology: Divination of the future by the stars (the Biblical 'host of heaven'), of which the casting of horoscopes is its most prevalent practice.
- Palmistry: Divination of the future by 'reading the hand'.
- Oneirocritics: Divination of the future via the interpretation of dreams.
- Pyromancy: Divination by fire, as intentionally implied by the Psy-Ops Devil in Mark Phillips' Devil-in-the-Smoke, and the CNN image.
- Cartomancy: Divination by playing cards, which themselves carry occult images. 'The first deck of cards was made for Charles of France in 1392. King Charles was insane. It is not generally known by card players that cards have secret meanings. The King card represents the enemy of God, the Devil. The Ten Spot represents the spirit of lawlessness and is in direct opposition to the Ten Commandments of the Bible. Closely associated with the Ten Spot card is the Club card. When cards were invented, the club was the weapon of the murderer; so the Club card stands for murder.. The Jack represents the lustful libertine who lives off the gains of prostitutes. It represents the moral leper. The Queen card represents the Virgin Mary, the mother of Our Lord. In the secrets of cards, she is called the mother of harlots. The Joker in card language represents our Lord Jesus Christ. Joker means fool. Jesus Christ is held up by card players as a fool. And if this is not bad enough yet, the secret language of cards goes further and declares that Jesus (the Joker card) is the offspring of a lustful Jack, and the Queen Mother, Mary'[33].

The best way to consider these diversionary practices is to treat them with contempt as 'enticements' or 'come-ons' - a fascination for which will be liable, and is intended, to lead the prospective victim towards the 'real thing', which is operative magic, of which the following subdivisions are widely noted: Alchemy and Necromancy, both of which, for instance, are found embedded in the Rosicrucian secrets. When the Author mentioned his awareness of the fact that the rare book by Manly P. Hall contains specific instructions on how to raise 'the Devil', the Catholic expert to whom he was speaking commented: 'Yes, and it works, too'. The Author wondered how he could possibly know this. Other operative magic categories include Magnetic Mesmerism, Theurgy, and various miraculous feats (which are usually frivolous but, if healing is involved, do not yield permanent results). Albert Pike, the Patriarch of American Freemasonry, and the founder of the separate Palladian 'higher' occult Masonic rites, used to boast of demonic manifestations with which he had been associated. Addressing the Supreme Council of Charleston on 20th October 1884, he described what happened at a seance at St Louis: 'We operated the grand rites, and through Sister Ingersoll, who is a first class medium [i.e., capable of invoking evil spirits - Ed.], received astonishing revelations during a solemn Palladian session at which I presided, assisted by Brother Friedman and Sister Warhnburn. Without putting Sister Ingersoll to sleep, we saturated her with the spirit of Ariel himself, but Ariel took possession of her with 329 more spirits of fire and the seance from then on was marvellous [sic]. Sister Ingersoll, lifted into space, floated over the assembly and her garments were suddenly devoured by a flame which enfolded, without burning her. We saw her thus in a state of nudity for over ten minutes. Flitting above our heads, as though borne by an invisible cloud, or upheld by beneficent [sic!] spirits, she answered all questions put to her.... Then Astaroth, in person, revealed himself, flying beside our medium and holding her hand. He breathed upon her and her clothes, returning from nowhere, clothed her again. Finally, Astaroth vanished, and our sister fell gently on to a chair, where, with her head thrown back she gave up Ariel and the 329 spirits who had accompanied him. We counted 330 exhalations in all at the end of this most successful experiment'[34]. So nine demons remained.

Like all who play around with sorcery, Pike was himself fooled by such displays, in which evil spirits, summoned by his sorcery, demonstrated that they could possess any of his associates at any time in response to being raised, and could also be self-expelled by the victim. That is almost unheard of, so the particular deception embedded in this description was the lie that, once possessed, the victim can 'turn possession on and off' as he or she sees fit. That lie, in turn, created the illusion that there could be nothing especially hazardous about such activities - whereas the opposite is the case.

True, some people do not realise that they may be partially possessed: the Author knows of one person who is totally oblivious of this fact, but he has heard 'that voice' emitted by the person concerned, in extreme anger. 'That voice' is always the same, worldwide: it can best be described as resembling the voice of a man speaking from down a drain, and is described by Isaiah [Chapter 29, verse 4, as follows]:

'And thou shalt be brought down, and shalt speak out of the ground, and thy speech shall be low out of the dust, and thy voice shall be, as of one that hath a familiar spirit, out of the ground, and thy speech shall whisper out of the dust'[35].

Albert Pike is known to have established the 'high-occult' Palladian Rite, which is allegedly open by invitation only to Masons who have reached 'high' levels (= low levels) in their respective Lodges. A note in Lady Queenborough's study states, though, as follows: 'In his 'Cyclopedia of Fraternities', Stevens writes that the "Order of the Palladium" was founded in 1730 and soon afterwards introduced in Charleston where it remained inactive until 1886', when Albert Pike rediscovered and revived it. 'It blossomed anew under the name of "reformed Palladium" and gave a new impulse to the traditions of High Masonry. Stevens adds that the Palladium is little known as the number of its members is strictly limited and the deepest secrecy surrounds all its deliberations', which have to do with the worst excesses of sorcery and occultism[36].

ALCHEMY AND THE ELEXIR OF LIFE

The Alchemy dimension of operative magic, practiced by Kabbalists and at all the Kabbalistic levels of Masonry, is called Hermetic Science, and has two objectives:

(a) Discovery of the philosopher's stone, a substance capable of converting metals into gold, but also a metaphor for the creation of wealth out of nothing; and:

(b) Discovery of 'drinkable gold' or the Elexir of Long Life, a magic potion endowed with properties capable of prolonging human life indefinitely, or at least of facilitating in old age the facilities of youth. Although some dismiss the importance of these crackpot notions in the Masonic (or any) context, it is a fact that these 'high' Luciferians crave, and often experience, long life. Because they know that their end will be hellish, and that they are on the fast track to perdition, these people have historically craved a reliable means of defying death and of greatly extending the span of human existence on earth. In 2004, George Bush Sr. celebrated his 80th birthday, and he appeared to be endowed precisely with the faculties of youth. The late Congressman and 'high' Illuminist, Strom Thormund, lived to over a hundred years old, before he finally kicked the bucket.

All Skull and Bones alumni are symbolically 'reincarnated' when they rise from a coffin, and Masons are indoctrinated into the acceptance of the bizarre and erroneous notion of reappearing on earth as another creature or human being after death - a device of Satan to convince them that what they are building on earth will be theirs to enjoy in their next reincarnation, which is of course a pagan fantasy borrowed from eastern religions. The Frontispiece of Manly P. Hall's 'The Lost keys of Freemasonry' [see Figure 16, page 45] shows a Masonic candidate being raised from a coffin by a priest wearing the mask of a lion in the 'Pyramid Mysteries'. The Lion is giving the candidate the Lion's Paw' grip [see Addendum 10, page 734]. This symbolic nonsense inculcates the idea of reincarnation, which is universally accepted by the 'Useful Idiots' who have allowed themselves to be enticed by this slow-motion introduction to sorcery and Lucifer; but the caption reads: 'By this grip the spirit in man, long buried in the sepulchre of substance, is raised to life, and the candidate goes forth as a builder entitled to the wages of an initiate'. It's all gobbldegook and worthy of the utmost contempt.

As for the 'philosopher's stone', which calls for the creation of wealth out of nothing, the secret of how to do this has been perfected in recent years, with the (perfectly legal) practice developed among an extremely select community of intelligence financial engineering experts, of generating colossal sums by the exploitation of collateral. This can be done by means of collateralisation and hypothecation, or, at a simpler level, by leveraging a substantial financial asset with Foreign Bank A, from which additional funds are borrowed, and then deploying a proportion of the additional funds as collateral with Foreign Bank B, with which the same process is repeated. Certain intelligence operatives have been doing this using stolen US Treasury assets, such as the Diamond Certificate worth $1.0 billion, shown in Figures 8 and 9 on pages 26-27. The fact that the Diamond Certificate carries serial numbers that devolve to 666, indicating that the issuance was related to the Vatican, reveals the Illuminati status of the 'Holy See'.

Another dimension of alchemy has historically been the creation of toxins for poisoning purposes - poisoning being the method of assassination most favoured by the Illuminati. The Alchemists knew about microbes and toxins long before modern medical discoveries. Satanic bacteriological laboratories were working for millennia on cultures of bacilli or solutions with lethal toxic properties which, even when, like certain of the most demonic modern poisons, administered in infinitesimal doses, could distribute disease and death whenever judged necessary by the self-appointed 'Masters'. Reiterated historical reports and instances of the administration of poison to targeted individuals, mentioned in classical literature, including Mozart and right up to the 19th century, provide ample evidence of this. In 2005, the Author was informed by a close colleague who has exposed some of the evils being perpetrated by certain dark cadres of the US intelligence community, that a US official with whom the subject of the use of poison was being discussed, had remarked menacingly, as though by way of a deliberate, though covert threat: 'Yes, a lot of that is going on'. In the United States, uttering threats is not in itself a criminal offence, contrary to the situation in the United Kingdom. The friend had in mind the poisoning of the activist Andy Stephenson, who exposed the rigging of the 2004 General Election in the United States through software manipulation.

Figure 48 on page 289 opposite: Being a geomasonic Rosicrucian foundation, a consequence of a Masonic putsch, the United States Government advertises this fact in every possible symbolical way. The best-known emblem is that of the President of the United States, and it is seen whenever he stands at a podium to make some pronouncement or other. The emblems shown, for (A) the (privately-owned) Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, (B) The US House of Representatives, (C) The US Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, (D) The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, (E) The (old) US Public Health Service, (F) The Inspector General of the Department of Defense, (G) The US Naval Oceanographic Office and the drug money-funded Federal Emergency Management Agency, are crawling with occult Masonic content. See also Figure 49.

U.S. GOVERNMENT MASONIC EMBLEMS: 1

BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

A

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

B

U.S. EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION

C

BUREAU OF ALCOHOL, TOBACCO AND FIREARMS

D

U.S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE
1798

E

INSPECTOR GENERAL
DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

F

U.S. NAVAL OCEANOGRAPHIC OFFICE

G

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY

H

Necromancy is partly divining and partly operative magic, and as noted is concerned with the invocation of the spirits of the dead, which as we have seen is a waste of time because what happens is that the spirits evoked are demons playing sick games. Eliphas Levi, a 19th century occultist and author of the hideous image of the goat in Figure 50A, page 297, knew how dangerous these activities are, and was prepared to admit as much:

'The experiences of theurgy and necromancy are always disastrous to those who indulge in them... First giddiness, then catalepsy followed by madness.... the atmosphere is disturbed, the woodwork cracks and doors tremble and groan in the presence of certain persons, after a series of intoxicating acts. Weird sounds, sometimes bloody signs, will appear spontaneously on paper or linen. They are always the same, and are classed by magicians as Diabolical Writings. The very sight of them induces a state of convulsion or ecstasy in the mediums who believe themselves to be seeing spirits. Thus Satan, the Spirit of Evil, is transfigured for them into an Angel of Light but, before they will manifest, these so-called spirits require sympathetic excitement produced by sexual intercourse on the part of their devotees. Hands must be placed on hands, feet on feet, they must breathe in each other's faces, these acts often being followed by others of an obscene character. The initiates, revelling in these forms of excesses, believe themselves to be the elect of God and the arbiters of destiny. They are the successors of the fakirs of India. No warning will save them'[37].

No warning, it might seem, will save participants in the activities alluded to at Bohemian Grove [box, page 161], which replicate, perhaps on a more lavish scale than at any time in the history of human depravity, those described above. There is no difference whatsoever between the picture painted by the 19th century occultist, and what we know about how the elite behave at Bohemian Grove. Eliphas Levi continued:

'Theurgy is the highest Degree of occultism. Necromancy is limited to the summoning of dead souls [sic!], but the Theurgists' of the 19th century 'evoked entities described by them as genii, angels of light, exalted spirits, spirits of fire, etc''. As Bataille wrote: 'In their meetings, scattered throughout the world, they worship Lucifer. The three mysterious letters J.. .B.. .M... that the common initiates see in Masonic temples, are reproduced in the meeting rooms of the Luciferians, but they no longer mean Jachin, Boaz, Mahabone, as in the Lodges, nor Jacques Bourginon Molay as with the Knights Kadosch; in reality, these letters mean: Jesus Bethlemitus Maledictus. Theurgy is therefore pure Satanism'[38]. Note that Levy, another Frenchman of Jewish extraction - a.k.a. Alphonse Louis Constant - who was frenetically engaged in propagating the Babylonian Kabbalah, professed to know perfectly well that blaspheming the Name of Jesus Christ was Satanic - by which that occultist author meant that Illuminists believe, as Pike reveals, in Jesus Christ, even if they are Jews.

Kabbalists admitted to the 'mysteries' of Theurgy, never mention the word Satan. 'They look upon certain dissident adepts who evoke the Devil under the name of Satan as heretics, whose system they call 'Goety of Black Magic'. They name their own practices Theurgy or 'White Magic', which is of course a contradiction in terms[39]. We are considering, in brief outline here, the extreme banality of the 'Works of Darkness', which are ALWAYS characterised by lies and deception. Hence the inversion of, for example, Black and White Magic, and the always proliferating confusion to be encountered when seeking to make sense of the innumerable Masonic and non-Masonic Degrees, manifestations, traditions, sects, and auxiliary bodies such as (in the United States) the Shriners (for men), the youth categories of sub-masonry (De Molay, Job's Daughters and Rainbow Girls), and the auxiliary orders for women: The Order of the Eastern Star, Daughters of the Nile, and White Shrine [see Figure 51, page 299]. Nothing of value is gained from studying the aberrations and perverted teachings and activities of these myriad inventions of Lucifer-Satan, as they all reek of spiritual death and bondage, and all have one purpose: to entice the candidate, initiate or adept further and further down into the pit. In any case, we are enjoined specifically not to be enticed or interested by Works of Darkness and their perpetrators, so that the object of an investigation such as this must never be more than to inform, expose and reprove: we may know of these things, must we must NEVER know them - not least because they are always sterile: 'And have no fellowship with the unfruitful Works of Darkness, but rather reprove them' [Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, Chapter 5, verse 11][40].

THE PERPETUALLY RELABELLED GNOSTICISM OF SIMON MAGUS

Luciferian occultism is nothing new: it was the work of Satan from the foundation of the world, and thus also from the beginning of Christianity; and it was established by him precisely to undermine and pollute it. Its earliest generic title was Gnosticism, and its refounder was Simon Magus, described by Luke in the Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 8, verses 9-10 and 18-24, as follows: 'But there was a certain man, called Simon, which before-time in the same city used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, giving out that himself was some great one; To whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God'[41], whereas in reality, as a sorcerer, the 'powers' he was demonstrating, for his own perverse glory, were those borrowed from devils.

'And when Simon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money, Saying, give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost'.

It is because of this precedent, that the nefarious practice of offering spiritual gifts in exchange for money or reward is called simony; and Peter rounded on Simon as soon as he understood what the 'former' sorcerer was asking: 'But Peter said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter; for thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee. For I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity'[42].

The last we hear in Ads of Simon is the next verse, where he asked Peter to pray for him 'that none of these things ye have spoken come upon me' - whereas Peter, in reproving him, had advised Simon himself to repent and to pray for forgiveness, which Luke conspicuously failed to record Simon doing. Note that Peter had in fact cursed him, saying 'thy money perish with thee', meaning that both would perish. In bitterness he reverted to his sorcery and, as indicated, is identified as the founder of the Gnostics - one meaning of the G[43] to be seen on Masonic literature and in Lodges everywhere.

The Gnostics operated at once as a specifically anti-Christian sect - as Simon Magus did not repent, resented being told off by Peter, and set about trying to deploy his 'magic' powers to destroy Christianity. Simon is believed to have founded an early 'Lodge' - a secret council consisting of his own initiates who received Satanic initiation. Gnosticism, like the 'Ancient Mysteries', was based upon spiritism, with the Gnostics' mediums giving instructions purporting to be derived from the gods (spirits).

Simon Magus, who was an adept of the Gnostic sect of the Dosithians, taught that his tame harlot, Helena, was the Holy Ghost (blasphemy against the Holy Spirit) and instituted, one writer cited by Lady Queenborough, says, 'certain foul and infamous Mysteries inexpressibly filthy, and had Assemblies equally filthy to celebrate them, including ceremonies of public fornication. Simon Magus was succeeded, inter alia, by [sorcerers who were named] Basilides, Valentinius, Caprocrates, Marcus, Marcion, Cerdo, Epiphanes, and Montanus. Magus and his disciples purported to be Christians, but celebrated communion through copulation. No wonder Peter excoriated Simon Magus, whose repentance in Peter's presence was false (see also below). One authority even states that Simon Magus' Gnostics and their successors considered themselves 'superior to Peter or Paul or any of Chrisf s other disciples'. With the benefit of this knowledge, it is clear that Peter had confronted a pioneer adept of the House of Lucifer.

The Apostles were given power by Jesus through the Holy Spirit to continue the Lord's great works, which included healing the sick, giving sight to the blind, and other wonderful works which always benefited the afflicted, and were never done for the glorification of the Apostles, who never boasted of these powers, as they were the priceless gifts of God. Gnosticism then, having the seal of Lucifer, was contemporary with the Apostle Peter, and has persisted with no discontinuity into the modern era - changing its mask and labelling from time to time[44], but always promoting the same objective: opposition to Jesus Christ, the Way, the Truth and the Life, and the provision of a substitute false (Satanic) religion masquerading as the true source of wisdom and light.

At different levels of Masonry, candidates and initiates are given different explanations for the prevalence of the letter G within the interlaced square and compass - the five-pointed (occult) star (the pentalpha of Pythagoras) which frames it. This emblem appears on entrances to Masonic Temples, on seals, on Masonic literature, on the rituals, everywhere. In the lower grades, Masons are taught that the G stands for Geometry. Where women are admitted as members, the mystic letter G is said to mean Generation.

But to those found 'worthy' to penetrate into the sanctuary of Knights Kadosch, the enigmatic letter becomes the initial of the doctrine of 'perfect initiates', namely Gnosticism. Kadosch is Hebrew for 'consecrated'. Hence, 'higher' Freemasons dedicate themselves to the glorification of Gnosticism, or deliberate, provocative, relentless and insistent anti-Christianity (the spirit of Simon Magus), which Albert Pike defines as 'the soul and marrow of Freemasonry'[45]. There is no difference between the Gnosticism of the earliest years of Christianity and contemporary occultism - except that, as it was absorbed via German Rosicrucianism and through Bacon's occultic elaborations into Freemasonry, the ancient magic of Simon Magus has been successively relabelled and wrapped in many layers of gobbldegook clothing. As Lady Queenborough explained:

'The fundamental principle of Gnosticism was the double divinity (dual principle) and this is exactly the theological theory of modern occultism. The Gnostics claimed that the good God was Lucifer and that Christ was the Devil, that what Christians call vice was for them virtue, and to the Christian dogma they opposed Gnosticism, a word

Figure 49 on page 293 opposite: Further geomasonic and occult-esoteric symbolism displayed on US Federal Government emblems: (L) US Department of the Army; (M) Peace Corps (occult ying-yang image); (N) The US Department of the Army; (P) The Seal of the Speaker of the US House of Representatives; (Q) The US Department of Education (which, like its British equivalent, abuses its power to indoctrinate and mind-control the young); (R) The General Services Administration, complete with the 13 stars, the Great Pyramid, and an occult Phoenix/Eagle; (S) The Naval Supply Systems Command; and (T) The US Naval War College. The use of occult symbols is replicated by US, British, Italian and French multinational corporations. Certain satrap Latin American countries, e.g. Nicaragua and El Salvador, have emblems with pyramids, sunbursts and stars.

U.S. GOVERNMENT MASONIC EMBLEMS: 2

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
1775

L

PEACE CORPS

M

DEPARTMENT OF STATE
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

N

SEAL OF THE SPEAKER
1789
UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

P

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Q

GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

R

NAVAL SUPPLY SYSTEMS COMMAND

S

THE UNITED STATES
NAVAL WAR COLLEGE
VIRIBUS MARI VICTORIA

T

meaning human knowledge[46]. Human, not divine, knowledge: in other words, the source of this knowledge was (the Devil working through) Man, not God. Modern humanism encapsulates this perverse spirit, which drives all organisations serving the interests of the implementers of the New Underworld Order. Look in vain for any spirituality in the endless cascade of dry, soulless documents spewed out by the European Commission. Seek it in vain in the output of all compromised institutions, including most churches[47].

A critical impulse to the Works of Darkness proliferated by Simon Magus and his successors (not elaborated upon here) was the fact that dawning Christianity, at the time of the Apostles, was a time of many miracles, since the Holy Spirit had been given to the Apostles so that they were able to continue the great works of Jesus Christ. 'The miracles performed by Jesus Christ bore a distinctive feature, often overlooked, namely that in every case altruism was the source of their inspiration', wrote Lady Queenborough[48]. And when taunted on the cross to save himself, our Lord chose not to use the powers that he divinely possessed, for His personal advantage - choosing death instead. Had he yielded to that last temptation, he would have fallen to the level of a Simon Magus.

The glorious miracles essentially ceased, it is believed, with the deaths or martyrdoms of the Apostles. Peter, who loved the Lord so much, is believed to have refused to be crucified like Jesus, but requested that he should be hung upside down, because he said he was not worthy to be crucified like his Lord. However there is actually no known historical corroboration of this report, which in any case has Peter martyred in Rome, which, as the Bishop of Jerusalem, he never visited.

To fight the 'competition' from the great and wonderful works of the disciples of Jesus, the Gnostics under Simon Magus worked overtime to mobilise occult powers, using sorcery and having recourse to diabolical marvels, which always produce temporary results and are capricious and hazardous. Gnostic 'miracles' like 'weeping statues', revered by misled Catholics, or like the Hindu religious rite of Samadhi which involves being buried alive for a time, have no charitable purpose whatsoever: they are spiritually dead and of zero value. Their main purpose is to create wonderment, curiosity, or fables promoting faith in magic: indeed Catholics addicted to 'weeping statues' call such supposed phenomena 'miracles', notwithstanding that no human being is involved. Failing any altruistic motive, such phenomena are classifiable under the term Black Magic. Catholics who revere such phenomena deceive themselves that they assist their worship, just as they argue that statues (graven images) of saints, the 'Virgin' Mary, etc, are not worshipped, but are merely 'aids to worship'. This convenient lie or excuse is a delusion, and an explicit contravention of God's injunction in Exodus, Chapter 20, verse 4: 'Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above' [i.e., the Virgin Mary - Ed.], or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth'[49]. All Christians are required to avoid giving heed to fables: 'Neither give heed to fables...'[50]. 'And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables'[51].

On 17th October 2005, 'Spiegel OnLine', the Internet version of 'Der Spiegel', carried a lead story entitled POPE BENEDICT XVI CHANNELS JOHN PAUL II, in which it reported that in the course of the first extensive TV interview of his Papacy, the former Cardinal Ratzinger revealed that he 'sees and talks to his predecessor'. In the interview, broadcast by a Polish station a day earlier, the German Pope said that, given the late Pope's abiding presence, 'I hear him and I see him speaking, so I can keep up a continuous dialogue with him'. The Pope is occultically deluded: he is communing with a deceiving spirit.

PAGAN SEX MAGIC CENTRAL TO GNOSTIC FREEMASONRY

Secret Gnostic meetings at which sorcery and magic was practiced, 'needing' sexual activity which was and is integral to evoking demons, were always associated with Bohemian Grove-style depravity - as the adepts indulged in every kind of obscenity, often under the influence of drugs such as Indian hemp (cannabis indica) or opium, the medicinal properties of which, when administered under certain ritual conditions, are 'provocative of mediumistic phenomena'. Thus the grotesquely evil drug-dealing activities of certain elements of British, American, German, French, Spanish, Soviet, Israeli, Chinese and some other intelligence services, in addition to representing crimes against humanity, serve the further Illuminist purpose of maximising the potential for occult practices under the influence of drugs.

'Thus debauched, their moral sense weakened, initiates are ready to work. They work, they fall, and as they fall, the occult power grasps its prey. Their life, henceforth, is subject to the will of the Hidden Masters who, according to their secret designs, will lead their slaves to power, or a semblance of power, or else to their downfall'[52].

The sexual nature of even the first three (Blue) Degrees belies claims by 'worker-bee' 'ordinary' members of these lower Degrees that the exoteric gobbledegook which they are required to absorb is innocent of any tinge of pagan-phallic orientation. According to a book on French Masonry, cited by Lady Queenborough[53], the ritual of Master Mason (Third Degree) is explicitly sexual. It would be tedious to reproduce more than a few sentences of the description of the ritual, which remains symbolic at this Degree level:

'The Master holds the mallet, the two Wardens each hold a roll of cardboard nine inches in circumference by 18 inches long. These rolls represent the membrum virile'.

'In the middle of the Lodge is a mattress, coffin or ditch, which symbolises the bed... upon which are performed the mysteries of generation'.

The fact that these mysteries and his ability to generate, cannot be created by Man, that is to say that he did not make himself, is conveniently and obtusely overlooked by these deluded diversionary occultists. This is a point repeatedly stressed in Scripture, for instance, in the hundredth Psalm, verse 2: 'Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture'.

The phallus is used by the Freemasons in the Degree of Master where it is designated by the word Mahabone (man is 'completed' by the Third Degree of Master'). This fecundation is supposed to take place as follows: In the early period of initiation, the seed of the unfertilised grain is dead. The Candidate, wearing within him this inert seed, is a male as he only wears upon his breast the Compass emblem of the membrum virile. He is stretched upon a mattress, or in a coffin or ditch... Neither the second, nor the first warden can endow him with life. Alone, the Worshipful Master, wearing upon his chest the Square, symbol of the genitalia mulieris, representing the female (the Lodge), can fertilize this seed by leaning over the Candidate, who, representing the male, unites with him by the Five Points of Perfection (originally from Pythagoras' pentalpha five-pointed star). The seed is fertilised by the Union of the male and the female, and the Lodge becomes pregnant of the Candidate, which she brings into the world nine months later, as Perfect Master, Fourth Degree, it being established that nine full months must have passed since the aspirant had received the Degree of Master Mason'. What is being mimicked here is the human pregnancy period of nine months, which is a period ordained by God, not Man: and there is nothing whatsoever that these nutcases can ever do about it.

The obviously homosexual (and utterly repugnant) connotations of the ritual need no elaboration (thank goodness). Figure 50B on page 297, using a 19th century diagram, shows the 'five points of perfection' as applied in high-level Masonic greetings with the two participants standing up; how the 'Five Points of Fellowship' are achieved in the positions described in the ritual cited, disturbs the imagination. It is unfortunately necessary to complete this exercise, though, in order that the reader may understand that Masonic Degrees are sexually oriented from the outset - contrary to the 'sanitised' as opposed to 'Satanised') impression given to the 'profane' (the Masonic word for the 'White') world, leading therefore inevitably at 'higher' (= lower) levels to debauchery and to widespread acceptance of it among the Masonic-political elite such as those who 'network' at the Bohemian Grove, when they are in an inebriated state or engaged in sexual excess. Therefore, the book on French Masonry states that 'the basis on which are founded the first three Degrees of practical ('exoteric') Masonry are as follows:

First Degree, Entered Apprentice: 'That the Apprentice, Bohaz (Boaz), the personification of Osiris or of Bacchus, coming to search for Truth [a lie - Ed.] in the Lodge, finds that he is a Male-God [i.e., he has for this purpose become a god already! - Ed.] and incomplete for the generation of beings'.

Second Degree, Fellow Craft: 'That the companion, Jackin (Jachin), personification of Isis or Venus, the Female-God, completes the Male-God by rendering possible the generation of beings'. In short, the false god cannot function alone.

Third Degree, Master Mason: "That the Master Mahabone or MacBenac is the Hermaphrodite... son of the sun and the earth", made full man in this ritual[54].

LIES AND MAKEBELIEVE AS THE FOCUS OF BLUE DEGREE FREEMASONRY

As we have seen, Albert Pike, the High Priest of contemporary Freemasonry, admitted that The Blue Degrees are but the outer court or portico of the Temple. Part of the symbols are displayed there to the initiate, but he is intentionally misled by false interpretations. It is not intended that he shall understand them, but it is intended that he shall imagine that he understands them'. So the lies begin at once. In the First Degree, the naive candidate is informed that:

- 'All originates by Generation, and not by Creation, which is only the simple induction of Generation'. This is the central lie of Freemasonry: that Creation arises because of Generation alone - an idiotic reversal, a childish and ignorant piece of nonsense which of course overlooks the facts that generation could never have started without a Creator, and that creative forces are needed to enable the act of generation to 'work'. The candidate is further lied to with this nonsense:
- Corruption or destruction follows Generation in all its works. (But Our Lord Jesus Christ teaches, and the Holy Spirit indelibly affirms to those who have allowed themselves, by one single act of will, to be called, that if we 'die' to sin and are 'born again' through repentance for our sins, we have fellowship with Him, a new life, and the hope of life eternal through His Glory and Grace. This is affirmed in Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 5, verse 17: Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold all things are become new')[55].
- Regeneration restores, under other forms, the effects of destruction. This is the basis of the false Masonic doctrine, which takes hold of the initiate in 'higher' Degrees, of reincarnation, a totally reprobate invention which lacks credibility or foundation. For these reprobates, 'regeneration' is a Godless, mechanistic phenomenon.

Hand signals are extensively used by secret societies to reveal their affiliations to 'friends'. Addenda 9 and 10 on pages 732 and 734 et seq. provide examples of how Satanic signs are liable to be used these days by anyone from the President of the United States downwards, and illustrate the use of basic Masonic handshakes by prominent world figures, in a selection of pictures from the archives. The primary Masonic handshakes are named after the first three (Blue) Degrees:

- Jakin (Jachin): The Column or the female organ, uterus.
- Bohaz (Boaz): The Column, or the male generative organ, or the phallus: the sacred word of the First Degree, Entered Apprentice.
- Moabone, Mahabone (Ma-Ha-Bone): This demonic word means completed god; the Hermaphrodite: man is completed by the Degree of Master Mason, Third Degree.

Masonry has thus stolen the names of the two special pillars of the Temple for its depraved purposes, confusing Masons in the Lodge accordingly: see the Second Book of Chronicles, Chapter 3, verse 17, describing Solomon's Temple: 'And he reared up the pillars before the Temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left; and called the name of that on the right hand Jachin, and the name of that on the left Boaz'.

GERMAN JEWISH ORIGINS OF THE AMERICAN SCOTTISH RITE

The 'Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite' originates from the rite called Scottish of Perfection or of Heredom, having 25 Degrees, which was 'worked' in Europe in the 18th century by Masons devoting themselves to occultism. Albert Pike says that 'in 1761, the Lodges and Councils of the superior Degrees being extended throughout Europe, Frederic II (Frederick the Great), King of Prussia, as Grand Commander of the Order of Princes of the Royal Secret, or 32 Degrees, was by general consent acknowledged

A
B SOLVE
COAGULA
ELIPHA
EVI DEL

Figure 50A: This notorious drawing of Baphomet, by the French-Jewish Mason Eliphas Levi (Alphonse Louis Constant), stresses the Masonic-Satanic emphasis on sex, the creature being androgynous, with the winged staff representing the phallus. The original caption stated that Levi's goat is 'the horned god of the witches, symbol of sex incarnate'. Figure 50B: Performing the 'Five Points of Fellowship', at the Third Degree, replicating the pentalpha of the Kabbalah. The Master whispers 'Mah-hah-bone' in the candidate's ear, after which the candidate whispers the same magick word in the Master's ear. It means: phallus.

and recognized as Sovereign and Supreme Head of the Scottish Rite'[56].

'On the 25th October 1762, the Grand Masonic Constitutions were finally ratified in Berlin and proclaimed for the government of all Masonic bodies working in the Scottish Rite over the two hemispheres; and in the same year they were submitted to the Jew, Stephen Morin, who had been appointed... in August 1761, Inspector General for the New World by the Grand Consistory of Princes of the Royal Secret, convened at Paris, under the Presidency of Chaillon de Joinville, representative of Frederick (the Great) and Substitute General of the Order.... The 33rd Degree was not then created; and under Frederic the Great, there was no rank higher than the 32nd Degree...'[57].

This statement definitively affirms the supremacy of Berlin as the central authority governing Scottish Rite Freemasonry in both Europe and America, and its seniority over the Political Action Centre established by Giuseppe Mazzini, of Jewish extraction, in Rome (The Vatican). Morin travelled to Santo Domingo, where he was joined by two fellow Jews, Moses M. Hays and Henry Andrew Francken, who founded a branch of the rite in Jamaica, while Hays was entrusted with founding Lodges in North America. Hays duly established a 'Sublime Lodge of Perfection' in Boston, of which he constituted himself Grand Master, and charged a fellow Jew and Mason, one Isaac Dacosta, who had founded the St Andrew Lodge in Boston, with the mission of introducing Masonry into South Carolina. On 27 th August 1766, Brother Morin's patent was revoked by the Grand Body in Paris for 'propagating strange and monstrous doctrines', and handed to a Brother Martin. [But] Morin continued constituting chapters with Dacosta, a full 17 years after his Freemasonic patent had been annulled. In 1783, he inaugurated 'The Grand Lodge of Perfection' in Charleston, with Dacosta as its Grand Master - this unofficial, unauthorised behaviour thus accounting for the strange, subsequent 'parallelism' of the ideological centre consolidated in 1870 by Albert Pike in Charleston, after the American Civil War, with its countervailing revolutionary Vatican-based Political Action Centre.

Morin was succeeded by another Jew, Joseph M. Meyers. It suited the Jews concerned to continue with the Jerusalem connection, and when the Grand Council of Princes of Jerusalem was established at Charleston on 20th February 1788, Meyers was one of the Deputy-Inspectors who established it. The two Masonic powers at Boston and Charleston created numerous Lodges and inner shrines in the United States, and each gave themselves the titles of Mother Lodges of the United States[58].

A Lodge at Albany, New York, was transmitting reports to Berlin, the seat of the Prussian Monarchy, as early as 1770. It is clear that the Prussians were using the New World's burgeoning Masonic network for espionage operations, and were employing Jews for that purpose. Pope Clement XII had excommunicated Freemasons as early as 1738. But the Jewish Masons, who obviously did not belong to the Catholic Church, continued promoting the cult in the United States in pursuit of their secret Kabbalistic agenda. On 15th May 1781, at a convention of Deputy-Inspectors called by Hays and Meyers at Philadelphia, Moses Cohen was named Deputy Inspector of Jamaica, as Francken, originally appointed by Stephen Morin to found Lodges there, had neglected his mandate. It was not long before another Jewish Freemason, Hyman Isaac Long the son of a Dutch writer called Isaac Long arrived in Jamaica, having derived his 'powers' from Morin. In addition to Francken, Hays and Moses Cohen, there was another prominent Jewish Mason associated with them at the time, called Spitzer. All seemed to be bent on spreading (anti-Christian) Masonry in North America, as though motivated by the 'seething powers' of Lucifer, and driven by them to cut short the Christian heritage of the earlier

Figure 51: The United States is infested with innumerable Masonic and sub-Masonic organisations, almost all of which use the term The Order, revealing that they are 'compartmentalised' components of the Illuminati-Rosicrucian 'Order of the Quest'. The common feature of all these diversionary 'Orders' is that they deny the unique divinity of God and promulgate syncreticism. Some, like participants in 'Cedarism', and the Shriners, wear occultic headgear. All consume private financial resources and time, and divert their victims from the Truth. ■

AUXILIARY U.S. MASONIC BODIES

'ORDERS' SUPPORTING MASONIC DECEPTION OPS. FOR MEN

- THE SHRINERS, or the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, are an 'Order' 'appendant' to Freemasonry. Up to 2000, it was necessary to COMPLETE the Scottish or York Rites so as to be eligible for Shrine membership. Today, any Master Mason can join. Although known for lavish and boisterous conventions, their strange 'fez' hat and charitable works (hospitals etc), members take a hideous blood oath during a bizarre Masonic-occultic initiation rite. The sole requirement is that the Shrine petitioner must vaguely believe in a 'Supreme Being'. This is another syncretist trap for the unwary.

- TALL CEDARS OF LEBANON (Cedarism): 'Brethren' appear in occultic conical hats and use a cross+hexagram (sorcery symbol).

- THE ELKS, which began life in North America as the 'Jolly Corks'. Members are 'Brothers' and the network uses the Masonic Lodge system, with a Grand Lodge. The Elks' Lodges maintained guest quarters which were forerunners of modern hotel chains like Holiday Inn. This is a fraternity only, with significant Jewish membership.

FOR WOMEN

- ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR: A Masonic organisation for women AND MEN which self-proclaims itself to be 'not part of the Masonic institution'. However a published address by a certain Worthy Matron insists:'... yet we are connected with Masonry by intimate and tender ties'. One ritual document reads: 'Ladies, you are connected with Masonry by ties far more intimate and tender than you are aware of, or that I can ever inform you of' - which leaves little scope for doubt as to what was meant. A man must be a Master Mason (+) in good standing, and a woman can only join if she has a dose relative who is a Master Mason. Both sexes must take blood oaths. This 'Order' justifies its existence as a mechanism for enabling certain Masonic secrets to be replicated and perpetuated between the sexes. Detailed investigations reveal that the Eastern Star 'Order' is riddled with familiar Kabbalistic pagan sorcery, rituals, symbols and trickery.
- DAUGHTERS OF THE NILE [Egypt = The Darkness].
- WHITE SHRINE • PINK SERPENTS [Ultra-secret informers],

FOR TEENAGERS

- THE ORDER OF DE MOLAY: Like many sub-groups, open information on this 'Order' disclaims Masonic connections, specifically any links with the Knights Templar. However this is the best-known US 'fishing net' designed to capture naive youth for Freemasonry, and thus to divert their lives towards Lucifer at the earliest feasible age. In the open community, such pressures on young people have been joined by the Illuminati-controlled pagan, sex-oriented pop culture.

- INTERNATIONAL ORDER OF THE RAINBOW FOR GIRLS: Established by the 'Rev'. Sexson in 1922 as a youth organisation for girls from a Masonic or Eastern Star home. The blurb says that while 'The Order' uses some of Christian Scripture, the only membership requirement is 'belief in a Supreme Being', with Christian lessons used just to show 'basic values integral to many religions'. Subtle, subversive syncretism.

- JOB'S DAUGHTERS: A Sub-Masonic Order for girls between 10 and 20, organised into 'Bethels' - like Masonic Lodges.

Deception
Enticement
Disorientation

American fathers. Thus the claims of Samuel Oppenheim concerning the importance of Jews within early US Masonry, cited on pages 274-276, are indisputable.

Isaac Long found his scope for action (subversion) too restricted in Jamaica, so he moved to Charleston, South Carolina, on the 33rd parallel. While the Mother Lodge at Boston failed to prosper, Long created other Lodges and brought in other rites (such as Royal Arch) under obedience to the Mother Lodge at Charleston. In 1775, Isaac Long travelled back to Europe, and did not return to the United States for six years. When he reappeared, he was clutching a plan to create a 33rd Degree rite, which he had developed while in Europe. He presided over the constitution of this rite, aided by the following further Jewish Masons: Dr Frederick Dalcho, Abraham Alexander, Isaac Auld and Emanuel de la Motta, all of whom were Sovereign Princes of Jerusalem, a title they had received from the Grand Master in Europe when receiving instructions to found Lodges abroad. According to Domenico Margiotta (also of Jewish extraction), 'he [Long] constituted this rite, taking twenty-five Degrees of the system of Heredom, six Templar grades in which were merged four Degrees (the 9th, 10th, 11th and 21st Degrees) borrowed from the German Illuminism of Adam Weishaupt, and two grades called Grades of Administration, the last of which supplanted the function of Deputy Inspector (Sovereign Prince of Jerusalem); and took the title of Sovereign Grand Inspector General, 33rd and last Degree. This was his crowning achievement [sic]. Isaac Long gave the institution the name of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rites, and the first great constitutions were signed at Charleston on May 31st 1801'. Isaac Long was succeeded by Albert Pike as Sovereign Commander Grand Master: so Pike inherited all the consolidated workings and rites of his Jewish colleagues and predecessors[59]. In Chapter 17 of her book 'Occult Theocrasy', Lady Queenborough states unequivocally that the 'Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite (America)' and the 'Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite (England)', founded 1761 is 'of Jewish origin and has 33 Degrees'.

It is of course at Charleston, as noted on the 33rd parallel, that the epicentre of US 'unpatented' Masonry is located, although other key US centres include the overbearingly gigantesque George Washington Masonic National Memorial in Alexandria, and the dark Masonic library located in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

THE GREAT ARCHITECT, SORCERY, WICKED MEN AND DEVILS IN THE LODGE

Albert Pike, the successor of Isaac Long, was to conspire with Giuseppe Mazzini, the Italian Masonic revolutionary and modern organiser of the Mafia and of organised criminal drug-trafficking to procure the consolidation of what was intended to be a geo-masonic power centre, in parallel with Berlin. As Domenico Margiotta elaborated:

'The Mother Lodge of Boston had ceased functioning for some years but that of Charleston, reconstituted according to the new Scottish System in 33 Degrees, became the root of the tree which was to spread its branches over the entire world'. However, as Isaiah accurately prophesied [Isaiah, Chapter 5, verse 24], 'their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust; because they have cast away the law of the Lord of hosts, and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel'[60]. To complete the statement by the Italian high Mason, Margiotta: 'The Superior Lodge of the Grand Sovereign Inspectors General, in each country, was to be called the Supreme Council, and it is from the Supreme Council of Charleston that all the others were to emanate. It is thus the first Supreme Council of the Globe'. This conveniently 'forgets' that Morin's Berlin mandate had been revoked in 1766.

'Such is the origin of this rite which attracted Mazzini's attention for, during the years which preceded the taking of Rome by the army of Piedmont, he could see that the provisions of Isaac Long [in the United States] had been realised. So it was Pike, the successor of Long, himself the Sovereign Commander Grand Master, that the great revolutionary conspirator [Mazzini] sought as an ally in his work the object of which was the total destruction of the church'.

That we are indeed speaking of the House of Lucifer in the Synagogue of Satan, referred to in Jesus Christ's condemnation in the Book of Revelation, was reconfirmed by another Masonic writer, Blanchard, author of 'Knight Templarism Illustrated', cited by Lady Queenborough[61]: 'Let the authoritative teaching of Dr. Mackey [the Masonic writer Dr Albert Mackey] be continually borne in mind, that 'The mission and object of Masonry is the worship of the Great Architect of the Universe'.

'It follows that the Lodges must have something for their dupes to do, called worship [note this crucial open acknowledgement, like that of Albert Pike, that Masonry permanently and routinely deceives its own adepts, so that they are all what Lenin called 'Useful Idiots' - Ed.]. And what could wicked men and devils invent craftier or better suited to deceive the simple, than this very scheme of 'the Ancient Scottish Rite', which now rules the rites of the world' - and which Isaac Long and his Jewish Masonic co-conspirators, followed by Pike himself, scrabbled and concocted together, drawing from multiple sources - especially the Illuminati, the Templars and Jewish Kabbalism.

Note that Blanchard openly acknowledges that his Masonic 'Brothers' are dupes and 'wicked men and devils', replicating similar such open admissions by other key Masonic writers, including Albert Pike: indeed, to acknowledge that Masons are the scum of the earth seems to be a standard requirement for such authors. One of the most extraordinary features of these people, when they are in their 'right' minds, is that they know perfectly well what is right and wrong; so they fulfil Paul's proclamation that 'knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, [they] not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them' [Romans, Chapter 1, verse 32]. For Paul to have understood this could only of course have been possible through the Holy Spirit, since our rational minds tell us that for someone to recognise what is wrong, to say so publicly, and at the same time to promote what is wrong with the 'seething energies of Lucifer,' is completely irrational: which, of course, even in their 'righf minds, these people, who deceive and lie as a matter of routine, always are, which is just one of many reasons why they are so dangerous[62].

This entirely ersatz, concocted, falsely pretentious and poisonous 'Ancient Scottish Rite', Blanchard calmly concluded, seemingly unperturbed, 'seizes and appropriates all of religion, but its holiness and justice; and all of Christ, but his truth and his atonement. It mixes things sacred with things profane, till the whole compound is profanity; and quoting the Bible as if it believed it true, which notoriously it does not, it has furnished a dark system, which angels flee from and which devils inhabit. Every Lodge is a Synagogue of Satan and its ritual is Sorcery'[63].

Presidents of the United States are routinely 'honoured' by being made 33rd Degree Masons under the Scottish Rites. Let this be rephrased: Presidents of the United States are routinely invited to engage in ritual sorcery.

The 33rd Degree was conferred in the United States upon the son of the late Shah of Persia (Pahlavi), implying that it is intended that he should be restored in due course to his throne. Saddam Hussein was a Mason in the same Grand Orient Lodge of which Jacques Chirac was a member, during an early spell in Paris. Of the parallel Masonic status of Colonel Qadhaffi there is no doubt at all. Writing in 1933, Lady Queenborough, who carried out research for British intelligence, stated without qualification that the 'Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rites' runs its own Secret Service which cooperates with the national Secret Services of all countries, thus serving the aims and purposes of Internationalism'[64]. This practice is directly descended from the fact, cited earlier, that, from the outset, the Prussians used the New World's burgeoning Masonic network for espionage operations, and were employing Jews for that purpose[65].

THE ABOLITION OF PROPERTY AND OTHER ABOMINATIONS

The essence of the internationalist revolutionary geomasonic agenda was exposed by another Jewish Mason, Paul Rosen, who in his work, also cited by Lady Queenborough, 'Satan et Cie', explicitly stated that the House of Lucifer seeks the total abolition of private property - that is to say, what follows clearly demonstrates the Masonic origins of Lenin's Communist World Revolution. Rosen, whose polemic entitled 'Satan and Company' (i.e., and his demons) was yet another of these Masons who are fully dedicated to the implementation of Lucifer's agenda, which of course focuses on the whole world, while at the same time exposing the fallacies of the methodology he is using. When the faux-allegorical garbage alluding to the assassinated Hiram Abiff, the make-believe legend invented by Masonry concerning the murder of the architect of Solomon's Temple, is stripped away from the associated verbiage here (it cannot be removed from this passage otherwise the language does not flow), the underlying raw intent to grab the assets of the whole world is exposed:

Official ritual of the 33rd and last Degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rites: 'For the Sovereign Grand Inspector General the 33rd is the last Degree of the Rite. The Order is the Great Avenger of the assassinated Grand Master and the grand champion of humanity, for the innocent Grand Master is Man [not God - Ed.], Man who is Master, King of Nature, and who is born innocent and unconscious'.

'Our innocent Grand Master was born for happiness and for the enjoyment of all rights without exception. But he has fallen under the blows of three assassins, three scoundrels have thwarted his happiness and rights, and have annihilated him'.

'The three infamous assassins are Law, Property and Religion'.

'Law, because it is not in harmony with the rights of the individual man and the duties of social man in society, rights which belong to all. Duties are but the immediate consequence of the right inherent in all, for the enjoyment of all rights'.

'Property, because the earth belongs to nobody and its fruits belong to all in proportion as they are required by each for the needs of his own wellbeing'.

'Religion, because religions are but philosophies evolved by men of genius and adopted by the people in the belief that they would increase their wellbeing'.

'Neither Law, Property nor Religion can be imposed on man and as they annihilate him by depriving him of his most precious rights they are assassins on whom we [sic] have sworn to wreak vengeance, enemies against whom we have declared war to the death and without quarter. Of these three infamous enemies it is on Religion that we must concentrate our most deadly attacks on, because no people has ever survived its religion. Once Religion is dead, Law and Property will fall to our mercy, and we shall be able to regenerate society by founding, on the corpses of the assassins of Man, Masonic Religion, Masonic Law, and Masonic Property'.

So, from several Masonic 'horses' mouths, we can now state unequivocally, without fear of Masonic counterattack because it is the Masons' own spokesmen who have made the preceding statements, that:

- Both formal and 'True' Religion are to be replaced by Masonic substitutes, and as has been seen, Freemasonry is sorcery. Therefore all religion is to replaced by sorcery. Note: This is impossible in the case of True Christianity, a fact these people don't 'get'.
- Existing legal systems are to be replaced by an international Masonic legal system. Hence the orchestrated revolutionary confusion in the European Union context, where European Law (manufactured by the European Court of Justice, which does not exist to dispense justice, but specifically to further the interests of the corrupt Collective).
- Private property is to be collectivised. It is intended that a mere 5% of the world's population will own assets, with the rest (to be culled by population reduction measures) reduced to a form of controlled slavery.

It needs to be understood that this is the programme to which 33rd Degree Masons subscribe. They do so even as extremely wealthy owners of private property. Do they seriously believe that in such a destabilised, aggressive environment, they could hang on to their own assets?

MORE ABOMINATIONS FROM A HORSE'S MOUTH

Ralph Anderson, then a 32nd Degree Mason, said as follows in a speech in 1985, in which he mentioned a 'demonic spirit guide' which he called 'the Tibetan':

'A brief word about the future. The Tibetan [sic!] tells us: 'The three main channels through which the preparation of the New Age [of Aquarius, by which they mean after the total destruction of Christianity] is going on might be regarded as the church, the Masonic fraternity and the educational field. All of them are as yet [as of 1985] failing to meet the need and to respond to the inner pressure. But in all of these three movements, disciples of the Great Ones [referring to 'the gods', i.e. demons] are to be found and they are steadily gathering momentum and will before long enter upon their designated task'.

'He tells us further [i.e., Mr Anderson's familiar, or 'guiding spirit', tells him - Ed.]: 'The Masonic Movement when it can be divorced from politics and social ends and from its present paralysing condition of inertia, will meet the needs of those who can, and should, wield power. It is the custodian of the law; it is the home of the Mysteries [i.e., the Ancient Mysteries of divination, sorcery and magick - Ed.] and the seat of initiation [which, for the Christian, is unnecessary and an abomination - Ed.]. It holds in its symbolism the ritual of Deity and the way of salvation is pictorially preserved in its work. The methods of Deity are demonstrated in its Temples, and under the All-Seeing Eye the work can go forward. It is a far more occult organisation than can now be realised, and it is intended to be the training school for the coming advanced occultists. In its ceremonials lies hid the wielding of the forces connected with the growth and life of the kingdoms of nature and the unfoldment of the divine aspects in Man. In the comprehension of its symbolism will come the power to cooperate with the divine plan. It meets the needs of those who work on the first Ray of Will or Power'[66].

This 'high-level' Masonic Illuminist statement - in which the Masonic sorcerer openly acknowledged that the programme of cultural subversion he is proclaiming was spelled out to him at a top-level sorcerers' seance, where it was 'revealed' to him that the Christian churches (rotten of course from within) would be subverted and then converted into instruments of the World Geomasonic-Illuminati Rosicrucian Revolution, ('The Universal Church of Man') - contained the further statement that 'Great Ones', that is to say, corrupt disciples of Lucifer, who are driven by his 'seething energies' -were already operating deep within the churches, Freemasonry and education. With the passage of two decades since that statement was made, we can see how accurate these predictions, promulgated from a 'spirit guide', have turned out to be.

Churches are in confusion and are wracked by apostacy and scandal over female bishops and homosexuality; the Masonic movement, upon which the Illuminati have piggy-backed since the 18th century, controls all the high offices of state, of the judiciary, the intelligence services, the bureaucracies, politics and all the important levers of power; and the education system has been converted into a manipulative mind-personality modification and outcome-based propaganda machine. Additionally, these sorcerers have commandeered the entire entertainment industry, the media, components of the Internet and the broadcasting organisations, by various means (especially corruption), ensuring that children are bombarded with pornography and are taught deviant sex at an early age. There is therefore nothing that Ralph Anderson's demon predicted that has not come to pass. Brought up in this environment, the minds of most British journalists are concentrated on trivia, the corrosive and sterile celebrity culture, gutter journalism and prurient, obsessive-destructive character-assassination reporting.

INCOMPATIBILITY OF MASONRY WITH GOOD GOVERNANCE

Before briefly elaborating on the structure of Freemasonry and especially some of the seats of its administrative centres, a number of findings from our investigation to date are worth summarising at this stage. The Author uses his invented word, Geomasonry, to describe both the open structures of Freemasonry, and the secret societies - composing a global system of synarchy (rule or intended rule by secret societies) - which hide behind it.

Authority for this statement is obtained once again from the writings of Lady Queenborough, who, noting that, to her knowledge, 'the last of the Grand Masters of the Rose Croix' operating as a stand-alone secret society was the Jew, Johann Christian Wolff, who, like many hyperactive Jews operating in intelligence on their own or a sovereign's account, carried the name 'Christian' to disguise his Jewish extraction. According to the Grand Lodge of England, proclamation of a document known as the Anderson Constitution under King George II marked and sanctioned the emergence of British Freemasonry into the open[67]. Anderson was one of seven overt 'founders' of Freemasonry who were all Gnostics and Magi (sorcerers) of the Rose Croix, originally imported from 14th century Germany and elaborated by Sir Francis Bacon. The other six Rosicrucian sorcerers were Theophile Desaguliers (named Chaplain of the Prince of Wales by George II), George Payne, James King Calvert, Lumsden-Madden, and Elliott[68]. These Rosicrucians were heirs of the first sorcerer-gnostic dedicated to rivalry with - and the perversion or destruction of - True Christianity, Simon Magus. Rosicrucianism perpetuates the magick sorcery and mythology of 'the ancients' of the Babylonian Kabbalah, Egypt and the Druids; and it is Jewish. The most interesting mystery of all is encased in the fact that it is also German. Certain power-families operating and competing among themselves behind this screen, for global control, such as the Rothschilds, the Rockefellers and the Bushes, are originally from Germany, or else have deep German connections (historically), and are either Jewish or have intermarried with Jews. Once Freemasonry was out in the open, 'it was to be the universal screen behind which all secret societies, whether theurgic or political, would [come to] operate clandestinely'[69]. Since all intelligence agencies are basically occult secret societies - a fact with which a prominent and distinguished British analyst agreed, when the proposition was put to him - intelligence agencies must be included among the large number of secret societies which function behind the screen of Freemasonry. "Thus it came about, Lady Queenborough asserts, 'that all blows dealt to Christianity and [to] States were prepared by the secret societies, acting behind the veil of Masonry'[70]. Accordingly:

- It is necessary to understand the 'screen function' of geomasonry in order to perceive correctly how the innumerable secret societies relate to it. Secret societies include not only intelligence services, but organised criminal communities with which they cooperate, such as Mazzini's M.A.F.I.A., the Chinese Triads, the Japanese Yakuza, and the myriad drug-running cartels including those established by US intelligence in Latin America and the two drug cartels controlled or facilitated by the British intelligence cadre GO-2 from within the bowels of that broadly treacherous internationalist intelligence organisation called MI6. Collaboration between intelligence communities, their fractions and controlling barons, and organised crime - since all are typically engaged in clandestine criminal operations (although of course there are many 'White-haf intelligence officers, too) - is one of the gravest and most intractable of the poisonous evils that bedevil our crumbling civilisation today; and since all who matter are corrupted, calls for root-and-branch reform, in such a corrupted environment, fall on stone-deaf ears.
- Geomasonry - including of course attached, hidden Rosicrucianism - is the custodian of the Kabbalah, and is indeed a primary component of the faux-Jewish Synagogue of Satan referred to by Our Lord Jesus Christ as twice revealed to John, in Revelation, Chapter 2, verse 9: 'I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the Synagogue of Satan': and in Revelation, Chapter 3, verse 9: 'Behold... them of the Synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie'. In order to bring out the 'screening' function of Freemasonry, this Author describes

ORDO TEMPLI ORIENTIS

'OUTER' MANIFESTATION OF A PARTICULARLY REVOLTING ILLUMINATI SECRET SOCIETY

The repulsive glorying in Satanic exhibitionism perpetrated at the 51st Eurovision Song Contest on 20th May 2006 by a Finnish nutcase calling himself Lordi, represented an open display of what the Luciferians have in mind, and intend. The platform used for this televised display of filth is one of many that has been annexed by Dark Actors Playing Games on behalf of the Illuminati, as a means of spreading Satanism into the public domain. Over nine million brainwashed and misguided Britons watched this TV abomination, which was welcomed by 'Useful Idiot' talking heads as 'a victory for open-mindedness'. The message here is that we should all open our minds to infestation by demons, and that such preoccupations, like pornography, are respectable 'these days'. One of the myriad secret societies pushing such Luciferian filth is Ordo Templi Orientis (O.T.O), an operation with German illuminati roots which is dealt with more fully from page 456.

This secret society nesting 'behind' Freemasonry and mimicking it for its Satanic rites (it is less secret than it was, as it advertises today for members on the Internet), uses Masonic and occult symbols, including a triangle, sun-rays and the all-seeing eye [see Figure 69, page 457]. A German Jew named Karl Keller founded the Ordo Templi Orientis (OTO) - in German, Orientalischer Templer-Orden - around the turn of the 20th century, as a ritual magick cultural control and transformation organisation which has since acquired immense influence within the US military, intelligence community and the US space progamme. It teaches and promulgates sex-oriented magick derived from Greek mythological, Egyptian and Kabbalah sources. The British intelligence officer, Aleister Crowley, the self-styled 'Great Beast 666' (who stole this title from its rightful owner: see Chapter 6), who was called 'the Wickedest Man in the World' by the old British publication, John Bull, attached himself to the organisation and became head of its British affiliate, and ultimately the head of the organisation - to which the alleged DVD agent George Bush Sr. allegedly belongs.

To the heterosexual Ninth Degree Crowley added a homosexual Eleventh Degree, mingling his amendments to O.T.O.'s gobbledegook with the ritual laid down by P. B. Randolph of the US-based Fraternitas Rosae Crucis [see main text]. Crowley 'perfected' this ritual during three years spent (1920-23) in the Abbey of Thelema in Sicily. In 1922, Aleister Crowley succeeded Theodore Reuss, a Jewish Berlin-based War Correspondent whose mail was held in London for him by Messrs Henry Klein & Co., at their offices in 84 Oxford Street, London. On Reuss's death in 1947, another German Jew, Karl Johannes Germer, succeeded to the outer headship of The Order (as of course it calls itself). Germer had operated with Crowley in England, but had returned to his native Germany in the 1930s, despite his Jewish background. ■

Freemasonry alone as the House of Lucifer. In Chapter 7, the geomasonic sect of the Illuminati is described as the Synagogue of Satan, because this broader penetrating sect, originating in its modern format in Germany and with heavy Jewish content, consists of crime families and Masonic and non-Masonic members of a large number of these secret societies (such as the Black Satanic sect Ordo Templi (Mentis [see box on page 305, and page 456], originally from Germany [Chapter 7]) free-riding behind the Masonic screen.

Both categories recognise each other through the use of secret hand signals, occult phrases and the use of Masonic and occult symbols (as observed in the symbols of different branches of the US Federal Government, displayed in Figures 48 and 49 on pages 289 and 293, and in the logos or Masonic colours of large multinational corporations). Nation states such as Nicaragua and El Salvador, and many other countries, which have long since been co-opted into the 'fraternity', have flags and symbols that are overtly Masonic, with triangles, circles, suns-and-rays, the lot. These symbols are deliberately upheld, to inform 'the interested' that the government department, multinational corporation, or nation state in question orders its affairs in conformity with Masonic norms - meaning that it accepts all the 'standards' proclaimed by geomasonry. Since these include the abolition of private property and the degradation of civilised society, such adherence is completely at loggerheads with the interests of the government department, corporation or nation state concerned - an illogical state of affairs that seems to be accepted as 'normal', because such contradictions come naturally to the 'double-minded'. Whether these glaring contradictions reflect ignorance and confusion in the twisted minds of those responsible for the relevant decisions, or whether they reflect the geomasonic 'secret knowledge' of the tension between the two 'opposing forces' or phanes (the dialectic), is really impossible to say. Who knows what goes on in the confused minds of these certifiably deluded madmen? What can be said is that it should come as no surprise that these contradictions not only exist, but are openly advertised - since the Prince of this World, Lucifer, is the author of all lies and confusion. These people have eyes, but they cannot see.

It will be recalled from page 274 that Dr Isaac M. Wise, writing in 'The Israelite' dated 3rd August 1855, asserted categorically that 'Masonry is a Jewish institution whose history, Degrees, charges, passwords, and explanations are Jewish from the beginning to the end, with the exception of only one by-Degree and a few words in the obligation'. Other authorities, from Samuel Oppenheim to Lady Queenborough, separately concur. The by-Degree to which Dr Wise referred was NOT the Rose Croix. It follows from the assessments of these authorities alone that Rosicrucianism, encapsulating the sorcery of the Kabbalah, is likewise of Jewish origin.

- Geomasonry conducts, in every Lodge, as has been affirmed, the rituals of Kabbalistic sorcery. To cite just one historical provenance of the introduction of overt sorcery into Masonic ritual, Moses Holbrook, the Jewish Grand Master or Sovereign Commander of the Supreme Council of Charleston, had earlier co-formed a project for creating a Satanic rite in which the adepts would be instructed in Black Magic; but Holbrook, who had already composed a suitable ritual and sacreligious mass called the Adonaicide Mass (Adonay being these reprobates' name for Jesus Christ), had died, retarding completion of the project. Albert Pike fulfilled on a gigantic scale the 'dream of the Jew, Moses Holbrook, to subvert Masonry'. So Masonry was further, and irrevocably, impregnated with the full spectrum of Jewish Babylonian Kabbalistic sorcery, thanks mainly to the delusions of the occultist, Albert Pike[71].

Figure 52: In the United States, Freemasonry, which is a slow-motion introduction and enticement to infestation and possession by Evil Spirit and is the road to perdition adopted by large numbers of men (and women} whose ignorance of the purpose of Freemasonry is knowingly exploited by its controllers*, is separated into three groups. The foolish initiate starts by entering into the Blue Lodge (first three Degrees). He can then select either or both the York Rite and the Scottish Rite method of 'advancement' (Luciferian indoctrination). Later he can petition for membership of the Shrine, although this is now open to a much wider group of applicants. An especially committed Mason who has wasted much of his life in these activities can be raised by the [witch]Craft leadership to the 33rd Degree. See Figure 51 on page 299 for details of selected US auxiliary Masonic bodies (of which there is a large number). Most people never look below the surface of anything, or prefer not to be troubled with the facts. But the reality is that several of the Masonic founders of the United States, including Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, were 'Deists'. The primary feature of this aberration is that while God (whom Masons start by calling the Great Architect of the Universe) created everything, he then fell asleep or isolated Himself from the entire creation and allowed everything to operate on its own - a heresy which is the very essence of the teachings of Freemasonry. By means of this device, an elite arrogates to itself the 'right', procured by means of occultic initiation rites, to become 'masters' of mankind, ordering its affairs on behalf of the 'Brotherhood of Man', which is code for the fraternity of 'the interested', i.e. those who have undergone the necessary secret initiations. Masons who think they can combine Christianity and Freemasonry are sadly deluded, and lost: 'Ye have forsaken the commandments of the Lord, and followed Ba'alim... How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow him, but if Ba'al, then follow him' [1 Kings, Chapter 18, verses 18-21]. 'No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon' [Luke, Chapter 16, verse 13]. Masonic participation is contrived to ensure that this truth is wiped from their minds.

THE STRUCTURES OF OVERT U.S. AND U.K. FREEMASONRY

33 Sovereign Grand Inspector General

*{ Order of the Knights of Malta 13
Order of the Knights Templar 12
Order of the Knights of the Red Cross 11
Super Excellent Master 10
Select Master 9
Royal Master 8
Royal Arch Mason 7
Most Excellent Master 6
Past Master 5
Mark Master Mason 4

Chapter Degrees

* In U.S. listings, Knights Templar = 13

32 Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret
31 Grand Inquisitor Commander [Inspector]
30 Grand Elected Knight Kadosh
29 Grand Scottish Knight of St Andrew
28 Knight of the Sun, Adept [or Prince Adept]
27 Knight [Sovereign] Commander of the Temple
26 Prince of Mercy or Scotch Trinitarian
25 Knight of the Brazen Serpent
24 Prince of the Tabernacle
23 Chief of the Tabernacle
22 Prince of Libanus or Knight of the Royal Axe
21 Patriarch Noachite or Prussian Knight
20 Grand Master of All Symbolic Lodges
19 Grand Pontiff or Sublime Scotch Mason
18 Knight Rose Croix[4]
17 Knight of the East and West
16 Prince of Jerusalem
15 Knight of the East [Knight of the Sword]
14 Perfect Elu [Scottish Knight of Perfection][3]
13 Royal Arch of Solomon [Royal Arch of Enoch][2]
12 [Grand] Master Architect
11 Sublime Knight Elect [Elu of Twelve]
10 Illustrious Master Elect of Fifteen [Elu of Fifteen]
09 Elected Knight of Nine [Elu of Nine]
08 Intendant of the Buildings
07 Provost and Judge
06 Confidential Secretary[1]
05 Perfect Master
04 Secret Master

Notes to Scottish Rite Degrees:
1. Or Intimate Secretary.
2. Or Knight of the 9th Arch.
3. Or Grand Scottish Knight of the Second Vault or Sublime Mason.
4. Or Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Sovereign Prince Rose Croix of H.R.D.M.

BLUE LODGE
03 MASTER MASON
02 FELLOW CRAFT
01 ENTERED APPRENTICE

'It is not intended that the initiate should understand; but it is intended that he shall imagine that he understands': A. Pike

- 'Geomasonry' runs its own Secret Service which cooperates with the national Secret Services of all countries, thus serving the aims and purposes of Internationalism'. This Author submits, therefore, that not only are intelligence services occult secret societies, as mentioned, but that they are essentially merged with, complementary to, and impregnated with, Masonic networks worldwide, so that any 'Chinese walls' erected within national intelligence services that may be intended cosmetically to preserve national secrets, are easily penetrated, unreliable and vulnerable to being ignored. This means that Masonically-impregnated intelligence services, which are all to a greater or lesser extent interpenetrated by competing domestic and foreign intelligence operatives, do not, and cannot, serve the national interests of the governments formally employing them, but can and must only serve the internationalist agenda. This, in turn, is clearly a Luciferian-Satanic agenda that can never be moulded to suit national interests, as nation states are intended by the geomasonic-Illuminati fraternity, which owes allegiance only to itself (leaving aside its allegiance to Lucifer), to be abolished. Given this state of affairs, it follows that all intelligence services pose a grave threat to the integrity and interests of the national governments to which they are supposed to be loyal. As has already been reported, one veteran senior US intelligence expert told the Author that, when undertaking momentous and hazardous operations overseas on instructions received from the highest levels, he and his colleagues 'did not realise at the time' that they were not actually working for Uncle Sam, but were really working for the Illuminati. This is certainly the most 'illuminating' (and honest) first-hand evidence obtained by the Author to corroborate the assessments contained in this book.
- Illuminised geomasonry is by definition lawless, harbouring an intention to replace all laws with its own - a fact that accounts for the ready, arrogant and self-acknowledged criminality of elements of certain intelligence services. After all, if a primary long-range objective of the geomasonic agenda is to undermine the law, why should we be surprised any longer that the US intelligence community routinely breaks domestic and international laws with relish and impunity, protected behind the barrier of the National Security Act of 1947 et seq.? Why should anyone be interested in the abominable fact that GO-2 controls two drug-trafficking cartels from MI6 headquarters in Lambeth, and with the proceeds supervises the illegal distribution of drug-derived money to the controlled British political parties and schools? So, these secret societies calling themselves intelligence services, which purport to be working for their own governments, break the laws of their own and foreign governments - and yet rely upon the laws of their nation states when they want to enforce their own dark interests. One should never underestimate the vituperative venom and ruthlessly determined anger with which criminalised US intelligence operatives, for instance, rush to the law courts to proliferate false witness against fellow operatives with whom they are in murderous dispute - or against impertinent outsiders who, their paranoid minds imagine, threaten to disturb the criminalised environment which they are accustomed to exploit for their own personal benefit, as well as to enrich the intelligence community generally so that it operates as an untouchable power far beyond the reach and control of the Legislative Branch.
- Geomasonry is determined to procure the abolition of all private property. It is accordingly unsurprising that both Britain and the United States have placed, and are placing, on their respective Statute Books, dictatorial legislation providing inter alia for the arbitrary confiscation of private property without compensation: for that is exactly what is intended, once all levels of the oppressive infrastructure have been put in place, and Soviet-style Communism (an Illuminati product) is ready to be imposed from above. This is the true Leninist meaning of the Soviet Academy of Leninist Sciences' word 'convergence'. In the United States, bankruptcy laws were overturned with effect from 17th October 2005, so that the authorities acquired the power to seize the assets of those individuals who would formerly have filed for bankruptcy.

- Geomasonry is the ruthlessly determined enemy of True Christianity, and seeks to annexe and reorientate all false and apostate formal religious organisations, not least as one means of undermining the family, which is the key to destroying private property (according to the distorted, brainwashed 'thinking' of these people). Mikhail Gorbachev's reiteration of the geomasonic war on religion, which must be won before 'Communism' can be imposed and consolidated, was summarised in his statement on 15th December 1987 in Uzbekistan: 'There must be no let-up in the war against religion because as long as religion exists Communism cannot prevail. We must intensify the obliteration of all religions wherever they are being practiced or taught'. Gorbachev is a Jew, whose real name is Orbach or Korbach. 'Religion' has to be 'abolished', and yet Masons refer to their gobbldegook as the 'Masonic Religion'- revealing yet again the double-minded Satanic lies, chaos and confusion inherent in their own perverted logic, which is based 100% on cynicism and deception. At the same time, it is clear that, since the intelligence services are united and merged with, and duplicated by, geomasonry, and are de facto servants of the Illuminati, they are by definition likewise anti-religious and thus inherently ill-disposed towards Scripture, and the Way, the Truth and the Life. Certain US intelligence cadres are interested in 'organised religion' solely as yet another transmission mechanism for 'the transformation of humanity'.

- The greatest importance is attached by the 'hidden' Illuminati geomasonic controllers to esoteric preoccupations: At the highest levels, this involves elaborate operations to manipulate the mass consciousness, with a watchful All-Seeing Eye, by means of a network of intelligence-linked organisations and power brokers that were 'described by Walter Bowart in his 1978 classic work, 'Operation Mind-Control', as the "Cryptocracy". The Cryptocracy is not a myth; it seeks to transform humanity through an alchemical processing of the mass consciousness or Group Mind which involves various tests and corresponding responses through channels linked to secret societies'[72] - the same synarchy that operates behind the screen of Freemasonry. 'The result is both psychological and cultural control; but, more importantly, transformation. The Cryptocracy has essentially kept the mind of the masses cooking in a cauldron like a Renaissance alchemist, and occasionally tastes, adds ingredients, and stirs'[73]. The consequences of this relentless offensive can be seen by contemplating the truly appalling condition of the British press, which, within the space of just a few months in 2005, descended almost in unison into the far depths, filling pages with sterile scandal, celebrity 'junk news', salacious gossip, empty editorialising, fatuously superficial argumentation, a sharp reduction of international reporting, open advocacy for the drug culture, and other aberrations too numerous to list - with no diminution of the familiar British journalistic opinionated arrogance.

Two further dimensions of geomasonry remain to be considered. First, as a means of gaining an understanding of the heterogeneous make-up of this false 'religion', and showing how its Luciferian progenitors have cherry-picked occult sorcery rites and inventions from several primary occult sources, a summary of the origins of the 33 Degrees of just the 'Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite' (America) and of the 'Ancient and Accepted Rite' (England), will be helpful. While Freemasonry is, by the admission not only of prominent Jewish historians but on the evidence of history and non-Jewish analysts, profoundly and wholly Jewish, occultic rites have been annexed to 'speculative Masonry' from reprobate sources other than the Kabbalah. Secondly, an outline of the global geomasonic control mechanisms, and their locations in Europe, not the United States, will shed further light on the 'division of powers' between Pike and Mazzini.

Concerning the second point, close advisers of the Author who are in touch with operatives possessing 'the highest clearance' - which means intelligence clearances that are higher than that of the President of the United States, namely occult clearances - are adamant, and the Author agrees, that the primary occult geomasonic controlling power centres are located in Europe, not the United States. This would be consistent with our knowledge that the United States is an experimental consequence of a German-originated Rosicrucian operation originally spearheaded by Sir Francis Bacon whose ultimate loyalty was not to the British Sovereign. It is also consistent with the fact [see below] that the primary geomasonic aclministrative centre was and remains Berlin. This reality is paralleled by the importance of the Vatican as a geopolitical centre of the Illuminati, consolidated since Giuseppe Mazzini assumed total control over 'political action' in Rome. Given the involvement of European current and former Royalty, such sources say that 'the Europeans are fighting it out among themselves' - with the Germans prevailing.

THE STRUCTURE OF JEWISH SCOTTISH RITE ROSICRUCIAN FREEMASONRY

Lady Queenborough provides the following breakdown of the overt 'origins' of the 33 Degrees of the 'Scottish Rite' dimension of geomasonry. She prefaced this breakdown with the statement that 'John H. Cowles, Supreme Grand Commander for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, 1929, stated that 'this rite, of Jewish origin, has 33 Degrees'[74], which are named as follows:

- Symbolic or Blue Masonry: The Craft Degrees, which are practically the same in the United States as under the Grand Lodge of England, Scotland and Ireland, consist of: 1: Entered Apprentice; 2: Fellow Craft; 3: Master Mason: All of Jewish origin. In these Degrees, candidates are lied to and comprehensively deceived and misled. 'It is not intended that [the Blue Degree Mason] shall understand [the false interpretations]. But it is intended that he shall imagine he understands them': Albert Pike. The overt 'origins' of the subsequent 30 Degrees are indicated in italics where known:

- Red Masonry or Chapters: These Degrees are conferred in a so-called Lodge of Perfection, and the presiding officer must be of the 16th Degree, at least. Although, as has been reviewed, both Jewish and Gentile authorities explicitly confirm that the Scottish Rite Degrees and rituals are of Jewish origin, this origin is technically 'disguised' by intelligence to the effect that a significant proportion of them are asserted to be 'of Illuminati origin': but this 'comes to the same thing', since the Illuminati are also extensively Jewish and wedded to the Kabbalah. The Illuminati set out in the late 18th century to penetrate and piggy-back on open Freemasonry, as well as to use Freemasonry as a screen behind which to carry out their global hegemony 'mission' which German 'forces' have consistently used as cover for Germany's transnational hegemony objective (the Thousand-Year Reich). Jewish Masons 'worked over' all the 'workings' and consolidated the Jewishness of this elaborate trap set for Christians. As will also be noted, a number of the higher Degrees are of Templar origin; but the Templars at times controlled Rosicrucian rituals[75]. It can also be seen that all these sorcery strands are interrelated.

4: Secret Master. Of Illuminati origin.
5: Perfect Master. Of Illuminati origin.
6: Intimate Secretary. Of Illuminati origin.
7: Provost and Judge. Of Illuminati origin.
8: Intendant of the Buildings. Of Illuminati origin.
9: Elected Knight of Nine, or Elect of Nine. Of specifically Jewish origin.
10: Illustrious Master elect of Fifteen. Of specifically Jewish origin.
11: Sublime Knight Elect. Of specifically Jewish origin.
12: Grand Master Architect. Of Illuminati origin.
13: Royal Arch of Enoch, or Knight of the 9th Arch, or Royal Arch of Solomon. Of Illuminati origin.
14: Scottish Knight of Perfection, or Grand Scottish Knight of the Sacred Vault, or Sublime Mason. Of Illuminati origin.

- Council of Princes of Jerusalem:

The next two Degrees are conferred by such a Council of Princes of Jerusalem: 15: Knight of the East, or Knight of the Sword. Of Illuminati origin. 16: Prince of Jerusalem. Of Illuminati origin.

- Chapter of the Princes of Rose-Croix:

The next two Degrees are conferred by a Chapter of Princes of Rose-Croix: 17: Knight of the East and West. Oflllluminati origin.
18: Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Sovereign Prince Rose Croix of H.R.D.M. (Heredom). Of specifically Templar origin.

- Black Masonry: Also called Philosophical Lodges, or Areopagi:

These Degrees are conferred in a Consistory of Princes of the Royal Secret:
19: Grand Pontiff or Sublime Scottish Mason. Of specifically Templar origin.
20: Grand Master of all Symbolic Lodges. Of specifically Templar origin.
21: A Patriarch Noachite, or Prussian Knight. Of specifically Jewish origin.
22: Prince of Libanus, or Knight of the Royal Axe. Origin unknown or unstated 23: Chief of the Tabernacle. Of specifically Templar origin.
24: Prince of the Tabernacle. Of specifically Templar origin.
25: Knight of the Brazen Serpent. Of specifically Templar origin.
26: Prince of Mercy or Scotch Trinitarian. Of specifically Templar origin.
27: Sovereign Commander of the Temple. Of specifically Templar origin.
28: Knight of the Sun or Prince Adept. Origin unknown or unstated.
29: Grand Scottish Knight of St Andrew. Of specifically Templar origin.
30: Grand Elected Knight Kadosch. Of specifically Templar origin.
30: France: Illustrious Knight of the Temple. Of specifically Templar origin.
30: France: Knight of the White and Black Eagle. Of specifically Templar origin
30: France: Grand Elected Knight Kadosch. Of specifically Templar origin.[76]

According to the Jew Paul Rosen, in 'Satan et Cie' [page 142] repeatedly cited by Lady Queenborough: 'The philosophy of the Degree of Kadosch (30°), the apotheosis and real aims of Masonic teaching, can be summed up in the following words:

'I, I alone, All mine, All for me, by any and every means'[77].

This is, of course, 100% the reverse of the Word of Jesus Christ: that we live for Him and by Him, whose Holy Spirit gently leads us to the Way, the Truth and the Life: 'If ye continue in my word' (through Scripture), 'then are ye my disciples; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free' [see page 1]. By contrast, the Kabbalistic 'Tree of Life' that is unfolded to adepts in, for instance, the 18th (Rosicrucian) Degree of the Scottish (Jewish) Rite, is in fact that same Tree of Life that was growing in the Garden of Eden, of the fruit of which Eve ate, which teaches how to evoke evil spirits and Satan himself. Since Satan is the author of all lies, the 'truth' purveyed via the 'Ancient Mysteries' revealed by eating the fruit of the 'Tree of Life' is a lie - leading not to life, as with Christ, but to the opposite: death. The Tree of Life is itself a lie: it is The Tree of Death.

There are, Rosen explained, seven different ways of carrying out the programme of: 'I, I alone, All mine, All for me, by any and every means' - and 'consequently' seven sorcery grades of Knight Kadosch, namely:

30.1: The Jewish Kadosch.
30.2: The Primitive Christian Kadosch.
30.3: The Kadosch of the Crusades.
30.4: The Kadosch of the Templars.
30.5: The Kadosch of the Puritan.
30.6: The Kadosch of the Jesuit.
30.7: The Scottish Kadosch, alone true Freemasonry [sic][78].

• White Masonry, which is Administrative and consists of three Degrees, conferred by the Supreme Councils:
31: Grand Inquisitor Commander. Ostensible Origin not revealed.
32: Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret. Ostensible Origin not revealed.
33: Sovereign Grand Inspector General[79]. Ostensible Origin not revealed.

ASSERTED ORIGINS AND OBJECTIVES OF THE SCOTTISH RITE

The 'Scottish Rite' emerged, according to the French historian Le Forestier, 'from the Chapter of Clermont, as a development of the Ramsay Rite. Its foundation dates from 1748, at which period it was introduced into Germany by Count de Schmettau[80]. However, as with so much Masonic writing, which deals in lies and make-believe, much of which is floated in order to assist the process of obfuscation (since Masons are themselves routinely intended to be deceived, as Albert Pike argues, by fellow Masons), this is contradicted by a separate source, which asserts that 'The Premier Conclave of England, which has existed from time immemorial, gave rise, it is said, to the foundation of the 'Council of the Emperors of the East and West', a body which was established in Paris by Chevalier de Bonneville about the year 1758 and is considered as the parent of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite'[81]. A brief recapitulation of the 'Morin' issue is appropriate here, to show not least how freemasonry thrives amid its own chaos:

In 1761, the Lodges and Councils of the Superior Degrees having by then been extended throughout Europe, 'Frederick II (Frederick the Great), King of Prussia, as Grand Commander of the Order of Princes of the Royal Secret, or 32 Degrees, was by general consent acknowledged and recognized as Sovereign and Supreme Head of the Scottish Rite' [see pages 297 et seq]. On 29th August 1761, Stephen Morin, of Jewish extraction, obtained a Charter from the 'Council of the Emperors of the East and West' a.k.a. the Grand Consistory of Princes of the Royal Secret, convened in Paris, under the

THE 'IRON-FIST' MISSION OF THE UNITED STATES

THE 'FUNCTIONING CORE' VS. THE 'NON-FUNCTIONING GAP'

U.S. GLOBAL MILITARY 'LEADERSHIP' ROLE EXPLAINED

Under the dispensation afforded to the United States as the implementer of the 'New World' Order - The Order, to be consummated by the 'New World' in accordance with the United States' original Rosicrucian-occult remit imposed by its European geomasonic Illuminati founders - the United States has 'permission' to develop the world's main military enforcement arm. In March 2003, 'Esquire' magazine published an article entitled 'The Pentagon's New Map', by Thomas P. M. Barnett, of the US Naval War College, the Masonic emblem of which is shown in Figure 49 (T) on page 293. This article, which displayed the map in question, indicated that the Pentagon (on behalf NOT of the United States but of the secret New (Under)World Order-Illuminati remit) has divided the world into two segments. It should be noted that the month in which this article appeared was the same month as the launch of the Second Iraq War which, consequent upon the resistance organised by Soviet Military Intelligence (GRU), has proved disastrous. It is not known whether, as a result of that reckless and illegal venture, US strategy has been appropriately modified, but the likelihood is that it has not, although the chaos in Iraq has delayed implementation of further steps.

- The Functioning Core: Nations that are already functioning within the 'Global System' or which are known to be moving in the intended direction due to past blackmail, bribery and corruption ops; and:
- The Non-Functioning Gap/a.k.a. the Non-Integrating Gap: Countries that are not yet functioning as demanded within the Global System and which are unlikely to do so in the foreseeable future, unless jack-booted into compliance by US (the article adds: 'or European') military forces, or by the threat of invasion.

The clearly inspired article by a US military intelligence officer bragged, ahead of the launch of the invasion of Iraq: 'Our next war in the Gulf will mark a historic tipping-point - the moment when Washington takes real ownership of strategic security in the age of globalization'.

This globalisation offensive was in fact planned in 1776, but no-one today is supposed to understand this central fact underpinning the reality that the United States is an 'irreversibly' revolutionary power, endowed with instructions from its European geomasonic 'controllers' to impose the 'New World' Order that was to be established initially in the United States, ultimately upon the whole world. When this Rosicrucian scheme, borrowed from Germany, was first elaborated by Sir Francis Bacon and associates in the 17th century, Bacon had despaired of any prospect of its anti-church globalist-esoteric 'ideals' being installed in 'old Europe', so they turned their attention to the 'New World' where a New Order, consistent with the aspirations and intentions of members of The Order of the Quest' could, they assumed, be realised: and these instructions were incorporated into the symbology of the Great Seal of the United States. The first part of the 'Esquire' article contained the familiar disinformation, alleging that 9/11 had 'necessitated' a 'war on terror' which had not been 'necessary' previously, even though the Author's files show that a preoccupation with terrorism has been central to US and other Western Governments' 'strategies' for several decades. The rest of the article, though, revealed exactly where future wars were intended to be waged - in order to jump-start 'Non-Functioning Gap' countries into compliance with the 'New (Under) World Order'. The United States has been instrumental in all wars of the 20th and 21st centuries.

The accompanying map identified the 'Non-Functioning Core' as a huge area of the world spanning part (but not all) of Central America, plus Bolivia and Peru, the whole of Africa with the exception of South Africa, much of East Asia, Taiwan, Afghanistan, Bhutan, Nepal, Kazakhstan (obviously not 'integrated' by 2003) and the Soviet Central Asian states, Iran, almost the entire Middle East Turkey and the whole of former Yugoslavia (implying that the Illuminati's odious wars there have not procured the intended outcome). Those countries in Central America such as El Salvador and Nicaragua, with their 'in-your-face' geomasonic flags, and many countries in Africa and elsewhere which use Masonic symbols in their flags such as Ghana and Libya, were, in March 2003, evidently still not considered to have been 'integrated'.

The article actually listed those countries that the Pentagon, secretly implementing the 'New World' Order plan, considered to be 'Non-Integrating' - namely, the Caribbean Rim, virtually the whole of Africa, the Balkans, the Caucasus (which is odd, given the US takeover of Georgia), Central Asia and the whole of the Middle East excluding Israel, plus Southwest and Southeast Asia. Of course, such grandiose plans are doomed to failure. But the article stripped the veil from the Illuminist mentality prevailing in Washington, which reflected the continuing impact of illusions on the basis of which America was founded. ■ Presidency of Chaillon de Joinville, the representative of Frederick the Great and Substitute General of The Order, which authorised him to travel to America as the Grand Inspector General for the New World. It is Morin, as we have seen, who founded the American dimension of the Scottish Rites. Morin claimed to have received his authority from the Comte de Clermont, who at the request of a man called Lacorne, had charged him (Morin) with establishing Masonry throughout the world. Apparently Lacorne derived his 'powers' as a consequence of the negligence of the Comte de Clermont who, in 1744, had ceased to take much interest in the Lodges and had delegated his authority to this dancing master fellow, and to a Jewish banker called Baure (Bauer). Lacorne was evidently a 'dancing master' who sold charters and Degrees to supplement his teaching activities. On 25th October 1762, the Grand Masonic Constitutions were finally ratified in Berlin, seat of Frederick the Great, and were proclaimed as the governing instructions and mechanism for all Masonic bodies working in the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry-sorcery, across two hemispheres. In the same year, the Constitutions were transmitted to Morin[82]. According to the analyst John Yarker, 'He (Morin) probably - ignorant charlatan as he was - mistook Frederick II, Grandson of Barbarossa, an actual King of Jerusalem, for his contemporary Frederick II of Prussia[83]. This narrative indicates that Morin's Masonic 'authority' was much less well-founded than he claimed, which was why it was 'revoked'.

The history of the French line of Freemasonry is equally confused, due to incessant quarrelling; but somehow in 1766, under the auspices of a newly established Grande Loge de France, subsequently renamed the Grand-Orient, a form of representative governance was at last adopted in an attempt to curb the constant bickering (which is the norm among crooks and liars). However the quarrels continued, 'with the Grand-Orient and the original Grand Lodge each being 'supported by a separate Rosicrucian organisation besides its own proper Lodges'[84], revealing the central role exercised by the Rosicrucian source and tradition of sorcery. To this Rosicrucian dimension was soon added Illuminism itself, given that, according to the later Masonic writer D. Margiotta, Adam Weishaupt, 'founder' of the Illuminati, and his favourite, Baron von Knigge, introduced something called 'the organisation of the Holy Vehm as well as certain legends of Illuminism into French Masonry in 1783'. The Holy Vehm appears to have been some kind of variant of the Inquisition, used in a non-Papal context. Lady Queenborough added, begging many questions, that 'the only persons exempted from the jurisdiction of this terrible court of "Justice", the Holy Vehm, were the clergy, women and children, Jews and heathens, and certain members of the higher nobility'[85].

In a revealing passage, Blanchard, who was himself a cynical Mason and called his fellow Masons 'dupes' but managed to discuss his subject accurately, wrote citing the Masonic author Mackey, as follows: 'The one "mission and object" of Masonry is kept steadily in view; which is the worship of the god of this world [= the Prince of this World - Ed.], who is Satan, as the 'Grand Architect of the Universe'; and to accomplish this by inventing a 'religion in which all mankind agree' [pantheism and syncretism: 'The Universal Church of Man' - Ed.]; and this, by putting all earth's religions upon a level, and uniting them together in Masonic worship, which is boldly avowed in rituals, lexicons, and philosophical Degrees. This is (in Revelation, Chapter 13, verse 14) called the image of the beast, made by "them that dwell on the earth", that is everybody; every creed, and no creed; all who join the secret Lodges. But this world-religion must have some form, and shape, to hold together; and be taxed; hence, it takes the form, or image, of the beast. Lodge despotism is as absolute as Romish despotism, and is the image of it...'[this being a reference to the fact that the overall 'pretext' for the creation of this syncretist 'religion' was revulsion at the excesses and dogma of the Roman Catholic Church - Ed.]. 'Note how the Craft, by which this is to be accomplished, viz., Masonry, promises men salvation by ceremonies invented by men, administered by priests, and inhabited by devils. This is the sum and substance of all the false religions on earth, and will ultimately unite them against Christ. But the only opponent Masonry dreads is Jesus Christ, who refused to worship Satan, and his followers'[86]. The importance of this last statement cannot be over-emphasised. For this is not a True Christian writing: Blanchard was an avowed enemy of Christians, a historian of Masonry.

ASSERTED ORIGINS OF THE YORK RITE, DRUGS AND SEX WORSHIP

It will have been observed that ten of the 'higher or Black Masonry Degrees are ostensibly of Templar origin, albeit that, at the same time, all are of Jewish origin, since, as Dr Wise stated in 1855 (and others have reiterated) 'masonry is a Jewish institution whose history, Degrees, charges, passwords, and explanations are Jewish from the beginning to the end...'. Given reports of paedophilia and extreme debauchery at exalted official levels in Britain and America, it is as well to recall that having forgotten their real purpose and embraced Gnosticism while in Palestine, the Templars, who were in touch with the 'Assassins' and thus with their drug-driven culture, degenerated and resorted to organised debauchery. According to Blanchard, the cynical Masonic writer whose work is cited by Lady Queenborough, several of the founders of the Templar Order, established in 1118 by Hugh de Payens with 13 Degrees - as has its modern successor, the York Rite - were initiates of the pagan, drug-dealing sect of the 'Assassins'. Blanchard reported, in 'Knights Templarism Illustrated', that 'During the Middle Ages, the most eminent warriors and noblemen of Europe entered its ranks. The Knights of the Temple became the bulwark of the Holy Land against the Saracens. France, England and other countries formed associations (Priories) of Templar Knights, each with its own Grand Master and other officers. Such great wealth was accumulated in the treasuries of The Order [inter alia and probably mainly through levies on pilgrims to the Holy Sites - Ed.] that in the year 1185 its annual income represented a sum equal to thirty millions of dollars. The Templars were bankers' [more accurately, having accumulated such large surplus, they started lending out their surpluses on usurious terms]. 'But wealth and prosperity naturally led to licentiousness, neglect of Templar law and in the end, destruction'[87].

However their destruction, not reviewed here, was not permanent, as much recent literature has explained. Under the influence of the 'Assassins', the Templars resorted to the practice of Phallicism, or sex-worship, in accordance with the regional tradition, and adopted Satanism, venerating 'The Baphomet', the idol of the Luciferians. The crime of sodomy became a rite of Templar initiation, as is the case in the initiation rites of the Yale-based Skull and Bones sect, one of the Templars' successors [see Chapter 2]. The outline of the Templars' formal 'disappearance', which forms the basis of most modern knowledge, was summarised by a source consulted by Lady Queenborough thus:

'In the year 1307, the Grand Master of The Order, Jacques de Molay, was arrested in Paris with sixty of his knights and imprisoned upon charges of idolatry and other crimes' levied against them by the Papal Inquisition's instructions to the French authorities. 'Shortly afterwards, all the Knights Templar in France were put in prison in Paris. On 10th May 1310, 54 of them were burned alive. On 13th March 1314, the Grand Master, with three of his most eminent officers, suffered in like manner. The great possessions of The Order' - which had invested heavily in the property market - 'were now confiscated and the society [was] suppressed both by the Pope and by the leading monarchs of Europe'[88]. In England, the Knights Templar were dissolved in the reign of Edward II, and after the grant of their properties to the Knights Hospitallers, these in their turn were dissolved by Henry VIII' who got the idea of seizing such properties from his knowledge of the Templar precedent. After the death of de Molay, elements of the Knights Templar fleet stationed in the Mediterranean sailed through the Straits of Gibraltar and found one protector in King Dinis II of Portugal, who reformed The Order in 1317, relabelling them the Knights of Christ. There is a considerable literature which reveals, in much detail, how the Templars also found refuge and freedom in the Kingdom of Scotland, and in Ireland. A large number of place-names all over the British Isles testify to the Templars' extensive property interests and settlements there. But this investigation is beyond the scope and remit of the present work. It has been rudely asserted that [Masonic history is] a department of history which is not only obscure and highly controversial, but by ill luck the happiest of all hunting grounds for the light-headed, the fanciful, the unscholarly, and the lunatic fringe of the British Museum Reading Room[89]. The overt successor network of the Templars, called the York Rite, has, as noted, 13 Degrees, which correspond to those used by the Templars. These are also the stated original source for ten Scottish Rite Degrees. It is confusing to be told by reliable sources that there are various origins for these Degrees, while at the same time all are Jewish. However, this 'problem' disappears when it is recognised that the Kabbalistic content of the Templar Degrees can only have been procured from the Babylonian Jewish tradition, with which the Templars were in the closest contact during their predatory operations in Palestine.

THE DIVISION OF LABOUR BETWEEN PIKE AND MAZZINI

The two later fathers of 'modern' high Masonry, who together established the governing structures, were Giuseppe Mazzini, the Italian revolutionary, M.A.F.I.A. king-pin and friend of Karl Marx, and Albert Pike, who appeared to have been Satanised during the American Civil War, when he was a Brigadier-General in the Confederate Army. As Governor of Indian territory, Pike force-created an army of Indian warriors composed of Chickasaws, Comanches, Creeks, Cherokees, Miamis, Osages, Kansas and Choctaws; and under Pike's command, these Indian hordes indulged in 'an orgy of murder and atrocities so terrible that foreign powers interfered. Representations made by England, threatening intervention in the name of humanity, finally compelled Jefferson Davis to disband his auxiliary Indian troops'[90].

Mazzini had approached Pike, impressed by Pike's success in consolidating and controlling (unofficial) Freemasonry in the United States, and also impressed by the great power that the late Lord Palmerston, the British Prime Minister, who had died in 1866, had exercised worldwide, which Mazzini had attributed to Palmerston's personal influence with Masonic chiefs. However since Giuseppe Mazzini surmised that the way Freemasonry was organised was inefficient, he set about studying how to organise it internationally; and in 1870, Mazzini reached agreement with Pike for the creation of the Supreme Rite. This was to be the supreme, super-secret, controlling mechanism, permeated with and dedicated to occultism - tasting of the 'Tree of Knowledge' (a.k.a. The Tree of Life, a.ka. Tree of Death) and engaged in invoking evil spirits and Satan himself.

Under the accord, Pike awarded himself, and was given, dogmatic authority and the title of Sovereign Pontiff of Universal Freemasonry, while Mazzini retained executive authority with the title of Sovereign Chief of Political Action. Mazzini pressed Pike to draw up the Statutes and the Grades of the new Supreme Secret Rite, which were intended to provide the liturgical bonds for the members of centralised 'High' Masonry.

Pike named this manifestation of 'The Order', the New and Reformed Palladian Rite, or New and reformed Palladium. Remember that the Masonic word 'Palladium' means, according to another Masonic authority (cited by Lady Queenborough): 'One ruling like a King the Phallus being a universal emblem of Kings; from Pala, Hindoo for the male organ'. As previously mentioned, 'The Order of the Palladium' was orginally founded in 1730, shortly after which year it was introduced in Charleston, where it remained inactive until 1886, when Pike revived and renamed it as indicated, giving a 'new impulse' (i.e., releasing further 'seething energies of Lucifer') to the practice of 'High Masonry'.

The Palladium remains little understood, as the number of its members is strictly limited, and, according to Stevens (cited by Lady Queenborough), 'the deepest secrecy surrounds all its deliberations'[91]. However it is known that among the 'higher' (= of course 'lower' spiritually) Degrees of The Order of the Palladium, as this Rite complex is also called, are 'Adelphos' and 'Companion of Ulysses' for men, and 'Penelope' for women, all with connotations of Hades. According to the cited authoritative 19th century geomasonic author and 'High Mason' Domenico Margiotta:

'It was agreed that the existence of this Rite would be kept strictly secret and that no mention of it would ever be made in the assemblies of the Lodges and Inner Shrines of other rites, even when by accident, the meeting might happen to be composed exclusively of Brothers having the perfect initiation; for the secret of the new institution was only to be divulged with the greatest caution to a chosen few belonging to the 'ordinary' high grades[92]. To recruit adepts, Margiotta wrote, 'they planned to use some members of the other rites, but in the beginning they meant to rely principally on those among the initiates of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rites who were already addicted [sic] to occultism'[93]. 'It was particularly the initiates of the Thirty-Third Degree Scottish Rites, who, owing to their extensive international ramifications, were privileged to recruit adepts for Palladism. That is why the Supreme Rite [of Palladism] created its Triangles (the name given to Palladian Lodges) by Degrees, but these were established on a firm base, the lowliest of its initiates being Brothers long tested in ordinary Masonry' (i.e., long since Satanised). For the absolute elimination of all doubt that Palladian Masonry elevates Lucifer to the godhead and equates Jesus Christ with the Devil, Margiotta elaborated:

'Palladism is essentially a Luciferian rite. Its religion is Manichean neo-Gnost-icism, teaching that the divinity is dual and that Lucifer is the equal of Adonay (Jesus Christ), with Lucifer, the God of Light and Goodness struggling for humanity against Adonay the God of Darkness and Evil' (Satanic reversal - Ed.). 'In stating this principle of the secret cult of the Triangles, Albert Pike had only specified and unveiled the dogmas of the high grades of all other Masonries, for in no matter what Rite, the Great Architect of the Universe is not the God worshipped by the Christians'[94].

It is important to emphasise the significance of Domenico Margiotta's statement that, in revealing the essence of the 'secret cult of the (Palladian) Triangles', Albert Pike had 'only specified and unveiled the dogmas of the high grades of all other Masonries'. This statement provides 100% further confirmation that the 'Supreme Being' worshipped by ALL MASONIC MANIFESTATIONS, which is to say, ALL the compartmentalised components of the Illuminist Freemasonic synarchy ('The Order'), is 'that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan', and that theirs is an idolatry of pagan occultic sex.

THE SUPER-SECRET SUPREME GEOMASONIC CONTROL MECHANISM

The super-secret, central controlling power of the Palladian Rite's global network of 'Triangles' was exposed by Margiotta in the following explanation, which confirms that the Palladian Rite is an, if not THE, apparatus of (Satanic) control:

'For other reasons, these precautions were still necessary, in order to render possible the exercise of a supreme central directing power, reaching all the rites through the personal influence of the Elects and Perfect Initiates, these being invested with privileges, and giving the impulse, which emanated from the source of the highest universal authority. If Brothers, not fully initiated, had suspected the existence of this supreme organization, it is evident that, in the ordinary Lodges, there would always have been a tendency to resist the motions of such privileged persons'.

'To ensure the creation and good working of this formidable machine of Palladism, Mazzini had reserved for himself the office of Chief of Political Action, nor had he hesitated in bowing to the will of the Patriarch of Charleston who, by his preponderance in Scottish Rites, could easily penetrate all countries of the globe with this new institution. That is the reason for Mazzini giving supremacy to the dogmatic [i.e., the jurisdiction of formalised Satanic sorcery and the gobbldegook surrounding such activities as the evocation of spirits supervised by Pike - Ed] over the political authority in International Freemasonry'.

'The Holy See of the Dogma for the whole [geo]masonic world was set up in Charleston [on the 33rd parallel - Ed.], the sacred city [sic!] of the Palladium. Pike, the Sovereign Pontiff of Lucifer, was the President of the Supreme Dogmatic Directory, composed of ten Brothers of the highest grades who formed his Supreme Grand College of Emeritus Masons. The Sovereign Executive Directory of High Masonry was established at Rome under Mazzini himself'[95].

The CIA Rezident for Vatican City, the smallest sovereign state in the world, briefs the Pope every Friday. Opus Dei [see Chapter 6] a nefarious 'secret Catholic organisation using the Rosicrucian rose as one of its symbols [see Figure 62, page 395], with intelligence tentacles, authorised by Pope John Paul II even though previous Popes had refused to sanction its 'legality' (not surprisingly, given its focus, at the lowest level, on abuses such as flagellation of the body, which the Lord teaches us is the temple of the Holy Spirit), is extremely influential within the US intelligence community and in Washington DC - where senior spooks take special pride in their membership, perhaps because it provides a convenient 'Jesus' cover for their black personalities and souls. For instance, Robert Philip Hanssen, described as 'the most dangerous double agent in FBI history', delighted in the prestige that his membership of Opus Dei provided him, as well as its 'cover properties'. Mr Hanssen was sentenced to languish as a prisoner for life deep inside an underground bunker beneath special control structures in Denver, Colorado, and it was reported that he would never be allowed out - an indication of the peculiar cruelty meted out by the US intelligence community to its own personnel who go astray. In reality, the Author was informed in 2005 that 'all is forgiven' and he is a free man, living on the West Coast. As his biographer, David A. Vise, wrote on the very first page of his book 'The Bureau and the Mole'[96]:

'The Hanssens... relished the church's [St Catherine of Siena Church, Great Falls, Virginia] close ties to Opus Dei, an elite and influential movement within the Catholic Church, and delighted in praying alongside some of the most powerful people in Washington. More members of Opus Dei attended St Catherine's than any other church in the region. And several of its parishioners sent their boys to the Heights School in Potomac, Maryland, an Opus Dei academy...'[97]or youth indoctrination centre.

As indicated, the headquarters of Luciferian sorcery ritual dogma for the Palladian control structures governing global Masonry, according to the sources consulted, is based in Charleston, on the 33rd parallel. The executive or administrative headquarters for these structures was established by Albert Pike's European collaborator, Guiseppe Mazzini, in the Eternal City of Rome, the location of the Holy See, the headquarters of Catholicism, which does not faithfully propagate True (Biblical) Christianity, but in part 'another Christ'. As Paul wrote to the church at Corinth [in the Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 11, verses 3-4]:

'But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ. For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit... or another gospel... ye might well bear with him'. And that is what happened.

When Jesus was arraigned before Pontius Pilate [John, Chapter 18, verses 35-36], and Pilate, bewildered, asked the Lord: 'What hast thou done?', 'Jesus answered: 'My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from thence'. It is glorious to read a little further:

'Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice'. Pilate saith unto him, What is truth?' - the most important question in the world, left unanswered: for he was face to face with the bearer of Truth[98].

However Pope John Paul II, for instance, spent his Papacy making pronouncements on the affairs of this world. As a world politician masquerading as the representative of Jesus Christ, and sitting in His place, diverting attention from Him and from from 'the simplicity that is in Christ', Pope John Paul II claimed the right to be at the epicentre of a 'uniting' Europe (even though, on the basis of all non-ideological criteria, the European Union Collective has predictably been a catastrophic failure). In his book, published in 1990, entitled 'The Keys of this Blood', the Author's late friend, Malachi Martin wrote: 'What captures the unwavering attention of the secular leaders of the world in this remarkable network of the Roman Catholic Church is precisely the fact that it places at the personal disposition of the Pope a supranational, supra-continental, supra-trade-bloc structure that is so built and orientated that if tomorrow, by a sudden miracle [sic], a one-world government were established, the Roman Church would not have to undergo any essential change to retain its dominant position to further its global aims'[99].

Given the worldly orientation of the Papacy, behind its facade of false religiosity, and given the history of papal aberrations and debauchery, it is no accident that the executive seat of the Palladian (Phallic) Luciferian control structure was established by the sorcerer Pike's Luciferian associate, the criminal drug-dealer, revolutionary and mafia godfather, Giuseppe Mazzini, at Rome. However the 'seething organisational powers' of Lucifer had not yet completed the Luciferian control framework that was to be put in place, to confuse matters, quite separately from the later establishment of the super-secret Palladian Rite structures. According to Margiotta:

'The two secret chiefs, Pike and Mazzini, finally completed the organisation of High Masonry, establishing four Grand Central Directories for the whole world, functioning thenceforth to gather information for the benefit of their political policy and dogmatic propaganda. These were: The Grand Central Directories for North America located at Washington; for South America, at Montevideo, Uruguay; for Europe, at Naples; and for Asia and Oceania, at Calcutta. Later, a Central Sub-Directory for Africa was founded at Port Louis, Mauritius; and following the death of Mazzini, the Supreme Chief constituted a new Universal Sovereign Administrative Directory at BERLIN which ranked in the hierarchy after the Sovereign Executive Directories and before the four Great Central Directories'[100].

This was, of course, the same central control location as had been confirmed when Frederick the Great, as Grand Commander of The Order of Princes of the Royal Secret, presided over ratification of the Grand Masonic Constitutions on 28th October 1762. So the 'Morin' breach dividing American Scottish Rite Masonry from the authorised European 'line' was finally healed - at the 'High' Masonry Palladian Rite level - by the two evil scoundrels, Pike and Mazzini. Palladism is, however, separated from the administrative functions of the Directories.

THE ORDER OF PRECEDENCE OF THE SCOTTISH AND PALLADIAN CENTRES

The Palladian Rite structures were essentially a super-secret 'add-on' which came into being some time after the consolidation of the main Scottish Rite control centres. But subsequently, for practical purposes, the Scottish Rite and the secret Palladian Rite structures appear to have been directed from the three main de facto geomasonic power centres itemised below. Certainly, the order of precedence of the structure of geomasonry, intended to be the super-secret global control mechanism, was exposed by the 33rd Degree Italian Jewish Mason Domenico Margiotta, and can be summarised as follows:

1. ROME: Sovereign Executive Directory of High Masonry: The seat of the Sovereign Chief of Political Action: The intended administrative centre of the World Revolution. Note: Notwithstanding Margiotta's observation that Charleston is 'superior to' Rome, the Author has placed the Executive Centre ABOVE the Charleston Dogmatic Centre, reversing the opinion the American 'High Masons' have of their own superiority and importance, for a reason that will become very apparent later in this work

2. CHARLESTON: Supreme Dogmatic Directory, seat of the Sovereign Pontiff of Universal Freemasonry: The Scottish Rite/Palladian Dogmatic Centre. The Supreme Dogmatic Directory, where rituals of sorcery are supervised and from where they are promulgated, was composed of 'ten Brothers of the highest grades who form(ed) the Supreme Grand College of Emeritus Masons', as already explained.

3. BERLIN: Universal Sovereign Administrative Directory: The relationship of the Berlin Directory to the Rome Directory is not elucidated in the literature, but since Berlin ranks in the hierarchy ABOVE the Naples Directory, it is certainly more powerful: indeed, it is believed to be of exceptional importance, having been so ever since the days of Frederick the Great; and, to this day, BERLIN is the locus of Satanic events involving key geomasonic figures including some internationally prominent political operatives. The Berlin Directory functioned by means of a constantly renewed rotating Committee of Seven [see page 321] taken from the 'Supreme Councils, Grand Encampments, Grand Orients, and Grand Lodges of the World'. Two special delegates are permanently attached to the Berlin Directory, one for Finance and the other for Propaganda, both of whom are obliged to live in Germany, and to be in a sufficiently independent position to be able to attend at the seat of the Berlin Directory at a moment's notice. The Finance agent does not actually deal with funds: his task is to maintain a general balance sheet of all participating rites, in all countries, with the assistance of a Brother accountant sworn to absolute secrecy. The Propaganda agent furnishes intelligence to the Supreme Chiefs in Rome and Charleston. An examination of how his functions are performed provides further fascinating insights into the convoluted decision-making procedures within the European Union structures, which are clearly, on the basis of this solid evidence alone, of German Masonic origin. No-one outside the 'highest' geomasonic levels has ever identified or understood this connection. To explain this accurately, it is best to begin with the description of the sub-procedures by Bataille, replicated by Lady Queenborough:

'The business of the Propaganda agent is to furnish information to the Chiefs at Rome and Charleston.... He receives monthly, by secret messenger from Berlin, the report of all measures formulated at the Sovereign Administrative Directory relating to means and methods judged useful in spreading the principles of the association [sic]'

'After a meeting he examines, coordinates and frames a report of the decisions upon which, three months later, the seven members of the Berlin Directory will vote. Of these seven members, thanks to the system of rotation explained above, there are always at least two who, having belonged to the Directory at the time of the submission of the Resolution under consideration, are able to furnish commentaries and explanations to the newcomers. Only Resolutions having obtained a favourable vote of five or seven voices can be registered by the Delegate Recorder, and these can be finally adopted only on the second following month, if they pass unanimously. In the event of one or more persons opposing a measure, the matter is referred to the Chief at Rome after which, failing its approval, it is settled arbitrarily by the Chief at Charleston, from whose decision there is no appeal'[101].

This implies that Charleston, not Rome, is the very head of the two-headed serpent, and such a deduction may be correct in this context. However, as has been reviewed, the United States has a founding remit, dating from its establishment, which is symbolically represented on the Great Seal of the United States, and which 'obliges' its Luciferian World Revolution implementers to carry out certain global tasks in accordance with European occult Masonic requirements. This framework precedes the establishment of the Supreme Administration by Mazzini and Pike, and cannot be negated by 'imperatives' set up in accordance with their arrangements. The de facto subordination of the United States to the European occult geomasonic powers is, in the Author's opinion, deeply resented by certain informed US Masonic operatives, who may have thought that their country was truly independent; and understandably so. For their part, European sources, and US sources of European origin, confirm that the occult geomasonic 'controllers' in Europe are wary of the genie they released from their Rosicrucian bottle - which they consider to have become too powerful, although the United States is the military enforcement arm of their Revolution.

GERMAN GEOMASONIC SIMILARITIES WITH EUROPEAN UNION PROCEDURES

The origin of the 'rotating Presidency' of the European Union Collective, and of the even more bizarre 'changing memberships' of the European Council structures, is to be found in the arrangements originated for the Universal Sovereign Administrative Directory in Berlin. The constantly renewed membership of the Committee of Seven operates by means of an ingeniously contrived system of rotation, with the representatives having a mandate for three months only. Each of the existing Rites (Scottish, Grand Orient, et al) send two of their members annually, drawn from any country except Germany which, alone of all the countries represented, is entitled to one member all the time.

Indeed, of truly arresting significance is the similarity of these arrangements with the convoluted decision-making processes which bedevil the corrupt operations of the European Union today. The Presidency of the European Commission is rotated every six months (on the Berlin Masonic rotating principle). The European Council is a single body, but its membership changes from meeting to meeting in accordance with the subject category under discussion. Thus the European Council meeting in the format of the Economic and Financial Council (ECOFIN) consists of Economic and Finance Ministers and their entourages, together with the equivalent representatives from the European Commission. In 2006, there were 25 members of this political collective (a realisation of Pan-German strategy elaborated inter alia under Hitler in a collection of essays published in Berlin 1942 entitled 'Europaische Wirtschaftsgemeinschaft': see Chapter 8); and since each EU Minister brings several colleagues, a total of up to or more than 200 people now attends each ECOFIN meeting: there were over 100 before EU 'enlargement' in May 2004, so a doubling of the numbers must be approximately correct[102].

If, say, the European Council must discuss transportation issues, the attendees at the Council are Transport Ministers with all their official hangers-on and subordinates. Since Ministers and their colleagues come and go, subsequent meetings do not consist of the same people. Such arrangements were designed to serve the interests of an autocracy, namely that of the European Commission, which has Hitlerian powers of privilege to originate legislation. Reverting to the Berlin Directory, after five months (the quarterly mandate period plus the two months for final adoption of resolutions), it is obvious that none of the original members who proposed a given resolution would be present; and five months gives plenty of time for the manipulation of nominees pledged to vote according to the dictates of invisible masters. The rotating membership mechanism reveals (a) that the German Masons and their political action colleagues trust no-one; and (b) that the European Union Collective's structures follow the German Masonic model.

In summary, it is clear to the Author that the convoluted decision-making mechanisms employed by the European Union, which are peculiar to that political collective, are indeed of German Masonic origin, given their close similarity to the equally convoluted decision-making arrangements, of a similar character, invented for use by the Berlin-based Universal Sovereign Administrative Directory. Another parallel is associated with the 'permanent' membership in the Berlin Directory of one German delegate. This is replicated in the European Union context by the fact that delegates from the European Commission are uniquely present at, and full privileged participants in, for instance, all sessions of all manifestations of the European Council.

The Author is therefore fully confident of his conclusion that the European Union Collective and its structures are of German Masonic origin and inspired (and directed) by German geomasonry. It is further concluded from this analysis [see also Chapter 8] that German esoteric geomasonry is being and has always been used as cover for the implementation of secret ongoing German geopolitical global hegemony strategy. This deduction leads immediately to another revelation. As has been seen, the Great Seal of the United States contains the top-secret Rosicrucian remit of the United States, applicable from its foundation, which it is required to implement. The most senior of all the geomasonic control centres is the Executive Directory that is located in ROME. This was originally the seat of the gangster Giuseppe Mazzini, the Sovereign Chief of Political Action. Where has 'political action' 'progressed' to the furthest extent? Answer In Europe, with the development of the corrupt Tower of Babel called the European Union. And where was the first European Collective Treaty signed? Answer: In ROME.

THE REST OF THE GEOMASONIC CONTROL STRUCTURE NEXUS

We must bear in mind that the geomasonic Supreme Administration is in control of the whole of Masonry, according to extant intelligence in the public domain. Although it was consolidated a century after the American (Masonic) Revolution when the United States received its secret remit as symbolised on the Great Seal, since the (Nazi) BERLIN centre is in control, it controls the implementation of the United States' secret remit.

The other geomasonic control centres, excluding any that may have been established since before the Second World War, are/were the following [see page 320]:

4. WASHINGTON: Grand Central Directory for North America.
5. MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY: Grand Central Directory for South America.
6. NAPLES: Grand Central Directory for Europe.
7. CALCUTTA: Grand Central Directory for Asia. Note: Given the rapid evolution of the economic and political environments in Asia, this Directory may either have been relocated or else may have been augmented by one or more Sub-Directories. Given extensive CIA involvement in Thailand, an important drug-money laundering centre, and where the Thai Royal Family has been financially compromised, the Author speculates that a Grand Central Directory or Sub-Directory may have been established in Bangkok. Tokyo is another obvious possibility, as is Peking, where the changes that have taken place since President Nixon travelled there in 1971 appear to conform closely to geomasonic preferences.
8. MAURITIUS: Central Sub-Directory for Africa.

An additional peculiarity is that the Palladian Rite, directed and controlled dogmatically by Charleston, has, as indicated, no share in the functioning of the Sovereign Administrative Directory in Rome: (we are talking here specifically about the Palladian level, with no reference being necessary to the 'separate' Scottish Rite operations at Charleston, which co-exist of course in parallel with the Palladian dimension).

This makes it quite clear that so far as the Palladian structures are concerned, all political action actually originates with the Sovereign Administrative Director in Rome, which almost certainly works to political agendas and instructions formulated by the Universal Sovereign Administrative Directory in BERLIN. (The elevation to the Papacy in 2005 of a German Cardinal is highly significant in this context, especially as the sorcerer-Jesuit ('Black') Pope, Count Hans Kolvenbach - who, in February 2006, announced his retirement in 2008 (this being the first time in this manifestation of 'The Order's 500+ year history, that a 'Black Pope' retires) is supposedly of German origin, but 'just happens' to have a Dutch name). That leaves Charleston's Palladian dimension concerned exclusive ly with the management of its Luciferian false religion. Its administrative functions are concerned exclusively with the Triangles, which have a separate budget.

The issue of Palladian secrecy remains to be addressed. Since Palladism is 'a Higher' hidden geomasonic 'Ancient Mysteries' power, known only to certain 'perfect initiates', Palladism need not unveil itself and its membership even to the permanent but rotating and therefore constantly changing geomasonic committee of the Universal Sovereign Administrative Directory in Berlin, which is the highest expression of the administrative power of this occult internationalist body; and it doesn't, not least because given the frequent changes of the Berlin Directory's membership, any such revelations would soon reach a widening audience: indeed, one effect of the Berlin arrangements may be precisely to provide Charleston with a definitive incentive to maintain secrecy. Obviously, Charleston's membership is known to the Administrative Political Action Centre bosses in Rome (inside or very closely associated with The Vatican).

Additionally, there are several Masonic countries in which the Symbolic Grand Lodges recognise only the three Blue Degrees, with the highest Degree in such countries being Master Mason. These Lodges, like the others, are entitled to send two delegates from time to time to Berlin. However, having suppressed the 'high' grades for their adepts, these national bodies are 'necessarily' kept in complete ignorance of the existence of Palladism. They may be aware of the Supremos in Charleston and Rome, as earnest and active 'Brothers' and fitting members of the 'Brotherhood of Man' (that is, of the geomasonic fraternity, not the rest of us, you understand); but they are not supposed to have any knowledge of the Palladian dimension whatsoever. The populist French Revolutionary slogan, 'The Brotherhood of Man', possessed, of course, a deceptive hidden meaning - namely that what was secretly meant was 'the Brotherhood of Masons', with manifestly homosexual and paedophiliac overtones: hence Palladism.

THE PLACE AND PARTICIPATION OF WOMEN IN GEOMASONIC SORCERY

Like all these Luciferians, Albert Pike was inclined, on occasion, to boast openly about his prowess in engaging in practical applications of the knowledge gained from the Tree of Life (Death). Remember that Pike had been Satanised during the American Civil War. Pike's address to the Supreme Council of Charleston on 20th October 1884, in which this chief sorcerer of the Luciferians recounted the seance episode [see page 286] during which Sister Ingersoll floated above them in the nude, provides confirmation that pagan rites over which he officiated involved the presence of women[103].

Of Albert Pike, it was also written by one of his contemporaries that 'his reputation as an occultist had overstepped the doors of the Lodges and inner shrines. Everyone knew from hearsay that he gave himself up to Luciferian practices'[104].

His nefarious example has been progressively and recklessly amplified by his successor Luciferian imitators ever since. In founding the New and Reformed Palladian Rite, Albert Pike was not the inventor of Masonic occultism, the origins of which, as discussed, go back to at least Simon Magus. In the 18th and 19th centuries, Anderson, Desagul-iers, Weishaupt, Swedenborg, Lessing, Frederick II of Prussia, Mesmer (hence 'mesmerism'), Pernety, Cagliostro, Martinez Pasqualis and his disciple Saint-Martin, Francia (the dictator of Paraguay), Lord Palmerston, General Contreras, Giuseppe Mazzini and many other 'high' Freemasons practised occultism' and the Kabbalah[105].

When the Jewish Kabbalah-Satanist Eliphas Levi, the author of the demonic picture of Baphomet shown in Figure 50A on page 297, was prevailed upon by his friends, Chevaliers Fauvet and Caubet, who both belonged to the Grand-Orient, to become a Mason, which he did on 14th March 1861, Levi was initiated in the Rosicrucian Lodge Rose Du Parfait Silence, of which Caubet was the Principal. According to a French Masonic author called Chacornac, cited by Lady Queenborough, the ceremony was performed in the presence of 'many Brothers. Chacornac reported that 'in his reception speech, Eliphas Levi, to the great astonishment of his auditors, little inclined to paradoxes, made the following statement: "I come to bring you lost traditions, the exact knowledge of your signs and emblems, and in consequence to show you the aim for the attainment of which your association has been constituted". He then tried to demonstrate to his coreligionists [sic] that Masonic symbolism is borrowed from the Kabbalah. It was time wasted. No-one believed him'[106]. Manifestly, if not even members of a Lodge can understand the provenance of the symbols and actualite of the sorcery that surrounds them, we need not be surprised that the 'profane' world chooses to turn a collective blind eye to the source of all contemporary evils, this intended system of occultic synar-chy, or rule by secret societies. Within this system, powerful families and Satanised intelligence cadres compete for influence and control, always at risk of squabbling like rats in a sack. The fact that these people cannot 'agree' indefinitely, and are always potentially and lethally at loggerheads with each other, is one of the reasons why sensible people, remote or separated from these evils, should never despair, even if they do not know Christ. For the end of these reprobates' turmoil is their own sole product: death.

The 'Sister Ingersoll' description was Pike's own sanitised version of a decidedly unpleasant and dangerous occult event, complete with a touch of gross sick humour on the part of the evil spirits evoked. Since that report is in the public domain, and is the least offensive of many, it is included on pages 286-287, not for the sake of prurience, but so as to convey the reality of 'Works of Darkness' indulged in by these 'high' (low) Luciferians who have eaten of the fruit of the Tree of Life (Death). Once hooked on such activities, the adept becomes more and more 'bound' and addicted, as happens with pornography. Malachi Martin told the Author that Satanic rituals, involving ritual murder, routinely took place 'within four blocks' of the apartment where he lived on East 63rd Street, New York City. The Author is not in a position to say whether the High Luciferians indulge, at the level just discussed, in such activities, since Malachi implied that after initiation through to the 'highesf levels of Scottish Rite Masonry, those progressing further (i.e., for instance, but by no means exclusively, engaged in Palladian Rite sex-activities), are of such an 'elevated' level, and are so comprehensively Satanised, that, as Luciferians and 'perfectly possessed', they are 'above' such behaviour. But some of the extreme practices known to occur at the Bohemian Grove among the very 'highest' of the Luciferian elite, and the excesses described by Mark Phillips and Cathy O'Brien in 'Trance Formation of America' [see Chapter 4 and Figure 42, page 225] are wholly consistent with these pagan 'Ancient Mysteries' practices. The present account does not describe occultic events, including procedures for occultically procuring the 'throwing of the force into the initiate's bodies and centers'[107], and for evoking evil spirits, because it is enough to allude to such activities and to affirm that descriptions of them, which have never been refuted, are available in the Masonic literature. Christians are enjoined not to 'go there', and mention of these unspeakable activities as has been necessary, has been minimised.

Concerning women it has been noted that they participate in certain male rites, evidence for which has been cited from the seance description by Albert Pike himself. Certain categories of 'sister Masons', probably such as Sister Ingersoll, are called 'Pink Serpents'. These are Luciferian missionaries who are not attached to Lodges, but operate as individuals under conditions of the greatest secrecy. According to the literature, records of the existence of 'Pink Serpents' including financial records, are scarce or non-existent. Many of these women are married, and in the secular context would be available for 'wife-swapping' activities. Lady Queenborough wrote somewhat charmingly of how these women operate: 'In certain cities where Masonic secrecy is less carefully guarded, a part of the Masonic premises is available for the use of the 'profane' public and for daily lectures or instructions by the Brother professors. In these rooms, every evening, accounting, stenography, foreign languages and other popular professional accomplishments are taught [so that] a great activity is thus created around Masonic headquarters, and the entrance of a woman more or less attracts no attention. The sister Masons, however, know to which room they must go and, once past the threshold of the building, it is not to the professorial lecture room that they wend their way'[108].

Albert Pike's formal Masonic attitude to 'the use of women' was summarised in the course of instructions which he issued on 14th July 1898, as Sovereign Pontiff of Universal Freemasonry, in which he made it abundantly clear that women exist for the perverse pleasure of men, that love and emotion does not enter into the equation, and that they are required to be available on demand:

'To the science of Faust (i.e. sorcery and demonic evocation - Ed.), the real Mason will join the impassibility of Job. He will eradicate superstition (by which Pike meant religious, specifically Christian, reservations against fornication - Ed.) from his heart and cultivate decision of character. He will accept pleasure only when he wishes it (making it plain that he meant not when the targeted woman wishes it - Ed.) and will wish it only when he should do so'.

'We earnestly recommend the creation of Lodges of Adoption. They are indispensable to the formation of Masons who are indeed Masters of themselves. The priest tries to subdue his flesh by enforced celibacy.... The real Mason, on the contrary, reaches perfection, that is to say, achieves self-mastery, by using his zeal in the Lodges of Adoption in submitting to all natural ordeals. Commerce with women, belonging to all brethren, forms for him an armour against those passions which lead hearts astray. He alone can really possess voluptuousness. To be able, at will, to use or else to abstain, is a twofold power. Woman fetters thee by thy desires, we say to the adept: well, use women often and without passion: thou wilt thus become master of thy desires, and thou wilt enchain woman. From which it must perforce result that the real Mason will succeed in easily solving the problem of the flesh. It is evidently not necessary that the man whom you are leading towards the high grades be immediately perfect and have understood our secret on his entrance into Masonry. That which we ask you is first to observe him with the greatest care during his apprenticeship and afterwards, when he enters the Lodge of Adoption as Companion, to use that as your criterion, your instrument of infallible control'.[109]

The same instructions by Pike contained this further paragraph: 'The Lodge of Brothers which has failed to annex a Lodge of Sisters is incomplete and destined inevitably never to produce anything but Brethren, with whom politics are the chief concern, men who will be chiefly preoccupied with intrigue and rivalry, who will do bad work and whose politics will be incoherent'[110]. But further paragraphs outlined elaborately deceitful procedures whereby all open indications or formal admissions of the existence of female Lodges (of concubines) were to be suppressed, and subject to deliberate stratagems to mislead and cause confusion. In many instances where a male Lodge has a female Annexe, the existence of the female appendage is often completely ignored by most of the 'Brethren'. No mutual visiting is permitted at all among the female members of the 'lower' Masonic Degrees, and a 'sister' may only enter Lodges other than her own after she has attained the Fifth Degree. In addition to male General Inspectors on permanent missions, who are in direct communication with Charleston, there are women who provide functions as General Inspectresses - 'high-grade' women Masons belonging to some ordinary Lodge or other who, as Lady Queenborough explained, 'while not necessarily addicted to Palladism, serve the purpose of its leaders - their good offices being much appreciated [sic] when they furnish useful information to headquarters. These women are privileged to enter the Lodges and Inner Shrines of Masonry only, but are not admitted to Palladian Triangles. As for men belonging to an adoptive Lodge where 'Brothers' and 'Sisters' 'work together'

[sic], they must have at least attained the 32nd Degree (Prince of the Royal Secret) or a corresponding grade in another rote...'[111]

As for the precise nature of the Palladian super-rite from which these women are excluded, we have the following summary from Dr Bataille: 'This super-rite, which is Masonic Luciferian spiritism, must not be confused with the machinery of 'High Masonry'. Palladism is the cult of Satan in the inner shrines of a rite superimposed on all the rites. It is a cult, a religion; 'High Masonry' is a supreme administration involving an organisation much more highly developed than Palladism whose secret leaders, some of whom are not Luciferian, act in concert and accept a superior central authority in order that their work may be more effective'[112]. It seems as though Pike and selected colleagues lusted after more intoxicating sorcery and sex-oriented pagan 'fixes' than were available in the 'ordinary' Masonic Lodge and even at the 'highest' levels of routine Masonic debauchery. Hooked on their lust, they developed Palladism - a heightened and rarefied form of sexual depravity which could be shared at the 'highest' levels.

THE EVIL OF MASONIC OATHS • INCOMPATIBILITY WITH GOOD ORDER

The hegemony of Illuminised Freemasonry is a subversive and dangerous dimension of contemporary life, which is impeding good governance, with progressively ever more disastrous consequences for the integrity and survival of our civilisation.

According to 'Henderson's Masonic World Guide' (for 1990), 16 years prior to the completion of this study, there were 5,000,000 Masons in 164 countries, with 3,000,000 Masons in the United States alone - the Rosicrucian Masonic foundation originally established as a geomasonic experiment by European forces, to which America still remains (whether its people like it or not) subordinate at the predominant Illuminati control and occult level. The same source identified 33,700 Masonic Lodges worldwide, with the United States having by far the largest number of Lodges - a total of 15,300. Masonic penetration and influence of these proportions is wholly incompatible with good and reliable governance, given not least the nature of the oaths that Masonic candidates must swear. In varying Degrees, these require the Mason to cover up the crimes of fellow Masons, even at the cost of committing perjury. It is no surprise at all that the United States is perpetually mired, at all levels of governance, in scandals, and that its financial markets are dens of iniquity.

Of course Masonry is also wholly incompatible with True Christianity. 'No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon'[113]. It is also contrary to Christianity to swear at all. As Jesus explained: 'Again, ye have heard that it hath been said by them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shall perform unto the Lord thine oaths; But I say unto you, Swear not at all; neither by Heaven; for it is God's throne; Nor by the earth; for it is his footstool; neither by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the Great King; Neither shalt thou swear by the head, because thou canst not make one hair white nor black But let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil'[114]. ALL Masonic oaths 'come of evil'.

In no context is this more the case than in respect of the successive oaths that the Masonic candidate swears as he progresses 'upwards' (= downwards) towards total control by Lucifer. When taking the oath of the Third Degree, the Scottish Rite Mason promises to conceal all crimes committed by a fellow Mason except those of treason and murder. By the Seventh Degree, the candidate must swear that he 'will assist a Companion Royal Arch Mason when I see him engaged in any difficulty, and will espouse his cause so as to extricate him from the same, whether he be right or wrong'. At the 13th Degree, the oath that the candidate must take requires him to conceal, in perpetuity, all crimes, including those of murder and treason.

Therefore, justice is constantly being impeded, since unscrupulous Masons, of whom there are not a few, believe, with 'good' reason, that their participation not only assists their material advancement in life, but also provides them with a significant and reliable means of protection whenever they 'sail too close to the wind' or take a risk by committing a crime, which serves their own selfish interests. Masons pay lipservice to 'the Brotherhood of Man', but, like all their other lies, in reality this (revolutionary) slogan refers, as we have seen, to the venally self-interested 'Brotherhood' itself, rather than to Mankind generally. Moreover the protection afforded by Illuminised Masonic membership actually encourages venality, risk-taking and criminality.

Further, the attraction of Masonry for evil people is well documented. As Lady Queenborough put it: 'Unfortunately, many corrupt and vicious persons seek Masonic protection and it is to the interest of all such aspirants to power thus to encourage vice and corruption through blackmail, using their votaries in the sect to further their own private ends. This is the fundamental danger inherent in all secret societies, whatever their reputation, where power is the objective'[115].

All Masonry operates on the subversive basis of sectarian assistance - with assistance for fellow Masons usurping the Christian teaching that 'thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself'[116] (love and help everyone to the extent that is practically possible). In other words, Freemasonry is a universally subversive synarchy, the persistence of which is fundamentally incompatible not just with True Christianity, but with good governance at both the national and international levels. It represents a dangerously permissive Fifth Column network which is equipped with its own intelligence system, which intelligence communities find extremely useful, on occasion. Most alarmingly of all, it is host to the complex parasitical Illuminati network of conspiratorial secret societies.

The virus of Luciferian and Satanic Masonry is, as noted, absolutely chronic in the United States. The 15,300 US Lodges, as of 1990, included 220,000 Lodge members in the state of Ohio, where Satanism is so rampant that it is unsafe to enter certain towns at night, 206,000 in Pennsylvania, 206,000 in South Carolina - where Charleston is the Masonic capital, having been the location (on the 33rd parallel) from which Albert Pike achieved geomasonic 'primacy' - 188,000 in California, 146,000 in Illinois, 111,000 in Michigan, 96,000 in Tennessee, 90,000 in Georgia, and 83,000 in Florida. In the extremely Masonic United Kingdom, there were said to be 8,000 Lodges with 600,000 members; in Canada, 1,600 Lodges with 180,000 members; in Australia, 580 Lodges with 30,000 members; in Italy, 560 Lodges with 24,000 members; in Germany, 400 Lodges with 21,000 members; in Cuba, run by that Jesuit Fidel Castro, 300 Lodges with 20,000 members; and in The Philippines, which US intelligence tried, in the 1980s, to convert into the 52nd US State, 200 Lodges with 15,000 members.

And this list, of course, is woefully incomplete. Masonic and esoteric symbols are displayed in the Kremlin and on many national flags. In France, and in all the Latin and Catholic countries, it is the Grand-Orient 'line' of Freemasonry, which is at perennially at loggerheads - confusion and conflict bedevilling all those who follow Lucifer - with the Anglo-American 'Scottish Rite' line of the 'Craft': and in Latin America, the Grand-Orient deliberately, ruthlessly and persistently seeks to exclude the 'gringo' Scottish Rite 'line' altogether. These conflicts are reflected in the US-promoted drug wars there.

HOW FREEMASONIC ILLUMINATI PRINCIPLES DIVERGE FROM CHRISTIANITY

The incompatibility of Masonry with Christianity is not merely self-evident from even a cursory glance at pagan Masonic mumbo-jumbo, let alone from any knowledge of the Degree structure and the system of progressive initiation, swearing and esoteric ritual leading to effective demonic possession, in many cases - but also from any systematic review of the false belief system of Masonic indoctrination. To cite just a few instances of how the two diverge, the false deity, called the 'Great Architect of the Universe' who turns out upon progressive initiation to be Lucifer, can, Masons profess, be worshipped by anyone - Buddhists, Christians, Muslims, Hindus or Jews - without impediment or controversy: a statement of fact, since anyone in the world can indeed worship Lucifer[117]. However, Jesus instructed his disciple Thomas, and all the disciples: 'I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me' . In his first Epistle to Timothy, Paul says: 'There is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Jesus Christ'[119]. And in his First General Epistle, John's word on this central issue cuts to the truth: 'Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son. Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also'[120].

The entire atmosphere of the Lodge, in which your correspondent once briefly participated without initiation, is always grossly oppressive; and no wonder. A clue to the identity (which is later made much more manifest) of the Masonic deity, is provided in the 17th Degree of the Scottish Rite (The Knights of the East and West). After completion of the initiation, the candidate is given the secret password 'Jubulum', and the 'sacred word' 'Abaddon'. In Christ's Revelation, Chapter 9, verse 11, we are taught: 'They [demons, the workers of darkness from hell] had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Appollyon' (viz., Appollo, namely Satan in Greek)[121]. In 'lower' Degree Masonic ritual, the Lodge is concerned, to keep the 'dupes' occupied, with recovery of a lost word, 'presumed' to be the name of God. According to the gobbldegook invented by generations of these liars, it was supposedly lost through the murder of the architect, Hiram Abiff (not mentioned as such in Scripture, because this is an invention, a fable), during the construction of Solomon's Temple. The 'quest' is initially completed during the ritual of the Royal Arch Degree ('arch' being Masonically symbolic of the female reproductive anatomy). It is here that the 'secret' name of the 'deity' of Masonry is revealed, the fake name being JAHBULON. 'JAH' is the short-form for the Hebrew name of God, 'Yahweh' or Jehovah'. 'BUL' is a rendering of the god Ba'al, or Bel, plural Ba'alim, meaning multiple gods/demons; and 'ON' is the term used in the Babylonian and Egyptian mysteries for the deity 'Osiris', the Egyptian god of the dead. This fact further 'illuminates' the deception, since the True God 'is not the God of the dead, but of the living'[122]. As for Osiris, in addition to being the Egyptian god of the dead, it was also the sun god, images of which are seen in the Lodge, normally in the form of a sun with a face and rays. In Thrace and Greece he was Dionysus, the god of pleasures, partying, wine and group sex. In Rome the same demon-deity was Liber, or Bacchus. The Lysians called him Bassareus and in Persia (as well as Rome), he was Mithras. For the Cretans, he was Zagreus, and 'became an underworld divinity who welcomed the souls of the dead to Hades and helped with their purification'[123]. In other locations, he went by all sorts of peculiar names, such as Deouis, Boy Jupiter, the Centaur, Orion, Saturn, Boy Plutus, Iswara, Winged One, Nimrod, Adoni (same as Adonay), Hermes, Prometheus, Poseidon, Butes, Dardanus, Himeros, Imbors, Iasius, Zeus, Iacchus, Hu, Thor, Bel, Serapis, Ormuzd, Apollo, Thammus, Tammuz, Atus, Hercules, Shiva, Moloch, and Ba'al. In other words, total confusion reigned as this entity was both the god of death and of sun-rays. In Jeremiah, Chapter 35, verse 35, for instance, the children of Israel were condemned for having adopted the post-natal 'contraception' abomination of the local heathen, having 'built the high places of Ba'al' (these were tall columns on top of which stood an idol, often grouped in rows of four) 'which are in the valley of the son of Hinnom' (probably meaning 'the son of perdition, i.e. of Satan), 'to cause their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire unto Molech (Moloch, which is replicated at the Bohemian Grove, where bacchanalian-Satanic orgies are participated in by members of the US 'high elite'); which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they should do this abomination, to cause Judah to sin'[124].

It is on page 321 of 'Morals and Dogma' that the Patriarch of US Freemasonry and geomasonic sorcery, Albert Pike, specifically evokes Lucifer, as noted earlier, as follows:

'Lucifer, the Light-bearer! Strange and mysterious name to give to the Spirit of Darkness! Lucifer, the Son of the Morning! Is it he who bears the Light? Doubt it not!'

In his cited oppressive esoteric work 'Masonic, Hermetic, Qabbalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolical Philosophy', the 33rd Degree Masonic US author, Manly P. Hall, has a chapter providing precise instructions on how to summon up the Devil himself. Generally, in Masonry, the name of God is associated with pagan fertility gods such as Ba'al, and with all the sordid rites and evil abominations against which the children of Israel were constantly warned by their Old Testament prophets. By contrast, True Christianity and Scripture affirm the absolute holiness, separateness and majesty of God's name . And numerous further bizarre characteristics of Freemasonry are diametrically opposite to Christianity (which of course Freemasonry exists precisely to destroy). For instance:

- Freemasons are linked in solemn, spiritual bondage to one another, irrespective of individual members' creeds[126]. However Christianity forbids Christians from being 'unequally yoked' with unbelievers[127]. Likewise, it is an absolute abomination for Christians (and for devout Jews of course) that the so-called 'truth' (which is false) is 'revealed' by the medium of successive secret initiations, which are absolute anathema. For the 'valuable' truths (lies) of Freemasonry that are bound under the most serious of secret oaths, are available only to a very few. Christianity specifically precludes such secrecy, as does, by very clear implication, the Old Testament. For instance, Jesus Christ tells his disciples [Matthew, Chapter 10, verses 25-27]: 'It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebub [= the Devil, associated with and present with Ba'al or Be'el, Bel], how much more shall they call them of his household? Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known. What I tell you in darkness [= the darkness of the world - Ed.], that speak ye in light; and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops'[128].
- Prohibition on teaching and witnessing Christianity to a 'Brother' Mason: A (misguided) 'Christian' Mason in the Lodge is forbidden to witness Jesus Christ to his fellow Lodge members who are 'lost' and 'unsaved'[129]. By contrast, Jesus commands those who love Him to go and preach the Gospel to everyone, from the housetops: certainly, to be precluded by a Masonic prohibition from fulfilling this commandment of Jesus is a direct negation of His instruction and of His Will. This Masonic precept, too, is therefore an abomination and anathema to the True Christian - although given the devilish nature of Freemasonry, it would be a contradiction in terms for any True Christian to preach Jesus Christ from within the Lodge, and while he is a Mason[130].

- Freemasons are required to bow down before strange gods: The 'Higher Order' of the 'Mystic Shrine' also requires a blood oath of submission sworn to the Muslim deity Allah, which, as a demon recognised by the Jews, existed long before Mohammed. The oath includes the words: 'And may Allah, the god of Arab, Moslem and Mohammedan, the god of Our Fathers, support me to the entire fulfilment of the same, Amen, Amen, Amen'. The Bible prohibits the believer from bowing down to any other gods, as those who seek to syncretise religion want the rest of us to do. This is the primary commandment among the Ten Commandments: Thou shalt have no other gods but me'[131].
- Freemasons (or should they be called 'feemasons'?) waste a huge proportion of their lives and funds on their sterile and diversionary black activities: They are required to be loyal and to give their time, 'emotions' and spiritual energies to Freemasonry, at the obvious expense of their families, which suffer accordingly and end up sterile and devoid of love. They are also required to contribute financially, mainly for the benefit of 'high' Masons unknown to them: over a lifetime, the amount of money wasted in such activities can be substantial. Furthermore, a Mason is constantly vulnerable to being asked for money and, in order not to displease his fellow 'Brethren' is always under undesirable moral pressure to pay up. This represents an incubus that many could do without, and as they waste more and more of their lives, it begins to dawn on some of them that they are being taken for a financial as well as for a 'spiritual' ride. By squandering loyalties, time, emotional and 'spiritual' resources, as well as their own finances, Masons divert their resources and finances from their families. They also squander time that could be more profitably spent[132].
- Freemasons are required to address their superiors with grovelling titles such as 'Worshipful Master', and to kneel before them[133]: Scripture commands us to call no man Master save Jesus, who uniquely allowed those who recognised who He was, to bow down before Him; and to worship none save God[134].
- Freemasonry asserts that its 'valuable' truths must be bound under grave secret oaths, and be available to only a select few: This is the origin of the globalist Luciferian elite's erroneous notion that they alone are qualified and privileged to reorder the affairs of the rest of Mankind, an illusion which equates to gross power-idolatry. Scripture does not allow for or tolerate such secrecy, and ritual initiation is out of the question[135].
- Finally, the definitive prohibition against Christians being Freemasons is to be found in Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 10, verse 21: 'Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils'[136]. You cannot serve two masters, God and the Prince of this World.

MASONIC LODGES DESCRIBED IN 594 BC

There is, moreover, nothing new about Illuminati Masonic Lodges. In 594 BC, they were described by the prophet Ezekiel in graphic language, including allusions to animal abominations and that ancient travesty, worship of the sun (Osiris et al: see above):

'He said furthermore unto me, Son of man, seest thou what they do? Even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, that I should go far off from my sanctuary? But turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations'.

'And he brought me to the door of the court [of the Temple]; and when I looked, behold a hole in the wall. Then he said unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall: and when I had digged in the wall, behold a door. And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here'. And he saw their double-mindedness:

'So I went in and saw; and behold every form of creeping things, and abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, portrayed upon the wall round about. And there stood before them seventy men of the ancients of the house of Israel... with every man a censer in his hand; and a thick cloud of incense went up'.

'Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? Tor they say, the Lord seeth us not; the Lord hath forsaken the earth...'.

'And he brought me into the inner court of the Lord's house, and, behold, at the door of the Temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the east; and they worshipped the sun toward the east'[137].

All Christian churches face towards the East, which is to say, towards the rising sun. This is a pagan relic, since the Holy Spirit resides within us, not geographically.

NOT FOR NOTHING IS MASONRY CALLED 'THE CRAFT'

Masons refer to Freemasonry as the 'Craft', short, as we have seen, for 'witchcraft'. Some, who know of, and point to, the existence and use of 'masonic Bibles' - such as the Masonic Bible which is routinely brought to US Presidential inaugurations - assume in ignorance that because the book is a 'Bible', Masonry is somehow sanctified. Such a superficial deduction is demolished by reports of former Satanists and witches who have been rescued from the abyss (by the Grace of the Holy Spirit, as true Christians believe, for they could never throw off such bondage on their own). Among a number of influential former sorcerers who have dedicated their lives ever since their rescue, to warning other blind dupes about the dangers of witchcraft, is the American former witch, William J. Schnoebelen. Concerning the deceptive use of the Bible (employing a specially adapted version) in certain Masonic rituals, he has this to say:

'Back in the 1970s, when I first became a witch, a very popular how-to book on magic was Raymond Buckland's 'Popular Candle-Burning'[138]. In this book were 'recipes' for magic spells for everything from healing to love spells, to protection spells. On one set of pages of the book would be a spell for healing, complete with instructions on the burning and movement of certain coloured candles. The spell would be a full-blown witchcraft ritual, pagan to the core....'.

'On the following pages would be the same ritual, with the same candles [and] the same instructions. However, the text of the 'spell' would be drawn from the Psalms or [from] other Bible verses. These were provided for readers who were a little too squeamish to actually do a witchcraft incantation, but still wanted results'.

'Now the question becomes: Even though those rituals were full of Psalms, were they still witchcraft? Of course, the answer would have to be Yes. In similar manner, even though Bible phrases and characters abound in Masonic ritual 'work', the presence of those elements cannot somehow 'sanctify' what is essentially a pagan ritual full of witchcraft overtones'[139]. Masonic rituals are in fact far, far worse than Wicca, which was in fact largely developed by the Freemasons Gerald Gardner and Aleister Crowley.

'For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft'[140]; and Masonry is rebellion in spades. So Mr Schnoebelen has meticulously compared Masonic rituals with the witchcraft rituals with which he was familiar and a key participant for 17 years.

His expert findings and warnings include the following assessments:

- Both witchcraft and Masonry are built upon a foundational system of three Degrees. In Freemasonry, these are the three 'Blue Degrees', with multiple higher Degrees accessible to selected participants later. In Wicca, there are also three basic Degrees, with a few forms of Wicca offering some higher Degrees after the third Degree has been consummated. The Druids had, and retain, three Degrees. When Dr Rowan Williams, the reprobate prelate appointed Archbishop of Canterbury by The Queen on the advice of her Prime Minister, Tony Blair, he attended, shortly afterwards, a Druid ceremony prior to his Enthronement, and was reportedly raised to the 'highest' Druidic Degree. The Druids were associated with Satanic activities, including ritual murder.
- Both categories of witchcraft are secret societies - in that in both, the membership lists are secret, and their secrets are withheld from the general public (although massive leakage has taken place in recent years, as these subversive elements have become increasingly uninhibited and brash). Both usually meet in secret - 'in the dark', as described by the prophet Ezekiel.
- Both use ceremonial initiations, including sworn oaths, by means of which candidates pass from one Degree to another. This method of acquiring 'knowledge' is anathema to True Christians, to whom knowledge and understanding and wisdom is provided as a Free Gift of Grace through Scripture and the Holy Spirit. The Word of God was not divulged in secret. Nothing was done 'in a corner'.
- Both witchcraft and Masonry undertake superstitious ceremonial purgings and purifications of their ritual space before any ritual 'work' is started.
- In both, an immense amount of time is wasted on these sterile activities, which could be devoted to constructive use. Family life suffers and in Freemasonry, constant demands for money deplete personal and family financial resources.
- There are also precise similarities, which include the following:

O Candidates are required to strip off all secular clothing.

O Candidates are required to be divested of all metal (indicative of the asserted magical management of electrical forces).

O Candidates are hoodwinked (blindfolded), and ropes are tied round them ceremonially, signifying that they are to be BOUND by their oaths and by their adherence to the bondage that they have chosen.

O Candidates are required to stand in the Northeast corner of the 'Temple' in the First Degree[141] ritual of Entered Apprentice.

O In both witchcraft and Masonry, the candidate is challenged by having his naked chest pierced with a sharp instrument Witches use a sword, Masons the point of a compass, which also has other (sexual) significance.

O In both witchcraft and Masonry, the candidate is required to swear solemn oaths of secrecy before being given custody of the group's secrets.

O In both witchcraft and Masonry, the candidate is challenged using secret passwords, which are demonic in nature.

O The candidate is led blindfolded, in both forms of witchcraft, in a circumnambulation (walking round) of the Temple.

Mr Schnoebelen further points out that the oaths required to be sworn by a witch are milder and less gruesome than the oaths which a Freemason must swear. For example, the text of a first grade oath according to the 'Witchcraft Book of Shadows' reads as follows: 'I [Name], in the presence of the Mighty Ones, do of my own free will and accord, most solemnly swear that I will ever keep the secrets of the Arte [= 'Magical Arts'] and never reveal the secrets of the Arte, except it be to a proper person, properly prepared and within a Magic Circle such as I am now in. All this I swear, by all my hopes of a future life, mindful that my measure has been taken; and may my weapons turn against me, if I should break this, my solemn oath'[142].

All of which sounds ridiculously mild, when compared even with the First Degree oath that was required (until 1986 in England) to be sworn by the Entered Apprentice Mason. This is too long to be cited in its entirety, but it ends like this: 'All this I most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, with a firm and steadfast resolution [so as] to keep and perform the same - binding myself under no less penalty than that of having my throat cut across, my tongue torn out by its roots, and my body buried in the rough sands of the sea, at low water mark, where the tide ebbs and flows twice in twenty-four hours, should I ever knowingly violate this my Entered Apprentice obligation, so help me God and keep me steadfast in the due performance of the same'[143].

So we need not really have bothered to explain, even partially, as has been done, why Christianity is wholly incompatible with Masonry, given that the very first oath sworn by the misguided and ignorant candidate, for his very First Degree, is blasphemous beyond calm description. Not only are oaths forbidden for Christians, but here we have an oath which desecrates the human body - which Christ teaches is the temple of the Holy Spirit - and murders it, while asking for God's help to enable the candidate to adhere to his bloody oath and thus to Satanic threats. How evil is that?

IF IT'S AS BLACK AS THIS AT THE OUTSET, WHAT NEXT?

But this is just the very 'mild', by Masonic standards, beginning. For this gruesome oath is just the first in a series of ever more horrible oaths which the deluded candidate is required to take as he ascends 'upwards' (= downwards), initiation after initiation. The oaths of the three Degrees of Wicca are like a Sunday School lesson, by comparison. Being a Mason, of whatever Degree, means that the duped person is condemned to

THE UNITED STATES OF A ONE
1
ANNUIT CŒPTIS
MDCCLXXVI
NOVUS ORDO SECLORUM
THE GREAT SEAL
IN GOD WE TRUST
ONE
110
ONE DOLLA

Figure 53:The image inside the circle is the insignia of the Order of the Illuminati, and is taken from the obverse of the Great Seal of the United States. It was imposed on the $1.0 bill in 1927 - since when Americans have been exchanging coupons displaying allegiance to the Evil One with every petty transaction. Although this is obvious, the failure of subsequent US Administrations to remove this abomination shows conclusively what Force they have all served. Removing this image would be a true counterrevolutionary gesture, and would have immense global consequences.

going through life burdened with an ever-expanding incubus of demonic spiritual baggage weighing down upon him. And the system is merciless.

By the time the deluded adept realises what his Masonic 'life' actually entails, it may be far too late, as he has been so spiritually drained and dumbed-down and infested, that he may lack the strength to rebel, not least because of the enormous burden of peer pressure which binds him. Another source of Masonic disillusionment, though, is that the Mason may come to realise that he is being exploited. For Freemasonry is like a pyramid scheme, or Ponzi game, consisting of a selfish hierarchy that lives and leeches off the lower levels. Those at the top of the scheme draw most of the revenues, thanks to the clueless efforts of countless thousands at the lower levels. The Mason must spend considerable sums of his private money to progress through the myriad Degrees, in addition to paying dues every year to every single body he has joined - which may amount to a sizeable amount, depending upon the level of participation. Mr Schnoebelen is not alone in having observed that there was a great deal of money 'sloshing around' in the upper Masonic ranks of which he had knowledge[144].

Other precise overt practical similarities between witchcraft and the 'Craft' have been authoritatively identified. They include:

- Both have a ceremonial un-blindfolding of the candidate, following his oath, before lighted candles - symbolising his 'illumination'.
- Both witchcraft and Masonry convey to the new initiate the 'working tools' pertinent to the Degree. The use of each tool is explained and taught to the candidate.
- In both witchcraft and Freemasonry, there are explicit ceremonial correspondences to human reproduction, because both are sex-oriented, in conformity with their pagan orientation and origin.
- In the higher Degrees, both witchcraft and the 'Craft' take the initiate through a ritual pagan death-and-rebirth (reincarnation) experience, in which the initiate acts the part of the hero (or heroine) of the Craft.
- Both aberrations cause the candidate to endure, while blindfolded, being picked up, spun around, carried out, jostled, or struck from person to person. This filthy, violent abomination, is supposed to produce an 'altered state of consciousness'. [For an old depiction of this abomination, see Figure 41, page 221].
- Both witchcraft and Masonry are openly referred to as 'the Craft'.

THE EVIL 'ALL-SEEING EYE'

In 1985, Ralph Anderson, a US 32nd Degree Mason, stated in a presentation that 'The Masonic Movement... is the home of the [Ancient] Mysteries and the seat of initiation... Under the All-Seeing Eye the work can go forward. It is a far more occult organisation than can now be realised, and is intended to be the training school for the coming advanced occultists'[1]. This Evil Eye of Masonry represents OSIRIS[2], i.e. Satan/Sun/Lucifer. Albert Pike revealed that the geomasonic All-Seeing Eye is 'the emblem of OSIRIS, the creator'[3]. The symbolic symbol for Osiris and the sun is the point within a circle[4], which is a phallic symbol[5], the symbol of Generation, with which Masonry is concerned and is permanently obsessed. The occultist, Robert Hieronymus, says that 'the single eye, alone or in a triangle, is used extensively by Freemasons and other secret societies'[6]. ■

1. Ralph Anderson, 'Freemasonry: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow', Arcana Workshops, June 1985, pages 4-6. See also: The Full Moon Story', Rams' Dell Press, Manhattan Beach, CA, 1974. 2: J Edward Decker, The Question of Freemasonry', Issaquah, WA, Free the Masons Ministries, n.d., page 12. 3: Albert Pike, 'Morals and Dogma': see references, pp. 15-16; 4: Herbert F Inman, 'Masonic Problems and Queries', London, A Lewis Ltd., 1978, page 172; 5: Albert G. Mackey, 'A Manual of the Lodge', New York, Charles E, Merrill Company. 1870, page 56; 6: Robert Hieronimus, 'America's Secret Destiny', Rochester, VT, Destiny Books, 1989, page 81.

On 20th February 2006, The Times newspaper (London) published, on its page 24, an article entitled 'RETIRE AT 85 TO PAY FOR LIVING LONGER'. Adjacent to it was an uncaptioned single human eye which occupied the same large space as the article itself. It was disconnected and out of context - i.e., a signal to 'the interested' that The Times is Illuminati-controlled.

Figure 54: Albert Pike stated that The Blazing Star in our Lodges has been regarded as... the All-Seeing Eye... representing [the] Guardian and Guide [= 'Spirit Guide'] of our souls. Also known as the 'evil eye', it is defined in 'The Complete Book of Witchcraft and Demonology' as 'the power of the glance to harm others'.

THE ADDICTIVE, PAGAN FOCUS ON LICENTIOUS SEX

To complete this analysis, several other pertinent realities (among innumerable others, too numerous to elaborate here) are to be noted:

- In both forms of the 'Craft' there is an unhealthy focus on loveless sex. Given the almost total hegemony of social power wielded by adepts of both forms of witchcraft, it is hardly surprising that modern Western values and life have been completely swamped by sexualisation - to the point at which our schools now openly seek to sex-ualise their pupils, teaching them all about homosexuality and lesbianism at a tender age. In Masonry, the ceremonial Masonic apron is intended to cover the 'Holy of Holies' of Freemasonry, namely the male groin area - a reality which has been extensively documented by many analysts[145].
- The Masonic Two-Ball Cane tie-pin, available from suppliers to the 'Craft', which Masons proudly wear in the United States, often to church, reflects a play on the words Tubal-Cain (with gross pagan Biblical associations), and takes the form of two balls suspended to a cane, which has obviously crude sexual connotations: see Figure 55, page 337. This is the very 'image of jealousy, which provoketh to jealousy[146]. The gods of all the pagan tribes and kings and nations around the Israelites were sexual idols; and at the deliberately-named Bohemian Grove, California, where so many of the high and mighty US geomasonic 'movers-and-shakers' go every summer to indulge in pagan orgies, the night ceremony beneath that huge idol shaped like an owl, called Moloch, is perpetrated before a sexuality-related idol - Moloch having, as already noted, been the image to which the heathen neighbours of the Israelites, and at times the children of Israel themselves, sacrificed their own unwanted children.
- The square and compasses used by Masons, while of course purporting to reflect their mediaeval cathedral-building tools, are representative of the generative organs; and, as also discussed earlier, the G that is set in the centre of these symbols stands not for God as naive initiates are left to believe (so that they can then ignorantly maintain that Christianity is compatible with Freemasonry), let alone even for Gnosticism, but in fact for Generativity or sexual potency. The blazing star at the centre of the Lodge is the familiar witch's pentagram, or Pythagorean pentalpha, widely used for Satanic symbolism purposes, and the basic symbol of the god of Satanism, Set. In Captain Morgan's classic work 'Illustrations of Masonry', published in 1827, for which his Illuminati-Masonic 'Brethren' murdered him, many illustrations of a sun with rays are shown. The sun always has a spooky face.

FREEMASONRY PLUGGED INTO THE GLOBAL WITCHCRAFT NETWORK

To summarise, the 'authorities' of Freemasonry, notably Albert Pike and Manly P. Hall, both of whom were 33rd Degree Masons and black occultists, agreed that the underlying 'philosophies' of freemasonry are Kabbalism and Gnosticism[147]. Kabbalism is the Babylonian system of Jewish mysticism, magic, numerology and so forth, and is considered to be the foundational element of modern witchcraft. Almost all the main witches and sorcerers known to have operated in the 20th century were Kabbalists. As for Gnosticism, it is the ancient, un-Christian heresy of Simon Magus which disseminates the base lie that 'one is saved by acquiring secret, unknown knowledge' (Greek: gnosis). All 'mystery religions', like witchcraft and Masonry, are gnostic in character.

Both witches and Freemasons seek a form of salvation through 'illumination' or receiving 'the light', which is not the true light but the false light emitted by the Angel of Darkness, Lucifer. And both aberrations teach a form of salvation by works, not Grace. The Catholic Church, like modern Talmudic Judaism, follows this heresy, as well. However by no amount of 'works' can we possibly attain justification in the sight of God. True Christians know that they will be saved by the freely-given gift of the Holy Spirit, not by 'works', which is indeed the most ancient of heresies[148]. The occult doctrine and lie of reincarnation is explicitly taught in witchcraft, and implicitly in the Lodge.

We also have it on the authority of Mr Schnoebelen, a former witch and Mason -as well as from others who have managed to emerge from the same spiritual darkness - and from other written sources, that both witchcraft and Masonry deny the unique character and mission of Jesus Christ[149]. Both of course likewise deny the resurrection of Christ[150]. In each of these key respects, the Wicca share the 'theology' of Freemasonry.

Mr Schnoebelen has reported that while he was still deluded by witchcraft and Masonry, he established that all the leaders of his witchcraft groups were Masons, while four of his male witch friends were also in the Lodge. This reflected the fact that Masonry is plugged into a global witchcraft network, a hierarchy of explicit evil which has gained the upper hand in the affairs of men. William Schnoebelen and his wife were members of a Co-Masonic Lodge, which are more openly occult and are controlled by the rite Le Droit Humaine (Human Rights Lodge), which admits both men and women as equals. Co-Masonry is affiliated with the occultic Theosophical Society, and in the United States is headquartered at Larkspur, CO. The progenitor (apart from Lucifer, of course) of the occult Theosophical Society was the notorious sorceress Annie Besant.

The United Kingdom is a hotbed of Masonry, which achieved unprecedented hegemony under the Blair Governments, given the large number of Scots holding high posts in the Government - Scotland being a Masonic state; but even so, British Masonry is a form of the 'Craft' that is less obviously 'in-your-face' than is the case in the United States, which is a Masonic foundation - explaining, as the Author has reiterated, the never-ending scandals and sordid controversies which so routinely bedevil (literally) Washington DC. Americans appear to accept this state of affairs with equanimity, without apparently realising the folly of having Satanic symbols plastered all over the Federal Government's structures. This is all the more extraordinary, given that so many Americans do believe in God. A belief in God necessitates recognition of the existence of Satan and his demons: clearly, the Workers of Darkness believe in them, as anyone who spends more than five minutes inside any of the chain book and music stores in America can immediately recognise. The proportion of floor space given over to the Works of Darkness has spread so extensively, that the 'religion' sections now consist largely of variants of witchcraft and the esoteric.

Figure 55: This image, displayed upon tie-pins obtainable from US Masonic suppliers, is called the Two-Ball Cane pin, a word-play on Tubal-Cain. From the US 'Masonic Quiz Book": Q: Who was Tubal Cain? A: 'He is the Vulcan of the Pagans'. Vulcan was a sun deity associated with fire, thunderbolts and lightning, and at his festival, Vulcania, human sacrifices were offered. Note the deliberately sexual innuendo of the image and its name. US Masons wear this tie-pin in church!

And every day, when making routine purchases, Americans exchange the insignia of The Order of the Illuminati, without often pausing to consider what this repetitive practice implies. They pass around brazen images of Lucifer, which was added to the $1.0 bill precisely because there are more of these bills in circulation than any other bill - meaning that Lucifer's 'All-Seeing Eye' would be seen more often by more Americans than would have been the case if, say, the $20 bill had been chosen for this Luciferian purpose. Imagine: The 'All-Seeing Eye', the most prominent occult symbol in Masonry, an ancient image of Satan, sits perched on top of the uncompleted pyramid on the reverse of the $1.0 bill that is taken from the obverse of the Rosicrucian Great Seal of the United States. This constant, daily circulation and reminder of the 'All-Seeing Eye' and of the god of the United States represents nothing less than a ruthless, arrogant assertion by the United States' Rosicrucian founders - and latterly by the United States' Illuminati leadership - of an intention to impose The Order of the 'New World' upon humanity. According to the 33rd Degree Mason, Albert Mackey, the 'All-Seeing Eye' is 'a symbol of the omniscient and watchful providence of God' (by which he meant Lucifer). 'It is a very ancient symbol, and is supposed by some to be a relic of primitive sun-worship.... In most of the ancient languages of Asia, the eye and the sun are expressed in the same word. Among the Egyptians the eye was the symbol of their supreme god, Osiris, or the sun.. .'[151]. 'The Eye, or Uraeus, was to become the effective ruler of the world, and as such was to to be worn by the Pharaohs as a symbol of their majesty and descent from the sun god'[152].

Lucifer dominates the oppressive controlling Masonic hierarchy that reigns over the network of Masonic Lodges in the United States, and over the nation itself. The trapezoid (unfinished pyramid on both the $1 bill and on the Great Seal) is an especially significant symbol in overt Satanism[153]. And the 1776 in Roman numerals at the foot of the pyramid are not primarily, as is almost universally assumed, indicative of the year in which the Masonic foundation of the United States occurred, but the year in which the lapsed and aberrant Jewish Catholic-Jesuit occultist, Professor Adam Weishaupt, of Ingolstadt University, a keen student of the Jewish Kabbalistic philosopher Mendelsohn and the 'founder' of the 'Illuminati' in Bavaria, published his blueprint for the New World Order, which he had prepared under contract from the Rothschilds. If the dots that are formed by the stars of the 13 original states are joined, one obtains a Star of David.

Freemasonry was penetrated at its highest levels during the 18th century by agents of the Illuminati. They consider their task to be to manipulate the 'mechanistic forces' of 'good and evil' (in which they do not believe) on the model of the later Hegelian dialectic (Thesis, Antithesis), which is a manifestation of the Illuminati's primary double-minded modus operandi. In this model, from which they never deviate, they seek to impose the Synthesis. According to this model, every mechanistic force has a mechanistic counter-force: since these people have become 'gods' in their own eyes through initiation (being 'wise in their own eyes'), they seek to manipulate the 'seething energies of Lucifer' to generate the conflict out of which emerges a new situation, their preplanned Synthesis.The Illuminati make it their business always to be present at the Synthesis.

It is extraordinary that anyone pays any attention at all to Freemasonry. For not only can its assertions and gobbldegook be torn apart and demolished intellectually by anyone with Scriptural knowledge and the patience to grapple with the mad minds of its dead prophets, but its chief dead Patriarch explicitly stated that its policy was always to deceive its own candidates and adepts - or, to borrow the cynical description of Blanchard, its 'dupes'. For it is to be repeated that - on page 819 of his tedious tome 'Morals and Dogma' - the sorcerer and necromancer Albert Pike explicitly revealed, for the whole world to take on board, that Masonry is a fraudulent system built exclusively upon lies (which is quite obvious from even ten minutes' reading of his turgid and deadly text). As he explained, for the benefit of 'the interested': 'The Blue Degrees are but the outer court or portico of the Temple. Part of the symbols are displayed there to the Initiate, but he is intentionally misled by false interpretations. It is not intended that he shall understand them; but it is intended that he shall imagine he understands them'[154].

In closing, let us again reflect grimly upon the misfortune that United States is a Rosicrucian Freemasonic Revolutionary Foundation. Its secretive, aggressive European-implanted remit is described in symbolic terms upon the reverse of the Great Seal of the United States. But Masonry - by the open published admission of the acknowledged Patriarch and dead occult supremo of American world Freemasonry, Albert Pike - is a pack of black lies. Therefore, the United States is founded upon a pyramid of lies. Moreover, Freemasonry, the 'Craft', is witchcraft. The United States is accordingly founded upon lies and witchcraft, a fact that its shoppers acknowledge every day.

No wonder all teaching of Christianity is prohibited in American public schools. It cannot be taught because the secret god of the United States is Lucifer, and its secret religion is Luciferian witchcraft taking the form of Rosicrucian occultic Kabbalistic Illuminati-penetrated Freemasonry, a primary objective of which is to 'destroy' Christianity. This is a vain and foolish objective, since Jesus Christ, Who is above all, explicitly promised that 'heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away'[155].

As has been acknowledged, of course, the United Kingdom has similarly grave problems with this subversive, arrogant and overpowerful, reprobate witchcraft sect. Both countries, sooner rather than later, will have to shed these evil incubi - or they will both be destroyed, not least because, as we have seen, good governance is incompatible with the self-serving and evil oaths that Freemasons have to swear, and with their corrosive consequences. Britain is in any case scheduled for obliteration by the Illuminati controllers of the New Underworld Order, the latest target date for the realisation of which is 2015. The fact that career progress in both countries is substantially dependent, in key sectors, upon Masonic participation and preferment, is indicative of a chronic state of morbidity. And the reality that similar problems exist in many other countries merely goes to show that we are only too right to fear 'that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world'[156]. No wonder that Jesus Christ warned us: 'Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both body and soul in hell'[157] - namely, the Prince of Darkness, the Evil One, the Devil, called Satan, and Lucifer. Paul warned about all this in 65 AD: so we have had the best part of two millennia to understand what he meant:

'Now the Spirit speaketh expressly that in the latter times, some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils; speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron'[158]. ■

Chapter 5: THE HOUSE OF LUCIFER Notes and references:

1. Manly P. Hall, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', originally published 1923, Macoy Publishing & Masonic Supply Co., Inc., Richmond, VA, 1976.
2. This cannot be accurate; it is a lie; otherwise why would such people assemble annually for a week of debauchery at the Bohemian Grove at Monte Rio, Sonoma County, California, as discussed in the box on page 161?
3. The 'creative forces' to which he refers are not divine, but are rather 'the seething energies of Lucifer': see main text.
4. Manly R Hall, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', originally published 1923, Macoy Publishing & Masonic Supply Co., Inc., Richmond, VA, 1976. op. cit., pages 50-51.
5. Albert Pike, 33rd Degree Mason, Palladian Rite founder, occultist and necromancer, 'Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry', 1871, House of the Temple, Washington DC, 1969, page 819. In 1871, Pike undertook a division of labour with his fellow Freemason, criminalist and occultist, Giuseppe Mazzini, with Pike assuming global responsibility for Scottish (and his subsequently revived Palladian Rite) dogma, and Mazzini continuing with his hyperactivity as head of the geomasonic Political Action Centre. This is discussed later in this chapter.

6. Manly P. Hall, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', originally published 1923, Macoy Publishing & Masonic Supply Co., Inc., Richmond, VA, 1976, pages 102-103: 'Recognizing Egypt to have been the cradle of superior culture and most exalted philosophy, and admitting the most undeniable evidence that the Egyptian Mysteries were the progenitors of modern Freemasonry, it is most sad that a critical dissection of the Egyptian theological system is impeded and rendered almost impossible by the comparatively late and incomplete forms of the ancient writings now available on the subject'. In this revealing observation, Manly P. Hall not only confirms that the Egyptian death mysteries were the 'progenitors' of modern Freemasonry, a statement which is of course incomplete since the sorcery of Babylon a.k.a. the Jewish Kabbalah (= Babylon) were of equal importance, but also reveals that the inventers and elaborators of modern freemasonry, meaning primarily Albert Pike, had little information about the Egyptian death cult, and its Works of Darkness - from which the Lord rescued the children of Israel, as related in Exodus. The story of Exodus is a living, historical parable for the truth that the Lord leads out of the darkness and 'the valley of the shadow of death' into the light of His glory. But the reprobate perversity and ignorance of initiated Masons leads them towards the darkness (Egypt) and its menu of abominations.

7. Lady Queenborough (Edith Starr Miller), 'Occult Theocrasy', published posthumously in 1933, republished In Los Angeles by Christian Book Club of America and available from Emissary Publications, 9205 SE Clackamas Road, #1776, Clackamas, OR 97105; page 177.

8. Communication from an ex-Conservative Member of Parliament who wishes to remain anonymous.

9. 'The Brotherhood: The Secret World of the Freemasons', by Stephen Knight, Grenada Publishing and Book Club Associates, London, 1984, pages 188-190, and Dorset Press, USA: ISBN 0-88029-113-3.

10. Manly P. Hall, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', op. cit., pages 47-48.

11. Ibid., page 48.

12. 'Last Trumpet Newsletter', Last Trumpet Ministries, PO Box 806, Beaver Dam, Wl 53916, USA, July 1986. Volume 5, issue 7, page 2. The Minister/Editor, David J. Meyer, is a former Satanist and is an excellent source of reliable understanding about the madness of the occult.

13. Manly R Hall, The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', op. cit., pages 46-47.

14. Albert Pike, 33rd Degree Mason, Palladian Rite founder, occultist and necromancer, 'Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry': Prepared for the Supreme Council of the Thirty-Third Degree (Mother Council of the World) for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States and Published by its Authority, 1871, House of the Temple, Washington DC, 1969, op. cit., page 321.

15. Matthew, Chapter 23, verses 37-39. The importance of this understanding is such that the entire passage has been given in the main text. This book would be pointless if it amended the truth in order to spare certain readers' sensibilities; and for this reason, the Author cannot have cognisance of cultural and organised religious preferences. The interpretation given here is correct, uncomfortable though it is for people of Jewish extraction and faith to acknowledge. The historical failure of the Jews to acknowledge this truth is a great human tragedy, but it is unfortunately their problem to resolve, not the Author's. Instead of recognising where the truth lay and lies, their Rabbis have spent two millennia fiddling around with the sorcery and sterility of the Kabbalah.

16. 'Babylon Mystery Religion: Ancient and Modern', Ralph Edward Woodrow, 1996, 1993 (23rd edition), Riverside, CA: from Chapter 12, Papal Immorality.

17. 'The Catholic Encyclopedia', Volume 4, page 668, article: 'Boniface VIII'.

18. Samuel Oppenheim, The Jews and Masonry in the United States before 1810', reprinted from Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, New York, Number 19 (1910); citing an editorial by the Jewish Mason, Dr Isaac M. Wise, in The Israelite'for 3rd August 1855.

19. Samuel Oppenheim, 'The Jews and Masonry in the United States before 1810', reprinted from Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, New York, op. cit. Number 19 (1910), page 2.

20. Samuel Oppenheim, The Jews and Masonry in the United States before 1810', reprinted from Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, New York, op. cit, Number 19 (1910), page 92.

21. 'An Encyclopedic Outline of Masonic, Hermetic, Kabbalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolical Philosophy: Being an Interpretation of the Secret Teachings concealed within the Rituals, Allegories and Mysteries of All Ages', Rosicrucian Edition, Manly R Hall, San Francisco, printed for Manly. P. Hall by H. S. Crocker Company, Inc., 1928, pages CXLIII-CXLIV.

22. The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall, the Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA, 1944-1991, ISBN 0-89314-388-X.

23. 'The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall, The Philosophical Research Society., inc., Los Angeles, CA, op. cit, pp. 78-79.

24. 'The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall, The Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA, op. cit., page 80.

25. 'The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall, The Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA, op. cit, pp. 133-134.

26. Berit Kjos, 'Olympic Myths and Early Magic', 'Christian News', 28 February 1994,, Volume 32, Number 9, page 5. Cited by Dr Cathy Burns in 'Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated', Sharing, Mount Carmel, PA, page 263. Available through Emissary Publications, PMB 1776,9205 SE Clackamas Road, Clackamas, OR 97105, USA.

27. Texe Marrs, 'Dark Majesty: The Secret Brotherhood and the Magic of a Thousand Points of Light', Austin, TX, Living Truth Publishers, 1992, page 212. Cited by Dr Kathy Burns in Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated, Sharing, Mount Carmel, PA, pages 263-264. Available through Emissary Publications, PMB 1776, 9205 SE Clackamas Road, Clackamas, OR 97105, USA.

28. The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall. The Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA, op. cit, pp. 130-131.

29. The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall. The Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA op. cit., pp. 130-131.

30. The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall. The Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA,op. cit, pages 110.

31. The Secret Destiny of America', Manly P. Hall. The Philosophical Research Society., Inc., Los Angeles, CA,op. cit, pages 110.

32. Dr Bataille (Carl Hackse), 'Le Diable au XIXe Siecle', cited by Lady Queenborough (Edith Starr Miller) in her incomparable work, 'Occult Theocrasy', The Christian Book Club of America, Los Angeles, 1933, from which insights in this chapter are liberally taken.

33. 'A Deck of Cards', 'The Gospel Standard', May 1991, Volume 40, Number 11, pages 3-4.

34. Cited by Lady Queenborough, 'Occult Theosophy', op. cit, pages 223-224, from Bataille [see Note 32], page 35.

35. Isaiah, Chapter 29, verse 4. The voice of the possessed manifests itself as a deep, almost metallic, droning, grating voice, which may be speaking words much faster than the possessed person normally speaks, and is identical whether the victim is male or female. The Author and his wife have both separately been at the receiving end of this voice, on the telephone, emitted by two entirely separate and unconnected people. The voice may also manifest itself, as Isaiah also says, in the form of a squeaky whisper, as when the German Dr Henry Kissinger mocked the victims of the 9/11 atrocities during an American television interview, to the disgust of all who witnessed this manifestation of demonic possession.

36. Cited by Lady Queenborough, Occult Theosophy, op. cit., page 215.

37. Batailie, op. cit, page 36.

38. Batailie, op. cit, page 36.

39. Batailie, op. cit, page 34.

40. Ephesians, Chapter 5, verses 11-14. In this passage, Paul not only commands that we 'have no fellowship with' the Works of Darkness, sorcerers and other deluded evildoers, but even says that it is shameful even to speak of these evil things that they do in secret. The Author by no means dissents from this, and makes only the exception that the meaning of the Word through Jesus Christ is revealed more clearly when we 'know our enemy', Satan. It is, obviously, for this reason that throughout much of this book, wherever the Author's knowledge of Scripture helps to heighten awareness of the evils the world faces, the full scriptural reference and context is given. Paul was teaching that those who seek and know Christ do not waste time discussing the banal (and always unchanged) Works of Darkness, since the Works of Salvation are glorious and always worthy of contemplation and discourse. Since Lucifer works within the bounds set by God, his works never vary: hence their dreary banality.

41. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 8, verses 9-10. Verse 11 reads: 'And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries'.

42. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 8, verses 18-24.

43. Lady Queenborough, op. tit, page 34. Note 9 on page 34 of this work reads: The G which the Freemasons place in the middle of the flamboyant star signifies Gnosticism and Generation, the most sacred words of the ancient Kabbala'. See Eliphas Levi, 'Dogme et Rituel de la Haute Magie', Volume II, page 97'.

44. Lady Queenborough, op. tit, page 35.

45. Lady Queenborough, op. tit, page 34.

46. Lady Queenborough, op. tit, page 35.

47. The European Union's structures and documentation are wholly devoid of spiritual content. Investigations by the Author and others into looting and corruption at the European Commission have identified extensive Masonic connections.

48. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, from: Chapter II, The Meaning of Occultism.

49. Exodus, Chapter 20, verse 4. Verse 5 reads: Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me' - i.e., those who bow down before false gods (demons, idolatry).

50. First Epistle of Paul to Timothy, Chapter 1, verse 4: 'Neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith: so do'. Teachers of fables are condemned by Paul as follows, in 1 Timothy, Chapter 1, verses 6-7:'... some having swerved have turned aside unto vain jangling; Desiring to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm'.

51. Second Epistle to Timothy, Chapter 4, verses 3-4: 'For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables'. Look at the clearly prelanned reprobate state of the Anglican Communion.

52. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 38.

53. 'Maconnerie Pratique, Cours d'Enseignement Superieur de la Franc-Magonnerie, Rite Ecossaise Ancien et Accepte', cited by Paul Rosen in 'Satan et Cie', 1888, and by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 177-181.

54. 'Maconnerie Pratique, Cours d'Enseignement Superieur de la Franc-Magonnerie, Rite Ecossaise Ancien et Accepte', cited by Paul Rosen in Satan et Cie, 1888, and by Lady Queenborough, op. cit.

55. Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 5, verse 17: Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

56. John Yarker, 'The Arcane Schools', page 480, cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 189.

57. H. L. Stillson & W. J. Hughan, 'History of Freemasonry and Concordant Ideas', page 243, cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit., page 189.

58. From Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 189-191.

59. From Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 193-194.

60. Isaiah, Chapter 5, verse 24. This follows shortly after verses 20 and 21 in which those who call evil good and good evil, as do Freemasons, are destined for perdition and destruction: 'Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!'

61. Lady Queenborough, op. cit., pages 362-363.

62. The Author has noticed, as have colleagues, exactly the same phenomenon among a certain type of US intelligence operative. They agree with everything you say about, for instance, the United States being in the process of destruction due to the 'seething energies' of the reprobate intelligence services, which they acknowledge are in turmoil (although it may suit some project managers for this to be quite widely perceived); and yet they continue to plot behind one's back, to support and work for this rotten system, and even to engage in threats of murder - both against their supposed friends and, especially, against fellow intelligence operatives of whose activities they become insanely jealous or towards whom they suddenly harbour Satanic anger. This is all commonplace, and indicative, in the Author's experience, of the Satanisation of the intelligence community - which is hardly surprising, given its serial and recidivist criminality at home and abroad, and against the American people.

63. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 363, citing Blanchard, 'Scottish Rite Masonry illustrated', 33rd Degree, Volume II, pages 162 and 462.

64. Lady Queenborough, op. cit. Information cited here includes statements by Albert Gallatin Mackey and Blanchard, pages 362-363. Lady Queenborough is kinder to Blanchard (first name not cited) than the Author. She writes on page 362 of 'Occult Theocrasy': 'Blanchard [was] himself a high Mason whose Masonic studies were induced by a keen desire to fathom the truth and impart the result of his discoveries to those whom he feared might also be duped'. This implies that there is salvation even for 33rd Degree Masons who have participated in Satanic rites; and as a True Christian', the Author must agree that this is indeed of course true. But he differs from the brilliant Lady Queenborough in believing that, on the basis of his other writings, Mackey was cynical, like the rest of them. If he had genuinely wished to save fellow human beings from being crushed by this Leviathan, he would have needed to sever his relations with the Lodge, and put up with the material consequences of their petty vengeance: 'Come out of her [i.e., the great whore], my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues' [Revelation, Chapter 18, verse 4). The Author acknowledges that the insight that the great whore is the reprobate Jewish cabal which (in our context here) fronted the imposition of reprobate Freemasonry in the United States, is that of his friend, Des Griffin, of Oregon, and that his inspiration was undoubtedly of the Holy Spirit - born of his regular reading of Scripture.

65. Lady Queenborough, op. cit., pages 178-181. Sources in this and related sections include: Henri Cauchois, Grand Orateur du Grand Orient de France, 'Cours oral de Franc-Maconnerie symbolique', page 140, Paris, 1863; Clavel, 'Histoire pittoresque de la Franc-Maconnerie', page 43, Paris 1844; Albert Mackey, lexicon of Freemasonry', pages 59 and 241, London, 1873; Richard Carlile, 'The Mysteries of Freemasonry', page 64, London; Comte de Grasse-Tilly, Tableau des grades ecossais suivant l'ordre generate decrete par le Supreme Conseil du 33^{o} degre, date du 22 decembre 1804'; George Olivier, 'History of Initiation', pages 128, London, 1841; Albert Thomas, George Pearson, Grand Master of the Templars of the United States, the Tradition of Freemasonry, New York, 1850.

66. Ralph Anderson, 'Freemasonry: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow', Arcana Workshops, June 1985, pages 4-6. See also: The Full Moon Story', Manhattan Beach, CA, Rams' Dell Press, 1974 Revised Edition, pages 15-16; Dennis L. Cuddy, 'President Clinton Will Continue the New World Order', Oklahoma City, OK, Southwest Radio Church, 1993, page 18; Alice A Bailey, The Externalisation of the Hierarchy', New York, NY, Lucis Publishing Company, 1957, page 511; cited by Dr Cathy Burns, 'Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated', op. cit, pages 356-357.

67. Lady Queenborough, op, cit, page 161.

68. Lady Queenborough, op. cit.,page 34.

69. Lady Queenborough, op. cit.pages 161-162.

70. Lady Queenborough, op. cit.,page 162.

71. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 212.

72. Craig Heimbichner, 'Blood on the Altar: The Secret History of the World's Most Dangerous Secret Society', Independent History and Research, P.O. Box 849 Coeur d'Alene, Idaho 83816, January 2005, ISBN 0-9703784-3-2, pages 5-6.

73. Craig Heimbichner, 'Blood on the Altar The Secret History of the World's Most Dangerous Secret Society', op. cit, page 6.

74. Lady Queenborough, op. cit,page 357 et seq.

75. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 361.

76. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 353-359.

77. Paul Rosen, 'Satan et Cie', page 142, cited by Lady Queenborough, page 361.

78. Paul Rosen, 'Satan et Cie', page 142, cited by Lady Queenborough, page 362.

79. Encyclopedia of Freemasonry, The Speculative Mason, Volume 19, January 1927, Lady Queenborough. op. cit.,p. 359.

80. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 360.

81. 'A Sketch of the Philosophy, Traditions and Records of the Masonic Order of the Red Cross of Constantine', The Rosicrucian and Masonic Record', page 204, Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 359.

82. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 189 and 336.

83. John Yarker, The Arcane Schools', page 480, cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 189.

84. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 337, 'Encyclopaedia Britannica', Article on Freemasonry.

85. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 337.

86. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, citing Blanchard, 'Scottish Rite Masonry Illustrated', 330, Volume II, page 451.

87. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 143-144, citing Blanchard, 'Knights Templarism Illustrated'.

88. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 144-145. She cites 'Morris' Dictionary', Article entitled Templar Knight'.

89. This 'wise-guy' quotation, attributed to someone (otherwise unidentified) called Knoop, appears in the Introduction to one of the best books on the subject of The Templars in Scotland. It is followed by the more informative allusion to '... the wealth of old Masonic records in Scotland, so strangely neglected by those who possess it' [R. J. Meekren, a comment in a discussion in 'AQC', 58,1955, page 83]. For a number of years, the British Government has been extremely heavily populated by Scots, most of whom are known to be "high-level' Masons, which accounts for their amorality and cynicism. Many are known to be members of The Speculative Society of Edinburgh, one of the most powerful Scottish secret societies.

90. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 209-210.

91. Stevens (first name uncited), 'Cyclopaedia of Fraternities', cited by Lady Queenborough, page 215.

92. Domenico Margiotta, Adriano Lemmi, op. cit, page 97 et seq., cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 215-216.

93. Domenico Margiotta, Adriano Lemmi, op. cit, page 97 et seq., cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 216.

94. Domenico Margiotta, Adriano Lemmi, op. cit, page 97 et seq., cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 216-217.

95. Domenico Margiotta, Adriano Lemmi, op. cit, page 97 et seq., cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 217-218.

96. The Bureau and the Mole: The Unmasking of Robert Philip Hanssen, the Most Dangerous Double Agent in FBI History', David A. Vise, Grove Press, New York, 2002.

97. David A. Vise, op. cit, page 1.

98. John, Chapter 18, verses 37-38. In the profoundly evil and blasphemous film released in 2004 entitled The Passion of Christ', Pilate's wife answers Pilate's millennial question 'What is truth?' with a frivolous and unscriptural answer. But clearly, the fact that Jesus did not answer Pilate, the personification of evil, who had been responsible for terrible murders ('Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices': Luke, Chapter 13, verse 1), was intentional, since the answer is spoken by the Lord's perfect silence.

99. 'The Keys of This Blood: Pope John Paul II versus Russia and the West for control of the New World Order', Malachi Martin, Touchstone, Simon & Schuster, New York, 1990.

100. Domenico Margiotta, 'Adriano Lemmi', op. cit, page 97 et seq., cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 216-217; the subsequent detailed information is excerpted from Chapter 30 of Lady Queenborough's work, pages 207-240.

101. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, Chapter 30 et. seq.

102. Mobile telephones and telescopes come in handy since on a foggy day one cannot see opposite numbers at the other end of the circular table arrangement, while hearing what they say without an earpiece is out of the question.

103. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 223-224, citing Bataille, 'Le Diable au XIXe Siecle', page 360 et seq.
104. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 226, citing Bataille, 'Le Diable au XIXe Siecle', page 360 et. seq.
105. Charcornac, 'Eliphas Levi', page 191, cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 236.
106. Charcornac, 'Eliphas Levi', page 191, cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 236-237.
107. Lady Queenborough, op. cit., page 226-227, citing occultist-theosophist Alice Bailey, 'Initiation Human and Solar', p. 106.
108. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 235.
109. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 233-234 citing part of Albert Pike's address to the 23 Supreme Confederated Councils on 14th July 1889, as Sovereign Pontiff of Universal Freemasonry.
110. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, page 234.
111. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 232-233.
112. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, citing Bataille, op. cit. Volume I, page 346 et seq.
113. Matthew, Chapter 6, verse 24.
114. Matthew, Chapter 5, verses 33-37. James, the brother of Jesus, writes in James, Chapter 5, verse 12: 'But above all things, my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath; but let your Yea be yea; and your Nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation'. In Masonry, members swear oaths on a Bible, in the name of God, that involve mutilation and murder of human beings [see for instance Malcolm C. Duncan, 'Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor', 1974, pages 224-225 and pages 250-251], But the Bible forbids taking God's name in vain and committing murder: Exodus, Chapter 20, verse 7: Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain', and 13: Thou shalt not kill'; and Jesus himself: Thou shalt do no murder' (Matthew, Chapter 19, verse 18).
115. Lady Queenborough, op. cit, 1933, page 181.
116. E.g. Matthew, Chapter 19, verse 19.
117. Albert Pike, 33rd Degree Mason, Palladian Rite founder, occultist and necromancer, 'Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry', 1871, House of the Temple, Washington DC, 1969, page 226: 'Masonry, around whose altars the Christian, the Hebrew, the Moslem, the Brahmin, the followers of Confucius and Zoroaster, can assemble as Brethren and unite in prayer to the one God who is above all the Ba'alim, must needs leave it to each of its Initiates to look for the foundation of his faith and hope to the written scriptures of his own religion'. The universality of Freemasonry (which seeks to bring all to the worship of Lucifer) is further reiterated by the 33rd Degree Masonic write Albert Mackey in 'Mackey's Revised Encyclopaedia of Freemasonry', 1966, on pages 8-9.
118. John, Chapter 14, verse 6.
119. First Epistle of Paul to Timothy, Chapter 2, verse 5.
120. The First General Epistle of John, Chapter 2, verses 22-23
121. Revelation, Chapter 9, verse 11. The appalling implications of the geomasonic 'sacred word' Abaddon are all the more apparent when one reads into this verse, including part of the preceding verse: 'And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails; and their power was to hurt men...'.
122. Matthew, Chapter 22, verses 31-32: To the Saducees, who did not believe in the resurrection, Jesus said: 'But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living'. Mark, Chapter 12, verses 26-27: 'And as touching the dead, that they rise; have ye not read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God spake unto him, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living: ye therefore do greatly err'. Luke, Chapter 20, verses 37-38:' Now that the dead are raised, even Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living: for all live unto him'. The fact that Jesus' distinction between the 'gods' of darkness (as in Egypt, where death was worshipped) and the God of life appears three times in the Gospels, is indicative of the importance of what Jesus had to say to all of us on this score.
123. 'Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated', Dr Cathy Burns, op. cit, page 359.
124. Jeremiah, Chapter 32, verse 35. In verse 33, the Lord said through Jeremiah: 'And they have turned unto me the back, and not the face: though I taught them, rising up early and teaching them' (meaning I taught them BEFORE I taught the Gentiles), 'yet they have not harkened to receive instruction'. (The Lord ALWAYS speaks through living human beings, his prophets, and NEVER through the dead, which is what mediums do at seances, or rather purport to do: what actually happens is that evoked demons mimic the dead supposedly summoned up).
125. Scriptural sources for this statement: Exodus, Chapter 20, verses 2-7; Deuteronomy, Chapter 6, verse 4; Psalm 8, verse 1; and Psalm 29, verse 2: 'Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his Name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness'.
126. 'Duncan's Masonic Ritual', op. cit. [Note 21, page 36.
127. Second Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, Chapter 6, verse 14: 'Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers; for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness; and what communion hath light with darkness?'; and Revelation, Chapter 18, verses 1-4 - which is highly pertinent, given that Babylon (on the 33rd parallel, which the US military occupied during the second Iraq War because of its esoteric associations), and given that Freemasonry derives much of its mumbo-jumbo and magic from Babylon, as well as from Egypt (symbol of the darkness), Greece and other pagan-Satanic and esoteric sources): 'And after these things I saw another angel come down from Heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory; And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird; For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues'.
128. In Matthew, Chapter 10, verse 28, Jesus adds: 'And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell'.
129. Albert Pike, 'Morals and Dogma', op. cit, page 167: 'No man, it (masonry) holds, has any right in any way to interfere with the religious belief of another'. This should ring bells when we consider the insidious avalanche of 'political correctness' which, in the United Kingdom, is now on the verge of embracing 'religion', with legislation (as of 2006) pending that will prohibit 'incitement to religious hatred' but which will cover a much broader spectrum than is purveyed by this slogan. In other words, Masonic standards are being further superimposed upon the residual Christian underpinning of the nation.

130. Matthew, Chapter 28, verses 18-20: 'And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying. All power is given unto me in Heaven and in earth. Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things, whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world'. Mark, Chapter 16, verses 15-16: 'And he said unto them. Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved; but he that believeth not, shall be damned'.
131. Exodus, Chapter 20, verses 1-5: 'And God spake all these words, saying, I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt [= the darkness and the worship of death - Ed.], out of the house of bondage [metaphor: bondage to the sterile worship of death; and from sin, which is death - Ed.]. Thou shaft have no other gods but me. Thou shaft not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. Thou shaft not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them; for I thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me'.
132. The following New Testament readings will help here: Matthew, Chapter 6, verses 1-4; and Chapter 28, verse 19; Luke, Chapter 6, verse 38; Ephesians, Chapter 5, verses 15-16; and James, Chapter 1, verse 27.
133. Malcolm C. Duncan, 'Duncan's Masonic Ritual', page 13.
134. Matthew, Chapter 6, verse 24: 'No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise th other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon'. Matthew, Chapter 23, verses 8-10: 'But be ye not called Rabbi [= Master - Ed,]; for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren. And call no man your father upon the earth; for one is your father, which is in heaven'. Matthew, Chapter 4, verses 10-11, in which Christ commands the Devil to leave Him: 'Then saith Jesus unto him. Get thee hence, Satan; for it is written, Thou shaft worship the Lord thy God, and him only shaft thou serve. Then the Devil leaveth him; and behold, angels came and ministered unto him'. The point is that JESUS SAID NO TO THE DEVIL, AND TOLD HIM TO GET LOST. AND HE DID.
135. Matthew, Chapter 10, verses 26-27: 'Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known. What I tell you in darkness [of the world - Ed.], that speak ye in light; and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops'. John, Chapter 18, verse 20: 'Jesus answered him [the High Priest - Ed.], I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing'. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 26, verse 26: Paul, addressing Festus and King Agrippa: 'For the king knoweth of these things, before whom I also speak freely; for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner'.
136. First Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, Chapter 10, verse 21: 'Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils'.
137. Ezekiel, Chapter 8, verses 12-16.
138. Llewellyn Publications, St Paul, MN, 1972.
139. 'Freemasonry: The Witchcraft Connection', private paper. William Schnoebelen was deeply involved in both witchcraft as a Wiccan high priest and in Freemasonry for many years. He was a Mason for nine years and a practicing witch for 17 years. In the Lodge, he held the successive offices of Junior Warden in the Blue Lodge, Prelate in the Commandery of the York Rite, Master of the Veil in the Royal Arch Degree, and Associate Patron in the Order of the Eastern Star. He was also a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner. He is now a Christian, the author of five books, including 'Masonry: Beyond the Light'.
140. First book of Samuel, Chapter 15, verse 23.
141. In witchcraft, the Temple' is frequently not a building or component thereof, but rather a 'sacred' 'Magic Circle' laid down on the floor of a room, with great ceremony. Some witches have circular carpets or rugs for this purpose. The circle becomes the 'sacred space' of the Wiccans, and serves the same purpose as does the Temple in Masonry.
142. This oath may be found in Stewart Farrar's What Witches Do: The Grimoire of Lady Sheba'Vgrimoire"= 'magic spell book') and in June Johns' 'King of the Witches', according to Mr Schnoebelen.
143. Malcolm C. Duncan, 'Duncan's Ritual Monitor', op. cit, David McKay Co., Inc., New York, pages 34-35.
144. See e.g. Schnoebelen, 'Masonry: Beyond the Light, Chick Publications Inc., China, CA, 1991, pp. 146,155-160; 214-215.
145. Manly P. Hall, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', op. cit, page 48: When the Mason learns that the key to the warrior on the block is the proper application of the dynamo of living power [i.e., the power of Satan - Ed.], he has learned the mystery of his Craft. The seething energies of Lucifer are in his hands and before he may step onward and upward, he must prove his ability to properly apply energy. He must follow in the footsteps of his forefather, Tubal-Cain...'.
146. Ezekiel, Chapter 8, verse 3.
147. Albert Pike, 'Morals and Dogma', op. tit, pages 839, 22, 744-745; and Manly P. Hall, 'The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', op. tit, page 48:
148. For the fact that Masonry teaches a form of justification by works, see: Duncan, op. cit, page 129; and Tennessee Craftsmen or Masonic Textbook', Grand Lodge of Tennessee, 1983, page 17. In the Catholic context, the lie that by saying a given number of Hail Marys one can procure a number of days off purgatory is insane, aberrant and pagan, superstitious, uncorroborated, unbiblical rubbish.
149. R. S. Clymer, The Mysticism of Masonry[1],1900, page 47; and J. D. Buck, 'Symbolism or Mystic Masonry[1],1925, page 57.
150. Albert Pike, 'Morals and Dogma', op. tit, page 539; and Henry C. Clausen, 'Practice and Procedure for the Scottish Rite', Supreme Council, 33rd Degree, Washington DC, 1981, pages 75-77.
151. Albert G. Mackey, 'The Symbolism of Freemasonry: Illustrating and Explaining its Science and Philosophy; Its Legends, Myths and Symbols', New York, Clark and Maynard, 1869, pages 334-335, and 1901-92. See also: 'Pocket Encyclopaedia of Masonic Symbols', Silver Spring, Maryland, The Masonic Service Association of the United States, 1953, page 7. Dr Cathy Burns lists other sources on page 472 of her monumental work, 'Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated, op. tit.
152. Veronica Ions, 'Egyptian Mythology', The Hamlyn Publishing Group Ltd., Middlesex, United Kingdom, 1965, page 4.
153. William Schnoebelen and James R. Spencer, Whited Sepulchers', Triple J Publications, Boise, Idaho, 1990, pages 44-450, citing material from the newsletter of the master US Satanist Anton LaVey, The Cloven Hoof, Volume VIII, Number 6.
154. Albert Pike, 'Morals and Dogma', op. tit, page 819.
155. Matthew, Chapter 24, verse 35; Mark, Chapter 13, verse 31; Luke, Chapter 21, verse 33.
156. Revelation, Chapter 12, verse 9.
157. Matthew, Chapter 10, verse 28.
158. First Epistle of Paul to Timothy, Chapter 4, verses 1 and 2.

CHAPTER SIX

THE ANGELS OF LIGHT

FALSE APOSTLES, DECEITFUL WORKERS

The Apostle Paul, writing his Second Epistle to the Corinthians in around AD60, was alarmed that the flock he had preached to some years earlier, had been suborned and corrupted by false priests, 'preaching another Jesus whom we have not preached'... or 'another spirit which ye have not received, or another gospel, which ye have not accepted'[1]. For he feared 'lest, by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtlety... your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ'[2].

Specifically, Paul knew that the new Christians in Corinth had been subjected to spiritual attack (which is the fate of all who receive Christ) and that the 'other Jesus', i.e. Satan's substitute, might suborn and entice many of them away from the Way, the Truth and Life which is the Word of God through Jesus (as only they who have accepted His promise through faith know for certain: there is no room for doubt at all). Paul called the teachers of spiritual lies 'false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ'[3]. Such deceivers represent that they are followers and teachers of the Word, using this false clothing to disguise their real allegiance to the Devil: indeed the clever ones can be indistinguishable, to the unwary (and to those unlearned in Scripture), from 'the real thing'. As Paul went on to explain, in one of his most glorious exposures of Satan's lies: 'And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works'[4].

Figure 63 on page 405 features the Rev Dr Robert H. Schuller, who handed over his Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove, CA, to his son, Dr Robert Anthony Schuller, on 22nd January 2006. Schuller Sr. is shown here performing a Masonic handshake with the head of the KGB Continuum, Mikhail Gorbachev (Orbach or Korbach) in the 1990s. In the United States, a secular state where the Illuminati have procured that 'religion' may not be taught in schools, founding one's own tax-exempt church is an enticing 'opportunity'.

Such 'angel of light' ventures, of course, are nothing new. On 20th September 1870, the army of the King of Piedmont, who already called himself the King of Italy, entered Rome under the command of the Freemason, General Cadorna. On exactly the same day, Giuseppe Mazzini, the Illuminist Masonic evil genius, founder of the modern Mafia (evolved from a tradition of scamming and banditry traceable back to at least the 11th century) and the brain behind idea of using the Piedmontese Kingdom as the instrument for the unification of Italy, confirmed his agreement with his countervailing Illuminati associate, the US General Albert Pike, on the division of dogmatic (false doctrine) and political action (revolutionary agitation) powers between them.

Specifically, Albert Pike obtained, as discussed in Chapter 5, the dogmatic authority over the Scottish Rite 'line' of the 'craft', to mimic the Pope's powers of control over Catholic (as opposed to Christian) dogma - and acquired the title of Sovereign Pontiff of Universal Freemasonry, with his seat at the headquarters of the US Scottish Rite system and tradition, located for occult-esoteric reasons on the 33rd parallel in Charleston, South Carolina; while Mazzini acquired or retained the crucial executive authority, with the title of Sovereign Chief of Political Action, based in Rome. In the light of the Author's knowledge of colossal financial transfers of Illuminati funds 'redirected' in 1989-92 under George Bush Sr. into the hands of an Opus Dei agent for the Vatican, the Author understands that the Chief of Political Action is resident in the sovereign territory of the Vatican, the 'Open Friendly Society' division of the Illuminati.

666: THE NUMBER OF THE BEAST: IDENTIFIED AS ROME

The Apostle John, writing in Revelation, Chapter 13, verse 18, states: 'Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast' (the 'angel of light' referred to elsewhere in Revelation as the Beast-Lamb, which means the Evil One masquerading as Christ): for it is the number of a man: and his number is six hundred and three score and six'[5]. A pupil of the Apostle John, Polycarp, had in turn a pupil, Irenaeus (Irenius) (probably of Jewish extraction, as the name is close to the Jewish name Ira), a man of understanding, who knew from his teacher (and thus directly from John) that 666 represents the Greek word 'Lateinos', meaning the Latin Kingdom. This is because Kabbalistically-numerologically, Lateinos devolves to 666, as follows: L = 30; A = 1; T = 300; E = 5; I = 10; N = 50; O = 70; S = 200: which if you add the numbers up, comes to 666[6]. Rome is the seat of 'Lateinos', the Latin Kingdom [see box, page 347]. Therefore, 666 refers specifically to Rome[7], as is evident from the fact that Mazzini, the Illuminati drug-dealer and founder of the modern Mafia, was accorded, by joint agreement with the black magician-Illuminati-occultist and necromancer Albert Pike, the title (and therefore controlled the substance) of Chief of Political Action. Papal Rome, effectively the reconstituted seat of the Roman Emperor, made Latin its official language.

As shown in Figures 8 and 9 on pages 26-27, the US Diamond Certificate worth $1.0 billion has serial numbers, which devolve to 666. This implies that the US Treasury issues these instruments on behalf of, in subservience or obeisance to, or in accordance with fundamental understandings with, the Vatican - a deduction that is supported by the curious facts that the Pope receives a briefing every Friday from the CIA Rezident, and that the US Envoy to the Holy See is always of exceptional importance within the highest levels of the US Federal structures. While President Bush Jr. was engaged in delivering his 2006 State of the Union Message, the former US Ambassador to the Vatican was absent, carrying the 'Black Bag' containing the President's nuclear codes.

The so-called Eternal City is the seat not only of the so-called Holy See, the Vatican, but also of the Father General of the Society of Jesus, often referred to as the 'Black Pope' - the semi-secret organisation within the Catholic Church which acquired extraordinary powers from the outset of its existence, and which has understandably been a constant source of anxiety to successive Popes, not least in its recent 'left-wing' years.

The Jesuit 'Order', upon which their dialectical 'right-wing' competitors Opus Dei - currently in the ascendant in the Vatican, and in receipt of substantial US intelligence funds in 1992 - are modelled, was founded by Don Inigo de Loyola (Ignatius Loyola), a Spanish 'nobleman' and soldier of Jewish extraction, on 5th April 1541, at the church of Saint Paul without the Walls, near Rome, under the sanction of Pope Paul III. The

RECONFIRMING THE IDENTITY OF...

666

'Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon In one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold' [1 Kings, Chapter 10, verse 14; 2 Chronicles, Chapter 9, verse 13]. These two references clearly establish a link between the number 666 and great riches. 'Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the Beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is: Six hundred threescore and six' [Revelation, Chapter 13, verse 18]. As indicated on page 346, Irenaeus, a pupil of Polycarp, who was in turn a pupil of John, understood the 666 to be derived from the Greek word LATEINOS, in accordance with the kabbalistic-numerological arithmomancy method whereby letters of the alphabet are regarded as numerals. LATEINOS means 'Latin Kingdom', and the Pope retained Latin as the Vatican's official language.

In his book 'Roman Antichrist [1612], Andreas Helwig stated that the Pope's usurped title 'Vicar of Christ has the numerical value of 666. Written as Vicar of the Son of God' in Latin, or Vicarius Filii Dei, the letters with numerical value are: I = 1 (used six times), L = 50, V = 5, C = 100 and D = 500 - which, when counted,, total 666. The original name of Rome was Saturnia, meaning 'city of Saturn', which was the secret name revealed only to the initiates of the Chaldean mysteries which, in Chaldee, was spelled with four letters, STUR. In this language, S was 60, T was 400, U was 6, and R was 200 = 666. Furthermore, the name Romulus, from whom Rome was named, when converted to Hebrew Romiith = 666. LATEINOS in Greek also means 'Latin man'. Unlike the Greeks and Hebrews, the Romans did not use all their alphabet for numbers: in fact they used only six letters, namely: D, C L, X, V, and I. All other Roman numbers were made up from combinations of these. The six numbers which comprised the Roman numerical system, when added up, come to 666: D = 500; C = 100; L = 50; X = 10; V = 5; and I = 1 (the numbers being those with which the six characters were universally identified). [M, which a long time after the Roman era came to be used as a Roman numeral, representing 1,000, was originally written as CI, with another C turned backwards, to make CIC When squashed together this made a symbol which became M: E.W. Bullinger, 'Numbers in Scripture', page 284.].

The wealth of Solomon, which, as indicated, we are told twice amounted to 666 talents of gold 'in one year' which may mean 'annually', played an important role in leading him astray, so that he abandoned his wisdom and wasted his substance with 700 wives and 300 concubines. The letters of the Greek word used in the New Testament for 'wealth', which was EUPHORIA, when translated into numerals according to the Babylonian system, totalled 666. Out of all the 2,000 Greek nouns used in the New Testament there is only one other word that has this kabbalistic numerical value - namely, the word PARADOSIS, which means 'tradition', as used in Matthew, Chapter 15, verses 2,3 and 6: Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders?... But he answered and said unto them. Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?.... Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition' (referring to the elders' corruption of the commandment: 'Honour thy father and thy mother"). So, we have two key-words from the New Testament which, when converted numerologically from the Greek, devolve to 666. Wealth and Tradition were and remain the two main sources of corruption in the Roman Church - Wealth corrupted honourable behaviour and honesty, while Tradition' has corrupted sound doctrine.

Indeed, if one discusses these matters with a Catholic priest he will affirm that Scripture and Tradition are of equal importance and value - which gives rise to multiple fables. The Author was even informed by one Catholic priest at a conference in Hamilton, Ontario in 1999, that 'Mary' said this and that in the year 1603 - referring to some vision of Mary by a saint Such fables, of course, abound, and they provide ample scope for the variation of the Word of God, which was, the True Christian believes, with very good reason, conveyed exdusively through the written word of the prophets, disciples and Apostles.

On a sinister note, Aleister Crowley, the British intelligence officer who became the 'Wickedest Man in the World' and the most notorious open Satanist of his day, referred to himself as The Great Wild Beast or TO MEGA QHIRON in Greek. Translated numerically, this phrase totals 666, as well.

Given that the Babylonian kabbalistic sciences are sorcery, with numerology reflecting arithmetical truths (as well as unsubstantiated assertions), there is nothing further to be gained from investigating 666 beyond what has been summarised here. Occultic kabbalistic numerology was, of course, prevalent among the Jews from the time of the Babylonian captivity (roughly 610 BC) onwards. In Revelation, Chapter 13, verse 18, John is informed of the corrupt beast who is a man; 'and his number is six hundred threescore and six'. Since the cited derivations using kabbalistic numerology devolve, as a matter of objective fact, to 666, the insight that 666 represents the Pope, a man who pronounced in 1870 that The Pope is Christ in office', despite the appallingly degraded and worldly history of the Papacy, is indisputably correct Pope Urban VIII, a 17th century Pope, who became involved in astrology and occult ritual, used a magical seal with three bees arranged in a triangle. The bee has long been the symbol of the harlot of Mystery Babylon. Popes wear costly, Babylonian crowns, and elaborate garments. Our simple Saviour had no such vanity. ■

Jesuits use pagan initiation, contrary to the purity, simplicity and openness (affirmed by the absence of any hidden occult secrets or initiation procedures) of Jesus Christ. According to the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica': 'It (the Company of Jesuits) has six grades. These are novices, scholastics, temporal, coadjutors, professed of the three vows, and professed of the four vows [sic], the latter two grades being the only ones which confer a share in the government and eligibility for the offices of the society (a.k.a. 'The Order'). Its head, virtually a commander-in-chief, is known as The General. He wields absolute power over the members who are pledged to blind obedience. The General claims his authority from the Pope'. Both Mazzini and Pike were of course Generals.

The General has power, written into the Jesuits' statutes, that enables him, at will, to receive candidates secretly and also to conceal their admission (secret membership). Another clause, the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' states, provides 'for the admission of candidates to the company (of the Jesuits) who are not themselves members of it.... The General, who should by the statutes of the society reside permanently at Rome, holds in his hands the right of appointment, not only to the office of Provincial over each of the great districts into which the houses are mapped, but to the offices of each house in particular, no shadow of electoral right or even suggestion [of it] being recognised'.

JESUITS ORGANISED 'LIKE AN INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY'

In line with other objective published analyses, the comprehensive study published by 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' reveals the Jesuits to be organised along the lines of an intelligence community, as well as being an occult secret society dealing in Black Magic, as will be revealed shortly. Indeed, it is largely in line with the Jesuitical precedent and in accordance with its blueprint, that modern intelligence communities - which are essentially occultic secret societies - are organised. As the British general literary source states: 'The superiors and rectors of all houses and Colleges in Europe must report weekly to their Provincial on all matters concerning the members of the society and all outsiders with whom they may have had dealings of any sort'. The Provincial, for his part, must report monthly to the General, giving him a summary of all details that have reached him. But, as a check on him, all Superiors of houses in his Jesuitical Province are to make separate reports directly to the General once every three months, and further to communicate with him, without delay, every time any matter of importance occurs, irrespective of any information which the Provincial may have forwarded'.

This is of course a deliberately Satanic recipe for the universalisarion and institutionalisation of suspicion, distrust, secret hatreds, favouritism, nepotism, conniving, deceit and lying, fear, and innumerable other entrapments which could only have been invented by Satan himself. And these evil practices are perpetrated within an organisation named after Jesus himself: could there be any more precise illustration of what Paul meant when he proclaimed: 'And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works'[8].

Did Jesus demand and impose such two-faced secrecy among his disciples? No: everything that Jesus did and said was of course done in the open: 'For this thing was not done in a corner'[9]. The whole point of Jesus Christ is that he leads us out of the darkness into the true light. His mission was To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them that are sanctified by faith'[10].

Figure 56: The work of the Papal Inquisition in Holland: an illustration from 'Ridpath's History of the World' [Volume 5, page 297]. The woodcut shows a Protestant man hanging by his feet in stocks. The fire is heating a poker which will be used to brand him and to blind his eyes. Certain Popes who are today proclaimed to have been 'great', lived and prospered during the Inquisition decades and centuries, during which period the Inquisition was responsible for an estimated 50,000,000 deaths - more than even the highest total ever attributed to Stalin's repression. Why did these Popes do nothing to stop this abomination? If by any chance you imagined that the Catholic Church has truly repented of it, you would be gravely mistaken. The Rev. Joseph Di Noia, the American-born Under-Secretary of the Congregation of the Doctrine of the Faith, so-called 'successor' to the Inquisition, i.e. a seamless continuation thereof, admitted in a four part UKTV History Channel series starting on 30th January 2006 that the 'Holy Terror' and its abominable methods of suppressing 'heresy' were 'explicable in the context of the times, when people believed passionately in Heaven and hell' (the implication being that the modern Catholic Church may believe in neither). Prior to his 'election' as Pope Benedict XVI, Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger was head of the 'Congregation'. The TV series drew on research obtained from Vatican files which were finally opened for scrutiny in 1998 (just like the KGB files, which were 'opened', only to be 'closed' a few years later). The programmes highlighted the Papal persecution that began in the 13th century, and only ended in the late 1800s. Interviewed in 'The Secret Files of the Inquisition', Dr. Di Noia said that 'it was a mistake to torture people. However, torture was regarded as a perfectly justified, legitimate way of producing evidence and was therefore legally justified'. Such Black Luciferian sophistry deserves unqualified condemnation.

The methodology of the Jesuits is indeed that of the darkness of Satan, giving free rein to his usual menu of trickery — mobilising mistrust, secrecy, double-dealing, two-faced behaviour, treachery and lying, always with an underlying implication of the threat or reality of pressure, coercion, harassment and intimidation. It was this secretive, manipulative and instrumental tradition, replicated within the Orthodox Church, from which Stalin (who, though of Jewish extraction, named Djugashvili, started life in a seminary, just as Karl Marx was weaned from Christianity following a Satanic initiation at his German university) learned the science and application of the devilish mechanisms of intimidation, pressure, harassment, coercion and control.

'Nor is this all. An elaborate system of espionage', the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' article continues,' forms part of the recognised order of every [Jesuit] house, and, in direct contrast to the ancient indictment and confession of faults in open conventual chamber [sic], every inmate of a house is liable to secret accusation to its Superior, while the Superior himself may be similarly reported to the Provincial or [to] The General'.

'Nor is the General [even] himself exempt from control on the part of the Society, lest by any possible error he be unfaithful to its interests. A Consultative Council is imposed on him by the General Congregation, consisting of six persons, whom he may neither select nor remove - namely, four assistants, each representing a nation, an admon-isher or adviser (resembling... a military commander) to warn him of any faults or mistakes, and his confessor. One of these must be in constant attendance on him; and while he is not at liberty to abdicate his office, nor to accept any dignity or office outside it without the assent of the society, he may yet be suspended or deposed by its authority'.

'Such is the extraordinary skill with which the relations of the Society to the Papacy were originally drafted by Loyola, and subsequently worked [on] by his successors, that it has always remained organically independent, and might very conceivably break with Rome without imperilling its own existence. The General has usually stood towards the Pope much as a powerful grand feudatory of the Middle Ages did towards a weak titular lord paramount... and the shrewd Roman populace have long shown their recognition of this fact by styling these two great personages severally [as] the 'White Pope' and the 'Black Pope'. In truth, the society has never, from the very first, obeyed the Pope, whenever its will and his happened to run counter to each other'.

DEVISED AND ESCAPED RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE INQUISITION

This classic survey of the history of the Jesuits elaborates that although they were responsible for the Inquisition - the Satanic, murderous, barbaric, brutal ecclesiastical control mechanism instituted first in Spain - they have always managed somehow to escape censure for it. The Inquisition was an abomination, involving inter alia the perpetration of the lie that, in addition to 'heretics' - namely, those who saw right through the Pope's lies - those burned at the stake included 'witches'. Historians estimate that in the Middle Ages and Early Reformation Era, more than 50,000,000 martyrs perished as the false church made 'war on the saints' [= Christians]: Revelation, Chapter 13, verse 7. The women concerned were labelled 'witches' to disguise the truth, namely that they, too, perceived the lies, deception and Satanic methodology of the Catholic Church and its so-called 'Vicar of Christ' - apostasy that this worldly geopolitical organisation could not tolerate, for fear that its power base would be undermined. And yet, 'the merited odium which has overtaken the Inquisition, usually officered by Dominicans, has induced the Jesuits, whose own controversial methods had been different, to disclaim all connection with that tribunal, and to represent their society as free from complicity in its acts. But, in truth, it was Ignatius Loyola himself who procured its erection in Portugal in 1545-46, and Father Nithard, one of the very few Cardinals of the Society, was Inquisitor-General of that Kingdom [Portugal] in 1655'[11].

It will have been noticed that Loyola 'procured' the introduction of the Inquisition in 1545 - just four years after the Society's foundation. At the very least, the Jesuits were of a murderous disposition from the beginning. Remember that the Lord bracketed murderers with liars together. When reproving the Jesuits' predecessors - the Pharisees, in the most logical and necessarily stern terms - Jesus said: 'Why do ye not understand my speech? Even because ye cannot hear my word. Ye are of your father the Devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he is a liar, and the father of it... He that is of God heareth God's words; ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God'[12].

The Jesuits 'were' murderers (witness Loyola's procurement of the Inquisition in Portugal) and liars from the beginning - imposing their own secret pagan initiation ceremonies, contrary to the openness, simplicity and straightforwardness of Jesus Christ, of whom they were and remain false apostles. These people were, and remain, 'angels of light' - but of the darkness of Lucifer. The Author remembers a Jesuit named 'Father Levy' who was 'up' at Christ Church, Oxford, when he was an undergraduate there. This man had a reputation for alleged louche behaviour and heavy drinking - a state of affairs that caused the Author much puzzlement at the time. The Jesuits were recognisably driven, from the outset, by such 'seething energies of Lucifer'[13]. Their supreme talent has been to clothe their lupine aberrations in sheep's clothing - as false 'Angels of Lighf.

SATANIC INITIATION RITES OF THE JESUIT SORCERERS

Of Lucifer, Pike wrote, as will be recalled: 'Lucifer, the Light-bearer! Strange and mysterious name to give to the Spirit of Darkness! Lucifer, the Son of the Morning! Is it he who bears the Light, and with its splendours intolerable binds feeble, sensual, or selfish Souls [of which he, Pike, was one]? Doubt it not!'[14]. Doubt it not, either, that the initiation rites used by Jesuits are Luciferian, celebrating selected elements of the 'Ancient Mysteries', and consisting of components of the very same sorcery that Albert Pike and his occult Masonic colleagues consolidated and 'consecrated' in Illuminised Kabbalistic Masonry. For, far from being in any way related to Jesus Christ, Jesuit rule 'was' always Satanic in character - with its emphasis upon absolute obedience to The Order first, rather than to Christ, and its indulgence in secret Satanic ritual, as is confirmed by a manuscript in the Library at the Rue Richelieu, in Paris, entitled 'Histoire des congregations et sodalites jesuitiques depuis 1563 jusqu'au temps present' 1709)[15]. To provide the necessary irrefutable confirmation of the Satanic orientation of the Jesuits' initiation rites, as practiced in the early 18th century when the German Illuminati were releasing their 'seething energies', it is necessary to quote at length from this source:

'Initiation: Having in nearly all Roman Catholic countries succeeded in becoming the dictators of the young, they were able to mould the youthful mind according to their secret aims. If then, after a number of years, they detected in the pupil a blind and fanatic faith, conjoined with exalted pietism and indomitable courage, they proceeded to initiate him; in the opposite case, they excluded him. The proofs [i.e., testing of the boy -Ed.] lasted twenty-four hours, for which the candidate was prepared by long and severe fasting, which, by prostrating his bodily strength, inflamed his fancy, and, just before the trial, a powerful drink was administered to him'. Thus, in addition to having murder in mind and being masters of deception (lies), the Jesuits administered drugs to their young male initiates: so they were drug-peddlers, and in all probability perverted paedophiles, as well.

'Then the mystic scene began - diabolical apparitions, evocation of the dead, representations of the flames of hell, skeletons, moving skulls, artificial thunder and lightning, in fact, the whole paraphernalia of the Ancient Mysteries'. [Here, the absolute hegemony of the 'Ancient Mysteries' - as is intended to become universal in our own era, if the Illuminati have their way - is plainly confirmed: Ed.]. 'If the neophyte, who was closely watched, showed fear or terror, he remained for ever in the inferior degree; but if he bore the proof [test] well, he was advanced to a higher grade'.

'At the initiation into the second degree (of Scholastici) the same proofs, but on a grander scale, had to be undergone. The candidate, again prepared for them by long fastings, was led with his eyes bandaged' [exactly as in the Lodge, and during Skull and Bones rituals - Ed.] 'into a large cavern, resounding with wild howlings and roarings, which he had to traverse, reciting at the same time prayers specially appointed for that occasion. At the end of the cave he had to crawl through a narrow opening' [replicated by a similar 'narrow opening' in one of the orgiastic loci at the Bohemian Grove - Ed.], 'and while doing this, the bandage was taken from his eyes by an unseen hand, and he found himself in a square dungeon, whose floor was covered with a mortuary cloth, on which stood three lamps, shedding a feeble light on the skulls and skeletons ranged around. This was the Cave of Evocation, the Black Chamber, so famous in the annals of the Fathers. Here, giving himself up to prayer, the neophyte passed some time, during which the priests could, without his being aware of it, watch his every move and gesture. If his behaviour was satisfactory, all at once two brethren, representing archangels, presented themselves before him, without his being able to tell whence they had so suddenly started up... and, observing perfect silence, bound his forehead with a white band soaked with blood, and covered with hieroglyphics; they then hung a small crucifix round his neck, and a small satchel containing relics, or what did duty for them. Finally, they took off all his clothing, which they cast on a pyre in one corner of the cave, and marked his body with numerous crosses, drawn with blood'.

At this point, the hierophant with his assistants entered and, having bound a red cloth round the middle of the candidate's body, the brethren, clothed in bloodstained garments, placed themselves beside him, and drawing their daggers, formed the steel arch over his head. A carpet then being spread on the floor, all knelt down and prayed for about an hour' (which would have been a complete waste of time: the Lord does not hear those who walk in darkness, unless they repent, which these false 'Christian' priests emulating the Satanic sorcery rituals of pagan priests and yet naming themselves blasphemously after the Lord Jesus were not about to do - Ed.), 'after which the pyre was secretly set on fire; the further wall of the cave opened, the air resounded with strains, now gay, now lugubrious, and a long procession of spectres, phantoms, angels and demons filed past the neophyte like the 'supers' in a pantomime'.

'Whilst this farce was going on, the candidate took the following oath: - 'In the name of Christ crucified, I swear to burst the bonds that yet unite me to father, mother, brothers, sisters, relations, friends[16]; to the King, magistrates, and any other authority to which I may ever have sworn fealty, obedience, gratitude or service. I renounce [name] the place of my birth, henceforth to exist in another sphere. I swear to reveal to my new Superior, whom I desire to know, what I have done, thought, read, learnt, or discovered, and to observe and watch all that comes under my notice. I swear to yield myself up to my Superior, as if I were a corpse, deprived of life and will. Finally I swear to flee temptation, and to reveal all that I succeed in discovering, well aware that lightning is not more rapid and ready than the dagger to reach me wherever I may be'.

No special knowledge of Scripture is necessary to recognise the extent to which the oath (let alone the Satanic sorcery surrounding it) which the Jesuit initiate was forced to succumb to, flies in the face of the Word of Jesus Christ, and of 'the simplicity which is in Christ' and indeed of the crucial Commandment: 'Honour thy father and thy mother'[16]. Everything that has been described was and is an abomination to the Lord: and the fact that these things 'were' done in the name of Jesus represented (represents) blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, for which the Lord stated unequivocally that no forgiveness is available: 'And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man [Jesus], it shall be forgiven him: but unto him that blasphemeth against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven'[17].

Figure 574 [top]: The Inquisition's 'Iron Virgin', illustrated here, was a hollow instrument made to the size and figure of a woman. Knives were arranged within it under such pressure that the accused was lacerated. This torture device was sprayed with 'holy water' and inscribed with the Latin words for 'Glory be only to God'. Figure 57B [lower illustration): The Inquisition's 'rack', a long table on which the accused was tied by hands and feet, with his back down, and then stretched by a rope wound by a windlass, so that his joints were dislocated and he was 'wracked' with extreme pain. Those who rose up in protest against the Church of Rome did so because they knew it to be a den of corruption and hypocrisy and rejected its false claims, relying instead upon the Lord for salvation and truth. Such people were persecuted as 'heretics'.

Furthermore, the Lord told those in authority who tried to catch him out in the Temple: 'Render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's'[18] meaning that we submit (not mindlessly, but as a practical matter. Otherwise society would disintegrate: and the Devil is the author of confusion, not of order) to those placed in authority over us, as we submit to the Word of God. We are given free will, which the Jesuit initiate is compelled to surrender, contrary to God's will for us - so that the Jesuit controller can exercise his ruthless, coercive and unlimited abusive power over his victim. As for the undertaking to flee temptation, this does not 'justify' the accompanying aberrations, not least because its purpose is to gratify the lusts of the controllers themselves. They feel more comfortable when those under their control are forced to live in an unreal world, ostensibly devoid of temptation - whereas temptation is a daily hazard, part of the human condition, and a circumstance, which the Lord uses to help us to hear his call. The oath ends with the neophyte's pathetic acceptance of the fact that he will be under surveillance for the whole of his life. He will have no privacy, will be able to form no normal human relationships - contrary to the natural order and the will of God for each of us - and will be reduced to the status of a mind-controlled tool of the sorcerers.

THE FALSE 'EUPHORIA PERIOD' EXPERIENCED BY JESUIT NOVICES

As will be explained, novices experience a 'euphoria period' during which they exult in the fact that they are in the process of 'renouncing the world' and 'giving themselves to The Order'*. But as this early 'euphoria' gradually wears off, they become progressively more resigned and depressed - with many of them acquiring peculiar habits, fetishes and preoccupations evidently arising from the wholly unnatural restrictions, lack of true and loving human relationships, and the environment in which they are required to live and have their pathetic being. In other words, the novice Jesuit's 'euphoric period' is false - akin to the tricks typically played by sorcerers, or magicians, who may, by evoking occult powers, be able to procure 'healing' or other phenomena. Any such 'healing' invariably turns out to be temporary, and when it 'wears off', the victim is left in a worse state than before - whereas true healing through prayer is always complete, permanent and perfect, in response to the healer's true belief in Jesus' Will. One can scarcely imagine with what disillusionment a young male novice comes in due course to realise that he has forfeited a normal life, and normal human sexuality, for this Satanic prison of body and spirit, erected by false 'angels of light' calling themselves by the Name of Jesus.

---

* As previously observed, a significant number of these Luciferian occult entities openly refer to themselves as The Order'. The fact that this appellation is so common among them cannot be a coincidence. Not only do Jesuits talk about membership of The Order', but so do members of Opus Dei, and of the Satanic cult founded by a German and taken over by the British intelligence operative Aleister Crowley, before it was handed back to German custody - Ordo Templi Orientis. So why is this? It will be seen from Figure 62 on page 395 that the symbols of Opus Dei, which ought to be called Opus Luciferis, include (a) a circle with a (misaligned) cross within it, which mimics the esoteric symbol for 'the earth' and (b) a rose - which 'just happens' to be the symbol of the Rosicrucian sorcery-heresy (and of one of its offshoots, the British Labour Party). The Rosicrucians refer to their 'Order', according to the very rare document by Manly P. Hall cited in this book. Since, however disguised, all these organisations specialise in and practice the same sorcery and have the same globalist, worldly aims, it is perfectly clear that they represent manifestations of the same global organisation specialising in the Works of Darkness, and driven by the 'seething energies of Lucifer'. One and all are components of 'The Order'.

FROM THE JESUITS' BOOK OF SECRET INSTRUCTIONS

One of the Jesuits' specialities has been, from the beginning, a policy of denying all critical reports about the organisation and its members, with the aim of discrediting such reports, and to take the reckless chance that they may be caught lying. The cynical underlying assumption here is that the veneration in which the Jesuits are mistakenly held, and their alleged closeness to the Pope, can always be relied upon to dampen the enthusiasm of any of their numerous enemies, for pressing ahead with exposures. However the Jesuits have been sensible enough not to deny the following information from a Book of Secret Instructions of the Society of Jesus[19]:

The Preface especially warns Jesuit Superiors not to allow it to fall into the hands of strangers, as it might give them a bad opinion of The Order.

The Chapters are headed as follows:

- How the Society is to proceed in founding a new establishment.
- How the Brethren of the Society may acquire and preserve the friendship of Princes and other distinguished Personages.
- How the Society is to conduct itself towards those who possess great influence in a state; and who, though they are not rich, may yet be of service to others.
- Hints to Preachers and Confessors of Kings and great personages.
- What conduct to observe towards the clergy and other religious orders.
- How to win over rich widows.
- How to hold widows fast and dispose of their property.
- How to induce the children of widows to adopt a life of religious seclusion.
- Of the increase of College revenues.
- Of the private rigour of discipline to be observed by the Society.
- How 'Ours' shall conduct themselves towards those that have been dismissed from the Society.
- Whom to keep and make much of in the Society.
- How to select young people for admission into the Society, and how to keep them there.
- Of reserved cases, and reasons for dismissing from the Society.
- How to behave towards nuns and devout women.
- How to pretend contempt for riches.
- General means for advancing the interest of the Society.

This catalogue shows that, if any further proof were needed, this reprobate organisation, proclaiming the name of Jesus and using it as a cover for its sorcery and worldliness, is interested exclusively in itself (stealing the wealth of rich widows and appropriating their property), and in its intelligence activities (such as obtaining state secrets in confessionals from Monarchs and the highly-placed in Catholic countries). This is not the Society of Jesus, but yet another society of Satan, conforming to Christ's prophecy: Tor many shall come in my name, and shall deceive many'[20]; or: 'For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall show signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect'[21] or: 'And he said, Take heed that ye be not deceived: for many shall come in my name saying, I am Christ... and the time draweth near go ye not therefore after them'[22]. Given such explicit warnings from the Lord, how come that these reprobates have been able to deceive themselves and the world for so many centuries?

The authoritative source from which the chapter headings cited above are taken, summarises the extremely bad odour in which the Jesuits have been justifiably held at various times in their history: 'The intermeddling of this society in the affairs political, ecclesiastical and civil, of many countries, is related in numerous works, and repeatedly produced the suppression and expulsion of The Order, though it constantly reappeared with new names. In 1716 the French army was infested with Jesuitical and anti-Jesuitical societies.... They were abolished by Papal Bull in 1773 at the demand of France, Spain, Portugal, Parma, Naples and Austria'. They are, however, 'still to be found everywhere, and they hold considerable property in England. A modern writer justly calls them the 'Black International''.

THE 'MODERN' ILLUMINATI SPRINGING FROM A JESUIT SOURCE

It was from the Jesuit College at Ingolstadt that the evil sect originally known as the 'Illuminati of Bavaria' originated, in its modern and now relevant format (although the Illuminati tradition, and the pagan sect itself, is of much older occultic provenance, not addressed other than in passing here, since a separate volume is needed for that purpose). In its modern manifestation, the sect of the Uluminati was founded, significantly, on the Druidic Festival of Beltane, or Walpurgis Night, the second 'highest' day in the Druidic Witch's Calendar, and the Illuminati's second most 'sacred' day (when human sacrifice is required), namely 1st May 1776. Its founder (in the modern format) was of course Adam Weishaupt, the Professor at the University of Ingolstadt in Germany, who had been educated (indoctrinated and infested) by the Jesuits. The Illuminati - which thus originated both in the 14th century and in their revamped manifestation in Germany, where fascination with the occult was especially rife, having been set alight by emissaries from the occultic Court of the British King James II while in exile in Paris -spawned three classes of adepts, subdivided into degrees, in accordance with the Jesuit initiation system model and as replicated in Freemasonry [see Chapter 5],

Using the Jesuit system of Satanic initiation and degrees, this organisation was thus, from the beginning, as 'Masonic' as the Rosicrucians' Rose Croix (which adheres, like a malevolent limpet, to the ritual progression of the Scottish Rite), the Templars and the other pseudo-ancient, emerging and proliferating Masonic Order manifestations of the tradition of Simon Magus and the 'Ancient Mysteries' which all these 'secret' sex-oriented sorcery societies exist to promote and to recommend to humanity as 'normal behaviour'. Their great 'success' to date is everywhere apparent in modern Britain: for instance, a survey of 1,000 young girls aged 15-19 taken in 2005, found that 63% aspired to be glamour models, that 25% of their number hoped to become pornographic lap dancers, and that 'for many, the erotic lifestyle and look is not seedy but has become aspirational' - a finding indicative of the fast-approaching apparent triumph of the Illuminati's Luciferian agenda[23]. The British gutter (tabloid) press is devoted almost 100% to the degradation of women, pornography and sluttish filth, as the Author discovered anew when he had to compile a mailing list in October 2005, of political correspondents. As the avowed feminist journalist Flic Everett justifiably observed in ''The Guardian'(before it downsized itself into insignificance in the third quarter of 2005), 'the once-concealed symbols and attitudes of hardcore porn are now flooding mainstream 'culture' (in Britain). 'While the Internet and mobile phone services were pivotal in offering easy access, sex-trade terminology is standard even on primetime TV' which is now so filthy and tawdry in the UK that if s unwatchable. Programmes called 'Pimp my Ride', 'Wife Swap', 'Faking It', and 'pop' videos showing lusting rappers groping near-naked girls, are the norm. Shampoo advertisements 'address the product's orgasmic potential'. All this is voraciously consumed by boys, and girls, who have only just graduated from 'The Beano" (a traditional children's comic). The feminist journalist concluded, assisted by her well-honed female intuition, that 'consequently boys are all heading to an adulthood of deeply confused, deeply mysogenist - attitudes to women'. The British tabloid-gutter press, which some 'broadsheet' papers are mimicking, assumes that fornication is the norm and celebrates it with the sterile emptiness to be expected from such a powerful instrument of the Illuminati's assault on civilisation.

For 'public? consumption purposes, Weishaupf s intention, given that he had split from the oppression of the Jesuit environment, was initially to constitute a Protestant organisation to fight Jesuitism (not a Christ-like intention, of course), using Jesuitical methods that he had learned from 'The Order', although in the event Weishaupt accepted instructions provided by Nathaniel Rothschild - with the objective of introducing more extensively than Freemasonry was succeeding in doing, the occult mysteries of the Kabbalah. He was assisted organisationally and doctrinally by a large number of prominent people with time on their hands, including Christoph Friedrich Nicolai (1733-1811), behind whom stood Moses Mendelssohn; and behind Mendelssohn, stood the Kabbalistic Jewish Kahal - that is, the Jewish International World Government appa-rat[24], which is and has been, since Caiaphas saw that Christ had triumphed, bent on the total extirpation of Christianity (True Christianity, that is).

As the Illuminati expanded their influence through publishing and propaganda, their ambitions developed such a broad reach that they culminated in a conspiracy to subvert Freemasonry and to focus it on the task of secretly agitating for the world dominion of the Kabbalah (the Babylonian derivative of the 'Ancient Mysteries') by all means, including, to anticipate one of the German Illuminati's most demonic operatives, Lenin, 'working by other means'. Various agitators proliferated 'cheap and popular tracts ... and, as well as Nicolai, were in close communication with Weishaupt, carry[ing] on with a most reckless violence, and with weapons of a most shameless ribaldry, the warfare against Christianity'[25]. Since of course they confused the Roman Catholic Church with True Christianity, ribaldry and ridicule came naturally.

Figure 58: A Torture Chamber of the Papal Inquisition, by Picart [1673-1733]. A Papal Bull, 'Ad exstirpanda', issued by the cynically named Pope Innocent IV in 1252 ordered that heretics were to be 'crushed like ven-emous snakes', and formally approved the use of torture (as the US Government has done). According to the 'Catholic Encyclopedia', this Bull remained 'henceforth a fundamental document of the Inquisition.... The civil authorities, therefore, were enjoined by the Popes, under pain of excommunication, to execute the legal sentences that condemned impenitent heretics to the stake. It is to be noted that excommunication itself was no trifle, for, if the person excommunicated did not free himself from the excommunication within a year, he was held by the legislation of that period to be a heretic, and incurred all the penalties that affected heresy' - which meant that non-compliance risked torture and being burned at the stake.

CREATIONS OF THE EVIL ONE PROGRAMMED TO FIGHT EACH OTHER

Let us pause here to unravel the web of lies that Satan had by this stage so expertly weaved. Having, as specifically predicted in Revelation, usurped the place of Christ and with a history of brutality and Borgia-style debauchery masked by a false piety, the worldly Catholic Church and its papal 'Angels of Light' give birth to a law enforcement arm blasphemously named after Jesus himself, with the Pope all the while diverting the world's attention from Jesus Christ, as Satan intended, by drawing worship and adulation mainly towards himself and the forbidden 'Queen of Heaven'[26] (the female goddess Astarte who has become Mary, the earthly mother of Jesus, and of many other children, who is deceitfully declared to be 'immaculate' in conformity with the pagan tradition). The new law enforcement arm organises, within four years of its establishment, the scourge of the Inquisition, a plainly Satanic repression apparatus for which modern Catholics are supposed to have 'forgiven' their Church, or towards which they are induced to turn a blind eye.

The Inquisition provides the mediaeval precedent for modern 'population reduction' and genocide episodes - dispensing death on an industrial scale, and using false witness to persecute those with whom it has differences as 'heretics', and many genuine intuitive True Christians, as 'witches'. The law enforcement arm, being a black intelligence organisation, uses Satanic initiation ceremonies, secrecy, oppression, and the 'black arts' to further its own organisational interests, and to enrich itself on the pretext of spreading the Word of God and supporting the Pope's supposed mission - but actually in order to increase, enhance and consolidate its own lustful power.

Since the Devil is the author of confusion, none of these Satanic Illuminist ventures can succeed, and all are perennially and perpetually afflicted by scandal, riven by jealousies, rivalries and controversy, and bedevilled by internal tensions which threaten their continued existence. Tensions and resentments within the Jesuit manifestation of The Order generate hatreds such as that harboured by Weishaupt for his former Society: so he devises a long-term strategy for the destruction of the Jesuits and of the Catholic Church itself. The error in which Weishaupt indulged, in common with all collaborators with the Illuminati sect and its manifestations today, was to confuse the corrupt and usurping Catholic Church, its Pope and its errant dogmas, and the Black Society of Jesus, with the real spiritual church of the fellowship of the Lord Jesus Christ, which has nothing to do with the worldly churches that have sprung up to exploit its legitimate hold on the attention of errant humanity. But from Satan's perspective, this was and remains the best of all possible hells: for, since ignorance about the Word of God prevails, what Satan has actually achieved through these deceptions is his own creations warring against each other - which is what happens, by definition, in all hellish environments.

In late April 1981, Pope John Paul II convened a meeting at the Vatican, which was concerned with the future of the Jesuit Order: whether it should be reformed, or closed down (yet again). The Black Pope at that time was Father General Pedro Arrupe. An extremely detailed description of this meeting, attended by six Cardinals (the same number of individuals required, under the Jesuits' own internal rules, to be present in the event of censure or other action against the Father General), was published in Malachi Martin's book 'The Jesuits: The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church' (1987)[27]. As will be recalled from the foregoing, all Jesuits are required (on pain of being 'reached' by that dagger) to report all details of whom they have been speaking with, meeting, and corresponding with, perpetually.

THE AUTHOR'S FRIENDSHIP WITH THE LATE FR. MALACHI MARTIN

Since Fr. Martin was a very senior Jesuit and Vatican intelligence operative with access to the Pope, it is likely that the source of this leak was none other than the late Malachi himself. Dr Martin, who was of partly Jewish extraction, personally informed the Author of one operation that he undertook for the Pope, which involved the infiltration of Jewish organisations in an attempt to establish the extent to which Freemasonry was being manipulated by militant modern Judaism, and to what extent these forces were as adamant as Caiaphas in their determination to destroy 'Christianity' - which, as previously indicated, is an impossible task since He promises us that 'the Gates of Hell shall not prevail'[28]- and accordingly what approach the Catholic Church should adopt in the face of whatever overall threat Dr Martin could identify.

Malachi further informed the Author that, following the completion of his papal remit, he was invited by the Pope to discuss his future. As it had been necessary for Malachi to function as a layman while engaged in this intelligence operation, the Pope and his advisers were of the opinion that it would be necessary for Malachi to remove himself from the Roman scene altogether, lest his cover was 'blown'. Given this requirement, the Pope had asked Malachi what he would like to do (basically, with the rest of his life). A brilliant linguist (he had mastered a large number of languages, including ancient Greek and Hebrew), Malachi surprisingly asked if he could be allowed to 'disappear' to North America, and write books. The Pope consented, and Malachi subsequently arrived in New York, almost down-and-out, where he undertook a number of jobs, including working as a stevedore. When he began his writing career, he started to reveal what he knew about attacks on the Catholic Church, the Jesuits, and, in a remarkable book called 'Hostage to the Devil', his wisdom on the subject of exorcism. Since some have expressed interest in the Author's opinion as to whether Malachi was a True Christian or not, the Author can say with certainty that he loved the Lord Jesus Christ.

However by the time that the Author was privileged to become one of Malachi's innumerable friends, in 1995, he had long since been granted comfortable, if frugal, accommodation by a great benefactor in an apartment on East 63rd Street, New York City, where he wrote his amazing books in a small, cell-like room, which he shared with a small dog. On the first occasion that the Author met him, during which we enjoyed three hours of conversation and Malachi will have formed a poor view of the Author's grasp of matters such as are being discussed in this book the dog relieved himself and had to be attended to in a somewhat basic manner. After a number of most enjoyable, breakfasts at a nearby Irish hotel, during which Malachi endeavoured to help the Author to understand spiritual, intelligence and Vatican issues, and related interesting information about the Vatican's attacks on the Fatima cult, the Author came to understand that Malachi, while still attempting to be a devout Catholic, despite his Jesuit background, was more or less at his wits' end about the condition of the Catholic Church. Apart from the information that he provided about certain past intelligence work, he never said anything at all about the Jesuits, as he felt that he had revealed all that he had needed to reveal, in his book on the Society[29]. But it was clear that, had he lived longer, he would have had to heed the urgent call of our Lord, echoing Isaiah, in Revelation [Chapter 18, verse 4]: 'Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues'[30].

THE PAPAL MEETING FAILS TO CUT THE JESUITS DOWN TO SIZE

The scene for the meeting in the conference room on the third floor of the Palace of the Popes on Vatican Hill in April 1981 was set by Malachi in the following terms: "The report folders were red damask and emblazoned in gold with the Tiara and Keys. Outside the door, a secretary and two Swiss Guards in traditional uniform were on duty to block all intruders. Seated at the conference table were the Pontiff of the Holy Roman Catholic Church and six of his most powerful Cardinals, the movers and shakers of the Vatican, a cameo of its most formidable strength. And the subject of discussion between them was the life or death of the Society of Jesus: whether, in other words, The Order headed by Father General Pedro Arrupe should be allowed to go on as it was, or be reorganised and reset according to the often-repeated wishes of three Popes, or be officially done to death by the power and under the authority of Pope John Paul II.. .'[31].

'By this early spring of 1981... John Paul had already felt the effect firsthand of the enormous power that had accrued over centuries to the Father General of the Society of Jesus. So great is that power in Rome and in the world at large, and so widely is it recognized, that whoever holds the office of Jesuit General also holds the unofficial title of "the Black Pope"...'.

'At the meeting that day, His Holiness sat in his white robes at the head of the table like a man whose husky and ebullient strength was scarcely caged, barely restrained from bursting forth. At age sixty-one, this first Polish Pope was a personality in powerful ascendancy, breathing enterprise, cloaked in a personal charisma, already a staple figure of the international news media. With the power of the Papacy behind him, most would have said, what prelate of the Church could stand up to him?'

'The meeting ranged over a wide number of issues, focusing especially upon the serial propagation of Marxism by clerics all over the world. The former Bishop of Cuernavaca, Mexico, Mendez Arceo, started his Sunday sermons with the clenched-fist salute of the Communist Internationale and shouted "Soy Marxista" (I am a Marxist!)... Cardinal Evaristo Arns of Sao Paulo, Brazil, took every opportunity to scarify rigid capitalism, and to laud the idea of a redistribution of wealth in order to relieve endemic poverty. And what about those French bishops who insisted on placing the birthday of Karl Marx on the official church liturgical calendar...? And what about the way the Canadian bishops made use of the Marxist analysis of the class struggle...?' One of the Cardinals, the most powerful, 'shared a double persuasion with John Paul: that Latin America must be saved from Marxism, and that there was little to distinguish between the out-and-out Marxists in Latin America and the bulk of Jesuit, Dominican, Franciscan and Maryknoll priests and nuns' in this respect.

However earlier in 1981, the Polish Pope John Paul II had conducted an audience with Anatoly Adamshin, the Soviet negotiator - the second such meeting - in the course of which the Pope had given the Soviets a guarantee that no word or action, whether by the Pope or by the Polish hierarchy or Solidarity's leaders, would violate the Moscow-Vatican Pact of 1962. This was a reference to the outcome of tense negotiations between Eugene, Cardinal Tisserant, who had been despatched by Pope John XXIII to meet Metropolitan Nikodim, a senior KGB officer reporting directly to the Kremlin and masquerading as the head of the Russian Orthodox Church, and who actually represented the Soviet Politburo headed by Nikita Khrushchev. Nikodim eventually obtained a guarantee from the Vatican that the then forthcoming Vatican Council would be issuing no condemnation of Soviet Communism or Marxism, and that the Holy See would make it a rule in future to abstain from all such official condemnation. So it was politely pointed out to Pope John Paul II at the meeting about the future of the Jesuits, who had gone doctrinally off the rails, that it would be inconsistent to take measures against the Jesuits for their Marxist orientation, while continuing to honour the successive undertakings given to the Soviets, to the effect that the Vatican would, contrary to earlier routine practice, utter no condemnations whatsoever against murderous, atheistic Communism and Marxism-Leninism.

But such arguments, and others, did not prevail. The case of the Jesuit Colegio Anchieta in Porto Alegre, Brazil, was brought up. There, Marxist textbooks were used in classrooms, Marxist principles were inculcated into the students, and the sacraments of Confession and Communion were derided as anachronistic. A report on this subject had been filed away deliberately, and forgotten. Another Jesuit, Father Caprile, had written in the official Jesuit magazine, 'Civilta Cattolica', published in Rome, that the standing requirement that Catholics could not belong to a Masonic Lodge was a dead letter (which was not yet the case, although it is now), so that Lodge membership was open to any Catholic (notwithstanding that Freemasonry and (True) Christianity are incompatible opposites). It was put before the meeting that such rebellious behaviour by Jesuits was quite intolerable. Many other examples of scandals concerning doctrine, always with Jesuits at their centre, were mentioned. 'There were pages of documentation in the red damask folders before their Eminences about the Jesuits' teaching and preaching and acting consistently in ways that not merely departed from, but contradicted, the doctrinal teaching of the Church, as well as the explicit views of His Holiness on the most vital issues'. There was no mention here of what Jesus taught.

Figure 59: The austere wartime Pontiff, Pius XII, proceeds in pomp and majesty to his papal conveyance, to the salute of his chauffeur, while attendant Fascist troops present arms. The contrast between this arrogant behaviour and the gloriously meek simplicity of Jesus Christ is so extreme as to defy description.

It seems extraordinary, given what has long been in the public domain concerning the Satanic initiation practices, for example, of the Society of Jesus, that a meeting discussing such subjects could have been held at all. One possible explanation must be that the Jesuits' standing instruction that all critical reports on its activities must always be denied, had blinded successive Popes to the reality that the Papacy harboured this reprobate intelligence organisation at its bosom. Another, more appropriate, conclusion would be that since the Vatican is itself a key hidden component of the Illuminati, the anti-Christian practices of the Jesuits, though embarrassing, however watered down to conform with modern preferences, were nothing out of the ordinary. The standing intelligence rule - 'Admit nothing; deny everything; make counterallegations' - had enabled the Society to elide over open knowledge of its nefarious practices. Besides, the Vatican considered its intelligence services to be indispensable, given their global reach and the Jesuits' unrivalled ability to penetrate at the very highest levels, not least thanks to the Society's confessional services.

Even so, the meeting did not go well from the perspective of Father General Arrupe, the Black Pope. As Malachi concluded[32]: 'Very soon, Father General Pedro Arrupe would have a blow-by-blow account of the meeting. He would know all that had been said.... It would only be a matter of time before the Holy Father would move in on the Society of Jesus, to reform it from top to bottom, or to terminate its existence, possibly forever. In either case, this time Arrupe, who clung doggedly to his persuasion that he and his Jesuits knew better than the Vicar he served what was good for God's Church, would have to go'.

ATTEMPTED AND ACTUAL PAPAL MURDERS IN THE VATICAN

As previously mentioned (twice), the Vatican Rezident of the Masonically-impregnated Central Intelligence Agency is in the habit of briefing the Pope every Friday. The CIA operative concerned would not have been doing his job properly if he had not procured detailed information about the discussion at that meeting and its uncertain and worrying outcome. On 13th May 1981, within three weeks of the private papal conference, John Paul II was struck by two bullets, not from a Kalashnikov rifle, but from the American-manufactured Browning semiautomatic pistol of the paid hitman Mehmet Ali Agca.

Malachi reported:

'By mistake [sic], as it was later explained, the Pontiff was rushed to the Roman hospital of Gemelli rather than to the special hospital unit organized solely for papal use. He was given blood from the public blood bank; the private supply kept in readiness was never used. In rapid succession, Pope John Paul underwent two major operations and suffered the consequences of the transfusion of impure blood; he contracted a severe case of hepatitis.... It would, as it turned out, take the Holy Father the best part of six months to get back to anything like a full schedule[33].

In 1978, Pope John Paul I, born Albino Luciani on 17th October 1912, had been 'unexpectedly' elected Pope after an abnormally brief Conclave. Although his feet were so swollen that he could not wear the shoes bought for him for the Conclave and his state of health was less than satisfactory, he had made no enemies, controversial or radical statements, and was thought of as just a smiling, gentle pastor. When, to his own horror and disbelief, Luciani was elected, he made several quick decisions - being the first modern Pope to speak in singular form, rather than using the royal 'we', and the first to refuse the sedia gestatoria, until the Vatican machine convinced him that he needed to be carried about so that the faithful could see him - the real reason being that officials felt that his awkward, flat-footed walk was 'unregal' and ungainly, and that they were very embarrassed by it. He also suggested strongly to his aides that he was unfit to be Pope, and 'controversially' refused to undergo the traditional Papal Coronation and to wear the Papal Tiara[34]. He had intended to prepare an encyclical to confirm the lines of the Second Vatican Council, and to enforce the Catholic Church's discipline in the lives of priests and the faithful.

Formally, Pope John Paul I defended Pope Paul VI's contraception encyclical on sexual mores, Humanae Vitae, which restated the Church's opposition to artificial birth control, and which (although it may appear cynical to say so) suited the Church since it facilitated the maximisation of the numbers of the faithful, thus buttressing the global power of the Catholic Church. But this Pope raised concerns inside the Vatican after meeting United Nations representatives who had visited the Vatican in order to discuss the issue of overpopulation in the Third World. This Author believes that it is in part because the Catholic Church has refused to make any concessions on this issue (as Pope John Paul I may in fact have secretly intended) that many voices are heard today calling for population reduction, and that certain Illuminist cadres of international intelligence are content with, and openly discuss, prospects for population culls.

Some observers were disturbed when they noted the pleasure taken by George Bush II in October 2005 at a meeting of global pharmaceutical companies, at which the prospects for a global bird 'flu pandemic were openly discussed. One US operative, speaking to a contact of the Author's who is concerned that the black (Nazi) mentality of some of these people is bent on facilitating (and IS facilitating) population reduction by diverse means, including the use of weather-modification and earthquake-triggering technology, replied, when told that consideration of such policies was an abomination: 'It depends to which part of the population you belong'.

One biographer of Pope John Paul I, John Cornwell, author of 'A Thief in the Night', has said that Vatican officials 'treated him with condescension'. A senior cleric, discussing Luciani, was reported to have said: 'They have elected Peter Sellers'. His sermons mentioned Pinnochio, in contrast to the learned discourses of Pius XII or Paul VI. Luciani's own doubts about his suitability for the Papacy, was manifest in his repeated question to people he met: 'Why did they pick me?' He predicted that his reign would be short and that 'the foreigner' - meaning the Pole, Karol, Cardinal Wojtila, who was sitting opposite him when he made this prediction - would succeed him.

The Pope's Private Secretary, John Magee, revealed that His New Holiness allowed a large loose-leaf Top Secret document to fall from his roof garden and to blow over the Vatican's rooftops, as a result of which the Vatican's fire service was called to retrieve the hundreds of pages that were blowing about. In a particularly uncalled-for revelation, Magee spoke of finding the poor Pope crying, whereupon he advised him to go to bed - later finding him in a foetal position saying the Rosary. If only he had been praying to Jesus Christ instead of to the Virgin Mary (who can do nothing, of course), the poor man might have received the spiritual and bodily support he so desperately needed.

Many visitors spoke of his isolation and loneliness after his unexpected election.

Thirty-three days after his election, Pope John Paul I was reported dead of a heart attack (myocardial infarction). As one account of this assassination tactfully puts it, 'a certain degree of uncertainty accompanies this diagnosis, because no autopsy was evidently performed'. In fact what had occurred was that a nun who served him had brought the Pope a glass of champagne laced with poison (probably digitalis). The source of this information is a close relative of the Official Representative of the Belgian Government posted at the Vatican[35] at the time. Poisoning is of course the method of assassination most favoured by the Illuminati, as poor Mozart found out in his last hours. During the darkest days of the Borgia Popes in the Renaissance years, papal officials or courtiers hired apothecaries working in the cellars of the Apostolic Palace to prepare cantarella, a poison based on arsenic and putrefied viscera, destined for their rivals[36].

As is invariably the case after Satan has provoked murder, the aftermath of this papal liquidation was one of total confusion. The first version was that a papal secretary had discovered that the Pope had died, whereas according to a later version, a nun, who had found the Pope somewhere in the Papal Household, had brought him some coffee, only to find him dead. The Vatican claimed that he had been reading Thomas a Kempis' 'Imitation of Christ', even though Luciani's copy of that devotional work had been left at his home in Venice. The Vatican lied about the time of the Pope's death, and conflicting accounts of his health appeared - including one suggestion that his ill-health had reflected his heavy smoking even though the man never smoked.

Like the murdered Princess Diana, Pope John Paul I was embalmed one day after his death. The Vatican claimed that a papal post-mortem was prohibited under Vatican law, even though a post-mortem was conducted on the remains of Pope Pius VIII in 1830. It has been claimed that close friends of the late Pope John Paul I were ordered away from the corpse while some form of inspection, even a post-mortem, took place. The fact that no results were subsequently released suggests that the Pope's death was not due to natural causes 'but either due to murder or to an overdose that the Vatican might not wish to make public'[37].

CONFUSION OVER MURDER EXACERBATED BY CONFLICTING ACCOUNTS

As this Author has revealed above how the murder was committed, it may seem superfluous reviewing here the findings of two lay investigators - David Yallop and John Cornwell - who, in their respective books 'In God's Name'[38] and 'A Thief in the Night'[39], have advanced competitive explanations of that Pope's death, with Cornwell taking pleasure in debunking all of Yallop's findings. That author was correct in suggesting that Luciano was always in 'potential danger' because he was an innocent who will have become aware, to his undoubted horror, of the stinking corruption surrounding the still murky intelligence-linked and organised crime-ridden scandals associated with Istituto per le Opere Religiose (IOR, Institute of Religious Works, a.k.a. the Vatican Bank). That vortex of corruption involved Freemasonry, Masonic intelligence forces (as has been the case with all such scandals over the past several decades), the Mafia, the dubious banker Mchele Sindona ('St Peter's Banker'), Pope Paul VI, the head of the Vatican Bank, Bishop Paul Marcinkus, Licio Gelli, the P-2 Masonic Lodge, Franklin National Bank, and Roberto Calvi ('God's Banker') of Banco Ambrosiano (found hanging beneath the Masonically significant Blackfriars Bridge in London in June 1982, having been convicted by an Italian court in 1981 for illegal currency transactions). Sindona's financial empire was collapsing by 1974 and the related financial empire run by his protege Calvi, by 1978 - both groups having been scammed; and in 1980, Sindona was convicted in the United States on 65 counts of fraud. He was extradited to Italy in 1984, where two years later he was poisoned in his cell while serving a life sentence for murder. Roberto Calvi, whose nickname 'God's Banker' had been given to him by the Italian press because of his close association with the Vatican, had fled from Italy after Banco Ambrosiano had gone bankrupt under his chairmanship, with debts variously estimated at between $700 million and $1.5 billion. A substantial proportion of these funds had been siphoned off via the Vatican Bank, a.k.a. the 'Institute of Religious Works'. Calvi had belonged to Licio Gelli's secret P-2 Masonic Lodge, an Illuminati operation. The British police, heavily infiltrated with Freemasonry, treated Calvi's death as a suicide, despite evidence to the contrary. Following Calvi's exhumation in 1992, the murder was confirmed. In 1997, Rome prosecutors implicated a member of the Sicilian Mafia, one Pippo Calo, in Calvi's murder, along with Flavio Carboni, a 'businessman'. Also alleged by prosecutors to have been involved in Calvi's murder were Ernesto Diotallevi, supposedly a leader of the most dangerous Roman Mafia syndicate known as the 'Banda della Magliana', and a 'Mafia banker', Francesco Di Carlo.

P-2 (Propaganda Due) appears to have been the Italian Fascist Continuum, a nominally Masonic Lodge which ran Italy from behind the scenes for decades, while the front men traded Cabinet posts back and forth innumerable times to effect 'changes of govern-ment'. With the assistance of the US-born gangster-priest Paul Marcinkus, of Jewish extraction, P-2 ran the Vatican Bank. During the years in question, Istituto per le Opere Religiose was caught red-handed laundering counterfeit paper for the Gambino crime family. The long-term Grand Master of P-2, or cappo di tutti capos, was the veteran neofas-cist and former Mussolini 'Black Shirt' operative and liaison between the Italian Fascist Government and Hitler's Third Reich, leading Gestapo informant and confidante of Hermann Goering Lucio Gelli, who attended the inaugurations of President Gerald Ford (a.ka. Leslie Lynch King Jr., allegedly a top US pornography boss) and of President James Earl Carter, Jr., while also calling himself a friend of George Bush Sr.. P-2's membership 'consisted' of over 1,000 prominent political, financial and Italian Government figures, and the organisation 'had' close links with the Italian intelligence community (including its 'Black' secret intelligence organisation), senior military staff, and key Italian media figures. Four Cabinet ministers and 48 MPs were secret P-2 members, so that P-2 resembled a Fascist 'state within the state', while Gelli was referred to as the 'Puppet Master'.

Yallop's book exposed many of the inaccurate statements issued by the Vatican in the days following Pope John Paul I's death, prompting demands from some clerics for an inquiry into the death (which would have been a waste of time, given the Vatican's tradition of holding its multiple dark secrets indefinitely). 'In God's Name' was then partially 'discredited' by John Cornwell, who proposed a 'benign' series of explanations to account for the many discrepancies in the official versions of the death. After decades of controversy, there were calls in the autumn of 2005 for Pope John Paul I to be canonised, and for a fresh investigation into his death to be initiated.

The contrarian (and contrary) findings of John Cornwell are extremely sordid, but entirely consistent in principle with the long, dark history of papal murders and deaths. The main problem with the relative whitewashing job that he performed was that the information provided by this Author, and published here for the first time, disproves his 'benign' hypothesis. On top of this, Cornwell seems to have been careless and may have bent facts to suit his hypotheses. Cornwell did report, however, that John Magee, who became the Irish Catholic Bishop of Cloyne, spoke on the night of the Pope's death to the nuns in the Papal Household about the possibility of the Pope dying that night. This of course is as consistent with Magee's possible knowledge of a murder plot, as with any benign medical explanation. Mr Cornwell also stretched credulity - and hazarded the integrity of his entire analysis - by claiming that guilt drove the doctors to want to make his death look sudden, so that no blame would fall on them.

According to Cornwell, John Paul I died at around 9.30 pm or perhaps 10.00 pm at his desk and was found on the floor in a foetal position by two priest secretaries. These then (according to Cornwell) moved the body into the bed and placed it in what is an unusual position for a person who has died suddenly, sitting up, eyeglasses in place, and papers in hand, with no indication whatsoever that he had experienced a fatal attack. Cornwell then stretched credulity to breaking point by suggesting that the two secretaries had done this to try to cover up the fact that the Pope had suffered two episodes of acute chest pain consistent with diagnosis of an imminent pulmonary embolism, as well as a severe coughing fit, and that in both instances, the Pope had brushed the doctors off. Cornwell's analysis then goes completely mad, stating that one of the papal secretaries had found the Pope's back and feet still warm when he lifted him. This was inconsistent with the stated fact that the body was found at around 5.30 am (according to Cornwell), by which time rigor mortis would have set in.

As a consequence, the Pope's knee or his back, or both, had to be broken, as the body was forced into a position suitable for a lying-in-state in an open coffin (a disgusting death-oriented practice still adhered to by the Vatican). Interestingly, Pope John Paul I's tomb under St Peter's Basilica is not one that enables voyeurs to look through glass panels at the body (as is the case with many other dead Popes) - another manifestation of the Vatican's death cult. This death cult is further displayed for the whole world to see by the use of the crucifix - or cross on which the dying or dead body of Jesus Christ is affixed. This forbidden graven image depicts Christ in agony, whereas the truth of the gospel necessitates affirmation of the reality that Jesus died for our sins once and for all - not every day, as the graven image of his agonised body portrayed by Catholic crucifixes implies[40].

MURDERS AMONG THE VATICAN'S SWISS GUARD

On 4th May 1988, the Commander of the Swiss Papal Guard, only just appointed by Pope John Paul II, Colonel Alois Estermann, and his Venezuelan wife Gladys Meza Romero, as well as a Lance Corporal, Cedric Tornay, were discovered shot dead in the Estermanns' apartment in the Vatican complex. Five months earlier, Enrico Sini Luzi, a 'Gentleman of His Holiness' - an Order whose members, wearing white gloves and black tails, greet dignitaries visiting the Pope - was battered to death with an antique chandelier in his home, clad only in his underwear, apparently during a homosexual tryst with a Romanian prostitute[41]. That murder, like that in November 1849 of Count Pellegrino Rossi, a lay Prime Minister serving the Papal States, took place outside the Vatican. The murder of the Estermanns, which took place inside the Vatican, appears to have been connected with resentment on the part of Tornay at his lack of promotion, but may have had homosexual overtones; a book by the British-French journalist, John Follain[42], while containing exhaustive research, did not comprehensively unravel the mystery - hardly surprising, in view of the almost (but not quite) impenetrable omerta routine with which the Vatican buries its darkest secrets.

The Vatican's 'line' subsequently was that the Lance Corporal had shot the couple and had then committed suicide in 'a fit of madness' brought on by frustration with the unit's discipline, a conclusion that was reaffirmed after a nine-month official inquiry. However Follain's book shows that the official Vatican report was a travesty, a tissue of suppositions, contradictions and omissions. The author concluded that the Vatican, the oldest and most secretive autocracy in the world, staged an elaborate plot to obstruct justice, and to hide scandals to which it dared not confess. Estermann turned out to have links to the overpowerful Opus Dei, which has a passion for the ungodly practice of self-flagellation [see below], and Cedric Tornay may have feared that Estermann had been instructed to impose Opus Dei rules on the entire Swiss Guard. This would have been appropriate, indicating Opus Dei's intent to achieve total hegemony in the 'Holy See' - given the now consummated ascendancy of Opus Dei in the Vatican, with the consecration of the German Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger as Pope Benedict XVI in 2005.

John Follain's general conclusions were damning. 'Even today, the conspiracy of silence and the refusal to admit any responsibility prevails', he wrote in the epilogue to his book 'City of Secrets: The Startling Truth Behind the Vatican Murders' [2003][42]. 'Although the three victims have long been buried, and the Vatican's enquiry - a shoddy affair that lied by omission - remains closed, the files of that enquiry are still locked away'[43]. When the Vatican decided to go onto the offensive, it chose to revile the Swiss Lance Corporal 'from every pulpit with a virulence worthy of the Holy Inquisition, and dismissed [him] as a drugged paranoiac. The Vatican even violated subjudice rules to leak key evidence... when that suited its purpose'[44]. Shortly after the deaths, an East German newspaper, Berliner Kurier, reported that Estermann had been a STASI operative with the codename 'Werder' who, equipped with a Vatican passport, could pass through border controls unchecked. The East German Communist newspaper revealed that during his first four years with the Swiss Guard, Estermann had sent at least seven files to his STASI (i.e., DVD) controllers, depositing them with the Rome-Innsbruck night train.

It is no purpose of this Chapter to unravel these particular Vatican murders, not least since, unlike the case of Pope John Paul I, this Author does not possess special intelligence concerning that scandal. Interestingly, though, John Follain did have a few words of interest to say about Pope John Paul I's sudden death:

'The official version said that the Pope's body was discovered by his secretary, the Irish priest John Magee.... In fact, as the Vatican confessed later, it was a nun, Sister Vincenza, who had discovered the body when, as every morning, she had entered the bedroom to bring the Pope coffee. The Secretary of State at that time, Cardinal Jean Villot, had lied because it was feared that Catholics would be shocked to learn that a woman was the first person to see their Pope in the morning. The Vatican had also lied in reporting that the Pope had the 'Imitation of Christ', a devotional work, in his hands when he died - a crude attempt to create an aura of sanctity around his passing'[45].

'Oh, what a tangled web we weave, when 'ere we practice to deceive'. The murder of that Pope by a nun who brought him poisoned champagne has been successfully disguised (until the publication of this book) by the familiar technique of floating alternative interpretations which it was intended should remain hanging in mid-air and at loggerheads for eternity. But we can at least note, in passing, how the denial of normal human heterosexual relations to Catholic priests, which is a pagan control mechanism inherited from the heathen traditions of Rome and Greece, 'forces' the perpetuation of lies and deception.

The new Pope Benedict XVI is assisted by a fellow German, Georg Ganswein, from Riedern am Wald, Bavaria. Born on 30th July 1956, Ganswein was ordained in 1984, and obtained his doctorate of canon law from Munich University. He arrived at the Vatican in 1995 and stepped almost at once onto the fast track there. In 1996, he was asked by the then cardinal Ratzinger to join his staff, and he became a Professor of Canon Law at the Pontifical University of the Holy Cross, an institution affiliated to Opus Dei. A Vatican source has said of this Opus Dei operative: 'He understands complicated issues within about 10 seconds and can give a clear and immediate answer'. Daniel Deckers, author of a biography of the leading German 'liberal' Cardinal, Karl Lehmann, says: 'I think he's very dangerous. He's part of a small but very powerful group within the Catholic Church. He will use his power to push Ratzinger in a certain direction'.

Deckers is reported to have elaborated: 'He is very eloquent and can be very charming. But he came right up to us and said: "Oh, you don't like us". He referred to himself and Ratzinger as 'us', as if the two of them were an institution'.

Deckers' reference to the Pope being liable to be pushed 'in a certain direction' has special resonance with this Author because Ratzinger, who also comes from Bavaria where he was born in 1927, was brought up in a deeply Catholic environment within which, according to a special source, the Nazi ethos was considered to be an abomination. This may be hard for some to reconcile with what is known about the central importance of Bavaria as the seat of the 'modern' Illuminati - until we recall that the primary characteristic of all branches and members of Illuminati Orders is double-mindedness, which is of course the twin of confusion.

THE DOUBLE-MINDEDNESS CHARACTERISTIC OF ALL ILLUMINATI

For public consumption, when Benedict XVI 'beatified' a German priest in the autumn of 2005, he pronounced, with considerable emotion, that the German priest had been 'an intrepid combater against the National Socialist neo-pagan ideology'. Specifically the new Pope declared: 'This morning in St Peter's there has taken place the beatification of Klement August von Galen, Bishop of Munster, an intrepid opponent of the Nazi regime. In the name of God, he denounced the neo-pagan ideology of National Socialism'. This was reported to the Author on 11th October 2005, a week or so following the beatification, by a Catholic priest who telephoned from Rome with this information. The possibility therefore existed as this book was being finalised that the new Pope's Bavarian origins could not be assumed to imply that he shared the 'world-view' of the heirs of the Third Reich who have all but achieved hegemony within certain intelligence and power structures in both the United States, and secretly behind official facades in the United Kingdom, and elsewhere, but that he may be susceptible to such an orientation through pressure from Opus Dei. The worst case scenario, though, would be that the Pope's pronouncement concerning the beatified German priest did not reflect Benedict XVI's true perspectives, and that he is in fact, in common with Illuminati tradition, double-minded. Unfortunately, given the millennia of lies and deception surrounding the Papacy, one can never be certain what any Pope really believes, let alone whom he really worships. This consideration is all the more relevant given that Cardinal Ratzinger served as head of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, a.k.a. the 'Holy Office of the Inquisition'. Furthermore, Ratzinger joined the Hitler Youth, as young Germans at that time were 'required' to do, although the Vatican's 'line' is that he was not an enthusiastic member[46]. That is a pointless statement, since all Hitler Youth were compelled to be, 'enthusiastic'. Sensitivity over the new Pope's true 'political' orientation is associated, of course, with the shadow that hangs over the reputation of the austere wartime Pope, Pius XII, and the Vatican's failure to condemn the Nazis' attempted genocide of Jews, gypsies and others (the Holocaust) [see Figure 59 on page 361]. Likewise, in 1940, after Nazi stormtroopers had entered France, the future Pope John XXIII (second manifestation), Mgr. Angelo Roncalli, did not warn about the dark shadow of the German jackboot enveloping Europe, and neither did he fret over the fate of the French Jews who had just fallen into Hitler's trap. What that Pope, known interestingly in Rome as 'Il Papa buono', implying that other Popes had been less than buono, wrote in one document was that German society was made up of 'alert, strong' men who fully deserved their victory over 'worn-out French democracy'. According to Pier Giorgio Zunino, a lecturer in contemporary history at the University of Turin, the Angelo Roncalli of the 1940s was 'fully at home with the majority Catholic culture: aligned with Fascism, opposed to Soviet Communism, but also suspicious of Western democracy'[47].

THE DOUBLE SATANIC BLACK MASS IN THE VATICAN AND SOUTH CAROLINA

In 1996, the late Fr. Malachi Martin informed this Author about what he was about to publish in his new book 'Windswept House'. We were enjoying breakfast at his favourite small Irish Hotel near his adopted home on East 63rd Street, New York. Over fried eggs and sausages, Malachi informed the Author that the Prologue to the new book would describe, in precise detail, 'the Enthronement of the Fallen Archangel Lucifer' that was effected in the course of a dual Black Mass 'celebrated within the Roman Catholic Citadel on 29th June 1963. The abomination took place in the Chapel of St Paul. The Devil's routine is to turn everything inside out and upside down, so that lies replace the truth, good is called evil and evil good[48]. "The sacred must be profaned. The profane must be adored. Guilt must be accepted as innocence. Pain must give joy, Grace, repentance, pardon must all be drowned in an orgy of opposites. And it must all be done without any mistakes. The sequence of events, the meaning of the words, the significance of the [Black Satanic ritual] actions must all comprise the perfect enactment of sacrilege, the ultimate ritual of treachery'[49].

Props familiar to sorcerers were assembled into 'the experienced hands of the Prince [of this World's] trusted Guardian in Rome. 'A past master of the elaborate ceremonialism of the Roman Catholic Church, so much more was this granite-faced and add-tongued Prelate a Magister of the Prince's Ceremonial of Darkness and Fire'[50]. He was unnamed.

Figure 60: Pope Benedict XVI, elected in 2005, with his Opus Dei aide, Georg Ganswein. Both are from Bavaria, the home of the German Illuminati. Der Spiegel reported on 17th October 2005 that the Pope 'channels' his predecessor - i.e., he communes with a lying familiar spirit.

Malachi Martin further explained that 'the immediate aim of every [Black Satanic] Ceremonial, he knew, is to venerate "the abomination of desolation"'[51]. But now the purpose of the imminent Black Mass was to secure the ascent of the Prince of Darkness in the Citadel of the Roman Catholic Church, so as 'to supplant the Citadel's Keeper, to take full possession of the Keys entrusted to the Keeper' [the [Pope] by Jesus. If Malachi had lived beyond July 1999, and had maintained contact with the Author, no doubt we could have discussed the errors contained within this concept. Unfortunately, the Prince of Darkness ascended 'on high' when the Papacy usurped the place of Jesus Himself, calling itself the 'Keeper' of the Faith: it is an article of belief among Catholic priests that, 'had it not been for the Catholic Church, Christianity would not have survived'[52] . In other words, the Catholic priesthood and hierarchy 'take the credit' for preserving the faith - whereas of course the credit and the glory is entirely the Lord's and that of His Holy Spirit, which is responsible for quickening the faith of those who take the simple step of faith that is necessary for understanding and salvation.

SORCERY AND DEVILRY SHARED WITH SOUTH CAROLINA CHAPEL

The master of black ceremonies, whom Malachi referred to as 'the Guardian', saw to it that all the grosser manifestations of devilry would be exported to an 'Authorized Targeting Chapel' in South Carolina. The pentagram, the black candles and the appropriate Satanic draperies were retained for the Black Mass to be held in Rome. But certain other Rubrics - like the Bowl of Bones, the Ritual Din, the sacrificial animals and the human victim - could not be deployed in Rome: that was considered too risky. Hence the need for a Parallel Enthronement, or Concelebration, in an 'Authorized Targeting Chapel'. Over to Malachi, who was now explaining how sorcery is used to eliminate distance: 'Provided all the participants in both locations 'targeted' every element [i.e. every Rubric - Ed.] of 'The Event' on the Roman Chapel, then 'The Event' in its fullness would be accomplished specifically in the target area'[53]. By 'Evenf was meant the evocation and summoning up of the Devil himself. 'It would all be a matter of unanimity of hearts, identity of intention and perfect sychronization of words and actions between the Targeting Chapel and the Target Chapel..... For a man as experienced as the Guardian, the selection of the Targeting Chapel was easy. As simple as a phone call to the United States. Over the years, the Prince's adherents in Rome had developed a faultless unanimity of heart and a seamless identity of intention with the Guardian's friend, Leo, Bishop of the Chapel in South Carolina'[54].

As has been be discussed in Chapter 5, Charleston, South Carolina, is the parallel seat with Rome of the Scottish and Palladian Sorcery Rites, established by the sorcerer and necromancer Albert Pike, who assumed total control of Scottish and Palladian Rite ritual and dogma, while Pike's sorcerer-colleague Giuseppe Mazzini, founder of the modern Mafia, assumed responsibility for high-level (global) Political Action. Mafia stands for 'Mazzini Authorises Thefts, Arson, Poisoning' in Illuminist Italian code: ' Mazzini Autorizza Furti, Incendi, Avvelenamenti'(M. A. F. I. A.)[55].

A careful reading of Malachi's Prologue reveals that 'Leo, Bishop of the Chapel in South Carolina' had established this venue 40 years previously: 'In the forty years or so since His Excellency had established his Chapel, the number and the social importance of the Participants he had attracted, the punctilious blasphemy of his Ceremonies and his frequent and ready cooperation with those who shared his point of view [Author: i.e., those who sought or who already manifested demonic possession] and ultimate goals, had so established the superiority of his operation that by now it was widely admired among initiates as the Mother [Satanic] Chapel in the United States.... The news that this Chapel [of Satan] had been Authorised as the Targeting Chapel for such a great event as the Enthronement of the Prince [of Darkness] within the heart of the Roman Citadel itself was supremely gratifying'[56]. When not officiating at Satanic ceremonies, the Bishop of the South Carolina Chapel was an American Catholic Bishop: an 'angel of light'.

To 'The Event' in the Chapel of St Paul, the Guardian invited, or ordered the attendance of, 'high-ranking churchmen, and laymen of substance. Genuine Servitors of the Prince within the Citadel. Some had been selected, co-opted, trained and promoted in the Roman Phalanx over the decades, while others represented the new generation dedicated to carrying the Prince's agenda [i.e., the agenda of the Prince of Darkness, Lucifer] forward for the next several decades. All understood the need to remain undetected; for the Rule says: "The Guarantee of Our Tomorrow Is Today's Persuasion That We Do Not Exist"[57]. In other words, keeping these reprobate Luciferians' wholesale acceptance of Satan secret was of paramount importance, the corollary being that EXPOSURE of their Satanic obsession and possession would have adverse consequences for 'the agenda'. For the Illuminati know that humanity fundamentally rejects their evil prescription.

One prominent US intelligence operative, a man referred to in the late CIA cover author Claire Sterling's 'Thieves' World' as 'Mr X', recently went as white as a sheet when evidence was alluded to in his presence that he, too, had helped himself to funds that did not belong to him[58]: fear of exposure drained all the blood from his head, in the presence of one of the Author's contacts. When the Devil is really serious, he makes himself invisible[59]: but his adherents know that the Devil, Lucifer himself, cannot be trusted, which is why they are paranoid about secrecy and the constant danger of exposure.

Their subsconscious worries routinely entail induced premature ageing as they struggle with the conflicting forces and loyalties competing for their 'cooperation'.

The parallel Black Masses were to be coordinated with the assistance of a telephone link, and the occult ceremonies were to be said in flawless Latin. 'During 'The Event', the pulse of every Participant's heart must be perfectly attuned to make hate, not love', with the Gratification of Pain and the Consummation being 'perfectly achieved' and coordinated. And Malachi described the objective - the summoning up of the Devil himself, as prescribed in the 'Ancient Mysteries' - in the following obliquely colourful language: 'Finally, if everyone did the needful exactly according to the Rule, the Prince would at long last Consummate his Most Ancient Revenge upon the Weakling [Jesus], the Merciless Enemy who had paraded through the ages as the Most High Merciful One for whom the darkness of darkness was light enough to see all'[60].

Lucifer, who turns everything upside down, was to take the place of Jesus, according to the mad and misinformed intention of the false priests who were really sorcerers - the only problem being that, as is always the case, the followers of Lucifer are, quite pathetically, themselves invariably deceived by Lucifer and his minions: for Jesus does not reign at the Vatican at all. How could that possibly ever have been the case? The human body is the temple, or vessel, of the Holy Spirit[61], not the Vatican - where Lucifer has, as the Papacy's sordid and reprobate history [see preceding accounts] proclaims, actually been enthroned all along, ever since its probable foundation by Simon Magus - there being no historical evidence whatsoever that Simon Peter, who was married and served effectively as the Apostle to the Circumcision in Jerusalem, was ever in Rome. No scriptural authority for this obvious fabrication, critical to papal 'legitimacy', exists.

SIMON MAGUS VS. THE GREAT AND BELOVED APOSTLE SIMON PETER

On the contrary, the Simon Peter of Roman Catholicism is clearly Simon Magus, as is evident not least from the following assertion by the leading Catholic historian, Werner Keller, who had this to say about the death and burial of 'Simon Peter', a.k.a. Simon Magus: 'On the night of his death on the cross, Peter's followers buried his body. As in the case of Jesus on the hill of Calvary, it was wrapped in linen and secretly taken to a pagan burial ground on the Via Cornelia, behind the stone structure of the arena. This pagan cemetery lay on a knoll called vaticanus (Vatican Hill): the Latin word vatis means a 'prophet' or 'soothsayer'[62]. In days gone by, there had been an Etruscan oracle on the spot', although a temple of Mithras has since been discovered.

It will be recalled that Peter, an older, married man, who had once employed the two sons of Zebedee as his fishing hands, was outrun by the much younger disciple, John, to the tomb of Jesus. John outran him because he was much younger than Peter, who owned the fishing business. As a much older man, Peter was, after the Resurrection of Jesus, well established in Jerusalem, where he had a home - as is amply confirmed in the Acts of the Apostles - and served the new Christians there. No scriptural or any other authority exists for the Catholic myth that Peter was ever in Rome: on the contrary, it is made plain in Acts that a division of labour was agreed between Paul and Peter, with Paul being sent, and agreeing to be sent by the Lord, to preach the gospel to the Gentiles, while Peter remained based in Jerusalem, where he was subjected to the temptation of conforming to the Pharisaical 'law' and had to be severely admonished for this backsliding by Paul - which admonishment the brave and endearing Peter accepted in humility, before Paul left on his many travels, ending (according to the written record) in Rome. In The Epistle of Paul to the Galatians, Chapter 2, verse 7, Paul states that 'the gospel of the uncircumcision (the Gentiles) was committed unto me, as the gospel of the circumcision (the Jews who had and were to become Christians) was unto Peter'[63].

The other component of this myth - that the Lord told Simon Peter that 'upon this rock I will build my church', and that the 'rock' or (Greek) petra (a rock as well as a 'peter', a word for priest), was Peter himself, is also false. It is perfectly clear from the full context in Matthew, Chapter 16, that Jesus' use of the word 'rock' here was a reference to Peter's extraordinary faith, and that Jesus meant that it would be upon faith as rock-like as that of Peter that his spiritual church would be built. The Catholic Church takes the text out of context in order to sustain its mythology that Peter is the first Pope and the holder of the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven, which Jesus said elsewhere is 'within you'[64]. The full Scripture [Matthew, Chapter 16, verses 13-19] is crystal clear:

'When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou are John the Baptist; some Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And (the simple fisherman) Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ ('the Anointed One'), the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in Heaven. And I also say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock (of your wonderful faith) I will build my church; and the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against if (meaning that the Gates of Hell cannot extinguish our faith in Him, once we cease to know of Him, and know Him instead). 'And I will give unto thee the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in Heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven'[65]. In other words, the key to the Kingdom of Heaven, which is 'within you', is faith: all we need to do to find Jesus and to be encouraged through the Grace of the Holy Spirit to seek salvation, is to give up fighting once and for all, and to accept that the Lord is indeed King of Kings and Lord of Lords, and to believe: one simple, genuine act of faith is all that is necessary.

THE SECOND CONCECRATION OF LUCIFER IN THE CITADEL OF ROME

The Concecration of Lucifer, then, was to be a second coronation for the Evil One in the Rome Citadel, so to speak. On this occasion, as at the beginning, the intention of the Evil One would not be to destroy the (Catholic) Church, but to 'convert' it into an instrument of Satan, or rather, into a more decisive instrument of the Evil One than previously. Just as evil people know and recognise others in a similar state of perdition, so did Lucifer perceive, correctly that the reprobate Vatican could be 'made much better use of, following Lucifer's 'second' Enthronement, which would 'create a perfect covering opaque and velvet smooth, to conceal the Prince (of Darkness) within the official Church membership of the Roman Citadel. Enthroned in Darkness, the Prince would be able to foment that same Darkness as never before. Friend and foe would be affected alike. Darkness of will would become so profound that it would obscure even the official objective of the Citadel's (i.e. The Vatican's) existence.... In time, and at last, the Goat would expel the Lamb and enter into Possession of the Citadel'[66].

The gathering of notables who attended the Black Mass in the Chapel of St Paul represented, according to Malachi, 'the current harvest of the Prince Tradition (that is, of high Satanists and Luciferians) that had been planted, nurtured within the ancient Citadel over a period of some eighty years'[67]. Subtracting 80 years from 1963, we have the year 1883. 'The Order of the Palladium', founded originally in 1730, was introduced in Charleston but remained inactive until 1886, when Albert Pike, who died and descended to hell in 1891, revived it under the name 'Reformed Palladium'; whereupon it gave new, deeply secret, demonic impulse to the 'workings' of 'High Masonry'. As Malachi now explained:

'Though restricted in numbers for a time, the group has persisted in protective obscurity as a foreign body and an alien spirit within its host and victim. It permeated offices and activities throughout the Roman Citadel, spreading its symptoms through the bloodstream of the Church Universal like a subcutaneous infection. Symptoms like cynicism and indifference, malfeasance and misfeasance in high office, inattention to correct doctrine, neglect of moral judgment, loss of acuity in sacral observance, blurring of essential memories and of the words and gestures that bespoke them'[68].

Meanwhile the American Targeting Chapel, a large assembly hall in the basement of a parochial school in South Carolina, the State of the 'Mother Lodge' of the Scottish and Palladian Rites in Charleston, had been prepared for the gruesome parallel Black Mass, with a red-veiled Pentagram flanked by two black candles arranged with a large crucifix pointing north. There was a red sanctuary lamp with its Ritual Flame, and at the east end of the altar a cage, in which sat, terrified, Flinnie, a seven-week-old puppy, mildly sedated for his brief moment of usefulness to the Prince of Darkness. Other accoutrements included the Red and Black Pillars from which hung the Snake Shield and the Bell of Infinity. On the east wall were vials containing Earth, Air, Fire and Water, surrounding a second cage containing a dove. The Bowl of Bones was located on the west side nearest the door. To the east was displayed the Crescent Moon and the usual Five-Pointed Star with the Goat-Points raised upwards.

In the Vatican Chapel of St Paul, the black-robed and black-dressed Participants 'passed by the Bowl of Bones, dipped in their hands to receive small fistfuls, and took their places in the semicircle of chairs facing the Altar. As the Bowl of Bones was depleted and the kneeler chairs filled, the Ritual Din began to shatter the silence. Ceaselessly rattling the bones, each Participant began talking - to himself, to others, to the Prince. To no-one. Not raucously at first, but in an unsettling ritual cadence.... The mumbling cadence swelled from a softly cacophonous susurro. The steadily mounting gibberish of prayer and pleading and bone rattling developed a kind of controlled heat. The sound became angry, as if verging on violence. Became a controlled concert of chaos. A mind-gripping howl of Hate and Revolt. A concentrated prelude to the celebration of the Enthronement of the Prince of This World within the Citadel of the Weakling'[69].

Malachi Martin's book is called a novel: but at the New York breakfast in the Irish hotel, Malachi told the Author that his description of the abominations that took place in parallel in the Chapel of St Paul and the 'Chapel' in South Carolina represented accurate descriptions of what had taken place on that fateful day in 1963, shortly after the conclusion of the Second Vatican Council. In the South Carolina chapel, a young girl, drugged for the occasion but fully conscious, was handed to the sorcerer-in-chief by her cold-hearted father and ritually violated before the attending Luciferians while the frightened puppy, which had wagged its tail as it was taken out of its cage, was vivisected alive.

CHURCH TO BE TRANSFORMED INTO 'THE UNIVERSAL CHURCH OF MAN

After the ritual brutalities, the assembled priests and notables evoked the Devil, chanting to the Ritual Din, a triumphant profanation of the hymn of the Apostle Paul: 'Maran Atha! Come, Lord! Come, O Prince. Come, Come! I believe in the Only Begotten Son of the Cosmic Dawn... And his name is Lucifer... I believe in the Mysterious One... And he is the Snake with venom in the Apple of Life.... I believe in the Ancient Leviathan': invocations and responses followed in cascades. The main part of the Vatican ritual was then brought to a close with the following proclamation by Bishop Leo:

'I believe that the Prince of this World will be Enthroned this night in the Ancient Citadel, and from there he will create a New Community', to which the response was chanted: And Its Name will be the Universal Church of Man'.

In the course of this grisly description - which Fr. Martin, as an accomplished exorcist, was well qualified to write - he pointed out that 'a Prussian fellow', who hailed from Berlin, had arrived just before the commencement of the Black Mass in the Chapel of St Paul. This German was of exceptional significance, then as in 2006:

'Not yet forty, he was already a man of importance in certain critical transnational affairs. Even the light from the black tapers glinted off his steel-rimmed glasses and his balding head, as if to single him out. Chosen as International Delegate and Plenopotentiary Extraordinary to the Enthronement' (of the Prince of Darkness in the Vatican), 'the Prussian carried the leather pouch containing the Letters of Authorization and Instructions to the Altar before he took his place in the semicircle'[70].

Dr Henry Alfred Kissinger, the 'mentor' of George H. W. Bush (Busche) Sr., who advised President Ford to dismiss William Colby and to replace him with Bush Sr., was bom Heinz Alfred Kissinger in Germany on 27th May 1923. He was in fact just 40 when the Double Black Mass Abomination led from the Vatican, took place in 1963.

Letters of Authorization and Instructions? Handed to the sorcerer at the blasphemous Altar of Satan in a Vatican Chapel by a Prussian, honoured with the special title of 'International Delegate and Plenopotentiary Extraordinary to the Enthronement'?

What did this mean? At the end of the Ceremony in the Chapel of St Paul, we read in Malachi's text, as follows: 'Only the Authorization, the Bill of Instructions and the Evidence remained. The Guardian looked up from the Altar and turned cheerless eyes toward the Prussian International Delegate who had brought the leather pouch containing the Letters of Authorization and Instructions. All watched as he left his place and strode to the Altar, took the pouch in hand, removed the papers it contained, and read out the Bill of Authorization in a heavy (German) accent:

"By mandate of the Assembly and the Sacrosanct Elders, I do institute, authorize and recognize this Chapel, to be known henceforth as the Inner Chapel, as taken, possessed and appropriated wholly by Him Whom we have Enthroned as Lord and Master of our human fate. Whosoever shall, by means of this Inner Chapel, be designated and chosen as the final In-the-Line (i.e. the papal line from 'Simon Peter') successor in the Petrine Office, shall by his very oath of office commit himself and all he does command to be the willing instrument and collaborator with the Builders of Man's Home on Earth and throughout man's Cosmos. He shall transform the ancient Enmity' (of Christians) 'into Friendship, Tolerance and Assimilation as these are applied to the models of birth, education, work, finance, commerce, industry, learning, culture, living and giving life, dying and dealing death. So shall the New Age of Man be modelled'.

And the assembled, deluded, worldly fools responded: 'So mote it be!'

Turning to the penultimate item on the agenda, the International Delegate from Berlin read out the oath before the Luciferians assembled in the Chapel of St Paul:

'Do you each and all, having heard the Authorization, now solemnly swear to accept it willingly, unequivocally, immediately, without reservation or cavil?'

And the fools and idiots cried in unison: 'We do'.

'Do you each and all now solemnly swear that your administration of office will be bent to fulfil the [Luciferian, worldly] aims of the Universal Church of Man?'

And they responded: 'We do so solemnly swear'. 'Are you each and all prepared to signal this unanimous will with your own blood, so strike you Lucifer, if you are unfaithful to this Oath of Commitment?' 'We are willing and prepared'.

And finally, the International Delegate from Berlin demanded:

'Are you each and all fully consenting that, by this Oath, you transfer Lordship and Possession of your souls from the Ancient Enemy [Jesus Christ], the Supreme Weakling, to the Ail-Powerful Hands of our Lord Lucifer?'

And the lost, obtuse, perverted, reprobate idiots, powerful Princes of the Catholic Church and from all the world's corridors of power, responded: 'We consent'.

What they consented to with one accord was the immediate launch of the continuing frenzied 'Ritual Din' offensive against the whole of Mankind, which has been accentuated ever since - as abomination follows further abomination in pursuit of the Luciferians' insistence that we must adopt the Nazi pagan New Age of Antichrist and the 'Do as Thou Wilt' 'Ancient Mysteries', opening the floodgates of the Permissive Society, and unleashing upon civilisation the filthy prospectus of the German Illuminati and their foul vices, in toto.

The final demonic ritual, The Evidence, was then performed. As Malachi described this final scene, 'with the two documents positioned on the Altar, the International Delegate from Berlin held out his left hand to the Guardian. With a golden pin, the granite-faced Roman pricked the tip of the Delegate's left thumb and pressed a bloody print beside the Delegate's name on the Bill of Authorization'.

Quickly then, the Vatican participants appended their pinpricked bloody fingers as well. When every member of what Malachi called the Vatican Phalanx had satisfied the last Ritual requirement, a little silver bell was rung in the Chapel of St Paul. And in the American Chapel, the Bell of Infinity rang its assenting response, while both congregations chanted: 'Ding! Dong! Dell • Thus shall the Ancient Gates [of Hell] Prevail • Thus the Rock and the Cross must fail • Forever! • Ding! Dong! Dell!'

Malachi concluded this detailed description of The Evenf by noting that as 'the members of the Roman Phalanx emerged into the Court of St Damascus in the small hours of the feast day of SS Peter and Paul... some of the Cardinals and a few of the bishops acknowledged the salutes of the respectful security guards with an absent-minded cross of priestly blessing traced in the air, as they entered their limousines'.

The obvious question arises: was Malachi himself present at 'The Event' - the Second Enthronement of Lucifer in the Vatican? In the 1960s, Malachi may have been a 'radical priest'. This was not the case when the Author knew him. He told the Author, before his book was published, that he was about to expose this abomination, and he described what the expose would contain. About 18 months later, the Author was invited to a luncheon in New York to which Malachi had been invited, but, at the Author's suggestion, had declined to attend (because, as the Author had surmised, the invitation had been extended for a selfish purpose). On that occasion, the Author fell into conversation with a gentleman, described by Malachi to the Author afterwards as 'a man full of Grace', who recounted the following story. He said that he knew the girl, Agnes, who had been abused on the Altar at the Chapel in South Carolina. At a later stage in her life, she had decided (very riskily) to confront the bishop who had abused her during this unspeakable Satanic ritual in 1963. Accompanied by a priest, she arrived at the bishop's private residence. The reprobate Catholic cleric answered the door himself. On seeing Agnes, whom he could not possibly have seen subsequent to the abomination and whose appearance would have changed as she was now much older, the bishop let out a demonic tirade of obscenities, blasphemies and foul language which was of such demonic force that Agnes and her priest friend had to retreat without saying a word.

The purpose of the foregoing is not to condemn the Catholic Church. In case sterile religious bias is at once alleged, the Author adds here that he considers that Dr Rowan Williams, the present Archbishop of Canterbury, who is a graduate of the Author's own Oxford college, Christ Church, is himself a walking abomination, for having allowed himself to be inducted into a High Degree of the Druids, thereby spreading confusion*.

*This is the appropriate place to cite the Lord's parable of the tares [Matthew, Chapter 13, verses 24-30]: 'Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The Kingdom of Heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the household came and said unto him, Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? From whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest;: and in the time of harvest, I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn'. Churches rarely explain the meaning of this parable, and for an obvious reason: it is directed against them! The clue as to its meaning is obtained by considering the actual meaning of the word 'tares'. This English word means a weed called darnel, which has the following peculiar characteristic: when it is young, it resembles young wheat, but as it grows its appearance changes, so that by the time of the harvest it is distinguishable from the wheat. The point is that for a considerable period, the tares (darnel) cannot be distinguished from the wheat. We have reached the stage of spiritual understanding at which we can more clearly now distinguish the wheat from the darnel. The wheat are those who 'know His voice' and who, despite the evil we must confront, seek to order their lives in accordance with His Word. These are to be gathered into His barn. The darnel represents all those sorcerers, false priests, reprobate ministers, worldly and money-making charlatans who use the 'Jesus' label [see later in this chapter for more examples] as a convenient cover for their nefarious activities. In the present context, the Author cites this parable in order to make it clear to anyone who may be so concerned, that he is not condemning Catholics, since the reaper will distinguish between those Catholics who indeed 'know the Lord', despite all the distractions the church places in their way, and those who remain blind.

WHAT DID THAT 'M' ON THE LATE POPE'S COFFIN STAND FOR - SERIOUSLY?

The death of Pope John Paul II in 2005 was 'celebrated' by a globally televised funeral ritual on 8th April, which struck many as representing a celebration not of the late Pope, but of death itself. Reuters called that Event as 'one of the most momentous funerals in history' - which could have meant that more human beings were subjected to this gratuitous death-spectacle than had ever been contrived before. The 'Great and the Good' (meaning the allegedly bad and the lost) were assembled from all over the world, to attend a formal religious service at which some of their most prominent number stared with an expressionless, glassy-eyed gaze at the coffin (casket for US readers). The repulsive ritual of showing the dead Pontiff and raising the corpse for the assembled people and the whole world to see, was followed by TV shots of the unusually shaped coffin (casket) taken from above, revealing it to be of trapezoid form, and that it carried an oddly-described cross with the capital letter M - the 13th letter of the alphabet - inscribed in the lower right-hand corner [see Figure 61 on page 379]. The questions arise: why was the cross mis-shapen, and what was the meaning of the letter M? Did it refer to Mary, as of course Catholics were tacitly invited to believe, or to Malta (if the late Pope was a Knight of Malta), or did it, by any chance, actually mean Magus?

The trapezoid shape of the late Pope's coffin diverged, of course, from the normal coffin shape. The late Pope John Paul II had Nazi connections in his early days, and is believed to have been a salesman for Zyklon-B, the deadly gas used in the Nazi gas chambers. An organisation calling itself The Order of the Trapezoid - yet another one of these Illuminati organisations calling itself The Order - has been identified as one of ten 'magickal' Orders loyal to the Temple of Set, based in San Francisco, an organisation of Satanists openly presided over by Dr. Michael A. Aquino, a US military intelligence officer who is notorious in the United States as a perpetrator of Himmlerian US occultic intelligence experimentation. In a response dated 14th November 1990 to criticisms of his activities, Aquino himself described how The Order of the Trapezoid features, along with 'several specialised Orders within the Temple of Set', as a component of its structures 'somewhat analogous to the departments of a university'. The Satanist Aquino continued, revealing the wide range of Himmlerian investigations with which the Order of Set was and is engaged on behalf of US 'Black' intelligence, as follows:

'In actuality, this particular Order is concerned with a great many areas of research, of which North European (including Nazi German) occultism is only one. Others include time/space sciences, proxemics, art and architecture (particularly Expressionism, Art Nouveau/Deco/Moderne), electronics (Tesla et al), film noir, Lovecraftian literature, music and the electromagnetic spectrum, mental sciences etc'. In other words, these - revealingly - are among the areas where intelligence investigators have sought to apply or merge occult skills for secret mind- and personality-control purposes.

THE ORDER OF THE TRAPEZOID: FASCINATED WITH NAZI GERMANY

Aquino then admitted that the Order of the Trapezoid is interested in Nazi Germany, while playing down such interest. In reality, Nazi Germany was the second large-scale Black regime to have been established by the Illuminati in the 20th century, its purpose being to provide the missing dialectical foil (the false 'opposite' mechanistic 'force') to Communism, which had been established following the subversive activities of the German agent Rasputin, and the German agents Lenin and (probably) Leon Trotsky (Braunstein). A primary preoccupation among the Uluminati today is to extend what was learned from the experience of the first two large-scale Black Illuminati regimes - and which was replicated along Jesuitical-Nazi lines in Communist China, Cambodia, Cuba, Libya, Iraq, Iran, Syria and elsewhere - to the whole world.

According to Aquino, 'to the extent that The Order [of the Trapezoid] is interested in Nazi Germany, it is essentially with regard to the very extensive research into occultism conducted by the Ahnenerbe and other groups and individuals during that period'. Aquino, associated with such Himmlerian occult research in the United States, approaches these issues as though the investigations in question represent legitimate areas of research - whereas dabbling in the occult is decisively forbidden in Scripture and is anathema to all who know the Lord Jesus Christ, and also to Jews who adhere to the Torah only. In the absence of such knowledge and understanding, enquiring about, let alone intermeddling with, the occult is to play with fire.

The Order of the Trapezoid has a document in which it explains its behaviour as follows: 'The Order of the Trapezoid extracts the positive, the constructive, the exalted, and the romantic from the Germanic magical tradition - and just as carefully avoids and rejects those excesses, distortions and cruelties which have made this tradition an object of the most extraordinary fear, condemnation, and suppression in the postwar period. The Germanic tradition is also part of the legacy of the Prince of Darkness, hence is appropriate to an Order within the Temple of Set, which embraces all manifestations of the Powers of Darkness in the world'. The truth, for once, from a horse's mouth.

This extraordinary admission reveals, once again, how these deluded fools are themselves fooled by Lucifer himself, whom they purport to revere as God. The notion that an occultist dabbling in Black Magick can pick and choose which element of magick to 'accept' and what is 'unacceptable' or unwise, is disingenuous and fanciful - since the occultist is in severe danger of becoming the possessed, and can never control the dark powers that wind up controlling him or her; and in any case, the let-out in this context is contradicted by The Order's assertion that its membership within the Temple of Set means that it is part of the Germanic Satanic tradition 'which embraces all manifestations of the Powers of Darkness'. Hence, the claim that The Order selects what elements of magick to accept and what elements to reject, is a brazen lie which is contradicted in its own literature. A second paragraph elaborated on this non-sequitur.

'Nevertheless, the care required in any investigation into this [German occult] tradition cannot be overemphasized. Magical and research ability are not enough; ethical sensitivity and social discretion are just as important. The prospects for new and wondrous perspectives on the Black Art [sic] are exhilarating, but success will come only if The Order conducts its affairs with the same dedication and nobility that have made The Temple of Set a legend in its time'. Of course, the word 'nobility' as applied to the foul Temple of Set is an absurdity: for how can anything to do with the pornographic, brutal, murderous, deceitful, lying activities of sorcerers ever contain a shred of nobility?

Once again, we are confronted with the chief characteristic of these deluded people: their chaotic double-mindedness. Most of these people are capable of being perfectly charming, most of the time - and note that the Author has italicised the syllable charm here. A snake-charmer is a sorcerer who casts charms on snakes. The most adept among these people exercise their charm liberally: they seduce targets by being charming to them, so that it is always hard to resist their charming personalities. But if one comes to know such people, several complications are apt to arise. In the first place, a close acquaintance with any of them will soon, or in due course (depending on how good they are at lying and concealing their split orientation or personalities) reveal that they contradict themselves. A statement made earlier, in a different context, is reversed later, in a new context. Preferences previously expressed are subsequently overturned. Then, one day, without any warning, this charming person switches, revealing the other, nastier, personality masked by the charm. One should perhaps always be on guard against people who suddenly 'come at one' with charm. In the author's experience, this is a danger signal. Excessive charm at the outset of a relationship can be suspect.

Figure 61: The coffin of the late Pope John Paul II lying in St Peter's Square during his funeral, on 8th April 2005, which was the most lavish and universally observed death-fest in world history. AP. Reuters described the event as 'one of the most momentous funerals in history'. But what, exactly, did the mis-shapen cross and the M, engraved on the lid of the trapezoid-shaped coffin, signify? Would it have meant Mary, Malta, or Magus? Karol Wojtyla, an Illuminati Magus, is featured on a list of alleged mind-control programmers [page 517).

Double-mindedness is also reflected, as has been discussed, in the maintenance of opposite perspectives or even personalities simultaneously. In a 'worst case scenario', therefore, this would enable Pope Benedict XVI to pronounce, with fervour, his veneration for Klement August von Galen as an intrepid opponent of Nazi pagan ideology, while at the same time condoning the Nazi pagan ideology that was re-consecrated in the Chapel of St Paul on 29th June 1963.

SECRECY IS A STRAIN: SO THEY DISTRIBUTE CLUES TO THEIR ALLEGIANCE

A peculiar feature of secretive, autocratic and Illuminati-related organisations is their propensity to display clues as to their true allegiance. Almost all the oil multinationals do so by the use of corporate logos which contain esoteric symbols; and the same goes for many multinational pharmaceutical companies: such symbols inform 'the interested' among the Illuminati of the corporations' true 'spiritual' allegiance and geomasonic orientation. A US intelligence software spy bundle called 'Illuminable' is pre-installed on new computers (as of July 2006). A study of papal coats-of-arms will reveal the presence of the same five-pointed stars (Pythagorean pentalphas) that are familiar on the flags and insignia of nation states and supranational organisations such as the United States, the European Union, Iraq, Libya, Ghana and others. Whenever Saddam Hussein was televised for both domestic and international public consumption, he was positioned at a desk adjacent to a large Iraqi flag, arranged so that the single large five-pointed star was prominently displayed to occupy a good third of the television screen; and Colonel Qaddhafy does the same. The purpose of displaying the five-pointed star is always identical: to inform 'the interested' that the principal, country or entity concerned is a fully paid-up member of the globalist geomasonic Illuminist Brotherhood and network.

The trapezoid shape of the late Pope's coffin, and the peculiar M on the coffin lid, were similar examples of this eccentric need to display one's true allegiance. One general supplementary reason for this 'need' is that the occupants of high office are desperately lonely. By 12th October 2005, President George W. Bush Jr. had visited the New Orleans area no less than eight times - so great, cynics suggested, was his occult interest in that place of death, but more probably because his handlers had ordered him to make these depressing visits, in a vain attempt to buttress this lonely man's battered reputation. Left to his own devices, he would have preferred to stay in the White House.

All occupants of high office, having been alternatively enticed by lust for power - Ratzinger certainly made no secret of his ambition to become Pope - find that the downside is desperate loneliness and effective imprisonment in office, with almost all their moves dictated by intelligence handlers. The US President has several handlers and the British Prime Minister likewise. And this, by the way, is also true nowadays of British and US newspaper editors and their key staff: The focus of news providers, on any given day or hour, results from intelligence agency directives, according to reputable authorities including myriad retired news officials and intelligence officers'[71].

A BENEDICT SUPERVISED THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE SATANIC INQUISITION

A contemporary UK Templar, Tim Acheson, told a local newspaper in Hertfordshire, England, in April 2005, that Cardinal Ratzinger had chosen the name Benedict because of its association with the Templars. He reportedly informed 'The Hertfordshire Mercury' newspaper cryptically that 'the Pontiff chose Benedict as his papal title, a name with special significance to the Knights Templar. The Rule of the Templars, which is like a code of conduct for The Order, was originally known as the Rule of Benedict'. Ratzinger, as previously noted, was head of the contemporary manifestation of the Inquisition -the notorious arm of the Church set up by the Jesuits to investigate, persecute or eliminate its enemies. In December 2004, the Knights Templar, who have a base in Hertfordshire, demanded a papal apology by the year 2007 for their persecution by the Papacy 700 years ago*. This demand, which the Vatican said it was 'seriously considering', made world headlines, after being revealed by 'The Mercury', appearing in several British newspapers, including 'The Independent' and ''The Guardian'. According to 'THE Mercury', before his 'election' to the Papacy, Ratzinger contacted a leading Hertfordshire historian and a records officer at Hertfordshire County Hall. An anonymous source told 'The Mercury' that the Bavarian Cardinal approached the local history expert Dr Alan Thompson; and it was also carefully and pointedly emphasised that the Pope's homeland, Bavaria, is 'also the homeland of a mysterious secret society, the Illuminati'.

'THE Mercury's' source also claimed that the former Cardinal telephoned the environmental officer of Hertfordshire County Council, Ms. Alison Tinneswood, who subsequently sought refuge behind the UK 'Data Protection Act' and refused to answer any questions[72]. Why would Cardinal Ratzinger have contacted the County's environmental officer, other than to investigate the possibility of a (Templar) exhumation?

JESUIT SPY-MANIA - THE MODEL FOR MODERN INTELLIGENCE PRACTICES

It is bad enough that the odious Papal Inquisition, a murderous manifestation of Satanic blood-lust, should have been invented and established by the founder of those 'Angels of Light', the Jesuits. Another of the Jesuits' legacies to humanity has been their secret intelligence service blueprint. All intelligence services today, and most of their nefarious practices, are modelled, to a greater or lesser extent, upon the Jesuit precedent. Under the Jesuit Constitutions, the chief occupation of Jesuit spies, or 'syndici', is to watch fellow Jesuits, and to send 'informaciones' about them to the local Provincial, or else to the General himself, at the Jesii, in Rome. Novices are taught the art of official and unofficial spying on their fellow Jesuits, under the rubric of 'manifestation of faults' -the same technique as was and is employed by Moral Re-armament to strip targeted individuals of all natural personality protection mechanisms, and to deprive them of their psychological integrity. Spying is put before Novices as 'a holy and salutary practice'[73]. The necessity for spying is justified by the need for 'progress in humility', 'progress in spiritual perfection', and so 'that the Superior may know them better'[74].

As the author of an expose of the Jesuits wrote in the 1920s: 'Naturally, raw recruits, mostly merely boys, do not fully understand what is involved in the denunciatory sys-

* Although this Author has little time for Dan Brown and his novels, Mr Brown was correct when he made the recorded statement that 'Ratzinger is on record as suggesting that Freemasonry was set up to persecute Christianity, and it is the revenge of the Templars that the Church fears, since the origin of Freemasonry is rooted in the persecution of the Templars by the Church'. Of course 'the Church' is not to be confused with Jesus Christ and His Word, with which the Inquisition has nothing to do, given that it represented the unrestrained Works of Darkness perpetrated in His Name. A further dimension emerges from Ratzinger's statement here. When the great period of cathedral-building had come to an end, the masons' cartels or trade guilds which had been maintained by the builders in order to prevent the Church 'gouging' their price structures, were left without a purpose. So their 'dead' framework was taken over by the Templars.

tern thus explained in a pious homily on Christian charity. Neither have they any conception what secret government means. They are asked if they are willing to have their faults manifested to Superiors, and if they are willing in charity to manifest the faults of others, and they express their consent. They take it for granted that what they have been told is a "holy and salutary religious practice", is quite above-board and honourable. They readily agree to the system without understanding what it entails. If afterwards, as often happens, when they come to see its evils and dangers, they make any protest, they are reminded of their acceptance of the system when it was explained to them in the Noviceship'[75]. It is then that they start to realise that they are trapped.

The Jesuit espionage system is so comprehensive that Headquarters is kept fully informed about every Jesuit in The Order. This is achieved by means of an elaborate reporting system, similar to the endless reports that are routinely generated by the European Commission's corrupt paper-shuffling structures. The first layer of espionage entails a general system of official reports from Superiors, Consultors, Procurators and from special Visitators sent from Rome by the General. Every Provincial is required to send each month to Rome a complete report upon the Province under his charge, which means that he and his staff spend most of their time collecting information on all the Jesuits within the Province. Local Superiors must report to Rome four times a year about all their subjects. Procurators proceed to Rome periodically - carrying with them their innumerable secret reports about members of their respective Jesuit Provinces.

On certain occasions, so-called 'informatores', four in number, are secretly nominated, and are ordered to deliver secret reports about individual Jesuits. This was the number of Jesuits who attended the session with the late Pope in 1981, described by Malachi Martin. The General and his Secretaries preserve these reports in archives, and a full record of the behaviour of every Jesuit in the world is maintained at the Jesu. In addition to all these compulsory spying reports, an immense flow of voluntary documents is despatched to Rome by pious meddlers who spend a great deal of their time writing as they are privileged and enjoined to do, denunciatory letters about fellow Jesuits, and about particular occurrences. These letters are marked 'soli', and they are placed directly into the hands of the General, who in due course acknowledges them personally.

It is clear that Mao Tse-Tung's system of communal denunciation during the so-called Cultural Revolution in China was based upon this Jesuitical system of institutionalised denunciation and reporting. Fidel Castro, a Jesuit-educated terrorist, uses the same Jesuitical procedures. It need hardly be said that such seething activity has nothing to do with the calm peace of Jesus Christ, who displayed 'the peace of God which passeth all understanding'[76]. When Jesus was explaining his mission and purpose to his disciples, in preparation for His Passion, he gave them these comforting words:

'Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid'[77].

And to the consternation of those who are in league with, or possessed by, the Prince of this World, those who accept His peace are not at all afraid of these reprobates.

Manifestly, the gulf between the oppressive control system that the Jesuits institutionalised from the outset, and 'the peace of God which passeth all understanding' is unbridgeable, short of total repentance by the reprobates concerned. The Order - like all other Illuminist organisations calling themselves The Order - is an invention of Satan, and is uniquely responsible for the model of institutionalised Jesuitical espionage and control methodology by criminalised intelligence communities worldwide.

THE CONFESSIONAL AS A SOURCE OF INTELLIGENCE FOR BLACKMAIL

An even greater abomination within the Jesuit Order is the evil system of exploiting the Catholic 'Confessional'. In the Catholic system, priests are intermediaries and confession is made to the priest, who acts supposedly as intermediary with God. This is practice is of course a relic of the pagan and also of the Jewish Pharisaical system, both of which prescribed that the priesthood alone possessed the powers and information necessary to provide absolution or to mete out punishments for sins committed by the supplicant. 'Confession' is thus simply a device to ensure that the priesthood controls its target population and can levy financial demands upon its members. By contrast, Jesus made it plain that no man on earth (with the exception of one's natural father) is to be called father, since only God is Father[78], and that Jesus is the sole intercessor with God for the sins of mankind[79]. 'It is Christ... who... maketh intercession for us'[80]. None other.

In contravention of this simple instruction, the Catholic Pope is the Holy Father and all Catholic priests and male religious are Fathers, consistently with the Catholic Church's reprobate practice of picking and choosing what elements of Scripture it will accept, what is to be elaborated, and what is to be ignored. The commensurately reprobate Church of England has of course taken to doing this as well.

The Jesuits' oppressive 'Common Rules' prescribe that 'he who knows about the grievous temptation of another must give notice of it to the Superior, that he, in his fatherly care and providence, may supply a suitable remedy'. But prescribing remedies, or penances, is none of any human being's business, beyond that of the sinner himself. He has the option to ask for repentance through Jesus Christ, because he has Free Will (of which the Jesuit and other Illuminati Orders seek to deprive their adherents). A fairly full grasp of the Jesuit Constitutions is necessary to understand the full meaning of the word 'temptation' in this context, and to realise what dire penalties the Superior, in his so-called 'fatherly care' as a hyperactive Angel of Light (driven by the 'seething energies' of Lucifer), may in his 'wisdom' decide upon as 'suitable remedies'[81]. In the 'Instructions for Confessors', issued by the Seventh General Congregation of The Order, the fifth section allocates certain additional tasks to the 'syndici, who are appointed in every Jesuit house and college, and among every class of The Order, to watch and send in secret reports to Superiors'. The text reads: 'Let syndici be appointed... who shall watch and report to the Superior about long confessions (prolix confessionibus), and also about protracted conversations in the Church, outside confessions'. 'There was therefore no place sacred, not even the church [building itself], against the activities of Jesuit spies. Nor was confession, which good taste as well as honourable principles, shelters from observation, immune from the watchful eyes of the official syndici of The Order'[82].

'During prayer time in Jesuit houses, that is, three times a day, official spies called "visitors" go from room to room, opening the doors without knocking in order to see if the Fathers are at their prayers. They have to keep records of the number of times each Father is absent at prayer time, or late for prayers. The "Visitors" report to the Superior at stated intervals' .

The Order (that is to say, this manifestation of it) has insisted since the days of Ignatius Loyala upon the absolute importance of its 'denunciatory' system. The Jesuits' need for such an abominable control mechanism illustrates, of course, their fundamental insecurity, and the absence of the Holy Spirit among them - since if this Order were 'of the Holy Spirit', no such abominably repressive control mechanism would be necessary. Significantly, the German Jesuit tradition has always been especially keen on denunciation as a primary component of espionage. An official letter from the Bohemian Principal, a Father Bieczynski, cited by a Count von Hoensbroech, which was found in a Library in Vienna, contained the following injunction:

'How great a value we set on denunciation as the true eye of the Society, must be known to everybody.... Nor do those err who suppose that the greater part of the annoyances to which the Society is subject spring from neglect and disregard of denunciation. It is therefore particularly enjoined on all, as loving sons of the Society, to pay due regard to a matter of such importance, and putting aside all considerations, in accordance with the spirit of our Institute' [which diverges 100% from the Holy Spirit] 'truly and faithfully to report to the Superior everything which they judge in the Lord should be reported. They may rest assured that they are performing an office both grateful and advantageous to the welfare of the Society' [that is to say, to its own self-interest, which diverges from the interests of its members and from the Word of God], if they zealously strive after that which the safety of our Order requires of all in this respecf .

THE PARANOID PSYCHOLOGY OF THE ORDER

In other words, this is all about The Order's perpetual fear, given its manifest idolatry of control and power, that it will be undermined and destroyed from within - illustrating that it lacks faith in its own purpose and that it is not guided by the Holy Spirit, but rather by the spirit of the Prince of Darkness, who is the inventor and source of these components of its black, institutionalised system of internal repression and espionage. One historian has described the atmosphere among Jesuits at times of heightened Jesuit internal dissension, when the 'inmates' were more than usually seized with the spirit of antagonism, as being bedevilled by a 'system of the most abominable espionage and tale-bearing', characterised by 'disorders attendant on secret accusations'. According to Ranke, 'It was made the instrument of concealed ambition and of hatred wearing the mask of friendship'. The historian of the Papacy added this quotation from a Jesuit theologian, Fr. Mariana, who reported as follows: 'Were anyone to read over the records sent in to Rome, he would perhaps not find a single upright man.... Universal distrust prevails'[85]. It came naturally to Fidel Castro, a Jesuit, who makes clandestine visits to 'superiors' in the United States, to install an espionage system in Cuba modelled precisely upon this institutionalised Jesuitical system of espionage and denunciation.

Count von Hoensbroech cited Bishop Palafox's report, in a letter to Pope Innocent X in the mid-17th century, in which the entire truth of this matter was exposed:

'What other Order has Constitutions which are not allowed to be seen, privileges which it conceals, and secret rules and everything related to the government of the Order hidden behind a curtain?' - contrary to the Word of God and the teaching of Jesus Christ, which is open and was given to us all openly: as Paul says: 'This thing was not done in a corner . 'The rules of every other Order may be seen by all the world.... But among the Jesuits there are even some of the Professed who do not know the Statutes, Privileges, and even the Rules of the Society, although they are pledged to observe them. Therefore they are not governed by their Superiors according to the rules of the Church, but according to certain concealed Statutes known by the Superior alone, and according to certain secret and pernicious denunciations, which leads to a large number being driven from the bosom of the Society'[87].

At the sixth General Congregation of The Order, any pretence that Jesuits retain any privacy or personal 'space' whatsoever was stripped bare. Specifically, it was provided that in 'accepting' the principle of denunciation, Jesuit subjects 'thereby renounce their right to their personal good name and reputation in so far as such a right stands in the way of denunciation'[88]. Therefore, The Order snatches such natural rights from the naive boys and young men who have been enticed, or despatched by their deluded parents, into this sterile organisation in their innocence - courting the certainty of rampant disillusionment among their number as the scales fall from their eyes, as happens extensively over the years. A Jesuit is very liable to be denounced falsely by a 'brother' Jesuit, and as a consequence dismissed, without being granted any opportunity to prove his 'innocence'; from which it follows that membership of this demonic Order is actually a precarious existence, lacking any form of security at all. Under modern employment legislation, such terms would be illegal. The diabolical nature of the internal espionage system is illustrated by the following:

'The Superior may, for the improvement of the accused, give him secret warnings and apprehensions; terrify him with threats (terre minis); set spies to watch him; change him from place to place; remove him from office; provided always in so doing he does not violate the secret. This he must avoid doing by putting forward some plausible reasons as a pretext for the treatment he is meting out to the accused'. In other words, the Superior must lie (all the time) about his motives. Lies and deception are the weapons of Satan, not Jesus Christ, after whose name this Order is labelled.

Satan is the Father of Lies, and of murder, his only product being spiritual (through lies and deception) and physical death. As Jesus told the Pharisees: 'Ye are of your father the Devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he is a liar, and the father of if'[89].

To disguise the true reasons for a dismissal so as to preserve the repressive secrecy considered necessary in order to 'protecf the source, the Superior 'may proceed to the dismissal of the accused from the Order, "not, however, in such a way that the crime which has been secretly reported to him may be made known to others in kind or species; but as though the dismissal were for other faults, coming to his knowledge from other sources; faults of a kind calculated to appear in the judgment of others a sufficient reason for the dismissal"'. Of course, the 'dismissed' finds himself a lucky man: for suddenly, he is (relatively) free of the oppressive regime within which he has lived, although he remains vulnerable to further snide denunciations even after leaving The Order.

The author of this Jesuit expose (published in the 1920s) made the same point as this Author - namely, than none of this has anything to do with following Jesus Christ:

'There is, surely, guile enough, equivocation enough, and deception and tyranny enough in all this to justify one in thinking that the government of the Jesuit Order resembles very little Christ's government of his disciples. Yet all this is called "paternal denunciation". What is particularly interesting is the delicate attention and the courtesy shown to the informant. His permission is asked for this, that, and the other thing. He is flattered and consulted. He is protected against any inconvenience, lest he should be unwilling to play the informant again.... Informers are held in the highest esteem in The Order, that is, if they are efficient and accurate informers. They are thought to be loyal to The Order, true children of Saint Ignatius [sic!], and zealous about the Order's highest good'. They are in due time promoted, and they enjoy the confidence of Superiors. If, on the other hand, some' [correctly of course] 'consider it petty, mean, degrading, and the source of far more harm than good, to spy upon their neighbours, they are looked upon as obstinate, independent, indifferent to the interests of The Order, and as being bereft of the true spirit of the Society'. Note the further imperative of having regard for the interest of The Order - that is to say, of this man-made organisation - and the reference to 'the true spirit of the Society', which is of the Devil. Any Jesuit who understands the venal and evil nature of the Jesuit 'spirit of denunciation' also understands, by definition, that this spirit is of the Evil One, and represents the opposite of the Holy Spirit.

THE PECULIAR MAD AFFLICTIONS OF JESUITS

Only a brief impression of the repressive nature of Jesuit rule and of The Order's espionage control system has been given. So oppressive is the system that not many Jesuits pass through their training by The Order without developing some form of eccentricity. The extreme tension of the Noviceship, especially following the exhaustion of the 'period of euphoria' and early years of study, followed by the steady, daily grind of repression in subsequent phases of the Jesuit's life, almost invariably trigger some pathological characteristic or other. According to one account, 'if one is interested in unusual facial expressions, in peculiar forms of abstraction, in strange types of "tic", in subtle manifestations of hysteria or neurasthenia, or in bizarre obsessions, one should secure the hospitality of a Jesuit house and observe the community closely. If one remains long enough, one without doubt will also have an opportunity of witnessing some of those sudden violent storms that burst without warning among men, who live at variance with the laws of nature, and in a high tension of internal repression'[90].

It has further been written that 'many Jesuits suffer from insomnia and headaches; many, especially among the younger members, have "broken heads" (obsessional neuralgia); many are melancholic; many scrupulous, and victims of phobias.... Persecution mania is, as might be expected from our study of the Jesuit espionage system, exceedingly common. A Jesuit tainted with this malady believes that everyone is plotting against him; reporting him to his Superior; watching where he goes and what he does; scheming to deprive him of whatever privileges he enjoys; and in general, determined to ruin him. He suspects every one, and retires more and more into himself.... One Father collected huge stones in his room and barricaded himself against all comers, threatening to kill anyone who should try to enter'[91]. And it gets worse:

'Suicidal and homicidal manias are not unknown in the Society, but naturally the victims of these maladies are sent away, or put into mental homes. The praecox tendency showing itself in "glorified egos" is frequently encountered. Such Jesuits boast of their blue blood; of their prowess as teachers, orators, athletes, artists and theologians; or of the extraordinary amount of work they do. The Order attributes their boastings to pride, and takes no cognisance of the activity of subconscious complexes. There are many forms of cleptomania to be observed, from collecting knives, pins, books and golf balls to incontinently stealing tobacco and other things. One Jesuit... had as a "fetish", white linen. When he vacated his room, an enormous quantity of sheets, pillowcases, towels, and so forth were found accumulated under his bed and in cupboards. The "fetish" cult as practised in The Order usually takes on a pious form, namely the collection of objects of devotion' [which should of course be unnecessary, since the Lord is meant to be the sole object of devotion]. 'Sadism (the torturing of others) and masochism (self-torture) are apparently common in The Order. I have known some Jesuits to lash boys with hard leather straps in a state of passionate excitement, while the boys writhed in agony, and blood flowed from their hands. These sadistic Jesuits, with flushed faces and dilated pupils, seemed to glory in their orgy. As to masochism, I have seen Jesuits invite boys to throw hard balls at them with as much strength as they could; to hit them with sticks; to squeeze their fingers with wrenches until the blood almost oozed from under their fingernails; and to inflict other suchlike tortures upon them. Exhibitionism is, curiously enough, much in evidence in the Order. It may be that it proves to be the most natural reaction against the Rules of Modesty and similar forms of internal repression'.

'When, during vacation time, communities go to the seaside for a brief "villa", Jesuits are as unrestrained in their free-from-clothes sportings as inhabitants of Central Africa. Exhibitionism is seen, too, in senseless feats of daring very common among Jesuits. Some ride down precipitous hills on bicycles devoid of brakes; some roll down the sides of steep heights blindfolded; some swim dangerous channels without an escorting boat. In these and other ways, they give expression to the violent reaction that the enforced restraint of their lives generates'[92].

Unsurprisingly, many Jesuits seize and cultivate opportunities to conduct long, unchaperoned visits to high-born women, and it is commonplace for 'sweet and agreeable words' to be exchanged 'that are tinged with carnal lust and carnal feelings' -which is hardly surprising, given the completely aberrant denial of normal human relationships, the central perverse mechanism of control, that prevails in all such societies of men whose human nature is denied in accordance with the control model derived from the pagan priesthoods of Rome and Greece. This regime establishes a masculine environment devoid of the loving intercession of females, the lack of whom fosters an essentially brutalised, harsh and ruthless mentality such as, for instance, gave rise to the Inquisition, and which may be found replicated in all systems using the Jesuit model.

JESUITS WHO NEVER BATHE, AND JESUITS WHO ARE ALWAYS WASHING

The expose continues: 'There are Jesuits who never take baths, and Jesuits who are eternally washing their hands. There are Jesuits who paste paper over pictures in books that reveal the human figure, and Jesuits who collect pictures of pretty actresses. There are Jesuits who do everything in "threes", in devotion to the Trinity, and Jesuits who write all their notes on bits of torn paper out of love of "Holy Poverty". Finally, there are many Jesuits who crawl like worms, under the urge of inferiority complexes, and as many others who strut like peacocks, under the full blast of superiority complexes'.

The analysis contains descriptions of the hypochondria which grips so many of these poor men: 'Some claim that their stomachs are so weak that they need an altogether special diet; some complain of a lack of vitality and are content to smoke and read the newspapers; indefinite and indescribable pains in the head or heart afflict others; fatigue in all its forms is rampant; and from every community there ascends to heaven an almighty wail of complaints. The only authorised psychotherapy afforded to these numerous victims of neuroses is an increase of pious endeavour, which, as might be expected, is as little efficacious against their mental sicknesses as it would be against gout or gangrene'[93].

Other references to rampant homosexuality, suppressed or overt, and to the existence of pyromaniacs within The Order, abound. The descriptions, in the cited expose, of homosexual activities, cover the usual abuses, with boys spoken of as "a suck of Father So-and-So"; and further nasty detail would be superfluous. Pyromania is, or was, also quite commonplace. Some of these poor imprisoned souls are "candle fiends", always enthused about illuminations. Early in a Jesuit's training, a definite attempt is made to create a 'mother-fixation' on the Society. The Rules abound with repetitious references to 'Our Holy Mother, the Society'. Sentimental 'child-mother' songs are sung in The Order, helping (it is intended) to engender a 'mother-fixation' or attitude of childlike docility and simplicity towards Superiors.

The Jesuit Constitutions are treated as 'irrevocable' - just like certain provisions of the European Union's German DVD-derived Maastricht Treaty [see Chapter 8] - and Superiors refuse at all times to admit that they contain the slightest imperfections. All critical comments and judgments on them are attributed to 'bad faith and wickedness'.

'The sick man is hauled up for treatment as a result of denunciation; he is made use of by Superiors as a source of further information; and he is treated as a child, as one incapable of judging things for himself. A "cure" is expected from this mixture of dialectics, insults, threats, piety, penances and dishonest statements of facts!'[94]. Most disconcertingly, the Jesuit has to accept whatever insults are hurled at him in the 'true spirit of the Society', and not least because harsh and evil words are typically couched in beautifully circumlocutory, elegant language and prose[94].

Particular venom is reserved for Jesuits who commit the sin of 'Disturbance of the Peace, and the Sowing of Discords and Quarrels'. Such people are called 'pests' and are informed that their disease encroaches upon the borders of grave sin. These Jesuits, and others considered 'guilty' of comparable 'sins', are required to be publicly reprimanded in the Refectory before the whole community.

PERVASIVE REGIME OF JESUITICAL 'INFORMANTS' IN THE UNITED STATES

The treatment of renegade Jesuits procured via the pervasive system of oppressive espionage - which has spawned secular equivalents such as the East German system of informants, organised by the STASI operative Marcus Wolf, who arranged that an estimated one-third of the East German population were spying on the other two-thirds (and upon their fellows) - provides, as we have seen, the model for the abuses and organised denunciation fests perpetrated inter alia by the Communist Chinese during the Cultural Revolution (and almost certainly subsequently).

It likewise provides the model for the repressive nationwide system of informants that is being erected 'as we speak' in the United States, partly on the basis of advice procured by the US Department of Homeland Security from its 'consultants', Marcus Wolf and Yevgeniy Primakov (Finkelstein), who shared partial control of Soviet intelligence with his KGB boss, Mikhail Gorbachev, as late as 2005, according to special information passed to the Author[95]. Under this system, nothing that anyone says to a stranger in the United States will, before long, be 'privileged', unless the progressive slide towards the consummation of the Thousand-Year Reich on the ruins of the United States, predicted by the Nazi International in the early 1950s [see Chapter 8], is decisively arrested.

It is also from the Jesuits' centuries-long 'experience' of 'treating' those of their members among whom their repressive regime has triggered psychological and psychosomatic disorders, that modern Satanic mind-control and personality-modification techniques such as those elaborated by the Tavistock Institute and its innumerable related 'offshoots' and the Himmlerian scientists, are originally derived. In such 'treatment', 'the interest of the patient is quite obviously subordinated to that of The Order'[96].

The repressive regime of the Jesuits is so perverse that it has been known to turn men of the finest character into the meanest and most repulsive of creatures - a progression which may help us to understand how certain rulers become devils. The Order 'gradually demoralises men, who may be naturally of fine and generous tendencies, turning them into weak, cowardly, insincere wrecks of manhood, with enslaved minds and ruined nerves' - just like certain US intelligence officers the Author has known! The author of the expose referred in particular to an Irish Jesuit of his acquaintance whom he described as 'a clever young man full of energy and full of Irish fun and humour. He was a good classical scholar, particularly accurate and exact in his scholarship; and gifted with a nice sense of literary style. He had, I think, the making of an exceptionally good critic, or writer of pungent and thoughtful essays. He might indeed have edited a paper with distinction, or have developed into a distinguished preacher or lecturer. He had great fluency, good judgment in the choice of words, and was possessed with a rich and sweet voice. He was endowed with all the qualities that one considers desirable in a teacher, and had it not been for the mental and moral blight that life in the Society meant for him, he might have become a brilliant Headmaster'.

That was 35 or 40 years prior to the mid-1920s, when this expose was being written. That was 'then'. The same individual 'now' was described by the author concerned, as 'one of the most despicable characters in existence. He is such a craven coward that he almost fears to cough, lest his coughing should be interpreted as a disregard of the Holy Rule. He has no friend whose secrets he is not on the alert to find out, in order to betray them at once to his Superior. There is no form of pretence, hypocrisy, equivocation that he is not versed in. There is no form of flattery in which he is not ready to indulge in order to please a Superior. There is no act of folly or imprudence of any member of his Province that he has not made himself thoroughly acquainted with, in order to have tales to tell to Superiors when names crop up at consultations'.

After he had become a Superior, 'he was the cruellest and most inconsiderate man I ever met. Many [members] of his Province lay to his charge the sad deaths of two young Scholastics' (as young Jesuits are known) 'who, though advanced tubercular cases, were driven to breaking-point by work that he imposed upon them. One of these tubercular Scholastics, whom I knew very well, was sent back by Fr. X to wade about in a half-frozen pond until he should find a skate that he had lost' (since all items in the Scholastics' possession belong to The Order, naturally). When the time of the Public Examinations arrived, Fr. X, who had kept this poor dying boy' (before the invention of appropriate drugs, of course) 'working at classics until 11 pm every night, allowed him to enter for the exams, although the doctor who had seen him the same day had said that there was no longer any hope for his recovery and that at most he could last a few months. But Fr. X wanted' (for himself) 'the credit of the brilliant examination results that were expected of him. The results were forthcoming, but also the boy's death a few months later'[97].

The Jesuit Superior and 'Angel of Light' in question 'was preoccupied eternally with the reputation and good name of his company (house) and of himself: appearances were what he was interested in above all, while he was himself a despicable 'whited sepulchre'[98]. The author correctly compared this institutionalised hypocrisy and tyranny with the life and normal, human conduct of Jesus Christ; and in order to illustrate that this Author is far from being, of course, the only observer who has made this necessary comparison, the following passage will illustrate, finally, how far from Christ is this reprobate and odious man-made institution of oppression:

'One cannot of course conceive of any such reactions to repression as I have been describing, occurring in the entourage of Jesus of Nazareth. The petty rules designed to thwart and crush human impulses that abound in the Jesuit Rule find no authorisation in the teachings of Christ. He had friends; "a beloved disciple", as well as Martha and Mary. He loved his City Jerusalem, and wept when he thought of its sorrows. No "ne tangos" (do not touch) rule prevented him from taking children into his arms. No regulations limiting his visits only to women of noble birth' (as apply to Jesuits) 'kept him from visiting Peter's mother-in-law. When he wanted to talk to the Samaritan woman, he chose an hour when there would be none to overhear what He said. He was not preoccupied eternally with the reputation and good name of his company'.

'There was no prudery about his manner of multiplying the wine at Cana's festive board, nor did he shirk hitting hard and angrily when the traders desecrated the Temple with trafficking. When lonely, he called his friends to keep him company. He made what provision he could for his Mother when he was dying, and he did not fear to look lovingly on her dear face.... He was essentially human, and the self-denial that he taught was not the constant goading to desperation of human feelings and emotions, but the stamping out of that narrow, egotistical selfishness which stands in the way of loving one's neighbour'[99]. Note that 'the constant goading to desperation of human feelings and emotions' 'just happens' to be the regimen demanding the suppression of human emotions required of the Masonic adept as outlined by the Illuminist Manly P. Hall.

JESUITS SPAWNED ALL THE MODERN SATANIC DISEASES THAT PLAGUE US

It is, indeed, by studying the Jesuit model that we can discern the germs of all the modern Satanic diseases with which civilisation today is afflicted, and which are addressed in this book. The institutionalised system of Jesuit espionage has spread throughout North America and the United Kingdom, certainly, so that all telephone calls and emails are liable to be listened to and monitored: indeed, since the mid-1980s, the Author has been aware of his telephone calls being intercepted, and in the case of transatlantic calls, it is frequently the case that when the army of perverse eavesdroppers takes exception to what is being said, they make their repulsive annoyances known by means of rude and unpleasant interjections, jamming or other electronic abuses. The abomination of 'denunciations' was applied extensively in Communist China and other regimes erected by the Dark Forces of the Illuminati, and it features today in show-trials and in travesties of justice perpetrated in American courts, concerning certain instances of which this Author has extensive details. The obsession with the idolatry of brazen power* and, in order to gratify it, with controlling minds, altering personalities, and otherwise interfering with the human mind and body in order to maximise the presumed potential for manipulating populations, can be traced directly to comparable obsessions, at the micro level, applied within the Jesuit houses. Other dubious methodologies developed by the Jesuits are in general use among intelligence communities worldwide, and throughout the European Union's structures. Because of their savage repression, espionage and exposure systems, the cardinal vice of the Jesuit is pretence and make-believe - unsurprisingly, also one of the most conspicuous vices of the corrupt European Commission. Explosions occur as soon as, for instance, Jesuit Novices are released from their false, repressive, make-believe world, for a recreation period. The author of the expose explained what happened on one occasion:

---

*The lust for power and control, of which such repressive espionage systems are a symptom, is the central driving force of the World Revolution. a.k.a. the 'New World' Order which the revolutionary United States was geomasonically established to implement. The 'seething energies' of Lucifer are relentless and ruthless, by definition knowing no rest - with the world now divided into two segments - recently referred to by a US military source [see box, page 313] as the 'Functioning Core' of countries which are fully signed-up to the 'New World' (a.k.a., the 'New Underworld') Order and the 'Non-Integrating Gap' of countries that are to be compelled to participate by all available means, however Satanic. For this purpose, space-based scalar technology, responsible for instance for the tsunami earthquake of 26th December 2004, and for other earthquakes and weather abnormalities, are being deployed, in an extremely dangerous series of confrontations by means of which competing elements of the global control nexus seek to impose their paradigms on non-cooperating or competing elements and governments. After each man-made catastrophe, advertisements and appeals appear in the newspapers and on US and British talk radio programmes, soliciting donations to assist the homeless and the bereaved - and the donations never arrive at their supposed destination zones, because the funds have of course been scammed. There are no depths to which these organised Illuminati crooks will not sink - making money out of the kind-heartedness of people who feel disturbed that human beings on the other side of the world have been made destitute, being no exception. Indeed, the amounts of money that can be raised by such scams are inexhaustible, providing a self-contained motive for scalar and other catastrophe-generating operations.

'At the instant that the warning bell announced the beginning of recreation, and permission to talk, there was a veritable outburst of cries and shouts. Noisy confusion sprang after the heels of holy silence, and delirious uproar banged the door on demure gravity. As often as permission was given for games, and Novices played hockey, roughness and brutality was the spirit of the game. Cuts, blows and bruises were distributed with the utmost liberality and the angelic faces of the Novices were not infrequently distorted with immoderate emotions. When, however, the game was over, and the Novices, covered with mud and bathed in perspiration, bleeding, too, perhaps, and limping, thronged directly to the chapel (no time was allowed for change of clothes), peace and prayerfulness reappeared on their countenances, as if by magic. Repression was in the ascendancy once more'[100]. But since the cardinal vice of the Jesuit is pretence and double-minded make-believe, this renewed appearance of piety was false.

The Order - or this manifestation of it - specialises in the exploitation and elevation of piety as a control mechanism. It therefore perpetrates an abominable deception upon its originally naive recruits - a deception which they may waste their lives coming to terms with, and which dries up their faith and hope of salvation. In a Novice dormitory, the author of the expose heard one of his number, who had left a happy home and had appeared always to be 'very happy in his vocation', talk in his sleep. And what he mumbled in his sleep revealed the terrible proportions of the 'decision' he had taken, or had been compelled by peer or family pressures to take. In his sleep, 'suddenly he raised his voice and these words, laden with deep import, were carried up and down the dormitory, but probably no-one save myself was awake to hear them:

"Oh!" he cried, "Oh, if I only knew before I came"'.

HYPOCRISY, FALSE MODESTY AND FARCE AT THE DINING TABLES

An illustration of how the Jesuits exploit 'virtue' for dehumanising control purposes, causing confusion and deception to prevail among their acolytes, is provided by the following observations of life at an Irish Jesuit House. At table, though perhaps ravenously hungry, the Novice has to eat with the utmost modesty. He may only place small morsels into his mouth at a time, even though always having to 'eat against time', and has to take care at all times to mortify himself by denying the nicest parts of what he gets to eat. He also has to attend to the spiritual reading that is going on, and to derive benefit from it. It is frowned upon to help oneself to anything before offering it to one's neighbour; and the Novice must be constantly on the lookout for any opportunity to satisfy his neighbour's needs before his own. Furthermore, any sign of desire for food or drink is liable to be interpreted, and most probably reported, as indicative of moral failure. Mealtimes are therefore especially tense, and provide ample opportunities for reporting backsliding to the authorities, or for being reported. Ordinary little courtesies become a veritable nightmare. Since one of the rules prescribes passing bread, salt and so forth without being asked to do so, so as to anticipate the requirements of others, the Novice has to watch carefully so as to anticipate the requirements of those beside him. Bearing in mind that one's neighbours are doing the same thing, this leads to extraordinary tension as the Novices vie for the opportunity to pass the bread, salt, or whatever.

From time to time, Jesuit houses have what are called 'wine-evenings', which are usually held after dinner in the Recreation Room. These may be liable to become more exuberant than intended. Another practice is, or was, the provision of beer at dinner. Everyone is allowed a glass of beer and if this is desired, is required to push his glass towards the edge of the table, so that the Novice who has the duty for the evening of carrying the barrel of beer (as was the practice in the 1920s) around the dining room table, knows into which glasses the amber liquid should be poured. According to the author of the expose, it was, however, frowned upon ever to push one's glass towards the edge of the table, since to do so might be interpreted as a sign of self-indulgence. Accordingly, it rarely happened that glasses were pushed to the edge of the table. Notwithstanding this state of affairs, it was routine for a Novice to enter the dining room carrying a barrel 'of beer' on his shoulder, ready to pour beer into appropriately positioned glasses as required.

On one such occasion, a Novice, tired of being deprived for years of beer, after weeks of self-doubt, prayer, contemplation, self-examination and so forth, finally decided that he would push his glass to the edge of the table. He therefore arrived at the dinner table in a state of extreme anxiety, his heart beating at double the normal rate, and in a high sweat. When, finally, his nerve did not fail him, and he had summoned up the courage to push his glass to the edge of the table, a ghastly silence descended upon the room. He sensed that every eye was upon him, especially those of the Superior and his authorised spies. The Novice sat rigidly in his place waiting for the beer to be poured into his glass. When the beer-Novice du jour approached, the next disaster occurred.

He walked straight past the glass that had been pushed to the edge of the table, to the amazed gaze of the Superior and the whole house. The Superior's sidekick promptly ordered him to make the circuit again and to pay attention to the glass that had been proffered. Then the third disaster occurred. The Novice carrying the cask 'of beer' lowered it to meet the proffered glass. But nothing came out. The cask 'of beer' was empty!

In this manner was the charade of lies concerning beer exposed before the entire congregation. For years, it had been a rule that beer could be enjoyed at dinner. For years, Novices had taken it in turns to circumnavigate the dining table with the cask 'of beer'. And for years, the cask 'of beer' had contained no beer at all, to save money. To such mad and hypocritically ludicrous lengths do Jesuit houses go in order to prop up their lies and to sustain the false integrity of their pettily oppressive rules and tiny 'privileges' supposedly granted in alleviation of those rules.

One interesting example of how Jesuits react to the meticulously pettifogging rules and regulations that they are required to follow, concerns so-called 'holy poverty'. This requirement is so oppressive that almost all Jesuits develop subterranean methods for securing pocket-money, even though, according to the author of the expose, 'they are forbidden to have money in their own or another's keeping' (so that they are effectively prisoners in and of their houses). Strictly a Jesuit should go to his Superior to ask for pocket money even to buy a newspaper or to pay a bus fare. In addition to developing devious means of circumnavigating the rules of 'holy poverty', any breach of which is regarded as a grave violation of vows, Jesuits react to these rules by indulging in extreme wastefulness with community property. 'They break things, throw them around, misuse them with the utmost indifference. And when they receive permission to buy clothes or other items with community funds, they always choose the most costly'.

There is an interesting parallel here with the behaviour of Bolshevik apparatchiks. Notoriously, they indulge themselves, maximising their exploitation of collective assets.

OPUS DEI - THE NEW DIALECTICAL 'OPPOSITE' WITHIN THE JESUITICAL ORBIT

Today's world is chock full of organisations masquerading as though they are indispensable for the welfare of humanity - but which, upon closer examination, turn out to harbour chicanery or, at the very least, to be very far from what they seem. One such prominent organisation is the misleadingly named, but today extremely powerful, cult calling itself Opus Dei, which has attached itself, like so many other operations of the Illuminati, to the reprobate Catholic Church. This manifestation of the presence of 'Angels of Light' is clearly modelled according to the Jesuit blueprint, and appears to have achieved total ascendancy within the Vatican. It represents 'the Righf in contrast to the Jesuit 'Left'.

In October 2003, Jose Maria (or Josemaria) Escriva de Balaguer, the founder of Opus Dei, who died in 1975, was 'canonised' at the Vatican - i.e., conferred with 'sainthood' - after one of the shortest waiting periods in the history of the Catholic Church. Although the New Testament teaches that all who believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God are saints, the Catholic Church arrogates for itself the 'right' to confer sainthood. In other words, the label 'Saint' is conferred by man, not by God.

Opus Dei (the 'Work of God') is supposed nowadays to have 85,000 adherents, and senior US intelligence officials cover their multiple sins by aspiring to membership of this peculiar 'right-wing' network. The organisation's many critics accuse Opus Dei of many cult-like practices, such as brainwashing adherents into slavish, repetitious devotion (not exclusively to Jesus Christ, of course), and blackmailing former members to prevent them from revealing the organisation's dark secrets.

Sr Javier Sainz Moreno, who is a finance and tax lawyer at Madrid's Autonomous University, says that Opus Dei 'are a danger to society'. He claims that this organisation has enriched itself by means of a series of murky transactions, which are easy for 'charitable' and 'religious' organisations to mask, since in most Western countries, they are immune from the disciplines applicable to ordinary businesses. Former Opus Dei alumni have reported that members in Opus Dei homes were required to report every element of their personal lives - who they met, whom they loved, what books they read -to 'spiritual directors', in the same way as Jesuits are required to spy on each other and to report on their fellow Jesuits' faults.

Some Opus Dei members strapped their bodies with barbed wire and flagellated themselves with lead-tipped whips until they caused bleeding. One Spanish escapee told the Associated Press (3rd October 2002) that 'the first thing they do in the morning is to kiss the floor and say 'Serviam' ('I will serve', in Latin). It is a dangerous and destructive group that eradicates personality and freedom'.

The question is: whom do these people serve? If they kiss the floor, they are bending downwards, which reveals those whom they really, albeit inadvertently in most cases, worship. Doubtless to the extreme displeasure of both the Vatican and of Opus Dei's controllers, 'The Chicago Tribune' performed an invaluable service on 7th December 2003 by publishing a detailed, though necessarily abbreviated, exposure of Opus Dei, which helps us to answer this question. Bear in mind that, as noted, senior US intelligence officials aspire and belong to this shadowy organisation - which may serve as a means of salving what remains of their consciences. It certainly provides them with a convenient 'God' label, or logo, that can be worn to mask their nefarious mindset and behaviour.

The organisation was founded in 1928, three years after his ordination, by Escriva de Balaguer, after he had seen a vision in which, he claimed, God had revealed Opus Dei's mission. Those who reorder their lives on the basis of visions or 'voices' (like the possessed occultist and 'New Age' exponent, Barbara Marx Hubbard, for instance) need to be on guard that they have not, in fact, been accosted by a force other than that of an angel of God, as is usually the case. President George W. Bush's now notorious assertions that he was instructed by God to invade Afghanistan and then further instructed by God to overthrow the regime of Saddam Hussein in Iraq - interventions which resulted in the murder of perhaps half a million people - are of course especially notorious such examples of people 'getting their gods muddled up'.

In view of the fact that he is alleged to have been engaged in the past in occult practices, the President of the United States at the time this book was being finalised may be possessed, or have a familiar spirit, who orders him to do this or that; for manifestly, God would never have issued such an instruction, as the Lord is not in favour of brutality, the use of fragmentation bombs against innocent civilians, the gross, barbaric abuse of prisoners in concentration camps, and all the other abominations perpetrated by the United States, and by Britain, led by its compromised and blackmailed Prime Minister, Tony Blair, in those two countries[101]. It is in any case known that the United States planned the attack on Afghanistan under President Clinton, and that plans for the Iraqi operation were at an advanced stage within days of President Bush Jr.'s first inauguration[102] [see Figure 94 on page 607]. President Bush's assertions that God told him to perpetrate these atrocities were thus demonstrably false, since the military-industrial complex had been planning these attacks for a long time previously.

Membership of Opus Dei gives operatives like the disgraced FBI traitor, Robert Phillip Hanssen, a false 'Jesus comfort, or 'security blanket', even as they allow their lives to be hijacked by yet another diversionary Luciferian deception - a ruse carrying the name of God, just as the Jesuits conduct their nefarious activities in Christ's name. (Hanssen's 'crimes' in passing secret intelligence to the Russians were supposed to have been so heinous that he was condemned to spend the rest of his life in solitary confinement in Denver, and was described as the traitor who did more damage than anyone in US history. Yet he has allegedly been released, and is living on the West Coast).

In Spain, Opus Dei runs one of the country's two leading business schools, IESE, and also the University of Navarra, which Escriva founded in 1952. In the United States, where the movement is said to have some 3,000 members, it operates 'spiritual retreat' centres, a college and several schools, including the Midtown Educational Foundation located in Chicago. Its influence greatly exceeds the potential of its numbers.

The membership of this Luciferian Illuminist sect consists of three categories:

- Numeraries, accounting for about 30% of members, who live in Opus Dei residences (men and women separately), are pledged to celibacy, attend daily Mass and spiritual readings, and wear a sharp band of wire around their thigh for two hours each day, and whip themselves for minutes every week. Inflicting pain, whether on one's own body (which, as Jesus taught us, is 'the temple of the Holy Spirif) or on someone else's body, is Satanic, and cannot be justified in a True Christian context under any circumstances.
- Supernumeraries, accounting for about 70% of the members, who can be married and live with their families, and who volunteer in Opus Dei centres and schools.
- Cooperators: A third category consists of supporters of Opus Dei who make financial contributions but who are not members. These people are called 'cooperators'.

Opus Dei allegedly recently unveiled a new 17-storey headquarters building in the heart of Manhattan, at 34th and Lexington, using a plot that was left vacant for many years - hardly indicative of a paucity of financial resources.

ROSICRUCIAN OCCULT OPUS DEI

Figure 62: A comparison of the symbols used by Opus Dei with key esoteric and Rosicrucian emblems: The following text appears beneath images A and B shown at the right, in 'Beyond the Threshhold: A Life in Opus Dei' by Maria del Carmen Tapia [Continuum, New York, 1999]: 'The Opus Dei Emblem: The cross in the circle of the world; the rose symbolizing Opus Dei women. The rose represents a gilded wooden rose that Monsignor Escriva found upon the ground near a destroyed church during the Spanish Civil War while fleeing the Republican military. Monsignor Escriva often said that it was a sign sent by the Virgin Mary that his escape was God's will'. Thus, despite her escape from the clutches of Opus Dei, Maria del Carmen remained, as late as 1999, the victim of fables such as the one elaborated by her tyrannical former boss, Escriva. Mary is in no position to 'send signs' to anybody: she is the mother of Jesus and rests in peace in accordance with his Word.

All worship of the Virgin Mary as the Queen of Heaven - which was specifically prohibited in Jeremiah, Chapter 44, as elements of the recalcitrant remnant of the people of Judah decided to return physically towards the Darkness (namely, Egypt) and spiritually (by the burning incense and the baking of cookies to the Queen of Heaven, a.k.a. Astarte, contrary to the Word of God repeatedly conveyed through Jeremiah) - is also condemned in Revelation as an abomination.

Images C and D on the right reveal the real connotations of the two Opus Dei occult emblems, for which Maria del Carmen gives the wrong interpretations:

G is the esoteric symbol for the Earth [Source: Dr Cathy Burns, in 'Masonic and Occult Symbols Illustrated', Sharing, PA., op. cit.,1998, page 396]. This symbol is displayed along with esoteric symbols for initiation, false wisdom, cosmic consciousness, the Tree of Death, the Path of Universality, and multiple other diversionary 'New Age' sorcery symbols.

D: This is the Rosicrucian Rose, with its attendant bee - used in sorcery. 'Bees around the rose represent believers receiving (undefined) divine nourishment' [Source: Norman MacKenzie, Ed. 'Secret Societies', 1967, page 143]. Bees are a very ancient sorcery symbol; and the rose has the reverse of phallic connotations. Note: Pope Urban VIII (17th c.) used a magickal seal displaying a triangle of three bees, representing the pagan unholy trinity: Lucifer, his Queen and their son, Antichrist, according to expert sources.

A

B

C

D

OPUS DEI, OR OPUS LUCIFERIS?

It is speculated that members of Opus Dei have reached the highest levels of the US Federal Government, including the Supreme Court and the US Federal Bureau of Investigation, in particular, just as they have reached the highest levels of control in the Vatican. Opus Dei's policy is not to reveal who is or who is not a member. Contrary to Scripture, a pledge of secrecy, similar to the oppressive secrecy of the Jesuits, is written into the rules of Opus Dei; and indeed many Catholics themselves see Opus Dei as a conspiracy aimed at capturing the Catholic Church from within, which has already happened at the highest levels. That idea is somewhat fanciful, since, as the late Malachi Martin and others have revealed, the 'Ancient Mysteries' have long since been allowed into the sanctuary, with the proliferation of Freemasonic membership and ritual among some of the hierarchy - contrary to Pope Leo XIII's rearguard Encyclical 'Humanum Genus' dated 20th April 1884, in which Freemasonry was roundly condemned. Concerning the rules of secrecy and deceit which characterises Freemasonry, and which are replicated among the Jesuits, Opus Dei and within other manifestations of the hydra-like Order, that Pope (even though claiming to be Christ: see page 273) had this to say - revealing the Jesuitical imprint upon Masonry, and the methodology of all manifestations of The Order:

'Candidates are generally commanded to promise - nay, with a special oath, to swear - that they will never, to any person, at any time or in any way, make known the members, the passes, or the subjects discussed.... Moreover, to be enrolled, it is necessary that the candidates promise and undertake to be thenceforward strictly obedient to their leaders and masters with the utmost submission and fidelity, and to be in readiness to do their bidding upon the slightest expression of their will; or, if disobedient, to submit to the direst penalties and [even] to death itself. As a fact, if any are judged to have betrayed the doings of the sect or to have resisted commands given, punishment is inflicted on them not infrequently, and with so much audacity and dexterity that the assassin very often escapes the detection and penalty of his crime'*.

Many critics are disturbed because, as part of their 'devotional regimen', Opus Dei Numeraries inflict pain upon themselves. Supporters respond that mortification of the flesh is, according to the 'Chicago Tribune's' report, 'an ancient and honourable Christian practice that puts them in touch spiritually with the great saints of the past'. This is of course a grossly aberrant, Satanic teaching: not only is inflicting pain on one's body a ruse of the Evil One, but all attempts to 'connect' with the dead represent necromancy, which is a forbidden practice of the darkness, and an activity reminiscent of superstitions associated with the worst of pagan occult practices.

Sharon Clasen, who these days lives in the suburbs of Washington DC, was introduced to Opus Dei as a Boston College 'freshman' (apparently, despite rampant 'political correctness' (mass mind-bending), it is still 'Okay' to refer to a female undergraduate as a 'freshman', even though female 'chairs' of US Congressional Committees are ludicrously referred to as 'Madame Chairperson' - Ed.). The dormitories were full, so a friend recommended an off-campus women's residence called Bayridge, run by Opus Dei. She moved in, was initially attracted by the warm and supportive atmosphere, and eventually succumbed to the pressure to become a member.

'After I joined, they gave me a barbed-wire chain to wear on my leg for two hours a day and a whip to hit my buttocks with', she told the Chicago newspaper.

---

* "Humanum Genus': Encyclical Letter of His Holiness Pope Leo XIII on Freemasonry', 20th April 1884, Tan Books and Publishers, Inc., P.O. Box 424m Rockford, Illinois 61105, USA, 1978.

According to Opus Dei illuminates, the use of privation and pain reflect a sinner's need for physical penance. Because everyone falls into that category, members are expected to sleep on the floor or on a board one night a week. The whip is called a 'discipline', the leg binding is a 'cilice'. Again, these aberrations are wholly contrary to Christian Truth, which provides that all that a sinner needs to do is to pray to the Lord for forgiveness and to repent. Nowhere in Scripture is it laid down that people are required, as a condition for forgiveness, to injure the temple of the Holy Spirit of the Lord, which is the human body. The whole formula is Satanic.

Pope John Paul II gave the movement a unique status within the Catholic Church, by making it a 'personal prelature'. This exempts Opus Dei from the jurisdiction of local bishops, a privilege that Opus Dei had long campaigned for and which earlier Popes had resisted. In Chicago, the late Cardinal Joseph Bernardin - whom the late Malachi Martin in person told your correspondent was a supremely evil man - gave Opus Dei clerics the control of a Chicago parish - St Mary of the Angels - on the Near Northwest Side, a privilege that Opus Dei enjoys in few other places. The movement's 'success' has provoked resentment and envy in certain other quarters of the Catholic Church locally. According to James Hitchcock, a history professor at St Louis University, a Jesuit school, 'in some cases, it's produced paranoia. There are Jesuits who hear you express conservative religious views, who say: "Are you a covert member of Opus Dei?"'

The movement appeals, like so many others (Moral Re-Armament, for instance) to the idealism of youth. New recruits are told that they belong to the 'elite guard of God'. However when the scales eventually fall from their eyes, victims often report that they were isolated from their families, and that their reading matter was censored - even though Opus Dei officials deny using such coercion.

Another Boston College Opus Dei recruit informed 'The Chicago Tribune' that a friend brought her to functions at an Opus Dei house. 'What I didn't realise (at the time) was that I was a target for recruitment. When I joined, they said that you should have 10 to 15 friends that you're working on. You had to fill out forms each month and have meetings to develop strategies to get them to join'[103].

OPUS DEI EXPOSED BY THE BRAVE MARIA DEL CARMEN TAPIA

The best-known defector from Opus Dei is Maria del Carmen Tapia, Escriva's personal secretary and a Regional Director of Opus Dei in South America (where the Grand Orient 'line' of Freemasonry is predominant to the point of virtually excluding the 'Anglo-Saxon' 'Scottish Rite' Tine'). Most Opus Dei members revere their founder. However, in her memoir, entitled 'Beyond the Threshhold: A Life in Opus Dei'[104], Tapia recalls an Escriva who was not at all as imagined by his fervent followers. On the contrary, 'the Founder', in her experience, was dictatorial, and threw temper tantrums. The 'Deus' that is invoked in the organisation's title is not, on the evidence of the very balanced and credible exposure published by 'The Chicago Tribune' alone, and on the basis of a considerable portfolio of other recently published materials, the Lord God of Israel, Jesus Christ the Lord. The most damning expose is Maria Carmen's own calm testimony. On the contrary, Opus Dei is yet another of the multiple deceptions and creations of the Evil One, a component of The Order, that we can read about in the Book of Revelation (Chapter 12, verse 9): 'And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world'. Therefore, the Deus of Opus Dei is in fact, of course, Lucifer. Its name should read: 'Opus Luciferis'.

That this is the case, is definitively confirmed by Maria del Carmen Tapia, who, though in love with a fiance perfectly suited to her, made the fatal mistake of falling for the enticements of Opus Dei. Her unfortunate fiance told her sadly and pathetically, late in their relationship: 'If you were leaving me for another man, I would break his head, but what can I do to a God to whom I kneel every day?'

This was a poignant example of how the Evil One 'deceives the whole world'. This young man faced the loss of his beautiful potential bride because both of them were under the illusion that the sacrifice she was determined to make was for God, whereas she was being entrapped and brainwashed by the Great Deceiver. She spent years of her life coming to that realisation - although Catholics generally have a special problem on this score, because they remain entrapped within the cultural framework of their Church, which mastered the art of indoctrination millennia before any other organisation.

Sects require total detachment from family and friends - a feature which is replicated within modern intelligence communities, membership of which precludes normal outside friendships, since any such relationships are disturbed by suspicions and loyalties to the intelligence community rather than to the friend. Correspondence from the Opus Dei House to which Maria del Carmen was despatched was solely by letter, and all her letters were opened before leaving the premises, as was all incoming correspondence. Other characteristics of life among these particular 'Angels of Light' summarised by the unfortunate Maria del Carmen Tapia included the supremacy of communal life, the absence of any free time, an excessive workload, daily meditation and mortification, prohibition of all outside influences such as music, TV and film, radio, newspapers and magazines, a requirement that Opus Dei and the Father - meaning Escriva, of course, not God - are always the primary topics of conversation, and the sole 'goals'; insistence that one's only family is Opus Dei; and a requirement to love the Father - Escriva, not God - more than one's own parents. This of course is a direct and blasphemous usurpation of the comparable teaching of Jesus Christ. In other words, Opus Dei, as described by Maria del Carmen Tapia, is one massive posthumous ego trip for yet another disciple of Lucifer, another False Christ - the late Monsignor Jose Maria Escriva. She wrote:

'One facet of Opus Dei's brainwashing was to make its members believe that Opus Dei is perfect because it came from God and that every pronouncement of the Founder was by God's divine inspiration. This was emphasized from the start at the center of studies and in the courses of formation. As in a musical theme, the note was given by the first violin, Monsignor Escrivi; repeated immediately by the second violins, the Opus Dei Superiors; and followed by the string and percussion instruments, called fraternal chat, circles of study, days of recollection, spiritual retreats, fraternal correction, and so through all forms of indoctrination that Opus Dei has at its disposal. The indoctrination that we received did not allow us to reflect analytically on anything that we were unable to understand. Any critical thought was an indication of lack of unity and a lack of "good spirit", which we had to report in our weekly chat as a negative moment in our spiritual life'[105]. These restrictions and distortions of truth, of course, precisely mimic those applied for centuries by the Jesuits to sustain control over their dupes.

A milder form of espionage than the oppressive Jesuit system prevails within the Opus Dei network, but the sect displays the same sexual obsessions as the Jesuits: for instance, no woman of any age in an Opus Dei residence may discuss spiritual matters with Opus Dei priests outside the Confessional. 'If, for any reason, a priest has to speak to a woman in a parlour, the door must remain wide open'[106]. Writing obviously from the female perspective, Maria del Carmen described how young female Novices were trapped into giving up their sexuality, and how they behaved in the context of the deviant teaching of Escriva concerning the denial of such a crucial component of their humanity: 'Some (girls) who had joined Opus Dei at a very young age reacted to Monsignor Escriva's words often repeated in meditations: "We have to love Jesus Christ with our heart of flesh", unleashing their repressed sexuality as they kissed the wooden cross in the oratory. That, in my judgment, was more dangerous than having had normal relationships with a young man'[107].

THE ANGEL OF LIGHT TRANSFORMED INTO A RAGING DEMON

The true nature of this tyrannical 'Angel of Light', Escriva, was perhaps most succinctly described by Maria del Carmen Tapia in the following dreadful narrative:

'I entered [the sessions room of the Central Government]. Monsignor Escriva was standing and visibly irate, Father Javia Echevarria and Father Francisco Vives were both on his left, both looking very stern. At the Father's right was the Central Directress, Merceded Morado, the physician, Maria Jesus de Mer, and the Prefect of Studies, Marlies Kiicking. All of them looked furious. I felt terrified at the scene. The interview went as follows:

"'These people have told me", Monsignor Escriva said, pointing his finger at the Central Directress and the other two advisors present, "that you have received the news that you are not going back to Venezuela with hysteria and tears". Beside himself, he shouted at me: "Very bad spirit! You are not going back to Venezuela, because your work has been individualistic and bad! And you have murmured against my documents! Against my documents, you have murmured!"'

'His anger affected his breathing, and he held his clenched fist close to my face. "This is serious! Serious! Serious! I admonish you canonically. Let it be so recorded", he said, directing his words towards Javier Echevarria, who, I insist, had no position whatsoever in the women's Central Government. "The next time", continued Monsignor Escriva, "you are out! Always complications since 1948! You and that other one! Now you come to me with this! And don't cry, because your trouble is that you are proud, proud, proud...". Repeating these words, he went through the chalice room, towards the major sacristy. I stood frozen. I did not budge. The Central Directress said angrily: 'What unpleasantness you are causing the Father!"'

However Maria del Carmen had evidently still not then understood that the best thing that could possibly have happened to her would have been to have been dismissed from Opus Dei then and there - a denouement which was to await her later. But before her final release, she went through several manifestations of absolute hell. For instance, between November 1965 and March 1966, T was held completely deprived of any outside contact, with the absolute prohibition to go out for any reason or to receive or make telephone calls, or to write or receive letters. Nor could I go out for the so-called weekly walk or the monthly excursion. I was a prisoner'[108].

The manner in which lies hide within lies in this mad world of Illuminati-linked sects masquerading as God's work was illustrated by Maria del Carmen when describing an occasion on which an enormous graven image of the Virgin Mary (a.k.a. the Queen of Heaven, proscribed in Jeremiah[109]) was scheduled to be blessed by Pope Paul VI:

'When we arrived at the chapel (in Rome), the huge marble statue of the Virgin occupied the middle of the nave. The Father arrived giving orders to the men about the placement of the Virgin or some such thing. The servants had learned that "for once" they had to applaud the Pope more than the Father (Escriva). The majority of the women who were going to communion wore white veils and were in the central nave. The Mass moved me deeply. Paul VI lauded Opus Dei and mentioned in the homily that he had worked in the neighbourhood as a priest. When he said that one of the tilings he praised most highly within Opus Dei was the "spirit of freedom", I rebelled and wanted to shout out loud: "Lies, Holy Father, lies!" I realized that the world press was there and that my shout in Italian would embarrass Opus Dei but felt that in the final analysis it would embarrass the Church. Although I tried not to cry, I wept uncontrollably, my Catholic loyalty being stronger than the oppression of my soul. I could not help but reflect bitterly, however, on the distorted information that the Work's Superiors must have given to the Holy Father'[110]. When the Lord made it clear that the whole world shall be deceived[111], he included the Pope, one of the arch-deceivers, as well. For those who live lies both recognise, and are deceived by, the lies of others.

Maria del Carmen was later subjected to a series of quite appalling interrogations. 'When I returned to my room after each interrogation, I observed that things kept disappearing. My overnight bag, my academic records, family pictures, addresses, and family dates. They went through everything. I found the closet in disorder, the bed, my pyjamas, even my toiletries such as face cream and toothpaste.... Furthermore, the telephone. .. was permanently watched by a member of the administration's local council. They did not allow me to do anything in the house, not even cleaning, or going to the dining room. I was confined to my bedroom. They brought me up a tray with my meals. I was completely sealed in.... I began to shake almost constantly as a result of my terror. I was afraid they would take me to a mental institution, as I knew they had done to other members of the Work'. Finally, Maria del Carmen was verbally abused again directly by the Angel of Light, Father Escriva, who invented a jumble of obscene lies which he proceeded to deliver in a torrent of rage out of his evil mouth.

As he dismissed her from Opus Dei, he exploded:

'"Don't talk with anybody about the Work nor about Rome. Don't set your parents against us, because, if I find out that you are saying anything negative about the Work to anybody, I, Jose Maria Escriva de Balaguer, have the world press in my hands", and as he said this, he made a gesture with his hands confirming the notion. "I will publicly dishonour you. Your name will appear on the front page of every newspaper, because I will personally see to it. It would bring dishonour on you before men and on your own family! Woe to you if you try to alienate your family from the good name of the Work or tell them anything about this!" He went on: "And don't return to Venezuela! Don't even think of writing to anybody there! Because if you even think of going to Venezuela' (where Maria del Carmen Tapio would be in a position to reveal the true nature of Opus Luciferis), T will assume the responsibility of telling the Cardinal what you are. And it would dishonour you!" Pacing the room, this 'man of God', this 'Angel of Light' continued, 'shouting at me: "I was thinking all night about whether to tell you this or not, but I believe it is better that I should tell you"'.

'Looking at me directly, with a dreadful rage, moving his arms towards me as if he was going to hit me, he added at the top of his voice: "You are a wicked woman! A lost woman! Mary Magdalen was a sinner, but you? You are a seductress with all your immorality and indecency! You are a seductress. I know everything. EVERYTHING! EVEN ABOUT THE VENEZUELAN NEGRO! You are abominable. YOU HAVE A WEAKNESS FOR BLACKS. First with one and then with the other. LEAVE MY PRIESTS ALONE! DO YOU HEAR? LEAVE THEM ALONE! In peace. Don't meddle with them! You're wicked! Wicked! Indecent! Come on, look at the business of the Negro! And don't ask for my blessing because I don't intend to give it to you!"'.

Monsignor Escriva, the 'man of God', that 'Angel of Light', went away towards the (pagan) Relics Chapel. From there he turned round to shout a final insult:

"Hear me well! WHORE! SOW!"'

It was, of course, at that instant, that the scales fell from the eyes of the 'Father's' former secretary, Maria del Carmen Tapia: 'I stood stock still, frozen to the spot. I saw and heard everything as if in a nightmare. I did not cry. I did not blink. Within me, while Monsignor Escriva shouted his insults, I had only two thoughts: one that Christ remained silent in the face of accusations; the other, that God had liberated me'[112].

OTHER NAZI 'ANGELS OF LIGHT' MASQUERADING UNDER THE 'JESUS LOGO'

Spreading out, this Author believes, from the precedents long since established by the Jesuits, and much later by Opus Dei, of exploiting the name of Jesus and/or God as a subtle nameplate, logo and cover for nefarious operations, other 'Angels of Light' have borrowed this idea - especially in the United States. Beneath the label of 'Jesus', Dark Actors can Play Games and conduct their evil activities while deluding themselves and others that they are actually doing good. In other words, Satan delivers a double-whammy by means of this deception device: first, the 'Jesus' or 'God' label or logo puts almost all observers off the scent, leaving private analysts such as the author of the 'Chicago Tribune' report, and this Author and his collaborators, to lift the veil from the deception, revealing the dark chaos inside the 'whited sepulchre'[113] exposed; and secondly, the Dark Actors adopting these labels are self-deluded into believing that their nefarious activities are hidden from view and exempt from eventual divine retribution. Those concerned may actually believe that God, in whom they profess, for public consumption at any rate, to believe, cannot see what they are up to[14], or else turns a blind eye to their evil acts, thanks to the 'cover' provided by the label reading 'Jesus' or 'God'.

The US intelligence analyst Wayne Madsen, though waging dialectical political warfare, has recently thrown important light on this further dimension of the 'Angels of Lighf phenomenon. In a report disseminated electronically in October 2005, he assembled evidence to demonstrate the existence of an organised US network of evildoers who, both individually and collectively, use 'Jesus' as cover for their scams and Luciferian activities. This research has exposed in particular the exploitation of the false 'Jesus' label as camouflage for Nazi-type attitudes and behaviour, as well as for organised criminal operations. Because the importance of the resulting insights can hardly be underestimated, this Author takes the liberty of appending herewith several pertinent paragraphs from Mr Madsen's exhaustive report (which goes into rather more detail than is necessary for the present analysis).

It identifies the existence of a dubious network calling itself The Fellowship, or The Family, and it identifies a central headquarters for this operation based, inevitably, in Arlington, Virginia, the central location of the US intelligence community. Both the network and the property in question, called The Cedars, are clearly operations of a branch of the vast US intelligence sector, which is more than cynical enough to seek to co-opt the name of Jesus for nefarious purposes. Specifically, Mr Madsen, whose work is considered generally to be of a high quality, even though it is 'inspired', explained:

'After several months of in-depth research and, at first, seemingly unrelated conversations with former high-level intelligence officials, lawyers, politicians, religious figures, other investigative journalists, and researchers, I can now report on a criminal conspiracy so vast and monstrous that it defies imagination. Using "Christian" groups as tax-exempt and cleverly camouflaged covers, wealthy right-wing businessmen and "clergy" have now assumed firm control over the biggest prize of all - the Government of the United States of America. But first, some housekeeping is in order. My use of the term "Christian" is merely to identify clearly the criminal conspirators who have chosen to misuse their self-avowed devotion to Jesus Christ in order to advance a very unchristian agenda. The term "Christian mafia"' [a contradiction in terms, of course - Ed] 'is what several Washington politicians have used to describe the major conspirators, and it is not intended to debase Christians or infer that they are criminals. I will also use the term Nazi - not for shock value - but to tag properly the political affiliations of the early founders of the so-called "Christian" power cult, which is called The Fellowship. The most important element of this story is that a destructive religious movement has now achieved almost total control over the machinery of government of the United States - its Executive Branch, its Legislature, several State Governments, and soon, the Federal Judiciary, including the U.S. Supreme Court'.

THE FELLOWSHIP' OR THE FAMILY' - A 'CHRISTIANAZI' ORGANISATION

'The United States has experienced religious and cult hucksters throughout its history, from Cotton Mather and his Salem witch-burners, to Billy Sunday, Father Charles Coughlin, Charles Manson, Jim Jones, David Koresh, Marshall Applewhite, and others. But none have ever achieved the kind of power now possessed by a powerful and secretive group of conservative politicians and wealthy businessmen in the United States and abroad, who are known among their adherents and friends as The Fellowship, or The Family. The Fellowship and its predecessor organizations have used Jesus in the same way that McDonald's uses golden arches [M - the occultic 13th letter of the alphabet -Ed] and Coca Cola uses its stylized script lettering. Jesus is a logo and a slogan for The Fellowship. Jesus is used to justify The Fellowship's access to the highest levels of government and business, in the same way that Santa Claus' [Satan Claws - Ed.] 'entices children into department stores and malls during the Christmas shopping season'.

"The Fellowship', Wayne Madsen has established, 'has been around under various names since 1935' - that is to say, since the consolidation of Nazi (occult, Illuminati) power in Germany, a factor that gives us a clue as to the pertinence of Mr Madsen's findings. 'Its stealth existence has been perpetuated by its organization into small cells, a pyramid organization of "correspondents", "associates", "friends", "members", and "core members", tax-exempt status for its foundations, and its protection by the highest echelons of our own Government and those abroad'.

The roots of this network calling itself The Fellowship, Madsen has established, 'go back to the 1930s and to a Norwegian immigrant and Jewish Methodist Minister named Abraham Vereide. According to Fellowship archives maintained at the Billy Graham Center at Wheaton College in Illinois' [Billy Graham being a 33rd Degree Freemason -Ed], Vereide, who immigrated to the United States from Norway in 1905, began an 'outreach ministry' in Seattle in April 1935. But his religious outreach involved nothing more than pushing for an anti-Communist, anti-trade union, anti-Socialist, and pro-Nazi German political agenda. A loose organization and secrecy were paramount for Vereide.

Fellowship archives state that Vereide wanted his movement to "carry out its objective through personal, trusting, informal, unpublicized contact between people". Vereide's establishment of his Prayer Breakfast Movement for anti-Socialist and anti-International Workers of the World (IWW or "Wobblies") [targeting] Seattle businessmen in 1935, coincided with the establishment of another pro-Nazi German organization in the United States, the German-American Bund. Vereide saw his prayer movement replacing labor unions'. This operation had all the hallmarks of a German Abwehr (secret Nazi Intelligence) influence-building offensive, which is exactly what it was, and is.

'As a student of the un-Christian' [sic!] 'German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche, Vereide's thoughts about a unitary religion based upon an unyielding subservience to a composite notion of "Jesus", put him into the same category as many of the German nationalist philosophers who were favoured by Hitler and the Nazis. Nietzsche wrote the following of Christianity: "When we hear the ancient bells growling on a Sunday morning we ask ourselves: Is it really possible! This, for a Jew, crucified two thousand years ago, who said he was God's son? The proof of such a claim is lacking"'.

'One philosophical fellow-traveller of Vereide was the German Nazi philosopher Martin Heidegger, a colleague of Leo Strauss, the father of American neo-conservatism and the mentor of such present-day American neo-conservatives as Richard Perle and Paul Wolfowitz. Strauss's close association with Heidegger and the Nazi idea of telling the big lie in order to justify end-goals - Machiavellianism on steroids - did not help Strauss in Nazi Germany. Because he was Jewish, he was forced to emigrate to the United States, where he eventually began teaching neo-conservative political science at the University of Chicago. It is this confluence of right-wing philosophies that provides a political bridge between [so-called] modern-day Christian Rightists (including so-called Christian Zionists, a wing of The Fellowship, based in Arlington, Virginia) and the secular-oriented neo-conservatives who support a policy that sees a US-Israeli alliance against Islam and European-oriented democratic socialism'.

'For the dominion theologists, the United States is the new Israel, with a God-given mandate to establish dominion over the entire planet. Neither the secular neo-conservatives nor the Christian fundamentalists seem to have a problem with the idea of American domination of the planet, as witnessed by the presence of representatives of both camps as supporters of the neo-conservative Project for a New American Century, the neo-conservative blueprint for America's attack on Iraq and plans to attack, occupy, and dominate other countries that oppose US designs'.

Here, Wayne Madsen has alluded, perhaps unwittingly, to the central finding of this book - namely, that German secret intelligence has leveraged the occult heritage of Bavaria and Prussia, and its hijacking of the Illuminati, in pursuit of Germany's own secret global hegemony objectives, exploiting America's 'destiny' as the enforcement arm of the Illuminati. Global hegemony is the primary motivation behind all German covert operations - including its hyperactivism in respect of occult initiatives.

From the perspective of German secret intelligence, 'Jesus' can be used (as under Hitler) as justification for deployment of the 'iron fist' and the perpetration of atrocities.

Discarding all the cloaks behind which the offensive against mankind is being waged, we find two primary conspirators: German Nazis and the Jewish Zionists, both of which powers 'agree' and are of one mind - so much so that the Zionists were content for Hitler's Black Illuminati regime to sacrifice millions of Jews for geostrategic objectives. After all, both parties are united in their visceral hatred of Jesus Christ.

Thus Eichmann, a Jew, was engaged in organising the transportation of Sephardic Jews to Palestine, in an ethnic cleansing operation designed along eugenical lines to ensure the 'purity' of the gene quality of the population of the intended State of Israel. Since Zionism and Nazism 'agree', and given the Zeitgeist of the period, we need not be surprised at the double-mindedness of Jewish Illuminists who were in fact playing with fire by collaborating with the millennial 'Gentile' Forces of Darkness emanating from the Black Forest and from the bleak plains and dark woods of Northern Germany.

According to Madsen, 'what bound all so-called "America First" Movements prior to World War II was their common hatred for labor unions, Communists and Socialists, Jews, and most definitely, the administration of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Vereide's Prayer Breakfast Movement, pro-Nazi German groups like the Bund, and a resurgent Ku Klux Klan (KKK), had more than propaganda in common: they had an interlocking leadership and a coordinated political agenda'.

'Not only was Vereide pro-Hitler, he was the only Norwegian of note, who was not officially a Nazi, who never condemned the Norwegian Nazi leader Vidkun Quisling a man whose name has become synonymous with the word traitor and who was executed in 1945. Vereide and Quisling were almost the same age; Vereide was born in 1886, Quisling in 1887. They both shared a link with the clergy, Vereide was a Methodist Minister and Quisling was the son of a Lutheran Minister' - further instances of Dark Forces emerging from ecclesiastical quarters.

MORAL RE-ARMAMENT LEADER THANKED HEAVEN FOR ADOLF HITLER

'Another pro-Nazi 'Christian' fundamentalist group that arose in the pre-Second World War years was the Moral Re-armament Movement (MRA). Its leader was Frank Buchman, a Lutheran minister from Philadelphia. Buchman was a pacifist, but not just any pacifist. He and his colleagues in the United States, Britain, Norway, and South Africa reasoned that war could be avoided if the world would just accept the rise of Hitler and National Socialism, and concentrate on stamping out Communism and Socialism. Buchman coordinated his activities with Vereide and his Prayer Breakfast Movement, which, by 1940, had spread its anti-left manifesto and agenda throughout the Pacific Northwesf. Buchman seems to have had no understanding of the dialectic.

'Buchman was effusive in his praise for Hitler. He was quoted by William A. H. Birnie of The New York World Telegram', as having stated: "I thank Heaven for a man like Adolf Hitler, who built a front line of defense against the anti-Christ of Communism"[115]. Frank Buchman also secretly met with Heinrich Himmler, the head of the Gestapo and controller of the concentration camps. Buchman was at Himmler's side at the 1935 Nazi Party rally in Nuremberg and again at the 1936 Berlin Olympics. The predecessor of Buchman's Moral Re-armament Group, the Oxford Group, included Moslems, Buddhists, and Hindus. Buchman and Hitler both saw the creation of a one-world religion based largely on Teutonic, Aryan, and other pagan traditions mixed with elements of Christianity[116]. Buchman saw Islam, Buddhism, and Hinduism as being compatible with his brand of Christianity' [a total aberration, of course, since no 'religion' is compatible with True Christianity, including modern Judaism: such notions are routinely generated by individuals and intelligence operatives who are knowingly ignorant of Scripture and who refrain from reading it, since they sense that if they were to do so, they would be compelled to abandon their fanciful inventions - Ed.]. 'Hitler, too, had an affectation for Islam and Buddhism, as witnessed by his support for the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, the anti-British Muslim Brotherhood, and Tibetan Buddhists. But Frank Buchman had no sympathy at all for the Jews whom Hitler was persecuting. Thus Buchman told Mr Birnie: "Of course, I don't condone everything the Nazis do. Anti-Semitism? Bad, naturally. I suppose Hitler sees a Karl Marx in every Jew"'.

Such global ecumenicalism is a founding principle for today's Fellowship. With total devotion to 'Jesus' but not necessarily [to put it mildly - Ed.] to His principles at its core, The Fellowship continues to reach out to Moslems (including to Saudi extreme Wahhabi sect members), Buddhists, and Hindus. Its purpose has little to do with religion but everything to do with political and economic influence-peddling and the reconstruction of the world in preparation for a thousand-year Christian global dominion'. In the light of this book's principal finding, this Author must elaborate Wayne Madsen's insight here, so that it reads The Thousand-Year Reich', as proclaimed by the 'Madrid Circular Letter' distributed by the Nazi International from Madrid, and intercepted by the Allies, as explained in Chapter 8: and this connection is indeed made by the Author in what follows. Christianity? Forgeddaboudit. This is an operation of secret German Black intelligence; and self-interested US participants in The Fellowship, which is controlled by the German (Nazi) cadre of the US intelligence community, need to wake up from their comfortable, complacent slumber before it is too late. They are dupes, 'Useful Idiots', exploitees in the hands of the Nazi International Continuum.

As Mr Madsen further explains, an ideology has been constructed around the 'Jesus' logo by these 'Angels of Light'. 'Post-millennialist Fellowship members believe that Jesus will not return until there is a 1,000-year 'pure' Christian Government established upon Earth. It is this mindset that has infused the [naive] foreign policy of George W. Bush and his Administration. The desire for a thousand-year political dominion of the world is not new. Hitler planned for a "Thousand-Year Reich", over the planet. It is not a coincidence that Hitler desired, and the so-called Christian Dominionists/recon-structionists now contemplate, a thousand-year reign. The Christian Dominionists are

Dr Robert Schuller and Mikhail Gorbachēv display the basic Masonic handshake, Pass Grip of Fellow Craft. Masonic sources indicate that the clasped hands symbol is a 'symbol of fidelity'. In the lowest Degree of Masonry, the candidate is told: 'The right hand, therefore, we Masonically use to dignify in the strongest manner possible the sincerity of our intentions in the business in which we are engaged'. But since, as Albert Pike himself acknowledges, the Blue Lodge Masons are all intentionally deceived, as the Devil is the author of lies, this averred sincerity is always false. In this picture, the Masons perform their Masonic handshake awkwardly for the benefit of Dr Schuller's TV cameras.

Figure 63: The reprobate allegedly false priest, Dr Robert H. Schuller, 33rd degree Freemason, the 'force' behind the Californian Crystal Cathedral, who has all but called himself 'Christ', displays a Masonic handshake with the 33rd Degree Freemason Mikhail Gorbachev, who appeared as Dr Schuller's special 'Hour of Power" guest on 22nd October 2000.

the political heirs of Hitler, the Norwegians Vereide and Quisling, Buchman, Opus Dei founder and Fascist patron saint Jose Maria Escriva, and their political and religious cohorts'. All of which is indisputable, and Mr Madsen has performed a unique service in bringing this material so succinctly together in one place; but this Author adds that these people are not so much 'heirs' to the Nazis, as part of the Nazi International Continuum, which is directed clandestinely from Dachau: see Chapter 8.

The 'Angel of Lighf Escriva is now effectively ensconsed on the so-called 'Throne of St Peter', assisted by his Opus Dei aide, Georg Ganswein. The Estermann murders were associated with an operation directed by the secret German Nazi Internationa] 'Black' intelligence service, hiding behind its handy STASI label, to penetrate and co-opt the Vatican's Swiss Guard corps for Opus Dei/Luciferis. Funds misdirected and scam-med from the giga-financing operation presided over by George H W Bush in 1989-92 were paid over inter alia to Opus Dei, in accordance with Illuminati priorities.

'Vereide and Buchman had important allies on Wall Street', Madsen elaborated. 'According to Marine Corps General Smedley Butler, shortly after Franklin Roosevelt was elected President in 1932, he was approached by a group of wealthy Republican industrialists to lead an anti-Roosevelt Fascist coup against the Government. As with today's Fellowship, Vereide and Buchman were merely front men for anti-Socialist big businesses who hid behind the facade of a Christian 'evangelical' movement'.

'The coup was to be financed mostly by the J. P. Morgan and Du Pont financial empires. General Butler, who had no time for these industrialists since his military forays into Central America and the Caribbean as a foot-soldier on behalf of wealthy capitalists, rejected their overtures. Gerald MacGuire, a Wall Street bond salesman and former Commander of the Connecticut American Legion, was the chief recruiter for the coup plot. Butler informed Congress of the plans for the putsch. However, Congress was owned by Wall Street, and no charges were ever brought against the plotters. Butler was incensed and went public; but he was dismissed as a conspiracy theorist [the usual resort of those who persist in sitting on their brains - Ed.]. Not until 1967, when journalist John Spivak uncovered a secret Congressional report, was Butler's version of the events validated. In the report of the Special Committee to Investigate Nazi Propaganda Activities in the United States, Representative Samuel Dickstein (D-NY) concluded that there was evidence of a coup plot by the right-wing against Roosevelt. However, much to Butler's chagrin, no criminal action was taken against the plotters'.

'Butler said MacGuire's plan was for Butler to force Roosevelt to declare he had become too sick from polio, and to create a powerful new Cabinet position, the Secretary of General Affairs, to run the Government on his behalf. The New Deal, which the US Fascists and Nazis referred to as the "Jew Deal", would have to be scrapped. A comparison between the Secretary of General Affairs and the present Secretary of Homeland Security is striking. If Roosevelt did not agree to the coup plotters' demand, half a million American Legion veterans would march on Washington to remove Roosevelt physically from office. But MacGuire decided that a perception management campaign [Psy-Ops - Ed.] would work, and that an armed force would not be required. He told Butler: "You know, the American people will swallow that. We have got the newspapers. We will start a campaign [to the effect] that the President's health is failing. Everyone can tell that just by looking at him, and the dumb American people will fall for it in a second...". Shortly after his testimony before the House Investigation Committee, Gerald MacGuire died of 'pneumonia' at the age of thirty-seven'.

THE CULTURE OF COUPS AND PLOTS - IMPORTED FROM GERMANY

'The perception management [Psy-Ops] campaign to foster the attempted right-wing coup against FDR was a harbinger of more ruses and lies that were to emerge from the same 'right-wing' elements in the United States: that the first Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal was suffering from mental illness when he threw himself out of the sixteenth storey of Bethesda Naval Hospital in 1949; that John F. Kennedy was killed by a lone, pro-Communist assassin; and that Iraq possessed weapons of mass destruction' [Author: It did, but the GRU removed them]. The coup plotters involved some of the biggest names in American business and politics, including Irenee Du Pont, of the wealthy chemical company family' (which has been reported to believe that it is descended from Pontius Pilate) 'and the founder of the pro-Fascist American Liberty League; the J. P. Morgan bank officials, Grayson Murphy and John Davis; General Douglas MacArthur; the old southern segregationist Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia; and, in what represented a sea-change for the extreme American right-wing, two influential Catholics, the former Democratic presidential candidate Al Smith, who had become very anti-Roosevelt, and John Raskob, a senior Du Pont official and a high-ranking member of the Catholic Knights of Malta' who are always involved in these conspiracies. 'The concordat between right-wing Protestants and Catholics presaged the later alliance between The Fellowship and the proto-Fascist Opus Dei movement'.

'Frank Buchman, who was also involved in creating the psychologically abusive Alcoholics Anonymous (which enticed many converts from booze to "Jesus", which was the course pursued by George W. Bush Jr., through Billy Graham), created an organization called First Century Christian Fellowship. In 1939, while preaching against life's extravagances, Buchman set up his headquarters in New York's extremely posh Waldorf-Astoria Hotel' (a place where, if one gives the cloakroom lady less than a $10 tip in exchange for handing over your coat, she holds out her hand and grimaces at it as though it was something unpleasant - Ed.). 'Buchman also found common cause with right-wing racist groups. In addition to his anti-Semitism, Buchman had no time at all for the civil rights movement. Like Vereide, he rejected women's suffrage and the trade unions. When the United States entered the war in December 1941, many of Moral Re-armament's leaders sought conscientious objector status in the draft, as "lay evangelists". As with today's fundamentalist Christians, Buchman was rejected by his fellow evangelicals and by mainstream religious leaders, including his old evangelical colleague Sam Shoemaker and Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, the leader of the United Lutheran Church in America, who called Mr Buchman's connection with Lutheranism "minimal". After Senator Harry S. Truman received the 1944 nomination for Vice President, he, too, dropped his past tenuous connections to Buchman. Reinhold Niebuhr, the famous theologian, and George Orwell, both labelled Buchman's Oxford Group and his successor Moral Re-armament Movement, as "Fascist"'. They specialised in 'mind games'.

'Meanwhile, Frank Buchman's co-ideologist, Vereide, made his first entree into the U.S. Congress. In 1942', Wayne Madsen recounts, 'he began to hold small and discreet prayer breakfasts for the U.S. House of Representatives. The next year, the Senate began holding Prayer Breakfast Meetings. Vereide's Prayer Breakfast Movement was formally incorporated as the National Committee for Christian Leadership (NCCL). Its headquarters were established in Chicago. In 1944, while Vereide's friends in Germany were being pummelled by the Allies, especially by the Soviet Red Army, NCCL changed its name to International Christian Leadership (ICL) - an indication that Vereide saw an immediate need to extend his influence abroad in the context of a certain Nazi defeat'. Given what we know about the operations of the Nazi International from 1942 onwards [see Chapter 8], the fact that Vereide's altered tactics coincided with the changed tactics and strategies of the Madrid-based German Geopolitical Centre, is significant.

Vereide also made plans to move his headquarters to Washington, DC 'In 1944, his first ICL Fellowship House was established in a private house at 6523 Massachusetts Avenue. In 1945, Vereide held his first joint Senate-House Prayer Breakfast Meeting. In 1945, Vereide quickly put together a group of powerful right-wingers for a prayer breakfast following the death of President Roosevelt, one of the US politicians that Vereide and Buchman had despised most. Roosevelt had not been a President who followed the dictates of "God's Will," a key Vereide and Buchman principle. At the breakfast were Senators H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), Lister Hill (D-AL), and the World Report publisher David Lawrence. Lawrence was an ardent foe of the New Deal'.

Madsen's analysis continued with details about the 'movement's' intrigues to procure hegemony within American official and political structures, to match the dominant position that was in the process of being established collectively by Nazi operatives and Himmlerian occultic scientists within the Central Intelligence Agency and in the universities. His analysis provided detailed corroboration of the pledges, contained in the 'Madrid Circular Letter' discussed in Chapter 8, that for the Nazi International, 'the war never ended' - and that the German secret globalists remained unswerving in their intention to establish the Thousand-Year Reich - namely, a millennium of GERMAN hegemony - upon the ruins of the United States. That remains the objective and focus of the Nazi International Continuum and of its secret 'Black' intelligence services, to this day.

Wayne Madsen's analysis is relentless in its exposure of the Nazi Continuum hiding behind its false 'Christian' facade: 'After the war, Vereide took steps to consolidate right-wing groups in Europe. His hated Communists and Socialists had taken over governments across Eastern Europe, and were on the verge of achieving power in Western Europe. Winston Churchill had been swept from power by a very leftist-oriented Labour Government headed by Clement Atlee. For the remnants of the Nazi movement in America, an "SOS" was being transmitted from Europe for assistance. Vereide travelled to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, France and Germany. His ICL made an alliance with the like-minded British Victory Fellowship in Great Britain. He also struck up a close relationship with the German Lutheran pastor Gustav Adolf Gedat. The German clergyman had been a leading anti-Semite before and during the war. In the same year that Vereide began his prayer breakfasts in Seattle, Gedat thundered from the pulpit that "God ordered the Germans to hunt down Jews"' - the 'god' in question bearing an uncanny resemblance, no doubt, to George W. Bush Jr's 'familiar'.

'Gedat became an apologist for top Nazi officials. But at the same time, he covered his tracks by actively disowning Nazi war criminals, such as the former UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, a personal friend of the current Republican Governor of California and fellow Austrian, Arnold Schwarzenegger. It should be noted that Schwarzenegger's father, Gustav Schwarzenegger, was a volunteer in the Nazi Sturmabteilung (SA), a.k.a. the Brown Shirts, in Austria, and served in the German Army'.

As a member of the West German Bundestag, Gedat brought about the cancellation at the Cannes Film Festival of the showing of a film concerning a family of Jewish refugees from Prague during the Nazi regime. 'At the same time', Wayne Madsen reported, 'Gedat was one of three of Mr Vereide's International Council for Christian Leadership (ICCL) representatives in Europe. The other two were also Nazis - Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands (who is married to Queen Juliana), and the German Prince, Max von Hohenlohe. This man' - from a prominent IUuminati family - 'served under SS chief Walter Schellenberg and, according to SS documents captured by the Soviets, Hohenlohe engaged in direct negotiations during the war with [the Abwehr agent] Allen Dulles of the OSS. Like Vereide and Buchman, Allen Dulles was a strong anti-Semite who saw Communism and Jews through the same lens'. Through the "Rat Line" programme operated by the OSS, then the CIA and the Vatican, such infamous Nazis as Klaus Barbie (the 'Butcher of Lyon'), the Nazi 'mad scientisf and butcher Dr. Joseph Mengele' (who remained active and served US intelligence for decades), 'the concentration camp vaccine 'tester' Kurt Blome, and SS Commander Adolf Eichmann, escaped from Europe to South America with the assistance of 'Angel of Light' collaborators in the Vatican.

During January 1947, Vereide sponsored the first Washington meeting of the International Council for Christian Leadership, welcoming, representatives from the United States, Canada, Britain, Norway, Hungary, Egypt and China. In 1949, Vereide sent Wallace Haines to represent International Christian Leadership (ICL) at a meeting of German Christians held at Castle Mainau in Switzerland. Haines later became Vereide's personal emissary to Europe. Haines was replaced in 1952 by the virulent Jewish anti-Communist Nazi, Karl Leyasmeyer.

THE 'PRAYER BREAKFAST' MOVEMENT ENTERS THE WHITE HOUSE

In 1953, Vereide 'made his first entree into the White House when President Dwight Eisenhower agreed to attend the first Presidential Prayer Breakfast. By that time, Vereide's Congressional core membership had expanded to include such Senators as Republicans Frank Carlson of Kansas and Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Both were virulent anti-Communists who established close ties with Vereide and his worldwide anti-Communist movement. Vereide also became very close to one of the US Senate's most ardent segregationists, Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the man who led the Dixiecrat revolt against the Democratic Party in 1948'. Thurmond, an Illuminist who lived to be over 100 years old, 'later became a key implementer of Vereide's strategy to evangelize poor Whites in the South. For Vereide, this initiative was intended to recruit converts to his peculiar brand of Christianity; for Thurmond, it would bring into the Republican Party former New Deal Democrats who saw their Party straying from segregation, and embracing civil rights. As for the United States, the strategy was calculated to bring a radical form of fundamental zealotry closer to taking control of the country'.

Wayne Madsen elaborated that 'Buchman, clearly wishing to obfuscate his pro-Nazi ties before the war, turned his attention towards Asia, particularly Korea. One Korean Presbyterian preacher, who took an interest in Buchman's Moral Re-Armament principles promoting a universal religion and total personal submission, was Yong Myung Mun from Korea. He later changed his name to Sun Myung Moon and, after being expelled from the Presbyterian Church for preaching heresy, he established a right-wing, strictly nominally Christian sect called the Unification Church'.

This 'Church' has nothing, in fact, to do with True Christianity, and is allegedly yet another apostate aberration serving the interests of questionable 'Angels of Lighf. Like Vereide and Buchman, Moon started spreading his influence globally. He was probably recruited by Buchman, an operative (of course). 'The Washington Times' is linked to these people and may be financed by South Korean intelligence (KCIA, i.e. by the CIA).

THE GLOBAL REACH OF THIS FALSE 'CHRISTIAN' NETWORK

By 1957, International Christian Leadership (ICL) had established 125 groups in 100 cities, with 16 groups operating in Washington, DC alone. 'Around the world, it had set up another 125 groups - in Canada, Britain, Germany, France, Northern Ireland, The Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Lebanon, Ethiopia (where Emperor Haile Selassie provided ICL with property in Addis Ababa on which to build its African headquarters), India, South Vietnam, Hong Kong, Taiwan, South Korea, Japan, Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Guatemala, Cuba, Costa Rica, Mexico, and Bermuda'. Given his alleged intelligence background, Mr Madsen does not state the glaringly obvious - which is that this nexus of operations was and remains a covert operation of international intelligence - 'Dark Actors Playing Games'. Id's international activities coincided with activities in countries where the CIA was particularly active - an obvious by-product of the close cooperation between Vereide and the CIA's (Abwehr penetration) Allen Dulles and James Jesus Angleton. Angleton and his close associate, Miles Copeland, favoured using private businessmen to conduct operations that the CIA was statutorily barred from undertaking' - this being one of the beginnings of the process of privatisation of US intelligence operations which has led to such disastrous botches and consequences. 'International Christian Leadership fitted the bill very nicely. And although The Fellowship despised homosexuals, that did not stop the [homosexual] FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, writing a prayer for Vereide'.

Nor does Mr Madsen omit the rather well-known Nazi associations of the Bush family. He notes that 'the grandfather of George W. Bush had witnessed the assets of Union Banking Corporation, on the board of which he served, seized after the beginning of the Second World War by U.S. Treasury agents. It turned out that Bush's bank was operated by Bush and his boss Averell Harriman on behalf of Nazi Germany. Prescott's father-in-law, George Herbert 'Berf Walker, also represented Nazi German interests through his Brown Brothers Harriman investment company and affiliated firms with names like American Shipping & Commerce, Harriman Fifteen Corporation, Holland American Trading Corporation, Seamless Steel Equipment Corporation, the Silesian-American Corporation, and Hamburg-Amerika Line, which were all tangled together in a circuitous spider's web [see Chapter 8]. These arrangements represented a collective blueprint for future Bush family/oil and intelligence enterprises involving election fraud, drug and weapons smuggling, and political assassinations'.

'Charles Lindbergh also had a run-in with the US Government. After being awarded the Service Cross of the German Eagle medal by Hermann Goering, Lindbergh, an ex-Army Air Force Colonel, was not permitted to have his commission as an officer restored - under direct orders from Roosevelt himself. Roosevelt always believed that Lindbergh was a Nazi. Lindbergh became an advocate for the United States avoiding war with Germany, through his activity with the America First Committee - yet another group sprung from the pro-Nazi 'right-wing' in America', Wayne Madsen explained, but actually an operation directly controlled by the Nazi International. According to Lindbergh's biographer, Laura Muha, Lindbergh said that he was suspicious of American Jews because of 'their large ownership and influence in our motion pictures, our press, our radio, and our Government'.

However the Nazi International's heirs and the Zionists 'agree'. Their ideology is identical, as the behaviour of the Likud Government in Israel testifies. Many leading Nazi Holocaust operatives were conspicuously Jewish.

WEARING THE 'JESUS' LABEL, MEMBERS CAN GAIN A FALSE RESPECTABILITY

With consummate skill, Wayne Madsen weaved in most of the 'big names' that have been causing such concern within the huge American 'underground', and internationally, as the aggressive, 'Amerika First' policies of the Bush Jr. Administration have unfolded. One of the subsidiary points he made was that the 'Jesus logo' provided operatives and politicians with more than just the cover they needed: it also enabled them to be 'forgiven for their transgressions because they had submitted to God (The Fellowship). A number of observers of The Fellowship claim that politicians love to get involved with the group because it is a way for them to escape accountability for their actions'.

Mr Madsen's inclusion of this 'advantage' tells us plainly that The Fellowship' is indeed a devilishly subtle control mechanism which has been tailored to suit the 'needs' of German secret Illuminati strategy by expert psychological operatives who, having studied Christianity, are exploiting its 'forgiveness' dimension for nefarious ends. Because members of The Fellowship know that they are liable to be 'forgiven' for any slip-ups or misdeeds, and because few of these people are True Christians (by which is meant, that they read Scripture seriously every day and take Communion), they accept membership with the subliminal knowledge that their fellows can be relied upon to 'forgive' (that is, overlook) any behaviour which falls short of the supposed ideas for which The Fellowship purports to stand. For instance, President George Bush Sr. 'reportedly held a special prayer with El Salvador's President [Alfredo] Cristiani and the death squad leader d'Aubuisson, in a side room at a National Prayer Breakfast'.

Inroads have also been made at US universities, through the related 'Campus Crusade for Christ' (CCC), and within the US military through offshoot entities known as the 'Officers' Christian Fellowship' (OFC), and the 'Christian Military Fellowship' (CMF) among enlisted ranks. The international arm is known as the 'Association of Military Christian Fellowships' (AMCF). A well-publicised incidence of this crude confusion of good with evil was a statement in 2003 at a Baptist church in Daytona Beach, Florida, by US Army Lieutenant General William 'Jerry' Boykin, head of the special intelligence branch serving the US Secretary of Defense, Donald Rumsfeld, that the United States is a 'Christian nation' and that, referring to a Somali warlord, 'I knew that my God was bigger than his. I knew that my God was a real God and his was an idol'.

'Shortly afterwards', Wayne Madsen writes, 'Boykin's intelligence branch was discovered to have been involved with the sexual molestation and torture of prisoners in Iraq, Afghanistan and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. The sexual molestation of prisoners included male and female teens being held in Iraq'. The OCF operates 'chapters' at locations such as Fort Leavensworth, Kansas, 'the home of the US military's disciplinary barracks and a prime recruiting and mentoring centre for Fellowship members'. It is clear from Mr Madsen's account that 'Christianity' is used for mental management and internal military psychological manipulation purposes. That would be entirely consistent with the 'Heart of Darkness' characteristic of the US intelligence community.

And according to Jeff Sharlet, of the Center for Religion and Media at New York University, writing in Harper's in 2003, internationally the objective of The Fellowship's separate, aggressive 'Youth Corps' is 'to groom young leaders for future positions of leadership in countries around the world'. Sharlet wrote that its target is '"two hundred national and international world leaders bound together relationally by a mutual love for God and the family"'. In Fellowship-speak, the "family" is synonymous with 'The Fellowship', so this statement has a double meaning, typical of the Illuminati.

FRENETIC GOINGS-ON AT 'THE CEDARS', ARLINGTON • CALLING EVIL GOOD

The Fellowship is based at a property, now closely guarded, in Arlington called The Cedars, adjacent to which are two further 'group homes' (dormitories) called Ivanwald (a group home for men) and Potomac Point (a group home for women). Local groups have complained of 'certain VIP limousines constantly speeding through this quiet and residential neighbourhood in North Arlington'. One neighbour has observed that some 80 limousine trips are made to The Cedars per week. A US State Department bus transports foreign and US diplomats to and from The Cedars for what is referred to as an 'Ambassadors' Breakfast' held every Tuesday morning from 7.30 am to 9.30 am, and more limousines arrive at The Cedars every Sunday for another meeting.

Perhaps its importance as an international rendezvous point is why several miles of fibre optic cables have been installed at The Cedars by Verizon and Comcast. 'In one instance', added Madsen, 'The Fellowship requested permission to build an 'underground chapel' on The Cedars premises. Although the facility was never built, neighbors suspected that it was a bomb shelter'. Whether invitees at The Cedars undergo any mind-bending treatment at this facility is so far unknown: in the United Kingdom, a subversive organisation calling itself 'Common Cause', which has links with an office at the centre of government in Whitehall, is reported to be geared to the transformation of the mental attitudes of its targets within the space of 48 hours, using input traceable to the sinister Tavistock Institute. It was reported in October 2005 to have 84,000 members across the United Kingdom and was alleged to be involved in manipulative and corrupt activities in many sectors. A parallel organisation of the same name in the United States purports to be tracking corruption, but has a concealed agenda as well. The widespread infestation of both the British and the American political and social systems by such clandestine influence-building, mind-control and false-flag intelligence operations is a matter for the gravest concern - given the hegemony of the intelligence communities, which are both out of control and in control in both countries.

Quite apart from any other consideration, given the interpenetration of intelligence communities with cadres and operatives having loyalties to one or more foreign powers, such networks, including the extremely sinister 'Jesus logo' networks which provide cover for Nazi-derived attitudes and for corrupt relationships and transactions, are being leveraged as platforms for deep penetration and subversion operations

Summing up the general ethos of the networks of 'Angels of Lighf that he had identified', Wayne Madsen concluded that The Fellowship is an organisation where 'people smile, talk about their commitment to "Jesus", and engage in backroom shady deals', while enjoying 'fellowship' with kingmakers and assassins'. This Author was surprised when a dangerous US intelligence officer offered him various 'Christian blessings'. Making due allowance for the likelihood that Mr Madsen is unsympathetic to 'right-wing' politics, the central point he makes is that 'Jesus' is being exploited by The Fellowship, which is an intelligence operation, for entirely cynical, worldly, and usually nefarious reasons. This practice, as has been seen in this Chapter, is nothing new: it began in Jerusalem and Rome in the First Century AD, and it was elaborated, for instance, by the Jesuits and Opus Dei, to name only two of the most conspicuous perpetrators of such Satanic deception. And for those who do not understand that the labels 'left-wing' and 'right-wing' mask the 'phanes' or 'forces' that the Illuminati and the geo-masonic fraternity believe they can, and possess a right to, manipulate, the existence of a global movement of 'Christians' may seem perfectly acceptable.

But like all other 'Angels of Light', members of The Fellowship are deceiving themselves and everyone else. Those who are not deceived, of course, are the manipulators - who, since this organisation is based in Arlington, can only be elements of the Central Intelligence Agency. True to the 100% cynicism which characterises intelligence communities everywhere, the CIA operatives running this now massive network are cynically exploiting 'Christianity' for political, intelligence and strategic purposes - just as other branches of the same Octopus have for decades been building upon the Works of Darkness inherited and imported from Himmler's scientific death camp experimental operations, and seeking to leverage mind-bending and personality-modification programmes, drugs and the occult for the same purposes.

For, so far as the Illuminati manipulators are concerned, 'Christianity' is just another, extremely promising, instrument for the fulfilment of their global hegemony project Hitler's Nazis cynically exploited 'Christianity' in exactly the same manner.

The obvious scriptural riposte for these people is repeated. It appears in Isaiah, Chapter 5, verses 20 and 21: 'Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!'. ■

Chapter 6: THE ANGELS OF LIGHT: Notes and references

1. The Apostle Paul, writing his Second Epistle to the Corinthians in around AD 60, was alarmed that the flock he had preached to some years earlier, had been suborned and corrupted by false priests, 'preaching another Jesus whom we have not preached'... or 'another spirit which ye have not received, or another gospel, which ye have not accepted': Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 11, verse 4.
2. 'Lest, by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtlety... your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ': Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 11, verse 3.
3. 'False apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ': Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 11, verse 13. Jeremiah, whom the Lord mentioned (indicating the great importance he attached to that most glorious of Old Testament prophets) had provided Paul with many precedents for this insight. For example: 'Many pastors have destroyed my vineyard, they have trodden my portion under foot, they have made my pleasant portion a desolate wilderness. They have made it desolate, and being desolate, it mourneth unto me': Jeremiah, Chapter 12, verses 10-11. The spiritual captivity of the wayward children of Israel is mourned by the Lord through Jeremiah: 'My soul shall weep in secret places for your pride; and mine eye shall weep sore, and run down with tears, because the Lord's flock is carried away captive': Jeremiah, Chapter 13. verse 17.
4. 'And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works': Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 11, verses 14-15. See Jeremiah, Chapter 14, verses 14-15: Then the Lord said unto me, The prophets prophesy in my name: I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spake I unto them: they prophesy unto you a false vision and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their heart.... By sword and famine (metaphorically - Ed.) shall those prophets be consumed'. In other words, quite obviously, there is nothing new about false prophets - as anyone contemplating the utterly abysmal and abominable condition of the decadent Church of England, headed by the Archdruid of Canterbury, can clearly observe.
5. Revelation, Chapter 13, verse 18: 'Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is: Six hundred threescore and six'. See also: 1 Kings, Chapter 10, verse 14; 2 Chronicles, Chapter 9, verse 13: 'Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold'. See box, page 347.
6. Modern attempts to replicate the Pythagorean-Kabbalistic numerical value of a word flounder on the problem that only words of Greek or Hebrew derivation can be successfully analysed by this method, and all words to be analysed must be spelled in their most ancient and complete forms. Therefore, Old Testament words and names must be translated back into the early Hebrew characters, and New Testament words into the Greek. The original Pythagorean system of numerical philosophy contains nothing to justify the practice in vogue today of changing the given name or surname in the hope of improving the temperament or financial condition by alteration of the name vibrations. The system of 'Kabbalistic' calculation in vogue for the English language has no relationship to the Hebrew Kabbalistic system or to the Greek procedure. The fact that Pythagoras used 10 as the basis of calculation, whereas the modern system uses 9, an imperfect number, is in itself almost conclusive. Furthermore, the arrangement of the Greek and Hebrew letters does not agree closely enough with the English to permit the application of the number sequences of one language to the number sequences of the others. Under the prevailing fake Kabbalistic system, the letters A-I are numbered 1-9, J-R 1-9 x 10, and S-Z 1-8 x 100. Using this system one cannot replicate the fact that in Greek, LATEINOS devolves to 666. Manly P. Hall states in his rare work (op. cit.) that 'the number of the beast (666) is an interesting example of the use of Qabbalism in the New Testament and among early Christian mystics'. The four separate Greek names given by Irenaeus (pupil of Polycarp, who was a pupil of John) as meaning Antichrist 'all have 666 as their numerical equivalent'. Remarkably, too the Greek term that signifies the lower mind has 666 as its Kabbalistic numerical equivalent
7. Halley's Bible Handbook, Zondervan, Grand Rapids, Michigan, USA, page 726, Note on 666, the Number of the Beast. The Author is certain that this interpretation is correct, not least since, contrary to the mistaken assessments of many, all such prophetic allusions in Scripture are of a spiritual nature. This also, applies, for instance, to the identity of the four kingdoms referred to in Daniel, Chapter 8. The Beast-Lamb is John's inspired description of Satan clothed as an 'Angel of Light', and masquerading as 'the Vicar of Christ' when in fact it is the Pope himself who is worshipped and obeyed: he stands in the place of Christ, and accordingly it is no surprise that, through the centuries, the Catholic Church has seen to it that the people receive their 'spiritual instruction' from priests, which means that the instruction is filtered: they have been largely prevented or discouraged from reading Scripture, lest they see through the deception and understand the truth. A Catholic will always say he or she is Catholic, whereas he or she should say that he or she is a follower of Christ (not the Pope) - that is, a Christian. A study of the Catechism shows that it diverges sharply from the true scriptural Word of God through Jesus Christ. Moreover it is unfortunately the case that sincere Catholic priests and other 'religious' people insert make-believe and fables into their accounts of Christ's life. For instance, the Author has a tape in which a very worthy and devoted Catholic religious inserts as 'fact' the illusion that Mary Magdalene delayed at the tomb and 'took' the shroud (= the Turin shroud!) in which Jesus had been wrapped, from the tomb, back to John's home, where Mary, the mother of Jesus, had been received, in accordance with one of Jesus' last words on the cross. This gross lie, uttered in all sincerity, was intended to 'join up' the awkward fact that the Turin shroud (ostensibly carrying a 'photographic' image of Jesus Christ) suddenly 'appeared' in the Middle Ages and has been revered as a 'relic' by naive Catholics ever since. The cloth has been scientifically examined and found to be of mediaeval date. But more to the point, if it had been 'necessary' for us to know what Jesus looked like, we would have been provided with this information from the outset. The idea that it became available to humanity only in the Middle Ages is preposterous rubbish. This is a prize example of what Paul meant when he wrote, in the Second Epistle to Timothy, Chapter 4, verses 3 and 4: 'For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables'. The True Christian is able to discern and to discard the fables, knowing the purity of the truth.

8. See Note 4 above,

9. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 26, verse 26.

10. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 26, verse 18.

11. Encyclopaedia Britannica, Ninth Edition, Article on the Jesuits; see also Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pp. 308 et seq.

12. Why do ye not understand my speech? Even because ye cannot hear my word. Ye are of your father the Devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he is a liar, and the father of it... He that is of God heareth God''s words; ye therefore hear them not because ye are not of God': John, Chapter 8, verses 43-44 and 47.

13. When the Mason learns that the key to the warrior on the block is the proper application of the dynamo of living power, he has learned the mystery of his [witch]Craft. The seething energies of Lucifer are in his hands and before he may step onward and upward, he must prove his ability to properly apply energy': Manly P. Hall, 'The Lost keys of Freemasonry', Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Co., Inc., Richmond, VA, originally published in 1923; 1976, p. 48.

14. Albert Pike, Morals and Dogma, op. cit, page 321.

15.Schaff-Herzog, The Encyclopaedia of Religious Knowledge', article on the Jesuits; and Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 314 et seq.

16. 'Honour thy father and thy mother', Exodus, Chapter 20, verse 4.

17. The words of Jesus in Luke, Chapter 12, verse 10.

18. 'Render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's', Matthew, Chapter 22, verse 21; Mark, Chapter 12, verse 17: 'And Jesus answering said unto them, Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. And they marvelled at him'; Luke. Chapter 20, verses 25-26: 'And he said unto them, render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's. And they could not take hold of his words before the people; and they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace'. The fact that these words appear three times in the gospels is indicative of their importance. At the crucifixion, the multitude lied to Pilate, saying that Jesus had taught that tribute should NOT be paid to Caesar. This is revealed in Luke, Chapter 23, verses 1-2: 'And the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate. And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow perverting the nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar[1].

19. 'Secret Societies of all Ages and Countries', Volume II, page 302, Charles William Heckethorn, reported and cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit, pages 371-318.

20. 'For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many': Mark, Chapter 13, verse 6.

21. 'For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall show signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect': Mark, Chapter 13, verse 22.

22. 'And he said. Take heed that ye be not deceived: for many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and the time draweth near: go ye not therefore after them': Luke, Chapter 27, verse 8.

23. The Sunday Times, London, 18th September 2005, page 7.

24. Samuels, Memoirs of Moses Mendelssohn, page 159, Appendix. Longman & co; cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit., page 371. Note that this original source was Jewish.

25. J. A. Moehlen, 'Symbolism', translated by James Robertson, pages 34-36, Introduction; cited by Lady Queenborough, op. cit., page 372.

26. The Queen of Heaven is the pagan goddess Astarte, and is condemned in Jeremiah, Chapter 7, verses 17-19: 'Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? The children gather wood, and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead their dough, to make cakes to the Queen of Heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me to anger. Do they provoke me to anger? Said the Lord: do they not provoke themselves to the confusion of their own faces?' See Jeremiah, Chapter 44, for the denouement, wherein the element of the remnant of Judah who have been displaced by the Babylonian invasion decided that they will go down to Egypt (metaphor for the Darkness) and will defy Jeremiah's warnings, even though he informs them that they will be destroyed (spiritually as well as physically, if they do so). In Jeremiah, Chapter 44, verses 17-19, they defiantly answer Jeremiah as follows: 'But we will certainly do whatever thing goeth forth out of our own mouth, to burn incense unto the Queen of Heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto her, as we have done, we, and our fathers, our kings, and our princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: for then we had plenty of victuals, and were well, and saw no evil. But since we left off to burn incense to the Queen of Heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto her, we have wanted all things, and have been consumed by the sword and the famine. And when we burned incense to the Queen of Heaven, and poured out drink offerings unto her, did we make her cakes to worship her, and pour out drink offerings to her, without our men?' However the Jews in question perversely failed to take on board that Jerusalem and their homeland had been overthrown precisely in response to their reprobate behaviour in worshipping false gods (demons) for many generations. There was no abomination of the heathen by whom they were surrounded that they did not adopt, including sacrificing their children to the hideous god-demon Moloch (post-natal contraception). 27. 'The Jesuits: The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church', Malachi Martin, The Linden Press/Simon and Schuster, New York, 1987, pages 79-94.

28. By which Jesus meant that the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against faith in Him. This has been perverted and distorted by the Catholic Church, which erroneously asserts that the Lord meant that the Gates of Hell would not prevail against the Papacy. The interpretation is illegitimate and is a distortion of the truth of the matter, which is obvious by considering the context. Hence the Author will cite the source in its context, from Matthew, Chapter 16, verses 15-19: 'He saith unto them [the disciples], But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ [the Anointed One], the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon bar-Jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in Heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against it'. The Greek word PETRA meant rock, the rock being that of Peter's extraordinary faith, expressed when he proclaimed, through the Holy Spirit: Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God'. The Gates of Hell shall not prevail against faith in Jesus Christ, who is God and Lord of all - and the ONLY name to which Evil Spirit responds in exorcism (a fact of profound importance and which provides proof of the existence of God as revealed through Jesus Christ. It is also a fact of which the devils are well aware: cf Acts, Chapter 19, verses 13-17, in which the seven sons of Sceva, Chief of the priests, tried to exorcise demons by calling upon the name of Jesus without any repentance of their sorcery on their part: Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took upon them[selves] to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth. And there were seven sons of one Sceva, a Jew, and chief of the priests, which did so. And the evil spirit answered and said, Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye? And the man in whom the evil spirit was, leaped on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified'. 29. 'The Jesuits: The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church', Malachi Martin, The Linden Press/Simon and Schuster, New York, 1987, op. cit.

30. An echo of Paul's advice in Second Corinthians, Chapter 6, verse 17: Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you'. Also: Jeremiah, chapter 50, verse 8: 'Remove out of the midst of Babylon, and go forth out of the land of the Chaldeans'; and Isaiah, Chapter 48, 20: 'Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth: say ye, the Lord hath redeemed his servant Jacob'. In Scripture, much eternal spiritual truth is revealed through historical events and situations. Here, Babylon is literally the ancient regional centre of occultic sorcery to where many of the children of Israel were exiled, and from where they re-acquired habits of sorcery with which their fathers had been familiar in the land of darkness (Egypt), and among the pagan tribes surrounding them in Caanan. The call in Second Corinthians and Revelation for us to 'come out of her' and to be separated from the Workers of Darkness, in order to be eligible for salvation, is pertinent to those entrapped in 'Orders' and false religious organisations masquerading as purporting to teach the Word of God but in reality teaching only 'the commandments and doctrines of men' [see Colossians, Chapter 2, verse 22]. The objective of the Illuminati is to procure the renewed hegemony of 'Babylon', a.k.a. the 'Ancient Mysteries'.

31. 'The Jesuits: The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church', Malachi Martin, op. cit, pages 79 et seq.. All the quotations from Malachi's book on the Jesuits are taken from this section of the book.

32. 'The Jesuits: The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church', Malachi Martin, op. cit., page 94.

33. 'The Jesuits: The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church', Malachi Martin, op. cit, pp. 94-95.

34. Romano Pontifici Eligendo, 1975, Pope Paul VI's Apostolic Constitution on the election of the Pontiff, Sec. 92. 35.
Intelligence provided verbally to the Author in 2005 by the impeccably trustworthy relative in question.

36. 'City of Secrets: The Startling Truth Behind the Vatican Murders', by John Follain, Perennial, and HarperCollins Publishers Inc., New York, 2004, page 7.

37. en.wikipaedia.org. Pope John Paul I, page 7.

38. 'In God's Name: An Investigation into the Murder of Pope John Paul I', David Yallop, Bantam Dell Publishing Group, 1984, ISBN 0-5530507-3-7.

39. 'A Thief in the Night: The Mysterious death of Pope John Paul I', John Cornwell, 1989.

40. The Author has rearranged the information contained in this section on the death of Pope John Paul I in accordance with the special intelligence provided to him by the relative of the Apostolic Representative mentioned, using the Wikipedia summary, which is of a very high quality.

41. 'City of Secrets: The Startling Truth Behind the Vatican Murders', by John Follain, Perennial, HarperCollins Publishers Inc., New York, 2004, pages 6-7.

42. 'City of Secrets: The Startling Truth Behind the Vatican Murders', by John Follain, Perennial, HarperCollins Publishers Inc., New York, 2004, page 304.

43. Ibid., page 304.

44. Ibid., page 304.

45. Ibid, pages 29-30.

46. Ratzinger took the chair of dogmatic theology at the University of Tubingen in 1966, moving to Regensburg University in his native Bavaria in 1969, eventually rising to become its Dean and Vice-President. He was named Cardinal of Munich by Pope Paul VI in 1977. He is said to speak ten languages and to be an accomplished pianist with a preference for Beethoven.

47. The Guardian, 6th June 2005, supplement 'Inside Story', page 7.

48. 'Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!': Isaiah, Chapter 5, verses 20-21.

49. 'Windswept House: A Vatican Novel', Malachi Martin, Doubleday, New York, 1996, page 7.

50. 'Windswept House: A Vatican Novel', Malachi Martin, Doubleday, New York, 1996, op. cit., pages 7-8.

51. Ibid., page 8. Hence, Malachi confirmed that 'the abomination of desolation' is Lucifer.

52. This fantasy was asserted dogmatically by a Catholic priest attending a conference in Hamilton, Ont„ in October 1999, at which the Author was a speaker. However from the outset, at Pentecost, it was the Holy Spirit of the Lord that visited and sustained the earliest Christians, and which has sustained and watered the faith ever since. 'If it wasn't for us', the priest said, 'Christianity wouldn't have survived'. Thus the Catholic Church arrogates to itself the powers and glory of the Holy Spirit, who is uniquely responsible for the continuation of True Christianity.

53. 'Windswept House: A Vatican Novel', Malachi Martin, Doubleday, New York, 1996, op. cit, page 8.

54. Ibid, page 8.
55. Andrew Varna, 'World Underworld', Museum Press, London 1957, page 58. Mazzini, who was a 33rd Degree Mason, was the founder of 'modern' Italian Freemasonry, a sorcerer, murderer and revolutionary terrorist leader, as well as being a Sicilian gangster. Note that among the three abominations 'authorised' by Mazzini is the familiar Illuminati assassination method, poisoning. This, to this day, is the Illuminati's favoured method of liquidating its enemies. For instance, Andy Stephenson, who exposed the manipulation of electronic voting equipment in the United States, was poisoned with a toxin replicating cancer of the pancreas. He died in 2005.
56. 'Windswept House: A Vatican Novel', Malachi Martin, Doubleday, New York, 1996, op cit, page 9.
57. Ibid., page 9.
58. Claire Sterling, Thieves' World', Simon & Schuster, New York, 1994. The identity of 'Mr X' is known to this Author.
59. 'N'oubliez jamais... que la plus belle des ruses du diable est de vous persuader qu'il n'existe pas!', Charles Baudelaire, 'Le Spleen de Paris'.
60. 'Windswept House: A Vatican Novel', Malachi Martin, Doubleday, New York, 1996, op. cit, pages 9-10.
61. First Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, Chapter 6, verse 19: What? Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?'
62. Werner Keller, 'The Bible as History', page 368; cited by Des Griffin, 'Fourth Reich of the Rich', Emissary Publications, 9205 SE Clackamas Road, #1776, Clackamas, OR, 97015, USA, 1976, pages 35-35:
63. Epistle of Paul to the Galatians, Chapter 2, verse 7. The fact that Peter was the Apostle serving the Jews in Judaea is reiterated in Galatians, Chapter 2, verse 8: 'For he that wrought effectually in Peter as the apostleship of the circumcision, the same was mighty in me towards the Gentiles' (he being the Holy Spirit). Paul was the Apostle to the Gentiles and also to the Jews of the diaspora: hence his Epistle to the Hebrews who were in Rome.
64. Luke, Chapter 17, verses 20-21: 'And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the Kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, the kingdom of God cometh not with observation: Neither shall they say, Lo here! Or lo there! For, behold, the Kingdom of God is within you'.
65. Matthew, Chapter 16, verses 13-19.
66. Windswept House: A Vatican Novel', Malachi Martin, Doubleday, New York, 1996, op. cit, page 10.
67. Ibid, page 10.
68. Ibid., pages 10-11.
69. Ibid., page 12.
70. Ibid., page 10.
71. Dr Leonard G Horowitz, DMD, MA, MPH, 'Avian Flu Fright Commentary', October 2005, page 6 (Internet posting).
72. Information on Cardinal Ratzinger's enquiries in Hertfordshire about the Knights Templar was derived from 'The Hertfordshire Mercury and The Insider' (www.theinsider.org).
73. 'The Jesuit Enigma', B. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, page 105.
74. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit, page 105.
75. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit., page 105.
76. Epistle of Paul to the Philippians, Chapter 4, verse 7. 'And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus'.
77. John, Chapter 14, verse 27. This glorious peace is of course the absolute reverse of the Satanic system of espionage, with its implications of coercion, intimidation, harassment and control, that characterises the oppressive environment of the Jesuits.
78. Matthew, Chapter 23, verse 9; Jesus says: 'And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your father, which is in heaven'.
79. Hebrews, Chapter 7, verses 24-26: 'But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood. Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them. For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens'. Romans, Chapter 8, verse 27: 'And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God'. The saints are those of us who believe and have faith, securing thereby the grace to grow, learn and understand in the Spirit. Saints are not those who are appointed to be saints by the Pope: beatification is a man-made usurpation of the power of God. All of those, without exception, who accept and know Jesus as Our Lord and Saviour are saints. And intercession is made for us by the Holy Spirit of Jesus Christ.
80. Hebrews, Chapter 8, verses 34-35: Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?'. The intercessor for sinners is Jesus Christ and his Holy Spirit - directly, not through the Confessional which, as is shown here, is open to abuse - and has historically always been abused by the Jesuit Order, for espionage purposes. That is one excellent reason why earthly intercession is precluded: Jesus was the greatest intellect that ever lived, and His logic is always perfection itself.
81. 'The Jesuit Enigma', B. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit, page 106.
82. Ibid., page 108.
83. Ibid, page 108.
84. Official letter of a Bohemian Principal, Fr. Bieczynski, found in the Vienna Court Library, cited by Count von Hoensbroech; 'The Jesuit Enigma', E, Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit. page 108.
85. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit, page 109; citing Ranke, 'History of the Papacy', II, page 82.
86. Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 26, verse 26: Addressing King Agrippa and the Roman Governor Festus, Paul says: 'For the King knoweth of these things, before whom I also speak freely; for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him: for this thing was not done in a corner', meaning that the Word of God was not divulged in secret, revealed through ritual initiation or by other means that are routinely employed by disciples of the Prince of Darkness - but was proclaimed and taught openly.
87. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit., page 109. This letter was written on 8th June 1649, and was cited by Count von Hoensbroech.
88. 'Eo ipso Nostros cedere cuique juri famae quod huic manifestationi obstare posit', 32nd decree of the Sixth General Congregation.
89. John, Chapter 8, verse 44. For the Superior of a supposedly religious Christian Order to lie and invent pretexts is contrary to the Word of God and wholly inconsistent with Jesus' clear denunciation of all liars, revealing the blasphemously named Society of Jesus to be a lying abomination.

90. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit, page 145.
91. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit, page 145-146.
92. Ibid, pages 146-147.
93. Ibid, page 147.
94. Ibid, page 160.
95. Yevgeniy Primakov (Finkelstein), the most powerful operative associated with the 'former' Soviet structures, who is believed to alternate with Mikhail Gorbachev as the head of the Soviet intelligence continuum, was appointed to a consultancy position with the US Department of Homeland Security in 2004, under Tom Ridge. It later transpired that the high-level, so-called 'former' STASI operative, Marcus Wolf, who organised the pervasive system of informers in East Germany, likewise joined the Homeland Security payroll. The Author knows that STASI operatives who have been collaborating with US intelligence have been using their STASI label as cover for their true intelligence allegiance to the super-secret DVD 'Black' intelligence organisation based in Dachau, near Munich: see Chapter 8. German intelligence has used the Illuminati as cover for global operations for centuries, and the STASI for the same purpose, for decades.
96. 'The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit. page 163. 97. Ibid.,pages 201-202.
98. Matthew, Chapter 23, verse 27: 'Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness' - a description highly applicable to the final category of 'Angels of Light' that we are about to discuss here. See also Acts Chapter 23, verses 1-3: 'And Paul, earnestly beholding all the council, said, men and brethren, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day. And the high priest Ananias commanded them that stood by him to smite him on the mouth. Then said Paul unto him, God shall smite thee, thou whited wall: for sittest thou to judge me after the law, and commandest me to be smitten contrary to the law?'
99. The Jesuit Enigma', E. Boyd Barrett, Boni & Liveright, Inc., New York, 1927, op. cit, page 204.
100. Ibid, pages 190-191.
101. In October 2005, Nabil Shaath, who was formerly Palestinian Foreign Minister, reiterated information that had leaked into the public domain two years earlier, but which the UK and US media now, all of a sudden, treated as a brand new story. In a BBC interview, Mr Shaath said that President Bush had told him that he had been on a 'mission from God' when he ordered the invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq. According to Shaath, Bush Jr. had said: 'God would tell me, "George, go and fight those terrorists in Afghanistan". And I did. And then God would tell me, "George, go and end the tyranny in Iraq". And I did'. According to 'The Daily Telegraph' [9th October 2005], 'Saath has since modified his original account of Bush's words during the Israeli-Palestinian Summit at the Egyptian resort of Sharm el-Sheikh in 2004. Both he and Mahmoud Abbas' [a.k.a. the Hamas terrorist operative and leader, Abu Mazen, who has been 'rehabilitated' and repackaged for international public consumption as a 'moderate'], 'the Palestinian Prime Minister and who was also present at the meeting, now say Bush did not claim that he had "felt God's words coming to me". The White House has also denied that Bush said anything of the kind'. Official denials aside, the point to be made here is that there is no way that God would have encouraged Mr Bush Jr.. to murder up to half a million people (and counting). If there was (is) a voice urging the President of the United States to perpetrate atrocities (very likely), it is not that of God, but of a familiar, or possessing demon, who is of course deceiving him.
102. In 'The Price of Loyalty' - the biography or record of Paul O'Neill, President George W. Bush's first Treasury Secretary - Ron Suskind revealed that a Top Secret document was made available to him within a few days of the President's first Inauguration in January 2001, in which advanced preparations for an invasion of Iraq were revealed. Hence, the invasion was far from spontaneous, preparations for it having preceded President Bush Jr.'s elevation to the Presidency by months, and probably years. Likewise, President Clinton met Russian officials in Washington, DC, on 1st and 2nd August 2000, to discuss issues affecting Afghanistan, including a planned invasion of that country. Neither of President Bush Jr's aggressive wars were therefore originally of his making: see Figure 94, page 607.
103. 'Chicago Tribune', 7th December 2003.
104. 'Beyond the Threshold A Life in Opus Dei', Maria del Carmen Tapia, The Continuum Publishing Company, New York, 1999: ISBN 0-8264-1096-0. The late Pope John Paul II published a work entitled 'Crossing the Threshhold'. Both books use the Masonic word Threshhold'. The esoteric illustration facing page 8 of Manly P. Hall's occult book The Lost Keys of Freemasonry', op. cit, carries the title: 'GUARDIAN OF THE THRESHHOLD'. There is no evidence that Maria Carmen del Tapia had, at least by 1999 when her book appeared, progressed beyond having been released from the living hell of confinement within the repressive Opus Dei regime. The use of the word Threshhold in her book title may have been innocent, but to 'the interested', its use has secret Masonic meaning. West German Radio commented: The insights that this book provides into the secrets of the Roman headquarters of Opus Dei - from its secret-service-like membership list to the specific spirit of the founder of Opus Dei - are unique. Whoever gets to know the founder through Maria del Carmen Tapia will also better understand Opus Dei: its rigorous asceticism, its shadowy financial practices, its indoctrination of fourteen-year-olds, and its strict segregation of its celibate men and women'. And Spiegel Spezial added: 'Here, a highly sensitive woman describes in a highly detailed and unusually elegant manner, without hatred and with the distance of over twenty years, a religious madhouse by the name of Opus Dei, which she came to know intimately like few others'. Finally, 'Vereinigung fur Geschicht im offentlichen Leben', Germany, added, in a review of her book: 'Maria del Carmen Tapia offers authentic insight into the personality and work of the founder of Opus Dei. She reveals unsparingly the truth about the churchly 'mafia', from its questionable methods of recruitment to the psychic terror it practices on its members. A truly shocking document of contemporary church history'.
105. 'Beyond the Threshold: A Life in Opus Dei', Maria del Carmen Tapia, The Continuum Publishing Company, New York, 1999, op. cit, page 59.
106. Ibid., page 217.
107. Ibid., page 220.
108. Ibid., page 251.
109. Jeremiah, Chapter 44, verses 15-26, in which Jeremiah the prophet warns all those children of Israel who, due to the political disturbances of the day, have fled back to Egypt and, established there, have reverted to pagan customs, in particular burning incense and making cakes to the Queen of Heaven (the goddess Astarte), that they will be severely punished for this backsliding. The entire passage should be read in order for this prohibition of the worship of the Queen of Heaven (metamorphosed by the Catholic Church into the Virgin Mary) to be properly understood. The reprobate children of Israel retort to Jeremiah that when they worshipped the Queen of Heaven, everything went well for them, and when they ceased, everything went wrong - an interesting illustration of how Satan metes out TEMPORARY enticements and rewards for those who turn away to from the Lord. However since his only product is DEATH, by definition, all Satan's rewards are strictly temporary, and they fade. Here is the whole of this crucial passage, which reveals that the Catholic Church's de facto worship of the Virgin Mary is none other than the same reprobate worship of the Egyptian goddess Osiris, the Queen of Heaven or, in Canaan, Astarte: 'Then all the men which knew that their wives had burned incense unto other gods, and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt' (remember, Egypt is also a metaphor for Darkness), 'in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying: As for the word that thou hast spoken unto us in the name of the Lord, we will not harken unto thee. But we will certainly do whatsoever thing goeth forth out of our own mouth, to burn incense unto the Queen of Heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto her, as we have done, we, and our fathers, our kings, and our princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem; for then we had plenty of victuals, and were well, and saw no evil. But since we left off to burn incense to the Queen of Heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto her, we have wanted all things, and have been consumed by the sword and by the famine. And when we burned incense to the Queen of Heaven, and poured out drink offerings unto her, did we make her cakes to worship her, and pour out drink offerings unto her, without our men? Then Jeremiah said unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that answer, saying, The incense that ye burned in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye, and your fathers, your kings, and your princes, and the people of the land, did not the Lord remember them, and came it not into his mind? So that the Lord could no longer bear, because of the evil of your doings, and because of the abominations which ye have committed; therefore is your land a desolation, and an astonishment, and a curse, without an inhabitant, as at this day' [which was historically at that stage indeed the case - Ed.]. 'Because ye have burned incense, and because ye have sinned against the Lord, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord, nor walked in his law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies; therefore this evil is happened unto you, as at this day. Moreover Jeremiah said unto all the people and unto all the women, hear the word of the Lord, all Judah that are in the land of Egypt: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying: ye and your wives have both spoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your hand, saying, We will surely perform our vows that we have vowed, to burn incense to the Queen of Heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto her; ye will surely accomplish your vows, and will surely perform your vows. Therefore hear ye the word of the Lord, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt; behold, I have sworn by my great name, saith the Lord, that my name shall no more be named in the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, the Lord God liveth. Behold... all the men of Judah that are in the land of Egypt shall be consumed by the sword and by the famine, until there be an end of them'. And indeed, those Jews that had fled into Egypt at that stage of the diaspora (caused by their offences against the Word of God that had been revealed to them exclusively) duly vanished from the record, and were heard of no more.

110. 'Beyond the Threshold: A Life in Opus Dei', Maria del Carmen Tapia, The Continuum Publishing Company, New York, 1999, op. cit., page 262.

111. Babylon is the metaphor used in Jeremiah and Revelation for organised, institutionalised religious sorceries. See Revelation, Chapter 18, verse 21: 'And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and shall be found no more ...... And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee; for thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived. And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth'. And Revelation, Chapter 12, verse 9: 'And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world; he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him'.

112. 'Beyond the Threshold: A Life in Opus Dei', Maria del Carmen Tapia, The Continuum Publishing Company, New York, 1999, op. cit, page 277.

113. Because of the importance of this, the Author repeats here the scriptural references given in Note 98 above: Matthew, Chapter 23, verse 27: 'Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness' - a description highly applicable to the final category of 'Angels of Light' that we are about to discuss here. See again Acts, Chapter 23, verses 1-3: 'And Paul, earnestly beholding all the council, said, men and brethren, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day. And the high priest Ananias commanded them that stood by him to smite him on the mouth. Then said Paul unto him, God shall smite thee, thou whited wall: for sittest thou to judge me after the law, and commandest me to be smitten contrary to the law?'

114. There are many references in Scripture to the illusions of those who either say 'there is no God' [Psalm 14, verse 1: The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God'], or who imagine that He is ignorant of what they are up to. For instance, Ezekiel, Chapter 8, verse 12, cited earlier in this book: Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? For they say, The Lord seeth us not; the Lord hath forsaken the earth'.

115. 'New York World Telegram', 26th August 1936, cited by Wayne Madsen: William A. H. Birnie, 'Hitler or Any Fascist leader Controlled by God Could Cure All Ills of World, Buchman Believes'.

116. Expose: 'The Christian Mafia: Where those who now run the United States Government came from and where they are taking us', US intelligence analyst, Wayne Madsen, posted on the Internet in October 2005 at www.insider-magazine.com/ChristianMafia.htm.

117. According to Mr Madsen, one conservative Christian picked up similar notions from George W. Bush's second inaugural speech. Christian commentator John Lofton questioned Bush's praise of the Koran during his speech and his giving the Islamic text equal weight to the Old and New Testaments. Lofton also questioned Bush's failure to mention Jesus Christ in his Christmas address a few weeks earlier. Lofton noted: "Bush failed to mention the name of Christ -yet he honored Ramadan and an Indian holiday that features an eight-legged elephant god". What many evangelical Christians fail to understand is that as a "one world religion" adherent of Vereide and Buchman, Bush only pays lip service to Jesus, while advancing a Dominionist ("Fascist") plan for global control.

Note: The significance of the Muslim Brotherhood is generally understated. Hitler didn't just 'support' this subversive terrorist organisation. The German Abwehr created it, as a means of destabilising British influence in the Middle East. The reasons for the folding of the British Empire include, but are not limited to, ongoing German-inspired subversion. The offensive against Britain and America has continued relentlessly and ruthlessly ever since - with penetrations at the very highest levels in both countries, and German financial interests seizing control over intergovernmental trading. The German 'Black' Nazi strategic Continuum loathes the British even more than the Americans, if that can be imagined. ■

CHAPTER SEVEN

THE SYNAGOGUE OF SATAN

EXPLOSIONS, DEATH AND DESTRUCTION FROM BELOW

On 7th July 2005, 56 people were killed and 700 injured when explosions were triggered on the London Underground and aboard a bus which 'just happened' to be entering Tavistock Square. On 23rd July 2005, a similar terrorist operation which would have resulted in explosions from below was thwarted by elements of the British security services. In August 2005, reports surfaced from San Francisco that explosions had occurred below ground in several parts of the city. On 7th October 2005, The New York Times reported that officials had stated that they had earlier been notified of a terrorist threat that, for the first time, had specifically identified New York City's underground transit system as the target. The report appeared following the sudden closure of the Metro as a consequence of the discovery of a bottle out of which was oozing a green liquid. A few days later, there were reports that explosions had been feared in the Baltimore underground transit system. In April 2006, UK intelligence sources informed the Author that a fifth bomb was 'meant' to have been detonated inside the Northern Line of the London Underground transit system beneath the Thames on 7th July 2005, as a result of which the river would have flooded a vast proportion of the system, murdering thousands.

About a year earlier, the Author, walking in the Amtrak level at Penn Station, New York City, had noticed a doorway opening from the station area to a passageway in which a large number of garbage bags had been stacked, and which clearly represented a terrorist hazard. On reporting this to the Amtrak Police, he was surprised when the matter was treated in a manner suggesting less than urgency.

The Twin Towers and Building Number 7 were not, as the deliberately unresolved controlled disinformation barrage has implied, brought down by aircraft hitting the tall buildings and by some mysteriously unexplained 'aftershock' which caused the third building to implode suddenly at around 5.30pm, but rather by high-tech explosives, such as RDX or C-4, capable of expanding at 1,000 feet per second and of creating extremely hot temperatures (much hotter than aircraft fuel, which when mixed with air, burns at around 1,300 degrees Fahrenheit). Moreover the two tall buildings collapsed in a controlled and peculiar manner which, honest (as opposed to controlled) experts say, would be consistent with the use of modern explosives capable of causing the crystallisation of building materials, while creating a vacuum that could cause the buildings to implode at a faster than normal speed, and leaving a residue of extremely high temperatures.

The North Tower was completely demolished at 10.29 am, one and a half hours after the first alleged aircraft impact, within the space of 8.1 seconds. It fell neatly upon itself and its remains were 'perfectly powdered'. According to the Law of Falling Bodies promulgated by Galileo and still accepted today by scientists everywhere[1], the total distance travelled at the end of any specific time in a total vacuum is calculated by the following formula:

Distance (d) = (32.16/2) x Time in seconds squared.

If there is any resistance, then the speed and time of the falling body slows down in relation to the resistance encountered. The North and South World Trade Center Towers were known to be 1,350 feet tall, so that the following equation would yield the fastest possible time for a total drop in a vacuum (that is to say, an environment where no resistance exists):

1350 = (32.16/2) x Time in seconds squared.

This would yield 9.1627 seconds as the fastest time that these buildings could pos-

Seismic data for the collapse of the North Tower on 9/11.

Seismic data for the collapse of WTC Building #7 on 9/11.

Figure 64: The seismic activity on 9/11, recorded by Columbia University Seismology Group: Top image A: The seismic data for the North Tower; Lower image B: The seismic data for the collapse of Building #7. The South Tower registered a tremor of 2.1 on the Richter Scale and came down in approximately 10.4 seconds. The North Tower registered a tremor of 2.3 on the Richter Scale and came down in slightly over 8 seconds. Explosions from below ground were set off in cadence. WTC #7's seismic signature is that of a conventional demolition.

sibly have fallen in a vacuum. The calculation raises some extremely interesting questions because the South Tower collapsed in 10.4 seconds and the North Tower, as indicated, imploded totally within 8.1 seconds. In both cases, massive resistance 'impeded' the collapses - in the form not least of the massive lower sections of the buildings that were stabilised by over 250 huge interior and exterior steel columns, and thousands of steel trusses. Therefore, the collapses defied the law of gravity. It follows either that the heights of the buildings were inaccurate, the times taken for the collapses were inaccurate, the scientific calculation acknowledged by scientists worldwide for hundreds of years is inaccurate - or something pulled these buildings down at a faster rate. And 'something' caused the delayed implosion of Building Number 7, which only caught fire, in a modest way, at 3.00pm. It collapsed at 5.25pm in what appeared to be a conventional demolition, with the walls falling neatly in on themselves and the rubble being cracked and broken but not pulverised. Neither FEMA nor any other authority published information to explain what had happened to this building, which had housed a CIA Station, offices of the Department of Defense and the Secret Service, and a $13 million 'control bunker' which had been constructed on the orders of Mayor Rudolph Giuliani. As for Building Number 6, a huge explosion appeared to emanate from the centre section of this building, but it only caught fire later - burning for hours at elevated temperatures, raising the so far unanswered question as to what caused the building to explode before it caught fire.

BUILDINGS DEMOLISHED BY HIGH-TECH EXPLOSIVES

The grey cloud that blasted out concentrically from the imploding buildings, as thousands of people (but no employees, for instance, of Morgan Stanley and other organisations 'in the know') were being murdered and billions of dollars' worth of property was being destroyed, which chased thousands of New Yorkers down the Downtown streets, covering the entire area as far as the Author's Midtown Office with a grey sand-like substance, has of course, been analysed. It consisted of crystallised cement and other materials. No blast of jet fuel, mixed with air, could have created this crystallisation, because jet fuel only expands at 208 feet per second, which is not enough speed for the purpose. Nor could a compression demolition have induced such crystallisation, as it would not have created sufficient latent energy: the cement would have cracked and broken, but it would not have pulverised.

The only way that the molecular composition of these materials could have been so scrambled would have been by means of the use of small-scale nuclear devices or high-tech explosives. Although there were reports of 'hot-spots' for many weeks afterwards, unusual readings of radioactivity were never reported (although they could have been suppressed of course); and in their absence, the only alternative cause of the buildings collapsing in breach of the law of gravity would be the use of modern explosives. High-tech explosives such as RDX or C-4 can expand at more than 1,000 feet per second, while creating ultra-hot temperatures. Modern explosives could cause the crystallisation of the building materials, creating indeed a vacuum that would, in combination, induce the buildings to implode at faster than normal speed, leaving a residue of extremely high temperatures. The dust from the explosions, which saturated, for instance, this Author's Midtown Office, had a high mercury content as well as radioactivity from smoke alarm detectors and other poisonous toxins all breathed in by New Yorkers, along with the stench of rotting flesh, which lasted well into 2002. As late as March that year, the smell persisted, although New Yorkers seemed impervious to it.

All 9/11 investigations, or purported independent analyses, that overlook the use of explosives have been cover-up operations, organised 'with malice aforethought' (see below) and designed to confuse the public and to divert attention from any focus upon the demolition of the buildings due to the placement of high-tech explosives inter alia below ground level. Figures 65 and 66 show the scene of the devastation taken from a law office building a few months after the atrocities: note the adjacent upright buildings, with respect to which impact from the explosions was not sufficient to cause more than repairable damage. One further piece of evidence is appropriately included here. On 16th September 2001, NASA flew a special aircraft over the site of the New York atrocity to take measurements and to create a thermal surface map. Within the week since the atrocities, hundreds of truckloads of debris and human remains had already been carried off site, and firemen had sprayed millions of gallons of water on the smoking rubble. The immediate availability of clean-up equipment on such a colossal scale was in itself 'remarkable'.

The results of NASA's investigations revealed (contrary to the interests of cover-up operatives) that there were indeed several 'hot spots' with temperatures in excess of 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit on the surface (never mind the temperatures far below ground level), while there was one hot-spot at the South Tower that recorded 1,377 degrees. New Yorkers, and this Author, noticed that the area continued to smoke for weeks. The Author's Midtown Office was, as noted, covered in dirty grey particles the following October; and as late as February 2002, the stench of rotting flesh, which New Yorkers (as opposed to part-time New Yorkers like the Author) appeared to have become accustomed to, at times made the Author feel nauseous. Figure 67 on page 425 is a photograph of the Twin Towers taken by the Author's youngest daughter, who had just reached

Figure 65: View of the devastation following 9/11 from an adjacent building, taken several months after the Illuminati's 'pearl harbor' defining event for the 21st century. The buildings were demolished by a cadence of computer-controlled bomb explosions triggered deep underground, in accordance with the final paragraph of Protocol 9 of the 'blame-shifting' 'sib' document called 'The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion', which explicitly stated that 'capitals will be blown into the air' from underground subterranean corridors.

New York on a round-the-world trip: the picture was taken from the Staten Island Ferry on the evening of 10th September 2001. Alice and a friend had originally decided to visit the Twin Towers at about 9.00 am on 11th September 2001, but decided on the spur of the moment to do so on the evening of 10th September, which they did before boarding the ferry for a view from the water. That night, Alice could not sleep and was disturbed by an ominous expectation of the catastrophe which duly occurred at the moment when she and her friend had intended to be among visitors to the Twin Towers.

SERIES OF BOMBS DETONATE IN CADENCE

Neither tons of jet fuel, nor a compression demolition, have the potential to create the levels of surface heat recorded by NASA, much less to maintain such heat levels for days afterwards; so any impartial investigator would need to have concluded that there was another explanation for such extreme temperatures. Moreover steel melts at about 2,700 degrees, and the vast steel columns at the base of the foundations, some 70 feet below ground, had been melted. When elaborate preplanned cover-up arrangements were put in place ahead of the atrocities, someone forgot to indoctrinate the Columbia University Seismology Group working at the Lamont-Doherty Earth Laboratory. Figure 64 on page 420 contains (A) the University's seismic data for the North Tower and (B) seismic data for the collapse of WTC Building Number 7. The South Tower registered a tremor of 2.1 and came down in 10.4 seconds, as indicated. The North Tower registered a Richter tremor of 2.3 and collapsed in 8.1 seconds. The pattern registered by Colombia University's Twin Towers seismic data indicates that a series of bombs were detonated in cadence (as directed by the relevant controlling computer software), with the last explosion being the largest charge. The pattern registered by the collapse of World Trade Center Building Number 7 was significantly smaller in magnitude, and represented the signature of a conventional explosion. The Author hypothesises that Building Number 7 was meant to have been demolished simultaneously amid the confusion of the destruction of the Twin Towers, but that something malfunctioned and that it had to be demolished separately, as soon as possible, by hastily contrived back-up means[2].

Figure 66: The precision demolition of the Twin Towers and other buildings is demonstrated in this further view of the devastation inflicted on 9/11, by the fact that the adjacent building in the picture is still standing as though nothing had happened. A few months after the event, the Author dined in a restaurant close to the site, and noticed that life continued as normal, with no-one apparently discussing the issues surrounding the Illuminati's arrogant 'bold, brazen, Bolshevik' provocation to set their agenda for the 21st century.

Among almost 3,000 people who were murdered in this abomination were 658 employees of the financial firm Cantor Fitzgerald. Maturing derivatives contracts held by that firm were, as a consequence of the atrocity, all of a sudden forgiven. The firm 'dealt with' the aftermath of this matter by dedicating 25% of the partners' profits to the families of the murder victims for five years (ending on 11th September 2006) and providing for medical and welfare costs for the victims's families for ten years.

On the morning of 11th September 2001, a custodian and key-holder at the World Trade Center, William Rodriguez, was late arriving at work, having overslept, and was walking to his office in the tunnel which joined the Twin Towers. This experienced eye-witness, who knew every coiner of the structures, reports that while in this tunnel he heard blasts from the basement area at about 8.30 am, which was significantly earlier than the time at which the first aircraft allegedly hit the South Tower. As the holder of master keys, he was able to rescue a large number of people from certain death, and his testimony is among that of others who have confirmed multiple explosive charges throughout the buildings which occurred quite independently of aircraft collisions. Mr Rodriguez was to have broadcast his account on the Telemundo TV station, a subsidiary of NBC, which is in turn owned by General Electric, an organisation controlled by the Rockefeller family. Commissioned by Telemundo in 2005 to appear in their studios, he was informed at the last minute that the broadcast was to be postponed, ostensibly while the producers sought a witness who would be in a position to put forward a contrary perspective. Naturally, the broadcast never happened.

As has been the case with all the deliberately traumatising mass psychological operations (Psy-Ops) events contrived over the years by the Illuminati, the authors of the 9/11 catastrophe, like the perpetrators of the murders of President Jack Kennedy and Princess Diana, have remained at large. In all these cases, as with 9/11, a vast, preplanned cover-up operation, elaborated by specialist diversion operatives, was in place: in the case of Diana, her obituary was written on the Friday prior to her murder.

THE OFFICIAL INFORMATION WARFARE DIVERSION OPERATION

In the United States, the cover-up team, with unlimited funds at their disposal, acquired immediate control of alternative media perceptions, so that the authorities were able to direct not only the '9/11 Movement', but also the 9/11 issue in the alternative media.

The main device used for this purpose was the creation of fake Internet opposition sites - plus the misdirection of websites, the creation of front organisations (see below), the invention of pseudo-activist groups and the mobilisation of Hogging and web journalism liars, all acting in concert to create an 'impenetrable fog'. These people control a vast amount of the deliberately conflicting 'free' information that is available on the Internet, and many such intelligence community-related 'assets' were put in place long before 9/11. Their primary objective in the aftermath of 9/11 was to ensure that if any truth about the Illuminati mass murders and atrocities committed on 9/11 were to emerge, it would be 'truth' designed and controlled by intelligence agencies - with CIA assets in position (as in the press rooms of the mainstream media) to ensure misdirection, diversion, disinformation and damage limitation.

Another device was the igniting of what have been termed 9/11 Movement 'flame wars', in which different intelligence 'assets' attacked each other in order to undermine their credibility individually and collectively, and to disillusion ordinary grassroots 9/11 truth activists, with whom the United States is richly endowed. In other words, protest at the obvious inaccuracies, lies, diversionary reports and disinformation surrounding 9/11 has been 'successfully' controlled, managed, and defanged by intelligence operatives from the outset[3]. The underlying purpose of this vast damage limitation exercise was to leave the field open for false 'truth seekers' whose real job has been to cover up the corruption, or who belong to rival criminalist gangs seeking to destabilise the organised criminal operatives currently in power. For the perpetrators of 9/11 have everything to lose if they are exposed, and masses to gain if they remain in control. 'Furthermore, 9/11 was not their first crime. Many of them were involved in other crimes that they must cover up'[4] as well. And that's putting it mildly.

The Author was himself witness to a 'fake front' operation controlled by intelligence operatives - which, in this case, went badly wrong. The 9/11 atrocities form part of a litany of criminal operations perpetrated by rival yet cooperating Illuminati criminalists stretching back for decades, at least as far back as President Kennedy's murder, but in reality to years earlier. In June 2002, the Author was invited to a presentation by an organisation calling itself Unanswered Questions, run by an operative named Kyle Hence, which purported to represent the interests of the 9/11 bereaved. Mr Hence collaborated with an independent patriotic activist who contributed 50% of the cost of hiring the large room in Washington DC, for the meeting. Not long before the scheduled date, the independent activist received requests from a significant number of people who called 'out of the blue' asking if they could attend.

Figure 67: View of the Downtown Manhattan skyline with the Twin Towers on the evening of 10th September 2001, taken from the Staten Island Ferry by the Author's fourth daughter. She had intended to visit the Towers at about 9.00am on 9th September with a friend, but they changed their schedule and paid a visit to the Towers on the afternoon of 10th September instead. This is believed to be the last picture of the towers before 9/11.

At the meeting, which was packed, 32 sets of photocopied documents were distributed, all obtained from public domain postings, 'dissident' intelligence sources, the Internet (and all of the above) which included copies of financial and banking transactions relating inter alia to the raising, under President George Bush Sr., of $27.5 trillion from over 200 international banks, the funds to be converted into US dollars, ostensibly for the benefit of a system for sustaining measures to protect what is euphemistically referred to as the 'Global Security Environmenf. The documents showed that for about 18 months in 1989-91, the 'payouts' in dollars were stalled at the Federal Reserve Board, under Dr Alan Greenspan; that colossal sums (calculated in 2005 by the Author to have amounted to $742.5 billion, but now believed to have been much higher) were rifled and diverted to recipients including offshore accounts held on behalf of the Bush Family and a lawyer acting for the Vatican and/or Opus Dei. After the US Secret Service Principal of these funds, Leo Wanta, identified and resisted Presidential demands for corrupt payments, he was framed, and deprived of his liberty for an intended for 22 years on fake charges, so that further looting by corrupt operatives and banks could proceed.

The 32 files were distributed among attendees at this meeting, which was ostensibly about helping the families of the 9/11 bereaved, but which degenerated into sharp exchanges as intelligence operatives masquerading as concerned activists on the platform argued with each other, whereupon one of them seized the microphone from a rival and proceeded more or less to close the meeting. The Author was a recipient of one of the 32 files; and with one exception, all the remaining files were distributed among the many attendees who had suddenly asked to be present. It subsequently transpired that these copies of the files had all been handed to intelligence officers - which meant, of course, that the damning documentary evidence wound up under the control of the CIA at Langley, which meant in turn that it was 'sterilised' and removed from the public domain. Or so the intelligence community believed - until the Author published excerpts from the financial documents in March 2003, followed by a complete exposure of all the relevant Federal Reserve financial transaction documents in February 2005[s]. The other set of documents ostensibly not 'collected' by intelligence operatives on that occasion wound up in the hands of a well-known journal, which had done nothing by this book's press date to publicise the sobering international financial intelligence contained therein.

BLOODLETTING, ATROCITIES AND FRANTIC DAMAGE LIMITATION

On 26th December 2004, a devastating underwater 'earthquake' caused a tsunami that killed at least 300,000 people (100 times more than those killed in the 9/11 atrocities). Two impeccable intelligence sources, backed by separate independent research and supported by advance information provided by a third intelligence source, have confirmed that the devastation in Southeast Asia was induced by the use of satellite-mounted scalar technology. When one of the sources was asked whether the devastating earthquake that occurred in Pakistan in October 2005 was 'natural', the answer was in the negative, augmented by: 'And they know all about it'. This is true of the Indonesians in respect of the tsunami, also. Some idea of the deviousness of the mentality that presides over these deliberately traumatising atrocities can be derived from the following passage by the US intelligence analyst Michael Ruppert (who has since fled to Caracas), referred to earlier, who displays extensive US 'intelligence connections' which naturally places the independent observer on guard for possible disinformation: but in the United States, internal rivalries and tensions within the intelligence community and between its controlled and compromised placemen at the highest levels of government have long since resulted in the exposure of information and assessments which would otherwise never have been revealed, such as Rupert's assessment concerning 9/11 that:

'Within their own mindset and within the parameters of an economic and governmental system that functioned (as it continues to function) in the mode of organized crime - incapable of transparency, riddled with corruption and cooked books, based upon the destruction of life for the sake of net profits and supremacy - these men, led by Dick Cheney, chose what they thought was their only logical option. I believe it seemed to them the "right" thing to do; after all, it was only a few thousand lives' that were lost on 9/11. 'Other rulers have made similar choices in the pasf; and a certain ruler closer to where this Author is sitting has done so more recently, with two fatalities and two targets whose lives were saved by a dissident intelligence intervention. 'But as all empires learn, once the river is crossed there is no turning back. In front of that decision, there lay a continuum of ever more vicious bloodletting, decline, and collapse'[6].

The tensions between different factions within US intelligence or the Illuminati, or both, lead frequently to ugly scenes, such as an occasion in 2004 when, together on a podium, George Bush Sr. was observed pushing on former President Clinton's chest. At the time of President Reagan's memorial service in Washington, a putsch was foiled which had been intended to result in the assassinations of President George W. Bush Jr, Vice President Cheney, and the two most senior figures from the House of Representatives and the Senate - as a result of which Colin Powell would have been catapulted into the US Presidency. A second attempted coup, which was thwarted by British intelligence, was to have occurred when Air Force One was coming into land at Istanbul Airport for a NATO Summit Meeting. Components for an SA-2 missile battery which were to have been fired at Air Force One as it descended into the airport were discovered in a crate of spare parts, and the information was passed on to US intelligence in time to thwart the catastrophe.

Damage limitation and control is such an essential prerequisite for the management of the consequences of intelligence scams, atrocities, abominations and deception machinations, that colossal resources have to be available for deployment in order for cover-up operations to proceed and to be managed in accordance with the perpetrators' intentions. It was noticeable that at the close of 2004, certain known intelligence operatives masquerading as independent analysts with prominent website presence, were telling friends of the Author that the 'phase' of post-9 /11 trauma was 'all over now'. What they meant was that, so far as the controllers were concerned, the volume of sand that had been thrown into the air, and the levels and dimensions of the confusion that had been inserted into and generated within the public domain, had proved more than adequate for what was then the crime of the century (9/11) to have been successfully covered with so many false leads, diversionary enquiries and 'conspiracy theories' that we could now at last all 'move on' -ready to manage the fallout from the next series of revolutionary provocations. So when it came to the scalar attack which generated the freak weather conditions supposedly 'responsible' for the breach of the ancient levees around New Orleans in September 2005, it was only necessary for FEMA (complete with its own pre-installed scapegoat, Michael Brown) to sit and do not a lot (apart from perpetrating such 'mistakes' as deliberately sending trucks with bottled water to the wrong side of the collapsed Mississippi bridge), to ensure that, as usual, commentators competed among themselves to add to the public's confusion about what was happening.

During that crisis, Mrs Barbara Bush was reported to have commented, concerning the poor Blacks who lost everything and were subsequently displaced, that 'they were deprived anyway' - which must have cheered many of those still able to operate battery-driven radios in the filthy Convention Center, or else who found themselves locked up in 'Camp Amtrak', the Amtrak Rail Station which became a Federal prison overnight. And amid the confusion, everyone forgot to report that a resident living close to the main levee had heard a loud explosion at about 4.00am on the night of the hurricane, after it had departed. It later transpired that the levee had been breached at great depth, in a manner that could only have been procured by prepositioned explosives.

The second leading Illuminati 'Black' regime of the 20th century, familiar to all of us as Nazi Germany, perpetrated its satanic atrocities in the perverse knowledge that no-one would believe what was happening, should leaks take place. And indeed, even within the innermost councils of the British Government, hardly anyone in power was prepared to waste time considering what the Nazis' industrialised murder machine was up to. So when Mr Cheney commented, after a belated visit to New Orleans, that 'we are on top of this exercise', no doubt only a handful of alert observers knew what he meant.

ALL THESE ATROCITIES WERE IMPLEMENTED FROM BELOW GROUND

Which brings us back to our starting point. It will have been noticed that the atrocities listed were all associated with below-ground explosions or subterranean upheavals. Immediately following the 7/7 explosions on the London Underground, and the explosion aboard a bus triggered by a terrorist who was thought to have been en route to an Underground Station, the Author identified the following text, which appears as the final paragraph of Protocol Number 9 in the notorious 'sib' document (slanted to implicate the Jews: see below) universally referred to as 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion':

'You may say that the Goyim [meaning 'Gentile cattle'] will rise upon us, arms in hand, if they guess what is going on before the time comes; but in the West we have against this a manoeuvre of such appalling terror that the very stoutest hearts quail -the undergrounds, metropolitains, those subterranean corridors which, before the time comes, will be driven under all the capitals and from whence those capitals will be blown into the air with all their organisations and archives'[7].

It is guaranteed that no intelligence officer anywhere in the world will have been aware of, or interested in, the existence of this text ahead of any of the underground atrocities listed. However it is upon the basis of this text that the Author has advised certain authorities that the cities that are at special risk from these attacks are those which possess underground railway systems. The Author has done this knowing that the authorities concerned are themselves associated with forces responsible for the orchestration of these atrocities, which are intended to catapult the world into the New Underworld Order.

Before addressing the vexed issue of what 'The Protocols' - which are the Illuminati's instructions to 'the interested', slanted in such a way as to ensure that the Jews receive the blame for the atrocities committed in fulfilment of the instructions, which was how the Holocaust materialised - it is pertinent to draw attention to several other passages from The Protocols of the Elders of Zion which have powerful contemporary resonance:

- Protection against (centrally manipulated) diseases by means of the central control and delivery of vaccines: 'It is indispensable to trouble in all countries the people's relations with their governments, so as to utterly exhaust humanity with dissension, hatred, struggle, envy and even by the use of torture, by starvation, BY THE INCOCULATION OF DISEASES, by want, so that the GOYIM see no other issue than to take refuge in our complete sovereignty in money and in all else'. Protocol Number 10, penultimate paragraph, op. tit. [see Note 7], pages 178-179. Note that the words in capital letters were capitalised in the original. Recall those contaminated flu jabs from the Liverpool factory of Chiron (the name of an odious underworld creature from Greek demonolo-gy) in 2004, and the 'bird 'flu' scare that erupted in the autumn of 2005.

- Creation of fear of catastrophic events as a pretext for the removal of freedom: 'There is another reason also why they [the Goyim] will close their eyes: for we shall keep promising them to give back all the liberties we have taken away as soon as we have quelled the enemies of peace and tamed all parties'. [In the prevailing fake 'war against terror' context, liberties have been, and continue to be taken away, without even the promise of their restoration]. Op. cit., page 180, Protocol Number 11.

- Enticement of targeted elites into Masonic Lodges for indoctrination, diversion, perpetuation and control purposes: [This] 'has served as the basis for our organisation of secret Masonry which is not known to, and aims which are not even so much as suspected by, these Goy cattle, attracted by us into the "Show" army of Masonic Lodges in order to throw dust in the eyes of their fellows'. Op. cit., page 181, Protocol Number 11.

- Geomasonic interpretation of the word 'freedom' • The future of the press • Control of the media • Masonic solidarity in the press of today: The word freedom... is defined by us as follows: Freedom is the right to do that which the law allows. This interpretation of the word will at the proper time be of service to us, because all freedom will thus be in our hands, since the laws will abolish or create only that which is desirable for us according to the aforesaid programme.... [Details of practical methods to be used to control the press]. Among those making attacks upon us will also be organs established by us, but they will attack exclusively points that we have pre-determined to alter.... Not a single announcement will reach the public without our control' [Consider the foregoing discussion about the fake, controlled Internet websites, which are listed in Note 4; and consider the situation prevailing in US newsrooms, where decisions as to which stories are to be covered and given prominence are taken on the basis of daily instructions from intelligence officers, a situation which appears to be replicated in the United Kingdom]. Op. tit., pages 181-182, Protocol Number 12.

- Multiplication of Masonic Lodges • Masonry as leader and guide of all secret societies: 'We shall create and multiply free Masonic Lodges [note the lie here: membership is far from free - Ed.] in all the countries of the world, absorb into them all who may become or who are prominent in public activity, for in these Lodges we shall find our principal intelligence office and means of influence. All these Lodges we shall bring under one central administration, known to us alone and to all others absolutely unknown, which will be composed of our learned elders. The Lodges will have their representatives who will serve to screen the above-mentioned administration of Masonry and from whom will be issued the watchword and programme. In these Lodges we shall tie together the knot which binds together all revolutionary and liberal elements. Among the members of these Lodges will be almost all the agents of international and national police since their service is for us irreplaceable in the respect that the police is in a position not only to use its own particular measures with the insubordinates, but also to screen our activities and to provide pretexts for discontents, et cetera...'. [In Britain, Masonic membership within the police and legal professions is a very grave problem]. Op cit., pages 193-194, Protocol Number 15.

- All plots, coups d'etat and power grabs controlled: 'If there should arise... a plot, then at the head of that plot will be no other than one of our most trusted servants'. [Examples: Lenin, Trotsky, Bela Kurt, Hitler, Mao Tse-Tung]. Op. cit, page 194, Protocol Number 194.

- We shall arrange elections in favour of such presidents as have in their past some dark, undiscovered stain; then they will be trustworthy agents for the accomplishment of our plans out of fear of revelations and from the natural desire of everyone who has attained power, namely, the retention of the privileges, advantages and honour connected with the Office of President'. [People selected for high office (Ford, Clinton, Bushes, Heath, Blair et al.) are operatives or personnel with known secret vices, often paedophilia - the worst vice of all - so that they can be controlled by blackmail. This is standard intelligence community procedure]. Op. cit., page 176, Protocol 10.

- Use of terrorism to force governments into compliance: 'In a word, to sum up our system of keeping the governments of the Goyim in Europe in check, we shall show our strength to one of them by terrorist attempts...'. Op. cit., page 176, Protocol 10. This device was used by the Germans fronted by the French, against the British on 7th and 23rd July 2005. Shortly after that event, the Author was informed that instructions for the atrocities had been confirmed from the highest level of the French Government, with electronic traffic monitored from Singapore (where President Chirac had flown in order to pitch for Paris to be awarded the 2012 Olympics), and later from the Gleneagles meeting of the Group of Eight industrialised countries. Due to the French assumption that GCHQ reports to the Secret UK 'Black' intelligence agency operating within MI6 which in turn reports to DVD, Dachau, Chirac may have assumed that his terror instructions would never be leaked. Due to certain operational mishaps and following forensic analysis, British security authorities discovered the European provenance of the London atrocities and demanded an immediate cessation, with an undercurrent of threat that Britain would leave the European Union if its demands were not met. The upshot of all this was that the IRA and its splinters, controlled by German 'Black' intelligence, was instructed by its German controllers to proceed immediately with full decommissioning of its weaponry, which (for public consumption) took place almost at once afterwards. Following the failed terrorist attacks on 23rd July, or perhaps prior to them, foreign 'Black' intelligence is believed to have ordered the 15 terrorist cells then known by MI5 to be operating in Britain, to cease and desist pending further instructions. It later transpired, as noted, that a devastating fifth explosion was intended to have flooded the Northern Line.

- The expansion of weaponry ['inventors of evil things': Romans, Chapter 1, verse 30]: 'The intensification of armaments, the increase of police forces, are essential for the completion of [our] plans. Op. cit., page 166, Protocol 7.

- Elevation of economics to the highest profile, as a control mechanism: 'We shall surround our government with a whole world of economists.... Around us will be a whole constellation of bankers, industrialists and capitalists and - the main thing, millionaires - because in substance, everything will be settled by the question of figures'. Op. cit., page 168, Protocol Number 8.

- The knowing and deliberate, systematic corruption of all youth: 'We have fooled, bemused and corrupted the youth of the Goyim by rearing them in principles and theories which are known by us to be false although it is by us that they have been inculcated'. Op. cit., page 171, Protocol 9.

- Deliberate complexity of legislation: Above the existing laws without substantially altering them, and by merely twisting them into contradictions of interpretations, we have erected something grandiose in the way of results. These results found expression first in the fact that the interpretations masked the laws: afterwards they entirely hid them from the eyes of the governments owing to the impossibility of making anything out of the tangled web of legislation. This is the origin of the theory of course, of arbitration'. [Note the literary 'style' here which mimics the use of the past tense, familiar to readers of the Old Testament, as substitute for the future tense]. See box below for an example of perverse legislative complexity. Op. cit., pages 171-172, Protocol 9.

- Trivialisation of reality for consumption by the masses, and the deliberate erasure of knowledge of the past (as, for example is imposed upon the British population via the media, with its focus on the 'celebritism', and through coarse and degrading 'entertainment'): The complete wrecking of the Christian religion will not be long delayed. The peoples will be kept distracted by trivial amusements from becoming troublesome and asking questions. History will be rewritten for their delusion, for we shall erase from the memory of men all facts of previous centuries which are undesirable to us, and leave only those which depict all the errors of national governments'.

THE BLUEPRINT FOR THE ILLUMINATI'S AGENTUR

The debate as to whether the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion' represents a document of the Jewish Kahal, serving as a blueprint for the Illuminati inside Freemasonry is still unresolved in the minds of many analysts. A campaign against all mention of The Protocols has continued ever since the proprietor of 'The Times' of London was certified insane, two

EXAMPLE OF DELIBERATE LEGISLATIVE COMPLEXITY

A UK House of Commons Committee was considering, on 28th October 2005, a small change in the rules governing the fast-track expansion of popular schools. Statutory Instrument 2005 No. 1801, The Education (School Organisation Proposals) (England) (Amendment) Regulations 2005 proposed a two-week reduction in two consultation periods, and applied the regulation to all Secondary Schools, not 'popular' ones only. It had taken 15 months to have this change cleared by Parliament. Even the obscure Minister responsible admitted that she was uncertain whether the new rule applied to Primary Schools as well as to Secondary Schools. Writing in The Times', London, on 29th October 2005, Alice Miles commented:

The regulation gave a useful insight into the bureaucracy that British parents... face. The 'Information to be contained in published proposals' began: "(1) This regulation prescribes for the purposes of Section 28(3)(a), Section 29(3)(a), paragraph 5(2)(a) of Schedule 7 (where the proposals relate to a mainstream school) and paragraph 5(2)(a) of Schedule 23, the information which proposals published under Section 28 or 29, paragraph 5 of Schedule 7 or paragraph 5 of Schedule 23 must contain". Excu...u...u...se me?

Such deliberately obfuscatory gobbldegook can only, of course, be deciphered by expensive and, by definition, unproductive lawyers, whose livelihoods are guaranteed by such perverse legislative drafting. At the European Union level, verbal obfuscation has long since been elevated to the status of a refined art form, with dense and contradictory language guaranteed to enable the bureaucracy to escape responsibility for whatever superfluous legislative aberration may lurk within the parasitical entity's opaque drafting. Some years ago, Brussels officials brazenly celebrated the fact that their structures had released over a billion documents since this political control mechanism was established in response to the imperatives of secret German long-range strategy [see Chapter 8]. But British official legal drafting is just as perversely obfuscatory and therefore deceitful. This behaviour corresponds with the requirement cited above, for the deliberate complexity of legislation: and of course MPs are culpably ignorant of this rule. ■ years after publishing a long article on 8th May 1920, in which he had commented that 'An impartial investigation of these would-be documents and their history is most desirable.... Are we to dismiss the whole matter without inquiry and to let the influence of such a book as this work unchecked?' 'The Morning Post', which was then the most sober and the oldest British newspaper, published 23 articles, also calling for investigation (not acceptance: investigation). Having been certified insane by an unknown doctor from abroad, the publisher of 'The Times' was forcibly removed from control of his publications, whereupon 'The Times' published an article dismissing 'The Protocols' as a plagiarism of an earlier French-Jewish work. In the United States, Mr Henry Ford, who had caused his 'Dearborn Independent' to publish a series of articles on 'The Protocols' of which 1.5 million reprints were sold, was prevailed upon in 1927 to publish an apology addressed to a well-known American Jew. The pressure applied to Mr Ford reportedly came from Jewish car dealers upon whom the fortunes of his concern depended, just as a new model Ford was about to be marketed[8].

However if all Jewish connotations, angles and slants are removed from the text, it reads precisely as a set of instructions to student members of the Illuminati's Agentur. On this construction, some have argued persuasively that this document represents the Illuminati's blueprint for World Revolution, skillfully skewed so that the Jews would receive the blame for the abominations that would follow. Indeed, the Nazi attacks on the Jews, and the Holocaust itself, can be explained as one terrible example of the 'success' of such a diabolical strategy of false witness. As one the British War Correspondent, Douglas Reed, one of the foremost scholars of this subject wrote, in a brilliant posthumous book

'The authors may have been Jewish, non-Jewish, or anti-Jewish. That is immaterial.... Only the denouement remains, fiasco or fulfilment. It is a grandiose plan, and in my estimation [it] cannot succeed. But it has existed for at least 180 years [at the time that Douglas Reed's work was completed in 1956, taking us straight to 1776 - Ed.] and probably for much longer, and 'The Protocols' provided one more proof in a chain of proofs [of the conspiracy - Ed] that has since been greatly lengthened. The conspiracy for world dominion through a world slave state exists and cannot at this stage be abruptly checked or broken off. [Given] the momentum that it has acquired, it must now go on to fulfilment or failure. Either will be destructive for a time, and hard for those of the time in which the denouement comes'[9]. We live in precisely that time.

ISSUE OF WHETHER THE CURSE IS JEWISH OR NOT IS DIVERSIONARY

Some brief recapitulation may be helpful here. As discussed in Chapter 5, Jewish authorities themselves state that 'Masonry is Jewish'. Yet despite the categorical and wholly convincing, authoritative statement by Dr Isaac M. Wise, cited by Samuel Oppenheim (see page 274) that 'Masonry is a Jewish institution', which is supported by so much objective evidence, the respected Rabbi Marvin S. Antelman disagrees, tracing the 'Jewishness' of Illuminised Freemasonry to the malevolent continuing influence of the 17th century false Messiah, Shabbetai Tzvi, who convinced perhaps half of world Jewry that he was the true Messiah and spawned a vast, pagan, permissive 'Sabbatian' movement. However Rabbi Antelman curiously fails to recall what the prophet Ezekiel witnessed the house of Israel doing 'in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery'. The Grand Lodge in Great Queen Street, Central London, has a large so-called 'Star of David' on the far wall, which dominates the dark chamber, even though, until the late 18th century, Jews had been barred from the Lodge. But Masonry is also, in part, Rosicrucian, as also discussed in Chapter 5. Most of all, it is both - being of the Kabbalah, the fountainhead of the poisonous waters of Babylon, seat (or a primary seat) of the 'Ancient Mysteries', which have to do with sorcery, divination, magic, the invocation of evil spirits and, as provided for in the rare Rosicrucian-Masonic book by Manly P. Hall which has also been discussed, the summoning up of the Devil himself, or of demons representing themselves as the Devil. With such Works of Darkness, no-one should ever even contemplate having any dealings, since their end is always the same (as the Devil has only one product): death, both spiritual and physical.

Freemasonry is nothing more nor less than what 'the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery. For they say, The Lord seeth us not; the Lord hath forsaken the earth'[10]. This was part of a vision of the prophet Ezekiel, who was shown by the Lord the abominations committed by members of the house of Judah[11] in the Masonic Lodge of the era.

These practices were acquired from Babylon, where men (like the Masons today) were 'girded with girdles upon their loins'[12], from the unreformed pagan Devil-worshipping tribes of Canaan, and from Egypt (the Biblical metaphor for 'the Darkness'). Ezekiel explains, using the metaphor of two young women, Aholah (identified by Ezekiel as Samaria) and Aholibah (identified by Ezekiel as Jerusalem), how the children of Israel went 'a-whoring' after pagan false deities - lusting after their associated abominations (precisely) of sorcery, divination, magic, and the invocation of evil spirits.

At the time of Jesus, the Samaritans were looked down upon by the scribes, the Pharisees and the people of Jerusalem as a mixed race, polluted by intermarriage with Assyrians and other pagan peoples, especially the Babylonians: 'Aholah played the harlot when she was mine' (i.e., the Lord's); and she doted on her lovers, on the Assyrians her neighbours... with all their idols she defiled herself... Neither left she her whore-

THE LEGISLATIVE AND REGULATORY REFORM ACT 2006

As soon as Tony Blair was elected leader of the Labour Party, he removed Clause 4 from the Party's Constitution (that is, he rejected nationalisation), courted big business, embraced the cor-poratist-collectivist European Union (having stood in Beaconsfield in 1983 on a ticket of exit from the EEC altogether), and, in power, passed legislation to control elections and electoral funding (with the exception of funding by trade unions). Blair can be described as a corporatist, in the European tradition. No other Prime Minister in history has attended Parliament so rarely or has exhibited such contempt for the democratic process. This corresponds to the Illuminati's underlying contempt for democracy, which is viewed as simply an interim stage towards the objective of the correlation of forces, resources and assets into the hands of the controlling 'brethren'.

The most brazen of all assaults on the democratic system in Britain was placed before the Westminster Parliament in the first quarter of 2006, called the Legislative and Regulatory Reform Bill. This gives Ministers unfettered power to alter any law passed by Parliament. There are two cosmetic limitations: first, new crimes cannot be 'created' if the penalty for them is greater than two years in jail; and secondly, taxation cannot be increased. But any other law can be changed by regulation, no matter how important. All Ministers will need to do is to propose an order, wait a few weeks: and voila, the law will have been changed. Ministers will no longer need to attend tedious debates in which they have to answer awkward questions. No amendments to the proposed orders will be allowed. The bill replaces an existing law that 'allows' Ministers to relieve regulatory burdens. Naturally, though, the law enables Ministers to create extra regulation, including new crimes, and to change the structure of Government itself. Any body created by statute, including local authorities, the Courts and even companies, will be liable to find themselves reorganised or even abolished. Since the powers of the House of Lords are defined by Act of Parliament even they are subject to the Bill. The Bill even applies to itself.

Under cover of double-minded socialism, the Illuminati arranged for a fascist Government to pass its own Enabling Act as in Nazi Germany in 1933. And the business sector was all in favour. ■ doms brought from Egypt', where the object of worship was death. 'And when her sister Aholibah saw this, she was more corrupt in her inordinate love than she (Aholah)': in other words, those of the City of David, which the Lord had chosen to 'dwell therein' as we are told in Scripture, became more corrupt even than those Jews who had intermarried with their pagan neighbours. And to conclude the imagery which conclusively reveals WHY 'Masonry is Jewish', Ezekiel tells us:' Then I saw that she was defiled. And that she increased her whoredoms: for when she saw men pourtrayed upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans portrayed with vermillion, Girded with girdles upon their loins... all of them princes to look to, after the manner of the Babylonians of Chaldea, the land of their nativity then my mind was alienated from her, as my mind was alienated from her sister. Yet she multiplied her whoredoms, in calling to remembrance the days of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt'[13].

In other words, the abominations that the children of Israel learned and participated in before they were 'led out of the darkness towards the light' (the whole story of Exodus being a giant living 'real life' spiritual metaphor), made them inclined and prone to latch on and vulnerable to the abominations, sorcery and devilry that they were surrounded with during their Babylonian captivity, during and after which many of them learned all about, and practiced, the sorcery of the Kabbalah. So the statement that 'Masonry is Jewish' actually means that Masonry has been permeated, polluted and impregnated with the abominations derived by the Jews from the captivity from Babylon, and elaborated by those Jews who have remained spiritually bound in the same satanic captivity to this day - with extremely shallow lip-service being paid in Masonic ritual to the pre-Babylonian Torah of the children of Israel.

Those Jews, led by Ezra, Nehemiah and other great followers of the Lord, who returned from the captivity to Jerusalem and, as prophesied by Isaiah[14], rebuilt the city, are likewise a metaphor for those whom True Christians refer to as 'the remnant' - who believe in and know the Lord Jesus Christ. The rest of Jewry sank into the diversionary byways of Talmudic (Kabbalistic) Judaism, which knows no truth since every phrase of the Torah and other Jewish literature is subject to, as rabbinical scholars insist, 49 different rabbinical interpretations - which means that there is no truth at all, everything is relative, and 'truth' is whichever rabbinical invention or mental exercise 'satisfies' the 'seeker after truth' at any given point in time[15].

THE SEARCH FOR THE TRUTH LEADS WHERE OTHERS FEAR TO TREAD

Thus Freemasonry is 'Jewish' in the sense specifically and exclusively that it is Kabbalistic, and practices the reprobate sorcery of the Kabbalah. Although there are of course Jewish Lodges and many Jews are Masons (most unwisely, given that, of all peoples, they should know better - so that the punishment they are apt to suffer for such waywardness is always the more painful), Masonry does not have any resonance or affiliation with the revelation of the Word of God; and, as such, it is a false, diversionary and exclusively Luciferian invention which exists to intervene in as many lives as possible so as to preclude the lost souls in question from seeking and finding the Lord.

In this context it is important, for anyone who is 'listening', to be aware that the Devil is not interested in being worshipped (as some deluded lost souls imagine), since he is interested only in death and destruction. If he were interested in being worshipped, he would not be so keen on destroying his targets, since they become unable to worship him. He can create nothing outside the realm of sorcery: he can only destroy.

Since we know not least that the only Name to which Evil Spirit will respond and of whom it (both singular and plural) is terrified, is that of Jesus Christ, we know for certain that Jesus Christ is true and 'as advertised'; and since He is the Way, the Truth and the Life, his enemy, Satan, 'that old serpent', is Death. Satan's preoccupation, apart from delivering his product, is not, therefore, to be worshipped: it is to blight the lives of as many human beings as possible so as to prevent them from seeking, finding, and worshipping the Lord. Those who seek Lucifer and attempt to worship him, find themselves trapped and locked inside the fast train to Hades - which is why it was perversely and tragically logical for Jews to be packed by the Goyim, like cattle, into cattle or goods railcars en route to the gas chambers.

Some analysts assert, not without understandable reason, that Freemasonry itself is and represents the Synagogue of Satan - a momentous description used by Jesus Christ, as revealed to his disciple and Apostle John. This Chapter will show that this interpretation is probably incomplete. Jesus refers to the Synagogue of Satan twice in Revelation, and on both occasions states that those of the Synagogue of Satan 'say they are Jews, and are not'. Specifically, at Chapter 2, verse 9, Jesus says: 'I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are of the Synagogue of Satan'[16]; and at Chapter 3, verse 9, Jesus refers to 'them of the Synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie'[17].

THE CURSE OF DOUBLE-MINDEDNESS AGAIN

Part of the explanation of Christ's allusion to participants of the Synagogue of Satan, which 'say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie' is explained thus by Friedrich Nietsche: The Jews are the most remarkable people in the history of the world, for when they were confronted with the question, to be or not to be, they chose, with perfectly unearthly deliberation, to be at any price: this price involved a radical falsification of all nature, of all naturalness, of all reality, of the whole inner world, as well as of the outer.... One by one they distorted religion, civilisation, morality, history, and psychology, until each became a contradiction of its natural significance'. Nietsche could have added that the Pharisees, progenitors of Talmudic Zionist Fascism, demand that 'enemies are to be ruthlessly hated', whereas Jesus Christ teaches 'unto you which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you, Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you' [Luke, Chapter 6, verses 27-28].

So who, then are 'them of the Synagogue of Satan'? In the careful words of US analyst Craig Heimbichner, the mentality described by Nietsche 'survived as... a religion of the Double Mind, gradually named Judaism. It gathered European converts from the 8th century Kingdom of Khazaria [see page 473 et seq..), forming the basis of the impostor "Jews' spoken of [by Christ] in Revelation, Chapter 2, verse 9 - the Khazars who say they are Jews and are not. This racial masquerade complements a Judaic mentality of duplicity and falsification which was then carried into Christendom, sewing the seeds [of] the contradictions which are at the heart of... modern culture'.

Jesus Christ expounded against the Jews' habitual double-mindedness, so apparent throughout the Old Testament. This Jewish tradition of deceitful double-mindedness, most conspicuously first manifested when Aaron himself created the Golden Calf in the wilderness for the Israelites to worship and to dance around naked, even while his brother Moses was on Mount Sinai receiving the Ten Commandments from God, has proved infectious and has been spread perversely through Freemasonry, the hegemony of secret societies (synarchy) and the controlling structures of Khazarian Illuminist 'New Ageism', to permeate the whole of society.

A glaring example is the reprobate, double-minded attitude prevailing in contemporary Britain towards homosexuality, which is roundly warned against in Scripture (Leviticus Chapter 18, verse 22; Chapter 20, verse 13; Romans Chapter 1, verse 27; and First Corinthians Chapter 6, verses 9-10). On the one hand, criticism of and opposition to this perverse practice is officially condemned to the point of being considered virtually a criminal offence, while on the other hand the prurient media are in the habit of seeking to expose any politician (and there are many) who seeks vain prominence while disguising his homosexuality from his constituents and the public generally. After such exposure, the argument is then routinely inverted, with the 'line' that a person's private life is their own affair and cannot be deemed liable to affect his or her performance as a Member of Parliament. This flexible morality-cum-double-mindedness, worse than hypocrisy, has become almost universal, in multiple contexts*.

But Jesus Christ taught that 'thine eye be single' (Matthew Chapter 6, verse 22; Luke Chapter 11, verse 34), meaning that we must choose and be consistent in the Word of Truth.

DIGGING DEEPER INTO THE 'PROTOCOLS' CONTROVERSY

This controversial document entitled 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion' was incorporated in a Russian language work published in around 1905 by a certain Professor Nilus, who attempted to interpret 'The Protocols' by reference to events then materialising in Russia. In a series of articles published ('notoriously') by Henry Ford in his newspaper ''The Dearborn Independent' in 1920-22, the American industrialist, who had studied 'The Protocols', realised that their provenance was wholly uncertain, not least because they carried no indication of authorship or signatures. He argued (correctly) that 'the internal evidence makes it clear that 'The Protocols' were not written by a Russian, nor originally in the Russian language, nor under the influence of Russian conditions'[18], despite the fact that Nilus' edition 'gave [the document] a Russian tinge which has been useful to Jewish propagandists in this country [United States] and in England'[19]. ''The Protocols' 'found their way to Russia and were first published there. They have been found by diplomatic officers in manuscript in all parts of the world'[20]. Using his acute powers of analysis, to try to understand why this wholly unprovenanced document had remained the object of such widespread attention and interest, Henry Ford elaborated:

'Wherever Jewish power is able to do so, it has suppressed them, sometimes under the supreme penalty. Their persistence is a fact which challenges the mind. Jewish apologists may explain that persistence on the ground that ''The Protocols' feed the anti-Semitic temper, and therefore are preserved for that service. Certainly there was no wide nor deep anti-Semitic temper in the United States to be fed or that felt the greed for agreeable lies to keep itself alive. The progress of 'The Protocols' in the United States can only be explained on the ground that they supply light and give meaning to certain previously observed facts, and that this light and meaning is so startling as to give a certain standing and importance to these otherwise unaccredited documents. Sheer lies do not live long, their power soon dies. These 'Protocols' are more alive than ever'.

---

* For instance, faced with confirmation and proof, publicised by the Author and a colleague in October 2005, that the European Union Treaties have been routinely procured by means of corrupt payments and are therefore null and void under Article 49 of the 1969 Vienna Convention on Treaties, the entire British media, which normally exposes corruption in order to fill its pages, having been advised in detail of this abomination through the Author's publication International Currency Review (Volume 30, #4], chose en masse (in accordance with long-standing 'instructions', to keep the British people in ignorance), to ignore the whole matter. In so doing, the journalists concerned robbed themselves of all residual moral standing and credibility, since they demonstrated by their indifference to these scandals that they have no objection to the rampant corruption of governance, which is the primary product of this crisis. Yet the same journalists are indeed forever frenetically and venally digging up dirt on targeted public and private figures to whom they may have taken a disliking, for some ephemeral reason or other. Such double-mindedness corrodes the very fabric of society.

'The Protocols' would not be more worthy of study if they bore the name of Theodore Hertzl [founder of modern Zionism]. Their anonymity does not decrease their power any more than the omission of a painter's signature detracts from the art value of a painting'[21].

Henry Ford's acknowledgment that the Protocols are anonymous, is important. He states that 'The Protocols' are a World Program - there is no doubt anywhere of that. Whose program, is stated within the Articles themselves. But as for outer confirmation, which would be the more valuable - a signature, or six signatures, or twenty signatures. ..?' There are none[22]. This implies that Ford thought he knew who was behind "The Protocols', whereas at the same time he admits to remaining baffled.

In further argumentation, Henry Ford wrestled with the issue of 'The Protocols" authorship, noting the distinction made therein between those referred to in the document alternatively as 'the Gentiles' and as Goyim ('cattle'), and 'we', which appears to mean 'we Jews'. Thus, 'We Jews will do this', but 'The Gentiles will be made to do and think these things'[23]. It is "we" for the writers', says Ford, 'and "Gentiles" for those who are being written about. This is brought out very clearly in the Fourteenth Protocol:

"'In this divergence between the Gentiles and ourselves in ability to think and reason is to be seen clearly the seal of our election as the chosen people, as higher human beings, in contrast with the Gentiles who have merely instinctive and animal minds. They observe, but they do not foresee.... It is clear from this that nature herself predestinated us to rule and guide the world". But who is 'us'?

A copy of this document was deposited in the British Museum on 10th August 1906. On 25th June 1920, Herman Bernstein wrote as follows in 'The American Hebrew':

"About a year ago, a representative of the Department of Justice submitted to me a copy of the manuscript of 'The Jewish Peril' by Professor Nilus, and asked for my opinion of the work. He said that the manuscript was a translation of a Russian book published in 1905 which was later suppressed. The manuscript was supposed to contain 'Protocols' of the Wise Men of Zion and was supposed to have been read by Dr Herzl at a secret conference of the Zionist Congress at Basle. He expressed the opinion that the work was probably that of Dr Theodore Herzl.... He said that some American Senators who had seen the manuscript were amazed to find that so many years ago a scheme had been elaborated by the Jews which is now being carried out, and that Bolshevism had been planned years ago by Jews who sought to destroy the world"[24].

MAKES SENSE IF ALL REFERENCES TO THE GOYIM ARE REMOVED

The document was thought by Henry Ford and others to represent alternatively a collection of lecture notes for students, which Ford said 'probably dated from 1896, or the year' when Dr Herzl made some public observations about his Zionist project. The first Zionist Congress was convened in 1887. 'In their present form, which bears evidence of being their original form, there is no contradiction. The allegation of Jewish authorship seems essential to the consistency of the plan'. And yet, Henry Ford wrote: 'If these documents were the forgeries which Jewish apologists claim them to be, the forgers would probably have taken pains to make Jewish authorship so clear that their anti-Semitic purpose could easily have been detected. But only twice is the term "Jew" used in them'[25].

This consideration brought Henry Ford close to unveiling the hidden truth of the matter, for he was correctly dubious that the documents are of Jewish origin: 'Who was it', he asked, 'that first entitled these documents with the name of the "Elders of Zion", is not known. It would be possible without serious mutilation of the documents to remove all hints of Jewish authorship, and yet retain all the main points of the most comprehensive program for world subjugation that has ever come to public knowledge'[26].

Precisely. If references to the Goyitn are removed, and the questionable assumption that the "we" and the "us" represent the Jews, the integrity of the document remains unvi-olated. In other words, The Protocols' represent THE CLASSIC INTELLIGENCE 'SIB' OPERATION, whereby a target's reputation is 'Blackened', so that the target itself can be blamed for abominations planned for the benefit of 'others'; and when the target has been fully exploited, its can be destroyed ('the Holocaust').

Yet Henry Ford also vacillated between concluding that the document's authorship was Jewish, and that it was not. It seems that his main problem was that he could not imagine whose the authorship could be if it was not that of Jewish forces:

'Yet it must be said that to eliminate all hint of Jewish authorship would be to bring out a number of contradictions which do not exist in 'The Protocols' in their present form . And so, having perceived (correctly) that if all hints of Jewish authorship were removed, the coherence of the documents would remain unaffected, Henry Ford abandoned the search, and fell back, more or less, on the assumption that authorship of 'The Protocols' must be Jewish. The reason he did so has already been revealed: he found himself, in 1927, under extreme pressure from a group of (Jewish-owned) car dealerships to renounce any suggestion that 'The Protocols' were of Jewish origin, on pain of having his marketing operation for a new Ford car sabotaged. Actually, a moment's thought would reveal that this was an empty threat, since the dealers' own livelihoods would have been adversely affected by any such commercial sabotage: but it is reliably believed that, facing the need for an immediate decision so as not to destabilise the marketing plan, he succumbed, and consequently distanced himself from all his earlier conclusions and research.

Had Henry Ford perhaps been more familiar with Scripture in general, and with the Book of Revelation in particular, he would probably not have remained semi-deceived. For Revelation Chapter 2, verse 9 and Chapter 3, verse 9, provide us with the authority to be able to make the following assertion Jewish antagonists have been partially correct to condemn the documents as a 'forgery', from their perspective. But it would have been more accurate to describe 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion' as a blueprint for world conquest and control slanted, as has been proposed, so that the Jews would be blamed, and in order to provide cover for the true perpetrators - our TRUE enemies, the Kabbalistic Illuminati.

These are they, indeed, who are 'of the Synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews and are not, but do lie'[28]. These are the Nazi-type "we" and the "us", who have never had any problem excoriating the Jews, using the Jews as scapegoats, and ensuring that their own appalling sins, scams and abominations are blamed by the Goyim on the Jews. The logic of this deduction (which will be reinforced later) is of course that the Holocaust would have represented no more than 'collateral damage' for these people. It should, accordingly, hardly surprise us that the mind-set which prescribed that the Jews have plotted for millennia against those whom some of them call the Gentiles, the cattle, should have reaped the perennial vengeance of the Goyim themselves, in the format of pogroms down the centuries, and the Holocaust of the Third Reich. Thus far, therefore, identification of 'The Protocols' authorship as being that of the Illuminati, a collaborative 'cutout' for the Jewish Kahal, seems entirely consistent with the facts.

Moreover Henry Ford could take the argument no further, for the reason already mentioned - namely, that he had no other culprit who could readily be identified as the source of the brains behind 'The Protocols'. Instead, Henry Ford found that he could merely point to 'the people against whom the plan is aimed'. The document 'is aimed against the people of the world who are called "Gentiles". It is the frequent mention of "Gentiles" that really decides the purpose of the documents.... This plan aims at the degeneration of the people in order that they may be reduced to confusion of mind and thus manipulated. Popular movements of a "liberal" kind are to be encouraged, all the disruptive philosophies in religion, economics, politics and domestic life are to be sown and watered, for the purpose of so disintegrating social solidarity that a definite plan, herein set forth, may be put through without notice, and the people then moulded to it when the fallacy of these philosophies is shown'[29].

Does this, by any chance, sound at all familiar? Take the language, cited on page 430, about the corruption of children, from Protocol 9, which explicitly states that, even though the perpetrators know that what they intend is wrong, our children are to be corrupted (contrary to the commandment of Jesus Christ for whom the corruption of children is a sin so heinous that the perpetrators deserve to have a heavy weight tied around their necks and to be thrown from cliffs into the depths of the sea):

'We have fooled, bemused and corrupted the youth of the Goyim rearing them in principles and theories which are known to us to be false although it is by us that they have been inculcated'[30]. History shows that Henry Ford was an inspired prophet.

MORE MANIFESTATIONS OF 'THE SEETHING ENERGIES OF LUCIFER'

Which evil minds thought and wrote this, those of the Illuminati authors, or that of Lavrentii Beria? The question is posed rhetorically, in order to bring us yet closer to the truth. As previously divulged, Beria was a German operative functioning at the highest levels of the first 'Black' Illuminati regime of the 20th century, that of the Soviet Union, which had been facilitated by the German intelligence agent, Rasputin. Hence, it is no coincidence that Beria's prescription for our our children 'just happens' to be identical to the repulsive assertion of evil intent to corrupt Gentile children contained in Protocol 9.

It will be recalled - from page 174 et seq. - that Lavrentii Beria's prescription included instructions such as the following: 'By making readily available drugs of various kinds, by giving the teenager alcohol, by praising his wildness, by stimulating him with sex literature and advertising to him or her practices as taught at the Sexpol, the psychopolitical operator can create the necessary attitude of chaos, idleness and worthlessness.... The psychopolitical operator can instruct, in an optimum situation, the entire nation in how to handle children - and instruct them so that the children, given no control, given no real home, can run wildly about with no responsibility for their nation or for themselves.... Creating a greed for drugs, sexual misbehaviour and uncontrolled freedom... will with ease bring about our alignment' *. This Illuminati strategy has been relentlessly and ruthlessly applied by the British and American educational authorities as a direct consequence of the hidden penetration of German Illuminati Fifth Column operatives.

The consistency of this assessment with the prevailing phase of revolutionary terrorism needs to be considered[31]. As noted, in the 1920s, German intelligence established the Muslim Brotherhood, based in Cairo, as a mechanism for the destabilisation of

---

* From 'Brainwashing: A Synthesis of the Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics', or 'the art and science of asserting and maintaining dominion over the thoughts and loyalties of individuals, officers, structures, and masses, and the effecting of the conquest of enemy nations through "mental healing"', now referred to as 'mental mapping'; with an address by Lavrentii Beria; extracted from the 'Communist Manual of Instructions of Psychopolitical Warfare', used in the training of Communist cadres in the United States in the 1930s, and exposed by the former American Communist, Kenneth Goff. See also Chapter 3. False 'consensus' training was being disseminated in 2005-06 to cadres of 'Useful Idiots' in Britain through a brainwashing operation directed from the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, the neo-Bolshevik John Prescott, called 'Common Purpose' (the terms of which are left undefined).

British power in the Middle East, and thus as a means of preparing the ground for German access to the oil resources of the Caucasus (Baku, in Azerbaijan) and elsewhere.

The German Geopolitical Centre established by the Nazi International in Madrid spawned other Nazi International Centres, notably in Rome, Buenos Aires and Cairo, from which the Nazis continued and expanded their ongoing destabilisation activities through the Muslim Brotherhood and its clones. Outline details of Adolf Eichmann's secret visit to Palestine in 1936, and its grim consequences, are summarised in the box on page 547. With the exception of the extensive Soviet terrorism training and proliferation operations - spun from the Tricontinental Conference sponsored by the KGB held in Cuba in January 1966, which launched a network of terrorism training camps on the outskirts of Havana that were supervised by a KGB Colonel, Vadim Kotchergine - it is a fact that all radicalised Islamic terrorism organisations are the offspring of the Muslim Brotherhood. German and Russian intelligence work 'competitively' together [see Conclusion, page 617].

These Islamic organisations, and the immense revolutionary infrastructure that supports them with destabilisation propaganda (such as Palestinian Radio and TV which is indistinguishable from overt Soviet-era anti-Western hate broadcasting) feast on hatred of the Jews. That this is so, reflects the poison of anti-Semitism sown by the German Illuminati in the text of their 'Protocols' which, as discussed, are slanted so as to appear having been authored by high-ranking internationalist Jews. It is surely not hard to perceive the demonic attraction and force that such propaganda was calculated to exert in the simple minds of prospective Islamic jihadists whose minds have been prepared for martyrdom by the demonic proposition that they will be rewarded in heaven by the services of 70 virgins. Minds so diverted from reality and the truth by such fairytales, would be equally susceptible to the 'attractive' notion that the usurping Jews, who allegedly control the United States, are the source of all the evils imported from the decadent West that are perceived to afflict the Muslim world. And the decadence of the West is itself a product of the Uluminati, against which the deceived, primitive Islamists are comprehensively indoctrinated to react.

THE 'PERMANENT REVOLUTION' SINCE THE BIRTH OF JESUS CHRIST

For it is indeed as though Lucifer himself had devised the hellish mixture of pressures and deceptions that have engulfed millions of Islamic minds. For, as anyone who has eyes to see knows, Jews are universally prominent throughout the Western 'entertainment' industry, which Muslims rightly identify as an open sepulchre of decadence and filth that is being poured into the minds of people everywhere. Given this prominence, the hate propaganda plotted by the Uluminati, when, to hide their authorship, they skewed their evil blueprint for global control so that it would appear to have been drafted by Jews, 'enjoys' poisonously fertile soil upon which to grow and thrive.

Against this background, the seething hatred for Jews which characterises Islam -a product of the 'seething energies of Lucifer' - is perhaps easier to understand, especially since Muslim culture has remained, until scarcely more than a few decades ago, in many respects rooted in the 7th century AD.

Nor did the 'ownership' of the Russian Revolution by Jews diminish the popular conviction, as much among Muslims as in other communities around the world, that the Jews are the source of all evil. A minority of hyperactivist Jews implemented, both wittingly and unknowingly on behalf of the controlling Uluminati, the horrors of the Russian Revolution and its aftermath - as summarised, in part, in the Author's intelligence publication Soviet Analyst [Volume 29, #s 8-10], which contained a directory of prominent Jewish revolutionary activists. In this context, the Author acknowledges a debt to Dr Henry Mackow who, in a 2005 analysis of 'The Red Symphony' - the text of a Stalinist Secret Police (NKVD) pre-execution interrogation of Chaim Rakover (a.k.a. Christian Rakovsky), a Soviet Ambassador who had formerly been a very close associate of Rothschild's agent, Leon Trotsky - noted Rakover's assertion that 'Communism cannot triumph unless it suppresses the 'still living' Christianity'. This claim was vehemently reaffirmed by the Jewish Illuminist President Mikhail Gorbachev on 15th December 1987, when addressing a group of Communist Party cadres, officials and Soviet military personnel in Uzbekistan: 'There must be no let-up in the war against religion, because as long as religion exists Communism cannot prevail. We must intensify the obliteration of all religions wherever they are being practiced or taught'.

Chaim Rackover then referred to the 'Permanent Revolution' - which was always thought to have been the evil Trotsky's invention - as dating from the birth of Christ, adding that 'in reality, Christianity is our only real enemy since... Christianity controlling the individual is capable of annulling the revolutionary projection of the neutral Soviet or atheist State'. Extracting this statement from its redundant historical context, the crucial truth revealed here is that this late 'Devil' knew who Jesus Christ was - and, moreover, knew that He was 'the enemy' from his birth, rather than from his Crucifixion and Resurrection. To make this distinction requires considerable understanding of the reality that Jesus Christ was and is the enemy of evildoers from the beginning - which Chaim Rakover, though a Jewish Communist friend of the demonic Trotsky, knew perfectly well, not least because he was an educated Jew. And why was this? Because 'the devils also believe, and tremble' [James, Chapter 2, verse 19]. They know, indeed, that 'Jesus Christ is the Son of God, and is come in the flesh' [First Epistle of John, Chapter 4, verses 1-3], but reject what they know and 'confess Him not'. Echoes of Rackover's understanding are replicated by possessed 'High Revolutionaries' today. For instance, Brock Chisholm, a former director of the UN World Health Organisation, pronounced that 'To achieve One-World Government, it is necessary to remove from the minds of men their individualism, their loyalty to family traditions and national identification'. In other words, the natural (divine) order is to be defied, and turned upside down.

Chaim Rakover's acknowledgement that the 'Permanent Revolution' began with the birth of Christ is of immense significance and help to us in our search for an explanation of 'the mystery of iniquity' [Second Epistle of Paul to the Thessalonians, Chapter 2, verse 7]; indeed, this admission justifies Rackover's bad life. That Christianity - the enemies of which choose not to tell the difference between its earthly perversions and True Christianity, of course, since they mistakenly confuse the decadent and compromised Christian churches for the 'real thing' - is 'the only enemy' of all Luciferians, itself confirms the uniqueness of Jesus Christ and why it is only in His Name, that devils are cast out; and if devils can only be cast out in His Name, other names are not of the Lord, but of Satan: 'But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them: Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand; And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how then shall his kingdom stand?' [Matthew, Chapter 12, verses 24-26].

The perpetual, incessant virulence of attacks against Christianity, both true and false or reprobate, is therefore self-evidently a manifestation of the 'seething energies of Lucifer' which provide those infested by them with a relentless, tireless determination and ruthlessness which is seemingly never exhausted, but which is the opposite of normality. Sensible people trying to live their lives constructively do not devote time and resources without end, in seeking to destroy all 'religion' (meaning Christianity): such behaviour is akin to a form of demonic possession. And that is exactly what we are dealing with as we consider the otherwise inexplicable perpetuation of the 'Permanent Revolution' lasting for two millennia so far, which today is driven extensively by the 'Orders' of the Illuminati. To know, from a deceased Communist Jew, that our enemies are well aware that Jesus Christ is the one and only enemy, and has been considered as such since His very birth, is surely a revelation sent to encourage us all. For this statement is not speculative: it was made by the Jew Chaim Rakover as he faced execution. And the fact that this revelation has been brought to our attention by Dr Mackow, who is himself of Jewish extraction, gives it the greater force: as he concluded in his analysis, 'God is more powerful than the satanic forces that hold mankind in their thrall. But His Will cannot be done unless men do it. Whatever the cost, the cost of not doing it will be greater'.

The present work seeks - by exposing and attempting however inadequately and incompletely - to explain the source of the evils we face, to enable others to resolve to face up to these 'Illuminated' Ones. And here is a remarkable fact: if, knowing the truth, you resist them so that they know you see through them, a remarkable thing happens. They shrink from you. Incredibly, 'get thee behind me Satan' is no idle order. It works.

GERMAN JEWISH ROSICRUCIAN ORIGINS OF THE MODERN ILLUMINATI

The foundation of the modern manifestation of the sect of the Dluminati in Germany is well known to have been primarily the work of the lapsed Jesuit priest, Professor Adam Weishaupt, of Ingolstadt University. Not only was Weishaupt a former Jesuit (and therefore Illuminati-trained pupil) of Jewish extraction, but Moses Mendelssohn, head of the Haskalah, or always pre-existing Jewish Illuminati, cooperated closely with the Bavarian Illuminati headed by Weishaupt, as well as with prominent members of the other secret societies aspiring to seize political power. These secret societies, represented within the burgeoning Masonic movement, organised two Great Masonic Conventions in the late 18th century - that held at Les Gaules in 1768, and the Great Masonic Convention, or Convent, of Wilhelmsbad in 1782, at which the delegates voted, in accordance with the demands of their demonic 'spirit guides', we are told, for the death of the King of France. The occult Rosicrucians, who have usurped, conquered and now reside both within and beyond Freemasonry, which has been reorganised several times primarily at their instigation, are central to this investigation. First, these people, sorcerers and alchemists, claimed to be the recipients by tradition of esoteric knowledge from the ancient Egyptians, the Chaldeans, the Magi and the Gymnosophists. Secondly, they rejected the teachings of the Catholic Church, using the understandable revulsion at the Church's abominations and abusive arrogance as their pretext for rejecting Christianity. Thirdly, the Rosicrucians themselves were explicitly called the Illuminati, as was confirmed in the third edition of the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' of 1797, which stated: 'They [the Rosicrucians] have been distinguished by several names, accommodated to the several branches of their doctrine. Because they pretend to protect [and to extend - Ed.] the period of human life, by means of certain nostrums, and even to restore youth, they were called Immortals; as they pretended to know all things, they have been called Illuminati; and because they have made no appearance for several years, unless the sect of Illuminated [Ones] which lately started up on the Continent derives its origin from them, they have been called the Invisible Brothers'[32] (see below).

Finally, the same authoritative source from 1797 asserts that they arose, or first emerged into prominence in the modern era, in Germany: 'Rosicrucians, a name assumed by a sect or cabal of hermetical philosophers; who arose, as it has been said, or at least became first taken notice of in Germany, in the beginning of the fourteenth century'[33]. The sect was formally established in England by Francis Bacon, the author of 'Nova Atlantis' (1624), whom Manly P. Hall asserts in his rare work to be Valentin Andrea, who was appointed preacher to the Duke of Brunswick Wolfebbuttel in 1640, according again to the Encyclopaedia Britannica[34] - leaving us necessarily confused as to whether it really seems likely that a man as influential as Sir Francis Bacon would have accepted such a post, even had he still been alive in 1640. This possible confusion provides an interesting example of the problems facing researchers who have to contend with the reality that these people, seized with the 'seething energies of Lucifer', were and remain past-masters of deception and secrecy.

Indeed, it was formally agreed at the Rosicrucians' Convention of the Seven at Magdebourg on 31st October 1617 that the Brotherhood of the Rose Croix must maintain the strictest secrecy for 100 years. The source for this information is a Rosicrucian book entitled 'Themis Aurea', written in 1616-17 and printed in 1618, by Michael Maier, a Jew who called himself Summus Magister, or Sovereign Master, a title used in Rose-Croix documents preserved in the Sovereign Patriarchal Council of Hamburg, which is the Supreme Jewish Lodge identified by Lady Queenborough as being 'secretly affiliated to Masonry'. That expert states unequivocally, as do others, that the Rosicrucians 'conquered Freemasonry, which was officially instituted in 1717'[35] - that is to say, at the end of the hundred-year period of secrecy that the Rosicrucians agreed upon at their Convention of the Seven at Magdebourg in 1617. Why did they go underground for 100 years? Because they calculated that it would take a century to fulfil the task they set themselves of spawning the secret structures that emerged later as Masonic Lodges.

Rose Croix was, all along, 'a medium for the propagation of Gnosticism' - that is to say, for the vehement hatred of and opposition to True Christianity as elaborated first by Simon Magus, and by reprobate successors such as the 17th century false Messiah, Shabbetai Tzvi - 'and a center for political activities'. In an opening chapter to her monumental work, 'Occult Theocrasy', Lady Queenborough linked Rosicrucian and all related and subsequent forms of Gnosticism directly to the apostasy of Simon Magus:

'Luciferian Occultism... is not a novelty, but it bore a different name in the early days of Christianity. It was called Gnosticism and its founder was Simon the Magician. The Gnostics were not ordinary heretics but constituted an anti-Christian sect. To deceive the multitude, they affected disagreement with certain doctrines of the Apostles, and the chiefs selected from among the initiates those [who were] destined to receive, in secret council, the satanic revelation. Gnosticism is marked with the seal of Lucifer. It is contemporary with the Apostle Peter and has continued, without interruption, down to the present day, periodically changing its mask'[36]. Indeed, this practice of frequent 'label-changing' and reorganisation is its official, institutionalised strategy, as laid down in instructions to the seventh Illuminati Degree of Regent [see Figure 78, page 497]:

The great strength of our Order lies in its concealment; never let it appear in any place in its own name, but always covered by another name, and another occupation'.

Given this routine practice, all investigations into the identity of the Illuminati are deliberately hampered by a confused universe of secret societies characterised by innumerable reorganisations and changes of title - such as the sudden emergence (page 456) of Ordo Templi Orientis related to, or mimicking, or as an offshoot of, Albert Pike's evil Palladism; or the secret workings, from an office in Switzerland that functions all the year round, of the Bilderberg Organisation, which coordinates the Illuminati's operations. Since the Illuminati have themselves officially/inadvertently revealed their standard policy of label-changing - the formula adopted by the Soviet Communists in 1989-92, and then by 'New Labour' in Britain, which suddenly emerged as a cover for control-freak Communo-Fastism, and by 'Green Conservatism' under the Illuminati's latest robot, David Cameron - the objective analyst, while seeking the highest possible standard of accuracy, need not be over-concerned that a few threads may not appear to 'tie up'. For 'it is written' indeed that the Illuminati purposely conceal themselves and all their kabbalis-tic occultism and abominations, which they know to be wrong and to represent the certain road to perdition, in order to perpetuate maximum confusion among the 'Goyim'.

EXPLOITATION OF JEWISH ANIMUS AGAINST JESUS CHRIST

Unsurprisingly, therefore, given that we can precisely identify Rosicrucian sorcery with a Jewish/Babylonian source, it is no surprise to find that many hyperactive Jews were associated with the Rosicrucians prior to their takeover or merger with Freemasonry, in addition to Michael Maier - including Cesare Cremonini, Richard Simon and Nick Stone, who influenced the Rosicrucian figure Thomas Vaughan to pursue the idea of subverting the guild of the 'physical' Freemasons, an ancient universal fraternity, to Gnosticism and sorcery, given the phasing-out of church- and cathedral-building. At the Convention of the Seven in Magdebourg, 'The Invisibles' had both sworn to destroy the church of Jesus Christ (which they confused of course with the Catholic Church) and 'to transform the fraternity into an association which would carry on more or less open propaganda, while adopting such measures of prudence as might then be deemed expedient by the sect'[37]. Why an oath was sworn to keep these intentions secret for a century is not entirely clear, which suggests an occultic imperative. In the event, the decision was taken effectively to continue the Rosicrucian tradition of secrecy by means of the takeover-merger with Freemasonry, which enabled the Rosicrucians to spread their sorcery and related abominations through Freemasonry from behind their preferred veil of secrecy even though a publication called 'The Rosicrucian' was flourishing in the second half of the 19th century. The last of the known Grand Masters of the Rose Croix, according to Lady Queenborough, was Johann Christian Wolff[38], of Jewish extraction. And according to a source cited by Lady Queenborough herself, the last Grand Master of Rose Croix, who died in 1750, was another Jew, Brim[39]. Both were German.

German Jews have been at the forefront of the Rosicrucian Illuminati for centuries, right down to the alleged triple or quadruple agent Dr Henry Kissinger, clearly identified by the Author's late friend Malachi Martin as the International Delegate and Plenipotentiary Extraordinary to the Enthronement of the Prince of Darkness at the Vatican [see page 374] - the 'mentor' of George Bush Sr., who is allegedly the head of Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst (DVD), Dachau, under Heinz Alfred Kissinger's guidance. Both these men allegedly control vast secretly acquired financial resources.

Apart from the Rosicrucian manifestation of the perpetual 'seething energies of Lucifer', other secret societies bent upon the elevation of Gnosticism, sorcery and revolution to the forefront of the geopolitical agenda, have included:

- The Martinists, established by a Portuguese Marano Jew, Martinez Depasqualy, who indulged in magical practices united with political intrigue, and included among their members the leading political operatives Salvette de Lange, a Jew, William Law (ditto) and Mirabeau, who fomented the French Revolution - just as the Rosicrucian Illuminati separately prepared the ground for the American Revolution.
- The Strict Observance led by Baron Hund und Leucht, of Jewish extraction, who assumed the name of Johnson and several other aliases. This secret society recruited its members from the Lodges and merged occultism with political intrigue, formulating a plan for financial / economic control based on the Babylonian fiat money system.
- The Scottish Rite, the Moravian Brothers, the Alta Vendita (and/or anti-church Carbonarism, into which the Jewish Giuseppe Mazzini was initiated in 1827 and with which he merged his Young Italy Movement which shared the same objective of destroying Papal power, and was headed by a mysterious Jew called Piccolo Tigre), and the Egyptian Rites of Cagliostro (Mizraim), ostensibly founded in 1805 with 90 Degrees. Essentially Jewish, this elaborate system involved long and difficult ritual trials based on records of the Egyptian and Eleusinian occult and death mysteries. The Rite of Mizraim had in fact been amalgamated with the Rite of Memphis in 1775, for use in England.

According to The Rosicrucian' for January 1871: 'We have great pleasure in announcing that this philosophic Masonic Rite (Ancient and Primitive Rite of Mizraim) has been recently established in England under an authority derived from the Grand Council of Rites for France, and that the Conservators General held a meeting at the Freemasons Tavern, on Wednesday, the 28th December. The principal chairs were filled by Ill. Bros. Wentworth Little 90o; the Rt. Hon. The Earl of Limerick 90o; and S. Rosenthal (of Jewish extraction) 90o; by whom the 'Bective' Sanctuary of Levites - the 33rd of the Rite - was duly opened'. In other words, Mr Rosenthal was in charge.

According to Robert Freke Gould, 'The Protocols of the Wise Men or Elders of Zion' were abstracted from a Jewish Lodge of Mizraim in Paris in 1884 by Joseph Schorst, who was later murdered in Egypt. Schorst was the son of a man who had been sentenced in 1881 in London to ten years' penal servitude for counterfeiting. The document was said to embody the complete programme of esoteric Judaism. More extended enquiry, beyond the scope of this analysis, would demonstrate the dialectical linkages between the Liberal Conservatism of Disraeli, and the community of ultimate interests between the Rothschilds, the Goldsmids, Karl Marx, Moses Hess and all the other players of Jewish extraction mentioned in this book which, Lady Queenborough asserts, 'all point towards the establishment of Jewish power. And although their respective activities seem to stand so far apart, yet they are all linked, all tending towards the same end'[40]. Lady Queenborough also explained why historians had failed to identify Illuminism with the unbroken stream of Jewish Gnosticism, sorcery and political intrigue stretching back to Simon Magus:

'Whereas in Gentile life, there is an unbridgeable abyss between Conservatism and Anarchy, Religion and Atheism, there is no such chasm in the Jewish mentality'. This reflects, inter alia, the fact that Judaism is 'religionised law'. 'There, all currents, no matter in what direction they may seem to flow, are finally united and channelled in one unique direction. It has been somewhat difficult for historians of the French Revolution to see the close link between Judaism and IUuminism; [but] we repeat that no such difficulty exists for the student of the 1848 revolutionary period.... The main difference is that the term 'Illuminism' used in the 18th century is replaced by the wide term Freemasonry which embraces all the existent secret societies', represented therein[41].

MASONIC 'DUPES' NEVER INTENDED TO UNDERSTAND

The adepts and initiates of the revolutionary and occultic societies were hardly aware of these broader dimensions, let alone that they were all dupes who were and are, to modify the notorious statement by that prize sorcerer and dupe Albert Pike, not intended to understand but to imagine that they understand[42]. All they knew was that they had shaken off the 'yoke' of Christian principles, and that these were replaced 'by the cult of nature, and in almost all cases by licentiousness'[43].

The modern Illuminati heirs of these people have 'successfully' procured the hegemony of licentiousness through the free-wheeling perversions and license of all modern forms of 'entertainment', the electronic media and (in the United Kingdom) the conversion of the media into transmission platforms for the wholesale purveyance of decadence, the glorification of fornication and sexual perversions of all kinds, and the ridiculing of all serious opposition to this avalanche of filth, which is epitomised by the reptilian repulsiveness of 'The Stones' - not to mention the British technique of hiding dissidents such as this Author behind a 'wall of silence'. The Channel Five TV station broadcasts (usually American) filth of such degradation that it must obviously have been concluded by the Illuminati cells operating within it, that the Goyim have been so anaesthetised that it will now accept any foul provocation without protest. In any case, institutionalised mechanisms exist for decisively deflecting and neutralising all criticism.

Concerning the imagined 'yoke' of Christian principles, which preclude abominations such as the Illuminised Ones' lust after, rejection of burdens imposed by the Catholic Church upon the faithful comes'richly' from Judaic 'prophets' who maintain the Pharisaical system of petty rules and regulations. These dictate, for instance, that when, in 2000, the Author had to attend Beth Israel Hospital in New York (where he incurred a charge of $5,500 for an 18-hour stay), he was instructed to avoid a certain elevator which, given that it was a Saturday, stopped at every floor because one of the Talmudic Jews' 613 'rules' states that pressing an elevator button on the Sabbath is 'work', which is forbidden on that day (superstition, of course) Alternatively, an egg cannot be eaten, according to Rabbinical wisdom, on the Sabbath if most of it was laid before the appearance of the second star in the sky. By contrast, the 'yoke' of Jesus Christ is light indeed: 'Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light'[44].

LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT SHED BY BENJAMIN DISRAELI

At this point, Benjamin Disraeli comes to our rescue. He does so in his novel 'Coningsby', published[45] in London in 1844, in which he drew a picture, from observed life, of Jews ruling the world from behind thrones - a picture as graphic as is suggested by The Protocols'. In one passage, a Rothschild (thinly disguised under the name Sidonia) says: 'You never observe a great intellectual movement in Europe in which the Jews do not greatly participate. The first Jesuits were Jews'. Ignatius Loyola, while a student at Salamanca in 1527, was tried by an ecclesiastical commission (prior to Loyola's own later establishment of the Papal repression apparat) for sympathy with a sect called 'The Illuminati' or the 'Alombrados', founded in about 1520 - but was acquitted with an admonition. This might explain, then, the perverse fervour with which Ignatius Loyola set about developing the Inquisition, which, as a Jew, he would have known would, over time, trigger such accumulated animosity towards the Church that it would become easier to destroy, or else (as was finally decided) to subvert it from within, en route to its conversion into the Universal Church of Man. And Disraeli is enlightening, too, on the intimate connection between Jews and German sorcerers in this endeavour:

"That mysterious Russian diplomacy which so alarms Western Europe is organised and principally carried on by Jews; that mighty revolution (1848)... is entirely developing under the auspices of Jews, who almost monopolise the professorial chairs of Germany; Neander, founder of spiritual Christianity [sic] and who is Regius professor of Divinity in the University of Berlin, is a Jew. Benary, equally famous, and in the same University, is a Jew. Wehl, the Arabic Professor of Heidelberg, is a Jew. Years ago, when I was in Palestine, I met a German student who was accumulating materials for the history of Christianity and studying the genius of the place; a modest and learned man. It was Wehl; then unknown, since become the first Arabic scholar of the day, and the author of the life of Mahomet. But for the German professors of this race, their name is legion. I think there are more than ten in Berlin alone'[46].

Since the famous Victorian Jewish Prime Minister of Great Britain could hardly be a more impeccable source, a further paragraph from 'Coningsby', in which the author talks about Rothschild (Sidonia) criss-crossing Europe to make loans to potentates, and in which he alludes to the 'protective Christianisation' of Jews in Spain, is relevant:

'A few years back we were applied to by Russia [for a loan - Ed.].... I resolved to go to St Petersburg. I had on my arrival an interview with the Russian Minister of Finance, Count Canrin. I beheld the son of a Lithuanian Jew. The loan was connected with the affairs of Spain; I resolved on repairing to Spain from Russia. I travelled without intermission. I had an audience immediately on my arrival with the Spanish Minister, Senor Mendizabel; I beheld one like myself, the son of a Nuevo Christiano, a Jew of Aragon. In consequence of what transpired in Madrid, I went straight to Paris to consult the President of the French Council; I beheld the son of a French Jew...'. [Back in Northern Europe, in Prussia]. 'Count Arnim entered the Cabinet [room], and I beheld a Prussian Jew. So you see, my dear Coningsby, that the world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes'[47].

THE EARLIER SPANISH VERSION OF THE PROTOCOLS'

In 1492, the Chief Rabbi of Spain, Chemor, wrote to the Grand Sanhedrin, which then had its seat in Constantinople, asking for high-level advice in the face of a Spanish law which threatened all Jews with expulsion. The reply he received, shown in Figures 68A and 68B on pages 449 and 451, was published in a 16th Century Spanish work entitled 'La Silva Curiosa', with the following explanation: 'This letter following was found in the archives of Toledo by the Hermit of Salamanca, (while) searching the ancient records of the Kingdoms of Spain; and, as it is expressive and remarkable, I wish to write it here'. The text in question represents an earlier version of a Jewish 'draft plan of action' of which, authorities claim, 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion' is a later manifestation:

"Beloved brethren in Moses, we have received your letter in which you tell us of the anxieties and misfortunes which you are enduring. We are pierced by as great a pain to hear it as yourselves. The advice of the Grand Satraps and Rabbis is the following:

1. As for what you say that the King [Ferdinand] of Spain obliges you to become Christians: do it, since you cannot do otherwise.

2. As for what you say about the command to despoil you of your property: make your sons merchants that they may despoil, little by little, the Christians of theirs.

3. As for what you say about making attempts on your lives: make your sons doctors and apothecaries, that they may take away Christians' lives.

4. As for what you say about their destroying your synagogues: make your sons canons and clerics in order that they may destroy their churches.

5. As for the many other vexations you complain of: arrange that your sons become advocates and lawyers, and see that they always mix in affairs of State, that by putting Christians under your yoke you may dominate the world and be avenged of them.

6. Do not swerve from this order that we give you, because you will find by experience that humiliated as you are, you will reach the actuality of power.

Signed: 'Prince of the Jews of Constantinople'[48].

We may now be closer to understanding why it is possible to delete all Jewish references and connotations from the text of 'The Protocols', as translated from the Russian of Nilus, and to conclude that the text represents the blueprint of the Illuminati for the achievement of global hegemony. The point is that, as with the analogy of rats in a sack, these people invariably work at cross-purposes and fall out with each other. Moreover the Jews are themselves woefully divided, even though they are bound together by a single Messianic idea and also in certain cases by a hatred of Christianity which arises from their deep subconscious awareness that they 'missed the boat' when Christ was crucified, although large numbers of Jews were converted both then and afterwards: for these people are anything but stupid. But the dear Jewess who told the youthful, naive Author that 'a Jew's greatest enemy is another Jew', said it all. For the reality is that while the great idea binds them together, they are often permanently at loggerheads with each other along the way. And since this is the norm, it is no surprise that 'The Protocols' were drafted in such a way that, if all reference to Jewish ideas and language is removed, they read like the prospectus for the Illuminati's World Revolution which those who have not studied the matter might imagine is a venture that is entirely 'free-standing'.

THE PALLADIAN RITE - A GOVERNING GEOMASONIC CONTROL CENTRE

Since the Society of Jesus was indeed founded by a Jew, and the Rosicrucian conquest of Freemasonry was a Jewish operation, the kabbalistic sorcery and Satanism which characterises Freemasonry is indisputably, as key Jewish authorities themselves acknowledge, Jewish. The innumerable recruits to the secret societies in the 18th century, who had de facto abandoned Christianity and had given themselves over to the cult of nature and to licentiousness, were, as their heirs are today, dupes knowingly manipulated by hidden (partly Jewish) forces dedicated to the destruction of Christianity (an impossible task) and to the disruption of States - forces for whom all the secret societies and Orders were simply recruiting grounds. When the power and influence of these secret societies threatened to become uncontrollable, and had grown to such an extent that discipline was judged necessary, the 'Invisible' masters, the mainly Jewish Rosicrucian controllers, took steps to impose 'unity' upon the huge numbers of rats that had bred in the sack of iniquity - a step that was achieved when the secret societies and Lodges were united under the umbrella of universal Illuminism at the Convent of Wilhelmsbad in 1782.

Today, many prominent Freemasons are initiates of parallel Orders and hold multiple Masonic ranks, as well as belonging to one or more parallel secret societies hiding behind Illuminist Freemasonry. As a consequence, a stubborn Luciferian interlocking directorate or nexus has long since developed which this Author believes to represent the single most grievous impediment to peace on earth and the salvation of mankind, and the primary source of corruption, institutionalised double-mindedness, lies and

La Silua curioſa,

ESTA CARTA SIGVIENTE FVE hallada por el Ermitaño de Salamanca en los Archiuos de Toledo, buſcando las antiguedades de los Reinos d España: y pues ella es ſentida, y notable quiero eſcriuirtela aqui.

CARTA DE LOS IVDIOS d'Eſpaña, a los de Conſtantinopola.

IVdios honrrados, Salud y gracia. Sepades que el Rey d'Eſpaña por pregon publico nos haze boluer Chriſtianos, y nos quitan las haziendas, y las vidas, y nos deſtruyen nueſtras Sinagogas, y nos hazen otras vexaciones, las quales nos tienen confuſos, y inciertos de lo que hemos de hazer. Por la Ley de Moyſen os rogamos, y ſuplicamos tengais por bien de hazer ayuntamiento, y embiarnos con toda breuedad la deliberacion que en ello huuieredes fecho.

CHAMORRA Principe de los Iudios de Eſpaña.

Reſpueſta de los Iudios de Conſtantinopla, a los Iudios de Eſpaña.

AMados hermanos en Moyſen vueſtra carta recibimos, en la qual nos ſignificais los trabajos & infortunios que padeſceis, de cuyo ſentimiento nos a cabido tanta parte como a vototros. El pareſcer de los grandes Satrapas, y Rabi es lo ſiguiente.

Figure 68A: In 1492, Chemor, the Chief Rabbi of Spain, wrote to the Grand Sanhedrin, which then had its seat at Constantinople, for advice, consequent upon the Spanish Monarchy's threat that if the Jews in Spain did not convert to Christianity, they would be expelled. This is the first page of the reply, found in the 16th Century Spanish book 'La Silva Curiosa', by Julio-lniguez de Medrano [Paris, Orry, 1608, on pages 156 and 157]. The text of the advice, in translation, is given on page 447-448 of the present work. See also Figure 68B, page 451.

routine deception in government, the legal profession, the churches, bureaucracies, the political establishment and, regrettably, today, the controlled 'mainstream' mass media.

Glimpses of the scope of the interlocking nexus can be gleaned from the records left by certain boastful initiates. For instance, William Wynn Westcott, an English Mason, was appointed Junior Grand Deacon to the Grand Lodge of England in 1902 and the head of 'Societas Rosicruciana in Anglia'. He was also the head of the subversive 'New Age' Illuminati operation calling itself 'Golden Dawn', as well as being the Secretary of the Rite of Swedenborg, Knight Kadosch of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Grand Standard Bearer, Royal Arch, Grand Lodge of England, and Regent of the Illuminati. In addition, Westcott was on intimate terms with one 'Golden Dawn's founders, the German Jewish 'High' Mason, Theodore Reuss (33o, 90o, 96o). For his part, Reuss included the following among his titles: 'Magnus Supremus in Mundo' (meaning Supreme Magus of the World) of the Esoteric Rosicrucians, Frater Superior and Outer Head in Mundo of the Ancient Order of Oriental Templars (O.T.O.: see page 456), and Sovereign Grand Master for life of the Ancient Rites of Masonry, Memphis and Mizraim Rites for the German Empire and its dependencies. Such 'elevated Masonic personages' would have been 'perfect' candidates for membership of the super-secret (because super-depraved) Palladian Rite.

This organisation was devised both to provide the most senior selected Masons world-wide with a secret forum in which to practice 'high sorcery' and sexual rites, and also as the Illuminati's infrastructure of global control. Its blueprint was devised by the Jewish sorcerer-criminalist Giuseppe Mazzini, who put forward his control plan in a letter to Albert Pike dated 22nd January 1870, in which he wrote:

'We must leave all the confederations to continue just as they are, with their systems, their central authorities and their diverse modes of correspondence between high grades of the same rite, organized as they are at present, but we must create a super rite, which will remain unknown, to which we will call those Masons of High Degree whom we shall select. With regard to our brothers in Masonry, these men must be pledged to the strictest secrecy. Through this supreme rite' - to be used to impose secrecy by means of occult blood-oaths and their accompanying penalty, probably, of death, for any breach - 'we will govern all Freemasonry, which will become the one international center, the more powerful because its direction will be unknown'.

In other words, the confusion which the present-day analyst faces, in seeking confirmation of the infrastmcture and control mechanisms of the Illuminati, was left deliberately exacerbated - to ensure a perpetual cascade of sand in our faces. The separate identities of the innumerable and always proliferating secret societies, and of the innumerable Masonic rites and their counterparts, were institutionalised, so that future analysts would (they assumed) be unable to work out where the real power lay, and the true source of this devilish cacophony. The Palladian Rite was established as the hidden global control mechanism - in the eyes of Mazzini and Pike, and their heirs, at any rate.

The Author's earlier nominal attempt to separate Weishaupt from the more obviously Jewish strands of Illuminism can therefore be dismissed now, because it can be seen, and authorities have acknowledged, that Illuminism represented the combined secret operations of the heads of the powerful Jewish Kahal [see pages 453-454] which has always striven for political, financial and economic dominance. The 'open' sect of the Illuminati had indeed been '(re)founded' by the lapsed Jesuit and Jew, Professor Adam Weishaupt, in , the year of the American Revolution and three years after the Jewish Kahal ('centre') in Poland had to go underground when Poland was partitioned. Bernard Libro primero.

A lo que dezis que el Rey de Eſpaña os haze boluer Chriſtianos, que lo hagais pues no podeis hazer otro: A lo que dezis que os mandan quitar vueſtras haziendas, hazed vueſtros hijos mercaderes, para que poco a poco les quiten las ſuyas. A lo que dezis que os quitã las vidas, hazed vueſtros hijos medicos y boticarios, para que les quiten las ſuyas. A lo que dezis que os deſtruyen en vueſtras Sinagogas, hazed vueſtros hijos clerigos y theologos, para que les deſtruyan ſus templos. Y a lo que dezis que os hazen otras vexiciones, procurad que vueſtros hijos ſean abogados, procuradores, notarios, y conſejeros, y que ſiempre entiendan en negocios de Republicas, para que ſujetandolos ganeis tierra, y os podais vengar dellos, y no ſalgais deſta orden que os damos, porque por experiencia vereis que de abatidos, verneis a ſer tenidos en algo.

VSSVS FF. Principe de los Iudios de Conſtantinopla.

LA generoſa Marfiſa eſtando triſte, y muy afligida por la muerte del paſtor Gelido de Riojo, embio vna carta a Iulio, y por ella entre otras coſas le ruega, que no le eſcriua mas cartas ni verſos que traten de amores, porque paſſó folia, y el mayor conſuelo que agora ella tomaua, era en andar ſolitaria por vn deſierto, cantando verſos triſtes, y lamentables, y eſcriuiendo diuerſos epitaphios por las fuentes y peñas, y ſobre las cortezas de los arboles. Aſſi miſmo eſcriue a Iulio y le ruega mucho que en lugar de las ſentidas Empreſas, y hermoſiſſimas Deuiſas, que otras vezes folia of-

Figure 68B: From the 16th Century Spanish book 'La Silva Curiosa', by Julio-Iniguez de Medrano [Paris, Orry, 1608, on pages 156 and 157]: see also Figure 68A on page 449. The text of the advice, in translation, is given on page 449 of the present work. The text was accompanied by this explanation: The letter following was found in the archives of Toledo by the Hermit of Salamanca, (while) searching the ancient records of the Kingdoms of Spain; and as it is expressive and remarkable, I wish to write it here'.

Lazare, of Jewish extraction, wrote that 'there were Jews behind Weishaupt'[49]. And in a listing of Jewish influences behind the French Revolution, Lady Queenborough lists Adam Weishaupt himself: 'Upon a close study of Illuminism, we find that the destructive forces which culminated in the French Revolution' were financial, intellectual and anti-Christian, and were all Jewish:

Financial forces: 'In the first class, we come upon the names of Jewish financiers such as Daniel Itzig, Friedlander, Ceerfbeer, Benjamin and Abraham Goldsmid, Moses Mocatta [and] Veitel Heine Ephraim'.

Intellectual forces: 'In the second category, we find Moses Mendelssohn, Naphtali Wessely, Moses Hersheim.... Frederick Nicolai, Adam Weishaupt, Mirabeau, l'Abbe Gregoire, the Duke of Brunswick-Wolfenbuttel and Anacharsis Clootz'.

Anti-Christian forces: 'Lastly, the third class is composed mostly of the group known as the Encyclopedists: d'Alembert, Diderot, Rousseau, Voltaire and of all the Kabbalists practicing magic and among whom we find: Martinez Depasqualy, Leucht, the Magus Count of Saint Germain, Falke and Joseph Balsamo surnamed Cagliostro'.

The inclusion in this list of Jewish kabbalists of the Count of Saint Germain is of extreme interest, as certain analysts maintain that the Rosicrucian documents identified as having been composed by Sir Francis Bacon, were elaborated or championed by the Count of Saint Germain (1710-1764), whose other aliases included the Jewish names of Daniel Wolf and Prince Rakosky (Racoczy). A carefully woven and concocted veil of 'mystery' has been erected around this character, who is advertised by deluded Masonic illuminati (who profess to 'believe' in reincarnation) to be a so-called 'ascended master', whose 'service to humanity' goes back more than 150,000 years. According to various 'magickal' sources, he was born out of wedlock to Queen Elizabeth I, and was named Sir Francis Bacon, and wrote the occult plays attributed to William Shakespeare. Bacon became the leading 16th century proponent of Rosicrucianism. His supposed 'magick' existence finds him travelling incognito throughout Europe, winding up as Prince Racoczy of Transylvania (i.e., the Prince of the Jews in that part of the world). Then he transmogrified himself, reappearing as the Comte de Saint Germain in 17th century France. He maintained the same physical appearance throughout the 18th and 19th centuries.

His prolonged 'existence' is, of course, a fable fabricated to provide a rationale for the occultic practice of alchemy and of the vain 'quesf for immortality, in which Rosicrucians notoriously self-indulge. Marie Antoinette's Lady-in-Waiting wrote letters about this, several of which are to be found in The Louvre.

The Emperor Frederick the Great, one of the most important of all evil historical Illuminists, referred to the Count as 'the man who never dies'; even at table, when dining with kings, he was never seen to eat. He also supposedly possessed the ability to transmit himself from, say, Paris to India overnight. Records of St Germain's activities are to be found, allegedly, in French, German, Austrian, Dutch and Danish archives. St Germain was 'last seen' in physical form in around 1822, and these days he works in 'lighter realms', continuing to 'help the world'. (Sources for all such idiocy: a biography by Isabel Cooper-Oakley (Theosophical Publishing House, 1912; and 'Unveiled Mysteries and the Magic Presence', by Godfre Ray King (St Germain Press)). So powerful, seemingly, is the residual urge to believe in lies, fabrications and magick, that books published on such esoteric inventions actually attract a significant readership. Bookstore chains (at least one of which is a drug money-laundering outlet) add to the confusion by displaying esoteric and magick books alongside dwindling Christian shelves.

THE REMIT OF THE WILHELMSBAD ILLUMINATI SECRET LODGES & SOCIETIES

The stated objectives of the secret societies and Masonic organisations originally welded together as the Bavarian Rosicrucian Illuminati which emerged from the Convent or Congress of Wilhelmsbad, were as follows:

1. The destruction of Christianity and of all Monarchical Governments. Explanations: Christianity has to be destroyed (a) because they confuse and misrepresent Christianity with the Roman Catholic Church's past (and certain continuing) abominations; (b) because the perfect truth of the Word of God through Jesus Christ was rejected by many (but by no means all) of their forebears and they cannot admit they were in error, and also because of ethnic peer-pressure; and (c) more to the point, because True Christianity is completely incompatible with sorcery, magick, astrology, necromancy, the invocation of evil spirits and all the other abominations of Babylon to which their hatred of Christianity has driven them. The destruction of Monarchical Governments is a central objective because they cannot abide absolutism (although a Monarchical form of control is easy to penetrate, as the 'success' of Rasputin and the American Jewish female guru sent to destabilise Princess Diana seem to have made clear).

2. The destruction of nation states as such in favour of universal internationalism. Explanation: Impediments in the way of total control are theoretically removed. But in reality, no universal governance system can possibly work, given that all human beings are different - something that irks the Illuminati, who seek by psycho-manipulative, psycho-chemical and social engineering means to create 'universal man' equipped with a 'common mind'. This endeavour is doomed to failure.

3. The discouragement of patriotic and loyal effort which is branded as narrow-minded prejudice, incompatible with 'goodwill to all men' and the slogan of 'Universal Brotherhood'. Comment: This is indeed the fate of those whom in the UK context for instance, see through the European Union fraud [Chapter 8] and seek to extract the United Kingdom from the clutches of this German long-range Illuminati entrapment strategy and systematic coup d'etat by instalments.

4. The abolition of family ties and of marriage by means of systematic corruption. Comment: In the United Kingdom, this process has advanced to the stage at which the young generation lacks all shame and is content to take 'partners' and to shun marriage, with the media constantly braying that marriage has collapsed, and the Masonic Judiciary assisting the process. This is a key objective of the Illuminati, en route to the destruction of private property, which marriage is deemed to sustain.

5. The suppression of all rights of inheritance and of private property. Comment: As indicated in item 4 above, the destruction of the institution of marriage is intended to prepare the way for the abolition of all private property (Communism). Communism by definition implies and intends the abnegation of private property. Many Jews are naturally Communists because, on balance, they prefer money to property.

The progress made by the Rosicrucian Illuminati with their World Revolution was decisively influenced by the history of the European Jewish and Khazarian [see page 473 et seq.] diaspora, which effectively established a 'state within the state' successively in Babylon, Judea (under the Romans), Galilee, Babylonia, Spain and finally Poland in the 1500s, where a Khazarian population of millions came into being and the 'centre' of 'Jewish' diaspora governance (the Kahal) was settled. When Poland was partitioned in 1772, this 'centre' disappeared inside Russia. In the 19th century it re-emerged as the Jewish International, with two dialectical wings - Communism and Zionism (Fascism).

In other words, with no firm territorial 'centre', the Talmudic Kahal resolved finally upon internationalism, facilitated by the parallel Judaicisation of Freemasonry consolidated through the merger of the Illuminati with the Lodges. This is The Synagogue of Satan, driven by 'them which say they are Jews, and are not'[50], which equated the intended destruction of Christianity with global hegemony achieved by financial manipulation. Since nation states and private property (except for the 'Chosen') stand in the way of this agenda, they, along with the very foundations of society such as marriage and the family, are 'legitimate targets' and the 'collateral damage' of this World Revolution. Accordingly:

- The secret societies and Masonic Lodges are recruiting devices calculated to separate continuing Gentile Christians, of whatever denomination, from the revealed truth that is in Jesus Christ, and to replace True Christianity with the Luciferian, esoteric 'New Ageism', magick, spiritism and sorcery in which the Synagogue of Satan specialises.
- These abominations are derived from the Babylonian Kabbalah, and from the Egyptian and Eleusinian mysteries which are foreign to the true Jewish revealed tradition, and echo the final decision of the children of Israel and their Khazarian mimics to abandon the Lord of Hosts in favour of the pagan demon-gods against which they were warned throughout their ancient history - in favour of this Synagogue of Satan.
- Again, as has been seen (Chapter 5), Jewish authorities specifically assert that 'Masonry is Jewish'. It is the primary mechanism for the cynical and duplicitous transmission of Khazarian kabbalistic abominations which have no part in the revealed truth of God as taught in the Torah. The Synagogue of Satan is indeed the habitation of devils.
- The untutored Goy dupes in the Lodge imagine that they are learning the real truth as revealed to the Jews: indeed, they even use a doctored Bible for the purpose. But they have 'no part nor lot' with the truth of the Lord of Hosts. Since they take blood and other occult oaths, pledging their loyalty to Satan in some rituals, they are partakers of the Synagogue of Satan and either blindly or knowingly abandon any hope of salvation. As Disraeli candidly asserted through the words of one of his characters in 'Coningsby', these dupes do not worship the Lord of Hosts, but rather Lucifer himself.

The deepest sense of Christ's condemnation of such people has to do with their knowing confusion of Christ with Lucifer (devilish inversion of the truth). This practice was alluded to by the French 19th century occultist Bataille, in the following passage (remember, crucially, that these practitioners of occult rituals and initiation ceremonies understand spiritual matters better than many so-called Christians):

'According to the teaching of the Christian churches, God allows demons certain limited powers, but they are not permitted to open the Gates of Hell and release a spirit at the request of one who evokes the dead. The dead, even damned, will not show themselves if evoked, nor would evocations be answered by those who had succeeded in attaining the Kingdom of Heaven; but devils can and do, says the Church, substitute themselves for the deceased. They will impersonate a dead person whose appearance is demanded by invocations'.

The 'mystery of iniquity' thrives on and exploits confusion, since human beings have free will and, even when blind and living in the spiritual darkness, retain a sufficient knowledge of good and evil never to be powerless to choose between them. This may seem to contradict the theme of this book, which illustrates how the evil people it describes seem to be predisposed always to take the aberrant course. They 'sit in darkness and in the shadow of [spiritual and physical] death', fearful of breaking away - even though the single step of true repentance and faith they must take, can be easy and simple.

PAPAL NECROMANCY AND THE GNOSTICISM OF SIMON MAGUS

This appears to be what was happening in the Vatican Palace in 2005. Pope Benedict XVI made it quite plain in a Polish television interview on 16th October, according to 'Der Spiegel', that he is in regular touch with a being that he delusionally believes to be Pope John Paul II [see page 294]. However the dead do not communicate with the living, although evil spirits do. Therefore, what Pope Benedict XVI is 'receiving' from his predecessor will necessarily represent distortions of whatever his predecessor may have said and written, whether Pope John Paul II's written statements were spiritually correct in the first place, or not. The new Pope told his superstitious Polish viewers that 'my personal mission is not to issue many new documents, but to ensure that his documents are assimilated, because they are a rich treasure. I hear him and I see him speaking, so I can keep up a continuous dialogue with him. His nearness to me isn't limited to words and texts, because behind the texts I hear the Pope himself. A man who goes to the Lord doesn't disappear: I believe that someone who goes to the Lord comes even closer to us'.

However Jesus Christ was dismissive of such superstitious, pagan ideas, saying sternly: 'Let the dead bury their dead'[51]. He was stern about this in order to leave no room for doubt that the mystery of the Resurrection is not to be confused with pagan fantasies about life after death. Necromancy is defined as 'the revealing of future events through pretended communication with the dead; sorcery'[52].

That passage by Bataille concluded: 'It is also admitted [by the Christian churches] that fallen angels or spirits will often manifest to people without being called. The theological hagiographa cite many cases of diabolical apparitions to saints, apparitions which these saints have been able to repel and conquer... but what skeptics and agnostic Christians [sic!] alike ignore is that beside the drawing room mediums, mediums for diversion, there are occultists whose vile practices are veiled in the profoundest mystery. These men, whose moral sense is absolutely perverted, believe in Lucifer, but they believe him to be the equal of God and worship him secretly', as Ezekiel once saw[53].

They do this secretly in the darkness of the Synagogue of Satan - as was revealed to Ezekiel over five centuries before Christ - where they practice, in addition to satanic rites and invocations of evil spirits at certain levels of initiation, the Gnosticism originally espoused by Simon Magus and Albert Pike, based on spiritism, using mediums.

According to one authority, 'such was the Excellency of their Knowledge and Illumination, who arrogantly styled themselves Gnostics, that they are superior to Peter or Paul or any of Christ's other disciples. They only, have drunk up the Supreme Knowledge, are above Principalities and Powers, secure of Salvation: and for that very reason, are free to debauch women, or indulge in all manner of licentiousness. This knowledge is of itself perfect redemption, and sufficient.... Simon Magus... instituted certain foul and infamous Mysteries inexpressibly filthy and had assemblies equally filthy to celebrate them.... [Certain of their number]... taught incontinence to be obligatory, as a law; and not only lawful, but necessary to salvation; not only compatible with the Saviour's religion, but an essential part of it: and those were the best men, who in common opinion were the most vicious. [These people] grew to that degree of madness, that being unable to conceal their debaucheries, they made incontinence to be a law [teaching that] fornication ought to be open and public, and the use of women common. For which reason, in their feasts, the candles were extinguished, each lay with the women, as chance appointed; and they called this lasciviousness a mystical initiation, a mystical communion'[54]. This louche filthiness is replicated on Britain's Channel 5 TV station nightly.

THE PROLIFERATION OF DEBAUCHED AND REPROBATE MODERN RITES

Further manifestations of this same Jewish madness surfaced in other parts of the world. For instance, Emmanuel Swedenborg, the son of Jasper Swedberg who in turn was the son of Daniel Isaakson of Fahlun, Sweden, was initiated at Lund in 1706 and progressed to the higher Templar Degrees as practiced in Sweden. Swedenborg's Rite, founded in 1721, was introduced into England by the Swedish Consul, Springer, and other Swedes, who set up the first Swedenborgian Society in London, known as the Theosophical Society of the New Jerusalem. The Rite was taken to the Americas by a Swedenborgian Minister, Brother Samuel Beswick, who lived at Strathroy, Canada, where he wrote a book on the Swedenborgian Rite, called 'The llluminati of Stockholm'. What is known as the Rite of Swedenborg was another modification of The Order of the llluminati of Avignon, effected by the Marquis de Thome in 1783[55]. The llluminati of Avignon were founded there in 1760 by Antoine Joseph Pernety, a defrocked Benedictine monk, a kabbalist and an alchemist. A modified version of the Avignon Rite was introduced in Paris at the Lodge Socrates of Perfect Union under the name of Illumines Theosophiques. The Rite became extinct, but the Degree of Knight of the Sun, founded by Pernety, which was divided into two Degrees, became the 27th and 28th Degrees of the (misleadingly termed) Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite[56].

A further secret manifestation of Illuminism, or one of them, was developed by the German Jew Karl Kellner in 1895. After he died in 1905, he was succeeded by the previously mentioned 'high' German Mason, also Jewish, Theodore Reuss, who was the official agent of one of the most active Freemasonic Illuminists ever to have lived, John Yarker. This English Mason, a 33rd Degree Scottish Rite initiate, received over 12 patents of 33° of the Supreme Council in various parts of the world, held high initiated offices in Greece, Ireland, Italy (for which he acted as an organising Masonic ambassador), Spain, and other countries, holding the honour of Hon. Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Germany and Cuba, and was a high priest of the 7th Degree of Knights Templar priests in Manchester. His agent, Theodore Reuss, was the Delegate of the A. and P. Rite of Memphis from Spain and Bulgaria to Germany, and from Germany to England.

ORDO TEMPLI ORIENTIS

One of Reuss's Masonic patents was signed by fellow Jews Franz Hartmann 33°, 90°, 95°, and Henry Klein, 33°, 95°, the powerful Jewish solicitor based in London. These transnational interconnections are of interest, as they illuminate a curious feature of international intelligence operations noticed by the Author - namely, that foreign intelligence operatives have been known to be appointed Ambassadors to third countries by a client state, to facilitate travel arrangements, the penetration of official structures and the completion of clandestine transactions. This methodology is modelled upon the practice of diplomatic appointments and activity perfected by the Jesuits and the Knights of Malta. In 1902, Theodore Reuss, the German Jewish llluminati operative and agent of John Yarker, named William Wynn Westcott as Regent of the llluminati, thereby establishing or reinforcing the de facto interlocking directorate between the Societas Rosicruciana in Anglia, and German Illuminism. This organisation remained underground, like so many other manifestations or 'splinters' of 'The Order', until the early 20th century. The resulting reprobate manifestation of 'The Order', Ordo Templi Orientis (O.T.O.), called itself, maximising Luciferian confusion, 'a body of initiates in whose hands are concentrated the wisdom and knowledge of the following bodies and Rites:

Figure 69: At around the turn of the century, Karl Kellner, a German of Jewish extraction, (re)founded the Ordo Templi Orientis (O.T.O.), a ritual magick group which taught sex magick, and which is believed to be the 'open' manifestation of Albert Pike's Palladian Rite 'tradition'. [Aleister] Crowley joined the O.T.O. and was made the head of its British affiliate. To the heterosexual Ninth Degree he added a homosexual Eleventh Degree. O.T.O. sexual magick is derived from oriental sources as well as from P. B. Randolph of the American-based Fraternitas Rosae Cruris. It was 'perfected' by Crowley during three years (1920-23) at the Abbey of Thelema in Sicily. Crowley succeeded Theodore Reuss in 1922 as Outer Head of the O.T.O.. Upon Crowley's death in 1947, Karl Johannes Germer succeeded to the Outer Headship of The Order'. Germer had been with Crowley in England, but returned to his native Germany in the 1930s'. The family names Kellner, Crowley, Reuss and Germer are all known to be Jewish family names, but the a main focus of interest is the obvious reality that this satanic Order sprang from the subversive operations of the Illuminati in Germany -from whence, as this work demonstrates, the Illuminati's assault on civilisation is being directed. In 1904, Crowley 'received' The Book of the Lav/ which it is claimed was based on instructions largely 'channelled' to him by 'spirit guides', i.e. evil spirits, during a visit to Egypt (which is metaphorically The Darkness' in Old Testament biblical terms). This so-called 'received' document purportedly 'replaces' Christianity and its 'lav/ of personal sacrifice and overcoming temptation, with the Thelema' of Ordo Templi Orientis - the governing instruction of which is 'Do as Thou Wilt' (modem vernacular: 'Do your own thing'). In the occultic language used in the O.T.O. context, the phrase 'Concealed Child' represents the 'new Aeon' before its 'birth' in 1904; and the ensuing 'age' is called the 'Age of the Child', a.k.a. the 'New Age' and the 'Age of Aquarius'. During the 'Millennium Bug' period, computer users around the world learned, in most cases for the first time, that the 'Date and Time' functions built into the software ALWAYS default to 1st January 1904. Now why was that? Why does computer software not default to 1900, or 1901, or 1960? Why 1904? The answer to this question is that computers and software are essential instruments for the dissemination of the evil 'values' for which Ordo Templi Orientis stands: so they default to the birth of the 'New Age'. Hence the deliberate flooding of our computers via the Internet with pornography, dubious pharmaceutical 'cures', scamming operations and other grotesque inventions of Satan. The accuracy of this assessment was separately revealed to a colleague of this Author by a relative who is a high-ranking Illuminati operative. The source confirmed it is not for nothing that Bill Gates is known as 'The Gatekeeper', and that it is intended that every computer in the world will 'talk to' the Pentagon, the seat of the enforcement arm of the 'New World Order' - that is, The Order to be imposed by the Rosicrucian (Illuminati)-driven 'New World' which is secretly controlled by European Forces of Darkness. The image above is of the O.T.O.'s esoteric emblem.

1. The Gnostic Catholic Church.
2. The Order of the Knights of the Holy Ghost (unforgivable blasphemy]
3. The Order of the Illuminati.
4. The Order of the Temple (Knights Templar).
5. The Order of the Knights of St John.
6. The Order of the Knights of Malta.
7. The Order of the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre.
8. The Hidden Church of the Holy Grail.
9. The Hermetic Brotherhood of Light.
10. The Holy Order of Rose Croix of Heredom.
11. The Order of the Holy Royal Arch of Enoch.
12. The Ancient and Primitive Rite of Masonry (33 Degrees).
13. The Rite of Memphis (97 Degrees).
14. The Rite of Mizraim (90 Degrees).
15. The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Masonry (33 Degrees).
16. The Swedenborgian Rite of Masonry.
17. The Order of the Marinists (who ceased functioning and 'went underground' in the late 1880s, resurfacing inside O.T.O.).
18. The Order of Sat B'hai, and many other Orders. Note that the murdered British bioscientist, Dr David Kelly, was a member of what is now known as the B'hai faith, a manifestation of the Islamic 'heresy' of Sufism (adhered to inter alia by Emirs of Kuwait).
19. In addition, Ordo Templi Orientis is said to be 'in close alliance' with an Order called Atlantean Adepts (AA), a term which, as is typically the case, is not defined.

There is some evidence that O.T.O. existed well before the beginning the 20th century. It is advanced inter alia by Craig Heimbichner, who notes on pages 71-72 of his 2005 book 'Blood on The Altar: The Secret History of the World's Most Dangerous Secret Society'[57]:

'Occult sources indicate that Albert Pike was chartered to run a branch of the Societas Rosicruciana in the United States, a Rosicrucian Order which intersected with both the O.T.O. and the Hermetic Brotherhood of Luxor (light) - both of which initiated adepts in ritual sex magick'. The O.T.O., then, appears to be an overt manifestation of Pike's Palladism. Several 'gaps' in the existence of the O.T.O. are believed to have materialised at various stages in later years, before a further reorganisation which launched 'The Order', driven by the 'seething energies of Lucifer', onto its contemporary 'unstoppable' World Revolution path. Details of a hiatus, in the 1970s, are of little interest, and may reflect a subsequently reversed decision to go temporarily underground.

In any case, we must not lose sight of the fact that what is known of this abomination may simply represent its 'outer' face. Certain detailed information about O.T.O. has been forthcoming from the former 9th Degree O.T.O. initiate and sorcerer, who later became a Christian, William Schnoebelen, whose importance in expanding our understanding of these matters was alluded to in Chapter 5.

According to an edition of 'The Equinox' published in 1919, the Illuminati were reorganised yet again, at the beginning of the 20th century. The reorganisation has had spectacular consequences. Specifically, 'the dispersion of the original secret wisdom having led to confusion, it was determined by the Chiefs of all these Orders to recombine and centralise their activities, even as white light, divided in a prism, may be recomposed'[58]. In this context, the phrase 'secret wisdom', whenever used by Masonic Lodges and secret societies of the Illuminati, invariably means esoteric 'occult knowledge', namely sorcery

'The Equinox' elaborated: 'It was [the German Jew] Karl Kellner who revived the esoteric organisation of the O.T.O. and initiated the plan now happily complete of bringing all occult bodies again under one governance'. In a 'Gnostic Mass' printed in the same issue, it is stated that 'saints' include the adepts Karl Kellner and Theodore Reuss. From notes by Reuss and from correspondence between him and Kellner, the fundamental principles and remit of the O.T.O. have become known, and bear out the following:

- This complex (now powerful) occult organisation was established for the specific purpose of substituting the phallic religion for Christianity. It is nothing less than the means by which the following prophecy of the prophet Jeremiah would be fulfilled:

'As Babylon hath caused the slain of Israel to fall, so at Babylon shall fall the slain of all the earth'[59]. What this means is that Babylonian kabbalistic sorcery, having trapped those children of Israel who have fallen for its fatal enticements which lead to spiritual death, will likewise entice dupes from all over the world, causing their spiritual death as well. This is a precise prophecy and it should be taken extremely seriously by anyone with 'ears to hear and eyes to see'.

Indeed, with the destruction of residual morality in Britain and the United States, especially, 'anything goes' has become a redundant statement. In February 2006, the Author accidentally turned on Channel Five (known as 'Channel Filth') late at night. The US-sourced programme was so depraved that he needed to pray specially for the filth he had witnessed to be expunged. Imagine the impact on all who have no belief. And this is going on all the year round, with no respite to the avalanche of ribaldry.

THE NEW HEGEMONY OF THE JEWISH KABBALISTIC PHALLIC 'RELIGION'

Since the establishment of the O.T.O. manifestation of the Illuminati, to which George Bush Sr., for instance, allegedly belongs, the phallic 'religion' has overwhelmed almost all public and electronic entertainment, and is the sole focus of the corrupt, drug-ridden and depraved pop and rock industry, which disseminates satanic 'music' globally in pursuit of this Illuminati objective.

There is no doubt that Ordo Templi Orientis was indeed established by the two named German Jews. The German publication of this sect was entitled Oriflamme. Given that Theodore Reuss was the agent of the most powerful geomason of his era, John Yarker, both Kellner and Reuss were, among many other associated Masonic parties, in close, continuing geomasonic relationship with John Yarker, William Wynn Westcott -the Supreme Magus of British occult Rosicrucianism - the Grand Lodge of England and innumerable other manifestations and derivations of The Order.

A document confirming that all concerned (and all those Orders listed) concurred in the formation of the Order of Oriental Templars (German: Orientalischer Templer-Orden) and its esoteric doctrine, is to be found in the Bibliotheque Nationale de Paris. Dated 1917, it contains the constitution and certain information relating to the O.T.O., stating that 'The Ancient Order of Oriental Templars, an organisation formerly known as the Hermetic Brotherhood of Light, has been reorganised and re-constituted'[60]. The Hermetic Brotherhood had operated in the past as a conduit for spreading occultic notions and practices among the masses.

Heimbichner has a detailed summary of the evolution of O.T.O. under Reuss, who developed instructions for the sect from the Kabbalah of the Rabbis, despite allusions to 'Gnostic Christianity', a phrase which is in any case a contradiction in terms. 'Kellner fell terminally ill in 1904, and Reuss, excited by the kabbalistic secrets, began recruiting members of the Scottish Rite and Memphis-Mizraim Freemasonry (also sexual in its advanced Degrees) for a new, emerging Order'. This would appear, as indicated, simply to have been an elaboration or copy of, or substitution for, Palladism reconstituted by Pike as the new and Reformed Palladian Rite, or New and Reformed Palladium, at Giuseppe Mazzini's suggestion, and rescued from a 'moribund' state at Charleston, having originally been founded back in 1730 as 'The Order of the Palladium'.

In a work called 'Cyclopedia of the Fraternities', the author (Stevens) reported that the 'old' Palladium was little known as the number of its members was strictly limited and the deepest secrecy surrounded all its deliberations. 'Kellner', Heimbichner continues, 'died the following year (1905). By 1906, The Order had crystallised into the Ordo Templi Orientis', which seems indeed to have mimicked Palladism with a view to replacing it: we cannot really reach a tighter conclusion on the matter, using open information, than that. 'Soon Reuss's Masonic publication 'Oriflamme' announced the O.T.O. Eventually, Reuss claimed that all of the secret knowledge of High Degree Freemasonry had been distilled by the O.T.O. into a system of Eleven Degrees'.

'The first three Degrees were essentially similar to any Blue Lodge. The Fourth through the Sixth Degrees captured the most important and powerful points of initiation in nearly all High Degree systems: the Royal Arch, Rose-Croix, and Kadosh rituals. The Seventh Degree furnished theory for the Eighth and Ninth Degrees, which consist of sex-magick (the Eighth involves "magickal masturbation" and the Ninth, coitus -the "Sanctuary of the Gnosis")'.

'The O.T.O.'s Tenth Degree confers administration over a country ("Supreme and Holy King"), while the Eleventh - the 'highesf O.T.O. Rite, code-named 'the Eye within the Triangle', or 'Eye of Sef- incorporates a homosexual anal intercourse version of the Ninth'[61]. All this filth is distilled from the Jewish Kabbalah, a truth that is acknowledged by the Jewish Encyclopedia itself, which asserts that 'Jewish Gnosticism unquestionably antedates Christianity... Magick, also... was a not unimportant part of the doctrines and manifestations of Gnosticism, (which) largely occupied Jewish thinkers. It is a noteworthy fact that heads of Gnostic schools and founders of Gnostic systems are designated as Jews by the Church Fathers. Some derive all heresies, including those of Gnosticism, from Judaism'[62]. From his knowledge of the Zohar system of occult integration, Craig Heimbichner identifies Reuss's instructions for the O.T.O. as having been derived from it - as Reuss uses the same language as the Zohar.

'If the youth is mature, then he will complete the first coitus under the direction and instruction of the 'Matrona' (or High Priestess) in a ritual manner and in the form of a "Sacramental Act". Just the same will the virgin be introduced'[63].

And Reuss's foul successor, Aleister Crowley demanded nothing less than the elimination of childhood: 'The Beast 666 [as he called himself] adviseth that all children shall be accustomed from infancy to witness every type of sexual act...'.

Such abominable degradation of innocent children, such gross blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, is simply a perpetuation of the abominations committed by the ancient Israelites against which their prophets warned, as well as representing an explicit rejection of the 'peace of God which passeth all understanding'[64] of Jesus Christ, and 'the love of Christ which passeth knowledge'[65]. Furthermore, the 'seething' purpose of the Jewish Kohal [pages 453-454], through these devious, complex and deliberately confusing secret arrangements, to foist the abominations upon the rest of humanity, not only impoverishes and degrades the rest of the world, but leaves Jews and impostor Khazars themselves spiritually empty, bewildered, lost and desolate: 'Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord'[66].

The Reuss papers confirm that the O.T.O., which as indicated may have existed under Albert Pike, if it was not an alternative name for the Palladian Rite back then, surfaced in 1902, and that prior to 1917, the official year of its formation, it was an underground organisation, acting as a link between the Scottish Rite and various unofficial international groups. In addition to Kellner, Reuss, Yarker and Westcott, other prominent operatives associated with the establishment of the O.T.O. or its manifestation as a new Illuminati instrument were Gregor Mathers, Franz Hartmann and Aleister Crowley, all of Jewish extraction. Crowley's secretary was the Judaic Israel Regudy (a.k.a. 'Regardie'), Figure 70: The reprobate British intelligence officer and 'high' Illuminati Satanist Aleister Crowley, in full Masonic regalia. According to the extremely perceptive analyst Craig Heimbichner, 'while the Order of Skull and Bones is currently driving the busload of squabbling, dumbed-down 'Goyim', another secret society' (Ordo Templi Orientis, directed for years by the ogre pictured above) 'is processing them, as it processed the 60s generation, and the elite intellectuals since the early years of the 20th century - in the alchemist's beaker known as education'.

a founder of The Order of the Golden Dawn (progenitor of 'New Age' apostasy), the author of such esoteric books as 'The Eye in the Triangle' [Phoenix, Falcon, 1982], 'Gems from the Equinox: Instructions by Aleister Crowley for His Own Magickal Order' (implying that O.T.O. was Crowley's 'personal' organisation) [Phoenix, Falcon, 1986], 'The Golden Dawn: An Account of the Teachings, Rites and Ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Dawn' [St Paul, MN, Llewellyn, 1984], and 'The Tree of Life: A Study in Magic' [York Beach, Samuel Wieser, 1972]. L Ron Hubbard, a US Office of Naval Intelligence operative, Satanist and follower of Crowley, institutionalised many of Crowley's abominations through his Church of Scientology, reviewed earlier, which has been called 'Crowleyanity'. The Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI) is among the most lethal and 'Illuminated' of the sub-agencies of the Central Intelligence Agency. One of Crowley's specialities was recruiting into O.T.O. members of 'the Great and the Good'. His most prominent recruit in Britain was Major-General John Frederick Charles Fuller (1878-1966), as his deputy in the AA ('Atlantean Adepts', a.k.a. The Order of the Silver Star). Fuller invented the Blitzkrieg tactic, which Hitler adopted - and the British later implemented over the fabulous Baroque city of Dresden, in one of the most heinous war crimes of the Second World War.

THE MOST DANGEROUS GANG OF RUTHLESS REPROBATES IN THE WORLD

In addition to its secret phallic doctrine, the O.T.O. agitates in innumerable hidden ways for the revival of Gnosticism, the study of the Jewish Kabbalah (hence the pop star Madonna's infatuation with Kabbalism, which is clearly an orchestrated operation to raise its profile among the ignorant youth of the Goyim), other esoteric fantasies and Indian Yogism. Tt seeks to extract from their combined doctrines the practical application of Eastern sorcery and Western witchcraft, wherein medicine and hypnotism occupy a place of prime importance, serving solely materialistic ends'[67]. A list of alleged Illuminati mass mind-control programmers and sorcerers engaged in maximising the leverage obtainable from drug-dealing, satanic rock and other subversive inventions and investments of the Illuminati, is given in the Second Appendix to this Chapter [page 517].

The German Jewish/Khazar origins and continuing derivation and control of O.T.O. are affirmed by all relevant sources. According to the 'Encyclopedia of American Religions', 'around the turn of the [last] century, Karl Kellner, a German [Jew], founded [sic] the Ordo Templi Orientis, a ritual magick group which taught sex magick. [The British intelligence officer Aleister] Crowley joined the O.T.O. and was made the head of its British affiliate. To the heterosexual Ninth Degree he added a homosexual Eleventh Degree. O.T.O. sexual magick seems to have been derived from oriental sources as well as from P. B. Randolph, of the American Fraternitas Rosae Crucis. It was perfected by Crowley during three years (1920-23) at the Abbey of Thelema in Sicily [following which Crowley was ordered to leave the country, as his satanic activities met with general disapproval there - Ed.]. Crowley succeeded Theodore Reuss in 1922 as 'outer head' of the O.T.O. Upon Crowley's death in 1947, [the German Jew] Karl Johannes Germer succeeded to the 'outer headship of The Order. Germer had been with Crowley in England, but returned to his native Germany in the 1930s'[68].

However the American analyst, Craig Heimbichner, in his momentous book published in 2005[69], has described Ordo Templi Orientis as The World's Most Dangerous Secret Society', which is true if indeed O.T.O. is a primary (or even the) current overt ('outer') manifestation of the occult dimension of the Dluminati sect. For it is common knowledge among independent researchers that the Illuminati are indeed the most dangerous, ruthless, and Satanised gang of organised criminals in the world. Their lethality arises from their ingrained Rosicrucian-derived habit of intermeddling with the Works of Darkness and of communing with capricious forces that they foolishly believe they can control but which, being progeny of the Great Deceiver, deceive them instead.

Such operatives have no problem at all, for instance, with the CIA's 'Heart of Darkness' and with the widespread use by the US military and their evil subcontractors of torture methodology which the State Department's respected 'Country Reports on Human Rights Practices' has double-mindedly condemned in all countries with the single exception of the United States itself, for decades.

On 10th October 2005, The Daily Telegraph[70] reported that the Bush Administration was threatening that the President would veto legislation prohibiting the torture of prisoners by US troops, following an overwhelming revolt by Republican legislators. In one late-night Senate vote, a measure forbidding the use of torture was passed by 90 votes to nine. Led by Senator John McCain, who was himself tortured while a prisoner in Vietnam, the amendment would 'prohibit the cruel, inhumane or degrading treatment of prisoners in the custody of the US Defense Department'. In response, the former White House spokesman, Scott McClellan, pronounced: 'We have put out a Statement of Administration Policy saying that [the President's] advisers would recommend that he vetoes it if it contains such language'. Earlier, Vice President Richard Cheney had gone to the Senate to insist that torture must not be prohibited.

The lust to 'inflict pain without flinching' which, as Malachi Martin taught, is among the three darkest consequences of 'high' occult-Masonic initiation, was thus yet again exposed, along with its consequences at Abu Ghraib and elsewhere, as integrated into the Luciferian mentality of the US Federal Government - which should come as no surprise, given that the US Government is a Rosicrucian foundation steeped in the Black culture of the occult. Heimbichner asserts that 'seething energy' for the prosecution of 'Black policy' is imparted to government not least through the Illuminati hiding within the O.T.O. It was, he argues, 'the British Intelligence Office Aleister Crowley (1875-1947) [see Figure 70 on page 461], the self-styled 'Great Beast 666'... dubbed 'The Wickedest Man in the World' by the [defunct] English paper John Bull, who gave this secret society its most potent modern shape and direction, effectively recreating it in his own bestial image. It has since adapted and grown, taking an increasingly decentralised and laid-back outer form...'.[71].

The O.T.O. today has Lodges and what Heimbichner calls 'power zones' across the world, including Israel, Russia and South America, and still claims to be the 'graduate school' for the old prototypical fraternal order and 'service club' known as the Freemasons'[72]. Clearly, this statement corresponds with the documented facts concerning the amalgamation of Illuminati Orders and secret societies, already described.

Throughout this investigation we must of course remain at all times on guard against familiar Illuminati lies, half-truths and diversionary ploys. Heimbichner is well aware of this necessity, as he continues: 'Freemasons would dispute this claim, but we will see that such protests reflect either ignorance or an attempt at deception of the "Cowans" (outsiders), including deception of lower-level dupes within their own system of Lodges'[73]. But it is neither here nor there what Freemasons care to think, since we have seen, from the pen of none other than Albert Pike, that 'it is not intended that [they] should understand...; but it is intended that [they] shall imagine that [they] understand'. Why on earth join a secret society that boasts of deceiving its own membership?

O.T.O.'S COVER AS A 'FRINGE' OR 'IRREGULAR' ILLUMINATI 'ORDER'

Heimbichner goes on to explain, contrary to the impression so far extracted here from the literature, that The O.T.O. is a traditional "fringe Masonic" or "irregular" Order, a special group structure which exists in a fraternal relationship with top members of Grand Lodge "regular" Freemasonry, minus official sanction, enabling convenient public disavowals and denial of the Grand Lodge when incriminating activities of these 'irregular' Lodges occasionally reach public awareness'[74]. This assessment raises the perennial (and since we are dealing with the culture of dark occult secrecy, effectively unanswered) question of whether O.T.O. is a self-appointed 'parallel' outlet and instrument for the dissemination of pagan norms and sorcery throughout controlling elites and through their influence, into society as a whole, or whether it really represents the consolidated secret society and Masonic Palladian forces of the Illuminati, as the serious open literature suggests. Certain 'authorities' insist that O.T.O. is a separate conduit for the promulgation of sorcery and the 'Ancient Mysteries', but the following statement, couched in typically confused and opaque defensive language, by a past Master of both a Masonic Lodge and an O.T.O. 'oasis' (as The Order's 'Lodges' are apparently called) essentially sup ports the assessment that the Author has derived from the respected literature sources. The statement confirms O.T.O.'s formal relationship with Rosicrucian-propelled Freemasonry:

'Freemasons claim that they arose out of the Masonic (i.e., those who build with stone) guilds of the Middle Ages, and intimate that their actual origins stem from the Knights Templar. By the time they fully revealed themselves to the public (at the formation of the United Grand Lodge of England in 1717), they claimed that they had evolved from 'operative' Masons (actual builders/architects), into 'speculative' Masons (pondering the philosophical morality in the symbols of the builders' craft), who derived elaborate ceremonies and morality plays in order to explicate and get the point across, with liberal subliminal doses of qabbalistic symbolism. The way I see it, the evolution of the Masons was from operative to speculative, but I would say that it was in a Rosicrucian sense rather than a Masonic sense. I see in the rituals of Freemasonry an attempt to infuse classical Rosicrucian symbolism into Masonic initiation in such a manner as would not be inflammatory to such as would find it objectionable. The rituals of O.T.O. go a step toward tearing down the veil concealing that additional symbolism... reformulated as a sort of 'new aeon' Freemasonry. However O.T.O. makes no claim to make 'Masons', but rather 'magicians', as a comparison of Degree titles between the two systems would suggest. Similarly, the 'A. A.' [= Atlantean Adepts: see above: - Ed.] is a reformulation of the traditional Rosicrucian model (i.e., Golden Dawn, AMORC etc) with a 'new aeon spin'[75].

Note that the speaker cited by Craig Heimbichner here is himself a sorcerer, and that he is implicitly perfectly content with the sexual and other abominations with which he is necessarily familiar as a participant in both 'streams' of the occult.

Given that he is himself necessarily confused, as are all those who dabble, whether naively or not, in these Works of Darkness, it is hardly surprising that independent outside investigators are in danger of remaining confused by the lies and half-truths that these people utter. This Author has, however, the benefit of access to Manly P. Hall's rare Rosicrucian work[76] which definitively confirms the accuracy of the Rosicrucian engine and dimension of this collective abomination. We can therefore safely suggest that O.T.O. represents, at the least, one of a number of central overt loci of the contemporary Illuminati, as well as providing a more intensive and preposterously decadent kabbalistic outlet for the 'seething energies of Lucifer', beyond even the possibilities provided at the 'highest' levels of Freemasonry through the parallel Scottish and York Rites, and the Palladian (orgiastic fornication) Rite. The O.T.O. goes to the extremes of Talmudic paganism.

Although, as we have seen, blood oaths, treasonable actions, sorcery, the summoning of evil spirits and other abominations are encountered at various levels of Freemasonry, at the lower levels and in the 'Blue Degrees', your regular Masonic dupe can retain a degree of moral integrity by turning a blind eye to what he or she encounters, with 'put-down' generalisations such as 'oh, I only do this because of the dinners, the camaraderie and because I meet interesting people I wouldn't otherwise meet, and if I am honest, because I need the contacts'. Heimbichner is rightly scathing about such people and confirms basically that one cannot make progress within the US official or legal structures outside Masonry - a state of affairs which the Author knows to be true, since the husband of a US contact was approached at a certain stage of his career by two Masons who came to the family home and stated baldly that he would make no further progress in his political career unless he became a Mason.

'Like Al Capone with his Chicago soup kitchens, the Masons cover themselves with many charitable activities, usually performed by... the "Porch Brethren" (Blue Degree 'Useful Idiots'). The Freemasons are the prototype of the service clubs that followed Masonry, such as the Rotary [clubs]. The "Bar association", the US Court and police systems, the Federal Government, the military and the Space Program, are heavily infiltrated with Freemasons.... The average "Knife and Fork" Freemason is a pitiable dupe. He gullibly trades his good name to the Lodge as a member, in exchange for a mess of pottage in the form of a greased career track'[77]. A similar environment in the United Kingdom was first exposed in 1984 by Stephen Knight, in his classic work 'The Brotherhood: The Secret World of the Freemasons', shortly after which poor Mr Knight died suddenly and mysteriously a la Mozart[78].

FAST-TRACK PASSPORT INTO A WORLD OF KABBALISTIC DEBAUCHERY

It is an obvious but little-stated fact that just about the only people who have time available to waste in Masonic and occult pursuits are members of the legal profession, which all too often specialises in lying and 'economies with the truth', and those whose livelihood is paid for in the public sector by the taxpayer (or, in the case of US intelligence operatives, to some extent from 'Black Budget' sources). It is these people, who regulate and interfere with our lives, who have time to spare and who wittingly or unwittingly dabble with sorcery through their Masonic activities - instead, for instance, of reading Scripture and praying more often, as one of the Author's most remarkable friends in Britain decided to do in 2005. Those of us who have to make our living commercially in order to pay the swingeing taxes that these people impose, the proceeds of which are so conspicuously wasted on our behalf, have no time for such foolishness. Not all Masons are parasites, but large numbers are certainly public sector employees.

Mr Heimbichner's accurate contention is that the O.T.O. exists in order to bypass the slow-motion ritualistic indoctrination over a prolonged period of time that is provided by the devious Masonic progression process, and to 'plunge headlong' instead 'into the very subjects the High Degree Masons are told are reserved to the core of initiation' [sic]. 'And at the core of these secrets is the embrace of contradiction, of the "elexir of life", and of the power of blood.... Degenerate kabbalistic secrets form the gnosis of the Cult of the Great Beast Aleister Crowley, truly the grandfather of modern Satanism. These secrets may even have formed the basis of the cult led by Charles Manson, who is alleged to have been affiliated with a renegade "Solar Lodge", formerly of the O.T.O.. These secrets also formed the basis of our space program as propelled by O.T.O. leader John Whiteside Parsons, founder of the Aerojet Corporation and co-founder of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, California'.

Since O.T.O. is of German (Jewish) parentage, it would not be surprising if further deep research into this subject were to reveal direct links between O.T.O. and the occultism of Nazi Germany in general - and associated with the activities of the Himmler scientists, whose two primary fields of interest were space travel and mind-control operations, in particular. Parsons was leader of the California O.T.O. for several years. As previously discussed, those who seek to be 'as gods' have a desperate 'need' to establish that life forms exist externally to the Earth, since for some reason they assume that this would definitively confirm their mechanistic view of the universe and the mad 'God sleeps' fantasy (Deism). However the reality, as mankind will ultimately come to realise, is that there are no life-forms anywhere in the universe except on Earth, which is where the Lord performed His Wonderful Works for His and our benefit. Apparently Parsons regarded his work in laying the groundwork for flights to the moon, as 'an act of ritual magic'.

As Craig Heimbichner elaborates, this kabbalistic, occult 'gnosis has shaped Hollywood and American politics, the Catholic Church and modern culture itself, sparking the spread of Wicca and the modern homosexual movement, ultimately ushering the modern world into what initiates call the era of "Horus the Child", processing our culture, transforming its vestiges of Christianity into deepening layers of Crowleyanity'[79]. Since 2004 was evidently the centenary of this 'New Aeon' referred to by the Mason and O.T.O. operative cited on page 464, the O.T.O. produced a centenary edition of its odious 'holy book' for the occasion. Certainly, in the hundred years or so since the apparent foundation of O.T.O., the foundations of civilised and Christian society have been extensively demolished, in accordance with the revolutionary principle of the Danish philosopher Kirkegaard, that the most successful revolutions are those which take place within the framework of the ancien regime.

The O.T.O. indulges in utter depravity, and has penetrated the highest levels of Western Governments, presupposing the abominations committed among the elite at the Bohemian Grove in California. Crowley and Israel Regudy were primarily responsible for pioneering obsessive focus, on behalf of the Rosicrucian core, in the Kabbalah -from which, as has been mentioned, the contemporary explosion of interest spearheaded by the Illuminati's (Jewish) instrument Madonna, is derived. Britney Spears, Eminem and other satanic pop operatives such as the vile, filthy, degenerate and evil-looking Rolling Stones (an allegedly gangster group much favoured by European Black Nobility), do not belt out hatred lyrics and (in the case of Eminem) wear a Neo-Nazi look, by accident many of the top pop singers emerge from an internship within the Walt Disney Empire called the 'Mickey Mouse Club' and are offered stardom and worldly riches in exchange for what amounts to allegiance to Satan, mind-control and of course losing their souls. Lyrics typically advocate despair, violence, suicide and fake New Age 'spirituality' - all of which are familiar statements of Satan's preoccupations.

Intended effects of pervasive satanic 'noise' (deceitfully called 'music') include of course the spreading of disarray, disharmony, confusion, jealousy, distress, disfunctionality and disorientation among the young separating them from family and home, and leveraging their anger against authority. This is a contrived consequence of the sterile revolutionary 'educational brainwashing' they have received, which denies their individuality.

THE ILLUMINATI'S MASS MIND-CONTROL PROGRAMMERS

Madonna appears on a long list of occult Illuminati mind programmers published by web.archive.org - labelled 'Satanist and Monarch slave' - along with Hillary Clinton, who is labelled 'Illuminati witch and mind-control slave handler' (as likewise implied in the Cathy O'Brien/Mark Phillips book, 'Trance Formation of America'), in the company of the late Pope John Paul H (a.k.a. Karol Wojtyla), who was identified as an Illuminati adept and a Freemason (both incompatible with his status as Pope, but in tune with his actual status as late Magus: see Figure 61, page 379). That status in turn reflects the extraordinary background of the late Pope who, in the early 1940s was employed by the I.G. Farben chemical firm to sell cynanide to the Nazi regime for use at Auschwitz, having also worked as a chemist in the laboratories manufacturing the poison gas and malathion. After the war, this salesman, fearing for his life, had the bright idea, as did many other Nazis, of joining the Catholic Church, becoming an ordained priest in 1946. One of Karol Wojtyla's close friends was a Dr Wolf Szmuness, who allegedly masterminded experimental Hepatitis B vaccine trials conducted by the Center for Disease Control in New York, San Francisco and four other American cities in 1978-81, which may have been associated with the release of the AIDS virus. The Zyklon-B salesman was ordained as Poland's youngest bishop in 1958. He was elected Pope after his predecessor in the Vatican was assassinated when a nun offered him poisoned champagne.

Other 'big name' mental 'programmers' - Illuminati operatives who are trained to use special skills to disseminate 'Works of Darkness' and popular acceptance of abominations - on the list, include Winthrop Rockefeller, 'Illuminati kingpin and porn dealer' and alleged father of Bill Clinton; the AD/DC satanic Rock Band; the Grateful Dead satanic cult rock band and alleged Illuminati cocaine distributors; Alex Houston, the CIA Satanist and Monarch programmer exposed in 'Trance Formation of America'; and the German Dr Henry ('Henny') Kissinger (alleged Illuminati and P2 Freemason). The late Francois Mitterrand, who was close to the Rothschilds and was a leading Illuminati operative, as allegedly is President Chirac, appears on the list along with other named alleged Illuminati programmers - including King Juan Carlos I, the late McGeorge Bundy, the late Bob Hope (slave owner and slave handler for intelligence agencies), Shirley MacLaine (actress, author, New Age occultist), Queen Beatrix of the Netherlands, Dr Michael N. Ryan, allegedly one of the Illuminati's cover-up doctors who 'patches up' Monarch sex slaves, and Donald Trump (Illuminati). The list is given on pages 517-518.

Craig Heimbichner's research has confirmed, inter alia, that, as indicated earlier, 'O.T.O. is indeed related to the Palladian Rite, which he calls 'Freemasonry's inner sanctum'. In other words, it is a direct descendant of the abomination established by Albert Pike in collaboration with Giuseppe Mazzini. This being the case, O.T.O. seems likely to be a means not only of spreading sorcery and phallicism more decisively and extensively into society, but also of ventilating the frustrations of Luciferians driven as always by the 'seething energies of Lucifer' at being 'cooped up' within the inner, inner circles of the Halls of Darkness of their own making.

Alfred Kinsey (1894-1956), the 'sexologist' who abused hundreds of children in sex acts connected with his notorious 'research', and whose 'Sexual Behaviour in the Human Male' became the basis of modern corrupting sex education which has compromised traditional morality, acknowledged Crowley, of Ordo Templi Orientis, as among his most important sources of 'inspiration'. He was a guest at Crowley's Abbey of Thelema 'experimental studio' in Italy. In her book, 'Kinsey: Crimes and Consequences', the impeccable analyst Judith Reisman noted that Kinsey 'included observational reports on the speed of reaching orgasm in 1,888 boys, aged 5 months to adolescence who were timed with a stopwatch', and '47 preadolescent girls'[80]. In the Talmudic Book of Ketubot 11b, it is laid down that 'If a grown man has intercourse with a little girl less than three years old, all agree that it is not considered a significant sexual act, for having intercourse with a girl when she is less than three years old is like putting a finger in an eye'. The prescription of Jesus Christ against the perpetrators of such abominations is without mercy.

THE ORDO TEMPLI ORIENTIS FOCUS ON THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

In the Fifth Degree Rite of the O.T.O. ritual called 'Sovereign Prince of the Rose-Croix', a crucifix (a cross carrying the image of the crucified Christ) is trampled underfoot, without these despicable creatures understanding that what they are actually stamping upon its itself prohibited ('thou shalt make no graven image') and an abnegation of the central Truth of Jesus Christ - namely that he died once and for all, for our sins, so that reiteration of and glorying in His suffering on our behalf by exhibition of his contorted body on the cross is perverse, and prohibited.

One characteristic of the O.T.O. to which Heimbichner attaches exceptional importance is that of its 'double-mindedness', to which extensive reference has been made earlier. This is explained in the context of its approach to the Catholic Church. Specifically, 'the O.T.O. fosters an alchemically double-minded blend of awe for traditional Catholic ritual, and antagonism towards Rome; while keeping highly interested in the direction of the Catholic Church and seeking to influence that direction wherever possible'. The reason for this particular manifestation of double-mindedness is that it is the objective of the Illuminati, as was discussed in Chapter 6, to convert the Catholic Church into the Universal Church of Man. With a Pope who communes with his 'predecessor' on the papal throne, O.T.O. operatives believe that this objective is approaching realisation. After all, the Church of England has been 'successfully' stripped of its spiritual content. So can the Church of Rome be far behind?

In fact the O.T.O.'s focus on the Catholic Church has always been in evidence, according to Heimbichner. For instance, in 1903, following the death of Pope Leo XIII, who had pronounced vigorously against Freemasonry, Cardinal Mariano Rampolla del Tindaro, the Vatican's Secretary of State and a secret member of the Masonic Academy [sic], was ail but elected - when a veto was secured by an alert Catholic expert on occult conspiracy, Monsignor Ernest Jouin (France). He managed to convince the Austrian Emperor, Franz-Josef, assisted by Cardinal Jan Puzyna, Bishop of Cracow, that a veto was essential; so that the Cardinal invoked an ancient law, cancelling the election of Cardinal Rampolla. This was not a new experience: direct, confrontational Gnostic attempts to seize control over the Church - which, being a primary component of the Illuminati, has always remained 'mixed' and 'of two minds', torn between the Truth of Christ and its imposed pagan baggage - had occurred centuries earlier.

Valentinus, an early Gnostic impostor, attempted to become Pope, fulfilling Simon Magus's ambition, while 'various Popes such as Alexander VI and Sixtus V have favoured occultic schemers'[81], as reviewed in Chapter 6.

The Vatican II Council began three weeks before the death of the O.T.O. outer high-priest Karl Germer on 11th October 1952. As it began, the O.T.O. conducted an occult ritual, using Egyptian sorcery, with a view to influencing the outcome of the Council. Heimbichner asserts that the O.T.O. finally 'got not one, but three of their own on the Chair of Peter [sic], "the Johns and the Pauls" (John XXIII, named after an abominable predecessor for some unexplained and probably occult reason), Paul VI and John-Paul II[82]. That the O.T.O. appears always to have been specifically instrumental in the offensive against the Catholic Church - which the Illuminati consider 'their own' but seek impatiently to 'cleanse' of all remembrance of Jesus Christ - is associated with its specifically Jewish and Swiss/German provenance.

According to Heimbichner, a key operative in the establishment of the O.T.O. was the 'Jewish refugee' and B'nai B'rith activist, Dr Felix Lazerus Pinckus (1881-1947), a major player in the Zionist movement as President of the Zurich Union of Zionists[83]. The exclusively Jewish B'nai B'rith organisation within Masonry was established in 1843 by Jewish Masons and by the leaders of other Jewish secret societies, including Isaac Roenbourg, William Renau and Reuben Rodacher. Pinckus became the 'spiritual mentor' of Hermann Joseph Metzger (1919-90), who later became the head of the O.T.O. in Switzerland and of The Order of the Illuminati, or Ordo Illuminatorum (OI). It seems clear that Pinckus, a Swiss Jew, may actually have been overt head of the Illuminati. This would make perfect sense, since the affairs of the Illuminati are today coordinated by the Bilderberg organisation, based in Switzerland.

BILDERBERG AS THE COORDINATING CENTRE

Researchers are generally agreed (which may be dangerous) that the much-maligned Bilderberg Organisation is either the, or one of the central binding mechanisms serving to unify and coordinate the naturally fissiparous dialectical components of the New Underworld Order movement, that is to say, of the modern Illuminati. However the utmost caution must be reserved in reaching any such judgment, in view of the fact, admitted by Illuminati 'Fathers', that label-changing is routine, to maintain the level of secrecy considered necessary in order for this gigantic conspiracy against humanity not to be 'fatally' destabilised through exposure (which is what this book is all about). The other reason for exercising extreme caution in identifying the seething core of the Black nexus is that, since the component secret societies and groups are criminal organisations or engage in criminal transactions and are the inventions and playthings of the Evil One, they are, by definition, constantly or potentially at loggerheads with one another, since the Devil - as reiterated throughout this book - is the author of all confusion. ('For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace': First Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, Chapter 14, verse 33). Moreover the scope for tension, envy and lethal competition has grown exponentially in recent years, with the non-stop creation out of thin air of fiat money funds running into the trillions of dollars which it is the central focus of some of the most powerful of the component criminalist groups to control and maximise.

The mafia-style culture of omerta and institutionalised secrecy, which presupposes the tell-tale double-mindedness of all members of the synarchical Illuminati system, was verbalised by Weishaupt himself in one his more notorious statements to a corresponding secret colleague: 'One must speak sometimes one way and sometimes another, but so as never to contradict ourselves, and so that, with respect to our true way of thinking, we may be impenetrable'. In reality, these people often take pains to contradict themselves - a particularly fine example having been publicised in 1993 when the former Russian Foreign Minister, the consummate Leninist Andrei Kozyrev, delivered two speeches in Stockholm on the same day, in one of which he ostensibly spoke for the 'peace party' and in the other for the 'war party'. Given their inherent double-mindedness, Illuminists, from whatever component of the synarchy, have no problem speaking out of both sides of their faces. More commonly, it is arranged for one collaborator to say one thing, and for another to say the opposite, so that the public is confused and the truth is therefore deliberately consigned to the realm of speculation.

Nevertheless, it is thought that the Bilderberg office in Switzerland not only provides a crucial coordinating service for the Illuminati generally, but also acts as a strategic planning secretariat. Examination of the lists of participants at its annual meetings, leaked to certain researchers probably in order for the 'debate' surrounding this organisation to remain fragmented and therefore controlled, reveals that those who attend are invariably people with whom this Author, for instance, could never discuss any of the issues raised in this book. Revealingly, attendees are bankers, industrialists, senior officials from international institutions, a few political figures, certain European Royalty and 'Black Nobility' figures (see page 496), as well as 'favoured' entrepreneurs into whose hands opportunities routinely cascade that are not accessible by others, and a sprinkling of left-wing journalists. Some of these dubious characters are in reality 'Fascists' dressed in left-wing clothing. A common feature of all of them is that their minds are closed - that is to say, their minds are governed by what the CIA calls 'slides' - prefabricated, controlled, dogmatic and 'politically correct' 'takes' on issues which preclude further analysis and consideration. The leaders among them use annual Bilderberg meetings, as well as other fora such as the annual January Davos meetings of the Geneva-based World Economic Forum, established and convened over the years by an operative of Germanic Jewish extraction named Klaus Schwab, allegedly in part to vet and interview prospective or actual new recruits to the nexus of the conspiracy, or else to familiarise Illuminati veterans with a broader range of controlled contacts.

The architect of the Bilderberg organisation was a diminutive and scruffy Polish Jew called Dr Joseph Retinger, a 'High' Mason and the eminence grise who, working with Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands, agitated for structures which would foster the emergence of a United Europe. In 1952, Dr Retinger is said to have approached Prince Bernhard with a proposal for a secret conference to involve NATO leaders in open and frank discussions on international affairs behind closed doors. Such meetings would permit participants to speak their minds freely because no media representative would be admitted, nor would any news bulletin be issued about the topics discussed. In the same year, Retinger approached the Truman Administration and briefed US officials about the proposal. Under the Eisenhower Administration, the Director of Central Intelligence, General Walter Bedell Smith, and C. D. Jackson, worked interactively with European counterparts to implement 'Retinger's' plan. From the outset, the US promoters were heavily influenced by the head Illuminati family in the United States, the Rockefellers, owners of Standard Oil, competitors of Royal Dutch Shell. A Bilderberg draft document from 1989 recapitulated: 'Bilderberg takes its name from the Bilderberg Hotel in Oosterbeek, Holland, where the first meeting took place in 1954. That pioneering meeting grew out of the concern expressed by many leading citizens on both sides of the Atlantic that Western Europe and North America were not working together as closely as they should on matters of critical importance' [the 'cover story' for public consumption - Ed.]. It was felt that regular, off-the-record discussions would help create a better understanding of the complex forces and major trends affecting Western nations in the difficult postwar period'. A better understanding, or a deliberately moulded and skewed interpretation of events and aspirations consonant with the Illuminati's agenda?

In his Foreword to 'Joseph Retinger: Memoirs of an Eminence Grise' by Retinger's Polish sidekick, John Pomian [Sussex University Press, Chatto and Windus, London, 1972], Prince Bernhard attributed the establishment of the Bilderberg Group to Retinger, who mysteriously had the entree to Presidents, Prime Ministers and Royalty. At Retinger's funeral in 1960, Sir Edward Bedington-Behrens said: 'I remember Retinger in the United States picking up the telephone and immediately making an appointment with the President, and in Europe he had complete entree in every political circle as a kind of right acquired through the trust, devotion and loyalty he inspired'. Although of Jewish extraction, Retinger was, for public consumption anyway, a Roman Catholic (the Catholic Church being quintessentially Pharisaical) and was considered by many to be a Masonic agent of the Vatican, liaising in particular between the Pope and the 'Black Pope' in charge of the Society of Jesus. Prior to his intensive behind-the-scenes work in helping to leverage the establishment of the Bilderberg Group, Retinger founded the European Movement, which has operated for many years as a 'Fifth Column' network inside the EU 'Member States', undermining residual national sovereignty. His agitation led to the establishment, in turn, of the Council of Europe, on 5th May 1949. This organisation is today one of the main EU engines of socialist collectivisation.

A review of who has been in charge of Bilderberg meetings over the years is instructive. According to the already cited 1989 draft Bilderberg document, 'the first (Bilderberg) meeting was convened under the chairmanship of (the former SS officer -Ed.) Prince Berhard of The Netherlands, who served as Chairman for 22 years. He was succeeded by Lord Home of the Hirsel, former Prime Minister for [sic: not 'of', but 'for'!] the United Kingdom, who chaired the meetings for four years. At the 1980 meeting, Lord Home turned over the meeting to Walter Scheel, former President of the Federal Republic of Germany. In 1985, Mr Scheel resigned, and was succeeded by Lord Roll of Ipsden, President of S.G. Warburg Group Plc. At the 1989 meeting, Lord Roll turned over the chairmanship to Lord Carrington' - architect of the chaos in Zimbabwe. In this connection, the US Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) list not only contains the names of President Mugabe and his second wife Grace, but also lists at least a dozen of the large farms which were seized by President Mugabe's thugs; and enquiries have revealed that these 'territories' may be located above rich mineral resources.

With its headquarters in Strasbourg, the Council's Executive Committee provided Retinger with his first prominent platform for the promotion European unification. The widespread opinion that Retinger was inter alia an agent of the Vatican arose after he had suggested to the French Prime, Minister, Georges Clemenceau, that Austria, Hungary and Poland should be merged as a tripartite monarchy under the guidance of the Jesuit 'Order'; but Clemenceau, suspicious that this was a Vatican-inspired proposal, rejected the scheme outright. Retinger also intermeddled in North American politics -having gained the trust of the Mexican Government after playing a key revolutionary role in the creation of a Mexican trade union movement in the 1920s - by double-mind-edly persuading the Mexican authorities to nationalise US oil interests in Mexico, and conducting secret negotiations with Washington on behalf of the Mexican Government.

Given repeated penetration by activists of the meetings' arrangements, though not of its meetings themselves, the Bilderberg organisation has succumbed to the need to explain itself. Its 'line' is that the meetings are simply a simple forum for the sharing of views by prominent people from many countries, without fear of being reported. The privacy of the meetings just 'allows leading citizens to speak their minds openly and freely'.

The former British intelligence agent John Coleman (technically a colleague of the Satanist Aleister Crowley) once asserted that the Bilderberg organisation coordinates the activities and relationships between what he thought were the three strands of the Illuminati - (1) the Communists (sometimes called the Wicca-Masons), (2) the 'Black Nobility', and (3) the Maltese Jesuits/Vatican, each of which component has the occult number of 13 representatives on the 39-member Board of the Bilderberg organisation, a command mechanism of the Bavarian Illuminati. Coleman asserted, with some justification given other evidence advanced here, that the Bavarian Illuminati created Bilderberg, which was established not by Retinger, who acted as coordinator, but by the former Nazi SS Officer Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands himself in 1954. It has its headquarters at 1 Smidswater, Den Haag, Netherlands. Subsequent objective assessments have reconfirmed that the Board has 39 members, consisting indeed of 13 representatives from each of the three main secret groups comprising the Illuminari - but that the three main components consist of the (penetrated) Freemasons, the Vatican, and the 'Black Nobility'. It is this 39-member committee that functions all year round from its offices in Switzerland, from where secret financial transactions can be arranged and monitored as necessary. The committee determines who shall be invited to the annual meeting and what policies, plans and strategies will be revealed there, and discussed. It is believed that every proposal or plan that has ever been discussed at an annual meeting of the Bilderberg Group has come to pass, usually within one or two years following the meeting in question. After Mrs Thatcher voiced her opposition to any further European integration in 1990, it was determined within the bowels of this control organisation that she should be removed from office - a task that was de facto duly undertaken by two of her formerly closest colleagues, the Europhile Lord Howe (formerly Sir Geoffrey Howe) and Lord Lawson. According to a British intelligence source, MI6, which has unhealthily close links with German and French intelligence, has been determined ever since then to rid the UK of the 'last vestiges' of 'Thatcherism' (for which this Author was partly responsible).

Indeed this was revealed to the Author when he confronted the veteran journalist Gordon Thomas, in November 2004 concerning a tissue of lies which the journalist said had been disseminated to the British press about the Author having been associated with Sir Mark Thatcher (whom he has never met) over the curious Equatorial Guinea putsch affair. The rationale given was that MI6 were 'expunging the last vestiges of Thatcherism'.

OBJECTIVE INVESTIGATIONS BEDEVILLED BY LIES AND FABRICATIONS

Care has been taken by the German, American and British Information Warfare specialists to ensure that discussion of these issues is always contaminated with lies and fabrications. These are easily identified, and their purpose is to discredit those who are either brave or foolish enough to 'surface' into the public domain with 'opinions' on them. In order not to contaminate this work with such fabrications, two are mentioned here by way of illustration. The first is the perennially recycled lie that Jesus married Mary Magdalene, and that their progeny is alive, well, and conspiring 'as we speak'. In summary, the fairytale asserts that Jesus survived the cross, married Mary Magdalene who bore him a son, and lived in seclusion in the South of France. During the fifth century, this lineage is said to have intermarried with the royal line of the Franks, giving rise to the Merovingian dynasty, from which today's 'Black Nobility' is descended. These gross fabrications hang, it will have been noticed, from the single lie that Jesus survived crucifixion, which of course presupposes that the Gospel accounts are themselves partial fabrications, or else contain pertinent disinformation. The lie also presupposes that after surviving his ordeal, Jesus abandoned his Ministry altogether in favour of married life. It is not worth expending time and energy researching these lies, not least because the sane analyst will at once discover glaring revisionist discontinuities, non sequiturs and gaps in any narrative using such material. Such analyses are usually devoid of notes and references, which should make the serious analyst suspicious. In short, these, and many related Information Warfare fabrications, may safely and sensibly be rejected as reprobate, diversionary Illuminati impediments to understanding.

A second piece of 'nonsense' to be found in open analyses of these issues is that the Illuminati are cooperating with 'aliens' to bring about their New World Order. Such low assertions are to be found in many sources, and they attract the attention of the unwary. However, in this particular case, the assertion masks a truth that the perpetrators know and seek both to promulgate and to disguise simultaneously. For 'aliens', read 'demons'.

With the orchestrated perversion of the education system, so that Scripture is barely taught to children any more, young people know all about demons from the satanic diversionary materials that the Illuminati's collaborators have developed for them to play with - demonic videos, Black games, hellish 'comics', filthy, death- and pornography-oriented pop 'noise', film noir, and all the other grotesque perversions and evil things that the devils have invented in order to pervert and saturate children with the knowledge of evil. When the Information Warfare specialists' collaborators insert disinformation to the effect that the Illuminati are collaborating with 'aliens', what they mean to convey - since they cannot disclose their evil inclinations - is that they are collaborating with demons. For it must be remembered that these people are not atheists. If they were, they would not believe in devils, and 'tremble' at the Name and power of Jesus Christ.

THE REVEALING ISSUE OF THE KHAZARS*

Given the intensity of the Information Warfare offensive, which is a primary preoccupation, for instance, of certain 'instructed' US intelligence cadres, fabrications and lies like these have been deliberately inserted into analyses, with the objective of maximising scope for obfuscation of the issues that this book addresses. Such fabrications are particles of sand thrown into the air to assist the Illuminati with their obsessive imperative of trying to ensure that the leaking secrets of their conspiracy do not see the light of day. Their dissemination is of course facilitated by the deliberate strategy of exploiting the Internet and the 'New Age' of computer universality for Information Warfare purposes. The foregoing preamble was necessary, partly, in order to introduce the somewhat diversionary but perennially related issue of the descendants of the Khazars, as modern components of Illuminati secret societies. The 'debate' surrounding this ethnic group is bedevilled by accusations that the subject is favoured by anti-Semites and other fanatical and hate groups and organisations in order to undermine the Jewishness of the Jews.

* The information in this section is derived mainly from authoritative Jewish sources, including the work of the Hebrew History Federation, and from Khazaria.com. It is presented exclusively in order to clarify the confusion surrounding the issue of whether people calling themselves Jews really are Israelites, given that if they are not, the Khazars could be identified as those whom Jesus Christ condemned as blasphemers in Revelation Chapter 2, verse 9: 'I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not but are of the synagogue of Satan'; and Revelation Chapter 3, verse 9: Them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not but do lie'. If the Khazars are not Jews, it is then easy to extrapolate that these people are those of the synagogue of Satan. However it is shown here that the Khazars really are largely Jews. So when the Lord spoke of those who are 'of the synagogue of Satan' he was, as always, speaking spiritually, echoing Ezekiel [chapter 8, verses 12-18]: 'Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? For they say. The Lord seeth us not the Lord hath forsaken the earth'. These 'ancients' had 'their faces toward the East; and they worshipped the sun toward the East... Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? For they have filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger.... therefore will I also deal in fury; mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity; and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them'. These, then, are 'them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews (spiritually and according to the Law), and are not, but do lie'. The Word is always spiritual. The Khazar issue is therefore diversionary- another wave of sand thrown in our eyes.

However the reality appears to be that these people are assimilated within the Ashkenazic Jewish population. The hypothesis that many present-day Jews are not of Israelite origin but are Khazars who adopted Judaism as opposed to the alternatives on offer (Christianity and Islam) is disputed by authorities, but insofar as it has resonance it can evidently only apply to Ashkenazim, who belong to one branch of the Jewish population. Khazar origin cannot be attributed to the Sephardim, or to the Teymani, Mizrachi, Bujharan, Indian, Ethiopic and other branches that constitute the other branches of the Jewish population which are undoubtedly of Semitic, Israelite origin. Jewish observers of this 'debate' assume a malevolent intent to split or otherwise compromise Jewry.

The Ashkenazim are the heterogenous branch of European Jewry, excluding Jews from the Mediterranean area. Their generic name refers to the Jews dwelling in Mitteleuropa, considered to be the land of Ashkenaz, with the term being later extended to different Jewish communities including German, Polish, Scandinavian, Russian and Danubian Jews. The Mitteleuropean Jews lived (or sojourned) long enough in Germany, Austria and Bohemia to have developed their own language, Yiddisch, which in due course became a sort of official tongue of the Ashkenazim Jews, just as the Spanish Sephardim developed a peculiar language by mixing their own tongue with Spanish.

THE KHAZARIAN EMPIRE
RUS'
BULGAR HUNS
Bulgar
Kiev
Sarkel
MAGYAR HUNS
Itil
Samandar
Balanjar
EASTERN ROMAN EMPIRE
ABBASID
CALIPHATE
KHWAREZM

Figure 71: The Kazarian Empire at its height, in the 7th and 8th centuries. It controlled one of the most important trade routes between the Middle East and Northern Europe, and its civilisation influenced Eastern European peoples as far as the shores of the Baltic and the Danubian Basin. But if it were not for a few references in Arabic, Persian and other sources, the existence of the Khazars might never have become known. In this kingdom, which stopped Arab conquests northward, Jews were not persecuted, contrary to the norm elsewhere.

The Ashkenazim were initially well-established in Western countries, but after a series of expulsions, they emigrated eastwards from Germany into Russia.

Genetic tests have revealed that the Ashkenazim are direct descendants of the Israelites, with DNA confirming their ancestry as derived from the Middle East. Such tests have also shown that Ashkenazim Jews are more closely related to Yemenite Jews, Assyrian Jews, Sephardic Jews, Kurdish Jews, and Arabs, than they are to indigenous European peoples, and that scant marriage or conversion has occurred to affect the homogeneity of Jewish groups over the centuries. That phenomenon, in turn, is attributable by all observers to the 'legalised religion' taught by their Rabbis, the underlying purpose of which was always to maintain the people of Israel as 'a people apart', or 'a peculiar people', as commanded by the Lord: 'For thou art an holy people unto the Lord thy God, and the Lord hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth' [Deuteronomy Chapter 14, verse 2]; 'And the Lord hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promised thee; and that thou shouldest keep all his commandments [Deuteronomy Chapter 26, verse 18]. But in later centuries, the Rabbis picked and chose what commandments to follow, maintaining the elements of teaching which served their purpose of preserving the racial purity and homogeneity of the Israelites, but polluting the Torah with wayward Talmudic teaching derived from the Babylonian Kabbalah, the superstitions and perversions of Canaan, and elements of the 'Darkness' inherited from Egypt which the Lord had ordered them to discard.

The Khazar royalty was descended from the Ashina Turk dynasty. In the ninth century, the Khazarian kings and nobility, as well as a significant proportion of the Khazarian population, embraced Jewish doctrines and beliefs, and actually adopted the hallmarks of Judaism, including both the Torah and the Talmud, the Hebrew script, and the observance of Jewish holidays. The presence of Jewish script in Masonic imagery, and the false 'Star of David' (which it is not) on the wall of the Great Queen Street Masonic Temple in London, for instance, are traceable to this historical background.

When the Khazarian rulers converted to Judaism, they attracted persecuted minorities from Europe and Islamic countries into their territory. Besides the Jewish population that was already living in Khazaria, a large number of Jews persecuted in the Byzantine Empire and other areas, fled into Khazaria, which became renowned for its freedom and prosperity - arriving from Central Asia, the Caucasus, the Balkans, Syria, Mesopotamia, Asia Minor, and even from Western Europe, according to Jewish authorities (al-Masudi, Sa'adiyah Gaon and also the Arab writer Dimashqi), who wrote that these refugee wandering Jews offered their religion to the Khazars who 'found it better than their own and accepted if. Jewish immigrants soon outnumbered the native Jews of the Khazar Kingdom. After the fall of the Khazar Empire [see Figure 71, page 474], the Kievan Rus' took its place, ruling over its territory, which meant that a large number of Jews, both Khazars (who had adopted Judaism) and non-Khazars (descendants of immigrant Israelities) became inhabitants of the growing Slavic-Varangian (Russian) state, and the Russians duly inherited most of the social system of the Khazar Kingdom. From the 11th century onwards, the havoc inflicted by the Crusades (which have, as we are all becoming more acutely aware these days, left lasting scars) upon the Jewish communities of Western Europe, induced a stream of German Jews to flee to the comparatively (then) free environment of the Slavs: indeed, Russia was the most desirable place to live in those years.

A further complication arises from the fact that the majority of Jewry which had until the Middle Ages lived under Arab rule, likewise fled eastwards to escape the Church's satanic Inquisition in Spain, reaching Ukraine, Poland and Russia, where they encountered Jews who had been migrating there continuously since the 11th century. Most East European Jews had migrated, as mentioned, from the West to the East of the Continent, and were not descended from the inhabitants of the Khazar Empire.

According to Jewish authorities, they actually represent a fusion of Balkan-Greek Jews from the Byzantine Empire, Babylonian Jews from the Abbasid Caliphate, Yiddisch-speaking Jews from Germany, Sephardic Jews fleeing the Spanish Inquisition, and Khazars. Obviously, all these groups intermarried over the ensuing centuries, so that the Khazar converts disappeared as a distinguishable ethnic entity, and their descendants became more or less fully Jewish, with Israelite ancestry.

THE 'BLACK NOBILITY' AS A COMPONENT OF THE ILLUMINATI

To conclude the matter, the historical reality is that after the fall of their Kingdom, which fell in 1016 under assault from Viking armies (branches of the marauding peoples who attacked the British Isles and within a few generations had re-emerged as the Normans in France, England and Sicily), the Khazars intermixed mainly with the Kipchak (Kuman) populations and lost their character as a distinct people. Several ethnic groups in the Caucasus (Karachays, Kumyks and Dhagestani tribes) have Khazars among their ancestors. A rebel Khazar tribe, the Kabars, of whom many were also Jewish, emigrated to Hungary and were assimilated by their very closely-related kin, the Magyars. In any case, the Hungarian Duke Taksony (955-970 AD) invited Khazar Jews to settle in his realm. For a while, though, Hungarian Jews did promote the proposition that they were themselves of Khazar rather than of authentic Jewish origin, so that they were hence legitimate Hungarians no less than Magyars; and it is possible that it is from this that the muddle over the Khazars originated. In reality, the majority of these people was of original Jewish stock. And it is true that the most strongly Khazar element within the Jewish population is to be found among Hungarian Jews, descendants of the last Khazars who fled into Hungary up to the 14th century, where they were, as indicated, received by their former vassals, the Magyar dukes and kings. Hungarian Jews are therefore definitely a fusion of Semitic German Jews, Khazars, Kabars and Sephardic immigrants who arrived in Hungary via Italy fleeing from the Spanish Inquisition, which (as can be seen) has had extraordinarily long-lasting consequences for humanity.

As for the Jewish communities remaining in the former Khazar territories, they were assimilated by the Slavic-speaking Jews, and later by the Yiddisch-speaking immigrants from Central Europe, who outnumbered native Russian Jews - so that, again, the Khazar origin within Jewry was reduced to minority status and later disappeared through intermarriage. It is therefore concluded that there is indeed a Khazar component among many Eastern European Jews, but that it has been rendered irrelevant today as a consequence of intermarriage with the overwhelming majority of Semitic Ashkenazim. The most authentic descendants of the Khazars are found today among modern Hungarians, including many Hungarian Jews, and to a lesser degree, among Bulgarians in the Caucasus region.

As discussed in the Note on page 473, the issue of the Khazars and their Jewish identity or otherwise is broadly irrelevant to our ongoing investigation into the identity of the Illuminati and the Synagogue of Satan. The confusion surrounding this issue is double-minded: on the one hand, Jewish 'nationalist' protagonists consider that the Khazar issue is an invention wielded by anti-Semites to diminish the proportions of the Jewish diaspora community; while on the other hand, proof that the Khazars are Jews would identify Jews as members of the Synagogue of Satan, which might appear superficially to undermine the integrity of the Lord's condemnations in Revelation Chapter 2, verse 9 -'I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are of the Synagogue of Satan' - and Chapter 3, verse 9. But since Jesus spoke only of spiritual matters, he was of course referring to those double-minded people who, on the one hand, purported to honour every minute detail of the Pharisaical Law (residual Mosesism), while on the other hand secretly engaging in the abominations perceived by the prophet Ezekiel, of sun-worship and perverted sexual and other abominations. Ezekiel's vision [Chapter 5, verses 12-18] is, as we have seen in Chapter 5, of a Masonic Lodge - which holds its meetings at night, faces East, and worships the false 'light' and the sun.

There is a sizeable Jewish (Khazar) element within prominent European royal houses. For instance, the House of Hanover has always appeared to be German, but is in fact Jewish, as are other European Royal Houses, such as those of Hapsburg and Hohenzollern. Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands, whom some say is the head of the 'Black Nobility' families, is alleged to possess veto power over the choice of Pope, a privilege arising from his status as the head of the Hapsburg family, descended from the last Roman Emperor -the Hapsburg Frederick UJ having been the last Emperor to have been crowned in Rome: his great-grandson, Charles V, was the last to have been crowned by a Pope. Charlemagne's crown, a replica of which is part of the Imperial Hapsburg Regalia, is said to have borne the inscription 'Rex Salomon', according to the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' [14th Edition, 1972, Crown and Regalia, Figure 2]. While remaining on guard against historical invention, revisionism and disinformatiorv one perception is that the Hapsburg House of Orange originated in France. The Hapsburgs were related through marriage with the Merovingians, thought by revisionists to have been descended from the Israelite Tribe of Benjamin, many of whose members went into exile (according to this 'line') following the war with the other eleven tribes described in Judges, Chapter 21. In reality, that chapter makes it perfectly clear that the eleven tribes were reconciled with Benjamin, whose families continued to dwell in their home territories after the reconciliation. Exactly how these distortions arose cannot be ascertained; but the myth of Jesus having married Mary Magdalene and that their offspring engendered the Merovingians is persistent among researchers who do not read Scripture, and who seem to think that the Franks were of Semitic origin. All this, and much more, is typically mixed up with the disinformation surrounding the Khazars.

Another line of enquiry allocates the 'Black Nobility's primary derivation from the oligarchic families of Venice and Genoa, who enjoyed privileged monopoly trading rights in the 12th century. During the first of three Crusades, lasting from 1063 to 1123, the power of the Venetian Black Nobility was established; and the aristocracy had secured complete control over Venice by 1171, when the appointment of the Doge was transferred to a Great Council consisting of members of the new banking and commercial aristocracy, including members of the infamous de Medici family. In 1204, the oligarchic families parcelled out feudal enclaves to their members. The term 'Black Nobility' is derived from this mediaeval elite's routine resort to dirty tricks, secret assassinations, murder, blackmail, the bearing of false witness, the bankrupting of opponents or commercial competitors, kidnapping, child molestation, rape and all the other abominations that are routine among certain intelligence community cadres today. Although sources do not attribute drug-running to these families, it is inconceivable that drugs were not also among their specialities.

The principal 'Black Nobility' families, with extensive Jewish content, as most of their names reveal - due to the pre-eminence of Jewish (Khazar) bankers and monopoly merchants among those who consolidated power in city states and principalities all over Europe during the Middle Ages - are listed as: The House of Windsor (Guelph), Britain; The Belgian House of Wettin; The Swedish House of Bernadotte; The House of Liechtenstein; The House of Oldenberg, Denmark; The House of Hohenzollern, Germany; The House of Hanover, Germany (second in importance to the House of Guelph (Windsor); The House of Bourbon, France; The House of Orange, Netherlands (William of Orange was originally the Jew William Stradholder who was first elevated to the rank of Captain-General of the Dutch Forces); The House of Grimaldi, Monaco; The House of Wittelsbach, Germany; The House of Braganza, Portugal; The House of Nassau, Luxembourg; The Austrian House of Hapsburg; The House of Savoy, Italy; The House of Karadjordevic, Yugoslavia; The House of Wurttemberg, Germany; and The House of Zogu, Albania. All the listed families are connected with the House of Guelph, one of the original Venetian 'Black Nobility' families.

The Guelphs are so intertwined with the House of Hanover that the various connections would take pages to elaborate. Almost all European royal houses originate from the House of Hanover and accordingly from the Guelphs, fountainhead of the 'Black Nobility'. Without reviewing the issue of rights to rule that 'Black Nobility' families continue to claim, the key point for our purposes here is that these people refuse to recognise any government other than what they historically consider to be their own 'divine right' to rule (handed down in the secular realm in parallel with the apostolic succession in the spiritual realm).

ETATS-UNIS d'OCCIDENT

Figure 72: This image appeared in a work attributed to Pierre Plantard de Saint-Clair, identified as the controller of the 'Order' called Prieure de Sion, the existence of which has been publicised in recent years as custodians of the restoration of the so-called Merovingian (Visigoth) dynasty and bloodline (blasphemously associated with the lie that Jesus Christ married Mary Magdalene) to the thrones not only of France, but actually of the whole of Europe. The drawing predicting a united West dates from the very early 1940s. In 1979, M. Plantard told the credulous authors Baigent, Leigh and Lincoln, that the Prieure was in possession of the Treasure from the Temple of Jerusalem, plundered by the Romans during the uprising in AD66.

Therefore, they are said to consider that the United States continues to belong to Great Britain, for instance. Every European royal and so-called noble dynasty, past and present, has a representative on the 'Committee of 300' which, according to Dr John Coleman, was established in the 18th century, although its present form was assumed in 1897.

Dr Coleman was unable to bring forward documentary proof of this Committee's existence, perhaps because of fear of assassination. But writing in a publication printed in Vienna (24th December 1921), the Jewish financial adviser to the Rothschilds and Socialist politician, Dr Walter Rathenau, stated that 'only 300 men, each of whom knows all the others, govern the fate of Europe. They select their successors from their own entourage. These men have the means in their hands of putting an end to [any] form of State which they find unreasonable'. Exactly six months later, Rathenau was assassinated.

Among the old-line 'ruling families' which are not actually 'royal' at all but which consider that their Jewish ('Khazar') or Frankist lineage entitles them to ex officio or, at some stage, co-opted membership of the globalist ruling elite, with some still claiming descent from ancient and 'Holy' Roman Emperors, are the following dynasties: Rothschild, Kuhn, Loeb, Lehman, Rockefeller, Sachs, Warburg, Bush, Lazard, Sieff, Goldman, Schiff, Morgan, Schroeder, Harriman, and Du Pont (who actually consider themselves to be descended from Pontius Pilate). Other such families and patriarchs include the Giustiniani family, 'Black Nobility' of Rome and Venice who trace their lineage to the Emperor Justinian; the Hambro banking family; Pierpaolo Luzzatti Fequiz, with lineage dating back six centuries to the ancient Luzzattos, 'Black Nobility' of Venice; Umberto Ortolani, also from an ancient 'Black Nobility' family; the Doria family, financiers of the Spanish Hapsburgs; the French Rothschilds; the late Baron August von Finck; Franco Orsini Bonacassi, of the ancient Orsini 'Black Nobility' that traces its lineage to an ancient Roman senator; the Agnellis; the Alba family; and Baron Pierre Lambert, cousin of the Belgian Rothschilds. Among these, there is not a single family that is not of Jewish/Khazar descent. The Oltramaire family (Swiss 'Black Nobility'), owners of the Lombard Odier Bank, Geneva, are reported by a US military intelligence source allegedly to finance, historically and to this day, an assassination bureau located in Switzerland. US Amy G-2 records reportedly show this group has been heavily involved in the arms trade to the Middle East, and that it allegedly made no less than 30 attempts to assassinate General de Gaulle, the primary contact man being a certain Jacques Soustelle. He was also identified as the coordinator of the 'governing' Illuminati Committee of 300's transactions and relations with the Sendero Luminoso (Shining Path) guerrilla group protecting the European Illuminati's Peruvian cocaine producers.

In 1815, Jesuit agents and Freemasonic allies among the crowned heads of Europe agreed, at the Congress of Vienna which put an end to the geomasonic depredations of Napoleon (a Masonic operative), that the inviolable neutrality of Switzerland, which had been decreed by the Peace of Westphalia in 1648, would be guaranteed in perpetuity - so that, irrespective of what wars are provoked by the Illuminati in pursuit of their objectives, the funds belonging to the 'Black nobility' lodged in Switzerland, would always remain free from the threat of plunder. This of course is why Switzerland remains in existence. The secret bank accounts of 'Black Nobility' wealth-holders have been joined by their 'successors', the crime families which, especially in the United States, have stolen and created (through fiat money multiplication techniques using stolen collateral) billions, if not trillions, of dollars, and think that they are impregnable from prosecution for all time.

One secret 'Order' to which considerable importance is attached by scholars, the Prieure de Sion [see Figure 72, page 478], has continued to function through the centuries, having been associated with the establishment of the Knights Templar, forerunners of elements of modern Freemasonry. This nexus operates almost exclusively in the shadows, and has orchestrated a number of critical events in history. Its declared objective is the restoration of the Merovingian dynasty and bloodline in France and elsewhere in Europe, and it exerts pressure from behind the scenes for 'more Europe' ('greater' European unity).

Components of the Merovingian lineage, through dynastic alliances and intermarriages, include the noble and royal families of Blanchefort, Gisors, Saint-Clair (Sinclair in Scotland), Montesquieu, Montpezat, Poher, Luisignan, Plantard, and Hapsburg-Lorraine. The Prieure de Sion claims to hold the lost treasure plundered by Titus in AD 70 from the Temple in Jerusalem, even though this treasure was deployed inter alia to construct the Colosseum. Furthermore, Roman Emperors could mint their own money and needed no help, after that example of Financial Warfare, from Jewish financial intermediaries.

At all events, the 'Black Nobility' families, consisting of Jewish money-lenders who over time usurped the thrones which were indebted to them, are prominent 'movers and shakers' among the synarchy. The award by Her Majesty the Queen of an honorary knighthood to George Bush Sr., allegedly perhaps the biggest criminal operative in history, is sadly consistent with this analysis. And one feature of this research emerges time and again, to connect with the 'double-mindedness' characteristic of the Illuminati. It is that 'Black Nobility' figures, and their newcomer associates such as the Bush family, profess Christianity, but may secretly despise it. In a treatise on 'The Order of St John of Jerusalem' (1986), Dr John Coleman wrote that 'as an example, we find the atheist Lord (Peter) Carr-ington, who pretends to be an Anglican Christian but who is a member of the Order of Osiris and other demonic sects, including Freemasonry, installed as a Knight of the Garter at St George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, by Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II of England, of the Black Nobility Guelphs, and head of the Anglican Church, which she thoroughly despises'. Dr Coleman is among those who have argued that the 'Christianity' of these people is false, just as was the professed Christianity of the Spanish Jews who 'converted' in order to save their skins in mediaeval Spain, and that they derive their 'spiritual' intake from occult-Judaic Freemasonry. This is hard to square with the evident humility and devotion to Jesus Christ of Her Majesty, but not hard to recognise, possibly, from the behaviour of certain other prominent members of Britain's Royal Family. The reality of its extensive Jewish antecedents (increased by the Bowes Lyon family of which the late Queen Mother was a member) does not, of course, preclude the possibility of members being True Christians, as The Queen appears to be, even though her Anglicanism may perhaps be simple (yet commendable). Not only could Dr Coleman not document the existence of the Committee of 300, but also, likewise, his assertion that The Queen despises the Church of England could never be proven. However given that the Church of England has abandoned its role of instructing the people in the Way, the Truth and the Life, and has gone a-whoring after many of the abominations forbidden by the prophets of the Israelites, this Author would be sympathetic to Her Majesty if she does indeed despise Anglicanism. But supporting Dr Coleman's argument is the sad reflection that the serially reprobate behaviour of Anglican clerics has not, apparently, been corrected by The Queen as Head of the Church. Her Majesty has not appeared to exercise her authority to reprimand them*.

* Indeed, in the course of an interview given in the first quarter of 2006, Dr Rowan Williams, the Archbishop of Canterbury, when asked point-blank whether he believed in God, responded: 'If by believing in God you mean is he sitting in the chair opposite me as you are, no'. That is not the correct answer, which is: 'I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and is come in the flesh' - for which statement Christ promises that all who utter it in sincerity are saved. Dr Williams' first act on being perversely 'selected' for consecration as Archbishop by Tony Blair for confirmation by The Queen, was to attend a Druidic ceremony in Wales, in which he was co-opted into the highest Degree of the Druids. Druidism is of course wholly incompatible with True Christianity, so this man is an impostor.

AN EXPOSE OF ILLUMINATI TRAINING IN THE UNITED STATES

In 2002, an interview with an unnamed 45-year-old female defector from the Illuminati cult named 'Svali', a registered nurse and freelance writer living in Texas, was disseminated on the Internet. Earlier (in March 2000) 'Svali' had started writing a monthly column for survivors of Illuminati programming ritual abuse, which was disseminated at Suite101.com. This site contains a great deal of weird and esoteric material and for this reason cannot be considered a reliable source. In December that year, H. J. Springer, Editor of a separate site, CentrExNews.com. contacted the Illuminati defector and conducted an interview with her by email. On 14th October 2002, Henry Mackow Ph.D. published an article citing excerpts from 'Svali's' comments. Dr Mackow's Internet site is listed (in the author's view, incorrectly) among those suspect websites considered by Finton Dunne (www.BreakForNews.com) in Ireland to be directly or indirectly influenced or controlled by intelligence input. Such sites are usually identifiable by the lack of specifics (names, addresses, locations) and properly referenced source notes, a tell-tale feature of many intelligence sites which exist for the purposes of managing, distorting or confusing public perceptions (mass Psy-Ops). Many of them contain little more than 'rants' and dubious research. But Dr Mackow's work is always of high quality, and clearly in pursuit of truth. Even so, Finton Dunne appropriately implies that he and his colleagues are uncertain which websites are directly and which are indirectly controlled, and that some may be disseminating confusion and diversion entirely unwittingly and innocently [see Note 3]. The usual procedure, given today's officially promoted environment of Information Warfare, is for accurate information to be intermingled with inventions and disinformation. At the same time, it must be borne in mind that intelligence cadres surprisingly exist that rightly consider the planned New Underworld Order, which is micro-managed by collaborating and competing intelligence communities, to be an abomination, and that these people exploit their own propaganda outlets to issue warnings to those capable of disentangling disinformation from fact, concerning what is intended.

Figure 73: From the Arch of Titus in Rome, showing part of the great Treasure from the Temple at Jerusalem being carried to Rome - thus refuting the diversionary myths associated with the false claims of the Prieure de Sion Order and speculative literature culminating in 'The Da Vinci Code'. See also Figure 72.

With these cautionary observations in mind, this Author nonetheless attaches importance to statements by 'Svali' as disseminated by Dr Mackow, because they are corroborated by separate information, including critical admissions by the very senior Illaminati relative of a US colleague. It is unlikely that Dr Mackow has allowed himself to be deceived, and it is probable - not least because of corroborating information in this Author's possession - that the 'Svali' intelligence is genuine. Indeed it could hardly be otherwise, considering the risks always run by 'traitors' to the ruthless Luciferian Illuminists. After considering all available evidence, especially information provided first-hand from a member of a very well-known generational Illuminati family concerning the behaviour of this satanic caste, the Author is certain of the accuracy of the insights provided by 'Svali'. Quite simply, they are corroborated by separate information.

'Svali', according to Dr Mackow et al, was a mind programmer for the Illuminati until 1996, and was ranked as the sixth trainer at the San Diego branch of the Illuminati, in charge of 30 trainers who reported to her. Note that the source speaks directly of the Illuminati as a structured cult, with no reference (anywhere else in her testimony) to any of the other secret societies and sects, such as O.T.O., that we have been discussing. Since we have identified a late head of an occultic entity specifically calling itself Ordo Illum-inatorum (The Order of the Illuminati) in Switzerland, the existence of this organisation, whether under this title or some cover or other, cannot be in doubt. Note the use of Latin, a habit 'borrowed' from the Jesuits and consistent with the practice among other members of The Order. Dr Mackow reported that 'Svali' had risked her life to warn humanity of the Illuminati's covert power and agenda (begging the question, of course, as to whether Dr Mackow's own report might court similar consequences. According to this source (followed by this Author's elaborations where he has something to add):

'She describes a sadistic satanic cult led by the richest and most powerful people in the world. It is largely homosexual and paedophile, [and] practices animal sacrifice and ritual murder. It works hand in glove with the CIA and with Freemasonry'. Crucially, Dr Mackow added here: 'It is Aryan supremacist (German is spoken at the top) but welcomes Jewish apostates.... It controls the world traffic in drugs, guns, pornography and prostitution'[84]. Thus the CIA serves these international criminals.

Author: All the statements here are corroborated by the Author's own research and by knowledgeable sources consulted for this work, including the late Dr Malachi Martin who specifically told the Author in 1996 that ritual murders took place 'four blocks from where we are sitting' every other Sunday on New York's East Side. The primary sources of Illuminati funds are pornography (the potential of which has been leveraged via the Internet, in an intelligence-controlled operation based at Boca Raton, Florida), child prostitution, gun-running, the worldwide hire and sale of assassinations, the provision of mercenaries and military training experts, corrupt banking operations, and drug-trafficking. In this context, 'Svali' confirms that the Latin American cartels established by US intelligence, and spearheaded inter alia by Carlos Lender, the son of the Nazi fugitive Wilhelm Lender, as discussed in Chapter 3, were in fact, from the outset, operations of the Illuminati, fronted by the CIA and other elements of the vast US intelligence apparat. This explains, therefore, why William Colby had to inform his successor, William Casey, that he had continued, long after ceasing to be Director of Central Intelligence, to direct certain hyper-sensitive operations in Latin America. It seems clear from Casey's Affidavit [see Chapter 3] that he may not have understood that this was an Illuminati operation; and since Colby was subsequently 'suicided' in a tributary of the Potomac, his awareness of Illuminati involvement is unknowable. Since he was engaged, before being liquidated, in publishing an intelligence newsletter, his handlers may have decided that he was liable to reveal secrets which might lead to their exposure. The Iran-Contra murders, orchestrated for this purpose, were blamed on Clinton.

'[The Illuminati Sect] has infiltrated government on a local, state and national level, educational institutions, religion, and the media. Based in Europe, it plans a 'World Order' that will make its earlier attempts, Nazism and Communism, look like picnics. One other detail: These people are not happy'.

Author The 'World Order' that is to be imposed (or rather, we who are not parties to this madness are indoctrinated into believing will inevitably be imposed) is to be The Order imposed by the 'New World' in accordance with the Rosicrucian 'remit' symbolised on the Great Seal of the United States, as envisaged by Sir Francis Bacon et seq. In other words, the United States is the military and occult instrument serving the interests of the European Khazar Dark Forces which relaunched this venture in the 18th century. The Author has encountered unnaturally virulent hatred for Europeans among certain intelligence cadres (members of which have exposed themselves, as these people usually do). Interestingly, this hatred is usually focused either against Britain or else against Germany, often depending upon the ethnic provenance of the Americans in question. The British, it seems, are especially hated: and there may be 'reason' for this. Concerning these Illuminati operatives being 'not happy', that is a consequence of (a) their double-mindedness and (b) the fact that they are (or feel) trapped in their Luciferian hell from which what remains of their 'better selves' would prefer to escape. But Satan is especially adept at setting traps for the unwary: and in the case of these Illuminati dupes, the traps are lethal. The interview elaborated:

'Svali's' courageous testimony explains why our children are no longer taught civic values, why they are being habituated to homosexuality and violence, and why our 'culture' is descending into nihilism and sexual depravity. It raises the possibility that George W. Bush and his Administration are Illuminists...'.

Author: Certainly, they are. As for the depravity that is being taught to children, in defiance of Our Lord's furious warning that those who do these things to His little children should be thrown with a rock tied round their necks into the deep, the perpetrators continue these activities at their peril. Vengeance is exclusively the Lord's; and when it comes, the vengeance that he will certainly reap upon all who have and continue to abuse children, will be terrible indeed.

Mr Springer checked a number of 'Svali's' statements with e-mail messages from people who have been ritually abused, raped, sexually abused people... some of them confirming to me her story'. Further statements from the interview included the following:

'The Illuminati are present in every major metropolitan center in the United States. They believe in controlling an area through its banks, local government, the legal profession, and the local media'. Jobs allocated within the cult include those of: Informers (who are trained to observe details and conversations with photographic recall); Breeders (chosen from childhood to breed and have children, often selected according to bloodlines, whose children are rarely used in satanic sacrifices); and Prostitutes, trained from an early age to give sexual favours to one or more adults: according to 'Svali', 'child prostitution is big business for the cult, and training very young children in this role is taken very seriously. Child prostitutes are also used to blackmail political figures or leadership outside the cult'); Pornography actors (with Illuminati children being trained in this role from preschool onwards - the parents receiving payment or favours within the cult in return for selling their child); Media personnel - sent to journalism school and trained within the cult to write books, articles, screen plays or whatever, sympathetic to Illuminism, without ever revealing their true affiliation; Helpers at rituals, who 'clean up meticulously after rituals, scouring and raking the site, and are trained to set up tables, cloths, candles and magick paraphernalia quickly, as well as being taught from an early age to dissect animals (and, 'Svali' says, humans condemned for sacrifices); High Priests and High Priestesses, who administer and lead the local cults, coordinate jobs, organize satanic events, report to higher levels, and officiate at ceremonies; trainers, such as 'Svali' herself, who train local group members in their assigned jobs, and report to the High Priest or Priestess; Punishers, who brutally punish and discipline members breaking Illuminati rules or acting outside their authority ~ such 'punishers' being universally despised by other cult members and normally two or three in number per group; such people will employ any method deemed 'necessary' to prevent a recurrence of the undesired behaviour; Trackers, who track down and keep an eye on members attempting to leave their local groups, and who are taught to use dogs, guns, taser, and all modern tracking techniques; they are also adept at using the Internet to track a person's activities - tracking credit card usage, cheques written, and whatever snooping opportunities come to hand; Teachers, who instruct children, to indoctrinate Illuminati cult philosophy, languages, and other areas of endeavour; Child Care specialists (infant care workers) who look after very young children while adults are at local group meetings - described by 'Svali' as 'usually quiet and coldly efficient'; Couriers, who run guns, money, drugs or illegal artefacts across state and national lines, trained to use firearms to get out of difficult situations; Commanding Officers, who oversee military training in the local groups, and control and coordinate military-related jobs; and Behavioural scientists, who are, according to 'Svali', 'intensely involved in data collection and human experimentation in the name of the pursuit of knowledge of human behaviour in the scientific realm' (Himmlerism). 'Svali' adds that these people 'are almost universally cold, methodical, impersonal people who will employ any methods to study trauma and its effects on the human personality. Their main interest centers around implementing programming and cult control in the most efficient and lasting manner'. Concerning the existence of Illuminari groups in larger US cities, friends of the Author have recently confirmed not only the accuracy of this statement, but that the pattern is replicated in smaller towns as well. The Order of the Illuminati literally 'took off' in the United States with the geomasonic American Revolution, although 15 Lodges of the Illuminati are known to have been established earlier in the 13 Colonies. The Columbian Lodge of the Order was established in New York City in 1785.

- 'The Illuminati is a group that practices a form of faith known as "enlightenment'. It is Luciferian, and they teach their followers that their roots go back to the ancient mystery religions of Babylon, Egypt and Celtic Druidism. They have taken what they consider to be the "best" of each, the foundation practices, and have joined them together into a strongly occult discipline. Many groups at the local level worship ancient deities such as 'El', 'Baal' and 'Ashtarte', as well as Tsis and Osiris', and 'Set'. I do know that these people teach and practice evil'. Author: Confirmed.
- Extensive Illuminati mind-control and training takes place at military bases hidden in remote, isolated areas or on large private estates: 'Briefly, each region of the United States has "nerve centers" or power bases for regional activity. The United States has been divided up into seven major geographical Regions. Each region has its own Regional Council, composed of 13 members, with an advisory board of three elders to each one. The bases are used intermittently to teach and train generational Illuminati in military techniques, hand-to-hand combat, crowd control, use of arms, and all aspects of warfare. Why? Because Illuminists believe that our government, as we know it, and other governments, are destined to collapse... There will be a military takeover, region by region'. The first such 'experiment' occurred in New Orleans in 2005.

Author: The kind of mind-control operations referred to includes Himmlerian Illuminati abominations such as those described in Cathy O'Brien and Mark Phillips' cited work, 'Trance Formation of America'. Concerning the division of the United States into seven regions, we should not be surprised that this breakdown diverges from the Federal Government's division of the country into ten regions, a device that neatly hides the 'validity' of the seven Illuminati regions. On the basis of the Federal Government breakdown, the New Orleans area is part of Region Six. The Illuminati Region covering New Orleans includes Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma.

Following scalar-promoted Hurricane Katrina, a large number of pre-prepared Executive Orders were implemented, providing for the seizure of power supplies, personal vehicles, food supplies, water supplies, the banks, transportation equipment and systems, and even the Amtrak station which was converted into a prison. A US Navy ship sat outside New Orleans, jamming communications, in accordance with one of the Executive Orders. Some weeks after this catastrophe-atrocity, Vice President Richard Cheney paid a visit to New Orleans, in the course of which he uttered the following Freudian slip: 'We are on top of this exercise'. With this statement, this top CIA operative and Illuminist blew his and the Illuminati's cover, for the Katrina atrocity provided the pretext for the first regional military takeover - as predicted by the Illuminati defector, 'Svali'. It was significant that Senator Mary Landrieu, of Louisiana, initially supported what the Federal Government were actually 'doing' in her area. However on 28th October 2005, she paid a visit to New Orleans, and appeared on television flanked by four pastors. In the course of her remarks, she criticised the Federal Government multiple times, for its 'criminal' behaviour. In other words, she had become aware that these Illuminati maniacs are actually engaged, 'as we speak', in their progressive region-by-region 'takedown' of the United States - or an 'exercise' to test the programme.

FACT In May 2006, it was announced that Cornell University scientists have discovered 60 billion barrels - three times more than current US recoverable oil of 20 billion barrels - off the coast of Louisiana, bringing US reserves up to 80 billion barrels of oil, on a par with Venezuela. The reserve is twice the size of North Sea oil discoveries.

- 'The Supreme World Council exists as a prototype of the one that will rule when the New World Order comes into being. It meets on a regular basis to discuss finances, direction, policy etc, and to problem-solve difficulties as they arise. On this Council, the Rothschild family in England and in France have ruling seats. A descendant of the Hapsburg family has a generational seat. A descendant of the ruling families of Britain and France have generational seats. The Rockefeller family in the United States holds a seat'.
- The Illuminati leadership state that they are descended from royal bloodlines, as well as unbroken occult heritage. See, there are two definitions of 'royalty'. Open royalty that is currently seen now, and 'hidden royalty' of royal lineage and extreme occult power. I never thought of which country/line held the most power, since I was just a peon busily doing my job. But my understanding was: The Hanoverian/Hapsburg descendants rule in Germany over the Bruderheist. They are considered one of the strongest lines for the occult as well. The British Royal Family line is just under them. Definitely they rule the UK branch under the Rothschilds in the occult realm, even though Parliament rules the country openly. In France, again, descendants of the royal families are also the power in the occult realm, but the French Rothschilds hold the reins over all of them'.

Author. The participation of royalty and the high-born in this global criminal activity is at first sight hard to reconcile with the stated revolutionary objective of abolishing all monarchies. However one must (a) take account of the fact, yet again, that these people are double-minded; and (b) certain prominent monarchies were already 'cooperating' Illuminati centres, too powerful to be overthrown and much more useful in situ -although the constant sniping at the British Royal Family may imply otherwise. In that context, the pressure comes from the Grand Orient 'line' of Illuminist Freemasonry, which was responsible de facto for the decision to execute the French King; and those concerned have never reconciled themselves to the fact that the British Monarchy has prospered and grown more powerful ever since. This is an interesting example of Illuminist plans going awry or being modified, or abandoned. The British Royal Family is in any case buttressed by both German and Jewish/Khazar bloodlines.

'The United States is considered lower, and younger, than the European branches. Germany, France and the United Kingdom form a triumvirate that rules the European cult The USSR [significantly, 'Svali' continued to refer to the 'former' USSR as 'the USSR'- Ed.] is considered important, and has the strongest military groups. The USSR has been promised fourth position in the New World Order, BEFORE the role the United States would have, because the USSR has been more helpful and cooperative over the years with furthering the agenda.......... The USSR is going to get stronger again. It has too strong a military, both overtly and covertly, to sit quietly on the side. All Illuminati military trainers have visited Russia to learn from them. In the New World Order, they will be stronger than us'.

Author: Aggressive, Nazi-style US behaviour under the Bush II Administration may imply that the United States is jealous of this Uluminati pecking order and seeks clandestinely to reverse it. Otherwise, the statements correspond to what the Author and colleagues have been told by several informed sources, including a very 'high' US occult Uluminati source with very close ties to Germany. This source warned that 'the Europeans are fighting it out among themselves' and that it would be 'unwise to get in their way'. This insight has resonance in view of the tensions known to exist between Britain on the one hand, and France and Germany on the other, which came to the fore after British intelligence intercepted evidence of French (fronting for German) complicity in the 7/7 atrocities. Gerhard Schroder, the outgoing German Chancellor, conspicuously arrived late for a banquet at Downing Street hosted by Tony Blair on 27th October 2005, and arrived half an hour late at an EU conference organised by the British Presidency at Hampton Court during the same visit. His public observations were unhelpful and rude; and even making allowance for the fact that he was leaving the scene, they revealed the irritation of German intelligence at having been 'roughly spoken to' by the British in July - a state of affairs that awaited its possibly dramatic denouement following confirmation that a fifth bomb had been intended to be detonated under the Thames inside the Northern Line Tube tunnel. It is significant that the high-ranking Illuminati cult member who told the Author's contact that the European powers 'are fighting it out among themselves', made this comment following the London atrocities on 7th July 2005.

- In answer to the question: is the Illuminati a Jewish conspiracy? 'Svali' gave the following initially surprising answer, which perhaps fails to take account, for instance, of the backgrounds of many of the Nazi leaders, or that the Holocaust was associated with venal warfare within the Jewish community which was exploited by the German Illuminati leadership - given that there were at least 155,000 Jews who were in the Wehrmacht, and a significant number of leading Nazi officials, such as Eichmann and Wachter, were of Jewish extraction; but 'Svali's' answer is given here to ensure that the context is complete: "Absolutely not. In fact, Hitler and his people, especially Himmler and Goebbels, were top Illuminists. The Illuminati are racist in the extreme, and as a child, I was forced to play "concentration camp" both on my farm in Virginia, and also in Europe at isolated camps in Germany.... There are some very powerful Jewish people in this group. For instance, the Rothschild family literally runs the financial empire in Europe. I have also known people whose parents were Jewish diamond merchants in the group, and at every level. But to rise to power in the Illuminati, a Jewish person at night would be forced to renounce their faith, and to give their first allegiance to Lucifer and the beliefs of the Illuminati. In return for this betrayal, they believe that power (financial) and rewards flow; and in one sense they do, but at too high a price' (losing their eternal soul).

Author 'Svali' fails to understand that Zionism is Fascism. Many make this mistake.

- 'The Nazi/concentration camp mentality is very strong, though, and I was told that Hitler, Himmler, Goebbels and others were high-ranking members of the muminati (Himmler was higher than the other two), and Mengele their paid puppet as well, who later worked as a high trainer of the American branch between his periods of hiding in South America. They honestly believed that they were acting as agents of their 'gods' to exterminate the Jewish race'. Given the climate then favouring eugenics and 'ethnic cleansing', and given also that Zionism (Fascism) is racist, it was satanically logical that these ruthless people saw fit to apply their 'ethnic cleansing' formula to their own.

Author. A system of concentration camps has been in place in the United States since the second half of the 1990s. See the Second Appendix to Chapter 8, page 612.

- As to whether these people are all racist: 'Lots of Illuminists have Fourth Reich programming inside [them]. The Illuminati are racist and have a very "Ayryan" outlook. They believe strongly in the role of the 'pure' and 'intelligent' by their own definitions, and in their ceremonies; there will occasionally be minorities killed in ceremonies'.

Author: One of these people, evidently an American CIA operative working from Dublin, where there is a large CIA colony, telephoned the Author out of the blue in June 2003 and proceeded to discuss Scripture. At first, what he had to say was sound and in accordance with the Author's understanding of the Word. But gradually, this unsolicited intervention veered away from the truth. The operative started insisting that Eve had had sex with the serpent and that the product of that union was all the coloured peoples of the world, whom he implied were inferior. When the Author protested and attempted to close the conversation the operative suddenly asked: 'Can you 'speak in tongues?" Whereupon he started to 'demonstrate'. What came out of his mouth was a stream of unintelligible demonic gobbldegook. He was able to turn this stream of verbal tripe on and off, which he did three times. At the end of these demonstrations, he ordered copies of ALL the Author's publications, shouting: 'I want everything you produce, do you hear me? I don't care what it costs'. There and then, he proffered his Credit Card details. The Author arranged for a large parcel of materials to be sent to him and duly debited his Credit card, as instructed. Presumably all this material was sent to Langley.

• 'Genetics: They are trying to breed a 'genetically superior' race to rule, with their children and descendants. They are also followers of Plato's Republic and believe that they will be the ones to usher in this 'utopia' rule [where] the intelligentsia will rule and the sheeplike masses will follow their leaders. They believe that the occult leaders are 'enlightened and intelligent' [Illuminated], while the average person is a sheep, to be led by the nose'. In the text published on the Internet, 'Svali' explained that 'after the military takeover (for which 800+ US concentration camps, capable of holding up to 15,000,000 people have been established: seepages 612-613), the general population will be given an opportunity either to espouse the cause of the Illuminati, or else to reject it, on pain of imprisonment or other penalties, including death. 'These people very much believe that the intelligent, or "enlightened" or Illuminated, were born to rule. They are arrogant, and consider the general population as "dumb sheep" who will be easily led if offered strong leadership, financial help in an unstable world economy, and dire consequences if the person rebels. Their utter ruthlessness, and ability to implement this agenda, should not be minimised'.

Author: Reports of long-term experiments aimed at the creation of life itself, so that God need no longer exist, which have resulted in the generation of beings with multiple arms and legs that are kept in cages deep underground at certain locations in the United States, have proliferated in recent years, following leaks by appalled intelligence observers. All such abominable 'work' is derived from the Sefer Yetzirah, the oldest text of the Kabbalah, highlighted in a German expressionist film of the 1920s by Paul Wegener called 'The Golem' in which Rabbi Loew (a 16th century Rabbi of Prague) consults the Kabbalah, draws a magic circle and conjures a demon to bring a 'Golem' to life. Craig Heimbichner points out that at Brandeis University 'attempts were recently made, backed by DARPA, the US Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, to create artificial life, beginning with attempts to "evolve" robots. The title of this military intelligence project is: 'The Golem Project: Genetically Organized Lifelike Electro Mechanics'. Other US agencies involved with the Golem Project are NASA, the Office of Naval Research, the Department of Defense, and the National Science Foundation. Portions of this information have been leaked and featured on National Public Radio (NPR), BBC News, and even NBC and ABC. Leaks of such 'information' test the trance state of the public and deepen it if the public submits without protest to the disturbing signals - an observation which this Author considers to be a coherent explanation, also, of part of the rationale for the publication of Cathy O'Brien and Mark Phillips' awful book, 'Trance Formation of America', in which detailed descriptions of organised abominations and programming operations against innocents, and of the alleged depravity of named senior US officials, is relentlessly described. The search for a Man-controlled key to the creation of life, which would crown Man's usurpation of the place of God, was supervised in the United States by the Satanist and O.T.O. leader of the Agape Lodge in California, John Whiteside Parsons, co-founder of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (a.k.a. 'Jack Parsons Lives'), who called himself 'Antichrist Belarion'. He was caught in the homosexual rape of a 16-year-old boy in 1942, and invoked the forces of Chaos before each rocket test. For two generations the abominations committed by the United States in dropping nuclear bombs on Japan have been justified as 'hastening the end of the war'. Parsons' crowning achievement was to attempt to create a 'Mannikin', a vision of Crowley's that was to be representative of life created by Man (but one who was demon-possessed). According to two occult investigators cited by Heimbichner, James Shelby Downard and William N. Grimstad, the first (demonic) atomic bomb explosion at the blasphemously-named Trinity Site in New Mexico on 16th July 1945, was accompanied by a huge steel 'bottle' code-named 'Jumbo', weighing nearly 500,000 pounds, and measuring 25 ft in length x 12ft in diameter, about which no official explanation has ever been forthcoming. According to Downard, Jumbo contained an inanimate body, which was inundated with nuclear energy, with a view to creating a real homunculus, an objective of mediaeval alchemy. Heimbichner surmises that foetal tissue will have formed part of this 'Mannikin' or some part of it, given the 'overlapping activities of both Parsons and his government partners'. Note that such activities parallel the horrific experiments on human beings and with the human mind and human tissue, perpetrated by Himmler's scientists - whose reception in the United States complemented Black activities already being undertaken by the US Government.

Figure 74: Selected interior views of the George Washington National Memorial, Alexandria, Virginia, with a view of the exterior. This is arguably the most grotesque Illuminati Temple to the Evil One in the world. Its size, viewed from the passing Amtrak railroad, is contrived to belittle the individual and to pronounce definitively that powers of infinitely greater proportions rule the universe. Standing on Shooters Hill just a mile from the brown Potomac River, the memorial, dedicated on 12th May 1932, stands 333ft high. The line' for public consumption is that it stands for the Illuminised 'Masonic Fraternity's' faith in the principles of religious liberty and orderly government'. In reality it shouts: 'We are in control and there's nothing you can do about it'.

- On Freemasonry, 'Svali' commented: 'The Freemasons and the Illuminati are hand-in-glove.... Alexandria, Virginia [see Figure 74 on page 489], is named after Alexandria, Egypt [which is to be one of the two centers of global control, the other being Brussels']. 'Svali' says: 'A new system of monetary exchange, based on an international monetary sys tem, and operating between Cairo, Egypt, and Brussels, Belgium, will be set up. There is a center in the Washington DC area for Illuminati scholarship and training'....

Author: Which 'illuminates, does it not, all those otherwise semi-incomprehensible goings-on at 'The Cedars', Arlington, discussed in Chapter 6.

- Are all Masons Dluminati? 'No, especially at the lower levels. I believe that they know nothing of the practices that occur in the middle of the night in the larger Temples' - as was the case in the time of Ezekiel [Ed.]. 'The group helped to create Freemasonry as a front for their activities'. Author: This is supported by research published in this book.
- Concerning Illuminati penetration of the US structures: 'The CIA and the FBI are all infiltrated. So are the Mormons [and other cults). Many of the administrators and directors of the FBI are also Illurninists. The CIA helped to bring over German scientists after World War II. Many of these people were also IUuminati leaders in their own country, and they were welcomed with open arms by the US group. They funnelled all the information from their research to the Illuminati.... This is truly an international group, and its agenda supersedes any nationalist considerations. There is also a lot of trading back and forth in these groups. A Russian trainer might come to the United States for a while, complete a job, and then go back, or vice versa'.
- With reference to Illuminati personnel, 'Svali' explained that 'most of them are wounded, abused victims, who don't realize that it is possible to leave the group. There is a lot of discontent in the ranks, and there would be a mass exodus if the members believed that it were really possible to get out (and live). Many of the trainers I knew (wicked, torturing paedophiles) were NOT happy with what they did. They would whisper quietly, or give a look, to show that they disagreed with what they had to do. They would resignedly do their jobs, in the hope of advancement. Do you know that one of the biggest carrots offered to those who advance up the group is that you don't have to hurt people any more, and that you can't be abused? It's true: only those higher up than you in the group can abuse you, so everybody wants to move up, where the pool of candidates becomes smaller. Of course, people can choose to abuse anyone beneath them, and that motivates. The Illuminati are a very political and back-stabbing group, [having] a 'dog-eat-dog' mentality. Everyone wants to move up. These are NOT nice people, and they use and manipulate others viciously. They cut their eye-teeth on status, power, and money[85] [idolatry, and consequent hell on earth - Ed].

MODERN ILLUMINISM STARTED WITH THE GERMAN ROSICRUCIANS

The testimony of 'Svali' concerning the origins and power centers of the Illuminati also checks out with the detailed research presented in this book. She wrote that 'modern-day Illuminism... started with the German branch of the Rosicrucians', 'spread to England, then came to the United States with the first settlers'.

'The Illuminati have three main branches: The Germanic Branch, which oversees the others - confirming the accuracy of this book's analysis; The British Branch, which handles finances; and the French/Russian Branch. All three of these Illuminati branches are represented in both the United States and Canada, as well as in every country in the world'. The likelihood is that the 'rats-in-the-sack' syndrome applies, as these evil forces are constantly, and inevitably, being servants of Lucifer, at cross-purposes.

According to 'Svali' all Illuminati banking trails 'will eventually lead to Belgium, the Illuminati financial centre of the world' - an insight borne out by the presence in Brussels of the main institutions of the German long-range strategic deception apparat called the European Union, and of the handlers of global control finances.

'Svali' also listed the main 'power centers' of the Illuminati in the United States. Noting that they originally entered America via Pittsburgh, PA, she reports that they spread from there all over the country. In the year 2000, there were 18 US cities that were (and are) used as 'power centers' - meaning both practical and occult power, not just 'power' in the usual political sense of the word, including the following cities/areas: Washington DC, and the surrounding area; Albany, New York; Pittsburgh, PA, Winston Salem, Raleigh 'Golden Triangle' area, North Carolina; Minneapolis; Ann Arbor, Michigan; Wichita, Kansas; Phoenix, Arizona; Flagstaff, Arizona; Portland, Oregon; Seattle; Houston; Los Angeles and surrounding areas; New Orleans; and Springfield, Mississippi. Other cities, adds 'Svali', are important to the Illuminati - funnelling money, conducting research and cooperating with Regional Illuminati Councils.

Given that these 'Dark Actors Playing Games' have given themselves up to Satan, the Great Deceiver - so that none of them can ever trust anything that any of their Illuminati colleagues say or do, which is why they are frequently at loggerheads with each other, and always will be, and why they always make a mess of their Luciferian schemes, as a further corollary of which all their plans will certainly lead to destruction and perdition - an especially revealing feature of these reprobate lost souls and 'self-deceived 'Useful Idiots' is that they usually appear to be charming and perfectly normal, up to a point.

As 'Svali' pointed out, they 'never openly disclose their agenda, or their cult activities, since they are often actually amnaesic to them. These may be well-respected, "Christian"-appearing business leaders in the community. The image in the community is all-important to the Illuminist'. Their Jewish-Kabbalistic inspired 'religion' is, after all, as Craig Heimbichner has taught us, 'a religion of the Double Mind'. 'Svali' continued: 'They will do anything to maintain a normal, respected facade, and they DESPISE exposure. None of the Illuminists that I have ever known had unkind, or evil appearing, personas in their daytime lives, although some were dysfunctional, such as being alcoholics. The dissociation that drives these Illuminists is their greatest cover. Many, if not most, of these people (by day) are completely unaware of the great evil that they are involved in during the night' - just as the elders of ancient Israel who performed abominations in the dark, reported by the prophet Ezekiel and referred to earlier, were probably 'decent' and upright leaders of their communities by day.

Nothing whatsoever has changed, apart from the magnitude of the problem.

THE JEWISHNESS' OF 'THE ORDER' AND 'KOL NIDRIM'

On the face of it, the most problematical issue arising from 'Svali's' testimony concerns her remarks about the key role of the Jews inside the Illuminati. Since, as we have seen, the 'Black Nobility' component of the Illuminati is essentially Jewish/Khazar or with Jewish antecedents, the Illuminati and the penetrated Masonic 'pedigree' and focus that has been described is essentially Jewish (and the further our investigations are developed, the more direct Jewish kabbaJistic influence emerges), why is it that this defector says that this is not a 'Jewish' operation (driven by the 'seething energies' of Lucifer')? The answer to this simple question is complex:

1. In the first place, the Jews are divided amongst themselves.
2. The promoters of diabolical occult kabbalism and sorcery are a small minority among the Jews, who in almost all other respects are entirely compatible with the societies within which they live. Any discussion of these subjects among level-headed, intelligent Jews will expose the absolute revulsion of such sober people for sorcery and the abominations, condemned in their own Torah, that take place in Masonic Lodges and Temples, and in the secret societies of Jewish-inspired Rosicrucian kabbalistic Illuminism.
3. The tendency throughout the centuries has been for sorcery and related abominations to hide behind 'respectable' facades wherever possible: hence, for instance, the self-imposed occult century of secret silence of the Rosicrucian 'line' between 1617 and 1717, and the later penetration and conquest of Freemasonry by the Rose-Croix. The one exception to this tendency appears to have been the establishment of the O.T.O. in 1902/1917. Therefore, a presumption persists that the cherished image of respectability (as discussed above) must be retained at all times. The logic of this would suggest that, since the source of these abominations is Jewish Babylonian kabbalism (arising from the 'wrong turn' that the official Jews took at the time of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ), there must be continuing pressure within the Illuminati to mask this provenance, which 'merges' with the intense desire for the cover or respectability.
4. Betraying their faith and pretending that their oaths, vows and undertakings can be overlooked and rendered null and void, are two specialities of some Jews. They did this in Spain, on the advice of the Constantinople Sanhedrin, when ordered by King Ferdinand to convert to Christianity or to leave the country. They evidently, according to 'Svali', do this in the Masonic Temples when participating in abominable rituals at dead of night, in the manner observed by Ezekiel. As for giving themselves absolution for the sins which they know perfectly well they have committed, they have a Jewish Talmudic prayer called 'All Vows' ('Kol Nidre'). It is based on the following declaration in the Talmud, which is itself a perversion of the provisions for atonement laid out in Leviticus: 'He who wishes that his vows and oaths shall have no value, stand up at the beginning of the year and say: "All vows which I shall make during the year shall be of no value". The logic of this, of course, is that any vow a Talmudic Jew makes to the Lord of Hosts is, by definition, vulnerable to being decapitated by a recitation of 'Kol Nidre', which means that Talmudic Jews can have NO SPIRITUAL LOYALTY TO GOD WHATSOEVER. On the contrary, such a Jew may consider that he can simply recite 'Kol Nidre' in order to escape from any vows he may have foolishly made to Satan in the darkness of the Masonic Lodge at night - only to discover that Evil Spirit binds him so that he cannot escape, as he thinks he can escape from any vows to God.

Originally conceived as a 'backward look' over the failures of the preceding year, 'Kol Nidre' quickly became a forward look anticipating all the deceptions that would be deliberately planned in the forthcoming year. This, of course, is the basis of the Bolshevik-Leninist 'line' that any agreements reached with the 'bourgeoisie' (Goyim) can be breached and unilaterally annulled at any time. In 1919, a more extended version of 'Kol Nidre', for use on the Day of Atonement, appeared in print. It reads as follows: 'All vows, obligations, oaths or anathemas, pledges of all names, which we have vowed, sworn, devoted, or bound ourselves to, from this Day of Atonement, until the next Day of Atonement (whose arrival we hope for in happiness) we repent, aforehand, of them all; they shall be deemed absolved, forgiven, annulled, void and made of no effect; they shall not be binding, nor have any power; the vows shall not be reckoned vows, the obligations shall not be obligatory, nor the oaths considered as oaths'[86].

This tradition of annulling vows and undertakings before they are even consummated was not, as Jewish apologists have argued, a consequence of the abominable treatment meted out to the Jews under the (Jewish) Jesuit-inspired Spanish Inquisition, when they were treated so viciously in the name of the gentle, meek and loving Jesus. On the contrary, a formula to invalidate Jewish vows is found in the Talmudic prayer book of Rabbi Amram Goun, who lived in the ninth century, a good 500 years before the Spanish abominations - although Rabbi Amram's formula was called 'Kol Nidrim' ('All vows and oaths which we shall swear from Yom Kippurim to Yom Kippurim will return to us void'). To be fair, it is NOT the case that all Jews deliberately assassinate their pledged word: but the Talmud and their Talmudic prayer books permit them to so, and advises them how to accomplish the annulment of their undertakings, which presupposes that when drawing up agreements they reserve at the back of their minds the 'right' to renege should they decide that to do so would be in their best interests, and that they can override domestic law in some way or another. This, of course, means that undertakings reached generally with Jews following the Talmud cannot necessarily ever be relied upon - a point exploited by Lenin, who taught his associates that any agreements reached with the 'bourgeoisie' (code for Gentiles, or Goyim) could 'legally' be abrogated unilaterally by the Revolution at any time, should the 'correlation of forces' demand such an annulment in the interests of Leninist revolutionary strategy.

5. As an obvious and pertinent corollary to the above, we find ourselves yet again face-to-face with the primary characteristic of the Illuminati, highlighted by Craig Heimbichner, which provides such an invaluable insight into 'the mystery of iniquity': the double-mindedness of the Illuminati. This is evident from the two-faced behaviour of its members, who present as respectable, even agreeable, citizens 'by day', and as practictioners of evil 'by night'. This double-mindedness is associated with the characteristic that has disturbed this Author most, when observing the behaviour of these people - namely, the propensity of some of them to switch suddenly from open-ended charm, to unabridged nastiness, anger, or both. Such 'switches' often occur in a nanosecond - so that the person you thought you were dealing with has changed in an instant into someone from whose presence it becomes imperative to depart. The 'Kol Nidrim' culture is of course wholly consistent with this malevolent schizophrenia, since, by definition, the Talmudic Jew who enters into an agreement knows, albeit usually subconsciously, that he always has the option to renege on his undertakings. It should not be construed from this that this Author assumes that undertakings with Jewish parties are invariably suspect: but this is a feature of the culture of both Talmudic Jewry and the Illuminati which accounts for the contradictory phenomena encountered in the course of this study. It also, incidentally, accounts for the Soviet Communist literature on 'contradictions' which may otherwise be inexplicable to students of Leninism: see for example the Soviet compendium 'Foundations of Marxism-Leninism', in which the central role of 'contradictions' in the formulation and 'rolling ouf of strategy is discussed.

Synarchy (rule by secret societies) presupposes double-mindedness, and of course highlights the duplicity inherent in the familiar accusation that investigators such as this Author are 'conspiracy theorists' (although, curiously, the Author has not actually faced this accusation). Lenin himself wrote that the Revolution - an operation of the Illuminati - is a conspiracy. Since secret societies exist, conspiracy is dearly ubiquitous; so the 'conspiracy theorist' insult is yet another diversionary lie promulgated by the double-minded conspirators themselves. Likewise, over-mighty criminalists occupying official positions believe that their own serial criminality (including their drug and money-laundering operations) can conveniently be masked by posing as dedicated crusaders against crime.

PROOFS OF THE CONSPIRACY

No expose of the Illuminati, however incomplete (as this necessarily is) can close without mentioning the first two that were publicly distributed - Professor John Robison's 'Proofs of a Conspiracy', published in 1799, and the Abbe Augustin Barruel's four-volume study, 'Memoirs Illustrating the History of Jacobinism', published in 1799, some months after the first appearance of Robison's book. Both these observers - one a lapsed member of Weishaupt's Illuminati and Professor of Natural Philosophy at Edinburgh University, and the other a French priest - writing in different countries and in different languages, without the one knowing the other - covered essentially the same subject-matter and came to the very same conclusions. As the Introduction to the American Classics Edition of 'Proofs of a Conspiracy'[87] observes, therefore, 'we have two excellent works which tell us virtually all we need to know about the origins of history's most diabolical, long-range conspiracy'. It is a basic rule of journalism, not always easily realised, that if possible one should have two sources for every statement. Because Robison wrote, of course, in English, albeit necessarily in the 18th century style, English-speaking students have tended to use his analysis, given the added problems of translating stilted 18th century French into plain language (although the Abbe Barruel's prose is in fact easily absorbed). Robison, disillusioned by his encounter with the Illuminati, possessed what is sometimes referred to as a 'hinterland'. For instance, he was a close friend of James Watt, the inventor of the steam engine, who described Robison, at his death in 1805 aged 66, as 'a man of the clearest head and the most science of anybody I have ever known'. In 1783, Robison had been elected General Secretary of the Royal Society of Edinburgh: so he was one of the leading intellects of his time.

The Order of the Illuminati, formally reorganised in 1775 by Adam Weishaupt, a lapsed Jesuit of Jewish extraction and Professor of Canon Law at Ingolstadt University, Germany, was the front man for the 'Dark Actors Playing Games' of the day - a gopher, who, on instructions from 'high adepts', especially including the then head of the Jewish Rothschild (Red Shield) family, elaborated the strategy of promoting Illuminism through Masonic Lodges, which were protected by sworn secrecy, 'grafting the new Order of the Illuminati, at selected points, onto Freemasonry - like a fungus'[88].

The primary working motto of The Order was that the end (ostensibly the happiness of the human race but in fact the control-lust idolatry of 'the Brotherhood') always justifies the means. That The Order of the Illuminati was intended to embrace the entire world, was evidenced by Weishaupt's own definition quoted in the 'Larousse Grande Dictionnaire' published in 1873, in which he was quoted as having said that the goal of

PROOFS OF A CONSPIRACY AGAINST ALL THE RELIGIONS AND GOVERNMENTS
OF EUROPE, CARRIED ON IN THE SECRET MEETINGS
OF
FREE MASONS, ILLUMINATI, AND READING SOCIETIES,
COLLECTED FROM GOOD AUTHORITIES,
BY JOHN ROBISON, A. M.
PROFESSOR OF NATURAL PHILOSOPHY, AND SECRETARY TO THE ROYAL SOCIETY OF EDINBURGH.

Nam tua res agitur paries cum proximus ardet.

THE FOURTH EDITION.
TO WHICH IS ADDED, A POSTSCRIPT.

NEW-YORK:
Printed and Sold by George Forman, No. 64, Water-Street, between Coenties and the Old-Slip.
1798.

Figure 75: The cover of the classic 1798 expose of the Freemasons, Illuminati and Reading Societies, by the University of Edinburgh's Professor of Natural History, John Robison. Quite separately, the Abbe Augustin Barruel published, in 1799, a four-volume study entitled 'Memoirs Illustrating the History of Jacobinism'. Neither expert knew each other, but both covered the same subject matter and came to the same conclusion. We therefore have two impeccable contemporary sources for our knowledge of the Illuminati conspiracy.

The Order was to 'unite, by way of one common higher interest and by a lasting bond, men from all parts of the globe, from all social classes and from all religions, despite the diversity of their opinions and passions, to make them love the common interest' - the falsely seductive terms of which, as is standard practice with this revolutionary movement, in all its formats, were not defined - 'and bond to the point where, together or alone, they act as one individual'[89].

The reference to 'diversity' provides confirmation of the origin of the mindless imposition of 'diversity standards' by UK and US Government Departments at all levels of governance and official structures, replicated within multinational corporations worldwide. It explains, for instance, why, at a railway station such as Union Station in Washington DC, one is liable to hear announcements read out by a female Hispanic announcer whose accent and mode of expression are so excruciatingly awful that hardly a single word of what she says can ever be understood. She is employed for that job, despite the fact that she is totally unsuited for it, for 'reasons of diversity'[90].

Weishaupt may have developed his adaptation of the much older concept of an elite cadre of 'Illuminati' from his knowledge of the secret splinter group within the reprobate Jesuitical Order calling themselves the 'Alumbrados' (the 'enlightened ones') created by the founder of the Society of Jesus himself in Spain, Ignatius Loyola. This splinter society taught another form of Gnosticism, asserting that the trappings of formal religion were unnecessary for those in receipt of 'the light'. This would make sense if 'the light' in question was to be that of Jesus Christ; but evidently these reprobates had 'another Jesus' in mind. The Spanish Inquisition, itself designed by Loyola, actually issued edicts against the 'Alumbrados' in 1568, 1574 and 1623. Weishaupt wrote that, with the rationalisation of his new manifestation of the 'Illuminati', he incurred 'the implacable enmity of the Jesuits... whose intrigues he exposed'. No doubt they hated him for this, not least, because this 'act of exposure' consisted of rank plagiarism: the initiation methodology and Degree system that Weishaupt developed for his revamped 'Illuminati' Order was modelled precisely along Jesuit lines, complete with its regime of oath-bound secrecy and its integral internal system of permanent spying on one's 'brethren'. Indeed, Weishaupt was almost certainly chosen for this remit by the Rothschild family because of his Jesuit training and deep understanding of how that 'Order's Luciferian methodology worked. In a letter dated 1794, Weishaupt wrote that 'the great strength of our Order lies in its concealment. Never let it appear in any place in its own name, but always covered by another name, and another occupation. None is better than the three lower Degrees of Freemasonry; the public is accustomed to it, expects little from it, and therefore takes little notice of it. Next to this, the form of a learned or literary society (the Thule Society) is best suited to our purpose.... By establishing reading societies and subscription libraries... we may turn the public mind which way we will. In like manner we must try to obtain an influence in... all offices which have any effect, either in forming, or in managing, or even in directing the mind of man'.

In this passage, Weishaupt confirmed that his Illuminati sect would piggy-back on the 'Blue Degrees' of Freemasonry, for the purpose of absorbing and controlling them and exploiting this penetration in pursuit of its long-range objectives: exactly the method used by the Leninist Communists and, in the United Kingdom today (as of 2006), by the sinister official 'Fifth Column' revolutionary 'mental mapping' organisation run out of a central Whitehall Government office called 'Common Purpose', by a Civil Service Head of Personnel Selection, a Mrs Julia Middleton. She 'moonlights' as head of the enormous 'Common Purpose' personality manipulation network, which is systematically training a brainwashed revolutionary cadre throughout all tiers of Government, the prison service selected components of industry, banking, and other sectors of the political economy.

Members of The Order of the Illuminati were required, John Robison explained, to swear blind obedience and submission to their superiors - exactly as required within the Jesuitical system - with an oath (forbidden by Jesus Christ) that reads in part: 'I bind myself to perpetual silence and unshaken loyalty and submission to The Order, in the persons of my Superiors' (Weishaupt even used the same terminology as the Jesuits); here making a faithful and complete surrender of my private judgment, my own will, and every narrow-minded employment of my power and influence'[91].

To blindly submit one's will to the power of another - in this case, the Evil Force hiding behind the Superiors of The Order - is an act of extreme madness and unmitigated folly, since we were specifically given Free Will by the Lord so that we may exercise it, not least to choose between good and evil. Note the use of the word 'narrow-minded': so-called 'Europhiles' in the United Kingdom, having no intellectual arguments of any validity on their side in favour of their discredited and redundant support for Britain's satrap status within the German-controlled European Union [see Chapter 8], are apt to resort to sloganeering and insults, one of which is that those of us who believe in national independence and self-determination, are 'narrow-minded'.

In addition, 'members were required to spy on one another and to submit reports and autobiographies which could compromise them, should they decide to leave The Order'[92]. In other words, Adam Weishaupt imposed upon his 'new' reprobate Order precisely the same diabolical control mechanisms and spying incubus as that so notoriously employed within that originating, parallel Illuminati organisation, also not coincid-entally calling itself 'The Order'- the blasphemously mislabelled Society of Jesus.

NURSERY			Preparation
			Novice
			Minerval
			Illuminatus Minor
MASONRY	Sym-bolic		Apprentice
			Fellow Craft
			Master
	Scotch	Illuminatus Major	Scotch Novice
		Illuminatus dirigens	Scotch Knight
MYSTERIES	Lesser	Presbyster, Priest, Prince, Regent
	Greater	Magus Rex

Figure 78: Summary of the 'higher Degrees' of the Illuminati as organised by Professor Adam Weishaupt, a reprobate former Jesuit of Jewish extraction, reproduced by Professor John Robison in his classic expose of the Illuminati, 'Proofs of a Conspiracy' [see Figure 77]. Adepts are taken from the first three (Blue) Degrees of Freemasonry. The 'Mysteries' presuppose idolatry, the invocation of demons, and sexual permissiveness.

As the Introduction to the American Classics edition of 'Proofs of a Conspiracy's' expose further explains, the ultimate despotic purpose of the Order of the Illuminati was kept secret from initiates at the outset, and was only unveiled by means of the usual procedure - initiation Degrees, also bearing a close resemblance to the Jesuit system, named: Preparation, Novice, Minerval and Illuminatus Minor, followed by the 'higher' 'Mysteries' of Priest, Regent, MAGUS, and Rex. (According to Robison, Weishaupt 'created' eight Degrees, but some authorities speak of nine). Each step of the way was carefully plotted and planned by Weishaupt and his colleagues, building on the traditions developed within the earlier versions of the sect, so that the 'squeamish' and gullible never rose higher than the lowest Degrees, while the bold, ruthless and cynical - all who were ready and willing to dispense totally with the vestiges (as they saw it) of Christianity, morality, patriotism and any other hindrances, rose to the top[93]. [Figure 78].

'It was through this process of selection and careful inculcation that Weishaupt, in a mere decade, was able to gather into his Order the cleverest and most diabolical minds in Europe. The true purpose of The Order was to rule the world. To achieve this, it was necessary for the Order to destroy all religions, overthrow all governments, and abolish private property. In order to accomplish this, it would be necessary to convince enough people that religion, governments, and private property were the real obstacles to human happiness'.

Weishaupt organised the Order of the Illuminati within the Lodge Theodore of Munich, as a secret organisation within a secret organisation. Robison 'examined the state of Freemasonry within Germany, where the Illuminati aberration originated. He describes the schisms within German Freemasonry, the great fascination [there] with mysteries [i.e., the occult], the widespread influence of Deism - the philosophy that the universe is creating God, rather than the reverse' (an interesting variation on the Devil's usual trick of turning everything upside down and inside out) 'and such Utopian ideas imported from France as cosmopolitanism, or world citizenship, and finally the strong influence of French Masonic practices and doctrines through the Lodge of Lyons, the mother Lodge of a segment of Masonry known as the Grand Orient de la France'[94]

Given that the revolutionary doctrines pressed by the Illuminati Order were zealously propagated, the existence of this secret society within a secret society (the pattern used by the Illuminati to hide their existence ever since, in one way or another), could not remain hidden for long. In 1783, a Bavarian Court of Enquiry started an investigation into The Order; and much of what is known about the massive conspiracy that Weishaupt fronted, is a consequence of that investigation. The Bavarian Court of Enquiry exposed and banned the Illuminati Order, which then went underground again, emerging as a network of Reading Societies all over Germany.

This operation represented the Illuminati's first attempt to control the media - as the literary Reading Room network sought to monopolise editorial work, publishing reviewing and the distribution of all literature, in order to control the minds of the intelligentsia. At the same time, the Illuminati exploited the printed word to subvert the minds of 'the masses' - a precursor of its later annexation of film, theatre and today the entire entertainment industry, augmented by the electronic leverage potential through the Internet, for the same purpose.

Indeed, the methodology employed by the Illuminati cadres has never changed throughout this 'final' assault by Lucifer - which is intended to achieve a decisive victory over 'the enemy' as the culmination of the 'Permanent Revolution'. It will certainly fail.

CONTROL OF THE MEDIA INTEGRAL WITH THE CONSPIRACY

Independent corroboration of the evil intent of representatives of the Illuminati to annexe and control the Fourth Estate is available, thanks not least to excellent research conducted by Dr Dennis Laurence Cuddy, and published in his book 'Secret Records Revealed: The Men, the Money, and the Methods Behind the New World Order'[95]. Dr Cuddy records that on 9th February 1917 - not uncoincidentally the year in which the O.T.O. emerged into the open and the Russian Revolution occurred, resulting in the establishment by the Illuminati of their first large-scale 'Black Regime' - Representative Oscar Calloway inserted the following statement in the Congressional Record:

'In March 1915, the J. P. Morgan interests, the steel, shipbuilding, and powder interests, and their subsidiary organisations, got together twelve men high-up in the newspaper world and employed them to select the most influential newspapers in the United States and sufficient number of them to control generally the policy of the daily press of the United States. These twelve men worked the problem out by selecting 179 newspapers and then began, by an elimination process, to retain only those necessary for the purpose of controlling the general policy of the daily press throughout the country. They found it was only necessary to purchase the control of twenty-five of the greatest newspapers. The twenty-five papers were agreed upon; emissaries were sent to purchase the policy (i.e., control) national and international, of these papers; an agreement was reached; the policy of the papers was bought, to be paid for by the month; and an editor was furnished for each paper to properly supervise and edit information regarding the questions of preparedness, militarism, financial policies, and other things of national and international nature considered vital to the interests of the purchasers'[96].

Dr Cuddy further reports that on 24th March 1917, 'The New York Times' published the text of a telegram from Jacob Schiff describing the Russian Revolution as 'what we had hoped and striven for these long years'. And on 3rd February 1949, 'The New York Journal-American' reported that Today it is estimated even by Jacob's grandson, John Schiff, a prominent member of New York Society, that the old man sank about $20,000,000 for the final triumph of Bolshevism in Russia. Other New York banking firms also contributed'[97]. These references to the financing of the Bolshevik Revolution by New-York based Jewish bankers is included here in order to highlight the parallel relevance of Figure 84 on page 533, in which the signature of Adolf Hitler appears on the same document as that of Max Warburg, the brother of Paul Warburg, who was the chief architect of the Federal Reserve System.

The combination of these two pieces of evidence shows how Western Jewish banking funds were used to finance the first Black Illuminati regime, the Soviet (International Socialist) Union under the German agent Lenin, and secondly, the German National Socialist Black Illuminati regime - thus establishing the two sides of a dialectical process ripe for manipulation to procure the emergence of an environment conducive to the German-Jewish llluminati's mad objective, the establishment of a 'New World Order'. The question is: is this to be the 'Order' imposed by the 'New World' as envisaged originally, under older German influence, by Sir Francis Bacon and the European controllers of the founders of the United States, or the New World Ordnung, or Thousand-Year Reich, which is what the controlling German Illuminati centre has in mind?

In 1928, William Paley established the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) and hired a nephew of Sigmund Freud, the Jewish 'Father of Psychiatry', named Edward Bernays, as his main adviser. Bernays published a study entitled 'Propaganda', which contained this further confirmation that the Illuminati have imposed their grip on the US media - and of course, as is today so glaringly obvious, on the British media as well:

Those who manipulate the organized habits and opinions of the masses constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of the country.... It remains a fact that in almost every act of our daily lives, whether in the sphere of politics or business, in our social conduct or our ethical thinking, we are dominated by the relatively small number of persons.... It is they who pull the wires that control the public mind, who harness old social forces and contrive new ways to bind and guide the world.... As civilization has become more complex, and as the need for invisible government has been increasingly demonstrated...'[98].

Given universally heightened concerns today at the perennial failure of the open 'mainstream' media in both the United States and Britain to investigate and report the proportions of institutionalised financial, drug-running and money-laundering criminality and theft that has become routine, and which the Author seeks to expose in his serial publications, it is sobering to learn that these anxieties are nothing new at all.

HOW THEY HANDLE EXPOSURE: 'NO-ONE WILL BELIEVE IT'

The Author experienced at first-hand how the Illuminati seize control of desirable media outlets. In the 1970s, he was in the habit, thanks to the good offices of the then Editor of The Daily Telegraph, the veteran politician-turned-journalist W. H. Deedes, of writing extensive Op-Ed Articles which were frequently published in the centre pages of that newspaper. This continued satisfactorily for a number of years: indeed, the Author was instrumental in helping the Conservative Party to understand that the trade unions were labour cartels; and Bill Deedes told the Author one day that 'you taught me that trade unions are financial corporations'. In March 1979, shortly before Mrs Thatcher came to power, the Author was invited to brief the Shadow Cabinet on this subject, where he encountered resistance from one of the darkest characters who surrounded the incoming Prime Minister, Leon Brittan, and from an accountant ally of Mrs Thatcher who became Lord Wakeham (subsequently allegedly caught up in the Enron scandal).

After some years, Conrad Black bought the newspaper and other titles from the then proprietors, the Berry Family. As is well known, Lord Black, as he duly became, was, many years later, involved in a scandal over the removal of funds within his complex, Maxwellian corporate structures, which were in part presided over by the sinister characters Dr Henry Kissinger, the German Jew with the Soviet codename BOR, and Richard Perle, the man known in Washington as 'the Prince of Darkness'. Within a very short space of time following Black's takeover of the newspaper, all the Op-Ed writers, including the Author, were 'sacked': or rather, it was made crystal clear that further contributions would not be welcome. But these arrogant Illuminists who perpetrate these scams always forget that it can never be guaranteed that their deeds will not become known, since 'nothing is hid'. The experience taught the Author how the Uluminati work, and corroborates, of course, the documented evidence published by Dr Cuddy.

In the course of her interview with Dr Mackow, 'Svali' noted: 'The Illuminists don't care who prints this stuff, or if they are 'exposed' - because they are counting on the majority not believing it, having done a pretty good job with a media blitz campaign: seen any articles in Newsweek or Time lately, that address [any of] this other than as a laughable conspiracy theory?'[99]. However the days when the control-freak Princes and Powers of The Darkness can rely on no-one believing how depraved they are, may be numbered.

THE PRE-POSITIONING OF CONTROLLED ILLUMINATI OPERATIVES

